[4] The person who signed the transfer form as the purchaser of shares and whose name is entered as owner of the shares in the share register with his knowledge and consent is the contributory liable in respect thereof. The fact that the consideration for the shares was paid by some other person does not affect his liability (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 24 (26) : 60 Bom 297.

[5] Where there is winding up of a Company where liability to contribute is limited by guarantee the member is liable as a contributory only to the extent of his guarantee. Other sums which may be due from him though under the articles can be recovered by suit but not as contribution. (1899) 2 Ch 593 (598).

[6] A subscriber to the memorandum of association remains a member of the company. He remains so till the company accepts the surrender of shares, or the subscriber pays for the shares and validly transfers them to some other person. (Vol 18) 1931 All 701 (702).

[7] Provisional official liquidator with powers conferred by S. 179 appointed after compulsory winding up of company took steps for settling the list of contributories. But before a formal order by Court calling money the liquidator issued a call to one of the members who paid. The successor sought to recover once again and it was held that he could not do so. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 691 (694) : 59 Cal 1099 (DB).

[8] Where a shareholder obtains shares with collateral agreement for commission, breach or unenforceability of such collateral agreement does not interfere with his liability as contributory. (Vol 17) 1930 All 357 (360) : 52 All 406 (DB).

[9] The plea of voidability or illegality of contract to take shares cannot be taken after winding up to avoid liability as a contributory. The contract so vitiated should be sought to be set aside before the company goes into liquidation. Therefore where a member remains quiet for over three years, but after his death, his executors contested the liability on the ground that the contract was void and therefore they could not be placed on the list of contributories it was held that they could not do so. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 240 (243) : 60 Ind App 1 : 54 All 827 (PC) * (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 226 (228) : 23 Pat 18 (DB) * (Instrument of transfer improperly stamped and therefore inadmissible in evidence and cannot be acted upon—Illegality of transfer cannot be urged as exonerating the liability of a contributory especially when winding up takes place long after transfer.) * (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 649 (649) (649) * (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 480 (484) : 1914 Pun Re No 69 (DB).

[10] When a contributory dies, his legal representatives automatically become liable as such in his stead. It is not necessary to make a formal application to bring them on the record. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 648 (649).

5. Past member—Liability of.—[1] A member of a company does not by his death become a past member within the meaning of S. 156. Though he dies, his estate continues to be liable as a member. (Vol 20) 1933 All 334 (336) : 55 All 417 (DB).

[2] Where in the case of winding up of a company existing members on list A are not called upon to contribute to the full extent of the unpaid amounts of their share money, a past member on list B cannot be liable to contribute till list A is exhausted. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 739 (740) (DB) (Reversing (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 226).

[3] A shareholder is liable even after a transfer, forfeiture or surrender of the share if the liquidation takes place within one year of such transfer, etc., and if he is on the list of contributories. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 703 (706) * (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 226 (227) (Shares forfeited for non-payment of call—Shareholder is not liable as past member for interest.)

6. Set off.—[1] Member of joint stock company or friendly society with limited liability under liquidation cannot set off paid up calls or calls to be paid up against a debt due by him to the company and thus give himself a preference over the other creditors of the company. This principle is equally applicable to a set off claimed in Court as well as out of Court. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 995 (996) : 40 Mad 1004 (DB).

- (iii) subject to the articles a director shall not be liable to make such further contribution unless the Court deems it necessary to require that contribution in order to satisfy the debts and liabilities of the company, and the costs, charges and expenses of the winding up.

158. The term “contributory” means every person liable to contribute to the assets of a company in the event of its being wound up, and, in all proceedings for determining and in all proceedings prior to the final determination of the persons who are to be deemed contributories, includes any person alleged to be a contributory.

[a] Substituted by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1935 (22 of 1936), S. 86, for the original sub-section. [15-1-1937].

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1936.—“We have amended section 159 in order to remove the difficulty created by the law as it stands, under which claims are frequently barred because the debt became payable at the time of call, which may have been more than three years before the winding up commenced. We think it should be provided that where calls have been made before the date of the winding up the cause of action against a defaulter should be regarded as arising at the commencement of the winding up: on calls made after the commencement of the winding up the cause of action may properly arise from the date of the call.”—S.C.R., 1936.

SECTION 158—Note 1.

*[1] Where certain shares have been entered in the name of a person with his knowledge and consent in the share register of a company prima facie he is the contributory who is liable in respect thereof. The Company and the Liquidator where it is wound-up are not concerned with the person paying the consideration but with the person who has signed the transfer form as purchaser and whose name is entered as owner of the shares in the share register. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 24 (26): 60 Bom 297.

[2] The term “contributory” in S. 158 does not necessarily mean a person whose liability as a contributory has been established. It includes any person alleged to be a contributory. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 43 (44): 1 Lah 237.

[3] A fully paid up shareholder of a Company is a Contributory within the meaning of S. 158 for the purposes of presenting a petition for winding up. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 78 (79): 1917 Pun Re No. 91.

[4] Fully paid share-holders are ‘contributories’ for purposes under Sec. 192 (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 476 (477): 57 Mad 955 (DB).

[5] Share-holders holding fully paid up shares at commencement of liquidation are not contributories for the purposes of acting as shareholders or contributories to elect a liquidator. (Vol 11) 1924 All 772 (774): 46 All 759 (DB).

[6] A person who agrees to be a member of a Company on some condition does not become a member if the condition is not fulfilled and cannot be placed on the list of contributories. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 236 (236) * (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 234 (235).

[7] A mere debtor of a company in liquidation is not a ‘Contributory’ of the company. (Vol 13) 1926 All 101 (102).

2. Section 159 (2).

1. Section 159 (1).—[1] When a Company carries on a business which is ultra vires and incurs losses, such transaction creates no debt either legal or equitable. ‘Contributories’ are not liable to pay such debts when the company is being liquidated. (Vol 13) 1931 Mad 792 (794).

[2] If an applicant for shares prescribes a condition precedent, he incurs no liability in the winding up proceedings if the condition is not fulfilled, more so when the company went into liquidation before an allotment of shares to him. (Vol 25) 1928 Lah 236 (236).

2. Section 159 (2).—[1] A suit against a shareholder for balance due on his shares is not cognizable by a Small Cause Court. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 716 (719): 59 Cal 1186.

160. (1) If a contributory dies either before or after he has been placed on the list of Contributories in case contributories, his legal representatives and his heirs shall be liable in of death of member. due course of administration to contribute to the assets of the company in discharge of his liability and shall be contributories accordingly.

(2) If the legal representatives or heirs make default in paying any money ordered to be paid by them, proceedings may be taken for administering the property of the deceased contributory, whether moveable or immoveable, or both, and of compelling payment thereof of the money due.

[a] Inserted by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXII] of 1936), S. 87. [15-1-1937.]

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1936—Sub-section (3)—"We have inserted in section 160 of the Act a provision aimed at securing that a surviving co-parcener of a Hindu joint family under Mitakshara law cannot escape liability under this section by asserting that he is neither an heir or a legal representative."—S. C. R., 1936.

Contributories in case of insolvency of member. 161. If a contributory is adjudged insolvent either before or after he has been placed on the list of contributories, then—

(1) his assignees shall represent him for all the purposes of the winding up, and shall be contributories accordingly, and may be called on to admit to proof against the estate of the insolvent, or otherwise to allow to be paid out of his assets in due course of law, any money due from the insolvent in respect of his liability to contribute to the assets of the company; and

(2) there may be proved against the estate of the insolvent the estimated value of his liability to future calls as well as calls already made.

SECTION 160—Note 1.

[1] Section 160 (1) does not deal with payment orders at all. A payment order against a deceased contributory is not executable. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 480 (480); ILR (1942) Lah 807 (DB). (Decree against dead man is nullity—Remedy is to proceed against estate in due course of administration.)

[2] Where a share-holder dies before the list of contributories is settled and his name is included in the list in liquidation proceedings and the Court makes an order for payment of the balance it is open to the Court to recover it from his legal representatives and heirs under S. 160. The proper remedy is to take proceedings in the due course of administration of the estate of the deceased and not application for payment against the legal representative personally. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 469 (471). *

[3] To fix a deceased contributory's estate with the liability, persons representing his estate should be brought on record, before an effective order may be made. (Vol 17) 1930 All 503 (504); 52 All 430 (DB).

[4] Where the deceased who had applied for shares of a Company had been placed on the list of contributories, he does not cease to be a contributory and forfeit the deposit that he had made upon application so as to escape from the position of a contributory with future liability. In such a case the liability falls upon the representatives. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 287 (288) (DB). (Fact that they were not substituted within 90 days is of no consequence, for to such cases Limitation Act does not apply.)

[See however (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 648 (649) [On the death of contributory the personal representatives of the deceased become automatically liable and no application is necessary for this purpose and therefore no question of limitation arises.]

[5] In this case decided before the introduction of Sub-S. (3) in 1936, where the manager of the Hindu family consisting of his sons and nephews, had agreed to take certain shares in a company by signing the memorandum of the company, the sons, on the death of the manager were held liable only to the extent of the separate property of the father which had come into their hands. (Vol 20) 1933 All 334 (336); 55 All 417 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 44 (48); 10 Pat 249 (DB).

SECTION 161—Note 1.

[1] As to the power of a liquidator to prove, rank and claim in the insolvency of a contributory, see section 179, Clause (e).

WINDING UP BY COURT.

Circumstances in which company may be wound up by Court.

162. A company may be wound up by the Court—

- (i) if the company has by special resolution resolved that the company be wound up by the Court:
- (ii) if default is made in filing the statutory report or in holding the statutory meeting:
- (iii) if the company does not commence its business within a year from its incorporation, or suspends its business for a whole year:
- (iv) if the number of members is reduced, in the case of a private company, below two or, in the case of any other company, below seven:
- (v) if the company is unable to pay its debts:
- (vi) if the Court is of opinion that it is just and equitable that the company should be wound up.

[1882—S. 128; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 129; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 168]

SECTION 162—Synopsis

1. Section 162 (General).
2. Clause (i)—Special resolution.
3. Clause (ii)—Default.
4. Clause (iii)—“Suspends its business.”
5. Clause (iv).
6. Clause (v)—Inability to pay debts.
7. Clause (vi)—“Just and equitable.”
8. Winding up of insurance company.

1. S. 162 (General).—[1] Share-holders and Creditors is the main consideration for winding up a company. Hence the fact that many share-holders and creditors opposed the winding up should weigh with the Court. The mere fact that petitioner holds only a few shares is no bar to a winding up order (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (234) * (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 75 (77): 10 Rang 143 (DB).

[2] One share-holder filed a petition alleging gross misconduct of the ex-managing director. Directors stated that they appointed Registered Auditors to investigate into the matter. Petitioner prayed that the petition be allowed to stand till the completion of the investigation. Held the petition should succeed or fail only on the material existing on the date of filing. It is open to the petitioner to present a fresh petition later on when he could gather more material. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (238).

[3] The question of directors exceeding the borrowing powers given by articles is a question of internal management and in a petition for winding up, the Court will not go into it especially when the Company had passed a resolution ratifying the borrowings of the directors taking the view that they have acted in the best interests of the Company. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (236).

[4] Rules of the Company, precluding the winding up of the Company for reasons for which, and under circumstances in which, this Act provides that a Company may be wound up, are ultra vires. (1902) 29 Cal 688 (692) (DB).

[5] In the case of a petition for winding up a company, the petitioner has got to make out a case for winding up on the petition. He cannot be allowed to fish out a case by cross-examination or by inspection of the accounts of the Company. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (237).

[6] A share-holder petitioning for winding up is under no disability as compared with a contributory, nor is he under any obligation to satisfy the Court that on a winding up there would be surplus assets. Share-holder's petition must be scrutinised much more carefully than a contributory. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (238).

[7] Where a certain company wound up its business voluntarily and the creditor of the company applied for the appointment of an official liquidator with the one appointed by the Company. Held the application could not be treated as an application for the compulsory winding up of the company because the rules of the High Court to be strictly observed had not been observed and the Court cannot waive the compliance with law. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 468 (470).

[8] In the undermentioned English Case, it has been held that after a resolution has been passed for a winding up a company voluntarily, a share-holder cannot, as a general rule, obtain a compulsory order for winding up or an order for continuing the voluntary winding up under supervision. The only exceptions to the rule are where the resolution has been passed fraudulently or where creditors appear to support the petition. (1879) 11 Ch. D. 701 (CA) (716, 717, 718) (As for power to order winding up subject to supervision see S. 221).

2. Clause (i)—Special resolution.—[1] As to special resolution, See S. 81.

[2] When there is no valid resolution for voluntary winding up of a company, the Court will not pass an order for its compulsory winding up. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 365 (375): 49 Cal 399 (DB) (Mere opinion of majority of share holders is not sufficient).

3. Clause (ii)—Default.—[1] As to statutory report and statutory meeting, see section 77.

[2] A petition for winding up a company on the ground mentioned in clause (ii) of this section shall not be presented by any person except a share-holder not before the expiration of fourteen days after the last day on which the meeting ought to have been held; see section 166, clause (b).

[3] If a petition is presented to the Court for winding up the company on the ground mentioned in clause (ii) of this section the Court may, instead of directing that the company be wound up, give directions for the statutory report to be filed or a meeting to be held, or make such other order as may be just; see section 77, sub-section (9).

[4] Where the petition is presented on the ground mentioned in clause (ii) of this section, the Court may order the costs to be paid by any persons who, in the opinion of the Court, are responsible for the default; see section 170 (2).

4. Clause (iii)—“Suspends its business.”—

[1] Unless certain conditions are fulfilled, a company cannot commence any business or exercise any borrowing; see section 103.

[2] A company which has received incorporation, but carries on no trade should be wound up. (1871) 40 LJ Ch. 655 (673).

[3] A company can be wound up compulsorily on the ground that it has suspended business for a whole year only when there is no intention on the part of the company to carry on business. If suspension be due to temporary causes Court may refuse compulsory winding up. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 722 (722) : 47 Cal 654 (DB).

[4] Where the firm of managing agents of a company is dissolved, fact that steps were taken to appoint new managing agents is sufficient indication that it is possible to carry on the business. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 722 (722) : 47 Cal 654 (DB).

5. Clause (iv).—[1] As to the liability for carrying on business with fewer than seven or, in the case of a private company, two members, see section 147.

6. Clause (v)—Inability to pay debts.—[1] Under S. 162(v) a company may be wound up if it is commercially insolvent i.e. if it is unable to meet its current demands although the assets when realised including uncalled capital may exceed its liabilities. (Vol. 20) 1933 Lah 301 (303, 304).

[2] The test for determining whether a company should be wound up is, whether the company is commercially insolvent at the date of the petition for winding up. The expression ‘commercially insolvent’ means that the existing assets and liabilities of the company are such as to make it reasonably certain as to make the Court satisfied that the existing and probable assets would be insufficient to meet the existing liabilities. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (235) (1869) 9 Eq. 122 Relied on.)

[3] Other test to see whether company is commercially insolvent, is whether at the date of winding up petition, there was any reasonable hope that the object of trading at a profit could be attained. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (235).

[4] When the Court is asked to wind up a company on the ground that it cannot meet its debts, what has to be ascertained is not whether the company, if it converted all its assets into cash, would be able to discharge its debts, but whether in a commercial sense the company is solvent. The company is entitled to regard the money which it is entitled to call up on account of shares from the contributories as money available for the discharge of its debts. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 603 (604) : 20 Pat 538.

[5] Where the only object of the creditor is to recover his debt out of assets available and he has no mala fides and the company is not in a position to pay the debt, the creditor is prima facie entitled to an order of winding up. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 651 (652, 653) : 11 Lah 80 (DB).

[6] For the compulsory winding up of a company on the petition of a creditor on the ground that the company has failed to pay his debt after statutory notice, the debt due by the company must be presently payable and the title of the creditor complete. The law requires that a demand must be made for a debt that is due and it is not permissible to support a petition by alleging that something else is due. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 628 (629) : 62 Cal 294.

[7] Where a company has a bona fide defence to a creditor's claim the creditor's petition for its winding up must be dismissed. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 128 (128) : 2 Rang 575 (DB).

[8] Creditors must sue where there is bona fide dispute as to the company's liability to pay the debt and would not be allowed to take advantage of Companies Act ; mere failure on the part of a company to comply with statutory demand does not entitle the creditor to ask as a matter of right for the winding up of the company. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 265 (265, 266) * (1883) 23 Ch D 210 (215). (The winding up proceedings are not to be had recourse to for the purpose of recovering a disputed debt).

[9] Where the object of the creditor's petition to wind up the company is to bring pressure upon the company in order to make it pay the creditor's debt cheaply and expeditiously which the company desires to dispute in the Civil Court, the petition is an abuse of the process of the Court and should be dismissed. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 199 (201) : 48 Mad 267 (DB).

[10] In ascertaining the debts of the company, the sums under items such as “calls in advance”, “share suspense”, “forfeited shares account” and “deposit against premium” which the company could not be called upon to pay immediately cannot be taken into account. The items such as “loans”, “advances” and “outstanding liabilities” must however, be considered. (Vol 23) 1941 Pat 603 (604) : 20 Pat 538.

[11] As to when a company is to be deemed unable to pay debts, see S. 163.

7. Clause (vi)—“Just and equitable.”—[1] The words “just and equitable” in S. 162 (vi) are not necessarily ejusdem generis with reasons given in the preceding clauses of the section. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 489 (489, 490) : 48 Mad 448 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 8 (11).

[2] Though the Court is not bound to construe S. 162(vi) as only covering grounds of a like nature with those specified in S. 162 (i) to (v) yet it will require grounds of a like magnitude before acting under the clause, and it is only in extreme cases that it will, at the suggestion of the minority, disregard the wishes of the domestic forum, and condemn the company to extinction. (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 29 (30).

[3] No general rule can be laid down as to the nature of the circumstances which have to be borne in mind in considering whether the case comes within the phrase “Just and equitable” for purposes of winding up. The decisive question must be whether at the date of the presentation of the winding up petition there is any reasonable hope that the object of trading at a profit with a view to which the company was formed can be attained. In considering that question the guarantee of the preference shares should be left out of sight except in so far as it may have biased the evidence on either side.

Where there was no question of a deadlock nor was there any question of share-holders who had the voting power using that power for their own commercial interests outside the company in disregard of the interests of a minority, nor was there any question of improper management of the company by the directors who were in control and the problem involved was of the nature of a business problem it was held if there was at the relevant time a reasonable hope of tiding over the period of deep depression and of emerging into a region in which the company might reasonably expect to carry on at a profit, there would be no sufficient reason why the Court should wind up the company under the just and equitable clause—Regarding future prospects the Court should not impose its views but form a best opinion on the evidence of people having practical knowledge of that trade. The desires of the shareholders should not be disregarded because preference shareholders are interested in liquidation. (Vol 23) 1936 PC 114 (121) (PC).

[4] The power under S. 162(vi) should not be exercised unless there is very strong ground for acting upon it, because the companies are governed by a majority of their own members and where there is a domestic tribunal which has powers to decide upon a question, it should if possible, be left to that domestic tribunal.

Where a company is not shown to have been conceived and brought forth in fraud or to be one whose substratum is gone, the mere fact that the applicants apprehended that the assets of the company will be frittered away and that loss instead of gain would result from the company continuing to work is no ground for winding up the company under S. 162(vi) (Vol 4) 1917 All 347 (349) : 39 All 334.

[5] To bring a company within the "just and equitable" clause it must be shown that the substratum of the company has gone or that a deadlock has arisen in the sense that it is not possible for the company to carry out the objects for which it was formed. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 692 (696) : 58 Cal 716 (Held on facts that an order for winding up was not called for).

[6] The sub-stratum of the company is deemed to be gone when (a) the subject-matter of the company is gone, or (b) the object for which it was incorporated has substantially failed, or (c) it is impossible to carry on the business of the company except at a loss which means that there is no reasonable hope that the object of trading at a profit can be attained, or (d) the existing and probable assets are insufficient to meet the existing liabilities. When none of these four tests can apply to the facts of the case, the company cannot be wound up. It is for the petitioner for winding up to prove that the test is satisfied. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (235, 236) + (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 722 (723) : 47 Cal 654 (DB).

[7] In a petition for winding up a company, the Court will refuse to give decision as to the probable success or non-success of the company as a commercial speculation. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (235).

[8] In the following cases it was held that it was "just and equitable" to wind up the company:—

(i) Where the directors exercised a dominating influence on the management of the company and the managing director was able to outvote the minority and retain profits, and shareholders did not receive a copy of the balance sheet, nor was the auditor's report read at the general meeting or attached to the balance sheet, and dividends were not regularly paid it was held that there were sufficient grounds to allow a winding up application. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 489 (489, 490) : 48 Mad 448 (DB).

(ii) A bank had no properly constituted directorate and had not issued any balance sheet for more than five years. Its accounts had not been properly audited. The cash balance had dwindled, and the business was almost at a stand still, and the meetings of the shareholders were not regularly held :

Held that a proper case was made out for an order for the compulsory winding up of the bank under S. 162 (vi). (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 571 (574) : 13 Lah 603.

(iii) Statutory demand under S. 163 (1) not complied with—Affairs of company in moribund condition—Company unable to pay debt and unable to raise money—No prospect of work being resumed for appreciable time—Company held should be wound up. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 777 (779) (DB).

(iv) Where it appeared from the auditor's report that there had been defalcation of certain funds and that attempts were made to cover up the defalcation by various devices and charges of dishonesty and mismanagement were levelled against one another by the different parties, it was held that the case was one in which the conduct of some officers of the company would require investigation and as this could only be obtained in winding up by the Court, considerations of justice and equity were more in favour of a compulsory winding up than voluntary liquidation. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 377 (379).

(v) Where a person who was adjudicated insolvent transferred large estates to a private limited company in which he had 90 per cent of shares and over which he had complete control it was held that the Company should be wound up. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 36 (39, 40) : 5 Rang 685 (DB).

(vi) A press which was a limited concern was leased to certain person who subsequently leased it to another at large profits—Numerous shareholders had also to file suits against the company for recovering dividends to them—Chairman was found not authorised to give receipt on behalf of persons named in the dividend warrant.

It was held that under S. 162 (vi) it was just and equitable that the company should be wound up. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 240 (241, 242) : 53 Mad 38 (DB).

(vii) Where the main object of a company is the conduct of a lottery, the mere fact that some of its objects were philanthropic will not prevent the company from being ordered to be wound up as being one formed for an illegal purpose. The purpose would still be illegal even where the illegal business is merely annexed to the real one which is philanthropic. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 16 (20) : 56 Mad 26 : 33 Cr L Jour 792 (DB).

(viii) It is particularly by the duty of the courts in India to see that directors and other officers of companies carry out their duties honestly and to punish them if they do not. Compulsory liquidation under the Court affords the best opportunity of performing this duty when there is a prima facie case of dishonesty against the officer of a company. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 779 (783) : 16 Lah 1029 (SB).

(ix) Where as a result of an onerous contract with a creditor, the company loses its identity and the creditor becomes de facto the company with a power to bring it to an end whenever it suited him and in accordance with the stipulations of the contract seizes the machinery and plant of the company with the result that the company is unable to carry on its business and to pay its debts, it is just and equitable to wind up the company. (Vol 28) 1941 PC 104 (109) (PC).

Company when deemed unable to pay its debts.

163. ^a[(Z)] A company shall be deemed to be unable to pay its debts—

- (z) if a creditor, by assignment or otherwise, to whom the company is indebted in a sum exceeding five hundred rupees then due, has served on the company, b[by causing the same to be delivered by registered post or otherwise] at its registered office, a demand under his hand requiring the company to pay the sum so due and the company has for three weeks thereafter neglected to pay the sum, or to secure or compound for it to the reasonable satisfaction of the creditor ; or
- (ii) if execution or other process issued on a decree or order of any Court in favour of a creditor of the Company is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part ; or
- (iii) if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the company is unable to pay its debts, and, in determining whether a company is unable to pay its debts, the Court shall take into account the contingent and prospective liabilities of the company.

[9] In the following cases it was held that the company should not be wound up under S. 162 (vi) : —

(i) Mere fraud in the promotion, or fraudulent misrepresentation in the prospectus, will not be sufficient to found a winding up order, for, the majority of the share-holders may waive the fraud. (Vol. 9) 1922 Cal 365 (373) : 49 Cal 399 (DB).

(ii) The fact that the company is working at a loss is no ground for winding it up, especially when not a single share-holder has come forward to support the petition for winding up. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 109 (113): ILR (1944) Lah 47 (DB).

(iii) In the absence of fraud in conception of a company or where it is not one whose substratum is gone, the mere fact that the applicants apprehended a loss from a further working is no ground for winding up the Company under this Clause. (Vol 4) 1917 All 347 (349) : 39 All 334.

(iv) An ultra vires transaction on the part of directors is of itself not sufficient reason for a winding up order since other remedies are available to aggrieved share-holders. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 1 (10) : 58 Ind App 416: 55 Mad 180 (PC).

(v) To justify a winding up order on the 'just and equitable' rule it is necessary to prove a lack of confidence in the conduct and management of the Company's affairs by the directors. The fact that a managing director has a preponderating voice in the company by reasons of his owning or controlling a large number of shares or that the dividends have not been paid regularly is by itself no reason for winding up a company. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 1 (6) : 58 Ind App 416 : 55 Mad 180 (PC) (Reversing (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 633 (DB)).

(vi) The fact that the dividends had not been paid regularly is no ground for winding up the company. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 1 (6) : 58 Ind App 416 : 55 Mad 180 (PC).

(vii) The misconduct of directors and the fact that the business has been carried on at a heavy loss, are per se not grounds on which the Court would order a winding up of the Company. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (237, 238).

(viii) Per Tek Chand J—Failure of a scheme for resuscitation of a company is not by itself sufficient to justify a winding up order being made. S. 153 provides not merely for resuscitation or re-organization of companies but also for scheme of arrangement which provides an alternative mode of liquidation. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 779 (785) : 16 Lah 1029 (SB).

(ix) Court can in extreme case wind up a company at the instance of a share-holder though he is not supported by a majority of share-holders. But so long as the company has a chance of producing profit, there should be no interference. Where the company lost five out of total paid up capital of 7 lacs and a share-holder applied to wind up the company but the majority of the share-holders opposed it and under the management the company showed progress it was held that the Court should not interfere and wind up the company. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 8 (10, 11).

(x) In considering whether company should be wound-up under the just and equitable clause the sums due to the company from the debtors, agent and policy holders and the value of its tangible assets in the form of furniture, motor cars, books, stationery etc. should be taken into account. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 603 (604, 606) : 20 Pat 538.

(ix) Fraud in promotion, or fraudulent misrepresentation in the prospectus is not ground for winding up, for majority of share-holders may waive the fraud. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 365 (373) : 49 Cal 399 (DB).

8. Winding up of Insurance company.—[1] When an insurance company is sought to be wound up under S. 162 (vi) the Court must satisfy itself by evidence whether there was any reasonable hope of trading at a profit. Where there are no hopeful prospects, the fact that the Insurance Superintendent has not taken any steps deserves consideration, though it is not a deciding factor. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 603 (605) : 20 Pat 538.

[2] As to additional grounds for winding up an insurance company, see section 54, Insurance Act, 1938.

SECTION 163—Synopsis.

1. Clause (i)—Creditor's demand.
2. Clause (ii)—Execution of decree.
3. Clause (iii)—"Unable to pay its debts."

1. Clause (i)—Creditor's demand.—[1] S. 163 merely provides when a Company is to be deemed unable to pay its debts and lays down a special rule of evidence the effect of which is that if the notice provided for by S. 163 (1) (i) is given and default is made the company is conclusively presumed to be unable to pay its debts. Once a notice is properly given and default is made it is not open to the debtor to show that in spite of the non-payment of the debt, he is in a position to pay his debt. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 306 (307) : 5 Rang 483.

c[(2) The demand referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (1) shall be deemed to have been duly given under the hand of the creditor if it is signed by an agent or legal adviser duly authorised on his behalf, or in the case of a firm if it is signed by such agent or by a legal adviser or any one member of the firm on behalf of the firm].

[a] The original S. 163 was re-numbered as sub-section (1) of that section by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXII] of 1936), S. 88.

[b] Substituted ibid., for "by leaving the same".

164. Where the High Court makes an order for winding up a company under this Act, it may, if it thinks fit, direct all subsequent proceedings to be had in District Court; and thereupon such District Court shall, for the purpose of winding up the company, be deemed to be "the Court" within the meaning of this Act, and shall have, for the purposes of such winding up, all the jurisdiction and powers of the High Court.

[2] The statutory demand under Cl. (1) (i) S. 163 must be in strict compliance with the provisions of that clause, and if those provisions are not literally complied with, the demand, though followed by neglect of the company to pay the debt cannot be made the basis of presumption that the company is unable to pay its debts. S. 163 Sub-S. (1) (i) imposes a penal obligation upon the company and has therefore, to be strictly construed. (Vol 23) 1936 All 840 (844): ILR (1937) All 210 * (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 692 (694): 58 Cal 716.

[3] Though a statutory notice under S. 163 (1) (i) has not been properly served, the petitioners for winding-up can show aliunde that the company is unable to pay its debts; and failure to pay an undisputed debt would be, as a rule conclusive of this. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 692 (694): 58 Cal 716.

[4] Mere service of notice by a creditor on a solvent company does not entitle the creditor to a winding up order if the company bona fide disputes the existence of the debt. (Vol 23) 1936 All 840 (845): ILR (1937) All 210.

[5] Company must be in default at the time of service of notice of demand. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 625 (626): 54 Cal 345 (DB).

[6] A limited liability company must necessarily act through its officers and authorised agents. A demand of debts due to company under the hand of its manager must, therefore, be deemed to be a demand under its hand within clause (i). (Vol 23) 1936 All 840 (844): ILR (1937) All 210.

A demand by the solicitors of a creditor is not sufficient. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 625 (626): 54 Cal 345 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 306 (309): 9 Rang 323 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 306 (310): 9 Rang 323 (DB).

2. Clause (ii)—Execution of decree.—[1] In the case of a judgment-debt, if execution for the recovery of that debt has been taken and has remained unsatisfied, the Court is, in accordance with clause (ii) bound to presume that the company is unable to pay its debts. Nevertheless, the decree-holder is not barred from making a demand for payment of the judgment-debt by a notice in accordance with clause (i), without having recourse to execution proceedings. In such a case if the demand remains unsatisfied for three weeks, the presumption enjoined by this section necessarily follows. (Vol 23) 1936 All 840 (845): ILR (1937) All 210.

3. Clause (iii)—"Unable to pay its debts."—

[1] If the Court is satisfied that the company on a general perusal of its balance-sheet cannot pay its debts, in other words, that its assets are not sufficient to satisfy its liabilities, that would enable the court to order its winding-up. (1910) 84 Bom 533 (538). (Case under S. 129 (c) of Act of 1882 (now S. 163 (1) (iii)) * (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 571 (574): 13 Lah 603.

[2] In a petition for winding up of a company the Court will not go behind the balance sheet duly audited by the auditors more so when it was open to the petitioner share-holder to question the same in other proceedings. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (235).

[3] While two suits were pending one by the company against the creditor and another by the creditor against the company, a winding up petition was presented by the creditor on the ground that the company was unable to pay its debts. On the company's application for removal of the creditor's petition from the file of the Court, the Court dismissed the creditor's petition: Held that the proper procedure was to stay the petition till the disposal of the suits. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 1004 (1006) (DB).

[4] If on materials before Court there is no evidence to justify the finding that company is unable to pay its debts, creditor should not be allowed to lead oral evidence to prove it. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 306 (309): 9 Rang 323.

[5] See also under S. 162 (v).

SECTION 164—Note 1.

[1] under S. 164, the District Judge has, for purposes of winding up, all the jurisdiction and powers of the High Court and therefore can order attachment before judgment of property situate beyond his jurisdiction. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 376 (378).

[2] The additional District Judge has same jurisdiction as the District Judge to make orders in the winding up of a company. (Vol 9) 1922 PC 361 (362) (PC).

[3] When applications are made to the High Court for directing District Courts concerned to enforce payment orders made by another High Court in the matter of winding up of the company, the High Court cannot authorise the official liquidator to apply to the District Courts concerned for enforcing the order Under S. 184. The proper procedure is that the payment orders should be treated in the same manner as a decree passed by the High Court in which it is filed and transferred for execution to the respective District Courts. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 271 (271, 272).

[But see (Vol 6) 1919 All 25 (26) (DB)].

Transfer of winding up from one District.

165. If during the progress of a winding up in a District Court it is made to the appear to the High Court that the same could be more conveniently prosecuted in any other District Court having jurisdiction to wind up companies, the High Court may transfer the same to such other Court, and thereupon the winding up shall proceed in such other District Court.

166. An application to the Court for the winding up of a company shall be by petition presented, subject to the provisions of this section, either by the company, or by any creditor or creditors (including any contingent or prospective creditor or creditors), contributory or contributories, or by all or any of those parties, together or separately^a[or by the registrar] :

Provided that—

(a) a contributory shall not be entitled to present a petition for winding up a company unless—

(i) either the number of members is reduced, in the case of a private company, below two, or, in the case of any other company, below seven ; or

(ii) the shares in respect of which he is a contributory or some of them either were originally allotted to him or have been held by him, and registered in his name, for at least six months during the eighteen months before the commencement of the winding up, or have devolved on him through the death of a former holder ;

^a[(aa) the registrar shall not be entitled to present a petition for winding up a company—

(i) except on the ground that from the financial condition of the company as disclosed in its balance-sheet or from the report of an inspector appointed under section 138 it appears that the company is unable to pay its debts, and

(ii) unless the previous sanction of the ^b[Central Government] has been obtained to the presentation of the petition :

Provided that no such sanction shall be given unless the company has first been afforded an opportunity of being heard.]

SECTION 165—Note 1.

[1] Under this section the High Court may transfer proceedings from one District Court to another District Court. The power of the High Court to transfer such proceedings to its own file is governed by Section 141 read with Section 24, Civil P. C. (1886) 9 All 180 (182) (DB).

SECTION 166—Note 1.

[1] Petitioner must make out a case for winding up of company in the petition. He cannot fish out a case from deponents of the company or from inspection of the company's accounts. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (237).

[2] Members who have paid up their share capital fully can apply for winding up as they are contributories. The qualification in S. 156 (4) does not make him less a contributory. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 240 (241) : 53 Mad 38 (DB).

[3] A person who holds a power-of-attorney from executor of a deceased share-holder and whose name has been entered in the share ledger can apply for winding up as a contributory. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 377 (378, 379).

[4] Share-holders whose shares have been forfeited but who had not ceased to be members for one year before commencement of winding up are contributories entitled to apply for winding up if the shares were held by them and registered in their names for more than six months before commencement of winding up. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 571 (572).

[5] A petition by a share-holder for winding up stands on a different footing to a petition by a creditor. It should be more closely scrutinised on presentation. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 190 (191) : 39 Bom 16 * (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (238).

[6] A share-holder applying for winding up is under no disability as compared with contributory nor is he under any obligation to satisfy the Court that on winding up their would be surplus assets. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (238).

[7] If an application for winding up and liquidation is not bona fide the petitioner is to pay entire cost. In the absence of clear provision in Companies Act the matter is governed by Section 35, Civil P.C. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 746 (750) (DB).

[8] One of the creditors of the company who was not supported by any of the other creditors, petitioned for winding-up order, alleging irregularities and that an investigation into its affairs was necessary. It was held that nothing substantial would result from winding-up order and that the petition must be dismissed. (1901) 1 Ch 102 (106).

[9] In the case of a demand by a creditor for his claim, the company believes it to be fraudulent and unreasonable at law, and in filing winding up application, his object is to bring pressure of insolvency proceedings of the company, the petition for insolvency of the company must be dismissed. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 251 (252) : 39 Bom 47 (DB).

- (b) a petition for winding up a company on the ground of default in filing the statutory report or in holding the statutory meeting shall not be presented by any person except a shareholder, nor before the expiration of fourteen days after the last day on which the meeting ought to have been held ;
- (c) the Court shall not give a hearing to a petition for winding up a company by a contingent or prospective creditor until such security for costs has been given as the Court thinks reasonable and until a prima facie case for winding up has been established to the satisfaction of the Court.

169. The Court may, at any time after the presentation of the petition for winding up a company under this Act, and before making an order for winding up the company, upon the application of the company or of any creditor or contributory of the company, restrain further proceedings in any suit or proceeding against the company, upon such terms as the Court thinks fit.

170. (1) On hearing the petition the Court may dismiss it with or without costs, or adjourn the hearing, or make any interim order on the hearing conditionally or unconditionally, or make any other order that it deems just, but the Court shall not refuse to make a winding up order on the ground only that the assets of the company have been mortgaged to an amount equal to or in excess of those assets, or that the company has no assets.

(2) Where the petition is presented on the ground of default in filing the statutory report or in holding the statutory meeting, the Court may order the costs to be paid by any persons who in the opinion of the Court, are responsible for the default.

SECTION 167—Note 1.

[1] In matter of liquidation the rules relating to bankruptcy, as far as possible, apply when company goes into liquidation ; a secured creditor may realise his security and prove for any outstanding balance. The remaining assets would be liable for such principal and interest as was due on the date of the winding up order. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 281 (285) : 3 Lah 59 (DB).

SECTION 168—Note 1.

[1] A voluntary winding up shall be deemed to commence at the time of the passing of the resolution for the voluntary winding up ; see section 204.

SECTION 169—Note 1.

[1] When a company is being wound up voluntarily, stay of execution of decrees against it can be granted, except in very special circumstances. ('87) ILR (1937) 1 Cal 632 (633).

[2] Even in cases of voluntary liquidation the Court has power, in order to protect the assets of the bank for its other creditors, to stay the execution of the decree for costs passed against the bank after liquidation, in a suit by the bank prior to its going into liquidation. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 630 (630) : 28 Oudh Cas 197 (DB).

[3] As to stay of suit after winding up order is made see section 171.

SECTION 170—Note 1.

[1] Where a petition filed by a creditor of a company for compulsory winding up, was opposed by the company and certain other large creditors on the ground that the company though involved had, since the petition, entered into an agreement for sale of its property to a new company which was proposed to be formed and that the order if made would cause loss to the creditors and share-holders, the Court ordered the petition to stand over and allotted time, upon the company undertaking not to part with any portion of the purchase money except for preliminary expenses and the Company was allowed to complete the sale in the mean time. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 108 (109).

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1936.—Under the section as it stood before the amendment in 1936 it was only after a winding up order had been made that proceedings against a company were stayed. The amendment of the section made in 1936 follows the English Act, 1929, in providing that the appointment of a provisional liquidator should operate as a stay.—See S. O. R., 1936, Cl. 71.

[2] A fully paid up share-holder is entitled to appear and to be heard upon an application to wind-up the company. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 391 (391): 58 Cal 62 (DB).

[3] An appeal will lie from an order refusing to wind up a company. (1914) 39 Bom 47 (50) (DB).

[4] A compulsory winding up order was made against a company upon a creditor's petition. The company did not appear in the winding up proceedings but appealed against the winding up order on the ground that the Court erroneously refused to hear a share-holder who was desirous of being heard at the time the winding-up order was made. The share-holder had not appealed.

Held that it would be entirely improper to allow the company to come in and appeal and fight the battle or grievances of an individual share-holder. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 391 (392): 58 Cal 62 (DB).

[5] When a petition for winding up is dismissed, company is entitled to costs. Opposing share-holders and creditors are entitled to one set of costs. When counsel for the company and counsel for the share-holders are instructed by the same solicitors, costs of separate counsel may not be given. Of course, the Court can give in a proper case. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (239).

[6] As a general rule a successful party is entitled to costs; but a creditor appearing in a winding up petition is not entitled to costs unless he shows reasonable ground for appearing. 'A', creditor, made a winding up petition and notices were served on other creditors who wished to oppose. They appeared but supported the petition. 'A' was unwilling to pursue the petition and other creditors were not willing to undertake the burden of petition. Petition was dismissed. Held the supporting creditors were not entitled to costs. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 96 (98): ILR (1938) Mad 284 (DB).

3. Leave for suit when not necessary.
4. Leave for appeal or revision.
5. Leave granted subsequent to institution of suit.

6. Powers of Court.

7. Proceedings under section 145, Criminal P. C.

8. This section and section 232.

9. Waiver.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] When there is a question as to whether S. 171 was intended to entail as a necessary consequence the dismissal of a suit instituted without leave, or whether it was intended that a suit should be stayed until leave was obtained, as the words in S. 171 were borrowed from English law where they had a recognised legal meaning the same meaning should be applied to the words occurring in the section. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 289 (290): ILR (1942) Lah 517 (FB).

[2] S. 171 applies to liquidation under Court's supervision (see S. 225 (2) as well as to liquidation by the Court. (Vol 15) 1928 All 165 (165): 50 All 419.

[3] Knowledge of the winding up order is not necessary for the application of S. 171. Section has operation irrespective of the question of knowledge. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 47 (48) (DB).

[4] "Suit" in section means proceedings instituted by the presentation of plaint in a court of original jurisdiction according to S. 26, Civil PC. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 392 (394): ILR (1941) Lah 760 (FB).

[5] "Suit" and "action" are interchangeable terms so far as procedure in India is concerned. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 289 (292): ILR (1942) Lah 517 (FB).

[6] The expression 'or other legal proceedings' in this section need not be confined to original proceedings in a Court of first instance, analogous to a suit instituted by means of a petition similar to a plaint. No narrow construction should be placed upon the words 'or other legal proceedings' in this section. The words can and should be held to cover distress and execution proceedings in the ordinary Courts (see S. 232). Such proceedings are other legal proceedings against the company as contrasted with ordinary suits against the company. (Vol 33) 1946 FC 16 (21) [(Vol 32) 1945 All 354: ILR (1945) All 352 (DB) affirmed; (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 392: ILR (1941) Lah 706 (FB) dissented from.]

[7] The words "commenced" in S. 171 was put in to show that no suit could be instituted or other legal proceedings commenced without the leave in question after the company has gone into liquidation. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 401 (402) (DB).

[8] Objection as to want of leave not taken in Court of first instance cannot be raised in appeal. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 809 (811) (DB).

2. Leave for suits when necessary.—[1] Where the winding up order has been made no suit or other proceedings may be proceeded with against the company except by the leave of the Court since s. 171 would apply. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 76 (77) : 58 Cal 946.

[2] Leave under S. 171 of Act means leave by the winding up Court and when once given includes all subsidiary legal proceedings arising out of the suit. (Vol 6) 1919 All 337 (338) : 41 All 432 (DB).

[3] Heavy contested money claims against company and its agent—Fraud of agent alleged—Leave to sue should be granted. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 167 (169) (DB).

[4] Suit under O. 21. R. 63, Civil P.C. against company in liquidation is suit within S. 171—Sanction of Court which ordered winding up is essential. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 392 (396) : ILR (1941) Lah 760 (FB).

[5] A regular suit by an unsuccessful claimant of attached property against a company in liquidation is not a part of the execution proceeding and cannot be commenced without leave of the liquidation Court. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 200 (201) : 1919 Pun. Re. No. 70. (DB).

[6] No suit can be brought against the voluntary and official liquidators after winding up orders without leave of Court. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 322 (323).

[7] The word 'proceeding' includes execution proceedings and require sanction for their continuation after winding up order. So where a bank as puisne mortgagee was impleaded as party to the suit as well as execution proceedings and the bank went into liquidation pending such proceedings it was held that sanction was necessary to continue the proceedings. (Vol 31) 1944 Maj 84 (85).

[8] Though an application for discharge may not be independent proceedings the section requires leave of the High Court even for the continuation of insolvency proceedings already taken. (37) 39 Pun LR 717 (717).

[9] There is no exception to S. 171 and the leave of the Court is essential for the purpose of proceeding in execution even in case of decree obtained by the Government in respect of a debt due to the Crown. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 1 (3) (DB) * (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 430 (431) : 59 Cal 327.

3. Leave for suit when not necessary.—[1] When once an action by the Company in liquidation itself has been proceeded with and is successful there is no necessity for the defendants in the action to obtain leave for any defensive proceeding on their behalf, as the defendants cannot be said to proceed with or commence any legal proceedings against the Company. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 926 (929) (DB).

[2] Winding up order is no bar to proceedings against servant of company as they are not the company itself. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 147 (152) : 19 Luck 385 : 45 Cr L Jour 333.

[3] Application for substitution as decree holder by a transferee of decree against a Company in liquidation must be made under S. 47 (3) Civil P C to the executing Court and not to the winding up Court. (Vol 6) 1919 All 337 (337) : 41 All 432 (DB).

4. Leave for appeal or revision.—[1] Appeal or revision arising out of action by company is not within S. 171 and no leave is necessary. (Vol 23) 1938 Lah 754 (755) * (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 181 (182) : 1918 Pun Re No. 62 (FB) * (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 97 (100).

[See however (Vol 28) 1941 All 154 (156) : ILR (1941) All 175 (Decree in favour of company—Appeal by judgment-debtor—Company wound up—Leave of Court is necessary for proceeding with appeal. * (Vol 28) 1941 All 335 (335) : ILR (1941) All 565. (Appeal against decree in favour of bank filed within time—Bank going into liquidation before filing of appeal—Application for leave to continue appeal is one to "commence" and not to "continue".)]

[2] Leave to commence an appeal after the expiry of limitation should not be granted. (Vol 28) 1941 All 335 (336) : ILR (1941) All 565.

[3] Where a company in liquidation itself starts execution proceedings, it is not entitled to rely on S. 171 Companies Act, to debar persons from raising of sections under O. 21, R. 58. Order refusing to entertain objections is open to revision. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 185 (186).

[See however (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 24 (24) : 1916 Pun Re No. 9 (DB) (Company suing petitioner for sum due and obtaining decree which is confirmed on appeal—Petitioner filing revision—Company becoming insolvent in the meanwhile and winding up order passed—Court's leave must be obtained to take revision proceedings.)

5. Leave granted subsequent to the institution of suits.—[1] Leave to continue action should be given only when there arises some question which cannot be determined satisfactorily in the winding-up proceedings. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 364 (364) : 1918 Pun Re No. 93.

[2] Suit against Company in liquidation instituted without leave—Application made for leave before expiry of limitation but leave granted after limitation—Dismissal of suit is improper. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 289 (291) : ILR (1942) Lah 517 (FB) ((Vol 23) 1936 Lah 401 (overruled).) * (Vol 17) 1930 All 503 (504) : 52 All 430 (DB).

[See however (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 166 (167) : ILR (1939) 2 Cal 425].

6. Powers of Court.—[1] Though ordinarily the Court should not exercise its discretion under the section, to permit proceedings which would have the effect of giving priority to any particular creditor, in exceptional cases it may. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 1 (3) (DB).

[2] Judge to whom application for leave under S. 171 is presented can adjudicate upon question of title raised by unsecured creditor whose claim is disputed by official liquidator. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 417 (420) : 18 Luck 110 (DB).

[3] Secured creditors prayer for leave to sue should be granted unless share are special grounds for refusing it. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 475 (476) (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 All 353 (360) : 51 All 695 (FB).

[4] Order in suit against a company to be continued after winding-up order does not amount to permission to institute suit, Lower Court's discretion in the matter should not be interfered with in appeal unless order is altogether wrong. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 391 (392) : 1917 Pun Re No. 13.

(2) On the making of a winding up order, the official receiver shall become the official liquidator of the company and shall continue to act as such until his further continuance is terminated by an order of the Court.

(3) The official receiver shall as such official liquidator forthwith take into his custody and control all the books, documents and the assets of the company.

[5] Suits by secured creditors previously allowed to be proceeded with should not be stayed pending adjudication and priority among creditors by winding up Court. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 916 (918, 919).

[6] Where leave was required by a person claiming two reliefs (1) specific performance of an agreement to mortgage and (2) Simple money demand against a company the effect of granting which would result in converting him from the position of an unsecured creditor into a secured one. It was held that the Court had discretion to grant leave on condition that he should elect between enforcing one of the two claims. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 167 (173, 174) (DB).

[7] Leave granted or refused under S. 171—Only Appellate Court can question the propriety of it. (Vol 17) 1930 All 503 (504) : 52 All 430 (DB).

[8] Suit by the contributories after winding up order is not competent. The matter can be decided only by Court conducting the liquidation. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 391 (392) : 1917 Pun Re No. 13.

[9] Creditor required to prove claim against liquidated company not doing it within time—He asked to be allowed to prove his claim by a suit—He failed to file a suit even within extended time—The creditor again applied to the Court to have his claim adjudicated in the liquidation proceeding itself.—The Court dismissed it.—This was appealed against. Held in appeal that having preferred to have his claim adjudicated by a suit he could not be allowed to ask the court to change the procedure he himself had chosen. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 855 (856, 857) (DB).

[10] Where pronote in favour of a Bank under liquidation is endorsed in favour of another Bank and the latter contemplates to file a suit on the basis of the same against the original debtor of the bank in liquidation prima facie the bank in liquidation is a proper party to the suit and the latter bank apply for permission to take the Bank in liquidation a party to the suit the permission as a rule should be granted against the bank under liquidation. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 328 (328).

7. Proceedings under S. 145 Criminal P. C.—

[1] S. 171 is not meant to override an express enactment in S. 145 Cr. PC by which a magistrate, if satisfied that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists, is bound to call on the parties to attend his court and put in their claims as regards actual possession. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 433 (434) : 34 Cr L Jour 640 (DB).

8. This section and S. 232.—[1] S. 232 has nothing to do with S. 171. S. 232 simply says that certain proceedings shall be void but that, if they are by the Government, they shall not be void. S. 171 refers to any suit or legal proceeding. The initiation by the Income Tax Officer of steps to recover the amount of the assessment under S. 46, Income Tax Act, and the prosecution by the collector of those steps amount to "commencing" or "proceeding with" a "Suit or other legal proceeding". The income tax department cannot therefore without the leave of the winding up Court, continue the proceedings for summary collection of the Income Tax claimed outside the winding up. (Vol 32) 1945 All 354 (355, 359, 360, 363) : ILR (1945) All 352 (DB).

9. Waiver.—[1] The bar created by section 171 cannot be waived by liquidators in a way as to require them to admit a claim under decree rendered inoperative by that bar. (Vol 15) 1928 All 165 (166) : 50 All 419.

SECTION 171 A—Note 1.

[1] Official liquidator, like the official receiver appointed by the Court in insolvency proceedings is an official of the Court and has been vested with powers under the Companies Act and as such he is a public servant within the meaning of the term. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 158 (162) : 9 Luck 577.

SECTION 172—Note 1.

[1] If a company is wound up whether by the Court or voluntarily, any contract of management made with a managing agent shall be thereupon determined ; See section 87B (e).

(2) On the filing of a copy of a winding up order, the registrar shall make a minute thereof in his books relating to the company, and shall notify in the Official Gazette that such an order has been made.

(3) Such order shall be deemed to be notice of discharge to the servants of the company, except when the business of the company is continued.]

* Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1936.—Under the old Section 172 the duty of filing with the registrar a copy of the winding up order was laid on the company. Such duty is now both on the company and the petitioner.—See S.C.R., 1936.

Power of Court to stay winding up.

173. The Court may at any time after an order for winding up, on the application of any creditor or contributory, and on proof to the satisfaction of the Court that all proceedings in relation to the winding up ought to be stayed, make an order staying the proceedings, either altogether or for a limited time, on such terms and conditions as the Court thinks fit.

Court may have regard to wishes of creditors or contributories.

174. The Court may, as to all matters relating to a winding up, have regard to the wishes of the creditors or contributories as proved to it by any sufficient evidence.

[1882—S. 140 ; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—Ss. 145, 201, 219 ; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 238.]

SECTION 173—Note 1.

[1] In the exercise of its jurisdiction with reference to staying proceedings under an order for the winding up of a company, the Court should, so far as possible, act upon the principles which are applicable in exercising jurisdiction to annul an adjudication in insolvency against an individual. (1903) 2 Ch. 174 (180, 181).

[2] Courts in India have power to make order for stay of proceedings under voluntary winding-up under S. 216 read with S. 173. The Court has to see whether stay of proceedings will be conducive or detrimental to commercial morality and in the interest of public at large. Where the company was insolvent and its resolution to be wound up was passed with a view to its being started after the claims of the creditors had been satisfied, proceedings were stayed subject to the condition that all share-holders should be given option of retiring from the company or continuing to be its members. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 305 (306) (DB).

[3] Application for winding up of a company on the ground of mismanagement must fail or succeed on the materials already adduced and cannot be made to stand over till after completion of the investigation into the affairs by Registered Auditors appointed by the directors. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (238).

[4] Where a petition filed by a creditor for the compulsory winding up of a company was opposed by the company and other large creditors the petition was stayed in order to enable the company to complete an agreement entered into by it for sale of its property to a new company which was proposed to be formed. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 108 (109).

[5] As to what matters should be taken into consideration while refusing or postponing a stay of winding up proceedings, see (1903) 2 Ch 174 (194).

SECTION 174—Note 1.

[1] For the purpose of ascertaining their wishes the Court may direct meetings of the creditors and contributories to be called ; see s. 239.

[2] Object of compulsory winding up of company is closing down its business. In ordering compulsory winding up Court should have regard to wishes of majority of creditors and if petition for compulsory winding up is opposed by majority of creditors, Court should not ordinarily grant petition. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 75 (77) : 10 Rang 143 (DB)* (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (234).

[3] The wishes of the majority of the creditors are not binding upon the Court but the Court ought to give them serious consideration. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 75 (77) : 10 Rang 143 (DB).

[4] In petitions for winding up by share-holders the Court has to consider that the internal management of a company is its own concern and it is a much better judge of business prospects of a trading venture than the Court ; where the majority of share-holders show confidence in the management and have faith in its future prospects court should not interfere. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (238).

[5] Where in a winding up of a company the contributories are alone interested in its results as there were no creditors, the liquidation is a peculiar one in which the Court, as to all matters affecting the contributories as a class would have regard to their wishes as proved by sufficient evidence. (Vol 10) 1932 PC 1 (10) : 58 Ind App 416 : 55 Mad 180 (PC).

[6] Any disposition of assets of the company after the winding up order is made and before the appointment of official liquidator is not regular as the property is then in custody of Court constructively. But Official Liquidators.

Appointment of official liquidator.

175. (1) For the purpose of conducting the proceedings in winding up a company and performing such duties in reference thereto as the Court may impose, the Court may appoint a person or persons ^a[other than the official receiver] to be called an official liquidator or official liquidators.

(2) The Court may make such an appointment provisionally at any time after the presentation of a petition and before the making of an order for winding up ^a[but shall before making any such appointment give notice to the company, unless for reasons to be recorded it thinks fit to dispense with notice.]

(3) If more persons than one are appointed to the office of official liquidator, the Court shall declare whether any act by this Act required or authorised to be done by the official liquidator is to be done by all or any one or more of such persons.

(4) The Court may determine whether any, and what, security is to be given by any official liquidator on his appointment.

(5) The acts of an official liquidator shall be valid notwithstanding any defect that may afterwards be discovered in his appointment: Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to give validity to acts done by an official liquidator after his appointment has been shown to be invalid.

(6) A receiver shall not be appointed of assets in the hands of an official liquidator.

[1882—S. 141; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 149 (1), (2), (4), (10); (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Ss. 183, 184 (1), 189 (4), (5)].

where the company has no creditors and the dividend is declared by the unanimous resolution of the contributories and paid to them, the dividend ought not to be ordered to be repaid to the official liquidator as the only persons interested are the contributories themselves. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 1 (11): 58 Ind App 416: 55 Mad 180 (PC).

[7] While the opinion of share-holders and creditors ought to be taken into consideration, these classes of persons in India require to be protected against being easily misled by fraudulent directors. Consequently even though the shareholders and creditors have agreed that the liquidation should be carried on by certain directors who themselves are indebted to the company, compulsory liquidation by Court can be ordered where it finds that those directors are not doing their work of collecting debts properly. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 779 (782): 16 Lah 1029 (SB).

[8] A fully paid up share-holder has the right to appear and to be heard upon the application for winding up. He is in an entirely different position than a creditor or contributory who is still liable for calls. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 391 (391, 392): 58 Cal 62 (DB).

[9] If there is petition by a creditor who is prima facie entitled to an order for winding up but the majority of creditors do not desire a winding up then the question arises for discretion of the Court. The same question would not arise if the majority of share-holders or majority of contributories did not desire winding up. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 391 (392): 58 Cal 62 (DB).

SECTION 175—Note 1.

[1] Company suspended business and is plainly commercially and technically insolvent. Court is justified in appointing provisional liquidator under this section. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 117 (119): 191 Lun Re. No. 31.

[2] Discretion of trial Court in the appointment of liquidator should not be interfered with except under very special circumstances. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 36 (40): 5 Rang 685 (DB).

[3] Where one of two persons appointed liquidators jointly, refuses to act, the resolution appointing them becomes abortive. One of them cannot take up the work alone. (Vol 15) 1928 All 165 (166): 50 All 419.

[4] Company authorised by memorandum of association to manage estate, can act as liquidator. Legality of appointment cannot be questioned in proceedings of a payment order under S. 186. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 276 (276).

[5] S. 175(6) precludes the appointment of a Receiver at the instance of a secured creditor to oust the possession of the liquidator. In case of competition between the Court at the instance of a secured creditor the Court will ordinarily in exercise of its discretion, give preference to the liquidator. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 76 (77): 58 Cal 946.

[6] After winding up order the Directors of a company cease to be such and cannot institute proceedings on its behalf. Managing Director of a Company wound up cannot appeal against order appointing Official Liquidator. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 260 (260): 40 Mad 706 (DB).

[7] Company under voluntary liquidation—Application for the appointment of an official liquidator does not lie, as he can be appointed in compulsory winding up proceedings only. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 468 (470).

[8] A person who has been appointed liquidator of a company ought not, after such appointment, to continue to act as vakil of a creditor whose right to prove against the company is in dispute in the liquidation. (1887) 9 All 180 (184, 185) (DB).

[9] An official liquidator is an official of the Court and is a public servant within the meaning of section 80, Civil P.C. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 158 (162): 9 Lusk 577.

Resignations, removals, filling up vacancies and compensation.

176. (1) Any official liquidator may resign or be removed by the Court on due cause shown.

(2) Any vacancy in the office of an official liquidator appointed by the Court shall be filled up by the Court ^aand until the vacancy is so filled up the official receiver shall be and act as the official liquidator.]

(3) There shall be paid to the official liquidator such salary or remuneration, by way of percentage or otherwise, as the Court may direct; and, if more liquidators than one are appointed, such remuneration shall be distributed amongst them in such proportions as the Court directs.

[a] Inserted by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXI] of 1936) S. 95. [15-1-1937]

177. The official liquidator shall be described by the style of the official liquidator of the particular company in respect of which he is appointed, and not by his individual name.

^a[177A. (1) Where the Court has made a winding up order or appointed an official liquidator provisionally, there shall, unless the Court thinks fit to order otherwise be made to the liquidator, and so orders, be made out and submitted to the official liquidator a statement as to the affairs of the company verified by an affidavit and containing the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the assets of the company, stating separately the cash balance in hand and at the bank, if any;

(b) the debts and liabilities;

(c) the names, residences and occupations of the creditors stating separately the amount of secured debts and unsecured debts, and in the case of secured debts particulars of the securities, their value and the dates when they were given;

(d) the debts due to the company and the names, residences and occupations of the persons from whom they are due and the amount likely to be realised therefrom.

(2) The statement shall be submitted and verified by one or more of the persons who are at the relevant date the directors and by the person who is at that date the secretary, manager or other chief officer of the company, or by such of the persons hereinafter in this subsection mentioned as the official liquidator, subject to the direction of the Court, may require to submit and verify the statement, that is to say, persons—

(a) who are or have been directors or officers of the company;

(b) who have taken part in the formation of the company at any time within one year before the relevant date;

(c) who are in the employment of the company, or have been in the employment of the company within the said year, and are in the opinion of the official liquidator capable of giving the information required;

(d) who are or have been within the said year officers of or in the employment of a company which is, or within the said year was, an officer of the company to which the statement relates.

SECTION 176—Note 1.

[1] An official liquidator cannot resign without leave of liquidating Court; otherwise he is liable to forfeit pay. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 182 (183) : 1919 Pun Re No. 51 (DB).

[2] An official liquidator can resign only on due cause shown. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 84 (84, 85) : ILR (1942) Kar 501 (DB).

[3] It is quite unreasonable to expect the Official

Liquidator to carry on the affairs of the company at his own expense when there is no prospect whatever of recovering the costs from the petitioner in the winding up proceedings who cannot be traced. In such a case, the Liquidator should be allowed to resign as 'due cause' is shown. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 84 (84, 85) : ILR (1942) Kar 501.

[4] The judge in charge of the winding up may remove liquidator for partiality to persons involved in the winding up and make new appointment. (Vol 19) 1932 PG 1 (12) : 55 Mad 180 : 58 Ind App 416 (PC).

(3) The statement shall be submitted within twenty-one days from the relevant date, or within such extended time as the official liquidator or the Court may for special reasons appoint.

(4) Any person making or concurring in making the statement and affidavit required by this section shall be allowed, and shall be paid by the official liquidator or provisional liquidator, as the case may be, out of the assets of the company, such costs and expenses incurred in and about the preparation and making of the statement and affidavit as the official liquidator may consider reasonable, subject to an appeal to the Court.

(5) If any person, without reasonable excuse, knowingly and wilfully makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(6) Any person stating himself in writing to be a creditor or contributory of the company shall be entitled by himself or by his agent at all reasonable times, on payment of the prescribed fee, to inspect the statement submitted in pursuance of this section, and to a copy thereof or extract therefrom.

(7) Any person untruthfully so stating himself to be a creditor or contributory shall be guilty of an offence under section 182 of the Indian Penal Code and shall, on the application of the liquidator or of the official receiver, be punishable accordingly.

(8) In this section the expression "the relevant date" means, in a case where a provisional liquidator is appointed, the date of his appointment, and, in a case where no such appointment is made, the date of the winding up order].

- (c) whether in his opinion further inquiry is desirable as to any matter relating to the promotion, formation, or failure of the company, or the conduct of the business thereof.

(2) The official liquidator may also, if he think fit, make a further report, or further reports stating the manner in which the company was formed and whether in his opinion any fraud has been committed by any person in its promotion or formation, or by any director or other officer of the company in relation to the company since the formation thereof, and any other matter which in his opinion it is desirable to bring to the notice of the Court.]

a[178A. (1) The official liquidator shall within a month from the date of the order for the winding up of a company convene a meeting of the creditors of the company (as ascertained from the books and documents of the company) for the purpose of determining whether or not a committee of inspection shall be appointed to act with the liquidator, and who are to be members of the committee, if appointed.

(2) The official liquidator shall within a week from the date of the creditors' meeting convene a meeting of the contributories to consider the decision of the creditors and to accept the same with or without modifications.

(3) If the contributories do not accept the decision of the creditors in its entirety, it shall be the duty of the official liquidator to apply to the Court for directions as to whether there shall be a committee of inspection and, if so, what shall be the composition of the committee, and who shall be members thereof.

(4) A committee of inspection appointed under this section shall consist of not more than twelve members being creditors and contributories of the company or persons holding general or special powers of attorney from creditors or contributories in such proportions as may be agreed on by the meetings of creditors and contributories, or as, in case of difference, may be determined by the Court.

(8) A member of the committee may resign by notice in writing signed by him and delivered to the liquidator.

(9) If a member of the committee becomes bankrupt, or compounds or arranges with his creditors, or is absent from five consecutive meetings of the committee without the leave of those members who together with himself represent the creditors or contributories, as the case may be, his office shall thereupon become vacant.

(10) A member of the committee may be removed by an ordinary resolution at a meeting of creditors if he represents creditors, or of contributories if he represents contributories, of which seven days' notice has been given, stating the object of the meeting.

(11) On a vacancy occurring in the committee the liquidator shall forthwith summon a meeting of creditors or of contributories, as the case may require, to fill the vacancy, and the meeting may, by resolution, re-appoint the same or appoint another creditor or contributory to fill the vacancy.

(12) The continuing members of the committee, if not less than two, may act notwithstanding any vacancy in the committee.]

SECTION 178—Note 1.

[1] In liquidation proceedings all that is required by the Companies Act is that under S. 178, the official liquidator shall take into his custody or under his control all the assets of the company, but the company's property does not vest in the liquidator. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 134 (137) : ILR (1941) Lah 680 (DB).

Powers of official liquidator.

179. The official liquidator shall have power, with the sanction of the Court, to do the following things :—

- (a) to institute or defend any suit or prosecution, or other legal proceeding, civil or criminal, in the name and on behalf of the company ;
- (b) to carry on the business of the company so far as may be necessary for the beneficial winding up of the same ;
- (c) to sell the immoveable and moveable property of the company by public auction or private contract, with power to transfer the whole thereof to any person or company, or to sell the same in parcels ;
- (d) to do all acts and to execute, in the name and on behalf of the company, all deeds, receipts, and other documents, and for that purpose to use, when necessary, the company's seal ;
- (e) to prove, rank and claim in the insolvency of any contributory, for any balance against his estate, and to receive dividends in the insolvency, in respect of that balance, as a separate debt due from the insolvent, and rateably with the other separate creditors ;
- (f) to draw, accept, make and indorse any bill of exchange, hundi or promissory note in the name and on behalf of the company, with the same effect with respect to the liability of the company as if the bill, hundi, or note had been drawn, accepted, made or indorsed by or on behalf of the company in the course of its business ;
- (g) to raise on the security of the assets of the company any money requisite ;
- (h) to take out, in his official name, letters of administration to any deceased contributory and to do in his official name any other act necessary for obtaining payment of any money due from a contributory or his estate which cannot be conveniently done in the name of the company ; and in all such cases the money due shall, for the purpose of enabling the liquidator to take out the letters of administration or recover the money, be deemed to be due to the liquidator himself : Provided that nothing herein empowered shall be deemed to affect the rights, duties and privileges of any Administrator General.
- (i) to do all such other things as may be necessary for winding up the affairs of the company and distributing its assets.

SECTION 179—Synopsis.

1. Clause (a).
2. Clause (b).
3. Clause (c).
4. Clause (e).
5. Clause (f).
6. Clause (g).
7. Clause (i).

1. Clause (a).—[1] Liquidators are officers of Court and not ordinary litigants at all. A liquidator appointed in winding up by the Court ought not to appeal in any case without permission of the winding up Court, and if he does so, he runs considerable risk, in the event of failure of having to pay the costs out of his own pocket. (Vol 8) 1921 All 149 (151) : 43 All 433 (DB).

[2] Liquidator has no right of audience in any proceeding in a suit brought by the company in the ordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court. (37) ILR (1937) 2 Cal 173 (175).

[3] Application under S. 150 of Act of 1882 (S. 186 of Act of 1913) by vendees of a Company as attorneys of the liquidator praying for an order to recover debts and calls due from the contributories which were sold to them, is incompetent inasmuch as in reality it is not made 'in the name' and on behalf of the Company. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 140 (141) (DB).

[4] A judge in winding up cannot grant the liquidator leave to bid, it being clearly a matter for the execution Court, but can sanction liquidator applying to the execution Court either in particular or generally in all cases for leave to bid as a decree-holder. It is clearly covered by S. 179 (a) and (b). (Vol 14) 1927 All 681 (681, 682) : 50 All 173.

[5] A decree was obtained by a Bank and transferred to another Court for execution. Then the bank went into liquidation. The liquidator applied to transferee Court for execution of the decree. The application was rejected under O. 21 R. 16 C.P.C. on the ground that liquidator was a transferee and should apply to Court which passed the decree. Held that he was not a transferee of the decree but was acting under S. 179 Companies Act in the name and on behalf of the Company and therefore the decree could be executed on his application. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 152 (153).

[6] Cause of Action for the liquidator to realise contribution from the contributories arises on the appointment of the liquidator. (Vol 13) 1926 All 550 (551) : 48 All 580.

180. The Court may provide by any order that the official liquidator may exercise any of Discretion of official the above powers without the sanction or intervention of the Court, and, liquidator. where an official liquidator is provisionally appointed, may limit and restrict his powers by the order appointing him.

[7] A successful litigant against a company in liquidation is entitled to be paid his full costs in priority over other ordinary creditors except where there are other creditors in the same position as himself when they and he will rank pari passu as regards the funds available for discharge of their debts. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 10 (11) : ILR (1942) Lah 742 (DB).

[8] A proceeding started by a Liquidator is not initiated in his personal capacity but in the name and on behalf of the company and is deemed to be continued by the company. (Vol 20) 1933 All 789 (795) : 55 All 912 (DB)

[9] Liquidator of a company in liquidation being trustees for the creditors time to recover debt does not run after an order or resolution for winding up. Date for testing liability is the commencement of winding up. (Vol 14) 1927 All 161 (162) : 49 All 520 (FB).

2. Clause (b).—See notes under S. 212 (1) (b).

3. Clause (c).—[1] Any sales or contracts of sale affected by the official liquidator in pursuance of the Court's sanction previously obtained are not subject to subsequent confirmation by the Court. Hence where the Court gives to the Official Liquidator sanction to sell company's property and fixes a reserve price and the liquidator enters into contract of sale for a sum considerably in excess of the reserve price the Court cannot revoke its own sanction so as to nullify the contract of sale. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 179 (182, 183) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 176 (177) (DB).

[2] Where the highest bidder for the purchase of a mill which was property of company under liquidation wanted immediate possession free from all disputes but unfortunately the lessees, from official liquidator for fixed period had got the whip hand and the purchaser had to take the property with all the burden of the lease and the further burden of any subsequent rights which the lessees had obtained, the sale to the lessees themselves for a lesser price is valid. (Vol 9) 1922 PC 361 (364) (PC).

[3] Where the official liquidator let out a mill for a fixed period, thinking to sell it when the market was favourable and before expiry of the lease, circumstances make a sale necessary, the Court should give the lessees an option to purchase and sanction the sale. (Vol 9) 1922 PC 361 (364) (PC).

[4] No order sanctioning a sale to the prejudice of contributors or creditors can be made ex-parte on the application of the Official Liquidator. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 286 (287) (DB).

[5] In pursuance of an order in the winding up proceedings, the business as a going concern the Official Receiver caused an advertisement to be published that the tenders should be sent to him by Registered post so as to reach him on or before a certain date. It was not, however, stated that the highest tender will be accepted and there was no reserve price fixed. A's bid was the highest. The Official Receiver asked for an order from the Court for directions as regards the offers submitted by A and others. The Official Receiver reported that others were willing to raise their offers. The Court directed that a week's further time should be given for the receipt of fresh offers or for increase of offers already made. It also directed that the offers should be made in sealed covers addressed to the Official Receiver and that they should be opened in Court : Held that it was not a question of confirmation of a sale as no sale had taken place. Other persons were entitled to make a further offer and hence the Court's order would stand. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 365 (366) : ILR (1943) Mad 790 (DB). (Procedure for sale in winding up proceedings indicated).

[6] The sanction of the Court has to be exercised with Judicial discretion having regard to the interest of the company and its creditors. Whenever property is authorised to be sold by private contract it is the duty of the Court to satisfy itself that the price fixed is the best that could be expected unless so satisfied the only safe and proper course is an auction sale. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 286 (287) (DB).

4. Clause (e).—[1] The Official Liquidator can recover calls not paid although they have become time-barred and ceased to be recoverable by the company. (Vol 3) 1916 All 317 (318) : 38 All 347 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 44 (48) : 10 Pat 249 (DB).

5. Clause (f).—[1] The power given to the Official Liquidator to endorse promissory notes is a power given by the statute and a statutory power cannot be delegated in the absence of a statutory provision for such delegation. Therefore the endorsement by the agents appointed by the liquidators conveys no title in law to the assignees. As such assignments are ab initio void, no subsequent ratification by liquidator can validate them. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 882 (883).

6. Clause (g).—[1] Where on an order for winding up a company, K's offer to take mortgage of its mills was accepted, but on the settlement of the terms, K being dissatisfied appealed to the Privy Council and the Privy Council directed the whole scheme to be placed before the share-holders, but when the matter came back before the Court, K declined to keep his offer open any longer.

Held : that K was estopped from acting otherwise than was promised. The offer being accepted by the Court on behalf of the Official Liquidators the offer and acceptance should be regarded as valid and binding contract between K and Official Liquidators. (Vol 17) 1930 All 330 (335, 336) (DB).

7. Clause (i).—[1] Liquidation proceedings may be expected to come to an end at any time : but this does not excuse the liquidator from fixing the period of employment in the case of an employee and if no term is fixed, an employee on a monthly rate of salary is entitled to notice when his services are to be terminated. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 917 (917).

[2] Official Liquidator is entitled to admit admissible claim and is not bound to call claimants and make enquiry. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 46 (47) (DB).

181. The official liquidator may, with the sanction of the Court, appoint an advocate, attorney or pleader entitled to appear before the Court to assist him in the performance of his duties : Provided that, where the official liquidator is an attorney, he shall not appoint his partner, unless the latter consents to act without remuneration.

182. ^a(1) The official liquidator of a company which is being wound up by the Court shall keep, in manner prescribed, proper books in which he shall cause to be made entries or minutes of proceedings at meetings, and of such other matters as may be prescribed, and any creditor or contributory may, subject to the control of the Court, personally or by his agent inspect any such books.

^b(2) Every official liquidator shall, at such times as may be prescribed but not less than twice in each year during his tenure of office, present to the Court an account of his receipts and payments as such liquidator.

(3) The account shall be in the prescribed form, shall be made in duplicate, and shall be verified by a declaration in the prescribed form.

(4) The Court shall cause the account to be audited in such manner as it thinks fit and for the purpose of the audit the liquidator shall furnish the Court with such vouchers and information as the Court may require, and the Court may at any time require the production of and inspect any books or accounts kept by the liquidator.

(5) When the account has been audited, one copy thereof shall be filed and kept by the Court, and the other copy shall be delivered to the registrar for filing, and each copy shall be open to the inspection of any creditor, or of any person interested.]

[b] Sub-sections (2) to (5) were added, ibid.

183. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act the official liquidator of a company which is being wound up by the Court shall, in the administration of the assets of the company and in the distribution thereof among its creditors, have regard to any directions that may be given by resolution of the creditors or contributories at any general meeting ^a[or by the committee of inspection, and any directions given by the creditors or contributories at any general meeting shall in case of conflict be deemed to override any directions given by the committee of inspection.]

SECTION 181—Note 1.

[1] The omission of the Official Liquidator to obtain sanction under this section for the appointment of a pleader does not affect the validity of the acts done by the pleader in instituting or conducting the case. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 222 (222) : 5 Lah 414 (DB).

[2] Legal adviser is employee of liquidator and order fixing his remuneration by court being purely ministerial is not appealable. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 82 (83) : ILR (1943) Kar 496 (DB).

SECTION 183—Note 1.

] Debenture-holders are entitled to have their debentures declared valid in winding up proceedings if Liquidators sought instructions of Court as to how these debenture-holders should be ranked. (Vol 27) 1940 All 458 : ILR (1940) All 568.

[2] Section 183 (5) cannot apply to a case in which the act of Official Liquidator has been performed in pursuance of Court's express sanction. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 179 (180, 181) (DB).

[3] Where, as a result of a compulsory winding up of a company, the Official Liquidator under direction of Court sells a decree standing in the name of the directors by auction and assigns the decree to the purchaser the principles of O. 21, R. 90, Civil P. [5] As to meetings to ascertain wishes of creditors or contributories, see Section 239.

(2) The official liquidator may summon general meetings of the creditors or contributories for the purpose of ascertaining their wishes, and it shall be his duty to summon meetings at such times as the creditors or contributories, by resolution, may direct, or whenever requested in writing to do so by one-tenth in value of the creditors or contributories, as the case may be.

(3) The official liquidator may apply to the Court in manner prescribed for directions in relation to any particular matter arising in the winding up.

[3] Where the forfeiture of shares by the managing director is ultra vires his powers, his act cannot bind the company and the share holder may be placed on the list of contributories in spite of such forfeiture. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 109 (109): 1915 Pun Re No. 37 * (Vol 8). 1921 All 135 (136, 137) (DB).

(4) Where shares are pledged with the company the legal owner thereof is the share-holder and not the company; he alone must be held liable for all unpaid calls thereon. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 480 (483): 1914 Pun Re No. 69 (DB).

[5] Signatories to a memorandum of association of a company are deemed to have agreed to become members of the company. The fact that no shares are allotted to them and that they have ceased to be treated as members for considerable time does not relieve him from liability of being placed on the list of contributories (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 187 (188): 32 Sind LR 167 (DB).

provides a speedy procedure for recovering the amount due. But the Court cannot override the provisions of S. 86, Civil P.C. by making an order under S. 186. (Vol 23) 1936 All 826 (828) : 58 All 742 (FB).

[2] In considering the meaning and effect of S. 186, the features to be noticed are : (a) It is concerned only with monies due from a contributory, other than call-money (b) It creates a special procedure for obtaining payment of moneys and creates no new rights (c) The power of the Court to order payment is discretionary. (Vol 20) 1933 PC 63 (65) : 54 All 1067 : 60 Ind App 13 (PC)

[3] Under the section every objection is just as open to the person sought to be charged as it would have been if a suit were filed. (Vol 20) 1933 PC 63 (66) : 54 All 1067 : 60 Ind App 13 (PC).

[4] The provisions of S. 186 are not mandatory and the Court can grant or reject an application under S. 186. If the Court refuses to make an order under S. 186, the liquidator, in order to enforce his claim against the contributory, must proceed by way of a civil suit in which the contributory is entitled to maintain the ordinary legal defences to such a claim. (Vol 27) 1940 All 544 (549, 551) : ILR (1941) All 153 (FB) * (Vol 25) 1938 All 618 : ILR (1938) All 957 overruled.

[5] A payment order under S. 186 amounts to a decree by reason of S. 199 and enforceable as such and the provisions of the Civil P.C., relating to the execution of decrees are applicable to the execution of such orders. Consequently, the holder of a decree is entitled under the law to claim rateable distribution against the Official Liquidator as the holder of a payment order under S. 186. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 273 (273, 274) : ILR (1942) Lah 460 (DB) * (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 237 : 15 Luck 332 not approved * (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 237 (239) : 15 Luck 332 (DB).

[See however (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 237 (239) : 15 Luck 332 (DB) (An order under S. 186 cannot be a decree within the meaning of S. 73, Civil P.C.).

[6] To recover money from firm, summary procedure can be availed by selecting from among the partners one who is a contributory and calling upon him to liquidate the whole debt. The principle of S. 43, Contract Act applies. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 148 (149) : 4 Lah 239 (DB).

[7] S. 186 confirms certain special privileges of which apparently a third party cannot take advantage. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 140 (141) (DB).

[8] Where a company has been appointed to act as the liquidator of another company the legality of the appointment cannot be questioned in proceedings of a payment order under S. 186. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 276 (276).

2. Liability of contributory.—[1] A shareholder settled on the list of contributories cannot in proceedings under S. 186 plead that he was improperly so settled. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 85 (86).

[2] Contributory is liable, for payment of debts other than calls, only if the said debts are due in his personal capacity and not a member of firm which is not a contributory. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 85 (87).

[3] Before the order of contribution is passed the liability of contributory is contractual liability. Subsequent to that order it is a statutory liability. (Vol 18) 1926 Oudh 289 (290) : 21 Luck 153 (DB).

[4] The principal partner settled on the list of contributories can be held liable for the whole debt though neither the firm nor the other partners are so settled. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 148 (149) : 4 Lah 239 (DB).

[5] Contributories can be required not only to meet calls made on him, but also to pay debts owing by him to the company, for recovery of which court is not bound to proceed under this section but may direct the liquidator to sue for it. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 198 (199) : 1915 Pun Re No. 59.

[6] The contributory can be summarily directed to pay all moneys due from him whether as a contributory or in his private capacity. 'Debt due on a promisor by contributory' comes under the section. The jurisdiction is permissive and must not ordinarily be refused. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 271 (272, 273) : 1916 Pun Re No. 36 (DB).

[7] In the case of a contributory becoming insolvent for mutual dealings and set-off, see S. 47, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, 1909, and S. 46, Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920.

3. Limitation.—[1] Words 'any money due from him or from the estate of the person whom he represents to the Company' in S. 186 must be confined to money due and recoverable in a suit by the company and they do not include any moneys which at the date of the application under S. 186 could not have been so recovered. (Vol 20) 1933 PC 63 (65) : 60 Ind App 13 : 54 All 1067 (PC).

[2] Terms 'money owing' or 'money due' in their primary sense denote existing debt, whether or not the right to recover the same is barred. Call is owing from date when it is made, although it may be payable at future date. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 97 (98) (DB).

[3] S. 186 of the Act does not override provisions of the Limitation Act and Court cannot enforce by summary order the payment of a debt which it could not have enforced in an action at law. The section only provides a summary procedure for enforcing existing legal liabilities. The words "at any time" only mean at any time, during the course of liquidation proceedings commencing from date of winding up order. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 53 (54) : 4 Lah 109 (DB).

[4] An application by the liquidators filed within three years from date of winding up order, if otherwise properly made, under and within the provisions of S. 186, Companies Act is not one which must be dismissed by reason of S. 3, Lim Act as it is either an application made within time or it is an application made for which no period of limitation is prescribed. (Vol 20) 1933 PC 63 (65) : 54 All 1067 : 60 Ind App 13 (PC).

4. Powers of Court.—[1] In proceedings under S. 186 the Court will not go into the question of validity of the liquidation. That question should be raised in proper proceedings. (Vol 29) 1942 All 186 (188) : ILR (1942) All 26.

[2] A payment order made after the assets of the Company are sold is a nullity and may be disregarded by Court whose help is sought for its execution. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 57 (57).

[3] Court in liquidation proceedings is not bound to help third persons purchasing debts, to realise them. Payment order in respect of a debt sold to a third person cannot be made. A payment order can be disregarded by the Court which is applied for execution if the order is nullity. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 57 (57).

187. (1) The Court may, at any time after making a winding up order, and either before Power of Court to or after it has ascertained the sufficiency of the assets of the company, make calls. make calls on and order payment thereof by all or any of the contributories for the time being settled on the list of the contributories to the extent of their liability, for payment of any money which the Court considers necessary to satisfy the debts and liabilities of the company, and the costs, charges and expenses of winding up, and for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves.

(2) In making the call the Court may take into consideration the probability that some of the contributories may partly or wholly fail to pay the call.

[4] Calls validly made by Directors prior to liquidation become, once the date for payment has passed, a debt due from share-holders which liquidator can realise. Under S. 186, the court cannot question liquidator as to purpose for which debt is being realised or withhold payment thereof though under S. 187 Court can consider whether liquidator really needs money. (Vol 29) 1942 All 136 (138) : ILR (1942) All 26.

[5] Ss. 186 and 235 empower the court to make an order against the person complained against, but neither of them professes to confer a new right on the person applying. The power of the court is restricted from proceeding suo motu (Vol 20) 1933 All 789 (794) : 55 All 912 (FB).

[6] Where the registered office of a company is situated within the jurisdiction of the District Judge, he has jurisdiction to pass orders in liquidation proceedings. Contributories residing outside British India are amenable to jurisdiction of District Judge. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 362 (363) : 15 Lah 302.

5. Set off.—[1] There is nothing in S. 186 which can reasonably be construed as a general deprivation of contributories to companies in liquidation of the right of set-off. ((Vol 27) 1940 All 544 (550) : ILR (1941) All 153 (FB) * (Vol 25) 1938 All 613 : ILR (1938) All 957 overruled.)

[2] A share-holder is not entitled to set off what he might receive on a winding up, against moneys due by him. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 962 (965) : ILR (1939) Mad 36.

[3] Defendants in a suit by liquidator on pronote are entitled to set off if they are creditors in respect of the money deposited as security, defendants not being contributories of the Bank and the court conducting the liquidation cannot recover by a summary process the money due from them on the pronote. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 242 (243) (DB).

[4] The Court will not allow a person to whom the company is indebted to set off that indebtedness against what is due from him as a contributory in respect of calls. It is otherwise where the two debts are of a purely commercial nature. But where the debt to the company is in respect of calls the set off is never available to the contributory. (Vol 29) 1942 All 136 (138) : ILR (1942) All 26.

[5] A debtor who is not a member is entitled to plead by way of set off that an ascertained sum of money is then due to him from the company in an action by liquidator to recover dues from him. Such a suit by liquidator is only an ordinary suit not governed by Indian Companies Act. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 204 (205) : 1915 Pun Re No. 63 (DB).

[6] A deposit by a Hindu husband in the name of himself and his wife payable to either or survivor in the absence of evidence to the contrary must be presumed to belong to the husband and therefore can be set off against the amount due to the bank from the husband. (Vol 29) 1942 Mid 351 (351).

6. Transferee of order for payment.—[1] In the case of orders of payment under S. 186 the person to apply for the enforcement of an order or decree is the person in whose favour order or decree has been made or passed. Assignee or transferee cannot make such an application and until his name has been substituted for that of the person in whose favour the decree or order has been passed or made. Ss. 200 and 201 must be held to be subject to special provision of R. 15 of O. 21 of C P Code. Therefore a transferee of an order under S. 186 of Companies Act must, in the first instance, apply to the court which made the order (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 211 (213) : 1918 Pun Re No. 92.

[2] A person to whom the liquidator has transferred a payment order made under this section against a contributory is entitled to invoke the summary jurisdiction of the court under S. 199 for recovering the money. Dissolution of the company subsequently does not prevent the assignee from seeking relief from liquidation court. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 78 (79) (DB.)

[3] Application under S. 186 by transferees from the liquidator of debts and calls due from contributories not being one on behalf of the company or for its benefit is not maintainable. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 140 (141) (DB).

SECTION 187—Synopsis.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Civil P. C., S. 86—Applicability.
3. Jurisdiction.
4. Time-barred calls.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] S. 151 is not restricted to original calls but includes unpaid calls made before as well as after the winding up. The balance of the price of shares for which he a call has been made before liquidation can be recovered by a summary action by the Official Liquidator ('11) 12 Ind Cas 958 (959) : 1911 Pun Re No. 67 (DB).

[2] A share-holder contracts to contribute a certain amount to be applied in payment of the debts and liabilities of the company and it is inconsistent with his position as a share-holder, where he remains as such to claim back any of that money. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 132 (133) : 40 Bom 264 (DB).

[3] Where after the making of an order for compulsory winding up of a company money due by a contributory was demanded by the Official Liquidator and was paid to him as such an order was made by the Court under S. 187 the contributory cannot be asked to pay over again on a subsequent call by the court in the absence

188. The Court may order any contributory, purchaser or other person from whom money is due to the company to pay the same into a[* * *] the account of the official liquidator b[in any scheduled bank as defined in clause (e) of section 2 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934] instead of to the official liquidator, and any such order may be enforced in the same manner as if it had directed payment to the official liquidator.

Regulation of account with Court.

189. All moneys, bills, hundis, notes and other securities paid and delivered into a[the Bank where the liquidator of the Company may have his account], in the event of a company being wound up by the Court, shall be subject in all respects to the orders of the Court.

[1882—S. 153; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 167 (2); (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 207 (2)].

[a] Substituted for "the Bank of Bengal, the Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay, or any branch thereof by respectively," by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXII] of 1936) S. 102. [15-1-1937].

Order on contributory conclusive evidence. 190. (1) An order made by the Court on a contributory shall (subject to any right of appeal) be conclusive evidence that the money, if any, thereby appearing to be due or ordered to be paid is due.

(2) All other pertinent matters stated in the order shall be taken to be truly stated as against all persons, and in all proceedings whatsoever.

of evidence that the liquidator had misapplied the money. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 691 (695) : 59 Cal 1099 (DB).

2. Civil P. Code, sec 86—Applicability.—[1] S. 86, Civil P. C. applies to all proceedings under S. 187 of Companies Act. (Vol 23) 1936 All 826 (829): 58 All 742 (FB).

3. Jurisdiction.—[1] S. 187 does not confer any higher jurisdiction on the court to enforce the remedy which was not open to the company before the liquidation proceedings against a person who is not amenable to the Court's jurisdiction. No order under S. 187 can, therefore, be made against the sovereign prince or ruling chief at all and no question of the consent of Governor-General-in-Council can arise as such case is not covered by sub-sec (2) of sec. 86, C.P.C. (Vol 23) 1936 All 826 (829) : 58 All 742 (FB).

[2] Where the defendant, a resident of British India, held shares in a company registered in an Indian State neither appeared nor submitted to the jurisdiction of the State Liquidation Court, but a call order was made by that Court: It was held that the order was without jurisdiction and could not be enforced as such in British India. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 559 (560) (DB).

[3] A call, validly made by the directors prior to liquidation and when once the date for its payment has passed, it becomes a debt indistinguishable from any other. Hence the liquidator can realise it as any other debt without telling to court what he wants it for, of course, when he makes a call under S. 187, Court has jurisdiction to consider whether the liquidator really needs the moneys he says he needs. (Vol 29) 1942 All 136 (138, 139) : ILR (1942) All 26.

4. Time-barred calls.—[1] Liquidation gives the official liquidators a cause of action and unpaid calls though time barred against the company, can be enforced by them. (Vol 15) 1928 All 272 (273) : 50 All 476 * (Vol 3) 1916 All 317 (318) : 38 All 347 (DB) * Vol 18) 1931 Pat 44 (48) : 10 Pat 249 (DB).

[2] A claim which might be barred by Civil P. C. if brought by the company can be preferred by the official liquidators under the provisions of the Companies Act (Vol 15) 1928 All 272 (273) : 50 All 476.

SECTION 188—Note 1.

[1] S 188 does not give the Court power to direct payments from any persons other than those mentioned in S. 185. (Vol 27) 1940 All 514 (515) : ILR (1940) All 730.

[2] The word "purchaser" refers to the word contributory, which immediately precedes it and means the purchaser of the interest of a contributory. (Vol 23) 1936 All 808 (810) : 58 All 925 (DB).

[3] The words "or other persons from whom money is due" have a reference to a person from whom money is due under S. 185. (Vol 23) 1936 All 808 (810) : 58 All 925 (DB).

[4] Judicial decisions of matters which may arise with third parties owing to transactions entered into by the Official Liquidator are beyond the pale of jurisdiction to the company judge and no order can be made with regard to these matters either under S. 185 or 188. (Vol 23) 1936 All 808 (809) : 58 All 925 (DB).

[5] Persons entering into contract with the Liquidation do not come under S. 185 and hence an order directing them to pay the liquidator cannot be enforced under S. 185 or under S. 188. (Vol 23) 1936 All 808 (810) : 58 All 925 (DB).

[6] The words "and any such order may be enforced in the same manner as if it had directed payment to the Official Liquidator" in S. 188 do not give jurisdiction to enforce an order against persons other than contributories or persons mentioned in S. 185. The natural construction to place on these words is that if an order can be enforced which is an order directing payment to an official liquidator, the same order can be enforced if it directs payment to a Bank. (Vol 23) 1936 All 808 (810) : 58 All 925 (DB).

Power to exclude creditors not proving in time.

191. The Court may fix a time or times within which creditors are to prove their debts or claims, or to be excluded from the benefit of any distribution made before those debts are proved.

Adjustment of rights of contributories.

192. The Courts shall adjust the rights of the contributories among themselves, and distribute any surplus among the persons entitled thereto.

Power to order costs.

193. The Court may, in the event of the assets being insufficient to satisfy the liabilities, make an order as to the payment out of the assets of the costs, charges and expenses incurred in the winding up in such order of priority as the Court thinks just.

[1882—S. 158; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 171; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 213]

Dissolution of company.

194. (1) When the affairs of a company have been completely wound up, the Court shall make an order that the company be dissolved from the date of the order, and the company shall be dissolved accordingly.

(2) The order shall be reported within fifteen days of the making thereof by the official liquidator to the registrar, who shall make in his books a minute of the dissolution of the company.

(3) If the official liquidator makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which he is in default.

[1882—Ss. 159 to 161; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 172; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 221]

SECTION 191—Note 1.

[1] The penalty for failure to come in within the time stated in the notice for proving the claim is that the claimant is excluded from the benefit of any distribution made before such debts are proved. He can only claim a proportionate share in such assets as may remain undistributed at the time when the proof is claimed and without disturbing any distribution made before such proof. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 349 (350). (Claimant may be paid dividend without disturbing previous dividends) * (1904) 27 Mad 496 (498) (FB).

[2] It is an irregularity to pass an order admitting the proof of a particular creditor of the company before any liquidator has been appointed. (1887) 9 All 180 (184) (DB).

SECTION 192—Note 1.

[1] Fully paid share-holders are contributories and are entitled to have their rights adjusted under S. 192. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 476 (477): 57 Mad 955 (DB).

[2] A transferee of shares whose name has not been entered in the register is not a contributory. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 476 (477): 57 Mad 955 (DB).

SECTION 193—Note 1.

[1] Where a lease provided that if lessees (a company) caused delay in payment of rent, the landlords would be entitled to recover the arrears with interest from buildings which may have been erected on the land; held that there was charge in equity giving priority to landlords over unsecured creditors of company in liquidation was created. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 267 (268): 39 Bom 136 (DB).

SECTION 194—Note 1.

[1] A company which has been dissolved no longer exists as a separate entity capable of holding property or of being sued in any Court; but a company in liquidation, although the administration of its affairs has passed to the liquidator, retains its corporate existence. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 318 (332).

[2] Although, after dissolution, the company and its officers become functus officio, yet the liquidator can complete a formal act like giving a transfer in writing for a decree already transferred while he was still a liquidator. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 478 (478): 51 Mad 681 (DB).

[3] As to the power of the Court to declare dissolution of company void, see section 243.

[4] If liquidation should be annulled, the company will resume its powers. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 318 (332).

[5] In this case the form of order under Companies Act for dissolution of a company in compulsory liquidation is laid down. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 1002 (1002): 47 Cal 620 (DB).

[6] Under Section 153-A (1) (d) the Court may make a provision for the dissolution of any transferor company without winding up.

Extraordinary Powers of Court.

195. (1) The Court may, after it has made a winding up order, summon before it any officer of the company or person known or suspected to have in his possession any property of the company, or supposed to be indebted to the company, or any person whom the Court deems capable of giving information concerning the trade, dealings, affairs or property of the company.

(2) The Court may examine him on oath concerning the same, either by word of mouth or on written interrogatories, and may reduce his answers to writing and require him to sign them.

(3) The Court may require him to produce any documents in his custody or power relating to the company; but, where he claims any lien on documents produced by him, the production shall be without prejudice to that lien, and the Court shall have jurisdiction in the winding up to determine all questions relating to that lien.

(4) If any person so summoned, after being tendered a reasonable sum for his expenses, refuses to come before the Court at the time appointed, not having a lawful impediment (made known to the Court at the time of its sitting, and allowed by it), the Court may cause him to be apprehended and brought before the Court for examination.

SECTION 195—Synopsis.1. Scope of the section.*2. Powers of Court.*3. Right of appeal.*4. Right to copy of deposition.

1. Scope of the section.—[1] Examination under S. 195 is private and petitioning creditor should not be allowed to attend, where the liquidator has conduct of examination, except in extreme cases. Where latter cannot act former may be given conduct of examination. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 24 (24, 25): 1 Rang 384.

[2] The scope of an examination under S. 195 is to seek information on matters which may be just or beneficial for the winding up of the company. S. 195 is intended to promote liquidation proceedings and S. 196 is intended to investigate conduct of those charged with its affairs. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (11).

[3] Before granting application under this section for discovery and the inspection of the books and papers of a company and for the examination of certain of its Directors, the court ought to be satisfied that the inquiry is just and beneficial for the purposes of the winding up and not merely intended to harass and annoy the Directors and Manager. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 109 (112): 1915 Pun Re No. 40 (DB).

[4] Depositions made under S. 195 and obtained by liquidator under R. 174 of Chap XXXI, Original Side Rules, (Calcutta) are private documents and liquidator was not entitled to use them in proceedings for appointment of Receiver initiated by him. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 488 (488): ILR (1940) 1 Cal 28.

2. Powers of Court.—[1] It is in the discretion of the Court conducting the winding up to determine whether it will exercise the powers vested in it by S. 195 but the discretion must be exercised judicially and not without consideration. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 109 (112): 1915 Pun Re No. 40 (DB).

[2] Powers of Court under S. 195 are very wide and it is not necessary to determine before calling upon him whether the person deemed capable of giving the information possesses it. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (11).

[3] It is a matter entirely within the discretion of the District Judge whether the services of a counsel should be allowed to an official liquidator in an inquiry under S. 195. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (11).

[4] A creditor who refuses to give to liquidator all reasonable information as to past transactions, does so at his own peril and can be summoned under S. 195 and if necessary arrested. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 2 (16): 54 Bom 718 (DB).

[5] Company Judge conducting proceedings under S. 195 is Court within S. 476, Criminal P.C. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 52 (52): 42 Cr L Jour 351: ILR (1940) Lah 669 (DB).

3. Right of appeal—[1] An appeal lies against an order made for the examination of Directors, where the order impugned is vexatious or oppressive so far as the appellant is concerned and when it is not necessary or beneficial for the purposes of the winding-up. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 109 (112): 1915 Pun Re No. 40 (DB).

[2] It is the final order that is appealable and not the preliminary order. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 707 (710): 10 Lah 806 (FB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (10, 11). (Order deciding objections to be examined under S. 195 is, and one merely issuing summonses is not, appealable.)

[3] An order under S. 195 summoning directors of a company for examination is not judgment within Cl. 15 Letters Patent (Calcutta) and therefore is not appealable. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 295 (296): 55 Cal 262 (DB).

[4] See also Section 202.

4. Right to copy of deposition.—[1] Each defendant deposing under S. 195 is entitled to copy of his own deposition upon his counsel undertaking on his behalf to prevent communication of his deposition to his co-defendants or their solicitors or counsel. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 488 (489): ILR (1940) 1 Cal 28.

[2] Public officer charged with criminal investigation should be allowed to inspect and take notes but not copy the depositions made under S. 195 by person believed to be involved in a criminal offence. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 521 (524): 57 Cal 424.

196. (1) When an order has been made for winding up a company by the Court, and the Power to order public official liquidator has applied to the Court stating that in his opinion a examination of promo- fraud has been committed by any person in the promotion or formation of the company, etc. of the company or by any director or other officer of the company, in relation to the company since its formation, the Court may, after consideration of the application, direct that any person who has taken any part in the promotion or formation of the company or has been a director, manager or other officer of the company shall attend before the Court on a day appointed by the Court for that purpose, and be publicly examined as to the promotion or formation or the conduct of the business of the company, or as to his conduct and dealings as director, manager or other officer thereof.

(2) The official liquidator shall take part in the examination, and for that purpose may, if specially authorised by the Court in that behalf, employ such legal assistance as may be sanctioned by the Court.

(3) Any creditor or contributory may also take part in the examination either personally or by any person entitled to appear before the Court.

(4) The Court may put such questions to the person examined as the Court thinks fit.

(5) The person examined shall be examined on oath, and shall answer all such questions as the Court may put or allow to be put to him.

(6) A person ordered to be examined under this section may at his own cost employ any person entitled to appear before the Court, who shall be at liberty to put to him such questions as the Court may deem just for the purpose of enabling him to explain or qualify any answers given by him: Provided that if he is, in the opinion of the Court, exculpated from any charges made or suggested against him, the Court may allow him such costs as in its discretion it may think fit.

(7) Notes of the examination shall be taken down in writing, and shall be read over to or by, and signed by, the person examined, and may thereafter be used in evidence against him in civil proceedings, and shall be open to the inspection to any creditor or contributory at all reasonable times.

(8) The Court, may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the examination from time to time.

(9) An examination under this section may, if the Court so directs, and subject to any rules in this behalf, be held before any District Judge or before any officer of the High Court, being an official referee, master, registrar or deputy registrar, and the powers of the Court under this section as to the conduct of the examination, but not as to costs, may be exercised by the person before whom the examination is held.

[(1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 175; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 216.]

Objects and Reasons.

We have amended clause 197 (now Section 196) to provide that the Court shall act on an application from the official liquidator, and we have amended sub-clause (7) of this clause so that there can be no question that the ordinary provision of the Indian law of evidence contained in the proviso to section 132 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, is not superseded thereby.—S.C.R., 1913.

SECTION 196—Synopsis

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Appeals.
3. Sub-section (1).
4. Sub-section (3).
5. Sub-section (5).
6. Sub-section (7).

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] If a company is not in liquidation according to provisions of the Act Court has no power to order the directors to be examined under this section. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 271 (272).

[2] Section 196 is designed for a thorough investigation of the affairs of a company and the actions of its officers. (Vol 20) 1933 All 366 (368); 55 All 496 (DB).

[3] Prima facie case of fraud against particular person must be made out before order for public examination can be passed under S. 196 (1). General allegation of fraud in Company's management is not sufficient. Charge of fraud need not be set out with same particularity as in a criminal case. (Vol 20) 1933 All 366 (368); 55 All 496 (DB).

[4] A director who was a party to issue of shares in consideration of promissory notes can be publicly examined although he has resigned prior to the notice. Issue of such shares is a circumvention of the provisions of the Act and is contrary to the provisions of the Articles of Association. This in itself would not be sufficient to prove fraud; but it suggests fraud and would therefore justify the public examination of the directors concerned. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 87 (87, 88); ILR (1944) Mad 540 (DB).

197. The Court, at any time either before or after making a winding up order on proof of probable cause for believing that a contributory is about to quit British India or otherwise to abscond, or to remove or conceal any of his property, for the purpose of evading payment of calls or of avoiding examination respecting the affairs of the company, may cause the contributory to be arrested and his books and papers and movable property to be seized, and him and them to be safely kept until such time as the Court may order.

198. Any powers by this Act conferred on the Court shall be in addition to, and not in restriction of, any existing powers of instituting proceedings against any contributory or debtor of the Company or the estate of any contributory or debtor, for the recovery of any call or other sums.

[1882—S. 165; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 177; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 219].

Enforcement of and Appeal from Orders.

199. All orders made by a Court under this Act may be enforced in the same manner in which decrees of such Court made in any suit pending therein may be enforced.

[5] A liquidator in a voluntary winding up of a company may, under section 216, ask the Court for an order under this section. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 284 (284): 44 Bom 459 (DB).

[6] English decisions on the point of an investigation by a liquidator into the conduct of the officers of the company before liquidation cannot be held to be binding upon Indian Courts. (Vol 20) 1933 All 366 (368): 55 All 496 (DB).

2. Appeal.—[1] Order directing examination of person under S. 196 is not judgment within Cl. 13, Letters Patent (Rang) and is not appealable. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 166 (167): 14 Rang 15 (DB).

[2] An order refusing an application for the inspection and copies of statement of persons examined under S. 196 is appealable. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 246 (246) (DB).

[3] See also Section 202.

3. Sub-section (1).—[1] Notice of an application under the section is not compulsory before the Court can pass an order directing the public examination of the directors. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 87 (87): ILR (1944) Mad 540 (DB).

[2] What should be contents of an application under S. 196 (1) depends on the facts of each particular case. (Vol 20) 1933 All 366 (368): 55 All 496 (DB).

4. Sub-section (3).—[1] Party entitled to conduct examination is entitled to do so with the help of Counsel. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (11).

5. Sub-section (5).—[1] Proceedings under S. 196(5) are meant to ascertain conduct of persons in management of company. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 385 (388): 27 Cr L Jour 1383.

6. Sub-section (7).—[1] Only creditor, contributory or party to the proceedings is entitled to inspection of note of examination. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 246 (246) (DB).

[2] Persons examined under S. 196 are not protected under S. 132, Evidence Act, as in these proceedings there is no contest between two parties. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 385 (388): 27 Cr L Jour 1383.

[3] Use of words "in civil proceedings" is to make the statement admissible unconditionally in civil proceedings and subject to Section 132 Evidence Act in criminal proceedings. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 385 (388): 27 Cr L Jour 1383.

SECTION 199—Note 1.

[1] All orders made by a liquidation Court are enforceable like decrees. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 975 (976): 17 Lah 341. (Call-order by a Baroda Court is not a foreign Judgment and a suit based thereon in British India is governed by Art. 120 of Limitation Act).

[2] A payment order though not a decree is to be executed in the same manner in which a decree can be executed. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 78 (79) (DB).

[3] Executable order under S. 199 is not an order having the force of a decree for the purpose of Sch. II Art. 11, Court Fees Act. There is a distinction between an order "enforceable as a decree" and an order "having the force of a decree." (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 146 (148, 149) (FB).

[4] Decision overruling preliminary objections and proceeding with the case on merits and refusal to grant leave to proceed with a suit in another Court are decisions and not orders coming within the scope of S. 199. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 146 (147) (FB). (Per Blacker, J in order of Reference).

[5] The effect of this section is that a company which holds an order made under Section 186 (1) may resort to any procedure for its enforcement which would be open to it if the order had been a decree made in a suit, with the result that the methods of enforcement provided by section 78, Civil PC., is open to the company. (Vol 32) 1945 PC 60 (61): 20 Luck 162: 72 Ind App 85: ILR (1945) Kar PC 148 (PC). ((Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 237: 15 Luck 332 reserved).

200. Any order made by a Court for or in the course of the winding up of a company shall Order made in any be enforced in any place in British India other than that in which such Court to be enforced by Court is situate, by the Court that would have had jurisdiction in respect of such company if the registered office of the company had been situate at such other place, and in the same manner in all respects as if such order had been made by the Court that is hereby required to enforce the same.

201. Where any order made by one Court is to be enforced by another Court, a certified Mode of dealing with copy of the order so made shall be produced to the proper officer of the orders to be enforced by Court required to enforce the same, and the production of such certified other Courts. copy shall be sufficient evidence of such order having been made; and thereupon the last-mentioned Court shall take the requisite steps in the matter for enforcing the order, in the same manner as if it were the order of the Court enforcing the same.

202. Re-hearings of, and appeals from, any order or decision made or given in the matter

Appeals from orders. of the winding up of a company by the Court may be had in the same manner and subject to the same conditions in and subject to which appeals may be had from any order or decision of the same Court in cases within its ordinary jurisdiction.

Objects and Reasons.

"We have amended clause 203 of the Bill (now section 202) by striking out the last seven lines of that clause, thereby providing that notice of appeal will be governed by the ordinary rules as to notices of appeals to the Court in the exercise of its ordinary jurisdiction."—S. C. R., 1913.

SECTION 200—Note 1.

[1] S. 200 applies where an order made by the High Court of one Province is to be enforced in another Province; it can only be enforced by High Court of that other Province. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 74 (75): 53 Mad 147 (DB).

[2] Where an order for payment in respect of a call is made by the High Court, it is the High Court alone that can take steps to enforce it under this section. A direct application to the District Court concerned does not lie. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 74 (75): 53 Mad 147 (DB). (In this case a direct application was made to District Court of Tanjore) * (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 182 (183): 6 Pat 132 (DB). (Hence a decree of the Allahabad High Court in liquidation proceedings cannot be sent direct for execution to the District Court, Gaya within Patna High Court's jurisdiction).

[3] Where an application is made to the High Court for directing District Courts concerned to enforce the payment orders made by another High Court in the matter of the winding up of a company, the proper procedure is to treat the order as a decree passed by the High Court in which it is filed and transfer for execution to respective District Courts. In such a case the High Court cannot authorise the official liquidator to apply to the District Court concerned under Section 164. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 271 (271, 272).

SECTION 201—Note 1.

[1] An order passed by a Court under the Act can be enforced by another Court on production of a certified copy of the order. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 89 (90): ILR (1942) Kar 504 (DB).

[2] Where an order under the Act by a Court is sought to be enforced in another Court the procedure laid down in S. 39 and O. XXI Rr. 4 and 5 C P C need not be followed. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 89 (90): ILR (1942) Kar 504 (DB).

SECTION 202—Synopsis.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Court-fee.
3. District Court—Order of—Appeal against.
4. Limitation for appeal.
5. Parties to appeal.
6. Orders which are appealable.
7. Orders which are not appealable.
8. Right to appeal.
9. Re-hearing.
10. Review.
11. Revision.
12. Separate suit if barred.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] Where liquidation of a company had begun before the commencement of the Companies Act, 1913, it was held that by virtue of section 284 (as it stood prior to its substitution in 1936) all the proceedings in the winding up including the course of appeal were governed by the old Act of 1882. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 415 (415) * (Vol 5) 1918 All 342 (342) (DB).

[2] S. 202 differentiates between appeal against orders and appeal against decision and S. 199 applies only to order. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 146 (147) (FB).

[3] Appeal from Orders passed in winding up proceedings under supervision of Court is competent like appeal from other orders when winding up is by Court. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 174 (174).

[4] All orders not merely formal or interlocutory but finally deciding disputes or depriving party of substantial rights are appealable. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 707 (710): 10 Lah 806 (FB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (10).

[5] Orders which may be termed ministerial and not subject to appeal under S. 202, may be passed by a Judge when dealing with a company in liquidation. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 82 (84) : ILR (1942) Kar 496 (DB).

2. Court-fee.—[1] Memoranda of appeals under this section are to be stamped under Sch. II Art. 11 Court Fees Act. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 146 (147) (FB).

3. District Court—Order of—Appeal against.—[1] Only one appeal lies against the order or decision of a District Judge made in winding up proceedings. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 39 (39) : 1913 Pun Re No. 34 (DB).

4. Limitation for appeal.—[1] An appeal under S. 202 against an order passed by single Judge of High Court on Original Side is governed by Art. 151, Lim. Act, which is subject to S. 12, Lim. Act. The appellant is entitled to deduct time requisite for obtaining copy of judgment even though under rules and orders of High Court no copy need be filed with memo of appeal. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 257 (258, 259, 260) : ILR (1941) Lah 191 (FB) : ((Vol 8) 1921 Lah 26; 2 Lah 127 overruled).

[2]—Winding up—Order under S. 196 for public examination of directors made on Dec. 3, 1929—On Nov. 5, 1931, directors making protest, when one of them was examined in part—Protest rejected on Dec. 18, 1931—Appeal by directors on Jan. 5, 1932 against order of Dec. 3, 1929, contending time ran only from Dec 18, 1931 : Held, that appeal was barred by time. (1932) Ind Rul (1932) Lah 658 (2).

[3] Carelessness or ignorance of a pleader is not sufficient to extend time fixed by S. 169 of Act of 1882 (S. 202 of Act of 1913). Unless delay is caused either by conduct of the respondent or by mistake of the officials of the appellate Court, time cannot be extended for appeal. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 379 (379).

[4] Delay in filing an appeal due to the appellant's negligence cannot be excused. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 379 (379).

[5] Where there is no marked want of diligence the appellant should be granted an extension of time for appeal. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 346 (348) : 1 Lah 368 (DB).

[6] Order respecting liquidation passed on 6th February—Official Liquidator applying same day for leave to appeal and getting it—Notice to respondent given on 18th February—Appeal filed on 20th May—Liquidator having done all he could to comply with provisions of law held entitled to extension of time. (Vol 8) 1921 All 107 (108) (DB).

[7] In the application of S. 169 of Act of 1882 a certain amount of latitude was allowed because in matters of winding up the previous orders of the Court are not based upon issues which have been formulated as they are in an ordinary suit with pleadings and the time for appealing was very short. (Vol 10) 1923 All 429 (429) (DB).

5. Parties to appeal.—[1] In an appeal against compulsory winding up order the official liquidator is not a necessary party. But it is desirable that as a general rule he should be made a party to such appeals. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 134 (138) : ILR (1941) Lah 680 (DB).

[2] Directors of Company its sole share-holders—Appeal by some of directors against compulsory winding up order—Official Liquidator and company not impleaded—Rest of directors impleaded—Appeal held competent. (Vol. 28) 1941 Lah 134 (137, 138) : ILR (1941) Lah 680 (DB).

6. Orders which are appealable.—[1] Order refusing to wind up a company. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 251 (252) : 39 Bom 47 (DB).

[2] An order granting or revoking a sanction under S. 144 of Act of 1882 (S. 179 of Act of 1913) (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 286 (288) (DB).

[3] Order directing Official Liquidator to prosecute for criminal offence. (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 120 (120).

[6] Order refusing inspection and copies of statements under S. 196. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 246 (246) (DB).

[7] Order depriving creditor of all rights to take advantage of winding up proceedings. (Vol. 14) 1927 Cal 689 (690, 691) (DB).

[8] Order rejecting proxy forms used at a meeting under S. 153 and requiring another meeting to be held. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 96 (96) : 10 Rang 189 (DB).

[9] Order directing public examination of directors. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 87 (87) : ILR 1944 Mad 540 (DB).

[10] An order under S. 153 rejecting a scheme is appealable both under S. 202 of Act and Cl. 13, Letters Patent. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 154 (155) : 10 Rang 438 (DB).

[11] An order refusing to make a supervision order under section 221. (1906) 30 Mad 22 (23) (DB).

[12] Where the Court directed issue of summonses for the examination of the managing agents of a company under S. 195 and the managing agents appealed against the order rejecting their objections to their examination the appeal was held competent even though no appeal was preferred against the order directing issue of summonses for examination of the managing agents. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 8 (10).

7. Orders which are not appealable.—[1] Order of District Judge as liquidation officer dismissing objections to attachment of property. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 282 (282).

[3] Order under S. 181 fixing remuneration of legal adviser. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 82 (83) : ILR (1942) Kar 496 (DB).

[5] Framing of issues by court in petition for winding-up of company under the Act (as it is not an "order" within S. 202). (1912) 16 Ind Cas 794 (795) (Mad) (DB).

[6] Order under S. 247 (6) refusing to restore Company on to register as it is not one given in the winding up of a company. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 443 (444).

[7] Order of High Court Judge under S. 195 directing examination of directors as it is not a judgment within the meaning of Cl 14, Letters Patent (Calcutta). (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 295 (296) : 55 Cal 262 (DB).

Voluntary Winding Up.

Circumstances in which company may be wound up voluntarily.

203. A company may be wound up voluntarily—

- (1) when the period (if any) fixed for the duration of the company by the articles expires, or the event (if any) occurs, on the occurrence of which the articles provide that the company is to be dissolved and the company in general meeting has passed a resolution requiring the company to be wound up voluntarily;
- (2) if the company resolves by special resolution that the company be wound up voluntarily;

[8] Right of appeal under the section is co-extensive with that in O. 21 R. 63 Civil P.C. Therefore where L was ordered to pay certain sum as contributory and in the order which was issued to another Court for execution L was described as proprietor of a firm and on attachment of certain goods S filed objection that he and not L was the proprietor and the execution Court refrained from enquiry it was held that the order of the execution Court was not appealable as it must be taken to be one under O. 21 R. 63, Civil P.C. (Vol 3) 1916 All 341 (341): 38 All 537 (DB).

8. Right of appeal.—[1] The right of appeal conferred by this section extends to all orders and decisions made or given in the matter of the winding up of a company whether the winding up be compulsory, voluntary or under supervision. (1907) 30 Mad 22 (23) (DB).

[2] Right of appeal under S. 202 is available only to a person who can show that he has got an interest which is adversely affected by the decree, or has got an interest in the subject matter of the litigation. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 78 (79): 56 Bom 16 (DB) * (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 78 (79): 56 Bom 16 (DB).

[3] A company not in the course of being wound up, cannot appeal from order under S. 153. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 442 (443) (DB).

[4] A creditor or contributory who was barred from participating in the proceedings because of non-compliance with R. 58 framed under S. 254 of the Act by the Punjab Chief Court and in fact did not participate has no locus standi to appeal. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 180 (181): 1919 Pun Re No. 79 (DB).

[5] When a Company is convicted and not its Managing Director, the appeal against the conviction should be by the Company acting through a properly authorized agent and it cannot be deemed to be properly instituted when the appeal is filed by the Managing Director. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 63 (63): 35 Cr L Jour 492.

[6] Where after winding up order, the majority of contributories declare themselves in a meeting in favour of appealing against the order in company's name the appeal is competent. Contributories may be regarded as the real appellants. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 1 (8): 58 Ind App 416: 55 Mad 180 (PC).

9. Rehearing.—[1] Rehearing of any order made in the matter of winding up of company can only take place before Court of appeal. [2] S. 169 does not bar an application to set aside an ex parte order. (Vol 10) 1923 All 429 (429) (DB).

10. Review.—[1] Company Law does not affect power of review vested in High Court under Civil PC (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 82 (83).

[2] Where on objection to a petition for compulsory winding up of a company, the Court ordered withdrawal of the petition company furnishing security to the satisfaction of the Registrar in Insolvency and the security was accepted by the Registrar it was held that the order could not be reviewed. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 603 (603): 61 Cal 429. (Case under Calcutta High Court Rules and Orders (Original Side.))

[3] A Judge conducting liquidation is not precluded from recalling wrong order and rectifying a mistake. S. 202 is not intended to refer to cases in which a judge upon discovery of fresh matter considers it expedient to pass fresh order in place of an order passed by him. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 255 (255) * (1894) 16 All 53 (57, 58).

11. Revision.—[1] An unappealable order passed by a District Court under the provisions of this Act is open to revision by High Court under section 115, Civil PC. (Vol 22) 1935 All 310 (315): 57 All 810 (DB) (Order under s. 54) * (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 443 (444). (Order under s. 247 (6)).

[See also Notes on S. 3].

12. Separate suit if barred.—[1] A question which has been decided by the liquidating Court cannot be reopened by a regular suit. Appeal is the only remedy. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 45 (47): 1918 Pun Re No. 40 (DB).

[2] Order overruling the objection of contributories that they had ceased to be share-holders before the company went into liquidation, if not appealed against becomes final and operates as res judicata. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 227 (227).

SECTION 208A—Note 1.

[1] Although a director loses most of his powers on his appointment as liquidator, he does not cease to be a director. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 702 (703): 44 Cri L J 503.

[2] A liquidator in voluntary liquidation must not by the resolution appointing him be restricted in the exercise of his statutory duties. Thus where to work out a scheme of amalgamation liquidator was appointed in respect of the transferee Company subject to the supervision of the Directors of the transferor and transferee Company, it was held that such restriction was highly objectionable. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 180 (185): 55 Ind App 274: 52 Bom 571 (PC).

[3] As to notice by liquidator of his appointment see section 214.

SECTION 208B—Note 1.

[1] As to the powers of the Court to appoint and remove a liquidator in a voluntary winding up, see S. 213.

a208 C. (1) Where a company is proposed to be, or is in course of being, wound up altogether voluntarily, and the whole or part of its business or property is proposed to be transferred or sold to another company, whether a company within the meaning of this Act or not (in this section called "the transferee company"), the liquidator of the first-mentioned company (in this section called "the transferor company") may, with the sanction of a special resolution of that company conferring either a general authority on the liquidator or an authority in respect of any particular arrangement, receive, in compensation or part compensation for the transfer or sale, shares, policies, or other like interests in the transferee company, for distribution among the members of the transferor company, or may enter into any other arrangement whereby the members of the transferor company may, in lieu of receiving cash, shares, policies, or other like interests or in addition thereto participate in the profits of or receive any other benefit from the transferee company.

(2) Any sale or arrangement in pursuance of this section shall be binding on the members of the transferor company.

(3) If any member of the transferor company who did not vote in favour of the special resolution expresses his dissent therefrom in writing addressed to the liquidator and left at the registered office of the company within seven days after the passing of the special resolution, he may require the liquidator either to abstain from carrying the resolution into effect or to purchase his interest at a price to be determined by agreement or by arbitration in manner hereafter provided.

(4) If the liquidator elects to purchase the member's interest, the purchase money must be paid before the company is dissolved, and be raised by the liquidator in such manner as may be determined by special resolution.

(5) A special resolution shall not be invalid for the purposes of this section by reason that it is passed before or concurrently with a resolution for voluntary winding up or for appointing liquidators, but if an order is made within a year for winding up the company by or subject to the supervision of the Court, the special resolution shall not be valid unless sanctioned by the Court.

(6) The provisions of the b[Arbitration Act, 1940] other than those restricting the application of the Act in respect of the subject-matter of the arbitration, shall apply to all arbitrations in pursuance of this section.

[a] See legislative remark under S. 207.

a208D. (1) In the event of the winding up continuing for more than one year, the liquidator shall summon a general meeting of the company at the end of the first year from the commencement of the winding up and of each succeeding year, or as soon thereafter as may be convenient within ninety days of the close of the year, and shall lay before the meeting an account of his acts and dealings and of the conduct of the winding up during the preceding year and a statement in the prescribed form containing the prescribed particulars with respect to the position of the liquidation.

SECTION 208C—Note 1.

[1] Every company has a right of amalgamation with another company irrespective of its own constitution but the amalgamation will not bind the transferee company unless its constitution empowers it to effect such an acquisition. (Vol. 15) 1928 P C 180 (184) : 55 Ind App 274 : 52 Bom 571 (P C) * (Vol. 12) 1925 Bom 49 (55) (DB).

[2] Resolution mixing voluntary winding up with other matters relating to the agreement of amalgamation with another company is legal. (Vol. 12) 1925 Bom 49 (56) (DB).

[3] Resolution authorising liquidators to adopt agreement and carry same into effect, is quite legal and that authorization need not be in words of the section. (Vol. 12) 1925 Bom 49 (56, 61) (DB).

[4] The arbitration contemplated in this section is one between the company in liquidation and one or more of its members. It is an arbitration to settle an internal dispute or difference as distinguished from an arbitration under section 162 (3) which is one between a company and either another company or an individual, a third party. (Vol. 27) 1940 Cal 220 (222) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 358 (DB).

[5] Machinery provided by S. 153 is available whether there is or is not a winding up in progress whereas this section is applicable only in view or in course of a winding up. (Vol. 24) 1937 Bom 423 (427).

SECTION 208D—Note 1.

[1] As to the filing of a statement by a liquidator in Court or with registrar if the winding up is not concluded within one year after its commencement, see section 244.

(2) If the liquidator fails to comply with this section, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

208E. (1) As soon as the affairs of the company are fully wound up, the liquidator shall make up an account of the winding up, showing how the winding up has been conducted and the property of the company has been disposed of, and thereupon shall call a general meeting of the company for the purpose of laying before it the account, and giving any explanation thereof.

(2) The meeting shall be called by advertisement specifying the time, place and object thereof, and published one month at least before the meeting in the manner specified in sub-section (1) of section 206 for publication of a notice under that sub-section.

(3) Within one week after the meeting, the liquidator shall send to the registrar a copy of the account, and shall make a return to him of the holding of the meeting and of its date, and if the copy is not sent or the return is not made in accordance with this sub-section the liquidator shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues :

Provided that, if a quorum is not present at the meeting, the liquidator shall, in lieu of the said return, make a return that the meeting was duly summoned and that no quorum was present thereat, and upon such a return being made the provisions of this sub-section as to the making of the return shall be deemed to have been complied with.

(4) The registrar on receiving the account and either of the returns mentioned in sub-section (3) shall forthwith register them and on the expiration of three months from the registration of the return the company shall be deemed to be dissolved :

Provided that the Court may, on the application of the liquidator or of any other person who appears to the Court to be interested, make an order deferring the date at which the dissolution of the company is to take effect for such time as the Court thinks fit.

(5) It shall be the duty of the person on whose application an order of the Court under this section is made, within twenty-one days after the making of the order, to deliver to the registrar a certified copy of the order for registration, and if that person fails so to do he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

[1] An omission to convene the creditors' meeting as provided by sub-section (1) is only an irregularity which can be cured and not an illegality which vitiates the resolution winding up the company. The proper course is to require a meeting of the creditors to be called when that has been omitted but it is not necessary to have a second meeting of the company. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 196 (197, 198) : ILR (1946) Nag 286 (DB).

Provided that the creditors may, if they think fit, resolve that all or any of the persons so appointed by the company ought not to be members of the committee of inspection, and, if the creditors so resolve, the persons mentioned in the resolution shall not, unless the Court otherwise directs, be qualified to act as members of the committee, and on any application to the Court under this provision the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint other persons to act as such members in place of the persons mentioned in the resolution.

209F. The provisions of section 208C shall apply in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up as in the case of a members' voluntary winding up with the modification that the powers of the liquidator under the said section shall not be exercised except with the sanction either of the Court or of the committee of inspection.

209G. 209H. (1) As soon as the affairs of the company are fully wound up, the liquidator shall make up an account of the winding up showing how the winding up has been conducted and the property of the company has been disposed of, and thereupon shall call a general meeting of the company and a meeting of the creditors for the purpose of laying the account before the meetings and giving any explanation thereof.

(2) Each such meeting shall be called by advertisement specifying the time, place and object thereof and published one month at least before the meeting in the manner specified in sub-section (1) of section 206 for the publication of a notice under that sub-section.

(3) Within one week after the date of the meetings, or, if the meetings are not held on the same date, after the date of the later meeting, the liquidator shall send to the registrar a copy of the account, and shall make a return to him of the holding of the meetings and of their dates, and if the copy is not sent or the return is not made in accordance with this sub-section the liquidator shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues :

Provided that, if a quorum (which for the purposes of this section shall be two persons) is not present at either such meeting the liquidator shall, in lieu of such return, make a return that the meeting was duly summoned and that no quorum was present thereat, and upon such a return being made the provisions of this sub-section as to the making of the return shall, in respect of that meeting, be deemed to have been complied with.

(4) The registrar on receiving the account and in respect of each such meeting either of the returns mentioned in sub-section (3) shall forthwith register them, and on the expiration of three months from the registration thereof the company shall be deemed to be dissolved :

Provided that the Court may, on the application of the liquidator or of any other person who appears to the Court to be interested, make an order deferring the date at which the dissolution of the company is to take effect for such time as the Court thinks fit.

(5) It shall be the duty of the person on whose application an order of the Court under this section is made, within ten days after the making of the order, to deliver to the registrar a certified copy of the order for registration, and if that person fails to do so he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

Members' or Creditors' Voluntary Winding Up.

Provisions applicable to every voluntary winding up. 210. The provisions contained in sections 211 to 218, both inclusive, shall apply to every voluntary winding up whether a members' or a Creditors' winding up.

[a] See legislative remark under S. 207.

211. Subject to the provisions of this Act as to preferential payments, the property of a Distribution of property company shall, on its winding up, be applied in satisfaction of its liabilities of company. pari passu and, subject to such application, shall, unless the articles otherwise provide, be distributed among the members according to their rights and interests in the company.

[a] See legislative remark under S. 207.

SECTION 211—Note 1.

[1] The provision that the assets of the Company in voluntary liquidation shall be applied in satisfaction of its liabilities pari passu is intended for the guidance of the private liquidator and does not control the Court's power to entertain applications for execution against the assets of the company to the detriment of other creditors. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 569 (569) : 58 Cal 913 (DB).

[2] A company, though private, is distinct from the persons composing it and the liquidator cannot as a normal course of a liquidation, pay the creditors merely a dividend of their debts, when large surplus assets remain in hand, and then allow the contributories without definition of their interests to take possession for themselves of these surplus assets. (Vol 18) 1931 PC 203 (207) (PC).

[3] Where certain assets including a leasehold interest were distributed among the share-holders, it was held that the so-called "distribution" without the execution of any instrument of assignment did not make the "share-holders" the legal assignees of the original lessees. (Vol 18) 1931 PC 203 (205) (PC).

[4] As regards rent due before date of winding up, lessor is only entitled to rateable distribution along with other creditors—As for rents falling due after that date, he is entitled to have them in full. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 11 (12) : 11 Luck 515 (DB).

[5] This section does not bar execution proceedings against a company gone into voluntary liquidation, unless a competent Court has granted leave for winding up or stay of proceedings. A liquidator, or dissatisfied creditor can move the Court. (Vol 3) 1916 All 174 (174, 175) : 38 All 407 (DB).

Powers and duties of liquidator in voluntary

a212. (I) The liquidator may—

- (a) in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, with the sanction of an extraordinary resolution of the company, and in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, with the sanction of either the Court or the committee of inspection, exercise any of the powers given by clauses (d) (e) (f) and (h) of section 179 to a liquidator in a winding up. The exercise by the liquidator of the powers given by this clause shall be subject to the control of the Court and any creditor or contributory may apply to the Court with respect to any exercise or proposed exercise of any of these powers;
 - (b) without the sanction referred to in clause (a), exercise any of the other powers by this Act given to the liquidator in a winding up by the Court;
 - (c) exercise the power of the Court under this Act of settling a list of contributories, and the list of contributories shall be prima facie evidence of the liability of the persons named therein to be contributories;
 - (d) exercise the power of the Court of making calls;
 - (e) summon general meetings of the company for the purpose of obtaining the sanction of the company by special or extraordinary resolution or for any other purpose he may think fit.
- (2) The liquidator shall pay the debts of the company and shall adjust the rights of the contributories among themselves.
- (3) When several liquidators are appointed, any power given by this Act may be exercised by such one or more of them as may be determined at the time of their appointment, or, in default of such determination, by any number not less than two.

[6] As a mere attachment creates no charge or lien upon the attached property in favour of the attaching creditor, until the property is actually sold, an attaching creditor of a company stands on the same footing as one who has a money claim against judgment-debtor. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 589 (590).

[7] When a company goes into liquidation, though a voluntary one, the remedy of the creditor is only to take what he can take under the scheme of liquidation and nothing more. A creditor who obtains a decree against the company going into liquidation cannot recover the whole amount due under the decree but only a share of the decree in the terms of the scheme of liquidation. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 299 (301).

[8] Decree held by company attached in execution of decree passed against company after its voluntarily going into liquidation—Application by liquidators for removal of attachment should be granted. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 483 (484).

[9] As to costs, charges and expenses properly incurred in the winding up including the remuneration of the liquidator see section 217.

SECTION 212—Note 1.

[1] It is not necessary that the liquidator should be expressly authorised by the company to exercise powers which the Companies Act gives him. Accordingly a suit filed by the voluntary liquidator to recover balance of share money due from a member is not invalid on the ground that no express power to file suits was given to him by the resolution by which certain powers were conferred on him by the company. (Vol 19) 1932 All 342 (343) : 54 All 541 (DB) * (1907) 9 Bom LR 825 (828) (DB).

[2] Share-holder failing to pay for shares allotted can, in the event of company going into liquidation, be placed on the list of contributories and liquidator can make a call upon him for money due to company and Court can enforce the call without requiring the liquidator to have recourse to a suit. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 565 (566, 567) : ILR (1941) Mad 538 (DB).

[3] A share-holder who had been induced to take shares by the fraudulent misrepresentation of directors, cannot repudiate his shares, nor seek to rescind a contract in respect of them, nor can he recover money paid for shares. (1877) 3 C.P.D. 282 (294, 295) (A.C.) (The principles in voluntary winding up and compulsory winding up or winding up subject to supervision by Court are same.)

[4] Before voluntary winding up, directors made calls without giving the person to whom they were to be paid and the place. No notice of the calls was given. After winding up liquidator gave notice to shareholders specifying all particulars. Held the liquidator had power to enforce calls made by directors. (1877) 3 C. P. D. 282 (299) (C. A.) * (Vol 15) 1928 All 165 (166) : 50 All 419.

[5] Liquidator in a voluntary winding up has no right to ask the Court to pass an order compulsorily winding up the Company. (Vol 25) 1938 All 623 (625) : ILR (1938) All 945.

Power of Court to appoint and remove liquidator in voluntary winding up.

^a213. (1) If from any cause whatever there is no liquidator acting, the Court may appoint a liquidator.

(2) The Court may, on cause shown, remove a liquidator and appoint another liquidator.

Notice by liquidator of his appointment.

^a214. (1) The liquidator shall, within twenty-one days after his appointment, deliver to the registrar for registration a notice of his appointment in the form prescribed.

(2) If the liquidator fails to comply with the requirements of this section, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

^a215. (1) Any arrangement entered into between a company about to be, or in the course of being, wound up and its creditors shall, subject to the right of appeal under this section, be binding on the company if sanctioned by an extraordinary resolution, and on the creditors if acceded to by three-fourths in number and value of the creditors.

(2) Any creditor or contributory may, within three weeks from the completion of the arrangement, appeal to the Court against it, and the Court may thereupon, as it thinks just, amend, vary or confirm the arrangement.

Power to apply to Court to have questions determined of powers exercised.

^a216. (1) The liquidator or any contributory or creditor may apply to the Court to determine any question arising in the winding up of a company, or to exercise, as respects the enforcing of calls, staying of proceedings or any other matter, all or any of the powers which the Court might exercise if the company were being wound up by the Court.

(2) The liquidator or any creditor or contributory may apply for an order setting aside any attachment, distress or execution put into force against the estate or effects of the company after the commencement of the winding up.

[1] In company's voluntary winding-up liquidator can be removed by Court on cause shown with reference to interest of liquidation and purpose of his appointment. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 339 (340): 48 Bom 471 (DB).

[2] Court can extend time for making an application for the appointment of a person as joint liquidator in a voluntary winding up, but the Court has no jurisdiction to make an appointment with retrospective effect. When application is made for appointment of a joint liquidator, the Court is not required simply to register by a formal order the recommendation of the creditors as to the person to be appointed as joint liquidator or the Court may or may not act on the resolution of the creditors. The matter is entirely discretionary with the Court. Till an order is made appointing a person to act as joint liquidator such person cannot take upon himself the duties of a joint liquidator and such assumption does not give him any rights whatever. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 809 (812): 53 Cal 106.

SECTION 214—Note 1.

[1] Disputing validity of his own appointment will not save liquidator's liability to penalty for default in giving notice of appointment under the section. (Vol 4) 1917 All 93 (94): 39 All 412: 18 Cr L Jour 510.

[2] Before any proceedings can be taken up against the Directors under this section, it must be shown that the Company was prejudiced by the act complained of. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 383 (384) (DB).

SECTION 215—Note 1.

[1] The provisions of section 215 are mandatory; where they are not complied with, parties cannot seek to enforce the transactions by invoking the doctrine of part performance. Where the original composition deed was modified at a meeting of the debenture holders but it appeared that the resolution was not acceded to by three-fourths in number and value of the creditors, held that the resolution was not binding on the creditors, and that the fact that the original scheme was modified by an application to the Court did not matter. (Vol 18) 1931 All 59 (62) (DB).

SECTION 216—Synopsis.

1. Sub-Section (1).
2. Sub-Section (2).
3. Sub-Section 2 (6).

1. Sub-Sec. (1).—[1] Section 216 is exhaustive of the persons who are entitled to make applications, and the Registrar of Companies has no locus standi to make Such application shall be made—

(a) if the attachment, distress or execution is levied or put into force by a High Court, to such High Court, and

(b) if the attachment, distress or execution is levied or put into force in any other Court, to the Court having jurisdiction to wind up the company.

(3) The Court, if satisfied that the determination of the question or the required exercise of power or the order applied for will be just and beneficial, may accede wholly or partially to the application on such terms and conditions as it thinks fit, or may make such other order on the application as it thinks just.

an application to remove the liquidator. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 25 (26) : ILR (1941) Bom 39.

[2] This section does not indicate that assistance of Court is the only method open to the Voluntary liquidator and that ordinary powers that he may have under the law are taken away from him. Suits for enforcing calls can be instituted by him. (Vol 15) 1923 All 675 (676) : 51 All 406.

[3] The powers of a Court under the section are strictly limited to assistance in winding up. There is no power under the Act for the creditors to come and say that the winding up resolution is bad. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 468 (470).

[4] Voluntary liquidator is entitled to ask the Court, under S. 216 to make any order for public examination of Directors, etc., which the court may make on an application of Official Liquidator under Sec. 196. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 284 (284) : 44 Bom 459 (DB).

[5] In the case of a voluntary liquidation, if the liquidator is confronted with a decree which has to be satisfied out of the assets of the company before distribution of the assets among the creditors, his proper remedy is to approach the Court, for proper direction. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 539 (570) : 58 Cal 913 (DB).

[6] Liquidator can ask Court sitting in insolvency jurisdiction to go behind judgment made against company showing that there ought not to be a judgment, in addition to the grounds of fraud or collusion. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 253 (254) (DB).

[7] Liquidators dissatisfied with Registrar's decision under S. 208-E or creditors and contributors dissatisfied with the conduct of the liquidator can apply to the Court under S. 216 for a proper order. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 500 (501) : 13 Lah 190 (DB).

[8] In a case of compulsory liquidation, the creditor is debarred from proceeding by way of action unless he can show special grounds why he should be permitted to do so. In the case of voluntary liquidation, the onus is on the liquidator to show that an order should be made staying an action brought against the company since prima facie the ordinary tribunal is the proper one to decide upon claim against the company. Proceeding may be stayed when liability is substantially admitted and the dispute is only as to what is the exact amount due. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 344 (345) : 1915 Pun Re No. 31.

[9] An application by liquidator of a company in voluntary liquidation to order a contributory to pay call-money was dismissed by the District Judge. Later on he acted on his own initiative and ordered payment. Held : S. 161 (S. 187 of the present Act) had no application to voluntary winding up and the procedure laid down in S. 177 and 182 (S. 212 and 216 of the present Act) only governed such matters. The District Judge could not act in the absence of an application from the liquidator as required by S. 182 (S. 216). (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 291 (292).

2. Sub-Sec (2).—The mere fact that the company went into voluntary liquidation is in itself no bar to the progress of execution proceedings against the company and the proper course for the voluntary liquidator is to obtain an order for stay from the High Court before the execution sale is completed. Having been unsuccessful in the executing Court and also in appeal the liquidator cannot approach the High Court for a declaration that the auction sale was invalid. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 991 (991) (DB).

[2] Where a Bank has gone into voluntary liquidation and a mortgage decree which it holds has been attached in execution of a decree passed against the Bank after liquidation, the High Court can and ought to order the removal of such attachment. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 483 (484).

[3] Court has wide discretion to prevent execution against a company in voluntary liquidation and the discretion must be exercised according to sound judicial principles. Ordinarily execution is stayed. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 589 (590).

[4] A liquidator may obtain a supervision order to protect him against actions which are threatened and to save the expense of applying for the stay or restraint of proceedings against the company. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 593 (593).

[5] Under this section strictly construed, Court cannot issue an order staying execution against the company. But the general practice is to stay execution when the company is in voluntary liquidation. This section gives the Court the power in voluntary liquidation to stay further proceedings. Such a power does not exist in compulsory liquidation. (Vol 15) 1928 All 265 (266) : 50 All 482.

[6] The voluntary winding-up of a company does not by itself prevent a person who holds a money-decree against the Company from taking out or continuing execution proceedings against it. The invariable practice of the Court is to stay execution proceedings in such a case unless there exist exceptional reasons for exercising its discretion otherwise. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 589 (590) (The mere fact that the decree-holder had attached certain properties of the Company before the Company went into liquidation is not a special circumstance justifying a departure from the ordinary rule.)

3. Sub-sec. 2(b).—[1] Registered office of Company within jurisdiction of District Judge—District Judge has jurisdiction to pass orders in liquidation proceedings—Some of the contributories though residing outside are amenable to the jurisdiction of District Judge. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 862 (863) : 15 Lah 302.

Cost of voluntary winding up.

a217. All costs, charges and expenses properly incurred in the winding up, including the remuneration of the liquidator, shall, subject to the rights of secured creditors, if any, be payable out of the assets of the company in priority to all other claims.

Saving for rights of creditors and contributories.

a218. The winding up of a company shall not bar the right of any creditor or contributory to have it wound up by the Court, but in the case of an application by a contributory, the Court must be satisfied that the rights of the contributories will be prejudiced by a voluntary winding up.]

[1882—S. 189; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 197; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 255]

Power of Court to adopt proceedings of voluntary winding up.

220. Where a company is being wound up voluntarily, and an order is made for winding up by the Court, the Court may, if it thinks fit, by the same or any subsequent order, provide for the adoption of all or any of the proceedings in the voluntary winding up.

Winding up subject to supervision of Court.

221. When a company has by special or extraordinary resolution resolved to wind up voluntarily, the Court may make an order that the voluntary winding up shall continue, but subject to such supervision of the Court, and with such liberty for creditors, contributories or others to apply to the Court, and generally on such terms and conditions as the Court thinks just.

[1] By virtue of section 216, the Court may, under this section read with section 193, in the event of the assets being insufficient to satisfy the liabilities, make an order as to the payment out of the assets of the costs, charges and expenses incurred in the winding up in such order of priority as it thinks just.

[2] Prima facie the whole of the expenses of the winding up ought to be paid before the remuneration of the liquidator. (1934) 103 L J Ch D 187 (192).

[3] Maugham, J.—"Nor do I think the Court ought to be unwilling to declare that the liquidator is entitled to retain the remuneration which he has paid himself out of the assets of the company at a time when he had no reason to suppose that there would be an insufficient amount available for the payment of the costs, charges and expenses incurred in the winding-up." (1934) 103 L J Ch D 187 (192).

[5] A company in liquidation, if it earns profits, is liable to pay income-tax. (Vol 21) 1934 All 170 (172) : 56 All 685 (DB.)

SECTION 218—Note 1.

[1] A creditor is not entitled as of right to ask a Court to convert a voluntary winding up into a compulsory winding up. He must show that he could secure compulsory liquidation, had there been no voluntary liquidation. A creditor who could have asked in the first instance for a compulsory winding up order can always ask that the voluntary winding up should be converted into a compulsory one. (Vol 25) 1938 All 623 (624) : ILR (1938) All 945.

[2] Whether a company should be allowed to go into voluntary liquidation or the Court should wind it compulsorily, depends upon the facts of each case. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 71 (72).

[3] Where partiality was shown by a bank in advancing loans and creditors were desirous of official liquidation, winding up of the Bank by Court was held to be desirable. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 71 (72).

[4] To make liquidation by Court compulsory it must be shown that rights of creditors or contributories are prejudiced by voluntary winding up and it is not enough that allegations are made in application to that effect filed before the company decided to go in voluntary liquidation. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 527 (528) : 6 Lah 340 (DB.)

[5] Rights of creditors or contributories not shown to be prejudiced by voluntary winding-up—Court should not order compulsory winding up even on a petition filed before decision to wind up voluntarily. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 527 (528) : 6 Lah 340 (DB.)

SECTION 221—Note 1.

[1] Winding up order can be set aside on ground of fraud and fraud must be specifically alleged and proved. (Vol 15) 1928 PC 261 (263) (PC.)

[2] A creditor made petition for order for winding up of a company under supervision of Court—Notice as required under rules of the original side of the Madras High Court was issued inviting creditors who wished

222. A petition for the continuance of voluntary winding up subject to the supervision of the Court shall, for the purpose of giving jurisdiction to the Court over suits, be deemed to be a petition for winding up by the Court.

[1882—S. 192; (1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 200; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 257]

223. The Court may, in deciding between a winding up by the Court and a winding up subject to supervision, in the appointment of liquidators, and in all other matters relating the winding up subject to supervision, have regard to the wishes of the creditors or contributories as proved to it by any sufficient evidence.

224. (1) Where an order is made for a winding up subject to supervision, the Court may by the same or any subsequent order appoint any additional liquidator.

(2) A liquidator appointed by the Court under this section shall have the same powers, be subject to the same obligations, and in all respects stand in the same position as if he had been appointed by the company.

(3) The Court may remove any liquidator so appointed by the Court or any liquidator continued under the supervision order, and fill any vacancy occasioned by the removal, or by death or resignation.

225. (1) Where an order is made for a winding up subject to supervision, the liquidator may, without the sanction or intervention of the Court, in the same manner as if the company were being wound up altogether voluntarily.

(2) Except as provided in sub-section (1), and save for the purposes of section 196, any order made by the Court for a winding up subject to the supervision of the Court shall for all purposes, including the staying of suits and other proceedings, be deemed to be an order of the Court for winding up the company by the Court, and shall confer full authority on the Court to make calls or to enforce calls made by the liquidators, and to exercise all other powers which it might have exercised if an order had been made for winding up the company altogether by the Court.

(3) In the construction of the provisions whereby the Court is empowered to direct any act or thing to be done to or in favour of the official liquidator, the expression "official liquidator" shall be deemed to mean the liquidator conducting the winding up subject to the supervision of the Court.

to oppose the petition.—But the creditors supported the petition, and, when petitioning creditor withdrew from proceedings none of the other creditors were willing to undertake the burden of petition which was then dismissed by Court; Held that creditors who supported the petition were not entitled to costs. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 96 (97); ILR (1938) Mad 284 (DB).

[3] Irregularities are not a matter for the Court but for a majority of the company to deal with. The Courts will interfere only if the rights of the shareholders are infringed or if a case of a fraud or ultra vires action is made out. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 102 (103); 47 Bom 915.

[4] A supervision order can be made only where there is valid winding up. Hence where a creditor challenges the voluntary winding up proceedings as being void he cannot apply for a supervision order. (Vol 28) 1936 Pat 468 (471).

[5] An order for voluntary liquidation under supervision of Court passed consequent upon the resolution passed at the extraordinary meeting of the company is not without jurisdiction merely by reason of the fact that the meeting was convened within 14 days of the issue of notice or that the resolution was conditional. It may be a bad order. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 721 (724).

[6] So far as the Court does not interfere, a winding up under supervision remains essentially a voluntary winding up; but the Court in a winding up under supervision has full authority to interfere and to exercise to any extent the power which it might have exercised if an order had been made for winding up the company by the Court. (1881-82) 6 Bom 640 (643).

[7] An order refusing to make a supervision order under this section is appealable under section 202 (1907) 30 Mad 22 (23) (DB).

[1] Orders passed in winding up proceedings under supervision of Courts are appealable, (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 174 (174).

226. Where an order has been made for the winding up of a company subject to supervision, and an order is afterwards made for winding up by the Court, the Court may, by the last-mentioned order or by any subsequent order, appoint the voluntary liquidators or any of them, either provisionally or permanently, and either with or without the addition of any other person, to be official liquidator in the winding up by the Court.

Supplemental Provisions.

227. (1) In the case of voluntary winding up every transfer of shares, except transfers made to or with the sanction of the liquidator, and every alteration in the status of the members of the company made after the commencement of the winding up shall be void.

(2) In the case of a winding up by or subject to the supervision of the Court, every disposition of the property (including actionable claims) of the Company, and every transfer of shares, or alteration in the status of its members, made after the commencement of the winding up shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be void.

SECTION 227—Synopsis.

1. Dispositions of property : What are.
2. Distinction between S. 227 and S. 57, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act.
3. Transfers not ab initio void.
4. "Unless the Court otherwise directs".
5. Rectification of register.

1. Dispositions of property : What are—[1] Where between the commencement of winding up and the date of order of winding up, an insurance company makes payments to some of its policy-holders in respect of their policies, the amount of which had become due, such payments being payments of debts by the company to its creditors, are not only void but cannot be validated as they clearly amount to dispositions of property within the meaning of S. 227 (2). (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 196 (197) : ILR (1939) Kar 460.

[2] Contracts for the purchase of goods are not "dispositions of property" within the meaning of this section. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 1012 (1016) : 54 Mad 324.

[3] A Bank employed a treasurer and the treasurer in turn, employed a cashier. The cashier furnished security on being so required by the treasurer by charging his deposit account in the Bank in favour of the treasurer. When the treasurer's employment came to an end he ceased to employ the cashier. But the cashier was retained by the Bank by making an arrangement which released the deposit amount from the charge of the treasurer and made it his personal property which was ultimately converted into a deposit security account. This transaction took place between the date of the application for winding up the bank and before the passing of the winding up order. Held that the transaction amounted to a "disposition" by the company of its property. (Vol 29) 1942 All 1-1 (143) : ILR (1942) All 86.

2. Distinction between S. 227 and S. 57 Presidency Towns Insolvency Act.—[1] There is a vital difference between S. 57, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act and S. 227, Companies Act; while bona fide payments to creditors by an insolvent are permissible and valid payments to creditors by a company from the commencement of the presentation of a winding up petition become improper alienation and void. For the purposes of S. 227 it is wholly immaterial whether the person making or receiving the payment had notice of the presentation of the petition for winding up whereas it would be essential under S. 57, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act for a person claiming the protection to show that the transaction was without notice of the presentation of any petition. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 196 (198-199) : ILR (1939) Kar 460.

3. Transfers not ab initio void.—[1] The plain reading of the section means that it is within the jurisdiction of the Court at any time after the transfer of the shares to order that the transaction is a good transaction and shall stand. Every transfer of shares, therefore, without previous sanction, is not void. (Vol 21) 1934 All 161 (162).

4. "Unless the Court otherwise directs"—[1] S. 227 (2) is a discretionary section by virtue of the words "unless the Court otherwise directs". That gives the Court discretion at any time to make an order in a proper case validating a disposition, notwithstanding that it is one made after the commencement of the winding up. (Vol 29) 1942 All 141 (143) : ILR (1942) All 86.

[2] S. 227 (2) intends to prevent any improper alienation and disposition of the property of a company during the period which must elapse before a winding up petition can be heard. However any bona fide transaction carried out and completed in the ordinary course of current business can be sanctioned. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 2 (18) : 54 Bom 718 (DB) * (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 1012 (1016) : 54 Mad 324.

[3] After a petition is presented, situation of course of business changes and, it is no longer in ordinary course of business to pay one creditor in full to the detriment of his fellow creditors. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 2 (15) : 54 Bom 718 (DB).

[4] Transactions which a Court would validate under S. 227 (2), are transactions bona fide entered into by a company for its benefit and those interested in its assets for preserving its business and not to the detriment of other creditors. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 196 (199) : ILR (1939) Kar 460.

[5] "Bona fides" of creditors—Knowledge of presentation of the petition is not necessarily conclusive

228. In every winding up (subject in the case of insolvent companies to the application in Debts of all descrip- accordance with the provisions of this Act of the law of insolvency) all tions to be proved. debts payable on a contingency, and all claims against the company, present or future, certain or contingent, shall be admissible to proof against the company a just estimate being made, so far as possible, of the value of such debts or claims as may be subject to any contingency or for some other reason do not bear a certain value.

to show want of bona fides. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 2(19): 54 Bom 718 (DB).

[6] The payments to a creditor on decree after the petition for winding up cannot be held to be valid merely because he could have recovered the money before the date of presentation of the petition. (Vol 27) 1940 All 514 (516): ILR (1940) All 730.

[7] Petitioning creditor cannot utilise his petition to gain pecuniary benefit to himself in interval before winding-up order. (Vol. 18) 1931 Bom 2(9): 54 Bom 718 (DB).

[8] The test for the exercise of such a discretion is whether the Court would have sanctioned the transaction on an application in that behalf. (Vol 29) 1942 All 141 (144): ILR (1942) All 86.

[9] The Court should exercise a judicial discretion in allowing or disallowing disposition of property, and the appellate court can interfere in appropriate cases. Principles which should guide Courts in such cases stated with reference to English Case law. Held on facts that the dispositions were not strictly necessary for carrying on business and should be set aside. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 2 (18): 54 Bom 718 (DB).

[10] In exercising the discretion under S. 227 (2) the Court must have in mind the fundamental principle that the assets of the company shall be, so far as is possible and subject to certain well recognised exceptions, distributed pari passu between the creditors and, subject as aforesaid, no creditor shall obtain an advantage over any other creditor. (Vol 29) 1942 All 141 (143): ILR (1942) All 86 * (Vol 27) 1940 All 514 (515, 516): ILR (1940) All 730.

[11] Petition by some share holders for winding up dismissed—Company subsequently granting lease of a certain property by a resolution at a general meeting—Winding up order made in appeal in the meantime—Lessee in possession and paying rent regularly—Lease should not be declared void, where company had no creditors, and the shareholders had by an unopposed resolution approved of the lease. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 1 (10): 58 Ind App 416; 55 Mad 180 (PC).

[12] A Bank employed a treasurer and the treasurer in turn, employed a cashier. The cashier had Rs. 1000 on his deposit account in the bank and that was charged in favour of the treasurer as security—On termination of the treasurer's employment, the cashier ceased to have his own employment too. But the Bank retained the cashier and an arrangement was made in the accounts of the bank which released the deposit account of the cashier from the charge of the treasurer and made it a personal account before it was ultimately taken to the Deposit security account. This transaction took place between the date of the application for winding up the bank and before the passing of the winding up order.

Held, that this was not fit for the exercise of discretion under this section inasmuch as if the bank had applied to the Court for sanction to employ the cashier upon the terms that it should convert his ordinary unsecured deposit account into a deposit security account, the Court would, knowing the facts, not have given that sanction. (Vol. 29) 1942 All 141 (144): ILR (1942) All 86.

5. Rectification of register.—[1] The Court may exercise the power given by S. 38 to rectify the register after the commencement of voluntary liquidation. And in ordering rectification of the register, the Court has, in a proper case, power to fix a particular date at which the registration shall become operative, even to the extent of making it retrospective, but subject, if necessary, to conditions protecting rights of third persons. (1904) 1 Ch 598 (606, 607)

[1] The expressions "rules—under the law of insolvency" in S. 229, and law of insolvency in S. 228 cannot be widened to include the whole law of insolvency. The expression in S. 228 should be narrowed so as to include only "rules" as given in S. 229. All the provisions of the insolvency law and particularly S. 28(2) are not incorporated into the Company Law. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 57 (60) (DB).

[2] Where a decree is passed after a regular contest against the Company, the official liquidator cannot go behind the decree and reopen the case. (Vol 14) 1927 All 426 (428): 49 All 728.

[3] It is the duty of the liquidators to decide what is properly due from the company to various claimants and they are entitled to go behind decrees which they consider were not properly obtained. (Vol 27) 1940 All 514 (517): ILR (1940) All 730* (Vol. 14) 1927 All 426 (428): 49 All 728. (Where judgment is obtained on the admission of the insolvent the liquidator can ask for proof).

[4] No secured creditor need or can be forced to prove his debt, and can stand wholly outside the liquidation proceedings if he so elects and rely upon his security or decree if he has obtained one provided he has obtained leave to proceed from the winding-up judge. (Vol 16) 1929 All 353 (360): 51 All 695 (FB)

[5] Where by the debenture issued by a Company it bound itself and the successors and its real and personal estate for repayment if seems due and also there was a proviso that the debenture holders were entitled to repayment of the principal and interest pari passu: Held: that they were entitled to prove with other creditors against the general assets with respect to the portion of the debt unsatisfied from out of the security. (1880) 15 Ch. D 465 (472).

[6] As to the valuation of the liabilities of an insurance company, see section 55, Insurance Act, 1938.

229. In the winding up of an insolvent company the same rules shall prevail and be observed

Application of insolvency rules in winding up of insolvent companies.

with regard to the respective rights of secured and unsecured creditors and to debts provable and to the valuation of annuities and future and contingent liabilities as are in force for the time being under the law of insolvency with respect to the estates of persons adjudged insolvent; and all persons who in any such case would be entitled to prove for and receive dividends out of the assets of the company may come in under the winding up, and make such claims against the company as they respectively are entitled to by virtue of this section.

[(1908) 8 Edw. VII, C. 69—S. 207; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—S. 262]

SECTION 229—Synopsis.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Debenture holders—Claim of.
3. Debts—Proof of.
4. Director as creditor.
5. Floating charge.
6. Fraudulent transfer.
7. Interest.
8. Power of winding up Judge to decide question of title.
9. Priority—Crown debts.
10. Priority—Trust money.
11. Secured creditor.
12. Set-off.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] Ordinary bankruptcy rules apply to companies in liquidation. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 346 (348) : 1 Lah 368 (DB) * (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 622 (623) * (Vol 28) 1941 Mad. 18 (19) : ILR (1941) Mad. 328 (DB).

[2] The phrase "Same rulesunder the law of insolvency" in S. 229 includes rules contained in the sections of the Provincial Insolvency Act, rules made under power conferred by that Act and rules of practice, unless the companies Act itself provides for the matter in question or is in conflict with the rule which it is sought to import. (Vol 16) 1929 All 353 (356) : 51 All 695 (FB) * (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 417 (421) : 18 Luck 110 (DB) (Word "rules" in S. 229 should be understood in the sense of provisions, and should not be restricted to "rules made under an Act" (Vol 28) 1936 Pesh 57 (DB). (Not followed).

[But see (Vol 28) 1936 Pesh 57 (60) (DB). (S. 229 does not import all the provisions of the Provincial Insolvency Act into company Law and S. 28(2) of the Provincial Insolvency Act is not so imported.)

[3] Section 229, makes the rules of bankruptcy applicable as far as may be to the winding up of companies. In case of conflict between the companies Act and the Insolvency Act the provisions of the former must prevail. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 351 (352) : 12 Lah 678 (DB).

2. Debenture holders—Claim of.—[1] The debenture-holders are not bound by anything done by the official liquidators, but they have no better claim than the company itself. They have a charge on the assets of the company but what those assets are depends on the right of the company. The debenture-holders can have no greater rights than the company from which their rights are derived. (Vol 27) 1940 All 490 (493) (DB).

3. Debts—Proof of.—[1] The provisions of S. 34 (2) Provincial Insolvency Act apply to all debts including judgment debts and by S. 229 Companies Act that provision is applicable to Insolvent Companies. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 451 (452).

[2] A judgment is always prima facie proof of debt. An official liquidator can go behind the judgment of the Court and look into the consideration for a judgment-debt in case where there had been no real contest between a claimant and the company which goes into liquidation later, or there was an absence of real trial on the merits of the case or there was absence of bona fides or there was a miscarriage of justice. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 451 (452) * (Vol 14) 1927 All 426 (428) : 49 All 728.

[3] The Liquidator in a voluntary winding up, who occupies the same position of a trustee in bankruptcy, is entitled to ask the Court sitting in insolvency jurisdiction to go behind a judgment passed against a company. Fraud need not be shown. It is sufficient if it can be shown that there ought not to have been a judgment. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 253 (254) (DB).

[4] A liquidation court can go behind assessments of income tax though the latter are prima facie evidence that certain income was earned and that an amount of tax is due. The onus, of proving that the assessment does not represent the real taxable income rests on the Liquidator. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 228 (231, 232) : ILR (1943) Lah 706 (SB).

[5] Where the assessment of income tax on a company before its winding up, had been made on an estimated income without the accounts being looked into and the accounts show a loss instead of profits the official Liquidator can question the validity of the assessment debt and call for its proof. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 451 (452).

[6] But in a subsequent case the Oudh Chief Court has held that where a company has been assessed under S. 28(4) of Income-Tax Act, on the basis of the estimated income of the previous year and the order of assessment is not appealed against, the assessment becomes final and cannot be challenged or reopened in liquidation proceedings. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 260 (262) : 16 Luck 599 (DB).

[8] As to debts provable see S. 46, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, 1909, and S. 34 Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920.

4. Director as creditor.—[1] The Courts do not look with favour on agreements between directors for their own advantage, and certainly not on those which would prejudice other creditors in the event of liquidation; Where a director claims by virtue of a promise by a co-director to pay a big sum if anything went wrong with the company, the claim will not be allowed unless the formalities have been observed. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 917 (918).

[2] A contract by which the director of a company lends money to the company and becomes its creditor is in the nature of a contract between a trustee and his Cestui que trust; the trustee by discharging a small portion of the Cestui que trusts' indebtedness puts himself in the position of a secured creditor and prevents it from paying off its creditors equitably. It is not right that the director should have such rights and therefore he will not be allowed to enforce his security as against an innocent purchaser for value in execution of debt due to an unsecured creditor. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 151 (154) : 15 Pat 762 (DB).

5. Floating charge.—[1] S. 52 Presidency Towns Insolvency Act does not apply to floating charges created by company registered under the companies Act before its liquidation in favour of its bank. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 271 (271, 272).

6. Fraudulent transfer.—[1] The unsecured creditors can challenge through the liquidator, who represents them, a transfer of property belonging to the company if the transfer is fraudulent. If the liquidator refuses they may do it themselves with the leave of the Court under S. 54A Provincial Insolvency Act. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 417 (420) : 18 Luck 110 (DB).

7. Interest.—[1] Where a company has been wound-up, the creditors of the company should be allowed interest from the date of the winding up on the outstanding debts before the preferential share-holders can get anything interest of 6 per cent may be allowed ; a rate of 4 per cent is proper. (Vol 21) 1934 All 189 (189, 190) : 56 All 423.

[2] Company in liquidation becomes solvent when it has paid off its liabilities existing at the date of the winding up order ; ordinary bankruptcy rules are applicable to companies in liquidation and when the liabilities existing at the date of the winding up order have been discharged, creditors are entitled to subsequent interests on debts carrying interest. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 346 (348) : 1 Lah 368. (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 334 (335, 336) : 9 Rang 318 (DB).

[3] When a company has been ordered to be wound up interest upon debts carrying interest ceases to run from date of the winding up order, unless the assets are enough to pay all debts in full. Where the estate is insolvent, nothing should be allowed for interest. If there is a surplus account must be taken as between the company and the creditors in the ordinary way by applying each dividend in the first place to the payment of interest due at the date of the dividend and surplus, if any, to the reduction of the principal. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 1012 (1015) : 54 Mad 324.

[4] S. 229 is only applicable to insolvent companies and interest accruing after the commencement of liquidation is not a provable debt under the Act. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 334 (335, 336) : 9 Rang 318 (DB).

8. Power of winding up Judge to decide question of title.—[1] Winding up Judge can adjudicate upon a question of title raised by an unsecured creditor whose claim is disputed by the official liquidator, the question being expressly covered by S. 229. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 417 (420) : 18 Luck 110 (DB).

9. Priority—Crown debts.—[1] Crown cannot claim priority in payment of its claims save that expressly conferred by the Act itself, in particular by S. 230 and S. 232 (2) (Vol 33) 1946 FC 16 (19) FC) * ('37) ILR (1937) 1 Cal 684 (688) * (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 351 (352) : 12 Lah 678 (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 606 (608) (Priority of all Crown debts which prevails in insolvency, under S. 49 Presidency Towns Insolvency Act obtains equally in the winding up of a company by reason of S. 229, and that is not confined to the debts mentioned in S. 230)].

10. Priority—Trust money.—If security deposit made with a company is impressed with trust or held by the company in fiduciary capacity the depositor can get it back from the company's assets in priority over other creditors. His right is not affected because the deposit was not ear-marked by the company but was mixed up with the other funds. Whether the deposit is to be treated as a trust or as a loan depends on the facts and circumstances of each case, or on construction of a written contract, if any. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 105 (106) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 313 (DB).

[2] On the principle that money placed by customer with bank with specific purpose is impressed with trust the deposit by its employee or selling agent with the company for good behaviour or performance of other obligations must be regarded as trust money unless other terms and conditions show it to be a debt. The mere stipulation for interest on the deposit or the fact that the company would be entitled to liquidate its claim from out of it would not establish the relation of debtor and creditor. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 105 (108) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 313 (DB).

[3] Money deposited by an employee with the bank as security for his good behaviour constitutes trust money in the hands of the bank and does not form part of its assets divisible among its creditors. The depositor is entitled to priority over other creditors. The fact that the money deposited was to carry interest does not affect the position. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 337 (345) * (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 126 (127, 128) : 16 Luck 241 (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 651 (652).

[4] Selling agent appointed by company depositing security for fulfilment of his obligations under agreement—Deposit carrying interest and refundable on expiry of agreement—No fiduciary relation held was created—Agent held not entitled to preferential treatment. (Vol 25) 1938 All 574 (576) : ILR (1938) All 596.

[5] Security deposit by selling agent with company due discharge of terms of agreement carrying interest—Money not to be ear-marked but could be used by company for its purposes—No fiduciary relation held created between company and agent—Agent held could not claim preference in respect of deposit. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 311 (314).

[6] Cashier depositing security for appointment in bank—Deposit to carry interest and remain separate from other deposits and to be held by bank as trustee—Fact of use of deposit by bank though known to cashier held could not alter fiduciary relationship—Cashier held entitled to preference. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 221 (222) : ILR (1937) 2 Cal 305.

[7] The fact that the depositor is a trustee and that the money deposited is trust money does not affect the relation which the law creates between a bank and an ordinary customer namely the relation of a debtor and creditor and does not give the depositor a right to preferential payment when the bank goes into liquidation. The legal effect of notice to the bank that money deposited is trust money is only to cast a duty on the bank not to participate in a breach of trust by the trustees. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 178 (179).

[8] Where money is deposited by a company with a bank as a result of the statutory obligation imposed upon the company by S. 232-B (1), the Company is not entitled to rank in the liquidation of the bank in priority to the ordinary creditors. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 48 (48, 49) : ILR 1941 Mad 125 (DB).

[9] Where money was paid to an insurance company for revival of a policy and the company went into liquidation before the policy was revived it was held that no trust had been created and hence no preference could be given in respect of the money paid. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 210 (211).

[10] Company agreeing to hire film to T on deposit of Rs. 1,000-T sending Rs. 250 as earnest money—Company unable to complete contract—Insolvency of Company—T admitted as creditor claiming whole amount—Company having at its credit Rs. 1,100 at winding up order—Company held trustee for T for Rs. 250—T held entitled to whole amount under S. 229 read with S. 52 (1) Insolvency Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 833 (835).

[11] Company having current account with Travancore Bank at Nagarcoil—Bank suspending business on June 20, 1938 and in process of liquidation under Court's order for its compulsory winding up—Company having no account with Bank's Bombay branch—On June 14, 1938, company instructing Bombay branch to collect amount of cheque in its favour on Indian Bank at Bombay and remit proceeds to Bank's Nagarcoil branch to credit of company's account—Bombay branch of Bank collecting amount next day but not remitting it to Nagarcoil—After Bank's liquidation amount remaining with Bombay branch—Bank's position held was of agent holding his principal's money for special purpose—Company held entitled to amount of cheque. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 646 (648) : ILR (1943) Mad 187 (DB).

[12] Provident fund established by a bank for payment to their employees or their legal representatives is in the nature of a trust. Fund does not form part of assets of Bank by combined operation of S. 229 Companies Act and S. 52 Presidency Towns Insolvency Act and cannot be taken into account during administration of assets during liquidation. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 352 (356).

[13] Where the company in liquidation was an agent to another company for sale of its goods and was to pay the sale proceeds in due course and return the goods not sold, the principal company was held to have priority in respect of the price of goods to be received from the agent company. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 271 (271, 272).

[14] Where realisation of assets of a bank subsequent to its liquidation are really only the previously existing assets, present in the bank's strong rooms changed, into different form, the charge in respect of trust moneys deposited with the bank extends also to these subsequent realisations of assets. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 126 (128) : 16 Luck 241 (DB).

11. Secured creditor.—[1] A secured creditor, must confine his claim when he seeks to recover against other property as an unsecured creditor to the principal and interest accrued up to the date of adjudication, or liquidation deducting therefrom the amount realised by the sale of the property. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 20 (21) : 7 Rang 514. (Affirmed in 1930 Rang 47 : 7 Rang 514, (DB).

[2] A secured creditor in the case of a liquidation is on the same footing as in that of insolvency proceedings. The property hypothecated would thus be liable for the whole claim and it is only the liability of the remaining assets that could be affected by the winding up order. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 281 (285) : 3 Lah 59 (DB).

[3] Secured creditor can stand wholly outside the winding up proceedings if he so elects and rely upon his security or his decree, provided he has obtained leave to proceed from the winding up judge. (Vol 16) 1929 All 353 (360) : 51 All 695 (FB).

[4] An attaching creditor is not a secured creditor. An attachment creates no charge in favour of the attaching creditor and confers no right on alienation. The attaching creditor must take pro rata. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 16 (18) * (DB) (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 508 (511) : 21 Pat 287 (DB).

12. Set-off.—[1] Before a set off can be claimed there must be mutuality of debts or creditors or dealings, i.e., the set off is available only between the same parties in the same right as the claim. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 654 (655).

[2] Under O. 8, r. 6 Civil PC it is a condition precedent to a set-off that the money should be "legally recoverable" by the defendant from the plaintiff. But the set-off which the Official Liquidator exercises is not controlled by such condition precedent. The Official Liquidator can appropriate the sum that the depositor owes to the company in satisfaction of what the company owes to the depositor even if the company's claim is time-barred. (Vol 28) 1941 All 278 (279) : ILR (1941) All 415.

[3] A debt, although not presently payable can be set-off against moneys owing to a company in liquidation ; such a set-off is not a fraudulent preference. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 157 (158, 159).

[4] Debtor is entitled to claim set-off in respect of amount due to him from the company. The fact that another person has stood surety for his debt does not deprive him of this right. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 266 (268).

[5] Liability of principal debtor and Surety to company joint and several—Surety himself creditor of Company in separate dealing—Dealings between them are mutual within S. 46 Pro. Insolvency Act—Surety is entitled to set-off. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 266 (268).

[6] A joint debt and a several debt cannot be set-off against each other; but where a debt is joint and several a set-off can be allowed. Where several partners of a firm which has incurred a debt from a bank are sued by the bank, one of the partners can set-off against the claim of the bank the amount due to him from the bank in as much as the liability of partners is joint and several. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 654 (657).

[7] A had a personal account with a Bank on which he had overdrawn. He was also interested in another account in the name of a firm of which he was a partner and which he alone operated. The liquidators of the Bank sued for the amount due under his personal account. He claimed to set-off the amount due to him by the bank under the firm's account on which the bank was indebted.

Held, that S. 229 made the provisions of S. 46 (Provincial Insolvency Act 1920 applicable to the case, that the dealings in question were not "mutual dealings" within the meaning of S. 46 and the set-off claimed could not be allowed. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 228 (230) : 18 Lah 105 (DB).

[8] Where an amount is payable by A in his individual account with a bank and an amount is payable Preferential payments.

230. (1) In a winding up there shall be paid in priority to all other debts—

- (a) all revenue, taxes, cesses and rates, whether payable to the crown or to a local authority, due from the company at the date hereinafter mentioned and having become due and payable within the twelve months next before that date;
- (b) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of service rendered to the company within the two months next before the said date, not exceeding one thousand rupees for each clerk or servant;^a [*].

- (e) all sums due to any employee from a provident fund, a pension fund, a gratuity fund or any other fund for the welfare of the employees maintained by the company; and
- (f) the expenses of any investigation held in pursuance of clause (iv) of section 188 of this Act].

(2) The foregoing debts shall—

- (a) rank equally among themselves and be paid in full, unless the assets are insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportion; and
- (b) so far as the assets of the company available for payment of general creditors are insufficient to meet them, have priority over the claims of holders of debentures under any floating charge created by the company, and be paid accordingly out of any property comprised in or subject to that charge,

(3) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the costs and expenses of the winding up, the foregoing debts shall be discharged forthwith so far as the assets are sufficient to meet them.

SECTION 230—Synopsis.

1. Sub-section (1) (a).
2. Sub-section (1) (b).
3. Sub-section (1) (c).
4. Sub-section (2).
5. Sub-section (3).
6. Sub-section (5).

1. Sub-section (1) (a).—[1] The priority of payments of all crown debts which prevails in insolvency under S. 49, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, obtains equally in the winding up of the company in liquidation by reason of Section 229, Companies Act, and that priority is not confined to the debts mentioned in S. 230. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 606 (609).

[2] In the winding up of a company only those crown debts which are specifically mentioned in S. 230 of the Indian Companies Act have priority. ('37) ILR (1937) 1 Cal 684 (687).

[3] Income-tax not payable until after the winding up order has been made is not a debt for which priority can be claimed. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 228 (229) : ILR (1943) Lah 706 (SB).

(4) In the event of a landlord or other person distraining or having distrained on any goods or effects of the company within three months next before the date of a winding up order, the debts to which priority is given by this section shall be a first charge on the goods or effects so distrained on, or the proceeds of the sale thereof :

Provided that in respect of any money paid under any such charge the landlord or other person shall have the same rights of priority as the person to whom the payment is made.

(5) The date hereinbefore in this section referred to is—

(a) in the case of a company ordered to be wound up compulsorily which had not previously commenced to be wound up voluntarily, the date of the winding up order; and

(b) in any other case, the date of the commencement of the winding up.

[1882—S. 200-A; (1903) 8 Edw. VII. C. 69—S. 209; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V. C. 23—S. 264]

[a] The word "and" was repealed by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXII] of 1936), S. 106. [15-1-1937]

Objects and Reasons.

Amendments made in 1936—Sub-section (1) (d)—"It is equitable that compensation payable under the Workmen's Compensation Act should not be treated as an ordinary debt provable in the winding up but should have priority. This view is taken in England."—S. O. R., 1936.

Sub-section (1) (e).—"We have inserted amongst the items receiving priority in winding up sums due to an employee from a provident fund. This supplements the provision made by section 282 B (2) in the interests of provident fund subscribers."—S. C. R., 1936.

[4] Word "revenue" is not necessarily ejusdem generis with words that follow and means income. (Vol 17) 1930 All 884 (885) : 53 All 92.

[5] Rent of Government telephone lines and also charge for trunk calls is revenue. (Vol 17) 1930 All 884 (888) : 53 All 92.

[6] A claim for moving the telephone lines is for work and labour done and cannot come within the words "Revenue taxes, cesses and rates" in the section. (Vol 17) 1930 All 884 (884, 885) : 53 All 92.

2. Sub-section (1) (b).—[1] Servants of the company who have lost their appointments at the date of the voluntary winding up have a claim in priority to the extent of two months' salary. (Vol 21) 1934 All 114 (114) : 56 All 692.

3. Sub-section (1) (e).—[1] Where the security deposit made with the company by its employee or selling agent is regarded as impressed with a trust, or a deposit can be regarded as being held by the depositary in a fiduciary capacity the depositor would in a competition with the creditors of the company get the whole of his money. Whether the security deposit will be considered as trust money in the hands of the company or as a loan to it would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, and where there is a written contract, the question would have to be decided on a construction of that instrument. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 105 (106) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 313 (DB).

[2] The test of whether amounts deposited by an employee with Company as security for discharge of his obligation is to be held as a trust fund or not is to see whether it was intended that it should remain a segregated fund or whether it should become the property of the Company and be compensated for by the company's covenant to repay it. In the former case only a trust is created. (Vol 29) 1942 All 119 (120, 121) : ILR (1942) All 242 (FB).

[3] On the principle that where money is placed by a customer in the hands of a bank with a specific purpose a trust is impressed, the money deposited by its employee or selling agent with the company as security for good behaviour or for the performance of other obligations must be regarded as trust money in the hands of the employer or the company, unless there are other terms and conditions which would make the relation between them to be that of creditor and debtor. (Vol 80) 1943 Cal 105 (108) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 313 (DB).

[4] A person by agreement was appointed the sole selling agent of a company. He deposited certain sum as security on condition that it would be refunded after expiry of agreement. On expiry of the agreement he ceased to be selling agent and demanded a refund of the security money. Subsequently company was wound up. Held, no trust was created and he was not entitled to preferential payment. (Vol 25) 1938 All 574 (576) : ILR (1938) All 896.

[5] Whether an employee is entitled to be paid out of the provident fund will depend upon the rules of the fund but so far as the applicability of the section is concerned it is enough if he is an employee on the date of winding up. It is immaterial when he entered service. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 352 (354)

[6] When a foreign company is wound up in more jurisdictions than one the Court of each jurisdiction will be governed by the forensic rules which govern the conduct of its own liquidation. S. 230 (1) (e) is a forensic rule. It is applicable in the matter of winding up of foreign bank wound up in British India. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 352 (354).

4. Sub-section (2).—[1] Receiver appointed on behalf of debenture-holder—Debenture secured by fixed as well as floating charge—Priority given to preferential debts (such as wages of workman) applies only to assets subject to floating charge. (Vol 25) 1938 All 609 (611) : ILR (1938) All 869.

[2] Where a company creates a fixed charge by mortgaging its immovable properties and also gives the mortgagee a floating charge over its book debts, S. 230 applies to the floating charge. Consequently, the debts mentioned in S. 230 (1) must be given priority over the floating charge on the book debts. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 586 (587) (DB).

^a[230.A. (1) Where any part of the property of a company which is being wound up consists of land of any tenure burdened with onerous covenants, of shares or stock in companies, of unprofitable contracts or of any other property that is unsaleable, or not readily saleable, by reason of its binding the possessor thereof to the performance of any onerous act, or to the payment of any sum of money, the liquidator of the company, notwithstanding that he had endeavoured to sell or has taken possession of the property, or exercised any act of ownership in relation thereto, may, with the leave of the Court and subject to the provisions of this section, by writing signed by him, at any time within twelve months after the commencement of the winding up or such extended period as may be allowed by the Court, disclaim the property :

Provided that, where any such property has not come to the knowledge of the liquidator within one month after the commencement of the winding up, the power under this section of disclaiming the property may be exercised at any time within twelve months after he has become aware thereof or such extended period as may be allowed by the Court.

(2) The disclaimer shall operate to determine, as from the date of disclaimer, the rights, interests, and liabilities of the company, and the property of the company, in or in respect of the property disclaimed, but shall not, except so far as is necessary for the purpose of releasing the company and the property of the company from liability, affect the rights or liabilities of any other person.

(3) The Court, before or on granting leave to disclaim, may require such notices to be given to persons interested, and impose such terms as a condition of granting leave, and make such other order in the matter as the Court thinks just.

(4) The liquidator shall not be entitled to disclaim any property under this section in any case where an application in writing has been made to him by any persons interested in the property requiring him to decide whether he will or will not disclaim, and the liquidator has not, within a period of twenty-eight days after the receipt of the application or such further period as may be allowed by the Court, given notice to the applicant that he intends to apply to the Court for leave to disclaim, and in the case of a contract, if the liquidator, after such an application as aforesaid, does not within the said period or further period disclaim the contract, the company shall be deemed to have adopted it.

[3] Action by holders of debentures issued by company under security of fixed and floating charge over its assets—Receiver appointed by Court acting under Court's order and obtaining loan to pay off arrears of wages of employees—Lender held entitled to charge in priority to debenture-holders. (Vol 32) 1945 PC 121 (123) : ILR (1945) All 597 : 72 Ind App. 133 (PC). (Vol 25) 1938 All 609 : ILR (1938) All 869 reversed).

[4] As to the payment of certain debts out of assets subject to floating charge, in priority to claims under the charge, See S. 129.

5. Sub-section (3).—[1] A successful litigant against a company in liquidation is entitled to be paid his costs in full in priority over other ordinary creditors. Where other creditors are in the same position, they rank pari passu as regards fund available for the discharge of their debts. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 10 (11) : ILR (1942) Lah 742 (DB).

6. Sub-Section (5).—[1] Date of commencement of winding up, in the case of a compulsory winding up preceded by voluntary winding up, is the date on which the resolution for voluntary winding up was passed. (Vol 21) 1934 All 114 (114) : 56 All 692.

[2] Where on 8-10-1878 winding up petition was presented followed by the appointment of a provisional liquidator on the following day and on 18-10-1878 a resolution for voluntary winding up was passed and it continued under the supervision of the Court; it was held that the winding up started on the same date on which liquidator was appointed. (1880) 15 Ch D 465 (472).

[1] A customer of a bank putting in an application under section 230A, after an order for the compulsory winding up of the bank is passed, for rescinding a contract between him and the bank and praying for damages is entitled to have his application heard. If the Court then comes to the conclusion that the contract has already been rescinded it would have no power to pass an order on the application and the applicant would have to be relegated to the ordinary procedure provided by the Act for proving any debt in the winding up. The applicant cannot be relegated to the procedure of filing a suit unless he is heard. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 18 (19) : ILR (1941) Mad 328 (DB).

[2] The creditor of a company in liquidation was asked to prove his claim by a suit which he failed to do within time. The Court refused to grant any further extension. The creditor relying on S. 230A applied again to the court to have his claim inquired into and adjudicated in liquidation proceedings. It was held that if the creditor had at the beginning insisted on adjudicating his claim without recourse to the suit, his case would have fallen within S. 230A. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 355 (355) (DB).

(5) The Court may, on the application of any person who is, as against the liquidator, entitled to the benefit or subject to the burden of a contract made with the company; make an order rescinding the contract on such terms as to payment by or to either party of damages for the non-performance of the contract, or otherwise as the Court thinks just, and any damages payable under the order to any such person may be proved by him as a debt in the winding up.

(6) The Court may, on an application by any person who either claims any interest in any disclaimed property or is under any liability not discharged by this Act in respect of any disclaimed property and on hearing any such persons as it thinks fit, make an order for the vesting of the property in or the delivery of the property to any persons entitled thereto, or to whom it may seem just that the property should be delivered by way of compensation for such liability as aforesaid, or a trustee for him, and on such terms as the Court thinks just, and on any such vesting order being made, the property comprised therein shall vest accordingly in the person therein named in that behalf without any conveyance or assignment for the purpose;

Provided that, where the property disclaimed is of a leasehold nature, the Court shall not make a vesting order in favour of any person claiming under the company whether as under-lessee or as mortgagee except upon the terms of making that person—

- (a) subject to the same liabilities and obligations as those to which the company was subject under the lease in respect of the property at the commencement of the winding up; or
- (b) if the Court thinks fit, subject only to the same liabilities and obligations as if the lease had been assigned to that person at that date; and in either event (if the case so requires) as if the lease had comprised only the property comprised in the vesting order, and any mortgagee or under-lessee declining to accept a vesting order upon such terms shall be excluded from all interest in and security upon the property, and, if there is no person claiming under the company who is willing to accept an order upon such terms, the Court shall have power to vest the estate and interest of the company in the property in any person liable, either personally or in a representative character, and either alone or jointly with the company, to perform the lessee's covenants in the lease, freed and discharged from all estates, incumbrances and interests created therein by the company.

(7) Any person injured by the operation of a disclaimer under this section shall be deemed to be a creditor of the company to the amount of the injury, and may accordingly prove the amount as a debt in the winding up.]

[a] Inserted by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXII] of 1936), S. 107. [15-1-1937].

231. (1) Any transfer, delivery of goods, payment, execution or other act relating to property Fraudulent prefer- which would, if made or done by or against an individual, be deemed in ence. his insolvency a fraudulent preference, shall, if made or done by or against a company, be deemed, in the event of its being wound up, a fraudulent preference of its creditors, and be invalid accordingly.

SECTION 231—Note 1.

[1] In order to ascertain whether there has been fraudulent preference the act complained of must be done by volition. The preference should be voluntary and not brought on by pressure. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 809 (810) (DB).

[2] Where the proper inference to draw from the facts is that the dominant motive actuating the debtor, is that in making the transfer to his creditor, he (the debtor) is doing what he felt himself bound or compelled to do, the case is not of fraudulent preference. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 809 (810, 811) (DB).

[3] The fact that two of the creditors at least were left unpaid while the rest were satisfied is sufficient to justify finding that there was an intent to prefer. (Vol 20) 1943 Mad 54 (55); ILR (1944) Mad 853 (DB).

[4] A debt although not presently payable can be set off against moneys owing to a company in liquidation; such a set-off is not fraudulent preference. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 157 (158, 159).

[5] Contract of purchase entered into by company between presentation of winding up petition and winding up order will be confirmed if goods were purchased in ordinary course of business and delivery taken and a claim for the price of goods should be allowed by the Court. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 1012 (1016): 54 Mad 324.

[6] Per Niamatullah, J.—A winding up Court, unlike an insolvency Court, cannot take cognisance of an adjudication the title of third persons except to the limited extent mentioned in Ss. 231 and 232. (Vol 16) 1929 All 353 (362): 51 All 695 (FB). To impeach such title, the liquidators must have recourse to regular suits in ordinary civil Courts.

(2) For the purposes of this section the presentation of a petition for winding up in the case of a winding up by or subject to supervision of the Court, and a resolution for winding up in the case of a voluntary winding up, shall be deemed to correspond with the act of insolvency in the case of an individual.

(3) Any transfer or assignment by a company of all its property to trustees for the benefit of all its creditors shall be void.

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1936—The section as it stood had been construed [See (Vol 8) 1921 All 149 : 43 All 433] as not covering sales held after the winding up. The amendment to the section made in 1936 is designed to forbid such sale.—See S.O.R., 1936, Cl., 85.

233. Where a company is being wound up a floating charge on the under-taking or property Effect of floating of the company created within three months of the commencement of the charge. winding up shall, unless it is proved that the company immediately after the creation of the charge was solvent, be invalid except to the amount of any cash paid to the company at the time of, or subsequently to the creation of, and in consideration for, the charge, together with interest on that amount at the rate of five per cent, per annum.

235. (1) Where, in the course of winding up a company, it appears that any person who has taken part in the formation or promotion of the company, or any past or present director, manager or liquidator, or any officer of the company has misapplied or retained or become liable or accountable for any money or property of the company, or been guilty of any misfeasance or breach of trust in relation to the company, the Court may, on the application of the liquidator, or of any creditor or contributory ^a[made within three years from the date of the first appointment of a liquidator in the winding up or of the misapplication, retainer, misfeasance or breach of trust, as the case may be, whichever is

[1] Though the creditors referred to in S. 230 are persons entitled to priority under statute and as of right, the Court has under S. 234 a discretion to order payment in full to any class of creditors other than those referred to in S. 230 (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 338 (340) : 12 Luck 233 (DB).

[2] Sanction by extraordinary resolution as under S. 234 is necessary in order that a compromise between a liquidator of a company and a contributory should bind the liquidator. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 148 (149) : 4 Lah 239 (DB) * (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 85 (86).

[3] The liquidator must show that the compromise will be beneficial to the company. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 497 (497) : ILR (1939) Lah 324.

[4] The Court cannot compel an unwilling liquidator to compromise a debt due to the Company. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 497 (497) : ILR (1939) Lah 324.

[5] An official liquidator is not allowed to refer matters in difference to private arbitration under S. 234 (Vol 15) 1928 All 553 (553) : 50 All 867.

[6] High Court should be very slow to interfere under S. 234 with the exercise of discretion by the lower court unless it is satisfied that the discretion was unreasonably exercised. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 338 (340) : 12 Luck 233 (DB).

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] This section is, as amended in 1936, a section of procedure containing a rule of limitation which together with the rule of limitation contained in the old unamended section is adjective and not substantive law and has, therefore, a retrospective operation. (Vol 33) 1946 All 269 (274) (DB).

[2] S. 235 is a procedure section only and creates no new or additional liability but provides a summary mode of enforcing existing rights. (Vol 17) 1930

(2) This section shall apply notwithstanding that the offence is one for which the offender may be criminally responsible.

[a] Inserted by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22-XXII) of 1936), S. 109. [15-1-1937].

[b] Sub-section (3) was repealed, ibid.

Objects and Reasons.

Amendments made in 1936—Sub-section (3) of the section as it stood by applying to an application under the section the limitation imposed on a suit allowed delinquent directors in many cases to evade their civil liabilities. The amendment made to the section in 1936 allows three years for the making of an application dating from the first appointment of a liquidator.—See S.O.R., 1936, Cl. 86.

Bom 572 (591) : 54 Bom 226 (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 433 (434) : 8 Lah 167 (DB) * (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 58 (60) (DB).

[3] The application contemplated in S. 235 is one filed really on behalf of the company and not in exercise of any new right conferred upon the liquidator. (Vol 20) 1933 All 789 (803) : 55 All 912 (FB).

[4] This section contemplates a loss to the company before an order for the delivery of the property of the company can be passed under the section. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 53 (54) : ILR (1941) Mad 120 (DB) * (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 383 (385) (DB) (Prejudice to the interest of the company by the acts of directors must be shown before taking any proceeding against directors).

[5] Orders passed under S. 235 do not bar suit against third party. (Vol 22) 1935 All 995 (999) : 53 All 342 (DB).

[6] The barring of an application under this section does not debar the liquidator from seeking the remedy by a regular suit. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 624 (626) : 8 Lah 549.

[7] Petition under S. 285 neither accompanied by affidavit nor a statement that information contained therein had been derived from sworn evidence as required by R. 77 of the Lahore High Court—Held that the rule did not require the affidavit to be filed along with the petition or that it should not be received at a later date and hence the defect was held not to vitiate the proceedings. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 658 (669, 670) (DB.) (Per Young C. J. and Tekchand J.)

[8] A petition by liquidator under S. 235 is not bad because he does not state specific amount claimed. But he must however bring all facts on which the claim is based to the notice of court. The amount of compensation is to be assessed not by the liquidator but by the Court. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 658 (664, 665) (DB) (Per Munroe, J.)

[9] An application under S. 235 is governed by the express provision provided for by the Companies Act, and the rules thereunder, for its contents and formalities. Civil PC is inapplicable though it is in the nature of a plaint. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 658 (663) (DB) (Per Munroe, J.)

[10] Court can deliver property to the liquidator if company is prima facie entitled to it though its title is not admitted. The final decision as to title may be made subsequently under S. 186 or S. 235. (Vol 23 1936 Lah 408 (409) (DB).

[11] Where a petition under S. 235 does not state particulars on which claim is based or sums sought to be recovered from the persons against whom the petition is presented and is not supported by affidavit, the absence of these does not render the proceedings defective. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 658 (669, 670) (DB).

[12] Summary procedure contained in this section is inapplicable to every claim which the company has against its officers and the same can be resorted to only when such are in the nature of misfeasance or breach of trust in the performance of their duties. (1928) Ch 861 (871, 872).

2. Director, manager, etc.—Liability of.—[1] Directors must treat company's work as his own. He is not liable for error of judgment or unavoidable absence or imprudence not amounting to gross negligence. A director (a) must act honestly (b) must exercise such degree of skill and diligence as would amount to the reasonable care, which 'an ordinary man might take on his own behalf; (c) he ought to attend meetings when reasonably able to do so; and (e) he is in the absence of grounds for suspicion justified in trusting other Officials properly empowered to perform duties honestly. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 153 (156).

[2] Directors of a company acting within their powers and with reasonable care and honesty in the interest of the company, are not personally liable for losses the company may suffer by reason of their mistakes or errors in judgment. Hence where the act, in itself imprudent, is one which is authorised, they cannot be held responsible for the consequence. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 153 (156).

[3] Directors of a company cannot be held personally liable on the ground that they have trusted the regularly authorised officers of the company and that they have failed to detect, and been misled by misrepresentation or concealment by such officers, if there was no reason for doubting their fidelity. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 243 (244) : 1 Luck 334. (DB).

[4] Where a director accepts fixed deposit receipts from the bank in view of the claim against a person who is allowed overdraft, and subsequently cashes it, then he is liable to refund the amount realised. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 153 (156).

[5] Managing director allowing overdraft with motives of personal gain is liable to compensate the bank. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 153 (157).

[6] Directors party to fraud in floating company—Wilful contravention of S. 101 and guilty of misfeasance—Directors must discharge every creditor and return the money of the shareholders. (Vol 21) 1934 All 855 (863, 864) (DB).

[7] Where the directors permitted the company to commence business in spite of their knowledge that permission to do so had been obtained owing to false declaration and that the directors had not paid what was due in respect of their respective shares and consequently the company suffered loss, the directors were held liable to make repayment. The directors must be deemed to know the law. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 124 (128) : ILR (1938) Mad 292 (DB)

[8] Directors wilfully shutting their eyes to the acts of agents or managing agents and recklessly sanctioning acts of such agents consciously, thereby aiding misfeasance, misappropriation and falsification of balance sheets are guilty of wilful conduct and are liable to pay compensation if that state of affairs continues over a series of years. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 572 (585) : 54 Bom 226 (DB).

[9] A director is not a trustee of the loans advanced by a company before his acceptance of office as such. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 132 (134) : 1915 Pun Re. No. 60.

[10] The directors are in a limited manner trustees. Their liabilities are governed by the Articles of Association and the written constitution of the company. The liability under S. 235 thus arises out of a contract which is partly in writing and partly not so. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 293 (301).

[11] Although the position of directors differs from that of trustees in some respects yet to the extent of their being entrusted with the moneys of the company they are trustees and are jointly and severally liable for breach of trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 293 (299).

[12] A Managing Director occupies the position of a trustee for the company and he is bound to exercise his powers only for the benefit of the company. If he takes a mortgage in his name with a part of company's amount representing that the entirety of the moneys advanced on the mortgage were moneys belonging to himself, he is guilty of breach of trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 852 (855)

[13] Ex-director sought to be made liable on ground of not disclosing his indebtedness to company—Loss or damage must be proved to have resulted from non-disclosure. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 132 (134) : 1915 Pun Re. No. 60.

[14] The section applies to the conduct of director as such, and any thing done by him during the period of his directorship in his capacity as a debtor cannot be made a ground of liability under the section. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 132 (133) : 1915 Pun Re No. 60.

[15] The section cannot be applied for enforcing sums due under contracts between the company and other persons, whether they happen to be directors or not. Therefore arrears of rent due by a director under a contract of tenancy entered into in his private capacity is not recoverable under this section. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 194 (195) : 5 Lah 461 (DB).

[16] Where Managing Director of a Bank induces shareholders to pay dividend partly out of what was really capital, he 'misapplied' the company's money and is guilty of misfeasance and breach of trust and he could be compelled by court to contribute a reasonable sum by way of compensation. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 471 (474) : 16 Cri L Jour 473 : 1915 Pun Re No. 28 (Cr) (DB).

[17] Where auditor was appointed at a general meeting of share-holders without proper quorum, it is a mere irregularity and does not vitiate appointment : so they are not only de facto but also de jure auditors and are liable for misfeasance. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 138 (139) : 8 Low Bur Rul 80 (DB).

[18] Directors applying assets to other than defined objects are responsible as for breach of trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 293 (299).

[19] The directors are liable to replace the moneys of the Company which they had misapplied by applying them to a purpose which is ultra vires. (1894) 18 Bom 119 (129) (DB).

[20] Unauthorised use of money by directors and managing agents does not by itself render them liable to make good the loss. Loss to company and use of money have to be connected as cause and effect. (1934) 3 All W. R. 222 (237) (DB).

[21] As to the power of the Court where the amount of the life insurance fund has been wrongfully diminished in contravention of the provisions of Insurance Act to proceed against every person who was at the time of the contravention a director manager, liquidator or an officer of the insurance company, see section 106, Insurance Act, 1938.

[22] As to the power of the Court to grant relief in certain cases to directors, see S. 281.

3. Legal representative—Liability of.—[1] Where a liquidator dies pending proceeding under S. 235 for alleged misfeasances, his personal representatives cannot be made liable. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 193 (194) : ILR (1944) Bom 284 (DB).

[2] Proceedings contemplated in section 235 are intended to apply only to the director and not to his legal representatives. The right to bring summary proceedings under section 235 does not survive as against the personal representatives or heirs of a deceased director. In proper cases, however, there is nothing to prevent the liquidator from instituting a regular suit against the legal representatives or heirs of a deceased director. (Vol 26) 1939 All 1 (4) : ILR (1939) All 6.

[3] Action can be taken against representative of promoter or director only if he comes within the definition of promoter or director. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 624 (626) : 8 Lah 549.

[4] On the death of a director pending the proceedings started against him under this section, the proceedings cannot be continued against his heirs (1946) 1 Mad L Jour 53 (53).

4. Jurisdiction.—[1] In an application relating to misfeasance of the directors of a company, the High Court of the Province wherein the registered office of the company is situate has got jurisdiction over the directors of the company who, at the time when the application is made, were residing outside the Province in India. But the High Court has no jurisdiction over the director residing in foreign countries. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 196 (198, 199) : 15 Pat 630,

Section 235 (contd.)

[2] Where an official liquidator makes an application under S. 235 and he is ordered to state particulars of charge as against each of such persons and to make an affidavit, but instead of complying with the order the official liquidator institutes a criminal complaint under Penal Code, his conduct is a clear attempt to divest the Court of its jurisdiction. High Court cannot permit such an attempt to succeed. (Vol. 15) 1928 Oudh 104 (107) : 29 Cri L Jour 102 : 3 Luck 287.

5. Joint-trial.—[1] Where in a proceeding under S. 235 against certain persons, matters alleged against some of them differed entirely from those alleged against others, it was held that there could not be a joint trial of the claims against all. (Vol. 25) 1938 Lah 658 (671) (DB).

6. Limitation.—[1] Under Sub-section (3) of this section which made the Limitation Act, applicable to applications under this section, there was conflict of decisions whether applications under this section were governed by Act 36, 115, 116, or 120 Limitation Act. This has been removed by the Amendment Act 1936 which omits Sub-S. (3) of this section and provides in sub-S. (1) a special period of limitation of three years, from the date of the appointment of a liquidator or of misapplication, retainer, misfeasance or breach of Trust whichever is longer. The cases under old sub S. (3) having now become obsolete have been omitted.

[2] When in an application under S. 235 to High Court, the names of certain persons are added subsequently but documents relating to them fulfilling the requirements of rule under S. 235 are not filed at that time but later on, the date of the application against the added defendants is the date on which the documents are filed. (Vol. 25) 1938 Lah 658 (665) (DB).

[3] The official liquidators of a company are entitled to have the conduct of any promoter, director, manager or officer of the company examined under this section and to claim compensation for the wrongful act of any such person, discovered and proved as a result of such inquiry, notwithstanding that a cause of action on the act would, in a suit by the company itself, have been barred by the law of limitation in force prior to the coming into operation of the amendment, provided that the express provision as to limitation of the amended sub-section (1) are themselves observed. (Vol. 33) 1946 All 269 (276) (DB).

[4] The three persons enumerated in S. 235 are not representatives of company. Consequently if a suit by the company be time-barred, it does not necessarily follow that a suit by the official liquidator or a creditor or a contributory is necessarily time-barred. ('84) 3 All W. R. 222 (227, 229) (DB).

[5] On the true construction of the amended sub-section (1), the only period of limitation to be applied in cases governed by the amended section is that contained in sub-section, itself. That of course does not mean that the section has ceased to be a discretionary section. And it may be in a proper case, the Court might still view lapse of time as a sufficient reason for refusing to exercise its jurisdiction in the liquidator's favour. (Vol. 33) 1946 All 269 (272) (DB).

7. Misfeasance.—[1] The section does not exclude non-feasance and would apply to every act of commission or omission resulting in loss to the company. Hence where a director not only did not exercise care in ascertaining the true state of affairs of the company but also wilfully shut his eyes to it until a very late stage it was held that he was guilty of gross negligence which would amount to misfeasance. (Vol. 29) 1942 Mad 365 (367) (DB).

[2] Distribution of dividends out of capital and other funds not being profits amounts to misapplication of funds. (Vol. 12) 1925 All 519 (520) : 47 All 669 (DB).

[3] Becoming a director by accepting a gift of shares without paying for them is misfeasance. (Vol. 29) 1942 Mad 365 (367) (DB).

[4] A misfeasance proceeding is merely an examination by the Court into the conduct of an officer of the company, though as a result of that examination the Court may order the officer to restore the money or the property of the company as the Court may think just. Security for costs cannot be asked of the official liquidator. (Vol. 20) 1933 All 205 (206) : 55 All 250.

[5] Giving advance by directors on a promise to execute a mortgage instead of the mortgage itself is no misfeasance. (Vol. 13) 1926 Oudh 153 (156).

[6] A person who had signed the prospectus resigned before the declaration under S. 103 was sent to the Registrar. Held that the person could not be said to be guilty of any misfeasance by reason of which any pecuniary loss was sustained by company by virtue of payments made after his resignation. (Vol. 29) 1942 Mad 365 (367) (DB).

[7] Act, or omission to do an act, is wilful, where the person who acts, or omits to act, knows that he is doing and intends to do, what he is doing; but if that act or omission amounts to a breach of that person's duty, and therefore to negligence, he is not guilty of wilful neglect or default unless he knows that he is committing and intends to commit, a breach of his duty, or is recklessly careless in the sense of not caring whether his act or omission is or is not a breach of his duty. (Vol. 13) 1926 Oudh 243 (245) : 1 Luck 334 (DB).

[8] Misfeasance under S. 235 is not independent of contract inasmuch as the relation between a director and the company is based on contract. (Vol. 20) 1933 Sind 103 (107).

[9] Allotment of shares made without the application and allotment money not being paid is illegal. And directors who make such allotment are guilty of misfeasance. (Vol. 21) 1934 All 855 (862) (DB).

[13] A director who is a party to a calculated and deliberate fraud in the flotation of the company and in the conduct of its business is guilty of misfeasance. (Vol. 21) 1934 All 855 (863) (DB).

8. Onus.—[1] The onus is on the applicant to prove the facts which bring the case within the section. (Vol. 2) 1915 Lah 132 (134) : 1915 Pun Re No. 60.

9. Petition—Amendment of.—[1] An order allowing an amendment of a petition under S. 235 entirely altering its character after a period of two and a half years, is highly unjudicial. (Vol. 16) 1929 Lah 710 (711) (DB).

10. Promoters, auditors and share-brokers.—[1] For the purpose of this section an auditor is an officer; see section 2 (1) (11.)

[2] Auditor doing the work of audit under an appointment as such by the company cannot be heard to say that his appointment was invalid and improper. (1913) 13 Mad L Tim 282 (288, 289) (DB).

[3] The share-broker of a company is not an officer for the purpose of S. 235. Hence, when moneys had been wrongly paid to him the official liquidator is not entitled to use S. 235 for recovering them. (Vol. 25) 1938 Mad 154 (156, 157) : ILR (1938) Mad 192 (DB).

236. If any director, manager, officer or contributory of any company being wound up des-Penalty for falsification troys, mutilates, alters or falsifies or fraudulently secretes any books, of books, papers or securities, or makes or is privy to the making of any false or fraudulent entry in any register book of account or document belonging to the company with intent to defraud or deceive any person, he shall be liable to imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

[1882—S. 215; (1908) 8 Edw. VII C. 69—S. 216; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo V. C. 23—S. 272.]

^a[237. (1) If it appears to the Court in the course of a winding up by, or subject to th^e
 Prosecution of delinqu- supervision of, the Court that any past or present director, manager o^r ent directors. other officer, or any member, of the company has been guilty of any offence^e in relation to the company for which he is criminally liable, the Court may, either on the application of any person interested in the winding up or of its own motion, direct the liquidator either himself to prosecute the offender or to refer the matter to the registrar.

(2) If it appears to the liquidator in the course of a voluntary winding up that any past or present director, manager or other officer, or any member of the company has been guilty of any offence in relation to the company for which he is criminally liable, he shall forthwith report the matter to the registrar and shall furnish to him such information and give to him such access to and facilities for inspecting and taking copies of any documents, being information or documents in the possession or under the control of the liquidator relating to the matter in question, as he may require.

Section 235 (contd.)

[4] Where a person did not take any steps to bring company into being, but thereby signed memorandum of association and subscribed for certain shares, the fact that money so subscribed had been utilised in paying part of expenses of formation does not make him a promoter. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 154 (156) : ILR (1938)
 Mad 192 (DB).

11. Right to appeal.—High Court passing order holding application under S. 235, by liquidator to be maintainable—Order is appealable under S. 202 and the aggrieved party is entitled to appeal to a division bench under Cl 10 Letters Patent. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 658
 (669) (DB).

12. Right to costs.—[1] Unsuccessful appeal by directors in winding up proceeding of the company—No order as to costs—Directors can claim reasonable costs bona fide incurred for company and are not to that extent bound to make up company's amount in their hands. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 139 (140) : 7 Rang 34
 (DB).

14. Res judicata.—[1] On a company being wound up the remedy against a delinquent director whether for negligence, fraud or misfeasance is under S. 235, Companies Act. Once such proceedings are taken up, no subsequent action can lie against him on the principle of res judicata for compensation for his delinquency (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 577 (578, 579) (DB).

SECTION 236—Note 1.

[1] The liquidator of the company which had gone into voluntary liquidation, who was prosecuted under S. 236, was also a contributory. It was argued that though the accused was once a director, he ceased to be so when once liquidation proceedings had begun—Held, that the liquidator was an officer of the company and that whether as director, officer or contributory S. 236 applied. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 702 (703) : 44 Cr L Jour 508.

[2] Where there is nothing in the special Act to exclude the operation of the general criminal law, it cannot be inferred that there was an intention on the part of the legislature to exclude it. Where therefore there were specific charges of cheating, attempting to cheat, forgery, falsification of accounts and criminal misappropriation against certain promoters of the company but none of them were awarded a sentence for forgery or falsification of accounts in excess of seven years, it was held that the prosecution of the accused for the offences of forgery and falsification of accounts under the Indian Penal Code was legal. (Vol 24) 1937

 All 714 (716) : ILR (1937) All 779 : 39 Cr L Jour 38
 (DB).

[3] The Companies Act nowhere lays down that there can be no prosecution on a criminal charge otherwise than upon a direction by the company judge or judges. (Vol 24) 1937 All 714 (716) : ILR (1937) All 779 : 39 Cr L Jour 38 (DB).

SECTION 237—Note 1.

[1] The whole scheme of S. 237 is enabling rather than mandatory or exclusive. The Court may order the Liquidator to prosecute or refer the matter to the Registrar. The Registrar may refuse to prosecute and the liquidator with previous sanction of the Court may prosecute. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 9 (10) : 43 Cr L
 Jour 304.

[2] S. 237 is not limited to the criminal liability of the directors under the Act, and hence is not confined to the special offences created under the Act. (Vol 29)
 1942 Sind 9 (10) : 43 Cr L Jour 304.

[3] Order under S. 237, directing the official liquidator to prosecute a person for a criminal offence is more of a criminal than of a civil nature and S. 109 C.
 Civil PC is not applicable. An appeal to Privy Council is not competent. (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 120 (120),}

[4] The Companies Act nowhere lays down that there can be no prosecution on a criminal charge other-

[6] No protection is afforded by S. 237 to company promoters and directors against prosecution for criminal breach of trust. Consequently police do not require any sanction to prosecute any one for that offence. The section is intended to safeguard the interest of the shareholders of a company, which has failed to prevent what remains of their money from being wasted by the liquidator on unprofitable criminal prosecutions. The Court, under the directions of which the company is being wound up by a liquidator, must be satisfied that prosecution is worthwhile before it will allow the liquidator to, or before it will itself, institute proceedings and incur expenditure in the matter. ('37) 1937 Mad WN 1122 (1124).

(b) in the case of a voluntary winding up, in such way as the company by extraordinary resolution directs.

Objects and Reasons.

“ We have amended clause 243 (now S. 242) of the Bill so as to shorten the period after which no responsibility attaches to any person to whom the custody of documents of a company has been committed. This seems to us a reasonable reduction, regard being had to the shorter period of limitation in India.”—S. C. R., 1913.

SECTION 241—Note 1.

[1] Section 241, places matter of ordering inspection of documents entirely in the discretion of the Court and if this discretion has once been exercised in favour of a contributory or creditor, it cannot be interfered with on the ground that he may use the information thus got on inspection, in the interest of directors yet to be examined. This circumstance would not be a bar to the exercise of the right by persons authorised under the law to inspect the documents and other records which the law permits. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 82 (84)

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1936.—This section provides that the interim report of the liquidator shall be submitted to the Court or the registrar, as the case may be, but that a copy should in any case be given to the registrar and defines the time when the report shall be made. The form and the particulars to be contained in these statements are prescribed by the High Courts which have followed rules 193 to 195 of the English Companies (Winding up) Rules and have prescribed a form similar to the English Form 92 drawn up under those Rules.—See S.O.R., 1936.

a[244A. (1) Every liquidator of a company which is being wound up by the Court shall, in Payments of liquidator such manner and at such times as may be prescribed, pay the money into bank. received by him into a scheduled bank as defined in clause (e) of section 2 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 :

Provided that if the Court is satisfied that for the purpose of carrying on the business of the company or of obtaining advances or for any other reason it is for the advantage of the creditors or contributories that the liquidator should have an account with any other bank, the Court may authorise the liquidator to make his payments into or out of such other bank as the Court may select and thereupon those payments shall be made in the prescribed manner.

(2) If any such liquidator at any time retains for more than ten days a sum exceeding five hundred rupees or such other amount as the Court may in any particular case authorise him to retain, then, unless he explains the retention to the satisfaction of the Court, he shall pay interest on the amount so retained in excess at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and shall be liable to disallowance of all or such part of his remuneration as the Court may think just and to be removed from his office by the Court and shall be liable to pay any expenses occasioned by reason of his default.

(3) A liquidator of a company which is being wound up shall open a special banking account and pay all sums received by him as liquidator into such account.]

SECTION 244A—Note 1.

[1] A bank is deemed to know that official liquidator under this section and R. 66 Madras High Court rules framed under Companies Act must have a bank account and can collect the amount of any cheque paid during the course of liquidation only through his bank. Hence the bank would be guilty of neglect if it makes payment direct to the Official liquidator and he misappropriates the amount subsequently. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 80 (31, 32) : ILB (1945) Mad 328 (DB). (S. 85, Neg. Instru. Act, does not protect him).

Objects and Reasons.

This section requires the liquidator to pay moneys received by him during a winding up into scheduled banks; and prohibits him from paying any such moneys into his private account. The powers given by the proviso to sub-section (1) and by sub-section (2) are to be exercised by the Court. Sub-section (3) applies to all windings up.—See S. C. R., 1936.

244B. (1) Where any company is being wound up, if the liquidator has in his hands or under his control any money of the company representing unclaimed dividends payable to any creditor or undistributed assets refundable to any contributory which have remained unclaimed or undistributed for six months after the date on which they became payable or refundable, the liquidator shall forthwith pay the said money into the Reserve Bank of India to the credit of the Central Government in an account to be called the Companies Liquidation Account, and the liquidator shall, on the dissolution of the company, similarly pay into the said account any money representing unclaimed dividends or undistributed assets in his hands at the date of dissolution.

(2) The liquidator shall, when making any payment referred to in sub-section (1), furnish to such officer as the Central Government may appoint in this behalf a statement in the prescribed form setting forth in respect of all sums included in such payment the nature of the sums, the names and last known addresses of the persons entitled to participate therein, the amount to which each is entitled and the nature of his claim thereto, and such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(3) The receipt of the Reserve Bank of India for any money paid to it under sub-section (1) shall be an effectual discharge of the liquidator in respect thereof.

(4) Where the company is being wound up by the Court, the liquidator shall make the payments referred to in sub-section (1) by transfer from the special banking account referred to in sub-section (3) of section 144A, and where the company is wound up voluntarily, or subject to the supervision of the Court, the liquidator shall, when filing a statement in pursuance of sub-section (1) of section 244, indicate the sum of money which is payable to the Reserve Bank of India under sub-section (1) which he has had in his hands or under his control during the six months preceding the date to which the said statement is brought down, and shall, within fourteen days of the date of filing the said statement, pay that sum into Companies Liquidation Account.

(5) Any person claiming to be entitled to any money paid into the Companies Liquidation Account in pursuance of this section may apply to the Court for an order for payment thereof, and the Court, if satisfied that the person claiming is entitled, may make an order for the payment to that person of the sum due :

Provided that before making such order the Court shall cause a notice to be served on such officer as the Central Government may appoint in this behalf calling on the officer to show cause, within one month from the date of the service of the notice why the order should not be made.

(6) Any money paid into the Companies Liquidation Account in pursuance of this section which remains unclaimed thereafter for a period of fifteen years, shall be transferred to the general revenue account of the Central Government ; but any claim preferred under sub-section (5) to any money so transferred shall be allowable as if such transfer had not been made, the order for payment on such claim being treated as an order for refund of revenue.

(7) Any liquidator retaining any money which should have been paid by him into the Companies Liquidation Account under this section shall pay interest on the amount retained at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and shall also be liable to pay any expenses occasioned by reason of his default, and, where the winding up is by or under the supervision of the Court, he shall also be liable to disallowance of all or such part of his remuneration as the Court may think just and to be removed from his office by the Court.

(8) Nothing in this section shall apply in relation to companies with objects confined to a single Province which are not trading corporations.]

Objects and Reasons.

The Indian Companies Act, 1913, did not contain provisions for the custody of unclaimed dividends and undistributed assets of companies in liquidation or for the disposal of subsequent lawful claims to such money and in the absence of such provisions there was a considerable diversity of opinion as to the law applicable to these matters in British India. The new section 244-B is designed to rectify this unsatisfactory position. It follows generally the lines of the English Companies Act 1929, sections 285 and 300 and the relevant provisions of the English Companies (Winding-up) Rules, 1929 (Rule. 193 to 201), with such modifications as are suited to Indian conditions.—See S. O. R., Gazette of India, dated 9—11—1940, Part V.

245. (1) Any affidavit required to be sworn under the provisions or for the purposes of this Part may be sworn in British India, or elsewhere within the dominions of His Majesty, before any Court, Judge or person lawfully authorised to take and receive affidavits, or in any part of India other than British India before any Court authorised or continued by a[the Central Government or the Crown Representative], or in any place outside His Majesty's dominions before any of His Majesty's Consuls or vice-Consuls.

(2) All Courts, Judges, Justices, Commissioners, and persons acting judicially in British India shall take judicial notice of the seal or stamp or signature (as the case may be) of any such Court, Judge, person, Consul or Vice-Consul, attached, appended or subscribed to any such affidavit or to any other document to be used for the purposes of this Part.

246. (1) The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act and with the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, concerning the mode of proceedings to be had for winding up a company in such Court and in the Courts subordinate thereto, ^a[and for voluntary winding up (both members and creditors), for the holding of meeting of creditors and members in connection with proceedings under section 153 of this Act,] and for giving effect to the provisions hereinbefore contained as to the reduction of the capital and the sub-divisions of the shares of a company ^a[and generally for all applications to be made to the Court under the provisions of this Act] ^b[and shall make rules providing for all matters relating to the winding up of companies which, by this Act, are to be prescribed].

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, the High Court may by such rules enable or require all or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed on the Court by this Act, in respect of the matters following, to be exercised or performed by the official liquidator, and subject to the control of the Court, that is to say, the powers and duties of the Court in respect of—

- (a) holding and conducting meetings to ascertain the wishes of creditors and contributors ;

(2) If the registrar does not within one month of sending the letter receive any answer thereto, he shall within fourteen days after the expiration of the month send to the company by post a registered letter referring to the first letter, and stating that no answer thereto has been received and that, if an answer is not received to the second letter within one month from the date thereof, a notice will be published in the a[Official Gazette] with a view to striking the name of the company off the register.

(3) If the registrar either receives an answer from the company to the effect that it is not carrying on business or in operation, or does not within one month after sending the second letter receive any answer, he may publish in the a[Official Gazette], and send to the company by post a notice that, at the expiration of three months from the date of that notice, the name of the company mentioned therein will, unless cause is shown to the contrary, be struck off the register and the company will be dissolved.

(4) If, in any case where a company is being wound up, the registrar has reasonable cause to believe either that no liquidator is acting or that the affairs of the company are fully wound up, and the returns required to be made by the liquidator have not been made for a period of six consecutive months after notice by the registrar demanding the returns has been sent by post to the company, or to the liquidator at his last known place of business, the registrar may publish in the a[Official Gazette] and send to the company a like notice as is provided in the last preceding sub-section.

tories will not commence to run till service of notice under R. 57. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 240 (248): 54 All 827: 60 Ind App 1 (PC).

[3] The rules framed by the Lahore High Court under S. 246 Companies Act, relating to the winding up of a company, contained in Chap. I, Vol. 2, Rules and Orders of the High Court, should be made expressly applicable to appeals and it should be provided therein that in the case of appeals against compulsory winding up orders, the official liquidator should be made a party. (Vol. 28) 1941 Lah 134 (188): ILR (1941) Lah 680 (DB).

[4] An order for a call on contributories disregarding the rules as to notice under S. 246 cannot be maintained. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 302 (304): 1918 Pun Re. No. 1.

[5] An application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council against an order for winding up is not a proceeding in winding up under the rules and orders of the High Court. Even assuming it to be so R. 95 Vol 2 would apply, in conformity to which the petition should state the names of respondents, as it did not contain the name of the respondent, it should be dismissed. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 322 (323, 324) (DB).

[6] In liquidation proceedings person entered in the list of contributories—Notice was issued to put forth this objection but objection was disallowed as he failed to get his name registered as per R. 85 framed by the Lahore High Court—Held that the case should have been decided on merits and application of R. 85 was held doubtful. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 123 (123).

[7] R. 5 of the rules framed under the Companies Act makes the High Court fees rules applicable to proceeding under the Companies Act or the rules under it. The official liquidator who is directed by the Court to settle the list of creditors acts in a judicial capacity while settling it and an advocate who has appeared for a creditor in the proceedings is entitled to apply for his bill of costs being taxed. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 367 (368): ILR (1945) Mad 24 (DB).

[8] Notice referred to in R. 27 of the rules of the Madras High Court under the Companies Act is intended to issue only to persons who wish to oppose and not to support a petition for winding up and therefore supporting creditors are not entitled to costs. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad. 96 (97): ILR (1938) Mad 284 (DB).

SECTION 247—Note 1.

[1] The Registrar is not bound to remove the company from the registrar on discovering that it is not carrying on business or that its members have been reduced to less than 7. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 443 (444).

[2] The mere fact that the share-holders of a company become less than seven does not render the company defunct. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 443 (444).

[3] A company can be wound up even after it has been dissolved, with this difference that in the case of a defunct company it can be done on the application of an erstwhile share-holder. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 194 (195): 24 Nag LR 100 (DB).

[4] Only person who can legally put in an appearance on behalf of company in proceedings under S. 247 (6) on the application of a share-holder is either secretary of the company or one of its directors though they may not be parties to original proceedings. The Registrar cannot represent the company. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 185 (190) (DB).

[5] An order refusing to restore the company to the register is not an order made or given in the matter of winding up of a company by the Court. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 443 (444).

(5) At the expiration of the time mentioned in the notice the registrar may, unless cause to the contrary is previously shown by the company, strike its name off the register, and shall publish notice thereof in the ^a[Official Gazette] and, on the publication in the ^a[Official Gazette] of this notice, the company shall be dissolved : Provided that the liability (if any) of every director and member of the company shall continue and may be enforced as if the company had not been dissolved.

(6) If a company or any member or creditor thereof feels aggrieved by the company having been struck off the register, the Court, on the application of the company or member or creditor, may, if satisfied that the company was at the time of the striking off carrying on business or in operation, or otherwise that it is just that the company be restored to the register, order the name of the company to be restored to the register, and thereupon the company shall be deemed to have continued in existence as if its name had not been struck off ; and the Court may by the order give such directions and make such provisions as seem just for placing the company and all other persons in the same position as nearly as may be as if the name of the company had not been struck off.

(7) A letter or notice under this section may be addressed to the company at its registered office, or, if no office has been registered, to the care of some director, manager or other officer of the company, or, if there is no director, manager or other officer of the company whose name and address are known to the registrar, may be sent to each of the persons who subscribed the memorandum, addressed to him at the address mentioned in the memorandum.

is a Corporate body and a legal entity and it can sue and be sued. Words "shall include" will not exclude a foreign Company not registered under the Act and such Company must fall within the expression "unregistered Company" whatever may be the number of its members. High Court has jurisdiction to make order for winding up the Company irrespective of the number of its members and the mere fact that order for winding up has been made by a Competent Court of the place of Company's incorporation cannot make any difference to the jurisdiction. (Vol 24) 1937 Dom 15 (17-18).

[1] In case of unregistered company, winding up order can be made only (1) when company is dissolved or about to be dissolved, (2) when it is unable to pay debts, and (3) when the court thinks that the company should be wound up. (1909) 2 Ind Cas 164 (165) (Mad).

[2] If unregistered company ceases to take new business, it does not mean that it is about to be wound up, and an order for winding it up is not justified. (1909) 2 Ind Cas 164 (165) (Mad).

[3] An unregistered company carrying on business 'as a sealed series' does not incur the winding up order

(c) if execution or other process issued on a decree or order obtained in any Court in favour of a creditor against the company, or any member thereof as such, or any person authorised to be sued as nominal defendant on behalf of the company, is returned unsatisfied; and

(d) if it is otherwise proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the company is unable to pay its debts.

(2) Nothing in this Part shall affect the operation of any enactment which provides for any partnership, association or company being wound up, or being wound up as a company or as an unregistered company, under any enactment repealed by this Act, except that references in any such first-mentioned enactment to any such repealed enactment shall be read as references to the corresponding provision (if any) of this Act.

[(3) Where a company incorporated outside British India which has been carrying on business in British India ceases to carry on business in British India it may be wound up as an unregistered company under this Part, notwithstanding that it has been dissolved or otherwise ceased to exist as a company under or by virtue of the laws of the company under which it was incorporated.]

(2) In the event of any contributory dying or being adjudged insolvent, the provisions of this Act with respect to the legal representatives and heirs of deceased contributories, and to the assignees of insolvent contributories shall apply.

273. The provisions of this Act with respect to staying and restraining suits and legal proceedings against a company at any time after the presentation of a petition for winding up and before the making of a winding up order shall, in the case of an unregistered company, where the application to stay or restrain is by a creditor, extend to suits and legal proceedings against any contributory of the company.

[5] A scheme under S 153 provides an alternative mode of winding up a company. It is a provision to avert winding up and is therefore a provision with respect to winding up within the meaning of S. 271. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 318 (327).

[6] Where a company has ceased to exist by an Act of the country by whose Acts and under whose law it was made a juristic entity, it must be treated as non-existent by all Courts administering English law. [7] As a foreign company is liable to be wound up as an unregistered company within the meaning of S. 271, the expression "company" in S. 153 which means a company liable to be wound up under the Act, would include a foreign company. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 318 (321).

[8] A Court has a jurisdiction to wind up as an unregistered company, a foreign company whatever the number of its members, if it has an office and assets within its jurisdiction, and the mere fact that the order for winding-up the company has been made by a competent Court of the place of the company's incorporation cannot make any difference to the jurisdiction of the Court. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 15 (18).

[9] Court has jurisdiction in a proper case to order the winding up of a partnership association or company under S. 271 if and only if at the time when the petition for the winding up is presented it consists of more than seven members. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 77 (78) : 8 Rang 658 (DB). ((Vol 17) 1930 Rang 337 : 8 Rang 409 reversed.)

274. Where an order has been made for winding up an unregistered company, no suit or other suits stayed on winding legal proceedings shall be proceeded with or commenced against any contributory of the company in respect of any debt of the company, except by leave of the Court, and subject to such terms as the Court may impose.

275. If an unregistered company has no power to sue and be sued in a common name, or if for any reason it appears expedient, the Court may, by the winding up order, direct that all or any part of the property, movable or immovable, including all interests and rights in, to and out of property, movable and immovable, and including obligations and actionable claims as may belong to the company or to trustees on its behalf, is to vest in the official liquidator by his official name, and thereupon the property or the part thereof specified in the order shall vest accordingly; and the official liquidator may, after giving such indemnity (if any) as the Court may direct, bring or defend in his official name any suit or other legal proceeding relating to that property, or necessary to be brought or defended for the purposes of effectually winding up the company and recovering its property.

276. The provisions of this Part with respect to unregistered companies shall be in addition to, and not in restriction of, any provisions hereinbefore in this Act contained with respect to winding up companies by the Court, and the Court or official liquidator may exercise any powers or do any act in the case of unregistered companies which might be exercised or done by it or him in winding up companies formed and registered under this Act; but an unregistered company shall not, except in the event of its being wound up, be deemed to be a company under this Act, and then only to the extent provided by this Part.

Objects and Reasons.

"We have amended sub-clause (1) so as to include companies already carrying on business in British India within the scope of the clause, and we have added to the requirements prescribed by that clause a list of the managers and the full address of the registered office of the company. We have re-drawn sub-clause (3) to make it clear that where a company to which this clause applies is required by the law of the country in which it is incorporated to file an annual balance-sheet, a copy of that balance-sheet must be filed in this country, and, where no such provision is made, that the company must file such a balance-sheet as companies under [the Act] are required to file . . ."—S. C. R., 1913.

Amendments made in 1936.—"In view of the difficulty which, it is represented, would be experienced by certain companies incorporated abroad if they were required to prepare and file balance-sheets in the form required from companies incorporated in British India when the balance-sheet prescribed by the law under which they are incorporated is of a widely divergent nature, we have considered it sufficient to secure that they shall file with the registrar a copy of their own proper balance-sheet, but shall supplement it if necessary by further documents giving the information which is deemed essential and which has now been tabulated in new form inserted as Form H in the Third Schedule of the Act. Where any such company is not required by the law of the country in which it is incorporated to file a balance-sheet, the company must comply with the requirements of the British Indian law in this respect.

We consider that the provision of the New Zealand Companies Act of 1933 requiring these companies to keep books of account in relation to the business done in the country where they are trading should be incorporated in the Act, and we have provided accordingly by an addition to proposed section 277D.

We have also incorporated the provisions of section 348 (4) of the English Act regarding full disclosure of the fact that the liability of the members of any such company is limited."—S.O.R., 1936

(4) An offer of shares or debentures for subscription or sale to any person whose ordinary business or part of whose ordinary business it is to buy or sell shares or debentures, whether as principal or agent, shall not be deemed an offer to the public for the purposes of this section.

(5) Any person who is knowingly responsible for the issue, circulation or distribution of any prospectus, or for the issue of a form of application for shares or debentures, in contravention of the provisions of this section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five thousand rupees.

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made in 1942.—The definition of banking companies in this section had created considerable difficulties in deciding whether a company was a banking company or not. The chief difficulty arose out of the use of the term 'principal business' in this section. Registrars of Companies had often found it difficult to decide, particularly in the case of smaller institutions calling themselves banks, whether or not in terms of this definition they were banking companies. The result had been that a very great number of such institutions which might be regarded as non-scheduled banks operating in British India were not subject to the obligations imposed by law on banking companies as for example, maintaining a minimum cash reserve. There were others which claimed that for one reason or another they did not fall within the definition of banking companies, and this contention had, in some cases, been upheld by the Courts. With the object of removing these difficulties the section has been amended in 1942 by adding a proviso to the section. And according to a suggestion that adequate time should be given to allow companies using any of the words 'bank', 'banker' or 'banking' to make necessary changes in their nomenclature, the date of the amending Act of 1942 was postponed to a date not earlier than one year from the date of its publication in the official Gazette. —See S.O.R., Gazette of India 1942, Part V. Provided that the period of five years shall, for the purposes of this section, be computed from the date on which this section comes into force :

Objects and Reasons.

"Certain undesirable features in the structure and management of banking companies have of late come to notice, such as (i) the appointment of managing directors or managers on long term contracts on payment of remuneration by commission or share in the profits, (ii) the fixation of the authorised capital at a very high figure as compared with the subscribed and paid up capital, (iii) the possessing of large voting rights by an individual or a small group of individuals, usually partly-paid ordinary or deferred share-holders. The first of these is contrary to the spirit of section 277H, though not at present expressly prohibited. The second gives the public a false impression of the status and importance of the bank. The third enables an individual or a small group of individuals to concentrate in his or their hands the control of the companies' activities, thereby facilitating the undertaking of unsafe or speculative business, to the detriment of the interests of the depositors." In order to remove these objectionable features, this section was newly inserted, section 277 I was substituted and section 277L was amended.—See S.O.B., Gazette of India 1944, Part V, Page 3.

^a[277I. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 103, no banking company incorporated under this Act on or after the 15th day of January 1937, shall commence business unless shares have been allotted to an amount sufficient to yield a sum of at least fifty thousand rupees as working capital, and unless a declaration duly verified by an affidavit signed by the directors and the manager that such a sum has been received by way of paid up capital has been filed with the registrar.

(2) No banking company, whether incorporated in or outside British India, if incorporated on or after the 15th day of January 1937 shall, after the expiry of two years from the commencement of the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1944, carry on business in British India unless it satisfies the following conditions, namely :—

- (a) that the subscribed capital of the company is not less than half the authorised capital, and the paid up capital is not less than half the subscribed capital, and
- (b) that the capital of the company consists of ordinary shares only, or ordinary shares and such preference shares as may have been issued before the commencement of the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1944, only, and
- (c) that the voting rights of all shareholders are strictly proportionate to the contribution made by the shareholder, whether a preference shareholder or an ordinary shareholder, to the paid up capital of the company.”]

(2) If any offence which by this Act is declared to be punishable by fine only is committed by any person within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, such offence shall be punishable upon summary conviction by any Presidency Magistrate of the place at which such Court is held.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, every offence against this Act shall, for the purpose of the said Code, be deemed to be non-cognizable.

Objects and Reasons.

be made non-cognizable, and we have adopted this amendment following in this respect the analogy of section 477A of the Indian Penal Code."—S. C. R., 1913.

1. Applicability.—[1] S. 281 is not designed to cover gross neglect of a director's ordinary duties over a long series of years. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 572 (581) : 54 Bom 226 (DB).

[2] An innocent director cannot be held liable for fraud of co-directors in issuing false reports and balance sheets provided that books are properly kept and audited and there are no circumstances arousing suspicion. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 536 (538) : ILR (1945) (Mad 107 (DB)).

[3] Where a company entered into contract of lease with a third person and after the contract one of the secretaries entered into a partnership with the lessee, it was held that the Secretary could not be charged by the company with the whole profits of the partnership but only his individual share in the profits. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 244 (245, 246) (PC).

2. Breach of Duty.—[1] Before S. 281 can be invoked it must be shown that the directors have acted reasonably as well as honestly, while the directors are not trustees in the technical sense they hold a fiduciary position with regard to the assets of the company and they are guilty of a grave breach of duty if they allow the Managing Director to dissipate the company's funds by gambling in differences. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 536 (538) : ILR (1945) Mad 107 (DB).

3. Breach of Trust.—[1] Directors entering into contract and making payments on it during winding up must be assumed to do so with knowledge that such payments are likely to be void and are in this sense guilty of breach of trust. Absence of dishonesty on their part is no excuse. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 293 (298). (Relief under S. 281 cannot be granted).

4. Negligence.—[1] In a suit by a company against its directors, with respect to decrees allowed to be time barred by them it was necessary for the company to show that the failure to do this was due to the negligence of the directors. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 244 (246) (PC).

[2] A director can be charged with wilful negligence only if he knew that he was committing breach of duty and was recklessly careless. A director is justified in trusting the integrity, skill and competence of officials. Insolvency does not necessarily mean that the official is dishonest. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 124 (127) : ILR (1938) Mad 292 (DB).

[3] Auditor should satisfy himself whether the books submitted to him show a true state of affairs. If he fails in his duty he will be jointly and severally responsible with officers of the company though he is not guilty of dishonesty. (Vol 12) 1925 All 518 (535) : 26 Cri L Jour 1061.

5. Reasonably and honestly.—[1] Directors made responsible by the articles of the company, for the management of the company blindly trusting a dishonest manager, keeping themselves in utter ignorance of the affairs, cannot be said to act reasonably. (Vol 12) 1925 All 519 (520) : 47 All 669 (DB).

[2] In a suit against its director, the rate of interest on a loan raised by a director was impugned but no attempt was made on behalf of the company that the money urgently needed, could have been raised at any lower rate. It was held that the rate of interest was proper. (Vol 19) 1932 PC 244 (245) (PC).

SECTION 282—Synopsis.

1. Applicability.
2. Auditor's liability.
3. Director's liability.
4. False Statement.
5. Liquidator's liability.
6. Manager's liability.

1. Applicability.—Section 187 has no relation to a prosecution for an offence under S. 282, nor does S. 188 or S. 141 A bar a prosecution upon a private complaint of an offence under S. 282. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 9 (10) : 43 Cr L Jour 304 (DB).

[282A. Any director, managing agent, manager or other officer or employee of a company Penalty for wrongful who wrongfully obtains possession of any property of a company, or withholding of property. having any such property in his possession wrongfully withholds it or wilfully applies it to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the articles and authorised

[2] It is the effect upon the ordinary investor regarding the statements made in a balance-sheet in an ordinarily careful manner in which an investor would do which has to be considered, when one is making up one's mind as to whether the breach of S. 282 has been committed. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 680 (684) : ILR (1937) 1 Cal 328 : 38 Cr L Jour 151 (DB).

[3] The expression "wilfully" in S. 282 does not embody the idea of criminal mentality, but it means nothing more nor less than the spontaneous action of a person who is a free agent. It is a term which must be interpreted according to the facts of each case. It is not a term of art but a legal expression to be fitted to the circumstances being considered by the Court. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 680 (683) : ILR (1937) 1 Cal 328 : 38 Cr L Jour 151 (DB).

[4] Prosecution under a penal enactment in a special Act is no bar to a prosecution under a general Act. (Vol 24) 1937 All 714 (716) : ILR (1937) All 779 (DB).

2. Auditor's liability.—[1] Auditors signing the report in a false balance sheet to the effect that it is correct makes a false statement wilfully and is liable to prosecution under S. 282. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 4 (7) : 25 Sind L R 297.

3. Director's liability.—[1] Directors signing false balance sheets are liable to prosecution. The fact that they did not attend the meeting or had no knowledge of banking or accounts is immaterial. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 4 (7) : 25 Sind L R 297.

[2] An omission to inform the registrar that some of the directors subscribing to the capital in the prospectus had not paid their share money makes a person applying for the commencement of business, after making the necessary declaration that all the directors have paid their dues, guilty of offence under S. 282. (Vol 11) 1924 All 314 (314) : 46 All 218 : 25 Cr L Jour 474 (DB).

[3] Directors are trustees of public money; so if they publish false balance sheets to conceal their misconduct they are guilty under S. 282. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 680 (684, 686) : ILR (1937) 1 Cal 328 : 38 Cr L Jour 151 (DB).

[4] If persons join a board of directors and allow their names to be used as bait to induce the public to deal with the concern of which they are directors, they must take the consequences if they do not exercise due care and attention in signing a false balance sheet. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 4 (7) : 25 Sind L R 297.

4. False Statement.—[1] S. 282 requires that false statements in a balance sheet should be made wilfully, knowing them to be false. Where the points involved are really technical matters, they do not normally fall within this section at any rate where no dishonesty or motive for dishonesty is shown and where the directors acted on the advice of counsel. (Vol. 16) 1929 Bom 443 (445) : 31 Cr L Jour 983 (DB).

[2] In the case of an offence under section 282 what the law makes punishable is a false statement, that is an untrue or incorrect statement, known to the framers of the balance sheet to be false. If there is reasonable likelihood of an honest difference of opinion, based on notions of right and wrong, correct and incorrect, mens rea cannot be attributed by the holder of one view to the holder of the opposite view. Any ex post facto consideration of the view held by the directors with regard to the balance sheet should not be the determining factor in a case under section 282. (Vol. 20) 1933 Sind 12 (14) : 26 Sind L R 211 : 33 Cr L Jour 891.

[3] Showing false profit by adding irrecoverable amounts in a balance sheet is making a materially false statement. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 4 (5) : 25 Sind L R 297.

[4] A loan and a deposit are two different things. One is an asset and the other is a liability. Consolidating the two and presenting them as one item to the readers is a striking case of non-disclosure, amounting to a suppression of the truth. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 680 (684) : ILR (1937) 1 Cal 328 : 38 Cr L Jour 151 (DB).

[5] Showing bad debts, which are not paid and are not likely to be paid, as part of profits, amounts to making false statement. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 4 (5) : 25 Sind L R 297.

[6] The proper ascertainment of profits in the case of a company is of great importance only in order to avoid the possibility of payment of dividend wholly or partially out of capital which is strictly forbidden. Where that is guarded against and there is no idea of declaring a dividend, showing of profit on paper may not be so vitally misstating the position of the bank (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 12 (15 & 16) : 26 Sind L R 211 : 33 Cr L Jour 891.

[7] It is not necessary that the statement in a balance sheet should be such as to deceive any one or that it should even be dishonestly made. Thus where after the company has begun to earn revenue, current expenditure has been debited to organisation expenses when it ought to have been debited in revenue accounts in the balance sheet the balance sheet contains a wilful false statement and a technical offence under section 282 is committed. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 741 (742) : 37 Cr L Jour 115 (DB).

5. Liquidator's liability.—[1] Section 282 applies to a de facto Liquidator. A person who accepts an appointment as Liquidator of a company and who has acted in accordance with the powers granted to him, must be deemed to have accepted the duties and responsibilities of that office and so any wrongful act done by him is a wrongful act done by him as Liquidator even though his appointment was irregular. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 702 (704) : 44 Cr L Jour 503.

6. Manager's liability.—[1] Where a person signs a balance sheet containing false statements as manager he renders himself liable to prosecution under S. 282, even though it was not necessary for him to sign the balance sheet and signed merely because the directors wished him to do so. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 4 (6) : 25 Sind L R 297.

[1] Where a managing agent having possession of the articles of the company fails to hand them over to the liquidator, he wrongfully withholds them and is therefore guilty of an offence punishable under section 282 A. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 424 (424) : 46 Cr L Jour 347.

by this Act, shall, on the complaint of the company or any creditor or contributory thereof, be punishable with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees and may be ordered by the Court trying the offence to deliver up or refund within a time to be fixed by the Court any such property improperly obtained or wrongfully withheld or wilfully misapplied or in default to suffer imprisonment for a period not exceeding two years.]

^a[282B. (1) All moneys or securities deposited with a company by its employees in pursuance of their contracts of service with the company shall be kept or deposited by the company in a special account to be opened by the company for the purpose in a schedule bank as defined in clause (a) of section 2 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934, and no portion thereof shall be utilised by the company except for the purposes agreed to in the contract of service.

(2) Where a provident fund has been constituted by a company for its employees or any class of its employees, all moneys contributed to such fund (whether by the company or by the employees) or accruing by way of interest or otherwise to such fund after the ^bcommencement of the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 ^c[shall be either deposited in a Postal Savings Bank account or invested] in securities mentioned or referred to in clauses (a) to (e) of section 20 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, and all moneys belonging to such fund at the commencement of the said Act ^d[which are not so deposited or invested shall be so deposited or] invested in such securities by annual instalments not exceeding ten in number and not less in amount in any year than one-tenth of the whole amount of such moneys.

^e[Provided that where one-tenth part of the whole amount of the moneys belonging to such fund exceeds the maximum amount which may be deposited in a Post Office Savings Bank account under the rules regulating such deposits for the time being in force, the amount of such excess may be kept or deposited in a special account to be opened for the purpose in a scheduled bank as defined in clause (a) of section 2 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934.]

(3) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the rules of any fund to which sub-section (2) applies or in any contract between a company and its employees, no employee shall be entitled to receive in respect of such portion of the amount to his credit in such fund as is invested in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) interest at a rate exceeding the rate of interest yielded by such investment.

(4) An employee shall be entitled on request made in this behalf to the company to see the bank's receipt for any money or security such as is referred to in sub-section (1) and sub-section (2).

(5) Any director, managing agent, manager or other officer of the company who knowingly contravenes or permits or authorises the contravention of the provisions of this section shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.]

SECTION 282B—Note 1.

[1] The fact that the depositor is a trustee and the money deposited is trust money does not affect the relation which the law creates between a bank and an ordinary customer namely that of a debtor and a creditor. The legal effect of a notice to a bank that the money deposited is trust money is only to cast a duty on the bank not to participate in a breach of trust by the trustee. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 178 (179) * (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 48 (48) : I L R (1941) Mad 125 (DB). (A Company is not entitled to priority in liquidation of a bank in which it has deposited money under statutory obligation imposed by S. 282) * (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 184 (184). (The fact of notice to a bank that the money deposited is trust money does not make the bank a trustee in respect thereof.)

[2] Where amounts of provident fund lying in deposit in a bank to the credit of the company has not been invested in the authorised securities as provided by S. 282B, the company is guilty of breach of trust and the bank with knowledge of this must be held to have participated in the breach of trust. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 184 (185).

[3] Provident fund amount deposited in Bank after the coming into operation of S. 282B—The company renewing the deposit and the Bank failing—No question of breach of trust so far as the amount of the security deposit was concerned. (199) 1939 Mad W N 1069 (1070).

[4] A deposit by the employees under this section constitutes Trust money in the hands of the Company. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 337 (345).

[5] Upon the Bank going into liquidation the employee has a preferential claim against the assets in respect of the amount deposited by him under this section. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 337 (345).

†[(6) Nothing in sub-section (2) shall affect any rights of an employee under the rules of a provident fund to obtain advances from or to withdraw money standing to his credit in the fund, where the fund is a recognized provident fund within the meaning of clause (a) of section 58A of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1912, or, the rules of the fund contain provisions corresponding to rules 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of the Indian Income-tax (Provident Funds Relief) Rules.]

Amendment made in 1936—Sub-section (2).—“We have omitted from sub-section (2) the provision by which the whole of any provident fund was constituted a trust. We are impressed by the considerations that in many large and stable funds the contributors would have to suffer considerable loss from the inevitable lowering of the interest yield, and that the withdrawal from the business of the sums represented by such funds and at present functioning as a part of the company's reserves might be fraught with difficulty. We have provided merely that all future contributions by employees themselves to any provident fund shall be separately invested, and that the securities in which they are invested, shall be trust securities.”—S. C. R., 1936.

Amendment made in 1941—Sub-section (2).—There was a strong demand that Provident Fund moneys of employees of companies should be allowed to be deposited in the Post Office Savings Bank. Such deposits were not permissible under sub-section (2) of section 282-B which permitted investment of such Provident Fund moneys only in securities mentioned or referred to in clauses (a) to (e) of section 20 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882. Deposits in the Post Office Savings Bank do not constitute securities for this purpose. This position is now rectified by amending sub-section (2) of section 282-B to enable deposits of the nature mentioned above being made in the Post Office Savings Bank.—See S.O.R., 1941, Gazette of India, 1941, Part V, Page 199.

Amendment made in 1946—Proviso to sub-section (2).—As the up-ward limit of the amount that can be kept in the Post Office Savings Bank is Rs. 5,000 which is insufficient to meet the day to day running expenses in the case of provident funds of big concerns, the proviso to sub-section (2) is inserted so as to afford greater liquidity to a provident fund, where necessary, by allowing a part of its funds being kept in deposit in a scheduled bank.—See S. O R., Gazette of India, 23-3-1946, Part V, Page 65.

Amendment made in 1945—Sub-section (6).—Certain Registrars of Joint Stock Companies took the view that sub-section (2) of this section precluded the withdrawal by an employee of the money standing to his credit. This view, which is not only contrary to intention but is destructive of the normal operation of all provident funds maintained by companies is now displaced by the addition of sub-section (6) to this section.—See S. O. R., 1945.

283. If any person or persons trade or carry on business under any name or title of which Penalty for improper “Limited” is the last word, that person or those persons shall unless duly use of word “Limited”. incorporated with limited liability, be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day upon which that name or title has been used.

10. The company may sell, in such manner as the director thinks fit, any shares on which the company has a lien, but no sale shall be made unless some sum in respect of which the lien exists is presently payable, nor until the expiration of fourteen days after a notice in writing, stating and demanding payment of such part of amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, has been given to the registered holder for the time being of the share, or the person entitled by reason of his death or insolvency to the share.

REGULATION 7—Note 1.

[1] Where the articles provided "if any certificate be lost or destroyed, then upon proof to the satisfaction of the directors, or in default of proof on such indemnity as the directors may deem adequate being given a new certificate in lieu thereof shall be given to the party entitled to such lost or destroyed certificate". It was held that the clause gave an absolute discretion to the directors as to the indemnity to be furnished with which the Court would not interfere. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 947 (948).

REGULATION 8—Note 1.

[1] With certain safeguards created by the statute to protect the interests of creditors, shareholders and the public, the Act leaves the Company to determine the extent, mode and the incidence of reduction, the application or disposition of capital monies which the proposed reduction may set free. (1894) A C 399 (411, 412).

REGULATION 9—Note 1.

[1] Company has lien on shares and dividends due on them but not on fees of directors. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 62 (63).

[2] A provision in the articles of association which makes a shareholder's debt to the Company a charge upon his shares applies even to shares of a person who becomes a shareholder subsequent to event incurring debt in respect of those debts. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1161 (1163) (DB).

[3] Transmission of shares results by operation of law, and the shares on devolution continue to be subject to any lien on them for sums due to the company. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 743 (747).

[4] If a member pledges his shares to a third party and the company has notice of the transaction the lien on the shares is lost subsequent to the knowledge of the transaction. A company is deemed to have knowledge, where the managing director having all the powers of the board pledges his shares although in his private capacity. (Vol 20) 1933 All 607 (607) : 55 All 810.

11. The proceeds of the sale shall be applied in payment of such part of the amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, and the residue shall (subject to a like lien for sums not presently payable as existed upon the shares prior to the sale) be paid to the person entitled to the shares at the date of the sale. The purchaser shall be registered as the holder of the shares, and he shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase money, nor shall his title to the shares be affected by any irregularity or invalidity in the proceedings in reference to the sale.

Calls on Shares.

12. The directors may from time to time make calls upon the members in respect of any moneys unpaid on their shares, provided that no call shall exceed one-fourth of the nominal amount of the share, or be payable at less than one month from the last call; and each member shall (subject to receiving at least fourteen days' notice specifying the time or times of payments) pay to the company at the time or times so specified the amount called on his shares.

13. The joint-holders of a share shall be jointly and severally liable to pay all calls in respect thereof.

[(1929) 19 and 20 Geo V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 12]

14. If a sum called in respect of a share is not paid before or on the day appointed for payment thereof, the person from whom the sum is due shall pay interest upon the sum at the rate of five per cent. per annum from the day appointed for the payment thereof to the time of the actual payment, but the directors shall be at liberty to waive payment of that interest wholly or in part.

15. The provisions of these regulations as to payment of interest shall apply in the case of non-payment of any sum which, by the terms of issue of a share, becomes payable at a fixed time, whether on account of the amount of the share, or by way of premium, as if the same had become payable by virtue of a call duly made and notified.

[1] Where the articles empower the board of directors to make calls upon the shareholders for the unpaid money on shares and fix liability to pay at the time and place appointed, a resolution of the board alone can call such money. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 341 (343); 50 Bom 461.

[2] Resolution for call without fixing time or place of payment is valid. Such details may be provided by a subsequent resolution or even direction. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 80 (82).

[See however (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 341 (343): 50 Bom 461 (DB)* (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 267 (270): 54 Bom 178 (DB). (The resolution making the call must fix the time, place and the person to whom it is to be paid).

[3] Where a resolution for call has already been passed, a formal resolution of the directors specifying the person to whom and the place where a call is to be made is not necessary when the agent signs in notice of calls "by order of the board" as there is the presumption that the agents act properly. Even if the resolution is necessary it can be waived by the party. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 80 (83, 84): 57 Bom 413 (DB).

[4] Only a debt due in praesenti by the company can be set off against future calls on shares. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 483 (485) (DB).

[5] When a suit to recover the call money has been barred by time, the fact that the name is kept in the register as a shareholder and the share is forfeited only subsequently, does not revive the debt, as limitation does not run from the date of forfeiture. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 285 (287): 8 Luck 723 (DB).

REGULATION 14—Note 1.

[1] Interest under Reg. 14 is payable by a person as a shareholder. Therefore where a person's shares are forfeited, he ceases to be a shareholder from the date of forfeiture and interest cannot be ordered subsequent to that date to the date of suit in the absence of any provision of law or contract. (Vol 19) 1932 All 342 (344): 54 All 541 (DB)* (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 321 (322): 49 Bom 715 (DB). (But by virtue of the provisions contained in the Articles of Association, he may become a debtor to the company for the amount of calls, instalments interest and expenses due at the time of forfeiture and on that account, a new cause of action arises under that special contract between him and the company.)

16. The directors may make arrangements on the issue of shares for a difference between the holders in the amount of calls to be paid and in the times of payment.

[See S. 49 (1) (1929) 19 and 20 Geo V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 15]

17. The directors may, if they think fit, receive from any member willing to advance the same all or any part of the moneys uncalled and unpaid upon any shares held by him; and upon all or any of the moneys so advanced may (until the same would, but for such advance, become presently payable) pay interest at such rate (not exceeding, without the sanction of the company in general meeting, six per cent.) as may be agreed upon between the member paying the sum in advance and the directors.

Transfer and transmission of shares.

18. The instrument of transfer of any share in the company shall be executed both by the transferor and transferee, and the transferor shall be deemed to remain holder of the share until the name of the transferee is entered in the register of members in respect thereof.

[See S. 34. (1923) 19 and 20 Geo V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 17]

19. Shares in the company shall be transferred in the following form, or in any usual or common form which the directors shall approve :

I, A B of _____, in consideration of the sum of rupees _____ paid to me by C D of _____ (hereinafter called "the said transferee"), do hereby transfer to the said transferee the share [or shares] numbered in the undertaking called the _____ Company, Limited, to hold unto the said transferee, his executors, administrators and assigns, subject to the several conditions on which I held the same at the time of the execution thereof, and I, the said transferee, do hereby agree to take the said share [or shares] subject to the conditions aforesaid. As witness our hands the _____ day of _____ witness to the signatures of, etc'

REGULATION 16—Note 1.

[1] An agent of a company has no legal authority to enter into an agreement with a shareholder that the latter will not be liable for call money on shares subscribed. Such an agreement is a fraud upon the creditors and shareholders of the company. It amounts only to a personal arrangement between the shareholder and the agent. (Vol 4) 1917 P C 267 (269) (P C). (Case from Quebec).

REGULATION 17—Note 1.

[1] A company by the issue of a share creditors with a definite sum as paid thereon does not become a debtor to its shareholder in respect of that full amount. A company is in no sense debtor to capital. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 151 (157); 57 Ind App 152 : 54 Bom 437, (PC).

REGULATION 18—Note 1.

[1] A transfer not in compliance with the articles though it carries to the person who is subsequently entered as transferee the equitable and legal interest to require the company to register the transfer does not create a legal title to the share until registration. (Vol 15) 1928 All 481 (489); 50 All 695 (DB)

[2] When an order is issued under O. 21 R. 79 (3) Civil P C the company acting through the secretary or proper officer, could not make a transfer of the shares to anybody else. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 241 (244, 245); 45 Mad 537 (DB).

[3] Where the plaintiff by delivery of signed transfer forms in blank to the broker enables him to give title to the defendant, who is a bona fide purchaser for value without notice, plaintiff is estopped from asserting any right to the shares. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 303 (319); 46 Bom 489 (DB).

[4] Delivery of share certificates in blank passes not the property in the shares but a legal and equitable title, which cannot be defeated by the registered owner, or others deriving title from him. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 303 (313) : 46 Bom 489 (DB).

[5] When a share of a company is sold in Court auction, the court need not execute a transfer. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 571 (578). (DB) ((Vol 3) 1916 Bom 147 : 41 Bom 76 and (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 241 : 45 Mad 537 Distinguished).

[6] Where shares are sold whether by private treaty or by public sale, to the exclusion of dividends due thereon the purchase cannot deprive the original owner of his right to dividend for the period anterior to the sale though declared subsequently. (Vol 17) 1930 All 615 (617) (DB).

20. The directors may decline to register any transfer of shares, not being fully-paid shares, to a person of whom they do not approve, and may also decline to register any transfer of shares on which the company has a lien. The directors may also suspend the registration of transfers during the fourteen days immediately-preceding the ordinary general meeting in each year. The directors may decline to recognise any instrument of transfer unless—

(a) a fee not exceeding two rupees is paid to the company in respect thereof ; and

(b) the instrument of transfer is accompanied by the certificate of the shares to which it relates, and such other evidence as the directors may reasonably require to show the right of the transferor to make the transfer.

^a[If the directors refuse to register a transfer of any shares, they shall within two months after the date on which the transfer was lodged with the company send to the transferee and the transferor notice of the refusal.]

21. The executors or administrators of a deceased sole holder of a share shall be the only persons recognised by the company as having any title to the share. In the case of a share registered in the names of two or more holders, the survivors or survivor, or the executors or administrators of the deceased survivor, shall be the only persons recognised by the company as having any title to the share.

[See S. 35 (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 20]

22. Any person becoming entitled to a share in consequence of the death or insolvency of a member shall, upon such evidence being produced as may from time to time be required by the directors, have the right, either to be registered as a member in respect of the share or, instead of being registered himself, to make such transfer of the share as the deceased or insolvent person could have made ; but the directors shall, in either case, have the same right to decline or suspend registration as they would have had in the case of a transfer of the share by the deceased or insolvent person before the death or insolvency.

[See Ss. 35, 160, 161, (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V.C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 21]

23. A person becoming entitled to a share by reason of the death or insolvency of the holder shall be entitled to the same dividends and other advantages to which he would be entitled if he were the registered holder of the share, except that he shall not, before being registered as a member in respect of the share, be entitled in respect of it to exercise any right conferred by membership in relation to meetings of the company.

REGULATION 20—Note 1.

[1] Whether sale of shares is made by a private individual or by a Court, the buyer gets merely the property in the shares plus limited right to have the transfer registered; provisions of O. 21 R 79 Civil P C do not mean that the directors are compellable to accept the purchaser as transferee. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 147 (148, 149 150): 41 Bom 76 (DB).

[2] A transfer of a share cannot take effect without the sanction of the company. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 797 (797) (DB).

[3] It is in the discretion of the company to recognise or not a transfer, whether the same is private or by court-auction. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 241 (242): 45 Mad 537 (DB).

REGULATION 21—Note 1.

[1] Regulations 21 and 22 which follow closely Regs. 20 and 21 of Table A, English Companies Act of 1929, while appropriate to a system such as that prevailing in England under which a legal title from a deceased person can only be traced either through probate or through letters of administration are hardly so appropriate to a system under which a legal title by devolution may be obtained apart altogether from and without either probate or letters of administration. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 52 (53).

[2] It is not within the legal competence of any company to lay down any condition regulating the grant of letters of administration in contravention of any statutory enactment relating thereto. (Vol 17) 1930 All 82 (83) (DB).

[3] Where the property belongs to a joint Hindu family, a person claiming by survivorship is not entitled to a grant of the letters of administration to any portion of such property. This rule is applicable to cases where the property is joint and applies even where the property consists of shares of a company acquired by members or a joint Hindu family with joint funds. (Vol 17) 1930 All 82 (83) (DB). (Note: Such is the decision, even in case the articles of association provided that the executors or administrators of a deceased shareholder are the only persons recognised by the company as bearing a title to the shares)

Forfeiture of Shares.

24. If a member fails to pay any call or instalment of a call on the day appointed for payment thereof, the directors may, at any time thereafter during such time as any part of such call or instalment remains unpaid, serve a notice on him requiring payment of so much of the call or instalment as is unpaid, together with any interest which may have accrued.

[(1929) 19 and 20—Geo. V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 23]

25. The notice shall name a further day (not earlier than the expiration of fourteen days, from the date of the notice) on or before which the payment required by the notice is to be made, and shall state that, in the event of non-payment at or before the time appointed, the shares in respect of which the call was made will be liable to be forfeited.

26. If the requirements of any such notice as aforesaid are not complied with, any share in respect of which the notice has been given may at any time thereafter, before the payment required by the notice has been made, be forfeited by a resolution of the directors to that effect.

[1] Articles of association provided that a contract entered into by directors and assented to by the company in a general meeting be deemed absolutely unimpeachable; subsequently the directors contracted with a share-holder to cancel forthwith all his shares which were not fully paid up. It was assented to in a meeting. But the shares were not cancelled till the company went into liquidation. Held the agreement for cancellation of shares could not be impeached and that the share-holders name should not be on the list of contributories. (1868) 7 Eq 129 (187).

[2] The failure of the directors to appoint the place at which and the persons to whom the call money to be paid renders the resolution and the notices of calls invalid and there can be no forfeiture of the shares for non-payment of the calls. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 516 (521) : I L R (1942) Cal 182.

[3] A notice is bad if it requires payment of too large a sum and of sums not due. A forfeiture based upon failure to pay in compliance with such a notice is ultra vires. (Vol. 29) 1942 Cal 516 (521) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 132.

REGULATION 25—Note 1.

[1] The articles provide for issue of notices for the protection of share holders. The provisions can be waived by individual share-holders. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 284 (289): ILR (1939) Kar (PC) 16: ILR (1939) Lah 1 (PC).

[2] Mere notice of forfeiture does not excuse from payment of calls. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 44 (46): 10 Pat 249 (DB).

[3] The company only has the option to forfeit or not; defaulting share-holder will continue to be a member until it is exercised though articles provide for forfeiture ipso facto on default. He cannot insist on the clause being acted upon. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 358 (359): 1915 Pun Re No. 36.

REGULATION 26—Synopsis.1. Forfeiture.*2. Surrender.

1. Forfeiture.—[1] A forfeiture of shares which involves reduction of company's capital, can only be carried out under the articles of association of the company where the call has been validly made and that call has not been paid. Where no call has been made the forfeiture is outside the powers of the company and hence invalid. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 80 (81): 57 Bom 413* (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 358 (359): 1915 Pun Re No. 36. (For a valid forfeiture of shares there must be also intention to forfeit and intention must be actually carried into effect).

[2] In the matter of forfeiture, technicalities must be strictly observed. (Vol 25) 1938 PC 284 (288, 289) : ILR (1939) Kar (PC) 16: ILR (1939) Lah 1 (PC) * (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 516 (521): ILR (1942) 1 Cal 132 * (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 109 (109): 1915 Pun Re No. 37.

[3] Arrangement made with a share-holder that on payment of money his shares be declared forfeited on non-payment of a call, is ultra vires the power of directors and a fraud on the share-holders. Lapse of time makes no difference. (1866) 1 Ch 161 (169).

[4] Where memorandum of association gives directors no power to forfeit shares an unauthorized forfeiture can be set aside. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 267 (270) : 54 Bom 178 (DB).

[5] It is not only the person whose shares are being forfeited that can insist on the conditions prescribed for the forfeiture but also a creditor. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 284 (289): ILR (1939) Kar PC 16: ILR (1939) Lah 1 (PC)* (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 516 (521) : ILR (1942) Cal 132.

[6] A share-holder may waive a notice as required to be served by Reg. 25 but thereby the directors will not be invested with power to forfeit shares for non-payment of calls not yet due. (Vol 25) 1938 PC 284 (289): ILR (1939) Kar (PC) 16: ILR (1939) Lah 1 (PC)* (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 516 (521): ILR (1942) 1 Cal 132.

[7] Where a company without any resolution forfeits the share of a person, and such person does not challenge the forfeiture for two years, the irregularity should be deemed to have been waived and the company cannot revoke the forfeiture. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 80 (84) : 57 Bom 413 (DB).

[8] Forfeiture of shares in absence of a notice required by the articles is invalid. (Vol 8) 1921 All 135 (136) (DB).

[9] Although the notices issued by the Directors state that if the amounts called were not paid on the date specified the shares would be forfeited, in the absence of a resolution by the directors actually forfeiting the shares as required under the articles of

27. A forfeited share may be sold or otherwise disposed of on such terms and in such manner as the directors think fit, and at any time before a sale or disposition the forfeiture may be cancelled on such terms as the directors think fit.

28. A person whose shares have been forfeited shall cease to be a member in respect of the forfeited shares, but shall, notwithstanding, remain liable to pay to the company all moneys which at the date of forfeiture, were presently payable by him to the company in respect of the shares, but his liability shall cease if and when the company received payment in full of the nominal amount of the shares.

association of the company, there is no valid forfeiture. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 1015 (1018) * (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 44 (46) : 10 Pat 249 (DB).

[10] Forfeiture due to failure to pay in response to a notice wherein the place and day of payment are not mentioned is not legal. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 322 (323) : ILR (1944) Mad 796 (DB).

[11] Where a valid resolution of the directors declares shares to be forfeited, mere continuance of the owner's name on the share register is of no consequence. (1867) 4 Eq. 233 (238).

[12] There can be no ratification of ultra vires acts of directors without an intention to ratify and there can be no intention to ratify without knowledge of the illegality of the forfeiture. (Vol 25) 1938 PC 234 (239) : ILR (1939) Kar (PC) 16 : ILR (1939) Lah 1 (PC).

[13] Certain share-holders who received notice that if there was failure to pay by a certain date call in respect of allotment money, shares would be forfeited failed to pay. The Board of directors passed a resolution forfeiting the shares of certain other persons but the names of these share-holders were not included. It was held that the company continued to treat these as share-holders. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 873 (874).

[14] Where the Directors have once validly exercised the power of forfeiture, they or the company cannot revoke the forfeiture subsequently, without the consent of the share-holder, on the ground that there were some irregularities in their own procedure. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 267 (270) : 54 Bom 178 (DB).

[15] Where certain signatories of the memorandum and articles of association of a company had undertaken to purchase a certain number of shares but there was no term in the articles by which the signatories were to pay the amount on a particular date nor was any date fixed by the board of directors and having failed to pay the prescribed amount before the prescribed date fixed by the directors their shares were forfeited. Held that such amount was not presently due and hence their shares were not liable to forfeiture. (Vol 26) 1939 All 739 (743).

[16] A compromise by director of unpaid calls under guise of forfeiture is ultra vires and invalid though beneficial to the company, unless expressly ratified by all the share-holders or unless all, with notice or knowledge acquiesced in what has been done. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 267 (270) : 54 Bom 178 (DB).

2. Surrender.—[1] The principle applicable to to cases of surrender is that surrender is good if it amounts to forfeitures. A company cannot by a resolution of its directors accept surrender of shares unless its act can be brought within rules relating to forfeiture—(Vol 15) 1928 Lah 240 (241). ((1870) 5 Ch App 22 Distinguishing) * (1928) 110 Ind Cas 421 (422) (Lah). * (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 703 (704) (Though the articles authorised acceptance of surrender, it will not be valid unless it took place in circumstances which will justify forfeiture). * (Vol 21) 1934 Sind 39 (43).

[2] Persons who set up a plea of surrender should prove that there was a surrender and that it was accepted by the directors. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 187 (188) : 32 Sind LR 167 (DB).

REGULATION 27—Note 1.

[1] Where the language of the articles implied an interval between forfeiture and disposal of the shares it was held that there was no obligation on the directors to sell or ascertain the value of a forfeited share the moment it was forfeited. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 190 (191)

REGULATION 28—Note 1.

[1] When forfeiture of shares occurs for non-payment of money and the share holder ceases to be a member of the Company, he ceases to be liable to pay any further moneys in his capacity as share-holder and any further liability of the defendant must be based on some separate contract making him liable to pay these moneys after he had ceased to be a share-holder. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 97 (97) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 252 (253) : 52 Bom 477 (DB).

[2] When one ceases to be a share-holder as a consequence of forfeiture, no interest could be allowed after date of forfeiture and before the suit in the absence of any provision of law or contract. (Vol 19) 1932 All 342 (343, 344) : 54 All 541 (DB).

[3] Official liquidator cannot take advantage of any irregularity in the procedure of the directors in forfeiting the shares, so long as the directors were acting intra vires and bona fide. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 70 (71).

[4] Subscriber of share failing to pay part of call money and shares forfeited—Company in voluntary liquidation—Suit by liquidator for recovery of balance within three years of forfeiture but beyond three years of default. Held that suit was governed by Art. 115 Limitation Act, and filed within time (Vol 19) 1932 All 342 (343) : 54 All 541 (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 252 (253) : 52 Bom 477 (DB).

[5] A person whose shares have been forfeited is liable with regard to unpaid calls not as a contributory either as a present or past member but as a debtor to the company. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 252 (253) : 52 Bom 477 (DB).

29. A duly verified declaration in writing that the declarant is a director of the company, and that a share in the company has been duly forfeited on a date stated in the declaration, shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein stated as against all persons claiming to be entitled to the share, and that declaration, and the receipt of the company for the consideration, if any, given for the share on the sale or disposition thereof, shall constitute a good title to the share, and the person to whom the share is sold or disposed of shall be registered as the holder of the share and shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase-money (if any), nor shall his title to the share be affected by any irregularity or invalidity in the proceedings in reference to the forfeiture, sale or disposal of the share.

[(1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 28]

30. The provisions of these regulations as to forfeiture shall apply in the case of non-payment of any sum which, by the terms of issue of a share, becomes payable at a fixed time, whether on account of the amount of the share, or by way of premium, as if the same had been payable by virtue of a call duly made and notified.

Conversion of shares into stock.

31. The directors may, with the sanction of the company previously given in general meeting, convert any paid-up shares into stock, and may with the like sanction re-convert any stock into paid-up shares of any denomination.

[See Ss. 50 (1) (c), 52; (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 30]

32. The holders of stock may transfer the same, or any part thereof, in the same manner, and subject to the same regulations, as and subject to which, the shares from which the stock arose might previously to conversion have been transferred, or as near thereto as circumstances admit; but the directors may, from time to time fix the minimum amount of stock transferable and restrict or forbid the transfer of fractions of that minimum, but the minimum shall not exceed the nominal amount of the shares from which the stock arose.

[(1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 31]

33. The holders of stock shall, according to the amount of the stock held by them, have the same rights, privileges and advantages as regards dividends, voting at meetings of the company, and other matters, as if they held the shares from which the stock arose, but no such privilege or advantage (except participation in the dividends and profits of the company) shall be conferred by any such aliquot part of stock as would not, if existing in shares, have conferred that privilege or advantage.

[(1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sc. I, Table A, Reg. 32]

34. Such of the regulations of the company (other than those relating to share-warrants), as are applicable to paid-up shares shall apply to stock, and the words "shares" and "shareholder" therein shall include "stock" and "stockholder."

Share-warrants.

35. The company may issue share-warrants, and accordingly the directors may in their discretion, with respect to any share which is fully paid up, on application in writing signed by the person registered as holder of the share, and authenticated by such evidence (if any) as the directors may from time to time require as to the identity of the person signing the request, and on receiving the certificate (if any) of the share, and the amount of the stamp-duty on the warrant and such fee as the directors may from time to time require, issue under the company's seal a warrant, duly stamped, stating that the bearer of the warrant is entitled to the shares therein specified, and may provide by coupons or otherwise for the payment of dividends, or other moneys on the shares included in the warrant.

36. A share-warrant shall entitle the bearer to the shares included in it, and the share shall be transferred by the delivery of the share-warrant, and the provisions of the regulations of the company with respect to transfer and transmission of shares shall not apply thereto.

37. The bearer of a share-warrant shall, on surrender of the warrant to the company for cancellation, and on payment of such sum as the directors may from time to time prescribe, be entitled to have his name entered as a member in the register of members in respect of the shares included in the warrant.

38. The bearer of a share-warrant may at any time deposit the warrant at the office of the company, and so long as the warrant remains so deposited, the depositor shall have the same right of signing a requisition for calling a meeting of the company, and of attending and voting and exercising the other privileges of a member at any meeting held after the expiration of two clear days from the time of deposit, as if his name were inserted in the register of members or the holder of the shares included in the deposited warrant. Not more than one person shall be recognised as depositor of the share-warrant. The company shall, on two days' written notice, return the deposited share-warrant to the depositor.

39. Subject as herein otherwise expressly provided, no person shall, as bearer of a share-warrant, sign a requisition for calling a meeting of the company, or attend, or vote or exercise any other privilege of a member at a meeting of the company, or be entitled to receive any notices from the company; but the bearer of a share-warrant shall be entitled in all other respects to the same privileges and advantages as if he were named in the register of members as the holder of the shares included in the warrant, and he shall be a member of the company.

40. The directors may, from time to time, make rules as to the terms on which (if they shall think fit) a new share-warrant or coupon may be issued by way of renewal in case of defacement, loss or destruction.

Alteration of Capital.

41. The directors may, with the sanction of a [the company in general meeting], increase the share capital by such sum to be divided into shares of such amount, as the resolution shall prescribe.

[See S. 50 (1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sch. I, Table A, Reg. 34]

[a] Substituted by the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936 (22 [XXII] of 1936), S. 122, for "an extraordinary resolution of the company". [15-1-1937.]

42. Subject to any direction to the contrary that may be given by the resolution sanctioning the increase of share capital, all new shares shall, before issue, be offered to such persons as at the date of the offer are entitled to receive notices from the company of general meetings in proportion, as nearly as the circumstances admit, to the amount of the existing shares to which they are entitled. The offer shall be made by notice specifying the number of shares offered, and limiting a time within which the offer, if not accepted, will be deemed to be declined, and after the expiration of that time, or on the receipt of an intimation from the person to whom the offer is made that he declines to accept the shares offered, the directors may dispose of the same in such manner as they think most beneficial to the company. The directors may likewise so dispose of any new shares which (by reason of the ratio which the new shares bear to shares held by persons entitled to an offer of new shares) cannot, in the opinion of the directors, be conveniently offered under this article.

[(1929) 19 and 20 Geo. V, C. 23—Sch. I, Table A, Reg. 35]

43. The new shares shall be subject to the same provisions with reference to the payment of calls, lien, transfer, transmission, forfeiture and otherwise as the shares in the original share capital.

REGULATION 42—Note 1.

[1] Whether a suit by a share-holder for a declaration that allotment of new shares in consequence of a resolution, is in itself invalid, deciding to increase the capital of the company by issue of new shares to certain persons is illegal and that they cannot act as share-holders of the company is not maintainable. Even assuming that such a suit lies, it is bad under the proviso of section 42, Specific Relief Act, for want of consequential relief such as rectification of the register, removal of the names of those share-holders and prayer for injunction. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 714 (715) (DB).

44. The company may, by ^a[ordinary resolution],—

- (a) consolidate and divide its share capital into shares of larger amount than its existing shares ;
- (b) by sub-division of its existing shares or any of them, divide the whole or any part of its share capital into shares of smaller amount than is fixed by the memorandum of association, subject, nevertheless, to the provisions of paragraph (d) of sub-section (1) of section 50 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 ;
- (c) cancel any shares which, at the date of the passing of the resolution, have not been taken or agreed to be taken by any person ;

In default of a general meeting being so held, a general meeting shall be held in the month next following, and may be called by any two members in the same manner as nearly as possible as that in which meetings are to be called by the directors.

[3] Although directors differ from trustees in some respects yet to the extent of their being entrusted with the monies of the company they are trustees and they are jointly and severally liable for breach of trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 293 (299).

[4] Directors of companies are not trustees in whom the property of the companies has become vested in trust for any specific purpose within the meaning of section 10, Limitation Act. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 58 (59); 54 Mad 153 (DB).

[5] Suit against director who fraudulently sanctioned loan in violation of the rules is one for the breach of fiduciary obligation and not merely for compensation for the loss committed. [8] Where an article of association comprises the indemnity to directors for anything done by them, except where loss has been incurred as the result of wilful neglect or wilful default on their part, in order to be guilty of wilful negligence the director must not only be guilty of negligence, but he must know that he is committing a breach of duty or is recklessly careless in the matter. A director is justified in trusting the integrity, skill and competence of the officials unless he has ground for suspicion. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 124 (127); I L R (1938) Mad 292 (DB).

[9] Any person dealing with a company is supposed to be acquainted with its articles and memorandum and, therefore to be aware of the powers that the directors have company cannot be bound by any contract which is entered into by the directors and which is beyond their powers even though it subsequently ratified it. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 227 (229) (obiter).

[1] Regulation 73 cannot be interpreted narrowly to mean that the Court has no power to inquire into initial borrowing by the directors. The regulation fixes the limit at any time, and the words "for the time being" do not mean "when the claim is made" (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 62 (63); 60 Bom 326 (Per Kania, J).

[2] Where the principal (the company) through its agents (the directors or the managing agents) borrows money which the principal has not authorised the agents to borrow and the money having been borrowed and used by the principal, the principal (the company) cannot repudiate its liability to repay on the ground that the agents had no authority from the principal to borrow. When these facts are established a claim on the footing of money had and received would be maintainable. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 62 (66); 60 Bom 326 (Per Kania, J).

[3] Regulation 73 limits the directors' authority to borrow. The requirement of the regulation is that the directors shall so restrict their borrowing that the amount for the time being remaining undischarged shall not exceed the limit specified. The Seal.

76. The seal of the company shall not be affixed to any instrument except by the authority of a resolution of the board of directors, and in the presence of at least two directors and of the secretary or such other person as the directors may appoint for the purpose ; and those two directors and secretary or other person as aforesaid shall sign every instrument to which the seal of the company is so affixed in their presence.

77. The office of director shall be vacated if the director—

- ^a[(a) fails to obtain within the time specified in subsection (1) of section 6[85] of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or at any time thereafter ceases to hold, the share qualification, if any, necessary for his appointment ; or tion that beyond the specified limit further borrowing, though not prohibited, are to be expended in reduction of existing loans. (Vol 25) 1938 PC. 159 (164): ILR. (1938) Bom 421: 32 Sind LR. 517 (PC).

[4] Where, however, the loans, although in excess of the authority of the directors, are not ultra vires, the money having been received by the company and applied for its purposes, the official liquidator of the company cannot, during the winding up proceedings, reduce the balance outstanding at the date of liquidation by disputing the liability of the company to pay the whole sums advanced. (Vol 25) 1938 PC 159 (164): ILR. (1938) Bom 421: 32 Sind LR. 517 (PC).

[5] The question of the directors exceeding borrowing powers conferred upon them by articles of association is essentially a question of internal management and Court will not go into that question on a winding up petition, especially when company has by resolution ratified the borrowings and has taken the view that the directors have acted in the best interests of the company. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 231 (236).

REGULATION 76—Note 1.

[1] A document though defective with respect to the seal affixed thereto, is not bad for all purposes and if the Court is satisfied that the parties intended and had power to make the contract it will give effect to the intention. The position is further strengthened if the document has been acted upon by the company. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 782 (787): 57 Cal 1101 (DB). (Only one director present and signing).

[2] The point that Regn 76 of Table A of Sch 1 Companies Act, was applicable to the company depends upon the question whether there was a special resolution of the company adopting Table A. (Vol 80) 1948 Cal 455 (456): 44 Cr L Jour 790: ILR. (1948) Cal 59 (DB).

- (e) without the sanction of the company in general meeting accepts or holds any office of profit under the company other than that of a managing director or manager or a legal or technical adviser or a banker ; or
- (f) absents himself from three consecutive meetings of the directors or from all meetings of the directors for a continuous period of three months, whichever is longer, without leave of absence from the board of directors ; or
- (g) accepts a loan from the company ; or]
- ^a[(h)] is concerned or participates in the profits of any contract with the company ; or
- ^a[(i)] is punished with imprisonment for a term exceeding six months :

Provided, however, that no director shall vacate his office by reason of his being a member of any company which has entered into contracts with, or done any work for, the company of which he is director, but a director shall not vote in respect of any such contract or work, and if he does so vote, his vote shall not be counted.

APPENDIX I.

(Table B in Schedule to Act XIX of 1857.)*

REGULATIONS FOR MANAGEMENT OF THE COMPANY.

Shares.

1. No person shall be deemed to have accepted any share in the company unless he has testified his acceptance thereof by writing under his hand in such form as the Company from time to time directs.

2. The Company may from time to time make such calls upon the share holders, in respect of all moneys unpaid on their shares, as they think fit, provided that twenty-one days' notice at least is given of each call ; and each shareholder shall be liable to pay the amount of calls so made to the persons and at the times and places appointed by the Company.

3. A call shall be deemed to have been made at the time when the resolution authorizing such call was passed.

4. If, before or on the day appointed for payment, any shareholder does not pay the amount of any call to which he is liable, then such shareholder shall be liable to pay interest for the same at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum from the day appointed for the payment thereof to the time of the actual payment.

5 The Company may, if they think fit, receive, from any of the shareholders willing to advance the same, all or any part of the moneys due upon their respective shares beyond the sums actually called for, and upon the moneys so paid in advance, or so much thereof as from time to time exceeds the amount of the calls then made upon the shares in respect of which such advance has been made, the Company may pay interest at such rate as the shareholder paying such sum in advance and the Company agree upon.

[a.] See S. 290 (1) (b) of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 (7 [VII] of 1913). The Table is reproduced here as an Appendix for convenience of reference.

6. If several persons are registered as joint holders of any share, any one of such persons may give effectual receipts for any dividend payable in respect of such share.

7. The Company may decline to register any transfer of shares made by a shareholder who is indebted to them.

8. Every shareholder shall, on payment of such sum not exceeding eight annas as the Company may prescribe, be entitled to a certificate, under the common seal of the Company, specifying the share or shares held by him, and the amount paid up thereon.

9. If such certificate is worn out or lost, it may be renewed on payment of such sum, not exceeding eight annas, as the Company may prescribe.

10. The transfer books shall be closed during the fourteen days immediately preceding the ordinary general meeting in each year.

Transmission of Shares.

11. The executors or administrators or representatives of a deceased shareholder shall be the only persons recognized by the Company as having any title to his share.

12. Any person becoming entitled to a share in consequence of the death, bankruptcy or insolvency of any shareholder, or in consequence of the marriage of any female shareholder or in any way other than by transfer, may be registered as a shareholder upon such evidence being produced as may from time to time be required by the Company.

13. Any person who has become entitled to a share in any way other than by transfer may, instead of being registered himself, elect to have some person to be named by him registered as a holder of such share.

14. The person so becoming entitled shall testify such election by executing to his nominee a transfer of such share.

15. The instrument of transfer shall be presented to the Company accompanied with such evidence as they may require to prove the title of the transferor, and thereupon the Company shall register the transferee as a shareholder.

Forfeiture of Shares.

16. If any shareholder fails to pay any call due on the appointed day, the Company may, at any time thereafter, during such time as the call remains unpaid, serve a notice on him, requiring him to pay such call, together with any interest that may have accrued by reason of such non-payment.

17. The notice shall name a further date, and a place or places, being a place or places, at which calls of the Company are usually made payable, on and at which such call is to be paid; it shall also state that, in the event of non-payment at the time and place appointed, the shares in respect of which such call was made will be liable to be forfeited.

18. If the requisitions of any such notice as aforesaid are not complied with, any share in respect of which such notice has been given may be forfeited by a resolution of the directors to that effect.

19. Any shares so forfeited shall be deemed to be the property of the Company, and may be disposed of in such manner as the Company thinks fit.

20. Any shareholder whose shares have been forfeited shall notwithstanding be liable to pay to the Company all calls owing upon such shares at the time of the forfeiture.

Increase in Capital.

21. The Company may, with the sanction of the Company previously given in general meeting, increase its capital.

22. Any capital raised by the creation of new shares shall be considered as part of the original capital, and shall be subject to the same provisions in all respects, whether with reference to the payment of calls, or the forfeiture of shares on non-payment of calls or otherwise, as if it had been part of the original capital.

General Meetings.

23. The first general meeting shall be held at such time, not being more than twelve months after the incorporation of the Company, and at such place as the directors may determine.

24. Subsequent general meetings shall be held at such time and place as may be prescribed by the Company in general meeting; and if no other time or place is prescribed, a general meeting shall be held on the ^a[first Monday in February] in every year, at such place as may be determined by the directors.

[a.] The bracketted portion read originally as follows: " day of ".

25. The above-mentioned general meetings shall be called ordinary meetings; all other general meetings shall be called extraordinary.

26. The directors may, whenever they think fit and they shall, upon a requisition made in writing by any number of shareholders holding in the aggregate not less than one-fifth part of the shares of the Company, convene an extraordinary general meeting.

27. Any requisition so made by the shareholders shall express the object of the meeting proposed to be called, and shall be left at the registered office of the Company.

28. Upon the receipt of such requisition, the directors shall forthwith proceed to convene a general meeting; if they do not proceed to convene the same within twenty-one days from the date of the requisition, the requisitionists, or any other shareholders holding the required number of shares, may themselves convene a meeting.

29. Seven days' notice at the least, specifying the place, the time, the hour of meeting, and the purpose for which any general meeting is to be held, shall be given by advertisement, or in such other manner (if any) as may be prescribed by the Company.

30. Any shareholder may, on giving not less than three days' previous notice, submit any resolution to a meeting beyond the matters contained in the notice given of such meeting.

31. The notice required of a shareholder shall be given by leaving a copy of the resolution at the registered office of the Company.

32. No business shall be transacted at any meeting, except the declaration of a dividend, unless a quorum of shareholders is present at the commencement of such business; and such quorum shall be ascertained as follows (that is to say); if the shareholders belonging to the Company at the time of the meeting do not exceed ten in number, the quorum shall be five; if they exceed ten, there shall be added to the above quorum one for every five additional shareholders up to fifty, and one for every ten additional shareholders after fifty, with this limitation, that it shall not be necessary for any quorum in any case to exceed forty.

33. If within one hour from the time appointed for the meeting the required number of shareholders is not present, the meeting, if convened upon the requisition of the shareholders, shall be dissolved; in any other case it shall stand adjourned to the following day at the same time and place; and if at such adjourned meeting the required number of shareholders is not present, it shall be adjourned sine die.

34. The chairman (if any) of the Board of Directors shall preside as chairman at every meeting of the Company.

35. If there is no such chairman, or if at any meeting he is not present at the time of holding the same, the shareholders present shall choose some one of their number to be chairman of such meeting.

36. The chairman may, with the consent of the meeting, adjourn any meeting from time to time and from place to place; but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned meeting other than the business left unfinished at the meeting from which the adjournment took place.

37. At any general meeting, unless a poll is demanded by at least five shareholders, a declaration by the chairman that a resolution has been carried, and an entry to that effect in the book of proceedings of the Company, shall be sufficient evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favour of or against such resolution.

38. If a poll is demanded in manner aforesaid, the same shall be taken in such manner as the chairman directs; and the result of such poll shall be deemed to be the resolution of the Company in general meeting.

Votes of Shareholders.

39. Every shareholder shall have one vote for every share up to ten; he shall have an additional vote for every five shares beyond the first ten shares up to one hundred, and an additional vote for every ten shares held by him beyond the first hundred shares.

40. If any shareholder is a lunatic or idiot, he may vote by his committee; and if any shareholder is a minor, he may vote by his guardian, or any one of his guardians if more than one.

41. If more persons than one are jointly entitled to a share or shares, the person whose name stands first in the register of shareholders as one of the holders of such share or shares, and no other, shall be entitled to vote in respect of the same.

42. No shareholder shall be entitled to vote at any meeting unless all calls due from him have been paid, nor until he shall have been possessed of his shares three calendar months, unless such shares shall have been acquired or shall have come by bequest, or by marriage, or by succession to an intestate's estate, or by any deed of settlement after the death of any person who shall have been entitled for life to the dividends of such shares.

43. Votes may be given either personally or by proxies; a proxy shall be appointed in writing under the hand of the appointer, or, if such appointer is a corporation, under their common seal.

44. No person shall be appointed a proxy who is not a shareholder, and the instrument appointing him shall be deposited at the registered office of the Company not less than forty-eight hours before the time of holding the meeting at which he proposes to vote; but no instrument appointing a proxy shall be valid after the expiration of one month from the date of its execution.

Directors.

45. The number of the directors, and the names of the first directors shall be determined by the subscribers of the memorandum of association.

46. Until directors are appointed, the subscribers of the memorandum of association shall for all the purposes of this Act be deemed to be directors.

Powers of Directors.

47. The business of the Company shall be managed by the directors, who may exercise all such powers of the Company as are not by this Act or by the articles of association (if any) declared to be exercisable by the Company in general meeting, subject nevertheless to any regulations of the articles of association, to the provisions of this Act, and to such regulations, not being inconsistent with the aforesaid regulations or provisions, as may be prescribed by the Company in general meeting, but no regulation made by the Company in general meeting shall invalidate any prior act of the directors which would have been valid if such regulation had not been made.

Disqualification of Directors.

48. The office of director shall be vacated—if he holds any other office or place of profit under the Company;
if he becomes bankrupt or insolvent;
if he is concerned in or participates in the profits of any contract with the Company;
if he participates in the profits of any work done for the Company.

But the above rules shall be subject to the following exceptions :—that no director shall vacate his office by reason of his being a shareholder in any incorporated Company which has entered into contracts with or done any work for the Company of which he is director; nevertheless he shall not vote in respect of such contract or work; and, if he does so vote, his vote shall not be counted, and he shall incur a penalty, not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Rotation of Directors.

49. At the first ordinary meeting after the incorporation of the Company the whole of the directors shall retire from office; and at the first ordinary meeting in every subsequent year, one-third of the directors for the time being, or, if their number is not a multiple of three, then the number nearest to one-third, shall retire from office.

50. The one-third or other nearest number to retire during the first and second years ensuing the incorporation of the Company shall, unless the directors agree among themselves, be determined by ballot; in every subsequent year the one-third or other nearest number who have been longest in office shall retire.

51. A retiring director shall be re-eligible.

52. The Company at the general meeting at which any directors retire in manner aforesaid shall fill up the vacated offices by electing a like number of persons.

53. If at any meeting at which an election of directors ought to take place no such election is made, the meeting shall stand adjourned till the next day, at the same time and place, and, if at such adjourned meeting no election takes place, the former directors shall continue to act until new directors are appointed at the first ordinary meeting of the following year.

54. The Company may from time to time, in general meeting, increase or reduce the number of directors, and may also determine in what rotation such increased or reduced number is to go out of office.

55. Any casual vacancy occurring in the Board of Directors may be filled up by the directors; but any person so chosen shall retain his office so long only as the vacating director would have retained the same if no vacancy had occurred.

Proceedings of Directors.

56. The directors may meet together for the despatch of business, adjourn and otherwise regulate their meetings, as they think fit, and determine the quorum necessary for the transaction of business; questions arising at any meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes; in case of an equality of votes, the chairman, in addition to his original vote, shall have a casting vote; a director may at any time summon a meeting of the directors.

57. The directors may elect a chairman of their meetings and determine the period for which he is to hold office; but if no such chairman is elected or if at any meeting the chairman is not present at the time appointed for holding the same, the directors present shall choose some one of their number to be chairman of such meeting.

58. The directors may delegate any of their powers to committees consisting of such member or members of their body as they think fit: any committee so formed shall, in the exercise of the powers so delegated, conform to any regulations that may be imposed on them by the directors.

59. A committee may elect a chairman of their meetings: if no such chairman is elected, or if he is not present at the time appointed for holding the same, the members present shall choose one of their number to be chairman of such meeting.

60. A committee may meet and adjourn as they think proper: questions at any meeting shall be determined by a majority of votes of the members present; and in case of an equal division of votes, the chairman shall have a casting vote.

61. All acts done by any meeting of the directors, or of a committee of directors, or by any person acting as a director, shall notwithstanding that it be afterwards discovered that there was some defect in the appointment of any such directors or persons acting as aforesaid, or that they or any of them were disqualified, be as valid as if every such person had been duly appointed and was qualified to be a director.

62. The director shall cause minutes to be made in books provided for the purpose—

- (1) of all appointments of officers made by the directors;
- (2) of the names of the directors present at each meeting of directors and committees of directors;
- (3) of all orders made by the directors and committees of directors; and
- (4) of all resolutions and proceedings of meetings of the Company, and of the directors and committees of directors.

And any such minute as aforesaid if signed by any person purporting to be the chairman of any meeting of directors, or committee of directors, shall be receivable in evidence without any further proof.

63. The Company, in general meeting, may, by a special resolution, remove any director before the expiration of his period of office, and appoint another qualified person in his stead; the person so appointed shall hold office during such time only as the director in whose place he is appointed would have held the same if he had not been removed.

Dividends.

64. The directors may, with the sanction of the Company in general meeting declare a dividend to be paid to the shareholders in proportion to their shares.

65. The directors may, before recommending any dividend, set aside out of the profits of the Company such sum as they think proper as a reserved fund to meet contingencies, or for equalizing dividends, or for repairing or maintaining the works connected with the business of the Company, or any part thereof ; and the directors may invest the sum so set apart as a reserved fund upon such securities as they, with the sanction of the Company, may select.

66. The directors may deduct from the dividends payable to any shareholder all such sums of money as may be due from him to the Company on account of calls or otherwise.

67. Notice of any dividend that may have been declared shall be given to each shareholder or sent by post or otherwise to his registered place of abode ; and all dividends unclaimed for three years, after having been declared, may be forfeited by the directors for the benefit of the Company.

68. No dividend shall bear interest as against the Company.

Accounts.

69. Once at the least in every year the directors shall lay before the Company in general meeting a statement of the income and expenditure for the past year made up to a date not more than three months before such meeting.

70. The statement so made shall show, arranged under the most convenient heads, the amount of gross income, distinguishing the several sources from which it has been derived, and the amount of gross expenditure, distinguishing the expense of the establishment, salaries, and other like matters ; every item of expenditure fairly chargeable against the year's income shall be brought into account, so that a just balance of profit and loss may be laid before the meeting ; and in cases where any item of expenditure which may in fairness be distributed over several years has been incurred in any one year, the whole amount of such item shall be stated, with the addition of the reasons why only a portion of such expenditure is charged against the income of the year.

71. A balance-sheet shall be made out in every year, and laid before the general meeting of the Company ; and such balance-sheet shall contain a summary of the property and liabilities of the Company arranged under the heads appearing in the form annexed to this table, or as near thereto as circumstances admit.

72. A printed copy of such balance-sheet shall, seven days previously to such meeting, be delivered at or sent by post to the registered address of every shareholder.

Audit.

73. The accounts of the Company shall be examined, and the correctness of the balance-sheet ascertained by one or more auditor or auditors to be elected by the Company in general meeting.

74. If not more than one auditor is appointed, all the provisions herein contained relating to auditors shall apply to him.

75. The auditors need not be shareholders in the Company : no person is eligible as an auditor who is interested otherwise than as a shareholder in any transaction of the Company ; and no director or other officer of the Company is eligible during his continuance in office.

76. The election of auditors shall be made by the Company at their ordinary meeting, or, if there are more than one, at their first ordinary meeting in each year.

77. The remuneration of the auditors shall be fixed by the Company at the time of their election.

78. Any auditor shall be re-eligible on his quitting office.

79. If any casual vacancy occurs in the office of auditor, the directors shall forthwith call an extraordinary general meeting for the purpose of supplying the same.

80. If no election of auditors is made in manner aforesaid, the Local Government may, on the application of one-fifth in number of the shareholders of the Company, appoint an auditor for the current year, and fix the remuneration to be paid to him by the Company for his services.

81. Every auditor shall be supplied with a copy of the balance-sheet, and it shall be his duty to examine the same with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto.

82. Every auditor shall have a list delivered to him of all books kept by the Company, and he shall at all reasonable times have access to the books and accounts of the Company ; he may, at the expense of the Company, employ accountants or other persons to assist him in investigating such accounts and he may in relation to such accounts examine the directors or any other officer of the Company.

83. The auditors shall make a report to the shareholders upon the balance sheet and accounts ; and in every such report they shall state whether in their opinion the balance-sheet is a full and fair balance-sheet, containing the particulars required by these regulations, and properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Company's affairs ; and in case they have called for explanations or information from the directors, whether such explanations or information have been given by the directors, and whether they have been satisfactory ; and such report shall be read, together with the report of the directors, at the ordinary meeting.

Notices.

84. Notices requiring to be served by the Company upon the shareholders may be served either personally, or by leaving the same, or sending them through the post in a letter addressed to the shareholders, at their registered places of abode.

85. All notices directed to be given to the shareholders shall, with respect to any share to which persons are jointly entitled, be given to whichever of the said persons is named first in the register of shareholders ; and notice so given, shall be sufficient notice to all the proprietors of such share.

APPENDIX II.

(Table A in the First Schedule to Act VI of 1882.)^a

REGULATIONS FOR MANAGEMENT OF A COMPANY LIMITED BY SHARES.

Shares.

(1) If several persons are registered as joint holders of any share, any one of such persons may give effectual receipts for any dividend payable in respect of such share.

(2) Every member shall, on payment of eight annas or such less sum as the Company in general meeting may prescribe, be entitled to a certificate under the common seal of the Company, specifying the share or shares held by him, and the amount paid up thereon.

(3) If such certificate is worn out or lost, it may be renewed on payment of eight annas or such less sum as the Company in general meeting may prescribe.

Calls on Shares.

(4) The directors may from time to time make such calls upon the members in respect of all moneys unpaid on their shares as they think fit, provided that twenty-one days' notice at least is given of each call; and each member shall be liable to pay the amount of calls so made to the persons and at the times and places appointed by the directors.

(5) A call shall be deemed to have been made at the time when the resolution of the directors authorising such call was passed.

(6) If the call payable in respect of any share is not paid before or on the day appointed for payment thereof, the holder for the time being of such share shall be liable to pay interest for the same at the rate of five per cent. per annum from the day appointed for the payment thereof to the time of the actual payment.

(7) The directors may, if they think fit, receive, from any member willing to advance the same, all or any part of the moneys due upon the shares held by him beyond the sums actually called for; and, upon the moneys so paid in advance, or so much thereof as from time to time exceeds the amount of the calls then made upon the shares in respect of which such advance has been made, the Company may pay interest at such rate as the member paying such sum in advance and the directors agree upon.

Transfers of Shares.

(8) The instrument of transfer of any share in the Company shall be executed both by the transferor and transferee, and the transferor shall be deemed to remain a holder of such share until the name of the transferee is entered in the register book in respect thereof.

(9) Shares in the Company shall be transferred in the following form :

I, A B of _____, in consideration of the sum of rupees _____ paid to me by C D of _____, do hereby transfer to the said C D the share (or shares) numbered _____ standing in my name in the books of the _____ Company to hold unto the said C D, his executors, administrators and assigns, subject to the several conditions on which I held the same at the time of the execution thereof; and I, the said C D, do hereby agree to take the said share (or shares) subject to the same conditions. As witness our hands the _____ day of _____.

(10) The Company may decline to register any transfer of shares made by a member who is indebted to them.

(11) The transfer books shall be closed during the fourteen days immediately preceding the ordinary general meeting in each year.

Transmission of Shares.

(12) The executors or administrators of a deceased member shall be the only persons recognised by the Company as having any title to his share.

(13) Any person becoming entitled to a share in consequence of the death, bankruptcy or insolvency of any member, or in consequence of the marriage of any female member, may be registered as a member upon such evidence being produced as may, from time to time, be required by the Company.

(14) Any person who has become entitled to a share in consequence of the death, bankruptcy or insolvency of any member or in consequence of the marriage of any female member, may, instead of being registered himself, elect to have some person to be named by him registered as a transferee of such share.

(15) The person so becoming entitled shall testify such election by executing to his nominee an instrument of transfer of such share.

(16) The instrument of transfer shall be presented to the Company, together with such evidence as the directors may require to prove the title of the transferee, and thereupon the Company shall register the transferee as a member.

Forfeiture of Shares.

(17) If any member fails to pay any call on the day appointed for payment thereof, the directors may, at any time thereafter, during such time as the call remains unpaid, serve a notice on him requiring him to pay such call together with interest and any expenses that may have accrued by reason of such non-payment.

(18) The notice shall name a further day on or before which such call and all interest and expenses that have accrued by reason of such non-payment are to be paid. It shall also name the place where payment is to be made, the place so named being either the registered office of the Company or some other place at which calls of the Company are usually made payable. The notice shall also state that, in the event of non-payment at or before the time and at the place appointed, the shares in respect of which such call was made will be liable to be forfeited.

(19) If the requisitions of any such notice as aforesaid are not complied with, any share in respect of which such notice has been given may at any time thereafter, before payment of all calls, interest and expenses due in respect thereof has been made, be forfeited by a resolution of the directors to that effect.

(20) Any share so forfeited shall be deemed to be the property of the Company and may be disposed of in such manner as the Company in general meeting thinks fit.

The Table is reproduced here as an appendix for convenience of reference.

(21) Any member whose shares have been forfeited shall notwithstanding be liable to pay to the Company all calls owing upon such shares at the time of the forfeiture.

(22) A solemn declaration in writing, made before a Magistrate, that the call in respect of a share was made and notice thereof given, and that default in payment of the call was made and that the forfeiture of the share was made by a resolution of the directors to that effect, shall be sufficient evidence of the facts therein stated as against all persons entitled to such share and such declaration and the receipt of the Company for the price of such share shall constitute a good title to such share, and a certificate of proprietorship shall be delivered to the purchaser, and thereupon he shall be deemed the holder of such share discharged from all calls due prior to such purchase, and he shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase-money, nor shall his title to such share be affected by any irregularity in the proceedings in reference to such sale.

Conversion of Shares into Stock.

(23) The directors may, with the sanction of the Company previously given in general meeting, convert any paid up shares into stock.

(24) When any shares have been converted into stock, the several holders of such stock may thenceforth transfer their respective interests therein, or any part of such interest, in the same manner and subject to the same regulations as and subject to which any shares in the capital of the Company may be transferred, or as near thereto as circumstances admit.

(25) The several holders of stock shall be entitled to participate in the dividends and profits of the Company according to the amount of their respective interests in such stock; and such interests shall, in proportion to the amount thereof, confer on the holders thereof, respectively, the same privileges and advantages for the purpose of voting at meetings of the Company and for other purposes as would have been conferred by shares of equal amount in the capital of the Company; but so that none of such privileges or advantages, except the participation in the dividends and profits of the Company, shall be conferred by any such aliquot part of the consolidated stock as would not, if existing in shares have conferred such privileges or advantages.

Increase in Capital.

(26) The directors may, with the sanction of a special resolution of the Company previously given in general meeting, increase its capital by the issue of new shares, such aggregate increase to be of such amount, and to be divided into shares of such respective amounts, as the Company in general meeting directs, or, if no direction is given, as the directors think expedient.

(27) Subject to any direction to the contrary that may be given by the meeting that sanctions the increase of capital, all new shares shall be offered to the members in proportion to the existing shares held by them, and such offer shall be made by notice specifying the number of shares to which the member is entitled and limiting a time within which the offer, if not accepted, will be deemed to be declined; and after the expiration of such time, or on the receipt of an intimation from the member to whom such notice is given that he declines to accept the shares offered, the directors may dispose of the same in such manner as they think most beneficial to the Company.

(28) Any capital raised by the creation of new shares shall be considered as part of the original capital, and shall be subject to the same provisions, with reference to the payment of calls, and the forfeiture of shares on non-payment of calls, or otherwise, as if it had been part of the original capital.

General Meetings.

(29) The first general meeting shall be held at such time, not being more than six months after the registration of the Company, and at such place as the directors may determine.

(30) Subsequent general meetings shall be held, once at the least in every year, at such time and place as may be prescribed by the Company in general meeting; and if no other time or place is prescribed a general meeting shall be held on the first Monday in February in every year, at such place as may be determined by the directors.

(31) The above mentioned general meetings shall be called ordinary meetings; all other general meetings shall be called extraordinary.

(32) The directors may, whenever they think fit, and they shall, upon a requisition made in writing by not less than one-fifth in number of the members of the Company, convene an extraordinary general meeting.

(33) Any requisition made by the members shall express the object of the meeting proposed to be called, and shall be left at the registered office of the Company.

(34) Upon the receipt of such requisition the directors shall forthwith proceed to convene an extraordinary general meeting. If they do not proceed to convene the same within twenty-one days from the date of the requisition, the requisitionists, or any other members amounting to the required number, may themselves convene an extraordinary general meeting.

Proceedings at General Meeting.

(35) Seven days' notice at the least, specifying the place, the day and the hour of meeting, and, in case of special business, the general nature of such business, shall be given to the members in manner hereinafter mentioned, or in such other manner, if any, as may be prescribed by the Company in general meeting; but the non-receipt of such notice by any member shall not invalidate the proceedings at any general meeting.

(36) All business shall be deemed special that is transacted at an extraordinary meeting, and all that is transacted at an ordinary meeting, with the exception of sanctioning a dividend, and the consideration of the accounts, balance-sheets and the ordinary report of the directors.

(37) No business shall be transacted at any general meeting except the declaration of a dividend, unless a quorum of members is present at the time when the meeting proceeds to business. Such quorum shall be ascertained as follows, that is to say:—If the persons who have taken shares in the Company at the time of the meeting do not exceed ten in number, the quorum shall be five; if they exceed ten, there shall be added to the above quorum one for every five additional members up to fifty, and one for every ten additional members after fifty, with this limitation that no quorum shall in any case exceed twenty.

(38) If, within one hour from the time appointed for the meeting, a quorum is not present, the meeting, if convened upon the requisition of members, shall be dissolved. In any other case, it shall stand adjourned to the same day in the next week, at the same time and place; and if, at such adjourned meeting, a quorum is not present, it shall be adjourned sine die.

(39) The chairman (if any) of the board of directors shall preside as chairman at every general meeting of the Company.

(40) If there is no such chairman, or if at any meeting he is not present within fifteen minutes after the time appointed for holding the meeting, the members present shall choose some one of their number to be chairman.

(41) The chairman may, with the consent of the meeting, adjourn any meeting from time to time and from place to place but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned meeting other than the business left unfinished at the meeting from which the adjournment took place.

(42) At any general meeting, unless a poll is demanded by at least five members, a declaration by the chairman that a resolution has been carried, and an entry to that effect in the book of proceedings of the Company, shall be sufficient evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favour of or against such resolution.

(43) If a poll is demanded by five or more members, it shall be taken in such manner as the chairman directs, and the result of such poll shall be deemed to be the resolution of the Company in general meeting. In the case of an equality of votes at any general meeting, the chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

Votes of Members.

(44) Every member shall have one vote for every share up to ten. He shall have an additional vote for every five shares beyond the first ten shares up to one hundred, and an additional vote for every ten shares beyond the first hundred shares.

(45) If any member is a lunatic or idiot, he may vote by his committee or other legal curator; and if any member is a minor, he may vote by his guardian or any one of his guardians if more than one.

(46) If one or more persons are jointly entitled to a share or shares, the member whose name stands first in the register of members as one of the holders of such share or shares, and no other, shall be entitled to vote in respect of the same.

(47) No member shall be entitled to vote at any general meeting unless all calls due from him have been paid, and no member shall be entitled to vote in respect of any share that he has acquired by transfer at any meeting held after the expiration of three months from the registration of the Company, unless he has been possessed of the share in respect of which he claims to vote for at least three months previously to the time of holding the meeting at which he proposes to vote.

(48) Votes may be given either personally or by proxy.

(49) The instrument appointing a proxy shall be in writing, under the hand of the appointor, or, if such appointor is a corporation, under their common seal, and shall be attested by one or more witness or witnesses. No person shall be appointed a proxy who is not a member of the Company.

(50) The instrument appointing a proxy shall be deposited at the registered office of the Company not less than seventy-two hours before the time for holding the meeting at which the person named in such instrument proposes to vote; but no instrument appointing a proxy shall be valid after the expiration of twelve months from the date of its execution.

(51) Any instrument appointing a proxy shall be in the following form:—

Company, Ltd.

I, _____, of _____, being a member of the Company, Limited, and entitled to _____ vote or _____ votes, hereby appoint _____, of _____, as my proxy to vote for me and on my behalf at the [ordinary or extraordinary as the case may be] general meeting of the Company to be held on the day of _____, and at any adjournment thereof (or at any meeting of the Company that may be held in the year _____).

As witness my hand, this _____ day of _____, Signed by the said in the presence of _____ Directors.

(52) The number of the directors, and the names of the first directors, shall be determined by the subscribers of the memorandum of association.

(53) Until directors are appointed, the subscribers of the memorandum of association shall be deemed to be directors.

(54) The future remuneration of the directors, and their remuneration for services performed previously to the first general meeting, shall be determined by the Company in general meeting.

Powers of Directors.

(55) The business of the Company shall be managed by the directors, who may pay all expenses incurred in getting up and registering the Company and may exercise all such powers of the Company as are not by the foregoing Act, or by these articles, required to be exercised by the Company in general meeting, subject nevertheless to any regulations of these articles, to the provisions of the foregoing Act and to such regulations, being not inconsistent with the aforesaid regulations, or provisions, as may be prescribed by the Company in general meeting; but no regulation made by the Company in general meeting shall invalidate any prior act of the directors which would have been valid if such regulation had not been made.

(56) The continuing directors may act notwithstanding any vacancy in their body.

Disqualification of Directors.

(57) The office of director shall be vacated —

if he, or any partner of his, or the firm of which he is a member, holds any other office or place of profit under the Company;

if he becomes bankrupt or insolvent;

if he is punished under any of the penal provisions of the foregoing Act;

if he is concerned in or participates in the profits of any contract with the Company.

But the above rules shall be subject to the following exceptions :—that no director shall vacate his office by reason of his being a member of any Company which has entered into contracts with, or done any work for, the Company of which he is director; nevertheless, he shall not vote in respect of such contract or work, and, if he does so vote, his vote shall not be counted.

Rotation of Directors.

(58) At the first ordinary meeting after the registration of the Company the whole of the directors shall retire from office; and at the first ordinary meeting in every subsequent year one-third of the directors for the time being, or, if their number is not a multiple of three, then the number nearest to one-third, shall retire from office.

(59) The one-third or other nearest number to retire during the first and second years ensuing the first ordinary meeting of the Company shall, unless the directors agree among themselves, be determined by ballot. In every subsequent year, the one-third or other nearest number who have been longest in office shall retire.

(60) A retiring director shall be re-eligible.

(61) The Company at the general meeting at which any directors retire in manner aforesaid shall fill up the vacated offices by electing a like number of persons.

(62) If at any meeting at which an election of directors ought to take place the places of the vacating directors are not filled up, the meeting shall stand adjourned till the same day in the next week, at the same time and place; and if at such adjourned meeting the places of the vacating directors are not filled up, the vacating directors, or such of them as have not had their places filled up, shall continue in office until the ordinary meeting in the next year, and so on from time to time until their places are filled up.

(63) The Company may from time to time, in general meeting, increase or reduce the number of directors, and may also determine in what rotation such increased or reduced number is to go out of office.

(64) Any casual vacancy occurring in the board of directors may be filled up by the directors, but any person so chosen shall retain his office so long only as the vacating director would have retained the same if no vacancy had occurred.

(65) The Company in general meeting may by a special resolution remove any director before the expiration of his period of office, and may by an ordinary resolution appoint another person in his stead. The person so appointed shall hold office during such time only as the director in whose place he is appointed would have held the same if he had not been removed.

Proceedings of Directors.

(66) The directors may meet together for the despatch of business, adjourn and otherwise regulate their meetings as they think fit, and determine the quorum necessary for the transaction of business. Questions arising at any meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes. In case of an equality of votes, the chairman shall have a second or casting vote. A director may at any time summon a meeting of the directors.

(67) The directors may elect a chairman of their meetings, and determine the period for which he is to hold office; but, if no such chairman is elected or if at any meeting the chairman is not present at the time appointed for holding the same, the directors present shall choose some one of their number to be chairman of such meeting.

(68) The directors may delegate any of their powers to committees consisting of such member or members of their body as they think fit. Any committee so formed shall, in the exercise of the powers so delegated, conform to any regulations that may be imposed on it by the directors.

(69) A committee may elect a chairman of its meetings. If no such chairman is elected, or if he is not present at the time appointed for holding the same, the members present shall choose one of their number to be chairman of such meeting.

(70) A committee may meet and adjourn as it thinks proper. Questions arising at any meeting shall be determined by a majority of votes of the members present; and, in case of an equality of votes, the chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

(71) All acts done by any meeting of the directors, or of a committee of directors, or by any person acting as a director, shall notwithstanding that it be afterwards discovered that there was some defect in the appointment of any such directors or persons acting as aforesaid, or that they or any of them were disqualified, be as valid as if every such person had been duly appointed and was qualified to be a director.

Dividends.

(72) The directors may, with the sanction of the Company in general meeting, declare a dividend to be paid to the members in proportion to their shares.

(73) No dividend shall be payable except out of the profits arising from the business of the Company.

(74) The directors may, before recommending any dividend, set aside out of the profits of the Company such sum as they think proper as a reserve fund to meet contingencies, or for equalizing dividends, or for repairing or maintaining the works connected with the business of the Company or any part thereof; and the directors may invest the sum so set apart as a reserved fund upon such securities as they may select.

(75) The directors may deduct from the dividends payable to any member all such sums of money as may be due from him to the Company on account of calls or otherwise.

(76) Notice of any dividend that may have been declared shall be given to each member in manner herein-after mentioned ; and all dividends unclaimed for three years after having been declared may be forfeited by the directors for the benefit of the Company.

(77) No dividend shall bear interest as against the Company.

Accounts.

(78) The directors shall cause true accounts to be kept—

- of the stock in trade of the Company ;
- of the sums of money received and expended by the Company, and the matters in respect of which such receipt and expenditure take place ; and
- of the credits and liabilities of the Company.

The books of account shall be kept at the registered office of the Company, and, subject to any reasonable restrictions as to the time and manner of inspecting the same that may be imposed by the Company in general meetings, shall be open to the inspection of the members during the hours of business.

(79) Once at the least in every year the directors shall lay before the Company in general meeting a statement of the income and expenditure for the past year, made up to a date not more than three months before such meeting.

(80) The statement so made shall show, arranged under the most convenient heads, the amount of gross income, distinguishing the several sources from which it has been derived, and the amount of gross expenditure, distinguishing the expenses of the establishment, salaries and other like matters. Every item of expenditure fairly chargeable against the year's income shall be brought into account, so that a just balance of profit and loss may be laid before the meeting, and, in cases where any item of expenditure which may in fairness be distributed over several years has been incurred in any one year, the whole amount of such item shall be stated, with the addition of the reasons why only a portion of such expenditure is charged against the income of the year.

(81) A balance-sheet shall be made out in every year and laid before the Company in general meeting, and such balance sheet shall contain a summary of the property and liabilities of the Company arranged under the heads appearing in the form annexed to this table, or as near thereto as circumstances admit.

(82) A printed copy of such balance-sheet shall, seven days previously to such meeting, be served on every member in the manner in which notices are hereinafter directed to be served.

Audit.

(83) Once at the least in every year the accounts of the Company shall be examined, and the correctness of the balance-sheet ascertained by one or more auditor or auditors.

(84) The first auditors shall be appointed by the directors ; subsequent auditors shall be appointed by the Company in general meeting.

(85) If one auditor only is appointed, all the provisions herein contained relating to auditors shall apply to him.

(86) The auditors may be members of the Company, but no person is eligible as an auditor who is interested otherwise than as a member in any transaction of the Company, and no director or other officer of the Company is eligible during his continuance in office.

(87) The election of auditors shall be made by the Company at their ordinary meeting in each year.

(88) The remuneration of the first auditors shall be fixed by the directors ; that of subsequent auditors shall be fixed by the Company in general meeting.

(89) Any auditor shall be re-eligible on his quitting office.

(90) If any casual vacancy occurs in the office of any auditor appointed by the Company, the directors shall forthwith call an extraordinary general meeting for the purpose of supplying the same.

(91) If no election of auditors is made in manner aforesaid the Local Government may, on the application of not less than five members of the Company, appoint an auditor for the current year and fix the remuneration to be paid to him by the Company for his services.

(92) Every auditor shall be supplied with a copy of the balance-sheet, and it shall be his duty to examine the same with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto.

(93) Every auditor shall have a list delivered to him of all books kept by the Company, and shall at all reasonable times have access to the books and accounts of the Company. He may, at the expense of the Company employ accountants or other persons to assist him in investigating such accounts, and he may, in relation to such accounts, examine the directors or any other officer of the Company.

(94) The auditors shall make a report to the members upon the balance-sheet and accounts, and in such report they shall state whether, in their opinion, the balance-sheet is a full and fair balance-sheet, containing the particulars required by these regulations and properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Company's affairs, and, in case they have called for explanations or information from the directors, whether such explanations or information have or has been given by the directors, and whether they or it have or has been satisfactory. Such report shall be read, together with the report of the directors, at the ordinary meeting.

Notices.

(95) A notice may be served by the Company upon any member either personally or by sending it through the post in a letter addressed to such member at his registered place of abode.

(96) All notices directed to be given to the members shall, with respect to any share to which persons are jointly entitled, be given to whichever of such persons is named first in the register of members ; and notice so given shall be sufficient notice to all the holders of such share.

(97) Any notice, if served by post, shall be deemed to have been served at the time when the letter containing the same would be delivered in the ordinary course of the post ; and, in proving such service, it shall be sufficient to prove that the letter containing the notice was properly addressed and put into the post office.

THE INDIAN COMPANIES (FOREIGN INTERESTS) ACT, 1918.

(ACT XX of 1918).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"It is considered desirable that companies which, during the war, have been re-constituted in India on lines approved by the Government of India and that new companies, whose business is of importance to the security of India and of the British Empire as a whole, should be restrained from altering their articles of association in such a way as to bring them under the control of foreign interests. It is, therefore, proposed that the provisions in the articles of association of such companies, which are designed to restrict the shares or interests to be held or the powers to be exercised by persons other than British subjects, should not be altered without the consent of the Governor-General in Council. Similarly, legislation in the United Kingdom has resulted in the Companies (Foreign Interests) Act, 1917 (7 and 8 Geo. V, Ch. 18), which prohibits the alteration of restrictive articles of this nature without the permission of the Board of Trade. Clauses 3 and 4 (1) of the Bill are designed to give effect to this proposal, and the remaining sub-clauses of cl. 4 have been inserted to prevent evasion of this provision by voluntary liquidation on the part of the Companies concerned."

[a] For Proceedings in Council, see Gazette of India, 1918, Pt. VI, pp. 955 and 1140.

Short title.

Definitions.

2. (1) In this Act—

(a) the expression "British subject" has the same meaning as in s. 27 of the British Nationality and status of Aliens Act, 1914,^a but shall include any person who holds a certificate of naturalization as a British subject granted under any Act of ^b[the Central Legislature] for the time being in force and any association incorporated in any part of His Majesty's dominions: Provided that the said expression shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to apply to any subject of a State in India;

(b) the expression "restrictive provision" means any provision in the articles of association of a company which, in the opinion of the ^b[Central Government], is designed to restrict or limit or has the effect of restricting or limiting the share or shares or interest which may be held, or the rights, powers or authority which may be conferred upon or exercised by or on behalf of persons other than British subjects in the Company, or in respect of the control, management or direction of the affairs thereof.

(2) All words and expressions used in this Act and defined in the Indian Companies Act, 1918, shall be deemed to have the meanings respectively attributed to them by that Act.

(4) the ^a[Central Government] in giving consent, or the Court in making a winding up order, as the case may be, may impose such terms or conditions for giving effect to the purposes of this Act as ^b[it] thinks fit.

(ACT XII OF 1926.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The several High Courts of Judicature established by Letters Patent are superior Courts of record, and as such they have power to attach and commit for acts amounting to contempt of their own proceedings as contempt of Court without reference to whether the acts alleged constitute an offence under the Indian Penal Code. Different views have, however, been held by the various High Courts in regard to their power to punish for such contempts committed in regard to proceedings in Courts which are subordinate to them. The Madras High Court in case of In re Venkata Rao (21 Mad. L. Jour 832) and the Bombay High Court in case of King-Emperor v. B. G. Kulkarni (24 Bom. L. R. 16) have held that they possess this power to protect their subordinate Courts against such contempts. The Calcutta High Court, on the other hand, in case of Legal Remembrancer v. Motilal Ghose (1 L. R. 41 Cal. 173) has taken a contrary view. In case in which it is held that the power to attach and commit exists the powers of the Court are as unrestricted as are the powers of superior Courts of record in England. It has not been decided whether the Courts of Judicial Commissioners of Central Provinces, Oudh and Sind, have these general powers either in regard to contempt of their own proceedings or of the proceedings of Courts subordinate to them. In England, in addition to the powers of the Superior Courts of record to attach and commit for contempt of Court, contempts of Courts are also indictable misdemeanours at Common Law. In India on the other hand, though the Indian Penal Code makes certain acts which would be punishable as contempts of Court in England specific offences, it does not provide generally for the punishment of contempts of the authority of judicial officers not committed in their presence.

The condition of the law in India as summarised above has long been regarded as unsatisfactory, and in 1914 a Bill was introduced in the Indian Legislative Council which would have increased the classes of cases of contempts of Court punishable as offences under the Indian Penal Code, but it was not proceeded with owing to the war. The present Bill proposes to declare and amend the law on the other lines. Instead of increasing the classes of cases punishable as contempts of Court after trial by Magistrates, the Bill restricts the power to protect subordinate Courts against contempts which are not already provided for in the Indian Penal Code to High Courts themselves. The Bill resolves any doubts as to the powers of the High Courts of judicature in regard to the protection of their subordinate Courts from such contempts. It will show clearly that the Courts of the Judicial Commissioners of the Central Provinces, Oudh and Sind, will have the same powers of punishing for contempts committed in regard to their own proceedings or of the proceedings of Courts subordinate to them. In lieu of the existing unrestricted powers of the High Courts of judicature it will define the nature of the offence of contempt of Court and the extent of the punishment which may be awarded. Finally, it bars the inherent powers of the High Courts to deal with such offences."

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.

"The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and limit the powers of certain Courts in punishing contempts of Courts was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 16th September 1925 :—

1. We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and limit the powers of certain Courts in punishing contempts of Courts was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

2. We have re-drafted the Bill omitting or restricting the provisions of the Bill as introduced as indicated below :—

(a) The definition of "contempt of Court" has been omitted. We are of opinion that the case-law on the subject will form an adequate guide.

(b) The provisions regulating the taking cognizance of offences under the Act and the procedure and powers of Courts in respect thereto have been omitted; the procedure at present followed by High Courts in respect of such offences is adequate, and we have provided that High Courts, in respect of offences committed against subordinate Courts and Chief Courts, should follow the same procedure.

(c) Courts of Judicial Commissioners have been excluded as we are not of opinion that such Courts should have power to punish contempt.

(d) The provisions empowering Chief Courts to punish contempt have been limited to contempts of themselves.

(e) Simple imprisonment has been prescribed.

(f) The amount of fine has been limited to two thousand rupees.

The decisions referred to in clauses (c) (d) and (f) supra were not unanimous decisions.

3. We have further provided that a High Court will have no jurisdiction in respect of a contempt committed against a subordinate Court when such contempt is an offence punishable under the ordinary law; and in the proviso added to clause (3) we have, in accordance with the opinion of the majority, recognised the existing practice in such cases of accepting apologies. . . ."

SECTION 1 — Synopsis.

1. Scope and object of Act.

2. Jurisdiction of Courts.

3. Contempt of Court, what amounts to.

1. Scope and object of Act. — [1] The new Contempt of Courts Act has been enacted in order to remove doubts which had arisen as to the powers of a High Court but does not imply that the Legislature recognised that no such power did in fact exist. (Vol 13) 1926 All 623 (632) : 48 All 711 (SB).

[2] The Act creates no new powers but merely recognises them to exist and seeks to define and limit them. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 131 (136, 139) : 14 Luck 492 : 40 Cri L Jour 421 (FB). (Oudh Chief Court has inherent power to protect Subordinate Courts and to prevent interference with course of justice.)

[3] High Courts being Courts of Record can proceed summarily to punish their own contempts. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 419 (423, 424, 425) : 63 Cal 217 : 36 Cri L Jour 1053 (FB). (Right to punish by summary procedure contempts of itself by scandalization of the Court still exists) (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 105 (107, 108) : I L R (1942) Lah 411 : 43 Cri L Jour 599 (FB) (37) I L R (1937) 1 Cal 845 (354).

[4] Object of proceedings in contempt is to ensure that every litigant in Court of justice has a fair and unprejudiced hearing.—Object is not so much to vindicate the dignity of Court or person of judge. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 305 (307) : 38 Cri L Jour 942 (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 70 (71) : 41 Cri L Jour 445 (DB) (Vol 22) 1935 All 1 (6) (DB). (Object is to protect administration of justice.)

[5] Notice of motion for contempt of Court is a proceeding of a Criminal nature. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 452 (454) : 54 Bom 10 (37) (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 196 (202) : 46 Cri L Jour 174 (SB). (Person charged with contempt is entitled to benefit of doubt.) (37) I L R (1937) 1 Cal 845 (356) (Jurisdiction is quasi criminal and is not affected by Criminal P. C.) (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 115 (116) (DB).

2. Jurisdiction of Courts. — [1] Per MacLeod J. It is not that every contempt of an inferior Court is necessarily a contempt of High Court. It is a question which must be decided on facts. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 52 (62) : 46 Bom 592 : 23 Cri L Jour 177 (DB).

[2] Madras High Court has jurisdiction in matters of contempt of High Court arising anywhere in Presidency.—Jurisdiction is determined by place where contempt is committed and not where contemner resides. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 423 (424) : 57 Mad 831 : 35 Cri L Jour 962 (DB).

[3] Party restrained by judicial order of High Court from taking certain action.—Breach committed in other High Court's jurisdiction.—Former High Court can commit such person for contempt. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 601 (602, 603) : 39 Cri L Jour 654.

[4] Writ of arrest upon committal can be executed anywhere in Bengal or through Court within whose jurisdiction such person happens to be. (37) I L R (1937) 1 Cal 845 (354, 356, 357) (Vol 32) 1945 All 1 (4) : 46 Cri L Jour 272 : 11LR(1944) All 665 (DB). (Contempt of Court is offence within S. 5 (2), Criminal P. C.)

[But see (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 127 (128, 129) : I L R (1944) Bom 333 : 45 Cri L Jour 647 (DB). (High Court can deal with that person if he were within its jurisdiction—But it cannot arrest a man outside its jurisdiction nor can it arrest person for contempt of another High Court—B may High Court cannot take action in respect of contempt of Allahabad High Court if committed by publication out of Court by person within jurisdiction of Bombay High Court and a fortiori the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Bombay cannot do so—Nor can the Commissioner of Police, Bombay, deal with the matter—Such publication does not fall under either I. P. C. or Cr. P. C. or under any other law within meaning of S. 5 (2), Cr. P. C.)]

[5] Once a person is brought before the High Court the question whether his arrest at place outside jurisdiction was legal or illegal becomes irrelevant. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 266 (268) : 20 Luck 442 : 47 Cri L Jour 294 (DB).

[6] High Court at Allahabad being a Court of record is the sole and exclusive judge of what amounts to contempt of Court. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 266 (267) : 20 Luck 442 : 47 Cri L Jour 294 (DB).

[7] Subordinate Court has no power to entertain contempt proceedings if the contempt is not committed in its presence. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 334 (334) : 45 Cri L Jour 407

3. Contempt of Court, what amounts to. —

[1] Contempts of Court are of three kinds: those which (1) scandalize the Court or (2) abuse the parties concerned in causes there or (3) prejudice mankind against persons before the cause is heard. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 248 (249) : I L R (1938) Mad 545 : 39 Cri L Jour 328 (DB) (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 206 (207) : 47 Cri L Jour 115 (DB) (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 329 (335, 337) : I L R (1944) Lah 111 : 45 Cri L Jour 445 (FB). (Essence of each kind indicated and duty of Court before taking notice of publication pointed out.)

[See also (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 419 (429, 430) : 63 Cal 217 : 36 Cri L Jour 1053 (FB). (Per Mukerji J. 'Contempt of Court' involves two ideas: contempt of their power and contempt of their authority—"Court" means judges who constitute it; "Authority" does not mean the coercive power of the judges but deference and respect which is paid to them and their acts.)]

[3] An act calculated to affect dignity of Court is contempt — To describe Court proceedings as 'tamasha' is contempt. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 107 (121, 122, 125) : I L R (1944) 1 Cal 489 (SB).

[4] Conduct calculated and having tendency to produce, so to speak, an atmosphere of prejudice in the midst of which the proceedings must go on is contempt of Court even though it is not likely that the mind of Magistrates or judges charged with case would thereby be prejudiced. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 26 (27) : 55 Mad 262 : 33 Cri L Jour 270 (DB).

[9] Printer and Publisher are liable for offending article written by another even if they have dissociated from it or disapproved it. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 239 (247) : I L R (1941) Kar 3 : 42 Cri L Jour 1 (FB).

[10] In order to see whether certain passage constitutes contempt of Court, it is for High Court to construe words and phrases which have no technical significance and to decide the meaning and effect they are calculated to produce. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 72 (77) : 30 Cri L Jour 741 : 8 Pat 828 (FB).

sumes truth of certain facts connected with matters awaiting decision, (2) it contains reflection on persons connected with proceeding and (3) it purports to predict that certain party is likely to be successful and comments in effect that if he is successful, law and justice will be defeated. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 672 (673) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 399 : 41 Cri L Jour 148 (SB).

[13] Discussion in newspaper of rights and wrongs of pending case is improper and constitutes contempt of Court — To suggest Court to take certain course in matters before it or about to come before it amounts to contempt irrespective of notice — Criterion is whether act complained of is likely to prejudice course of justice. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 257 (259) : 40 Cri L Jour 533 : I L R (1939) Mad 466 (SB).

[14] References by newspapers to pending cases should exclude everything leading to prejudice or prepossess mind of judicial officer concerned — Facts of pending cases should be expressed in form of statements of facts by newspaper itself (Vol 33) 1946 All 298 (299, 300) : 47 Cri L Jour 333 (FB).

[18] It is enough that writer either knows a proceeding or cause to be imminent or should have known that it was imminent. In criminal cases it is not necessary that accused should have been brought before Magistrate provided he has been arrested and is in custody. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 206 (209) : 47 Cri L Jour 115 (DB).

[19] Reasonable argument or expostulation offered against judicial acts as contrary to law or public good is not contempt of Court — To say that human element enters when sentences are awarded by Judges does not amount to contempt. (Vol 23) 1936 P C 141 (145, 146) (PC).

[20] Article in newspaper commenting upon findings of Magistrate in inquest held under S 176, Criminal P. C into the death of certain person, amounts to contempt of Court if the comments impute deliberate perversity, incapability and partiality to the public on the part of the Magistrate. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 70 (71) : 41 Cri L Jour 445 (DB).

[22] Article in newspaper suggesting that evidence used in prosecution which is proceeding or contemplated is obtained by improper means or is unreliable amounts to contempt of Court. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 193 (199) : I L R (1938) Bom 176 : 39 Cri L Jour 424.

[27] During pendency of title suit for declaration that certain land claimed by defendant was public pathway, plaintiff publishing notice calling upon public to attend meeting to determine course of action to be followed—Notice, resolution at meeting and article in newspaper all asserting that disputed land was public pathway and that defendant was attempting to close it — This held amounted to contempt of Court. [28] Per Harries C. J. and Teja Singh J. ; Munir J. contra.—Article in newspaper headed "Arrest made on flimsy grounds" held in circumstances of case did not amount to contempt.

[36] Cases of contempt in nature of scandalizing Court require to be treated with much discretion. Proceeding for contempt of this nature should be instituted sparingly and always with reference to administration of justice—Tests is whether words complained of are calculated to obstruct or interfere with course of justice and due administration of law—Judicial personages cannot afford to be too sensitive. If a Judge is defamed in such a way as not to affect administration of justice he has ordinary remedy for defamation — Proceedings for contempt of Court would be misconceived where the report does not involve any criticism of the Chief Justice in his administrative capacity but contains a mere allegation that he has committed an ill-advised act in writing to Subordinate Judges asking them to collect subscriptions for war fund. Such a remark does not amount to scandalizing the Court. (Vol 30) 1943 P C 202 (204, 205) : 70 Ind App 216 : I L R (1944) All 32 : I L R (1944) Kar (PC) 7 (PC).

[39] As persons to amount to contempt of Court need not be against particular Judge. An article was headed "Scandalous situation — Bar Council Election." The passage objected to was as follows : "In this connection it is amusing to note that when a comparatively undeserving lawyer is raised to the Bench, which is a fairly frequent occurrence in our judicial history, it is generally claimed . . ."

Held that these remarks constituted a contempt of Court of which High Court was bound to take notice. (Vol 22) 1935 All 1 (6) (DB).

[40] Speech expressing contempt for all Courts of justice in general and not making any attack on any Judge in particular or commenting on particular case, does not amount to such contempt of Court as to be dealt with by process for contempt. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 197 (198) : I L R (1938) Bom 179 : 39 Cri L Jour 440.

[41] It is as much contempt to say that judiciary has lost its independence by reason of something it is alleged to have done out of Court, as to say that as result of a case it has decided, it is clear that it has no independence or has lost what it had. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 419 (426) : 63 Cal 217 : 36 Cri L Jour 1053 (FB).

[44] Act or writing leading to undermine authority of Court or to influence result of pending case is serious offence. Article in question stated that "judgment after judgment was being given by the High Court arbitrarily, that neither law nor facts were discussed." It was further added that it was necessary "to restore confidence of the public that law is discussed and facts are digested before cases are disposed of." It also alleged that summary justice was being administered : Held that the article constituted a gross contempt of Court. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 212 (212) : 16 Lah 266 : 36 Cri L Jour 837 (SB).

[50] Per Mitter J.—Statement by Police officer that arrest of detenu released under S. 491, Criminal P. C., was made in Court precincts with the permission of the Hon'ble Chief Justice, constitutes contempt. The implication of the statement suggests "hobnobbing with the executive." (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 107 (121) : I L R (1944) 1 Cal 489 (SB).

[51] Allegation by Solicitor engaged in case that Judge has prejudged issue of fact before evidence has been called on either side amounts to contempt of Court known as scandalizing Court. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 331 (331 332) : 44 Cri L Jour 93.

[52-53] Criticism of executive officer is not contempt of Court. But if it contains matter calculated to interfere with due course of justice, it would amount to contempt — Proprietors and publishers of newspapers criticising public administration regarding matters which are sub judice do so at their peril. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 206 (209) : 47 Cri L Jour 115 (DB) & (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 329 (337) : I L R (1944) Lah 111 : 45 Cri L Jour 445 (FB). Communication with parties or Court—[60] An Advocate addressed a letter to Court before whom the execution was pending. The letter was as follows: "...in case further action in execution is taken after this information as to the revision application and my client after success files a suit for damages, you shall not be in a position to put in your plea of good faith and bona fide": Held that the intention may be to influence the Court by the threat held out and to prevent him from passing orders in execution proceedings and exercising his independent judgment. to support notice of motion for contempt of Court. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 688 (639).

[16] When the contempt is committed in the face of a Court, it is that Court which is the proper tribunal to decide whether the contempt has been committed. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 502 (503) : 33 Cri L Jour 675 (FB).

[17] Rule that party in contempt cannot be heard is inapplicable when order for the breach of which contempt is alleged is challenged on ground of want of jurisdiction. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 402 (402) : 55 Bom 803 (DB).

[18] It is the duty of Magistrates to bring to notice of Chief Court attempt made to bring improper influence on them in connection with magisterial work. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 180 (181) : 14 Luck. 653 (DB).

[19] Where doubtful questions of fact are involved the High Court may refuse to issue notice to the person charged with contempt, before being satisfied by affidavit that there was reasonable ground for thinking that contempt had been committed. (Vol 32) 1945 All 67 (68) : 1 L R (1945) All 7 : 46 Cri L Jour 458 (D B).

[20] Though proceedings are of nature of criminal proceedings the position of alleged contemner is not that of an accused person who cannot file affidavit or make statement on oath. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 329 (346) : 1 L R (1944) Lah 111 : 45 Cri L Jour 445 (F D).

[21] Proceedings for contempt are of summary nature — Hotly contested question of fact cannot be decided. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 196 (201) : 46 Cri L Jour 174 (SB).

3. "Courts subordinate to them." — [1] Words "subordinate Court" were used in a wide sense as including any Court over which the High Court has superintendence for the purposes of S. 85, Government of Burma Act, 1935. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 68 (70) : 1940 Rang L R 188 : 41 Cri L Jour 470 (D B).

[2] The Sub-Divisional Magistrate holding an inquiry under S. 176, Criminal P. C., is a Court subordinate to the High Court. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 68 (70) : 1940 Rang L R 188 : 41 Cri L Jour 470 (D B).

[3] A Court of Commissioners appointed under Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act is subordinate to High Court within the meaning of S. 2 (1). (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 118 (120) : 60 Cal 603 : 34 Cri L Jour 662 (D B).

4. Appeals.—[1] No application lies either under Cl. 41, Letters Patent (Cal) or under any other prior issue of law for leave to appeal to Privy Council, in summary proceedings taken by Calcutta High Court for contempt of itself by scandalization, even if such proceedings are taken (which is doubtful) in exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction. (1935) 39 Cal W N 823 (828) (D B).

[2] No leave to appeal to Privy Council under S. 109, Civil P. C., can be granted against refusal of High Court to punish party for contempt of Court. (Vol 28) 1941 All 211 (212) : 1 L R (1941) All 364 (D B).

[3] Leave to appeal to Privy Council ought not to be granted unless there is something in order of committal rendering it improper and therefore subject of appeal. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 419 (453) : 63 Cal 217 : 36 Cri L Jour 1053 (F B).

[4] Appeal lies against High Court's order of committal for contempt. (1883) 7 Bom 5 (12) (D B).

5. Sub-section (2).—[1] Chief Court has inherent power to protect subordinate Courts and to prevent interference with course of justice. The Act creates no new powers but merely recognizes them to exist and seeks to define and limit them. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 131 (136, 139) : 14 Luck 492 : 40 Cri L Jour 421 (F B).

6. Sub-section (3). — [1] High Court Judge can entertain proceedings for contempt only when no offence under the Penal Code is committed—Before relinquishing jurisdiction it must be determined whether act amounts to offence. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 334 (335) : 45 Cr L J 407.

[2] Quare.—Whether S. 2 (3), Contempt of Courts Act prohibited the High Court from dealing with offences punishable under the Penal Code as contempt. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 147 (151) : 72 Ind App 226 : 47 Cri L Jour 61 : ILR (1945) Kar (PC) 355 : ILR (1945) Bom 959 (P C).

[3] Prohibition contained in S. 2 (3) refers only to offences punishable as contempt of Court by the Penal Code, and not to offences punishable there otherwise than as contempt. [But see (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 334 (335) : 45 Cri L Jour 407.]

[4] Where proceedings in the Magistrate's Court would be quite sufficient to meet the requirements of the case, it is not desirable to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 701 (703) : 53 Cal 401 (DB).

[5] Where naib nasir when directed by Judge to deliver possession to decree-holder goes to spot but is obstructed by person in possession : Held, that person was guilty of two offences one being obstruction to naib nasir and other contempt to Judge and High Court would take notice of second offence under this Act. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 204 (206) : 12 Pat 172 (D B).

[6] Defamatory answers to interrogatories by presiding officer — Proper remedy is to proceed under S. 499, I. P. C., and not proceeding for contempt of Court. (Vol 22) 1935 All 896 (896) : 36 Cri L Jour 967.

[7] Failure to furnish information under S. 6A, Waqf Act is not offence under I. P. C. and High Court can deal with it under this Act. SECTION 3 — Synopsis

1. Scope.

2. Apology.

1. Scope.—[1] Judicial independence of presiding officers of the Courts is to be maintained with a strong hand and the public must be made to feel that the Courts are not amenable to political or executive influence. (Vol 25) 1938 All 358 (360) : 1 L R (1938) All 548 : 39 Cri L Jour 677 (D B).

[2] Expression of intention not to repeat offence cannot affect question whether offence committed is serious one. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 185 (194) : 20 Pat 306 : 42 Cri L Jour 225 (D B).

Provided that the accused may be discharged or the punishment awarded may be remitted on apology being made to the satisfaction of the Court :

^a[Provided further that notwithstanding anything elsewhere contained in any law no High Court shall impose a sentence in excess of that specified in this section for any contempt either in respect of itself or of a Court subordinate to it.]

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Amendment made in 1937.—It has been held by the Lahore High Court (see (Vol 24) 1937 Lah. 497 (SB)) that the power of punishment provided in section 3 related to the contempt of Courts subordinate to it, and that it had no application to the contempt of itself, to punish which it possessed inherent power to pass a sentence without regard to the limit of six months. As the original intention of the enactment of section 3 was to restrict the powers of High Court in the punishment of any contempts whether of themselves or of Courts subordinate to them, this amendment made in 1937 makes the intention clear by deleting the word 'subordinate' from the preamble and adding a second proviso to section 3.

—See S. O. R., 1937.

[3] Motive of contemner is immaterial though it may be a proper criterion in awarding punishment. ('42) 1942 Oudh W N 6 (20) (D B).

[4] Innocence of act is relevant for punishment. (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 33 (47) : I L R (1945) Nag 74 (D B).

[6] Article not amounting to contempt of serious kind—Opposite party expressing no regret but insisting that no offence was committed—No apology offered—Case was fit for punishment. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 185 (194) : 20 Pat 306 : 42 Cri L Jour 225 (D B).

[7] Other remedy available—Court has discretion to commit or not for contempt—Disobedience of order under S. 6A of Mussalman Waqf Act for two years—Court may consider that heavier fine than imposed under Waqf Act or even imprisonment is necessary and commit for contempt. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 147 (150) : 72 Ind App 226 : 47 Cri L Jour 61 : I L R (1945) Kar (PC) 355 : I L R (1945) Bom 959 (P O).

[9] Section 58, Civil P. C., does not apply to cases of imprisonment for contempt of Court. (1879) 4 Cal 655 (657) (DB).

[10] Because a particular type of contempt of Court is unusual or unprecedented, it does not follow that the Court has no power to punish such a contempt. (Vol 22) 1935 All 1 (3) (DB).

[11] High Court has jurisdiction to order the payment and recovery of fine from a person punished under the Act. (Vol 22) 1935 All 1013 (1014) : 58 All 374 : 36 Cri L Jour 1365 (DB).

[12] The High Court has jurisdiction to direct a person punished under the Contempt of Courts Act, to pay costs of the Crown. Such costs can be recovered on the lines of execution of decrees. (Vol 22) 1935 All 1013 (1014) : 58 All 374 : 36 Cri L Jour 1365 (DB).

[13] Where the Chief Justice and another Judge of the Court of which the appellant is alleged to be in contempt are of the opinion that no contempt is committed but the executive deems it necessary not only to appear but endeavours to uphold the order, the appellant should be given costs of the appeal. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 134 (136) : 72 Ind App 189 : I L R (1945) Kar (PC) 294 : I L R (1945) Bom 950 (PC).

[14] Person obstructing receiver in discharge of his duty may be made to pay costs of a hearing. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 550 (554) : 15 Cri L Jour 85.

[15] Persons charged with contempt is entitled to benefit of doubt. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 196 (202) : 46 Cri L Jour 174 (SB).

2. Apology. — [1] Except in scandalous and outrageous cases an unconditional apology is ordinarily considered to purge contempt. Contempt is aggravated. Where person persistently justifies his action. (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 33 (49, 50) : I L R (1945) Nag 74 (DB).

[2] An apology must be tendered at the earliest stage possible.

At the appellate stage it should be tendered unreservedly and unconditionally before the arguments begin, and must be the full, frank and manly confession of a wrong done, and should be intended to be evidence of real contriteness. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 407 (408, 409) : I L R (1941) Nag 304 : 42 Cri L Jour 237.

[3] Where the accused takes such action as is likely to prejudice the trial and instead of apologising in the beginning contends that no contempt has been committed, his apology tendered at a late stage can only be regarded as an after-thought put forward in the hope of avoiding the wrath to come. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 67 (69, 70) : 16 Luck 506 : 42 Cri L Jour 221 (DB).

[4] Court can refuse to accept apology which it does not believe to be genuine. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 239 (246) : I L R (1941) Kar 3 : 42 Cri L Jour 1 (FB).

[5] Advocate expressing at meeting of Bar Association "that the man in the street has lost confidence in the administration of justice in the province" commits contempt — Unconscious use of expression — Written apology is sufficient amends. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 118 (119) : 34 Cri L Jour 726 (DB).

[6] Where a person guilty of contempt of Court admits his error and states that he is "extremely sorry", it may amount to an expression of regret, but it is not an apology within the meaning of proviso to S. 3. ('42) 1942 Oudh W N 6 (20) (DB).

[7] In view of the fact that the contemner (who was a solicitor) committing contempt by scandalizing the Court had offered a very frank and unequal apology and had admitted that the letter written by him was improper and ought not to have been written, only a fine of Rs. 1000 was imposed. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 331 (332) : 44 Cri L Jour 93.

[8] An Editor who had committed contempt of Court by publishing an article prejudicing the course of justice in pending case, was discharged on his tendering unequal apology. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 137 (137, 138) : 15 Luck 268 : 41 Cri L Jour 169 (DB).

[9] Publisher and editor of newspaper commenting upon findings of Magistrate in inquest held under S. 176, Criminal P. C., imputing deliberate perversity, incapability and partiality to police on part of the Magistrate cannot be allowed to go unpunished merely because they have tendered apology. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 70 (72) : 41 Cri L Jour 445 (DB).

[THE INDIAN] CONTRACT ACT, 1872.

(ACT IX OF 1872.)^a

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to contracts ; It is hereby enacted as follows: —

[a] For the Statement of Objects and Reasons for the Bill, which was based on a Report of Her Majesty's Commissioners appointed to prepare a body of substantive law for India, dated July 6, 1866, see Gazette of India, 1867, Extraordinary, p. 84; for the Report of the Select Committee, see Ibid, Extraordinary, dated 28th March 1872 ; for discussions in Council, see ibid, 1867, Supplement p. 1064; ibid, 1871, p. 313 and ibid, 1872, p. 527.

The chapters and sections of the Transfer of Property Act (4 [IV] of 1882) which relate to contracts are, in places in which that Act is in force, to be taken as part of Act 9 [IX] of 1872—See Act 4 [IV] of 1882, S. 4.

PREAMBLE — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope of the Act.
2. Illustrations to sections.
3. Interpretation of the Act.

1. Applicability and scope of the Act.—[1] The Contract Act, so far as it goes, is exhaustive and imperative. (03) 5 Bom L R 421 (427) (PC).

[2] Although the Indian Contract Act purports to deal only with certain parts of the law relating to contracts yet where it treats with a subject in a way at variance with the English law, it should be considered as exhaustive and binding on Courts in India. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 104 (110) : 12 Nag L R 177 (DB).

[3] The Contract Act is not exhaustive. In cases where the law in terms is not applicable, the principles of English law should apply, as rules of justice, equity and good conscience. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 114 (116) : I L R (1946) Nag 210 * ('35) 62 Cal 612 (617) (DB) * (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 168 (172, 173) : 56 Bom 101 (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 23 (25) : ILR (1938) Bom 794 (DB). (The general principles of English law underlying the law of suretyship (and in particular the principle that the rights of a surety are not to be interfered with without his consent) may be applied even though the provisions of the Contract Act do not govern the case.) * (Vol 16) 1929 Bom n 260 (261) (DB) * (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 302 (307) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 254 (255). (The Act is not exhaustive and so far as the law relating to agency is concerned, it merely lays down general principles in wide and general terms.) * (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 302 (303) : I L R (1942) Bom 670. (The Contract Act is both an amending and a consolidating Act, and it is not exhaustive of the law of contract to be applied by the Courts in India.) * (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 268 (270) (Do.).

[4] English principles of equity can be applied, if not opposed to the provisions of the Contract Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 82 (86) : 13 Luck 65 (DB).

[5] Justice, equity and good conscience mean the rules of English Law so far as they are applicable to Indian circumstances. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 125 (126) : I L R (1939) Kar 422 (DB) * ('35) 62 Cal 612 (617) (DB).

[6] Trade usage can be pleaded in conflict with the provisions of the Contract Act. Its incidents and details ought to be indicated with clearness and precision. (Vol 18) 1931 All 583 (583, 584) (DB).

[7] The rights and liabilities arising out of a joint ownership created by Hindu law between the members of an undivided family cannot be determined exclusively by Indian Contract Act but must be considered with the general rules of Hindu law. (1880-81) 5 Bom 38 (39) (DB).

[8] The general provisions of the Contract Act as to the rights and liabilities of undisclosed principals were not intended to alter well established rules as to negotiable instrument. (07) 30 Mad 88 (92) (FB).

[9] The Contract Act, 9 [IX] of 1872, is not retrospective. (1874) 12 Beng L R 451 (458, 472) (SB).

[10] The general provisions of the Contract Act do not supersede the provisions of a special later enactment such as Bombay Hereditary Offices Act. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 201 (203) (DB).

2. Illustrations to sections.—[1] An illustration to a section cannot control the plain meaning of the section itself especially when its effect would curtail a right purported to be conferred by the section. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 268 (270).

[2] The illustrations are only intended to assist in construing the language of the Act. It is a mistake to be guided by the illustrations rather than considering the wording of the sections. (1874) 22 Suth W R 367 (368) (DB).

[3] Practice of looking more at illustrations in the Contract Act than at the words of the sections is not correct. (1874) 22 Suth W R 367 (368) (DB).

3. Interpretation of the Act.—[1] The Court must interpret an act where it applies and the natural meaning of the words should be followed uninfluenced by the previous state of the law. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 168 (172, 173) : 56 Bom 101 (DB).

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

*Extent.*It extends to the whole of British India;^a and it shall come into force on*Commencement.*

the first day of September 1872.

Enactments repealed. Nothing herein contained shall affect the provisions of any Statute, Act, or Regulation not hereby expressly repealed, nor any usage or custom of trade, nor any incident of any contract, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

[a] This Act has been declared in force in — the Santhal Parganas [see the Santhal Parganas Settlement Regulation 3 [III] of 1872], S. 3; British Baluchistan [see the British Baluchistan Laws Regulation 1913, (2 [II] of 1913), S. 3]; Panth Piploda [see the Panth Piploda Laws Regulation, 1929 (1 [I] of 1929), S. 2.] It has been declared by notification under S. 3 (a) of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (14 [XIV] of 1874) to be in force in—the Tarai of the Province of Agra — see Gazette of India 1876, Pt. I, p. 505; the Districts of Hazaribagh, Lohardaga, and Manbhum, and Pargana Dhalbhum, and the Kolhan in the District of Singbhum—see Gazette of India, 1881, Pt. I, p. 504. [The District of Lohardaga included at this time the present District of Palamanu, which was separated in 1894. The District of Lohardaga is now called the Ranchi District — see Calcutta Gazette, 1899, Pt. I, p. 44.] [b] The words “The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof, but” were repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1914 (10 [X] of 1914).

2. In this Act the following words and expressions are used in the following senses, unless Interpretation-clause. a contrary intention appears from the context :—

(a) When one person signifies to another his willingness to do or to abstain from doing anything, with a view to obtaining the assent of that other to such act or abstinence, he is said to make a proposal :

[1] The law of contract is the law of the place where the contract was made. Where the law of one province of British India is distinct from the law of the other province, the two provinces must be regarded, for the purposes of this rule, as foreign countries inter se. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 362(363); ILR(1940) Bom 799 (DB).

[2] Words “not inconsistent with provisions of this Act” are not to be connected with words “usage or custom of trade”. Both grammatical construction of sentence and reason of the thing require that application of these words should be confined to subject which immediately precedes them. (1891) 18 Cal 620 (626) : 18 Ind App 121 (PC).

[But see (1875) 14 Beng L R 76 (85) (DB)].

[3] Where an agent by the trade usage sells goods, the question whether he is authorised to do so is not governed by the provisions of the Contract Act inasmuch as S. 1, Contract Act, provides that nothing therein contained shall affect any usage or custom of trade. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 188 (184).

[4] It is for the parties to decide on what terms contracts should be entered into and if they choose to enter into contracts with full knowledge of the commercial usage governing them, they are bound by them even if the usage does involve some conflicts between the agent's duty and interest. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 683 (685) (DB).

[5] It is open to a party to plead a trade usage in conflict with the provisions of this Act. But the incidents and details ought to be indicated with clearness and precision. (Vol 18) 1931 All 588 (588) (DB).

[6] By the mercantile usage prevailing in the Delhi iron market, among big merchants, no interest can be charged on the unpaid price for transactions before 1917. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 127 (127) (DB).

[7] The rule that a person building on the land of another is ‘prima facie’ entitled to remove the buildings erected upon the land demised or to receive compensation, when applied to a contract of tenancy, is not inconsistent with anything in the Contract Act, and therefore, is unaffected by it. (1880) 5 Cal 688 (692).

[8] The existence of the usage of “Palki Adat” (a local usage) must be strictly proved. (Vol 22) 1935 Sind 38 (40) (DB).

[9] English principles of equity can be applied to contracts in suitable cases by Indian Courts if such principles are not opposed to the provisions of the Contract Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 82 (86) : 13 Luck 65 (DB).

[10] The Contract Act, including S. 73, applies in terms to all contracts including those in respect of lands. The Indian Courts cannot, therefore, even where the result might appear hard, apply to such contracts foreign rules of law or equity, modifying the express terms of the Statute. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 120 (122) : 19 Sind L R 337.

[11] The liability of common carriers in India is not affected by the Indian Contract Act, 1872. The written law relating to that liability is untouched by the Act; the unwritten law is not within its scope. (1891) 18 Cal 620 (628) : 18 Ind App 121 (PC).

[12] The Contract Act applies to suits in the Calcutta Small Causes Court between the Hindoos. (1874) 22 Suth W R 370 (375) (DB).

[13] Chapters and sections of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), which relate to contracts, are, in places where the T. P. Act is in force, to be taken as part of this Act : see S. 4, T. P. Act.

[14] The provisions of this Act, except in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of the Partnership Act (IX of 1882), continue to apply to firms.

[16] The Barrister's profession cannot be called a trade and therefore the exception contained in this section has no application. (Vol 20) 1933 All 417 (420) : 55 All 570 (FB).

Section 2 (Gen.) — Note 1

[1] The definitions in this section have been applied to the Sale of Goods Act, 3 of 1930, S. 215; Partnership Act, 9 of 1882, S. 2 (e); Trusts Act, 2 of 1882, S. 3.

[2] Voidable contracts and void agreements, see Ss. 10 to 29.

[1] A proposal is merely an offer to be bound by a promise. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 86 (87, 88) : 1938 Rang L R 667.

(b) When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise:

[2] Where an instrument is so worded as to be binding only on the promisor, it is in point of law only an offer and until both parties are bound, neither party is bound. (Vol 19) 1922 Mad 16 (16) : 46 Mad 30 (D B).

[3] Where the agreement is executory on both sides with an option to one of the parties to do as he likes, there is nothing more than a standing offer. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 16 (17) : 46 Mad 30 (D B).

[4] Telegraphing lowest price on request is not tantamount to an offer but a mere intimation for an offer. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 236 (237) : 7 Low Bur Rul 343 (D B).

[5] A catalogue of the goods of a Company for sale is not a series of offers but only an invitation for offers. A person ordering a certain article is the offeror and the Company is the acceptor. ('09) 12 Oudh Cas 17 (20).

[6] When a merchant or commission agent sends his quotations or terms of business it is not an offer but merely an intimation on his part of his readiness to transact business on those terms. The addition of the words "let us have your transaction once" will not convert it into an offer. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 186 (188) : I L R (1939) Nag 648 & (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 177 (179) (D B). (Giving of quotations indicating the value of articles to be supplied is not an offer) & (Vol 11) 1924 Sind 64 (66). (Quotation cards are mere invitations for offers and not offers themselves).

[7] A letter sent by a commission agent to other people stating the terms on which he was prepared to do business, whether written in the first instance or on enquiry from other people, is not an offer but only an intimation of the terms on which he is prepared to do business. A contract comes into being only when orders for business are given by the other people and accepted by the commission agent. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 291 (298) : 56 Bom. 324 (D B).

[8] A person who bids at an auction thereby does not conclude a contract but states offer by which until it is accepted it is open to him to withdraw. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 486 (491) : 45 Mad 799 (D B) & ('13) 18 Cal L Jour 53 (56) & (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 582 (582, 583) (D B).

[10] A letter reciting a request for a loan and calling on the addressee to pay the amount to the bearer and containing "this sum I shall repay with interest . . . and get back this letter. I request you will not neglect to pay the amount on the strength of this letter" is a promote and not a mere proposal for a loan. (1893) 16 Mad 283 (283) (D B).

[11] A letter was in the following terms "..... Money is required for paying demands of Government Please Send Rs. 175 It will be repaid in August with interest." It was held that it was only a request to borrow on certain conditions and constituted a proposal. (1889) 13 Bom 609 (670) (D B).

[12] A letter requesting a loan and promising to repay with interest by a certain date is not a promissory note but a mere proposal. ('23) 71 Ind Cas 968 (969) (Pesh).

[13] An offer to sell and to keep the offer open till a certain time is nudum pactum and can, at any time before acceptance, be recalled. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 18 (19).

[14] Letter communicating willingness to sell at a price in reply to an enquiry whether the property is for sale, amounts to an offer and is not merely an invitation to an offer. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 87 (89) (D B).

[15] Plaintiff instructing defendant, a commission agent, to purchase silver bars and to keep them with defendant—Defendant purchasing, and reporting that they were kept at plaintiff's risk — Bars kept by defendant at his pedhi unlocked and unattended—Three bars lost — Plaintiff's offer held was accepted by the defendant when he executed his instructions and he could not add or alter the contract by adding terms as to risk — That term was mere offer which was never accepted — Defendant held liable for damages for negligence. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 101 (102, 103) (D B).

[16] Where an advertisement in a newspaper by Railway Company invited tenders for certain contract and was not addressed to any particular person it was held that the advertisement did not constitute a proposal. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 249 (252) : 14 Luck 710 (D B).

[17] On a request from a party the Bank sent some forms to be filled in by the party if he proposed to deposit money in the Bank. The party filled in the forms and sent them along with the money. The Bank accepted the deposit and sent back a receipt. It was held that the first letter of the Bank was a quotation and not an offer. The real offer was made by the party when he filled in the forms and sent the money and the acceptance was by the Bank by the issue of the deposit receipt. (Vol 29) 1942 P C 6 (7) : 69 Ind App 1 : I L R (1942) Bom 318 : I L R (1942) Kar (P C) 7 (P C).

[18] A consignor whose goods were not delivered to the consignee was informed by the Railway Company that the goods were lying in its lost property office and he could take delivery if he liked. The company in another letter offered to pay Rs. 20/- in satisfaction of the consignor's claim but this was refused by the consignor who sued to recover Rs. 50 as compensation. It was held that there was no definite promise to pay in the letter but only an offer to settle a claim at a certain amount which was not accepted. (Vol 7) 1920 All 157 (158) : 42 All 390.

[19] In a suit where plaintiffs based their claim on a contract alleged to arise out of an offer made by the manager of defendants who said in a suit that if the plaintiffs took into account a certain havala he would have to pay a certain amount to the plaintiffs, it was held that the statement only amounts to an expression of the consequences in law and not an offer. (1936) 162 Ind Cas 327 (328, 329) (P C).

[20] Informal discussions by interested persons and Court of Wards, culminating in Court of Wards passing a resolution that if possible compromise should be effected in terms arrived at the discussion does not amount to offer or an acceptance of an offer. The stage of making an offer and getting the acceptance would follow passing of the resolution. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 529 (539).

[1] The word 'promise' in the Contract Act is used in a narrow sense. A proposal is merely an offer to be bound by a promise and a promise in law is an accepted proposal. It is the promise or promises only which can give rise to an agreement, which, if enforceable by law, is contract, but if not, is a void agreement. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 86 (87, 88) : 1939 Rang L R 667.

[2] Silence to letter, is not acceptance of its terms. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 270 (272).

[3] Where a vendor of certain properties subject to pre-emption offered to sell them to his co-sharers by a notice and the co-sharers remained silent without ex-

- (c) The person making the proposal is called the "promisor," and the person accepting the proposal is called the "promisee":
- (d) When, at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person has done or abstained from doing, or does or abstains from doing or promises to do or to abstain from doing, something, such act or abstinence or promise is called a consideration for the promise:

pressing willingness to buy, it was held that the co-sharers' conduct amounted to a refusal to buy. (Vol 6) 1919 All 840 (842) (DB).

[4] Response to invitation of offer is not acceptance. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 100 (101).

[5] To constitute a contract there must be an acceptance of the offer and there can be no acceptance unless there is a knowledge of the offer. ('13) 11 All L Jour 489 (492).

[6] Reward offered for the search of a missing boy for whose search a servant was already sent cannot be claimed by the servant though he found the boy out; the servant did not undertake the search with knowledge of the offer and finding out by him does not amount to acceptance by conduct. ('13) 11 All L Jour 489 (493).

[7] Where defendant desired that money should be lent to his friend, and the plaintiff money-lender lent on his acknowledging receipt of the money it was held that there was an implied promise by the defendant to repay as the plaintiff would not have lent if he had understood that the defendant did not intend to pay. (Vol 21) 1934 All 271 (272).

[8] Where after the demand by landlord for enhancement of rent, the tenant continues to occupy the premises without any express or implied protest, he must be deemed to have accepted by conduct the proposal for enhanced rent. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 287 (288).

[9] Before a party can be said to accept something other than the performance of the contract, he must have the option to refuse to accept such satisfaction and to insist on performance as stipulated. ('37) ILR (1937) 1 Cal 757 (763).

[10] Where there was an offer by a letter which was accepted by a minute of the Company which did not incorporate all the terms contained in the letter, it was held that the only binding contract was that contained in the minute. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 48 (48) : 10 Nag L R 108 (PC).

[11] Where a letter addressed to a member of a Company offered him new shares and in the event of his renouncing, to his nominee, and on the member's renouncing, the nominee accepted the shares, it was held that a contract with the nominee was concluded even though the offer was made in the letter to the member. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal. 423 (428) : 1 L R (1938) 2 Cal 190.

[12] An offer giving a sort of right of pre-emption to another, by giving him first opportunity to purchase in the event of sale, cannot create a contract unless there is anything to compel the offeree to buy the property and until the offer is perfected by acceptance, it is not binding. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 120 (121).

[13] Where the plaintiff accepts the offer of the defendant to sell but seeks to add a further term, which the defendant refused to consider, at the same time repeating the offer previously made, and the plaintiff accepts the offer, the transaction of contract is complete and binding on the defendant. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 343 (346).

[14] Where intention of offeror was to sell all the properties at a uniform rate of price offeree cannot accept a portion of it and claim specific performance of

[15] If the making of the contract be part of the cause of action, it follows that the act of concurrence of either party, which is essential to the contract, is itself a part of the cause of action, for without such act of concurrence the contract cannot come into existence. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 659 (662) : 58 Cal 589 (DB).

[16] The defendant in a suit offered that if plaintiff's key witness ate food served by the plaintiff, the suit may be decreed. The offer was acted upon and the suit was decreed in plaintiff's favour: Held, that there was an offer and an acceptance thereof and the defendant could not resile from his promise and the suit was rightly decreed. Order 23, R. 3, Civil P. C., had no application. (Vol 12) 1925 All 271 (271, 272) : 47 All 456 (DB).

[17] The mere writing on bills of medical practitioners that interest at 1 per cent per mensem will be charged cannot amount to a contract. (Vol-28) 1941 Oudh 254 (256, 257) : 16 Luck 701 (DB).

[1] No man can in his own right be under any obligation to himself. Where hatchuta is executed by a person in favour of himself and some others, such person cannot in law become a promisee. Promisees must be taken in law to be the persons mentioned in the hatchuta other than such person. And the portion of the debt due to himself will stand discharged by the doctrine of merger. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal. 595 (597) (DB).

[2] The assignees of a mortgage cannot be promisees with regard to the original promise concerned. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 818 (821) (DB).

[3] The promisee must include the representative of a deceased promisee as a person to whom the offer of performance can be made. ('08) 4 Mad L Tim 385 (386).

13. Valid consideration — Illustrations.

1. "At the desire of the promisor." — [1] The words "at the desire of the promisor" in S. 2 do not necessarily contemplate a promisor who, at time, possesses contractual liability. ('06) 16 Mad L Jour 422 (423) (DB).

[2] Promise to pay at some indefinite time is no promise made "at the desire of promisor." The words "at the desire of the promisors" imply a promise which has a real effect in conducing to the contract. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 54 (54, 55) (DB).

Section 2 (d) (contd.)

[3] Where plaintiff company agreed to undertake management of mining concern of defendant and another and finance it on being admitted to share of profits: Held, that advances made were made not at personal request of defendant but on account of agreement and could not be treated as consideration for promote executed by defendant subsequently. (12) 1912 Mad W N 930 (931, 932) (DB).

[4] Plaintiff asked defendant to bring a Thakur on a certain day. On that day he had arranged Bhog and feeding of guests. Defendant who promised to bring the Thakur failed to do so and the guests went away without taking the food. In the suit for damages it was not proved that defendant promised to bring the Thakur in consideration of the plaintiff inviting guests. It was therefore held that there was no promise to do at the desire of the promisor and therefore there was no promise supported by consideration. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 369 (370).

[5] By an agreement in writing the defendants promised to pay the plaintiff a commission on articles sold in a market Huma Ganj, in consideration of plaintiff having expended money in construction of the Ganj. Plaintiff constructed Ganj at the request of the Collector. In a suit filed by plaintiff to establish the agreement, it was held that the construction of Ganj was not 'at the desire' of defendants so as to constitute a consideration as defined in S. 2 (d) and agreement was therefore void for want of consideration. (1881) 3 All 221 (228) (DB).

2. Consideration need not be to the benefit of the promisor. — [1] It is not necessary that promisor should benefit by consideration. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag. 149 (151). (Forbearance to sue on bond is consideration for execution of fresh bond.) * (Vol 21) 1934 All 271 (272). (Where money was lent to a friend, for which the obligor signed a stamped receipt, it was held that there was consideration for it.)

[2] If the promisee does some act by which a third person is benefited which he would not have done but for the promise, the consideration is sufficient. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 816 (816) : 45 Cal 774 (DB).

[3] Agreement to pay money to third person is valid consideration for contract. (09) 9 Cal L Jour 16 (17) (DB).

[4] Municipality applying to Government for contributing one third of the additional expenditure to be incurred on the scheme of free and compulsory primary education — Government offering to bear half costs — Municipality accepting the offer and putting the scheme into action Held, that the agreement was supported by "consideration." The consideration being an advantage to be gained by a section of Government's subjects. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 277 (281, 282) : 58 Bom. 660.

[5] In cases of family arrangements, the consideration is not the sacrifice of any right, but the settlement of a dispute and the Court does not in such cases consider narrowly the quantum of consideration. (09) 9 Cal L Jour 19 (38) (DB).

3. Consideration whether may proceed from third party. — [1] The consideration for a promise need not necessarily move from the promisee but may move from a third party. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 477 (485) (DB). * (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 91 (93) : 1940 Rang L R 237 * (Vol 23) 1936 Bom. 344 (351, 352) : 60 Bom 954 * (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 484 (485).

[2] An agreement to pay a debt due from a third person is good consideration. Suit on basis of acknowledgment by defendant of moneys due by his father is maintainable. (Vol. 24) 1937 Lah 484 (484).

[3] A and his elder brother, both Hindus, who lived together and cultivated their land jointly had dealings with B but the elder brother alone made the necessary entries in the account books. After the elder brother's death, A struck a balance and continued the dealings in the same manner as before striking periodical balances. B then sued on the basis of the last balance and A's defence was that there was no consideration for striking the balance: Held, that the defendant must also have felt a moral obligation to pay the debt because he had enjoyed the benefit of it jointly with his deceased brother and there was, therefore, good consideration for acknowledgment made by A after his elder brother's death. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 789 (796).

[4] In marine insurance broker's undertaking to pay premium is consideration though it moves from a third person. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 82 (85).

4. Compromise as consideration. — [1] The compromise of doubtful rights is a sufficient basis of and forms a sufficient consideration for the agreement. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 263 (266) (DB) * (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 708 (709). (A compromise of a doubtful claim is a valuable consideration for an agreement restricting the power of alienation of ancestral land.) * (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 442 (444) * (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 121 (122). (Abandonment of doubtful claim is a valid consideration even if the claim is ultimately found to be without foundation.) * (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 306 (332) : 12 Pat 359 (DB) * (29) 116 Ind Cas 719 (720) (Lah) (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 22 (24). (Though claim turns out afterwards to have had no foundation.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (94) (FB) * (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 736 (744) (DB). (Even though it later on turns out that those supposed rights do not exist.) * (Vol 5) 1918 P C 287 (291) (PC). (Compromise of threatened suit is good consideration for promise irrespective of the possibility of the suit succeeding.) * (10) 1910 Pun W R No. 47, p. 114 (117).

[2] Compromise is agreement to put an end to dispute and to terminate or avoid litigation, and real consideration is not sacrifice of right but abandonment of claim. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 843 (857) (FB).

[3] Family settlement entered into, as to avoid the possibility of a future dispute is supported by consideration. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 105 (109) : 22 Oudh Cas 300 (FB).

[6] Parties can arrange to avoid necessity for legal proceedings and such arrangement is supported by sufficient consideration. (08) 8 Cal L Jour 453 (465) (DB) * (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 163 (163). (Dispute as to amount due from defendant — Settlement of dispute without necessity of going to Court is a good consideration in law.) * (34) 60 Cal L Jour 477 (511) (DB) * (09) 11 Bom L R 1064 (1069, 1070) (DB).

5. Co-promisors — Whether consideration to one is consideration to all. — [1] Consideration paid to one of several joint promisors is sufficient consideration to support a promise to pay made by others. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 41 (41) : 38 Mad 680 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 466 (467). (Where a bond to pay in instalments is executed by several promisors in lieu of a debt due to the lender from only one of them, the lender's abstinence from suing at the request of other promisors constitutes the consideration in respect of all.) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 316 (318) (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 149 (152) * (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 23 (24) : 45 Mad 345 (DB). (A promote is enforceable against all the executants if there is consideration for the instrument as a whole. Separate consideration to each executant is not necessary.)

6. Essentials of consideration. — [1] A consideration for a contract operates only once and when it has operated as consideration for one contract, it is spent. A single consideration cannot be made, by force of the definition in the Contract Act, to support an indefinite series of subsequent contracts. ('10) 1910 Mad W N 618 (622) * (Vol 15) 1928 All 440 (441) : 51 All 164 (FB). (Consideration received by a minor cannot be good consideration for fresh promise by him after attaining majority.).

[2] A valuable consideration may consist either in some right, interest or profit accruing to one party or some loss or responsibility suffered or undertaken by other. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 183 (184) (DB).

[3] Consideration is what moves from the promisee whether it be an advantage to the promisor or detriment suffered by the promisee. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 978 (980) (DB) * (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 311 (312) (DB).

[4] To constitute consideration, there must be an act, abstinence or promise on the part of promisee or some other person at the desire of promisor. (1875-77) 1 All 309 (310) (DB).

[5] Per Sadasva Aiyar J. — The mere doing of a thing which a person is already legally bound to do is no consideration for a new promise in his favour. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

[6] Per Sadasva Aiyar J. — A consideration to be valid must be "good or valuable" in the sense in which these words appear in English Law though these words do not appear in the Contract Act which speaks only of unlawful and lawful considerations. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

[7] Motive is distinct from and therefore cannot become the consideration for a contract. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 978 (980) * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 59 (63) : 53 Cal 51 (DB). (When a certain amount was paid so that the complainant may drop a criminal prosecution for embezzlement it was held that the amount paid was not consideration for dropping down the prosecution but only to provide a motive.)

7. Evidence as to consideration. — [1] Section 92 of Evidence Act does not prohibit the disproof of a recital in a contract as to the consideration by showing that the actual consideration was something different to that alleged. (1892) 5 Mad 6 (8) (DB).

[2] Onus of proving that there was no consideration rests on a person who denies it. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 135 (136) (DB).

[3] When execution of a document and receipt of consideration has been admitted at registration the burden of proving non-receipt of consideration falls upon the party who makes such allegation. ('05) 27 All 71 (72) (DB) * (1896) 23 Cal 950 (955) : 23 Ind App 92 (PC). (The mere fact that the mortgagee had wrongly omitted to include the interest accruing on the mortgage in his income-tax returns will not help the mortgagor who denies the consideration after acknowledging it before the registering officer, to shift the burden of proof lying on him to show that no consideration actually passed.)

[4] When a defendant vendor admits the execution and registration of a sale-deed, but denies the receipt of the consideration, it is for the plaintiff purchaser who is kept out of possession to prove that the consideration money was paid. (1886) 8 All 641 (643) (DB).

[5] Recital in a contract that vendor has received consideration can be disproved by him, by proving a collateral agreement to the effect that money was to remain with the vendee for a specific purpose. (1900) 22 All 370 (375) : 27 Ind App 93 (PC).

[6] Where the price has been inflated to avoid pre-emption, and the price is clearly beyond the reasonable market value, the vendee must show the actual payment of consideration and explain why an abnormal price was given. (Vol 6) 1919 All 340 (342) (DB).

[7] In an agreement to reconvey property the reciprocity between the parties is evidence of consideration. (Vol 18) 1931 All 113 (120) (DB).

8. Forbearance. — [1] Forbearance to sue can form valid consideration for a promise, provided some liability exists. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 756 (757) (DB) * (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 282 (283, 284). (Wife forbearing to sue husband for maintenance allowance on his agreeing to pay her monthly allowances by way of maintenance.) * (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 781 (784) (DB). (The forbearance of a plaintiff to sue, coupled with his forbearance to declare the defendant a defaulter, constitutes a good consideration for fresh agreement though the original contract had been in the nature of a wagering transaction.) * (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 298 (300) : 26 Nag L R 320. (Forbearance to sue debtor is a good consideration for the promise of the debtor to pay the amount found due.) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 689 (690) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 316 (318) (DB). (Money paid for making ornaments not returned — Goldsmith with 2 others passing pronote for forbearance from being sued — It is good consideration.) * (Vol 12) 1925 All 503 (506) : 47 All 637 (FB). (Abstinence from taking legal steps is consideration to support an agreement especially where there are mutual considerations and both parties are intending and agree to make an end of their dispute.) * (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 176 (176) : 26 Oudh Cas 204. (Forbearance to sue on original instrument is good consideration for renewal of pronote.) * (Vol 9) 1922 All 260 (262) : 44 All 424 (DB). (Forbearance to sue is a good consideration to support a Hundi.) * (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 269 (270) (DB). (Plaintiff refraining from seeking legal remedy against defendant for having infringed his right by mortgaging the portion of the house sold to him, is sufficient consideration for agreement with the plaintiff whereby he undertook to discharge the mortgage himself.) * (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 528 (529) (DB). (Forbearance to sue debtor on his pro-note is good consideration for latter executing security bond for payment of debt.) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 341 (343) (DB). (Abstinence from taking legal proceedings against estate which the debtor may acquire at a future date is sufficient consideration for a promise to pay debt due to creditor.) * ('11) 11 Ind. Cas. 773 (773) (Burma). (Pronote was executed by five persons in consideration of old debts incurred by only three of them. On suit on pro-note other two signatories pleaded denial of receipt of any consideration. Held, that two contesting defendants being closely related to actual debtors, creditor's forbearance to sue latter was sufficient consideration.) * ('10) 5 Low Bur Rul 192 (194, 195). (Forbearance by mortgagee to sue on debt is sufficient consideration for promissory note executed by mortgagor.) * (1908) 2 K B 696 (727). (Forbearance to sue a book-maker and to declare him a defaulter thereby saving him from injury with his customers.) * (1893) 17 Bom 457 (463) (DB).

[2] Forbearance to sue will not constitute a valid consideration where the plaintiff does not bona fide believe in the validity of his claim. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 689 (690) (DB).

[3] A promise to defer bringing a suit upon contract which is void does not amount to a consideration. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 485 (486) (DB).

[4] Forbearance to continue an appeal against a person on that person's brother agreeing to pay the amount claimed is good consideration. ('12) 15 Oudh Cas 314 (315).

[5] Suit for ejectment and recovery of cess — Decree for latter relief only — Subsequent agreement to accept decree—Payment of decretal amount—Held each party impliedly agreed not to appeal from decree and therefore it was good consideration. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 644 (645) (DB).

[6] An agreement not to appeal, consideration for which is the mutual consent of parties to refer the matter in dispute to Court as an arbitrator, is binding. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1074 (1074).

[7] Creditor forbearing to enforce execution and allowing time to pay at the request of the debtor is good consideration for a verbal promise by the debtor to pay the debt. The verbal promise constitutes a fresh contract. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 67 (69) : 48 Cal 817.

[8] Decree-holder's forbearance to enforce decree if property under execution be leased to him is a good consideration. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag. 455 (456).

[9] The promise or undertaking on the part of a decree-holder not to execute his decree, or the acceptance by him of a bond, or mortgage or other similar contract as satisfaction of the decree is undoubtedly a consideration within the meaning of S. 2 of the Contract Act. (1885) 7 All. 124 (131) (DB).

[10] Relative of judgment-debtor offering money to decree-holder—The consideration consists in the decree-holder not insisting on attachment of the judgment-debtor's property. (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh. 6 (7) (DB).

[11] Where A and B executed a pro-note for the decretal amount against A alone, the abandonment by the promisee of his decree against A is a consideration for B's liability. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad. 134 (136) (DB).

[12] Positive evidence as to postponement of legal action is not essential in every case but may safely be assumed when the circumstances so permit. ('31) 32 Pun L R 632 (633) (DB). (Two persons executed a balance because by so doing and by thus assuming liability, they were aware that further time for payment of debt would be given by plaintiff to the principal debtor — Held that there was consideration for the balance struck.)

[13] Agreement for forbearance to sue need not be for any definite time and it is enough if implied request for forbearance be inferred. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad. 528 (529) (DB).

[14] Release of principal debtor is good consideration for undertaking liability by another. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 740 (740) (DB).

[15] Acceptance by creditor of sole liability of one of two joint debtors is good consideration for agreement to discharge other debtor. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 396 (398) (DB).

[16] Suit for recovery of amount due on bahi accounts against N brother of G. G opened accounts and died subsequently. His estate came into the possession of N. N had gone into account books, acknowledged their correctness and undertook to pay interest but subsequently pleaded want of consideration. Held, that undertaking to pay the amount due on the accounts by N discharges the estate of G from liability and that it was a sufficient consideration. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 135 (136) (DB).

[17] Forbearance by vendee to enforce terms of prior sale without consideration is not a consideration for subsequent compromise. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 215 (216) : 1919 Pun Re No. 137.

9. Future promises — Whether consideration.

—[1] A promise to do something in future is legal consideration. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 202 (203) : 1938 Rang L R 385 (FB).

[2] Where one of terms of a harar for partition was that other co-parceners should pay certain sum for costs of marriage of daughter of one of them and in pursuance thereof pro-notes were executed, pro-note and agreement to pay are supported by consideration since it forms one of terms of contract. ('13) 36 Mad 151 (153, 154) (DB).

[3] Agreement by widow to adopt a particular person is good consideration for adoptee executing agreement in widow's favour. (Vol 13) 1926 All 194 (198) (DB).

10. Promise to pay subscription — Enforceability. — [1] A mere promise to subscribe a sum of money or the entry of such promised sum in a subscription list does not furnish any consideration and therefore the subscriber is not liable to pay it. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 135 (135) ✕(Vol 1) 1914 All 22 (23) : 36 All 268 (DB) ✕('87) 14 Cal 64 (67) (DB).

[2] In order that a mere promise to pay subscription may be enforced there must be some request by the promisor to the promisee to do some thing in consideration of the promised subscription or an undertaking by the promisee to do something as part of the bargain. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 135 (135) ✕('87) 14 Cal 64 (67) (DB). (But where persons were asked to subscribe knowing the purpose to which the money was to be applied and they knew that on the faith of their subscription an obligation was to be incurred to pay for the work undertaken, it was held that the promise to pay was supported by good consideration and the obligation was incurred at the desire of the promisor.)

11. Past consideration. — [1] Per Sadasiva Aiyar J.—Under the English law consideration must be present at the time of making the promise and there is no such thing as past consideration. A past request to the promisee to do an act even to the detriment of the promisee without simultaneous understanding that it is to be recompensed in future cannot make the act good consideration for a subsequent promise to pay. But the Indian Act does not require any such understanding. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

[2] Per Sadasiva Aiyar J.—It is not every act on the part of the promisee, though done at the request of the promisor which could support a subsequent promise. The act done by the promisee must be "good or valuable" consideration in the sense in which the terms appear in English law. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

[3] Past co-habitation between man and woman cannot be called a "consideration." Even assuming it is so, it would not be an immoral consideration rendering the contract void. ('81) 3 All 787 (788) (DB).

[4] Old debts form good consideration for mortgage or transfer of property. (Vol 6) 1919 All 348 (348) (DB) ✕(Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 3 (4) : 26 Oudh Cas 201.

[5] An account stated is an account which contains entries on both sides and in which the parties have agreed that the items on one side should be set off against the items on the other side and the balance should be paid. A stated account is a promise for good consideration to pay the balance even though some of the debts are barred by limitation. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 595 (596) (DB).

[6] If the servants put forth extra work in consideration whereof a bonus is promised to them by the masters it is in law a promise for past services which is good under Indian law. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 192 (194) (DB).

[7] Services previously rendered at the desire of a promisor are, by cl. (d) of S. 2 of the Contract Act (IX of 1872), placed on the same footing with services to be rendered in the future, and constitute a good consideration for a definite agreement. Consequently, services rendered at the desire of a minor expressed during his minority, and continued after his majority, form a good consideration for a subsequent express promise by him in favour of the person who rendered the services. ('96) 20 Bom. 755 (757) (DB).

[8] Money received during minority can form the consideration for a contract made by a person of full age and competent to contract. (Vol 11) 1924 All 730 (731) : 46 All 568 (DB).

[9] That which have voluntarily been performed in the past cannot be made consideration for a promise to do something in future. There must be another promise as consideration for that promise. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 89 (90) : 18 Luck 647.

[10] Though past services voluntarily rendered are not consideration to support promise and not capable of being enforced by the promisee yet they can be pleaded as valuable consideration in a suit to set aside alienation made on account of such past services. ('09) 19 Mad L Jour 62 (65) (DB).

[11] Condition precedent to agreement can be attached by consent of parties later on—Fresh consideration is unnecessary for later agreement. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 71 (75) (PC). (Agreement to grant lease—Condition precedent subsequently added that until certain debt on the lease property has been paid off he cannot grant lease—Agreement cannot be enforced until condition is fulfilled.)

12. Stranger to contract — Right to sue. — [1] Section 2, cl. (d) widens the definition of 'consideration' so as to enable a party to a contract to enforce the same. Not only, however, is there nothing in S. 2 to encourage the idea that contract can be enforced by a person who is not a party to the contract but this notion is rigidly excluded by the definition of 'promisor' and 'promisee'. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 518 (522) : 55 Cal 1315 (DB).

[2] On equitable principles, only a person who is a party to a contract can sue on it. The law knows nothing of a jus quæsitum tertio arising by way of contract. Such a right may be conferred by way of property, as for example, under a trust but it cannot be conferred on a stranger to a contract as a right to enforce the contract in personam. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 11 (14) (PC).

[4] A clause in a motor insurance policy empowering the insurance company to enforce the legal rights of the insured against a third party in the name of the insured and also providing that the insurance company shall indemnify the insured against his legal liability in respects of death of, or accident to passengers cannot give that third a right of suit against the insurance company for money due under the policy. A passenger being a mere stranger to the contract of insurance cannot sue for money payable under the policy. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 217 (217).

[5] Where a person transfers property to another and stipulates for the payment of money by purchaser to a third person a suit to enforce that stipulation by the third party will not lie. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 382 (389) : 53 Mad 270 (FB) ; (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 261 (263) : ILR (1945) Nag 581 (DB) ; ('37) 1937 Mad W N 408 (409). (Vendee undertaking to discharge pro-note executed by vendor in favour of a third party—Third party cannot sue vendor for amount due under pro-note as there is no privity of contract.) ; (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 695 (696) : 14 Lah 675 ; (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 567 (567). (A mortgagee not being party to agreement between the mortgagor and her vendee as regards payment of mortgage money cannot enforce agreement).

[See also (Vol 21) 1934 All 770 (772)].

[But see (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 178 (179)].

[6] A creditor, who is not a party to compromise effected between his debtors themselves, cannot institute a suit on that contract unless he stood in the capacity of a cestui que trust. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 457 (457) : 55 Mad 436 (DB).

[7] S, a debtor of B, executed hypothecation bond in favour of C for a consideration including the amount of debt due to B which he agreed to pay off—B cannot recover the debt from C as he was not party to the hypothecation bond. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 701 (704) : 38 Mad 753 (DB).

[8] A license for a liquor-shop was obtained by A and certain sum was at A's request deposited by B as security for the license. Subsequently A took C as partner in the shop. Government forfeited certain sum for arrears of license fee out of the amount deposited by B. B sued A and C for recovery of that amount. Held that A was liable but not C as there was no privity of contract between B and C. (Vol 27) 1940 All 98 (99) : I L R (1940) All 96 (DB). (Vol 25) 1938 All 206, Reversed.)

[9] A sold grain-pits to B by means of slips. Under their terms, A was bound to deliver grain-pits to the ultimate purchaser of slips. D was the ultimate purchaser of these slips from vendees from A. Held that the terms of the offer entered into the slip excluded the responsibility of each successive vendor to each successive purchaser and hence contractual liability existed only between A and D. (Vol 23) 1936 All 700 (701) (DB).

[10] An agreement between the sons of a deceased Muhammadan, that one of them should take the whole property of their father and also pay his debts, is not enforceable by the creditors. Such brother is not personally liable for the debts. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 190 (192) : ILR (1943) Kar 238 (DB).

"To L. Accept compliments of D (defendant). Further, at the instance of B, the man of G (plaintiff) will come. So you will please pay him Rs. five hundred and fifty." Held that the Chitti could not be construed as an agreement and there was no privity of contract between the plaintiff and the defendant and therefore could not sue him for recovery of the amount. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 120 (121) : I L R (1944) Nag. 46.

[17] The principle laid down in Tweedle v. Atkinson that a person who is not a party to a contract cannot take advantage of its provisions is inapplicable to India as certain exceptions to the general rule are recognised. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 566 (568) (DB) & (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 397 (398).

[18] A person who is not a party to a contract cannot ordinarily sue for its specific performance, but where third person acquires some benefit under the contract, he is entitled to enforce such benefit by equitable relief. It is not the contract itself that is enforced but only the equities arising out of it. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 114 (125) (DB) & (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 20 (21) & (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 67 (68) (DB) & ('35) 62 Cal L Jour 55 (64) (DB). [24] A widow X was to receive maintenance from M in exchange of her interest in the land. X assigned the arrears to H for value. The land was purchased by F from M. H sued F for arrears. It was held that he was entitled to a decree. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 260 (260, 261) (DB).

[25] Where certain persons obtained possession of properties relinquished by a female limited proprietor expressly agreeing to pay certain decretal debt due against her, it was held that the decree-holder though a stranger to that contract which is to his benefit is entitled to enforce the agreement to his benefit. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 67 (68) (DB).

[30] Where an ante-nuptial agreement was executed between parents of bride and bridegroom by which a promise was made to pay a monthly allowance to wife as pandan expenses in consideration of marriage, the wife can sue for arrears though not a party to agreement. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 385 (387) : 12 Luck 344 (DB) * (10) 32 All 410 (414) : 37 Ind App 152 (P O).

Interest created by Partition, Marriage Settlement or Family Settlement.—[31] Where in a partition of a joint family property by a compromise decree certain properties are given to certain branches to which are allotted certain debts and it is provided that until the debts are fully discharged the properties allotted to respective persons shall be liable in the first instance for the debts, the transaction amounts to a mere contract of indemnity between parties conferring no benefit or charge upon the creditors. A creditor who is not a party to the compromise, cannot sue on the contract unless he stands in the position of a 'cestui que trust.' (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 457 (457) : 55 Mad 436 (DB).

[33] Adopted boy though no party to settlement can sue the trustees for recovery of properties under settlement as he is a beneficiary. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 141 (143).

(Agreement between A and B that latter should not exhibit a certain film in other Talkies—B contracting with C to rent the same film to him in breach of previous agreement with A—Suit by A for breach of contract against B and C—Held privity of contract between A and C who had knowledge of the breach was established and therefore suit was maintainable)

13. Valid consideration — Illustrations. —

[1] A settlement of accounts by all partners even if subsequent to three years from date of dissolution is valid—Mutual promises to abide by it is a good consideration to support the contract. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 120 (121) (PC).

[2] A agreed to pay B a sum of money in consideration of B supplying funds to A and also assisting him in a litigation. When B claimed the money A repudiated it on the ground that there was no consideration for the agreement : Held, that there was good consideration and that B could recover the money from A. (32) 138 Ind Cas 900 (902) (PC).

[3] Where plaintiff sells his shares in a Company to the defendant purchaser without undertaking to get the transfer recognised by the Company and the Company refuses to recognise the transfer, it was held that there was no failure of consideration (Vol 1) 1911 All 118 (119) : 36 All 365 (DB).

[4] Where a creditor releases his debtor and accepts a new debtor in his place, the release of the original debtor furnishes a good consideration for the new contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 789 (790).

[5] Mortgagee offering to release mortgaged property from his security if the proposed vendee paid him a certain amount—Purchase of property on faith of such offer and alteration of position of vendee is good consideration—Contract is binding on parties. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 94 (97) (DB).

[6] Promise to pay for service undertaken at the request of the promisor is not a bare promise. Thus where a solicitor has agreed to serve and accept taxed cost in the event of success such agreement is a contract supported by consideration. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 250 (251) : ILR (1939) Bom 307 (DB).

[7] Gift in consideration of donee performing certain religious services at temple is transfer for valuable consideration. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 183 (184) (DB).

[8] Suit to enforce mortgage executed by Hindu father on behalf of himself and as guardian of his minor sons—Mortgagee undertaking to pay father's creditors and advancing cash alleged to have been received by father—Mortgagee's undertaking to pay creditors was held to be good consideration so far as father was concerned. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 77 (78).

[9] Where a promise by A is consideration for a promise by B, the former, so long as it remains executory, will not amount to consideration in the eyes of law unless it involves a legal obligation which A may be compelled to perform. But even where the promise on the side of A does not involve a legal obligation its performance will constitute sufficient consideration, as an executed promise becomes consideration. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 709 (712) (DB).

[10] If a person contracts marriage in consideration of a promise, then the marriage is for valuable consideration within the meaning of this definition. Such promise is binding and enforceable agreement. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 500 (505) : 42 Mad 154 (DB).

[11] Defendant requested his step-mother to deliver him his share of his father's assets, but she stated that a certain debt was due by his father and defendant should pay part of the debt, as he was to receive part of the assets. He agreed to pay debt. The defendant thereupon executed a promissory note in favour of plaintiff and got his share of the assets. Held, there was consideration for the promissory note within the meaning of Cl. 2 (d). (1883) 6 Mad 351 (354) (DB).

[12] Mortgage executed to make good to mortgagee the loss sustained by him for having lost a property by pre-emption is valid and is supported by consideration. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 215 (216) (DB).

[13] A promise or undertaking on the part of a decree-holder not to execute his decree, or the acceptance by him of a bond or mortgage or other similar contract as satisfaction of the decree is consideration—Fact that such adjustment is not certified does not render it unlawful. (1885) 7 All 124 (131) (DB).

[14] Estate of two undivided brothers H and S was taken under the management of Court of Wards to pay off personal debts incurred by H. An agreement was entered into between the brothers by which H surrendered all his interest in the estate and S became the sole proprietor, subject to the payment to him by S of a personal allowance. The reasons given in the agreement for surrender were that S had to be recouped for the money appropriated to H's use. H had no sort of proprietary interest in the estate excepting the right to manage : Held, that the above agreement was not bad for want of consideration. (1895) 17 All 264 (271) (DB).

- (e) Every promise and every set of promises, forming the consideration for each other, is an agreement:
- (f) Promises which form the consideration or part of the consideration for each other are called reciprocal promises:
- (g) An agreement not enforceable by law is said to be void:
- (h) An agreement enforceable by law is a contract:

Section 2 (d) (contd.)

[15] A patti divided into sub-pattis at time of partition—Subsequent agreement by owner of one sub-patti that he would be responsible for realisation of rents from tenants on whole original patti is supported by consideration and is binding on parties. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 307 (308) : I L R (1944) Nag 412.

[16] It is not necessary that there should be reciprocity of performance to make a promise to render services valid consideration. So long as there is a promise coming from each side and each side promises a thing which can be done and can legally be done there is consideration. Thus where P enters into an agreement with B that in P's suit to recover possession of a house B should do pairvi and if he succeeded P would transfer one-fourth of the house to B, and B succeeded, there is valid consideration. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 89 (90) : 18 Luck 647.

[18] L granted an estate to C and directed her to make an annual payment to L's brothers. C by agreement of even date made with L's brothers promised to carry out L's directions. Held, that the grant by L and the promise by C to L's brothers being one transaction, there was a sufficient consideration for the promise within S. 2 (d). (1882) 4 Mad 137 (140) (DB).

[19] If a mortgagor agrees to receive a less amount than that for which he agrees to execute the mortgage, the transaction is perfectly valid and the mortgagor is bound to pay the entire sum agreed. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 193 (195) : 27 Oudh Cas 4.

[See however (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 435 (440) (DB). (Partial failure of consideration does not affect validity of bond. The bond is operative to the extent of the sum actually advanced.)

[20] Dower to be paid under Muhammadan law to the daughter-in-law is a valid consideration for a transfer by the mother-in-law in lieu of it. (Vol 17) 1930 All 434 (435) (DB).

The following are illustrative examples of cases in which the contracts were held to be not supported by any consideration.

[21] An agreement by a tenant under a subsisting tenancy to pay a different rent when measurement would be made cannot be enforced as it is not supported by consideration. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 725 (726).

[23] Where damages were claimed on the ground of breach of contract by the decree-holder in not having certified payment under O. 21, R. 2, Civil P. C., and in executing the decree : Held, that there was no contract at all as the repayment of money due under the decree was no consideration at all, and the fact that duty was cast upon the decree-holder to certify the payment cannot alter it. (Vol 20) 1933 All 511 (512).

[24] A person, under arrest, in execution of a decree by a Court having no jurisdiction to make it, gave the holder of such decree, a bond for the amount of the decree and a small amount for stamping and preparation of this bond, so that he might be released from arrest. It was held that such a bond was given without consideration as the small amount paid for stamping and preparation of the bond was not "consideration" in legal sense. (1882) 4 All 352 (355) (DB).

[25] When a father transfers property to trustees in trust for his minor sons the limitations on the interest which the trustees have by virtue of the trust cannot be pleaded as consideration for the transfer. The trustees do not receive an absolute interest in consideration for which they agree to do certain things. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 80 (86) : 25 Oudh Cas 291 (DB).

Section 2 (e)—Note 1

[1] Term "agreement" refers both to "promise" and "a set of promises" forming consideration for each other. The words "forming consideration for each other" qualify only the words "set of promises" and not "every promise." Hence every "promise" is an agreement. (1904) 28 Bom 66 (72) (DB).

[2] Agreement includes a single promise or set of promises forming the consideration for each other. Consequently, there is no difficulty in treating promises made to minors for consideration received, as contracts, for they are made by persons competent to contract for consideration received. (1899) 23 Bom 146 (163, 164) (SB).

[3] Consideration is not always an essential element of an agreement. (1904) 28 Bom 66 (72) (DB).

Section 2 (g)—Note 1

[1] Not every unenforceable contract is declared to be void but only those which are unenforceable by substantive law—Inability to sue by reason of Limitation Act or Civil P. C., would not cause a contract to become void. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 110 (113) : 66 Ind App 198 : 1939 Rang L R 358 (P C).

[2] A contract void in its inception is no contract at all ; it has not passed from the stage of agreement to the stage of a contract. It is an agreement not enforceable at law. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 211 (212) : 31 Sind L R 170 (D B).

[3] Agreement to pay interest, not awarded by a decree, together with the decretal amount, without the sanction of the Court, which passed the decree, is void. (1885) 9 Bom 176 (178) (D B).

[4] Statutory prohibitions are not subject to the common law exception of executed contract. Hence a contract, though executed, must be deemed to be void on the ground of failure to comply with statutory provisions relating to the manner in which it shall be made. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 199 (202) : I L R (1940) Kar 347 (D B).

[5] As to voidable contracts, and void agreements, see Ss. 10 to 29, generally.

Section 2 (h) — Note 1

[1] The definition of 'contract' in S. 2 is built upon a succession of definitions of the elements, which go to make a contract, that is to say, proposal, acceptance, promise, promisor, promisee, consideration and agreement. The expression "reciprocal promises" is explained and finally a contract is defined as an agreement, enforceable by law. On the other hand, an agreement not enforceable by law is said to be void. It is not a contract at all. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 153 (156, 157) (DB).

[2] The words "lawful agreement" in O. 23, R. 3, Civil P. C., mean exactly the same thing as words "an

- (i) An agreement which is enforceable by law at the option of one or more of the parties thereto, but not at the option of the other or others, is a voidable contract:
- (j) A contract which ceases to be enforceable by law becomes void when it ceases to be enforceable.

CHAPTER I.

OF THE COMMUNICATION, ACCEPTANCE, AND REVOCATION OF PROPOSALS.

3. The communication of proposals, the acceptance of proposals, and the revocation of proposals, are deemed to be made by any act or omission of the party proposing, accepting, or revoking, by which he intends to communicate such proposal, acceptance, or revocation, or which has the effect of communicating it.

4. The communication of a proposal is complete when it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made.

The communication of an acceptance is complete,— as against the proposer, when it is put in a course of transmission to him, so as to be out of the power of the acceptor; as against the acceptor, when it comes to the knowledge of the proposer.

agreement enforceable by law" in S. 2 (h). (Vol 33) 1946 Sind 81 (83) : I L R (1946) Kar 288.

[3] Obligations, included in Ch. V. are not contractual obligations and are not included in contracts, which only were subject-matter of Act. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 216 (243) : 47 Cri L Jour 594.

[4] It is open to the parties to a transaction to contract themselves out of the provisions of a statute. But it must be clearly and satisfactorily established, not only that the parties intend that their liability should be different from that created by the statute, but also that they intended the variation, which is contrary to the provisions of the statute. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 447 (449) : 24 Pat 438 (DB).

[5] Though the actual figure of the rent has not been determined, if there is no uncertainty regarding the way in which it should be fixed throughout the lease, the lease cannot be said to be unenforceable for uncertainty and would be a binding lease (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 518 (523) : I L R (1945) Mad 355 (DB).

[6] For contracts required to be in writing, see S. 10.

[7] For admission of oral and documentary evidence to prove terms of contract, see S. 10.

Section 2 (i) — Note 1

[1] The term voidable as used with reference to alienations by limited owners under Hindu law is not used in the sense in which it is used in the Contract Act. Under the Hindu law the transaction not supported by necessity is void and not merely voidable as regards other members, and where such necessity exists, it is valid. Fraud, undue influence, misrepresentation need not be proved to set it aside. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 986 (989) (DB).

[2] A contract falling under S. 236 is a voidable contract. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 207 (209) (DB).

[3] Where the contract was made by the Municipal Corporation of Bombay, through its President, and not through its Commissioner: Held that the contract was not binding on the municipality by virtue of S. 69 (a), City Municipal Act. Section 6 — Note 1

[1] If the proposer revokes his offer before its acceptance, then S. 6 (1), Contract Act, applies. Even if he does not revoke, S. 6 (2) applies unless, of course, the

- (2) by the lapse of the time prescribed in such proposal for its acceptance, or, if no time is so prescribed, by the lapse of a reasonable time, without communication of the acceptance ;
- (3) by the failure of the acceptor to fulfil a condition precedent to acceptance ; or
- (4) by the death or insanity of the proposer, if the fact of his death or insanity comes to the knowledge of the acceptor before acceptance.

Acceptance must be absolute.

7. In order to convert a proposal into a promise, the acceptance must —

- (1) be absolute and unqualified ;
- (2) be expressed in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner in which it is to be accepted. If the proposal prescribes a manner in which it is to be accepted, and the acceptance is not made in such manner, the proposer may, within a reasonable time after the acceptance is communicated to him, insist that his proposal shall be accepted in the prescribed manner, and not otherwise ; but, if he fails to do so, he accepts the acceptance.

(Vol 26) 1939 Nag 225 (226) : I L R (1941) Nag 567.

SECTION 7 — Synopsis

1. Acceptance must be unconditional.
2. Acceptance with variation.
3. Counter proposal.
4. Manner of acceptance (S. 7 (2)).

1. Acceptance must be unconditional. — [1] Section 7 lays down that in order to convert a proposal into a promise the acceptance must be absolute and unqualified. Until there is such an acceptance the stage of negotiations has not been passed and no legal obligation is imposed. (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523) (DB) & (1904) 28 Bom 420 (425) (DB) & (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 260 (263) (DB). (Held that the printed forms which plaintiffs sent to defendants could hardly be styled acceptance of offers so as to bind the parties.)

[2] The acceptance must be unconditional and unqualified. When once a proposal is practically refused it does not hold good and no acceptance after the refusal could convert the proposal to a promise so as to create a contract. (Vol. 9) 1922 Pat 24 (26, 27) (DB).

[3] The acceptance of a proposal must be absolute and unqualified and a person making the proposal cannot impose on the party to whom it is addressed the obligation to refuse it under the penalty of imputed assent, or attach to his silence the legal results that he must be deemed to have accepted it. (Vol 6) 1919 All 7 (8) : 42 All 187 & (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523) (DB).

[4] An acceptance which leaves one of the conditions essential to the implementing of the acceptance to the discretion of a third person is not an unqualified acceptance and fails as an acceptance. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 529 (543).

[5] When an order for goods is accepted "subject to confirmation by mail" the acceptance is conditional and the contract cannot be said to have been complete on the date of such acceptance. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 325 (326) (DB) & (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 114 (115) (DB).

[6] Where the plaintiff accepts the offer of the defendant to sell, but seeks to add a further term, which the defendant refused to consider, at the same time repeating the offer, which he had previously made, and the plaintiff accepts the offer, the transaction of contract of sale is complete and binding on the defendant. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 343 (346).

[7] Where A, intending to insure his motor-car supplied the particulars to the Insurance Company in a printed form, and the company issued a policy containing a condition, that no insurance shall be held to be effected until premium thereon was paid in full, and accepted, and the defendant failed to pay the premium, it was held, in the suit by the company to recover the premium, that, there being no absolute and unqualified acceptance by the company of the proposal for insurance, there was no completed contract until actual payment of the premium. Therefore A was not liable to pay the premium. The handing over of the policy to A did not amount to waiver of the condition in the policy. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 260 (262, 263, 264) : 52 Bom 532 (DB).

[8] The defendants ordered from plaintiffs Belgian cotton coatings by means of two indents. Plaintiffs replied on printed forms which read as follows :

"We beg to record as at foot on your Indent No. . . . confirmed by you on . . . has been duly placed which we communicate without engagement of any kind". It was held that the printed forms could hardly be styled acceptance of offers so as to bind the parties. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 260 (263) (DB).

[9] On an order from a firm, following letter was sent: "We have the pleasure to accept your under-mentioned order subject to confirmation by mail. If you do not hear from us to the contrary within four weeks from to-day, the order should be considered as finally placed. Please note that if full particulars as to assortment, heading, stamping or ticketing, etc., are not given to us before 3rd September we shall hold you responsible for all consequences." Held that there was an absolute and unconditional acceptance. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 374 (376) (DB).

[10] Insurance (Burglary) — Proposal and payment of premium—"Cover note" intimating risk insured and that policy would be issued in 30 days—Policy not issued—Occurrence of theft—Cover note implies acceptance—Acceptance is absolute and unequivocal — The fact that the policy did not arrive before the burglary actually took place cannot be relied upon by the company as the acceptance of the proposal was complete. (Vol 21) 1934 All 298 (300) : 56 All 726 (DB).

[11] An engineer was offered a job on Rs. 300 by a company. The engineer demanded Rs. 400. The company wired "Agree 400 without conveyance to act as engineer and manager. Please join duty immediately." The engineer accepted wiring back "shall arrive Madura, Friday 1st February awaiting detailed letter."

8. Performance of the conditions of a proposal, or the acceptance of any consideration for a reciprocal promise which may be offered with a proposal, is an acceptance by performing conditions, or receiving consideration. acceptance of the proposal.

Held that, the last telegram was a complete acceptance. Ordinarily a phrase like "awaiting detailed letter" might mean that acceptance was not intended to be final until the details were known; but correspondence of each case must be construed with reference to the surrounding circumstances. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 654 (655, 656) (DB).

[12] Defendant advertised a horse for sale. Plaintiff answered the advertisement. Further in course of correspondence which took place before closing of bargain the defendant warranted soundness of the animal and the plaintiff agreed to purchase it if veterinary certificate was produced. Upon delivery the horse was found to be diseased: Held that S. 7 did not apply as the acceptance was complete as soon as the advertisement was answered. Further negotiations previous to the closing of bargain did not operate as waiver of warranty as to soundness of the animal. (1912) 9 All L Jour 285 (287) (DB).

2. Acceptance with variation.—[1] Where offer by the buyer to seller for purchase of certain shares was sent by telegram and in the course of transmission the word "profit" got added, it was held that so far as the seller was concerned it was an acceptance of the offer he actually received by telegram and he was not liable to the buyer. (1910) 10 Mad W N 513 (514).

See also Note 3.

3. Counter proposal. — [1] An acceptance with a variation is no acceptance. It is simply a counter proposal which must be accepted by the original promisor before a contract is made. (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523) (DB) & (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 436 (438): 1913 Pun Re No. 92 (DB) & (1908) 2 Sind L R 7 (8, 9) (DB) & (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 374 (375) (DB) & (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 13 (14) (DB).

[2] Defendant entered into contract with plaintiff for supply of cotton which would meet with plaintiff's approval. The contract was embodied in bought and sold notes. There was a slight variation in the notes. The bought notes contained the words "G. S. R.", representing a particular kind of cotton, which were not on the sold note. Held that the letters did not constitute such a variation so as to affect the validity of the contract. (1908) 2 Sind L R 7 (8, 9) (DB).

[4] The plaintiff while accepting the defendant's offer of a lease made a counter proposal for insertion of a clause in the real note providing for a renewal of lease for another five years. The defendant's estate manager replied "I am making necessary arrangements." It was held that the counter offer was not accepted. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 200 (201): 45 Bom 8 (DB).

4. Manner of acceptance (S. 7 (2)). — [1] A correct interpretation of Ss. 7, 8 and 9 does not import into Indian law the English law as to acceptance by conduct. On a proper interpretation of the sections there are only three cases in which acceptance can be made otherwise than in words. One is when the promisor has specified a manner in which his proposal is to be accepted and that manner is not acceptance in words but acceptance otherwise than in words. A second is when acceptance is by performance of a condition of the proposal and the third is when acceptance of proposal is by the acceptance of any consideration offered for a reciprocal promise invited from the promisee. There is, however, one further case in which there may be acceptance by conduct which is not covered by Ss. 7, 8 and 9. It is when trade or mercantile usage or local usage can be invoked to import into the transaction a promise by the promisee which is not made either expressly or impliedly. (Vol 14) 1927 All 407 (409): 49 All 674 (DB).

[2] Manner prescribed cannot be mere silence. Assent must be by express words or positive conduct. No duty is cast by the law upon the person to whom an offer is made to reply to that offer. (Vol 14) 1927 All 407 (410): 49 All 674 (DB).

[3] Failure to reply to a counter proposal would not per se amount to an acceptance. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 374 (375) (DB) & (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 500 (501) & (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 13 (14) (DB). (It was doubted whether the omission to reply to a counter proposal which conveyed an intimation that silence would be regarded as an acceptance of it, would amount to an acceptance.)

[4] The acceptance of counter proposal need not be in words or writing. Subsequent conduct may amount to acceptance. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 436 (438): 1913 Pun Re No. 92 (DB).

[5] Acceptance of a proposal may be made without express communication, by conduct of the acceptor. A written offer to take goods accompanied by a sum of money representing price is acceptance, if the purchaser credits money received to his account. (Vol 6) 1919 All 7 (8): 42 All 187.

[6] Where a letter makes offer for sale of property, directing that purchaser should write about acceptance to a certain person and the intending purchaser instead of so writing communicates directly with the seller, there is no contravention of S. 7, as to tender contract not binding on seller. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 87 (91) (DB).

[7] Equitable mortgage.—Creditor in Bombay asking debtor outside Bombay to send title deeds by post—Post office becomes authorized agent of creditor to receive title-deeds. Transaction is complete under S. 7, as soon as debtor posts title deeds. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 39 (41): I L R (1937) Bom 768.

[8] As to the acceptance of a proposal for composition made under S. 38, Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920, see under S. 38 of the Provincial Insolvency Act.

[1] Where an aunt promised to purchase and settle property on her niece if she resided with her and after the purchase also wrote a letter to that effect whereupon the niece resided with her, the letter coupled with the conduct of niece constituted a binding contract, which was specifically enforceable. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 9 (13): 43 Ind App 138: 39 Mad 509 (P C).

[2] A surety asked the creditor by letter to advance money to the debtor to certain amount and made himself responsible for the amount. The letter did not contemplate any communication of acceptance. It was held that the advancement of money amounts to acceptance of the proposal and the contract of guarantee was complete. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 938 (939).

[3] The tenant of nanja land raised vanapayar crops only. It was held that the presumption was that the nanja rates were payable by the tenant and not merely vanapayar rates. However, where there is no evidence beyond the fact that only the vanapayar rates were paid the inference is that only vanapayar rates were payable under the agreement. (1912) 16 Ind Cas 609 (610) (Mad).

9. In so far as the proposal or acceptance of any promise is made in words, the promise is Promises, express and implied. said to be express. In so far as such proposal or acceptance is made otherwise than in words, the promise is said to be implied.

CHAPTER II.

OF CONTRACTS, VOIDABLE CONTRACTS, AND VOID AGREEMENTS.

10. All agreements are contracts if they are made by the free consent of parties competent What agreements are contracts. to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object, and are not hereby expressly declared to be void.

Nothing herein contained shall affect any law in force in British India, and not hereby expressly repealed, by which any contract is required to be made in writing^a or in the presence of witnesses, or any law relating to the registration of documents.

[a] See e. g., S. 25 infra; the Indian Copyright Act, 1914 (3 [III] of 1914), First Schedule, S. 5; the Apprentices Act, 1850 (19 [XIX] of 1850), S. 8; the Conveyance of Land Act, 1854 (31 [XXXI] of 1854), Ss. 14 and 18; the Carriers Act, 1865 (3 [III] of 1865), Ss. 6 and 7; the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 and 58 Vict., c. 60), S. 24. SECTION 9 — Note 1

[1] Sections 7, 8, 9 lay down cases in which acceptance may be made otherwise than in words. In addition to that there may be acceptance by conduct which is not covered by these sections. It is when trade or mercantile usage or local usage can be invoked to import into the transaction a promise by the promisee which is not made either expressly or impliedly. (Vol 14) 1927 All 407 (409) : 49 All 674 (DB).

[2] When the parties act, to the knowledge of the proposer upon a proposal, the objection that the contract was inchoate or incomplete is not maintainable. After such actings locus penitentie or the power to resile from the agreement is barred by rei interventie which raises a personal exception excluding the plea of locus penitentie. (Vol 3) 1916 P. C. 9 (13) : 43 Ind. App. 138 : 39 Mad 509 (P C).

[3] The principle of quantum meruit is applied by assuming implied contract when for some technical reason a contract is held to be invalid. The principle has no application to a case where by the terms of contract, a person agrees that he is not entitled to any remuneration unless the work has been checkmeasured. Consequently he cannot claim for any work that has not been checkmeasured. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 887 (888).

[5] A contract may be of a mixed character, that is partly expressed in words and partly implied from acts of parties and circumstances. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 47 (49) : 1 L R (1943) Lah 28 (DB).

[6] Contract whether implied or express gives an equal cause of action. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 174 (174).

[7] Implied contracts are as much binding as express contracts on parties. (1912) 16 Ind Cas 609 (609) (DB) (Mad).

[8] Where defendant not only accepts liability without demur but sends goods to discharge the liability the defendant is personally liable for losses on constituent consignments. (Vol 23) 1935 P C 154 (157) (PC).

[9] An implied contract to pay compound interest may be implied from long course of dealings between parties. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 61 (62, 63) : 47 Ind App 17 : 44 Bom 474 (P C).

[10] Unless there is a mercantile usage, no interest can be imported into a contract containing no stipulation to that effect either under Hindu or English law. (1863) 9 Moo Ind App 256 (267) (PC).

[11] In cases where the relationship of principal and agent subsists agent's claim for extra remuneration on implied contract is enforceable. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 931 (933) (DB).

[12] Under an award made on reference to arbitration regarding disputes between A and B, C as surety of A paid the amount found due to B. On reference being discovered to be void C filed a suit against A for the recovery of amount. Held that there was an implied contract between C and A for reimbursement of the amount paid and therefore the suit was maintainable. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 187 (188).

1. Construction of contracts. — [1] While construing a written contract, the Court will be erring in approaching the question of what formed the subject-matter of the negotiations which preceded the written contract between the parties, without first settling to what extent the contract was so ambiguous as to justify resort to evidence as to negotiations. (Vol 33) 1946 P C 50 (50) (P C).

[2] Contracts should be interpreted by themselves, and it is improper to interpret one contract by reference to another because they may seem to differ very little, as it may result in identifying contracts which are wholly different. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 548 (550) : 42 Cal 1050 (D B).

[3] Where in a contract there exists an apparent inconsistency according to the literal construction of the words used, and if by any other reasonably possible construction that inconsistency can be reconciled, that construction should be adopted. But the Court should not speculate as to reasons for the language used. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 151 (152) : 1 L R (1940) Kar (PC) 361 (PC).

[8] Contract to re-sell in a sale-deed—Held on construction, that there was not merely a standing offer to re-sell, but there was a completed contract to re-sell and purchase on the date of sale-deed. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 322 (323) : 56 Mad 433 (F B).

[9] Contracts effected in different markets for different quantities with different delivery dates, evidenced by separate memoranda, are in law distinct one from the other, and the liabilities in respect of each are separate. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 211 (219) : I L R (1941) Bom 441.

[10] Where each part of the contract is an inducement to every other part of it, there is an entire contract for a single consideration and there is no warrant to divide the contract into distinct parts. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 982 (992) (D B).

[11] Where the printed terms of a contract are inconsistent with what has been written or typed in, the latter must prevail. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom-229 (236) * (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 246 (248).

Printed and written or typed provisions—Inconsistency between—If the type-written and printed portion of a contract can be read together, effect must be given to all the provisions but if the printed portion cannot be reconciled with the type written portion, the latter must prevail : (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 189 (141) : I L R (1942) Mad 33 (D B).

[12] Where there is inconsistency between the printed and the written provisions, print cannot be discarded but the real meaning is to be discovered from the printed as well as from written words. (1906) 30 Bom 1 (14) (D B).

2. Contracts required to be in writing : See under Note 4.

3. Evidence to establish contract. — [1] As to the exclusion of oral by documentary evidence, see also Chapter VI of the Evidence Act, 1 [I] of 1872.

[2] Oral evidence is admissible to show that document executed by a person was never intended to operate as an agreement but was brought into existence solely for creating evidence of some other matter. (Vol 23) 1936 P O 70 (74) : 63 Ind App 126 : 59 Mad 446 (P C) (Ss. 91 and 92, Evidence Act, considered)

[3] Absence of oral evidence is not enough to defeat agreement to pay the amount due. The conduct of a party coupled with a chitti acknowledging the amount is sufficient to prove the agreement to pay the amount found due from him on that date. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 124 (126) : I L R (1944) Nag 101 (D B).

[5] In a suit to recover goods contracted to be sold a mercantile custom contradicting the written contract which will have the effect of entitling the vendor to require the purchaser to accept that which was not in accordance with the description stipulated for cannot be pleaded. But evidence of custom not inconsistent with the contract can be admitted. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 4 (7) : 41 Bom 518 (D B).

[6] Entry by broker in noon of each contracting party embodying terms of contract signed by broker is intended to be written evidence of the fact that a contract has been made. (1912) 6 Sind L R 278 (283).

[7] The negotiation and correspondence must be looked at as a whole to see whether the parties have concluded a binding contract or not. Where only certain terms of the contract were settled and the others left open, there is no concluded contract. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 428 (428) (D B).

[8] The true effect of an unambiguous contract cannot be changed by the course of conduct adopted by parties to it in its performance. Such conduct in certain events raises an inference that the parties have agreed to modify the original contract and may in special cases along with other evidence support a claim for rectification. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 26 (29) (P C).

[9] A by letter offered to purchase certain goods from B on condition of payment of advance. B replied 'I shall reduce all terms to writing and receive advance.' The same day A gave the advance to B who gave a receipt crediting it towards advance stipulated by A to be paid by A. Held there was completed contract and reduction to writing was merely incidental contract. (1911) 21 Mad L Jour 182 (184, 186) (DB).

[10] Intention to have formal document, whether postpones contract.—Where the documents or letters relied on as constituting a contract contemplate the execution of a further contract between the parties, it is a question of construction whether the execution of the further contract is a condition or form of the bargain or whether it is a mere expression of the desire of the parties as to the manner in which the transaction already agreed to will in fact go through. In the former case there is no enforceable contract either because the condition is unfulfilled or because the law does not recognise a contract to enter into a contract. In the latter case there is a binding contract and the reference to the more formal document may be ignored. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 29 (31) : 60 Cal 980 : 60 Ind App 297 (P C) * (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 149 (153) (DB) * (Vol 29) 1942 Pesh 33 (34, 35) (DB).

[11] Whether intention to have formal document drawn up, postpones formation of contract, depends on circumstances of each case (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 752 (755).

[12] Where parties enter into an executory agreement which is to be carried out by a deed afterwards to be executed the real completed contract is to be formed in the deed. The contract is merged in the deed. (1938) 173 Ind Cas 88 (90) (P C) * (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 35 (40) : ILR (1944) Lah 578 (DB).

4. Formalities. — [1] Formalities laid down by law must be gone through in order to create binding contract and to attach liability. (Vol 17) 1930 All 118 (120) (DB).

[2] Contract in writing does not require signature of both parties. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 771 (773) (DB).

[3] A contract to pay does not require a writing. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 124 (126) : ILR (1944) Nag 101 (DB).

[4] Where parties had entered upon their duties the execution of a formal document is not necessary. (Vol 29) 1942 Pesh 33 (34, 35) (DB).

[5] A party acting upon a contract required by law to be executed in a particular manner cannot sue for breach of such contract. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 378 (380).

[6] A deed of assignment which is not registered being in contravention of the Punjab Land Alienation Act, can be used as a basis of a claim for the return of the money acknowledged to be due thereon. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 400 (400).

[7] Where proposal to lease and its acceptance are in writing, they constitute a contract in writing. But if the acceptance were not in writing there is no entire agreement in writing and so, the contract to lease is not in writing (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 136 (138) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 563 (DB).

Contracts by Government officers.—[8] In Government contracts the proper procedure should be, that after an agreement is reached, a memorandum should be contemporaneously prepared and signed by the parties to be followed later on by a formal document. (Vol 28) 1941 All 377 (384, 385) : ILR (1941) All 741 (DB).

11. Every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject,^a and who is of sound mind, and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject.

[a] See the Indian Majority Act, 1875 [9 [IX] of 1875].

5. Consent.—[1] If a party to an agreement embodied in a document is told that any stipulation in the agreement would not be enforced, he cannot be held to have assented to it. There is no real agreement between the parties. (Vol 23) 1936 P C 70 (74) : 63 Ind App 126 : 59 Mad 446 (PC) (1890) 17 Cal 291 (297) : 16 Ind App 233 (P C).

1. Scope.—[1] Section 37 of the Court of Wards Act, has to be read with Ss. 11 and 68 of the Contract Act. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 119 (121) : 18 Luck 318.

[2] Section 11 does not destroy force of S. 247 (now S. 30 of the Partnership Act). (1910) 34 Bom 72 (88) (DB).

[3] Bond executed by Mahomedan before Majority Act (IX of 1875) came into force—His capacity to contract in point of age under S. 11 should be determined under Mahomedan law and not under Bengal Minors Act (XL of 1858). (1885) 7 All 763 (765) (DB).

2. Contract by minor.—[1] A contract by a minor is void ab initio and not merely voidable and hence cannot be sued upon. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 129 (132) (PC). (30 Cal 539 : 30 Ind App 114 (PC) followed.) (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 105 (106) : I L R (1942) Nag 281 (DB) (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 15 (16) : 31 Nag L R (Sup) 62 (DB). (Question whether contract is void or voidable presupposes existence of contract—It cannot arise if contracting party is disqualified by law.) (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 394 (395) (DB). (Sale.) (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 880 (881) : 11 Lah 167 (DB). (Mortgage.) (Vol 15) 1928 P C 152 (156) (PC) (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 288 (289). (Lease.) (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 29 (29) (Vol 2) 1915 All 107 (109). (Sale.) (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 412 (413) : 37 Mad 390 (DB) (1904) 26 All 342 (342) (DB). (Mortgage.)

[2] A consent decree against a minor stands on no higher footing than a contract and cannot be given effect to by a Court of law. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 271 (279, 280) : 6 Pat. 388 (DB).

[3] A contract by a minor is void and has no existence in the eye of law. It entails no liability and cannot constitute a valid consideration for a subsequent contract. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 24 (25, 26) (D B).

[4] A person whose estate is under Court of Wards is in no better position than a minor and any contract made by him is void. But when he contracts a debt, though he is not liable for it and it cannot be enforced against him still a debt comes into existence and if his son renders himself liable for repayment of the same by the execution of a bond, the bond can be enforced against him. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 109 (110) (D B).

[5] A minor cannot become a partner in his own right as he is incapable of contracting under S. 11 and hence he cannot sue as a partner for dissolution of the partnership. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 63 (64) (D B).

[6] A minor may bind himself by a contract of apprenticeship, if it be for his benefit but he cannot be sued for failing to serve as such. If such a remedy is desired a covenant from guardian must be obtained on which guardian himself can be made liable. (1910) 33 Mad 288 (290) : 11 Cri L Jour 180.

[7] Contract with minor does not create legal contractual relationship between the parties. Minor girl entering into a contract of service with a person can leave the service at any time without committing any actionable wrong. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 266 (268, 270) : 1939 Rang L R 121.

3. Transfer in favour of minor.—[1] An agreement as defined in S. 2 (e) does not necessarily consist of a set of promises forming the consideration for each other. If the consideration for the promise of an adult be a reciprocal promise by the minor the agreement is void but if the consideration for it be something that is actually done, there is no reason why the result should not be a valid contract. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 153 (157) (D B).

[2] A minor can enforce a contract made in his favour for a valuable consideration as while no liability can be incurred by a minor, he is not debarred from acquiring a title to anything valuable. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 24 (27) (D B).

[3] An executory contract cannot be entered into by a minor. But a minor is not disqualified as such from being the transferee of immovable property as purchaser or mortgagee under an executed contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 37 (38, 39) : 27 Oudh Cas 214 (Vol 32) 1945 All 156 (157) : I L R (1945) All 204 (DB). (Sale.) (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 153 (157) (D B). (Minor who has paid consideration of mortgage at time of execution of mortgage deed can sue on his mortgage.) (Vol 15) 1928 All 102 (103) (D B). (Mortgage.) (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 611 (612, 613) : 5 Lah 317 (D B). (Sale.) (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 239 (241). (Sale.) (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 561 (563) : 4 Pat L Jour 682 (D B). (Mortgage.) (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 1027 (1028) (D B). [4] Sale of his own property by certificated guardian to minors in satisfaction of money which he owed to them—Transaction bona fide and for benefit of minors—Transfer held valid and could be enforced. (1911) 33 All 657 (658).

[5] A money bond executed in favour of a minor is good in law and may be sued upon. (1889) 13 Bom 50 (51) (D B).

[6] A pronote executed in favour of a minor is valid and can be sued upon when the minor did not subject himself to any detriment by accepting it. (1913) 24 Mad L Jour 363 (364) § (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 136 (136) : 2 Rang 1.

[7] Where the defendants have received goods from the minor plaintiff there is no reason why they should not pay the price. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 480 (480) : 16 Lah 1.

4. Powers of guardian. —[1] Minors themselves are incapable of contracting but their guardians can contract on their behalf. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 301 (301).

[2] Where contracting party is a minor represented by a guardian and the contract is clearly for benefit of minor and was made at the request of the guardian for benefit of minor, it binds minor. (Vol 10) 1923 All 17 (17).

[3] Contract by karta on behalf of Hindu joint family including minor—Minor can sue on it on attaining majority—Want of mutuality is no ground for dismissal—This is to be distinguished from minor's contract. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 869 (870).

[4] A minor may not be answerable for the fraud of his guardian, but he cannot take advantage of it. (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 63 (66) : 11 Low Bur Rul 83 (D B).

[5] Where a manager of the Court of Wards confirms a lease during the minority of the ward, the confirmation is sufficient to make the lease valid during his minority. (1902) 6 Cal W N 905 (908) (D B).

[6] A certificated guardian sold some property belonging to himself to his minor wards in lieu of their money in his hands. After guardian's death, minors sued his heirs for possession of property. Held that transfer in favour of plaintiffs was valid. (1911) 33 All 657 (659, 660).

[7] A de facto guardian asserting a title hostile to the minor cannot bind the minor by a settlement arrived at by him which deprives the minor of half of his property. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 382 (383) (D B).

[8] The mortgage of minor's property by an unauthorised person acting as his guardian is absolutely void, but the minor cannot recover it without making restitution of the advantage received by him or make due compensation. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 1 (13) (DB).

[9] Where some of the parties to an agreement to refer to arbitration are minors represented by their mother and the other party to the agreement enters into it under a misconception as to the authority of the minor's mother to enter into the agreement he is entitled to withdraw from the agreement, when it is found that the mother has no authority to enter into such agreement. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 818 (819) : 47 Cal 718 (DB).

[10] No contractual obligation is undertaken by a minor in a case, in which a contract is entered into with his father and guardian. Any personal liability arising from the contract would have to be discharged by the guardian. (Vol 3) 1916 All 366 (369) : 38 All 154 (DB).

[11] In case of purchase by a guardian with a covenant to pay, the minor's property can be proceeded against for the debt due under the personal covenant. The minor cannot approbate the bargain by retaining the property and reprobate it by the plea that the guardian had no authority to acquire it by making a promise on his behalf to pay the cash consideration so as to bind him. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 140 (143, 144) : 54 Mad 163 (DB).

[12] A trust may validly be created by purchasing property in the name of a minor. If a minor is not a contracting party but a beneficiary under a sale, the transaction will be upheld. When a contract by a minor is not a necessary condition for upholding the rights of the minor in the property his rights should be maintained but when it is a necessary condition preliminary to the transaction or contractual obligations flow from the transaction the transaction is void. (1913) 24 Mad. L Jour 352 (354) (DB) § (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 412 (414) : 37 Mad 390 (DB). (Purchase of property for benefit of minor by his maternal uncle is valid and if property is alienated by his father, minor can recover it.)

[13] Sale by guardian appointed under Guardians and Wards Act (1890) with permission of Court transfers a good title to the vendee. Unless Court's permission is obtained by fraud, such sale cannot be impeached on any ground. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 391 (392) : 1919 Pun Re No. 73 (DB).

[14] Specific performance cannot be obtained of contract made on behalf of minor by his guardian, where such contract could not be enforced against the minor or his property. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 213 (213) : 13 Nag L R 98 § (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 423 (423) (DB) § (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 110 (111) § (1912) 39 Cal 232 (237) : 39 Ind App 1 (PC).

[15] Guardian selling minor's land for Rs. 600—Rs. 400 utilised in paying off debt found binding on minor—Preponderance of purchase money being for binding purpose sale, held, binding as a whole. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 352 (353).

[16] A purchaser of property of minor from guardian in good faith need not prove that the whole consideration was devoted to purposes of family necessity. It is sufficient if he shows that he acted in good faith and that the consideration was needed for purposes of family. The mere fact that the guardian got the favourable bargain is not sufficient to justify a sale of minor's property. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 157 (160).

[17] Sale of minor's property by de facto guardian for minor's necessities is valid. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 91 (93).

[18] Contract of lease entered into on behalf of minor—Minor after attaining majority can complete transaction of lease and sue to enforce it. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 310 (311) : 31 Sind L R 502 (DB) § (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 564 (566) : 59 Mad 942 (DB).

[19] Where Hindu mother purchased certain immovable property in her name with funds belonging to her major and two minor sons. Held, sale was not void, it being in favour of minors. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 666 (667) (DB). (30 Cal 539 and 4 Ind Cas 383, Disting.)

[20] A sale of minor's property by his brother, who is neither his legal nor natural guardian, under minor's personal law, is void ab initio, but can be upheld on ground of its being for necessities of the minor. ('04) 1904 Pun Re No. 33, page 114 (116).

[21] No doubt a compromise, in good faith, by the manager or father of a joint Hindu family, cannot be disturbed by the minor member of the family as he must be taken to have been properly represented by the manager or the father. But the compromise by minors, settling dispute as to inheritance between themselves, and their father's collaterals, is not binding on minors. It cannot be upheld even on ground of a family settlement because, a party cannot by describing a contract as a family settlement claim for it an exemption from the law governing the capacity of a person to make a valid contract. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 181 (182, 183) : 65 Ind App 213 : ILR (1938) Lah 313 : 32 Sind L R 760 (PC).

[24] Minor can sue through guardian on a contract of insurance against fire entered into by his guardian in respect of his property. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 353 (355) : 59 Bom 656.

[25] The sale of property by a father to his own son is invalid, if no one but the father himself acted for minor or settled the terms of contract on his behalf. But if father be presumed to have represented his minor son as his natural guardian and sale is without consideration, transaction is voidable under S. 53 of Transfer of Property Act. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 906 (906) (DB) (All).

[26] A contract by Hindu minor's mother to pay debts of minor's father, which the minor was under a pious obligation to pay, and for performance of funeral obsequies of the father, is binding on the minor. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 132 (133) (DB).

[27] Mother's agreement to compensate loss, on her minor daughter failing to fulfil contract of service, does not make daughter liable for loss. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 359 (359) (DB).

[28] Where parties are Mahomedans, contracts of marriage made by minors, through guardians, are binding on the minors. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1255 (1256) (DB).

[29] Minor can maintain suit for damages for breach of contract of marriage entered into, on minor's behalf, by the minor's natural guardian. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 97 (103) : 48 Bom 673 (DB) * (1909) 1909 Pun Re No. 3, p. 5 (5).

[But see (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 179 (180). (Contract of marriage between minor girl and major person with consent of minor's father — Minor cannot sue for damages for breach of promise—Father's consent does not make the contract any more valid)]

[30] A transaction, which is voidable at the instance of the minor, may be repudiated by an act or omission of the late minor, by which he intends to communicate the repudiation, or which has the effect of repudiating it. It is not necessary that he should bring a suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 589 (591) * (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 822 (823) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 337 (349) : 17 Pat 460 (DB).

[31] A contract which is for the minor's benefit can be specifically enforced against him. When a valid agreement has been lawfully entered into, on behalf of a minor and for his benefit, it cannot be repudiated if the guardian subsequently finds he can make a better bargain elsewhere. (1912) 13 Ind Cas 673 (677) (DB).

5. Estoppel.—[1] Mere non-disclosure of minority is not misrepresentation or fraud. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 598 (598).

[2] Where a minor enters into a contract by representing that he was of full age he is not estopped from pleading his minority in avoidance of the contract.

(Vol 15) 1928 P C 152 (156) (PC). [3] Plaintiff suing on promote, executed by defendant representing himself to be major and contending that defendant was estopped from pleading minority—Held, that, before, any question of estoppel could arise, the plaintiff had to prove that, there was a valid contract and consequently the competency of the defendant to contract and as this could not be proved plaintiff's suit must fail. 6. "Law to which he is subject."—[1] The capacity to contract will be determined by the law of domicile. The domicile of a widow is the same as that of her husband, unless she has changed it after his death. (1895) 19 Bom 697 (700) (DB).

[2] As to ordinary mercantile contracts, the capacity to contract is determined by the place of the contract and not by the law of domicile of the promisor. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 756 (760, 761) : 57 Mad 398 (DB).

[3] The limitation of the Indian Majority Act, to persons domiciled in those parts of India, referred to in S. 1, excludes its application to European British subjects, not domiciled in British India. The contractual capacity of persons temporarily residing but not domiciled in British India, is left to be governed by the personal law of their personal domicile and such law in the case of European British Subjects is the common law of England which recognises 21 as the age of majority. (1885) 7 All 490 (500, 502) (FB).

[4] Under S. 3, Indian Majority Act, 1875, where a guardian is once appointed by Court, the minority continues till the minor's age is 21 years, and a contract entered into by the minor before he attained the age of 21 is void. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 394 (395) (DB) * (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 661 (662).

[5] A Burman Buddhist, under the age of eighteen, is not competent to enter into a contract to marry in future. The Burmese Buddhist law has no application in such a case. Hence, breach of a promise to marry a Burmese Buddhist girl, under eighteen years, cannot be the basis of an action for damages. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 86 (87, 88) : 1938 Rang L R 687 (DB).

7. Burden of proof.—[1] The burden of proving minority lies on the party, who alleges that he was a minor, at the date of the contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 487 (487) (DB). (Minority must be proved beyond reasonable doubt.) * (Vol 12) 1925 All 399 (399).

[2] Plaintiff suing to enforce a contract, entered into by minor, must establish, by prima facie evidence, that the contract is not invalid, and was entered into by a competent person. (1909) 6 All L Jour 693 (694) (DB).

[3] Ordinarily, the burden of proving that money was advanced to the minor for necessities, lies on the creditor. But, where a minor executes a promissory note, on attaining majority, for the debts contracted by his guardian for his necessities, the burden of proving that the debts were not contracted for his necessities is on him. 8. Personal disqualifications. — [1] Judgment-debtor to whom Sch. II, Para 11, Civil P C, applies is person disqualified within the meaning of S. 11, and any transaction entered by him, in contravention thereof, is mere nullity. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 215 (223, 224) : 13 Nag L R 130 (FB).

[2] A person, after attaining majority, can elect to pay a debt, incurred by him, during minority. No question of ratification of a contract, entered into by a person, during minority, arises in such a case. If a person, on attaining majority, has paid the amount due on a mortgage, executed by him during minority he cannot subsequently sue for refund of that amount for the simple reason that, a contract entered into by a minor, though void, is not unlawful. SECTION 12—Synopsis

1. Unsoundness of mind.
2. Burden of proof and evidence.
3. Lucid intervals.

1. Unsoundness of mind. — [1] The test of unsoundness of mind is, whether the person is incapable of understanding the business concerned, and its implications, and mere weakness of mind is not sufficient. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 232 (234) : ILR (1944) Nag 698* (Vol 19) 1932 PC 69 (72) (PC). (Mere loss of memory does not make a person unfit for the management of his own affair in his lifetime.) * (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 187 (192) (DB)* (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 889 (899) : 55 Cal 285 (DB).

[2] Idiocy is the most extreme form of mental unsoundness. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 232 (233) : ILR (1944) Nag 698.

[3] A person of unsound mind, who has been so from birth, is in point of law an idiot. (1863) 1 Mad H C R 214 (215) (DB).

[4] If a party to a contract seeks to enforce a contract which is void under S. 12, it is not permissible to to give equitable relief. (1908) 10 Bom L R 1004 (1006, 1007).

2. Burden of proof and evidence. — [1] Normal presumption is in favour of sanity — Onus of proving insanity is on person who alleges it. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 187 (192) (DB)* (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 251 (252) : I L R (1942) Nag 236 (DB)* (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 529 (548).

[2] Old man suffering from senile dementia on certain date—Presumption is in favour of its continuance — Onus to uphold transactions subsequent to this date will be on persons who say that they were not vitiated on ground of his incapacity. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 73 (74) (DB).

[3] Circumstances evincing insanity have to be considered together and not individually and their cumulative effect gauged. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 251 (254) : ILR (1942) Nag 236 (DB).

[4] Plea of insanity—Pleadings and evidence must be scrutinized before deciding issue of mental condition. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 204 (208).

[5] Question whether contract is invalidated by unsoundness of mind does not depend merely on belief or disbelief of the witnesses before Court but largely upon inference to be drawn from evidence. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 889 (892) : 55 Cal 285 (DB).

[6] Where there is evidence that, shortly before his death, a person had reached a state of imbecility, a document bearing his signature and produced after his death is not, by itself conclusive. (Vol 26) 1939 P C (249, 250) : ILR (1940) Kar (PC) 1 (PC).

[7] Registered deed sought to be avoided on plea of insanity—Registrar's endorsement on deed cannot be discarded in deciding mental condition of executant. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 204 (209).

[8] It is not legitimate for a Court to commute an insufficient case of insanity into a complete case of weakness, when the type of insanity connoted in the evidence, is something quite different. (1905) 27 All 1 (10) : 7 Oudh Cas 287 : 81 Ind App 285 (P C).

3. Lucid Intervals.—[1] In order to avoid a contract on the ground of unsoundness of mind, the all important question to be decided is whether that person was of unsound mind when the contract was made. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 889 (892) : 55 Cal 285 (D B).

[See (Vol 18) 1926 Oudh 470 (472):2 Luck 226 (DB). (Although executant might be a hard drunkard and frequently unsober, it must be decided whether he was unsober when deed was executed.)]

[See also (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 24 (25).]

[3] Suit on mortgage—Mortgagor pleading unsoundness of mind at execution — Mortgagor found to be of unsound mind, but having lucid intervals—No general rule could be laid down as to where burden of proof lay. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 24 (25).

[4] Where a person is proved to have lucid intervals, the onus of proving that he was of unsound mind at the time of execution of a document lies on him who challenges the validity of the document. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 453 (460).

[5] Order once made by an inquisition that a person is lunatic continues in force until it is set aside and such person cannot thereafter validly execute a deed disposing of his property even during a lucid interval. (1905) 1 Ch. 160 (178)* (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 824 (825) : 56 Mad 904.

13. Two or more persons are said to consent when they agree upon the same thing in the "Consent" defined. same sense.

"Free consent" defined. 14. Consent is said to be free when it is not caused by —

- (1) coercion, as defined in section 15, or
- (2) undue influence, as defined in section 16, or
- (3) fraud as defined in section 17, or
- (4) misrepresentation, as defined in section 18, or
- (5) mistake, subject to the provisions of sections 20, 21 and 22.

Consent is said to be so caused when it would not have been given but for the existence of such coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation, or mistake.

Section 12 (contd.)

[6] Where a person is not proved to be lunatic on inquisition, it is necessary to rebut the general presumption of insanity. (1908) 10 Bom L R 1004 (1012).

Section 13—Note 1

[1] Where a person is induced to execute a deed of one kind under the belief that he is signing an instrument of a wholly different kind the transaction is void and not only voidable. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 786 (788) (D B) * (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 151 (155) : 56 Bom 180 (D B) * (1879) 3 Bom 242 (266, 267).

[2] When there is mutual misapprehension between both parties to a sale of a bill of exchange as to the particular kind of bill wanted by the purchaser their minds cannot be said to have met, or in the words of this section there would be no consent. (1882) 4 All 334 (336, 337) (D B). (The purchaser cannot recover the amount of the bill, where he is guilty of gross negligence in taking the bill and keeping it for a long period.)

[3] As to mistake of fact, see S. 20; and as to mistake of law, see S. 21.

SECTION 14 — Synopsis

1. Essentials of free consent.
2. Evidence of free consent.
3. Form of pleadings.

1. Essentials of free consent. — [1] In the case of a person who is sui juris and not under any disability, the mental act of intending the execution is, also, presumed, where there is admission of execution, or where the execution is proved. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 306 (335) : 12 Pat 359 (D B).

[2] The law contains well-known principles for the protection of persons, who transfer their property to their disadvantage, when they have not the usual means of fully understanding the nature and effect of what they are doing. Independent legal advice in itself is not essential. The real point is that the disposition made must be substantially understood and must really be the mental act, as its execution is the physical act of the person who makes it. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209) : 47 All 703 : 28 Oudh Cas 338 : 52 Ind App 342 (P C) * (Vol 26) 1939 All 348 (361) (D B).

[3] The law upon the question of free consent is given in the statute itself, and therefore, the Court has to see whether the case comes within its provisions irrespective of the consideration whether the application of the provisions would or would not disfavour the abuse of moral influence or encourage moral cowardice. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (235) (D B).

[4] Per Pal J.—Consent is free, when the activity of man, by which it is effective, works without obstacles to impede its exercise. The obstacles are stated in S. 14. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (238) (D B).

[5] Consent obtained under duress is not free. Duress can be either physical or moral; the former makes a man submit like a machine and excludes all meeting of the minds because the license of him, who uses duress is absolutely dominant; the latter can be exerted by depriving the victim of the use of his mind and free will, thus rendering him incapable of giving a valid consent. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (235) (D B).

[See also under S. 15]

[6] Per Pal J.—The fear caused by the duress must be real — "non mehis vani hominus" — and must be such as would induce a reasonable man to enter into a contract. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (235) (D B).

[7] Where one of the parties enters into a contract, as a result of the deception practised upon him by the other, the consent is not free. ('66) 1866 Pun Re No. 21, page 28 (29).

[8] A person, who is not illiterate, cannot escape from a document executed by him merely saying that he did not read it. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 601 (602) (DB).

[9] Where an illiterate pardanashin lady was not told what she was signing, or she thought that she was signing a power-of-attorney, when she signed an agreement, such a consent is no consent at all and the agreement therefore is liable to be set aside. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 439 (451) : 1 L R (1939) Lah 433 (DB).

[10] Inadequacy of the consideration may be taken into account by the Court in determining the question whether the consent of the promisor was freely given ; see S. 25, Explan. 2.

2. Evidence of free consent.—[1] Mere execution by a person, who is given protection, although unaccompanied by duress, protest, or obvious signs of misunderstanding or want of comprehension, in itself is no real proof of true understanding of mind in the executant. Evidence to establish such comprehension is found in proof that the deed was read over to the executant and where necessary explained. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209) : 47 All 703 : 28 Oudh Cas 338 : 52 Ind App 342 (P C) * (Vol 26) 1939 All 348 (361) (DB).

[2] The extent of the explanation and character of a disposition must depend on its character in each case. Length, intricacy, the number and complexity of the dispositions or the unfamiliarity of the subject-matter are all reasons for requiring an increased amount of efficiency of explanation. Thus, a matter not likely to attract the attention of the executant ought not to be relied on as binding unless the executant's mind has been directly drawn to it. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209) : 47 All 703 : 28 Oudh Cas 338 : 52 Ind App 342 (P C) * (Vol 26) 1939 All 348 (361) (DB).

[3] Where a document executed by a person is in a language, which the executant does not understand, it must be translated, and it is to be remembered that the clearness of the meaning of the deed will suffer in the process. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209) : 47 All 703 : 28 Oudh Cas 338 : 52 Ind App 342 (P C) * (Vol 26) 1939 All 348 (361) (DB).

[4] Burden of proof.—The state of the settlor's mind must be proved by the persons who set up and rely on the deeds executed by persons who are given special protection by the law. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 204 (209) : 47

15. "Coercion" is the committing, or threatening to commit, any act forbidden by the Indian "Coercion" defined. Penal Code, or the unlawful detaining, or threatening to detain, any property, to the prejudice of any person whatever, with the intention of causing any person to enter into an agreement.

Explanation. — It is immaterial whether the Indian Penal Code is or is not in force in the place where the coercion is employed.

Illustration.

A, on board an English ship on the high seas, causes B to enter into an agreement by an act amounting to criminal intimidation under the Indian Penal Code.

A afterwards sues B for breach of contract at Calcutta.

A has employed coercion, although his act is not an offence by the law of England, and although S. 506 of the Indian Penal Code was not in force at the time when, or place where, the act was done.

3. Form of pleadings. — [1] General averment that consent was not freely obtained is not enough to set up the plea that there was one of the vitiating elements enumerated under S. 14 under the contract law of India as well as by ordinary principles. Coercion, undue influence, fraud and misrepresentations are all separate categories under law though they may overlap or may be combined. General allegations, however strong they may be, are insufficient to an averment of any one of the obstacles to the exercise of free consent. Therefore specific allegations with respect to each must be made in the pleadings (Vol 2) 1915 P C 7 (13); 39 Bom 441 : 42 Ind App 135 (PC).

3. Detention of property.
4. Evidence as to coercion.
5. Illustrative cases.
6. "Prejudice."

1. "Act forbidden by the Penal Code." — [1] In dealing with a case of coercion the Court should decide, whether the alleged act of coercion amounts to an offence under the Indian Penal Code. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 288 (290) (DB). (Affirmed in (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 414 : 41 Mad 33 (SB).)

[2] Per Wallis C. J. and Seshagiri Aiyar J., (Oldfield J. contra):—A deed executed in consequence of a threat to commit suicide, held was obtained by coercion. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 414 (416) : 41 Mad 33 (SB). (Threat to commit suicide must be deemed to be forbidden under the Penal Code) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 288 (DB). (Affixed.)

[3] Where a criminal prosecution is instituted against a person, and such person, fearing the result of the prosecution, entered into an agreement in favour of the complainant in consideration of his abandoning the prosecution. Held, that it cannot be held simply on these grounds that the consent of such person was caused by coercion. ('82) 1882 Pun Re No. 135, p. 398, (399, 400) (DB).

[4] A threat of bringing a false charge with the object of making another do a thing amounts to coercion. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 6 (7).

2. Applicability and scope.—[1] Law of Duress of English Common Law is not applicable in India. It is different from English law lists. (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 192 (197) (DB).

[2] Duress — Imprisonment in a country with no settled system of law and with Judges having arbitrary power is duress.—Contract made during, and to get rid of the criminal charge, is void. (1876) 1 Cal 330 (334, 335) : 3 Ind App 61 (PC).

[3] Coercion as defined in S. 15 implies committing or threatening to commit some act, which is contrary to law. (1900) 22 All 224 (226) (DB).

[4] "Coercion" need not proceed from party to contract or be immediately directed against the party whom, it is intended to coerce, to enter into the contract. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 288 (290) (DB).

[5] Coercion under the Contract Act can be pleaded only where the end arrived at was achieved by the use of something in the nature of unlawful force, or the threat of unlawful force, against the person or the mind of the contracting party. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (238) (DB).

[6] Agreement by a debtor cannot be avoided only on the ground of coercion, merely because he was in need of money. Coercion in the legal sense means something very much more than the mere need for raising loan. ('36) 1936 All W R 84 (84) (DB) * ('36) 1936 R D 52 (52) (DB).

[7] To establish coercion a person must prove (1) utterance of threat (2) of an act forbidden by Penal Code (3) with the intention of compelling the plaintiff to make the agreement complained of. (1912) 15 Oudh Case 192 (197, 198) (DB).

[8] Obiter.—In action brought in India to recover money paid under contract, entered into through coercion, the coercion proved must be such as comes within provisions of S. 15, Contract Act. (1888) 15 Cal 656 (656) (DB).

[9] Section 15 does not control S. 72 and coercion in S. 72 is not the same as defined in S. 15. (1913) 40 Cal 598 (612, 613) : 40 Ind App 56 (PC).

3 Detention of property.—[1] Unless the detention is authorised by law, even detention of property under some right is unlawful within S. 15. (Vol 7) 1920 Low Bur 38 (40) (DB).

[2] Dismissed agent withholding account books and obtaining release deed — Release is voidable, at the option of the principal. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 852 (855) : 50 Mad 786 (DB).

[3] Where the Government in order to realise fine, due from the son, has attached the property belonging both to son and father and the father pays the fine in order to save property from being sold, payment made by the father is under coercion and he is entitled to recover (Vol 26) 1939 All 373 (374, 375).

[4] Wrongful attachment of property — Money paid under protest.—Suit for recovery is maintainable. (1913) 40 Cal 598 (612) : 40 Ind App 56 (PC).

[6] Widow executed a bond, on detention of property, by the claimant. The claim was legal. Still it was held that the bond was executed under coercion.

*[16. (1) A contract is said to be induced by "undue influence" where the relations subsisting between the parties are such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other, and uses that position to obtain an unfair advantage over the other.

"Undue influence" defined.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing principle, a person is deemed to be in a position to dominate the will of another —

(a) where he holds a real or apparent authority over the other, or where he stands in a fiduciary relation to the other ; or

(b) where he makes a contract with a person whose mental capacity is temporarily or permanently affected by reason of age, illness, or mental or bodily distress.

(3) Where a person who is in a position to dominate the will of another enters into a contract with him, and the transaction appears, on the face of it or on the evidence adduced, to be unconscionable, the burden of proving that such contract was not induced by undue influence shall lie upon the person in a position to dominate the will of the other.

Nothing in this sub-section shall affect the provisions of S. 111 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872]

Illustrations.

(a) A, having advanced money to his son, B, during his minority, upon B's coming of age obtains, by misuse of parental influence, a bond from B for a greater amount than the sum due in respect of the advance. A employs undue influence.

(b) A, a man enfeebled by disease or age, is induced, by B's influence over him as his medical attendant, to agree to pay B an unreasonable sum for his professional services. B employs undue influence.

(c) A, being in debt to B, the money-lender of his village, contracts a fresh loan on terms which appear to be unconscionable. It lies on B to prove that the contract was not induced by undue influence.

(d) A applies to a banker for a loan at a time when there is stringency in the money-market. The banker declines to make the loan except at an unusually high rate of interest. A accepts the loan on these terms. This is a transaction in the ordinary course of business, and the contract is not induced by undue influence.

(Vol 7) 1920 Low Bur 38 (40) (DB).

4. Evidence as to coercion — [1] Suspicion or probability of the existence of coercion cannot take the place of proof. There must be actual proof to support the plea. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 68 (70) : 39 Bom 149 (DB).

[2] Where coercion is alleged the allegation must by law be supported by particulars. It is only after due proof of those particulars that the Court can find that the alleged coercion is proved. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 68 (69) : 39 Bom 149 (DB).

5 Illustrative cases. [1] Where coercion was held to exist. — A person under arrest in execution of a decree gave the decree-holder a bond for the amount of such decree in order that he might be released from such arrest—Held that bond was given under coercion and therefore invalid. (1882) 4 All 352 (353) (DB).

[2] Where coercion was held not to exist. — A person charged another with having misappropriated certain money and the charge was denied. The person, who accused, agreed to accept an oath from the other, that there was no misappropriation, but retracted from the undertaking, and threatened to launch prosecution unless a pro-note was passed : Held, that pro-note executed under these circumstances was not done under coercion. (27) 1927 Mad W N 761 (762) (DB).

[3] Mere threat of criminal charge does not amount to coercion as defined in the Contract Act. But the case is different when the threat is to bring a false charge. (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 192 (199) (DB).

[4] Criminal prosecution was instituted against a person—Later he entered into agreement to refer to arbitration — Prosecution was withdrawn—He attended the arbitrators' proceedings. After the award was given, he attacked it saying that the original agreement to refer to arbitration was entered into by him under coercion. Held, there was no coercion as the person visited the arbitration proceedings even after the criminal proceedings were dropped instead of trying to get rid of them. (1901) 25 Bom 10 (12) (SB).

[5] Refusal to withdraw prosecution, already launched, unless a bond for the amount due is executed would not be covered by S. 15. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 455 (456, 457) (DB).

6. "Prejudice." — [1] The word 'prejudice' in S. 15 does not mean mere sentimental prejudice. Some legal injury must flow before a person can be said to be 'prejudiced' under the section. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 414 (416) : 41 Mad 38 (SB).

[2] A wife, who executes a document in consequence of the husband's threat, that he would commit suicide, is prejudicially affected by the threat. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 414 (416) : 41 Mad 38 (SB).

1. Undue influence — General. [1] Undue influence means the domination of a weak mind by a stronger mind to an extent which causes the behaviour of the weaker person to assume an unnatural character. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 362 (363) (DB). (Undue influence does not mean the exercise of advice by a close friend or relative.)

[2] According to the definition of undue influence in S. 16 there are three ingredients : (1) that the relation subsisting between the parties should be such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other; (2) that the dominant party obtains an unfair advantage over the other; and (3) that the dominant party uses his dominant position to obtain that unfair advantage. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 470 (472) : I L R (1938) Nag 535 (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 254 (256) (DB) (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 547 (552) (DB).

[3] Four questions have to be considered in dealing with cases of undue influence. They are : (1) whether the transaction is righteous, (2) whether it was improvident, (3) whether it required legal advice and (4) whether intention to transfer originated with transfer. (1888) 15 Cal 684 (684, 685) (DB) (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 492 (494) (DB).

[4] The question whether a document was executed under undue influence is a question of fact. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 255 (256).

[5] Questions as to undue influence must be decided under the Contract Act ; principles of English equity do not apply. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 249 (250) : 1918 Pun Re No. 124 (P C).

[6] Acts of undue influence must range themselves under either coercion or fraud. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 130 (131) : 61 Ind App 224 : 9 Luok 178 (PC) (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 44 (53) (DB) (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 441 (444) : 7 Pat 426 (DB) (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 59 (63, 65) (DB). (Coercion or fraud is generally the substratum of undue influence.)

[But see (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 105 (117) : 11 Pat 50 (DB). (A case of undue influence is not quite the same as that of fraud.)]

[8] Bogus contract, and one brought about by undue influence, are totally different. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 437 (439) (DB).

[9] It is incumbent on a party, be he plaintiff or defendant, who seeks to set aside a contract on the ground of undue influence to give in his pleadings full particulars of the circumstances on which he relies as the basis of his plea. It is not enough to baldly assert that undue influence has vitiated the transaction. (1905) 8 Oudh Cas 210 (222) (DB).

[10] If facts, on record, justify the inference of undue influence, the Court can administer relief though pleadings are inartistic. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 63 (64) : 27 Nag L R 19 (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 322 (324).

2. Who can plead.—[1] Plea of undue influence can be raised only by executant of dominant or his representative in estate, but not by a third party, claiming adversely to such executant. (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 78 (80) (DB).

[2] Donee from mortgagor's widow cannot plead undue influence. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 634 (635) (DB).

[3] When contesting defendants are not the same as the one, whose consent was alleged to have been caused by undue influence, and the latter did not, at any time, seek to avoid the contract, then the former cannot avoid the same. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 94 (96) (DB).

[4] Speculator, who purchases equity of redemption on the chance of getting redemption on easy terms, cannot be allowed to set up plea of undue influence. (1918) 1918 Pun L R No. 305, page 1027 (1031) (DB).

[5] Man of mature age and of some intelligence and actively managing his affairs previous to transaction, cannot resort to the plea of undue influence. (Vol 8)

1921 P C 43 (45) : 42 All 422 : 47 Ind App 116 : 23 Oudh Cas 54 (PC).

[6] Party claiming adversely to assignor and assignee cannot plead S. 16 to defeat assignment. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 295 (304) : 10 Lah 613 (DB).

[7] A petition writer is not incapable of understanding the legal consequences of his acts on the true import of a transaction and is not a person upon whom undue influence can be exercised. (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 299 (301) (DB).

[8] A defendant may raise plea of undue influence by way of defence and it is not necessary for him to take steps to set aside the agreement. (Vol 23) 1936 All 672 (673).

3. Proof. — [1] To establish a case of undue influence, it is not sufficient to raise an atmosphere of suspicion but there must be clear and definite evidence of the case propounded. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 333 (334).

[2] A finding of undue influence cannot be based on mere conjecture, but must be supported by evidence. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 202 (207) (PC).

[3] Per Oldfield J. — The proof of undue influence may be either direct, or indirect with reference to the opportunities for and disposition to the exercise of influence on one side and the result of its exercise, as indicated by the merits of the transaction, the acceptance of false representations and the entertainment of false beliefs on the other. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 194 (195) (DB).

[4] Not only should there be evidence of general undue influence but there should be specific evidence that undue influence was exercised. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 255 (259).

[5] When there is evidence of overpowering influence, and the transaction brought about is immoderate and irrational, proof of undue influence is complete. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 285 (289) (D B).

[6] No admissions of plaintiff made while under undue influence, could be taken as proof that he had full knowledge of facts. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 34 (38) (DB).

[7] In a case of undue influence, the mere fact that on one or two matters, the Court does not accept a party's evidence will not disentitle him to relief. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 726 (729) : 58 Mad 454 (DB).

[8] State of fear itself does not constitute undue influence. There must be further action of some kind of employment of pressure, or influence by or on behalf of other party to agreement. (1900) 22 All 224 (229) (DB).

[9] Threat or pressure must take the form of undue influence, before contract can be set aside under S. 16. If a person enters into contract, after it is explained to him that his honour requires it, or he would be saved from future worries, it would be pressure but not necessarily undue influence. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 97 (104) (D B).

[10] Choice given to defendant of furnishing security or being at once put into Court—Held this did not amount to undue influence. (1901) 1901 Pun Re No. 36, page 107 (110) (DB).

[11] Defendant aged 25 practising as lawyer — Defendant given alternative, that he should marry particular girl and receive financial assistance or not marry and receive no assistance — Defendant marrying — Placing of alternative held did not amount to undue influence. (Vol 30) 1943 All 184 (185) : I L R (1943) All 295 (DB).

[12] Where a deed of mortgage was executed, while under arrest in execution of a money decree in satisfaction of that decree, held, that the deed was not void on ground of undue influence. (1908) 1908 Pun Re No. 51, page 259 (261).

[13] Execution of some confirmation deeds by adoptee in absence of natural father, under threats and undue pressure by widow and relatives, that his adoption would be set aside, that he would not be married, and that no money would be given to him for education etc., is vitiated by undue influence. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 97 (108) (D B).

[14] Minor widow of deceased Hindu, corporeally, accepting boy in adoption — At the time of handing over boy to widow husband's corpse lying in house — Boy's relatives obstructing removal of corpse until widow had executed deed of adoption — Obstruction to removal of corpse, held was an act covered by S. 16. (1890) 13 Mad 214 (223, 224) (D B).

[15] Compromise—One party cripple and of weak intellect — His supporter himself interested in the terms — Terms of compromise very unfavourable to the party — Compromise held, was obtained by undue influence. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 546 (549) (D B).

[16] The mere circumstance that, the man while giving away his property to strangers made no provision for his wife, is not alone sufficient to make the transaction voidable on account of undue influence. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 255 (257).

[17] The fact that the defendant accepted compromise as he had no other option is not in itself sufficient to prove undue influence. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 477 (482) (D B).

[18] Execution of deed of gift by old man who is hale and healthy—Gift to grandchildren in preference to daughter who is not on friendly terms with him — Witness to deed respectable and independent person — Held, gift valid and there was no undue influence. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 174 (177) (D B).

[19] The fact that an unreasonable price is paid for an advantage necessarily required by donee is not sufficient to prove undue influence. A man may pay a fancy price for what he wants. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 255 (257).

[20] Mortgagor simpleton and opium-eater — Mortgagee father of mortgagor's pleader — Undue influence is not proved. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 601 (603) (D B).

[22] Remonstrance by wife in loud voice does not prove undue influence — Fact that man loves his wife and gives her money or fixes allowance for her or provides her with residence does not prove undue influence by wife. (Vol 31) 1944 All 104 (110) : I L R (1944) All 141 (D B).

[23] Recitals in a deed of contract that the executant is incapable to manage his own affairs or that he was non compos mentis etc., are of no evidentiary value and cannot be taken advantage of to defeat his subsequent contracts with others on the ground of undue influence. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 426 (428) (DB).

[24] Landlord holding decrees for ejectment putting decree into execution—Execution of fresh lease deed at enhanced rent to avoid ejectment—Existence of decree does not go to prove undue influence. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 479 (480) (D B).

[25] A creditor can ask his debtor to execute documents in a particular form and where a creditor writes to his debtor's servant to get his master's signature to such a form, no inference that undue influence was used can arise. (Vol 6) 1919 All 1 (4) : 42 All 230 (DB).

4. Inadequacy of consideration. — [1] Inadequacy of consideration alone is not a ground to hold that a contract was influenced by undue influence, unless the inadequacy is so gross as to raise a presumption that the party either did not understand what he was doing, or was the victim of some imposition. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 426 (428) (DB) * (Vol 24) 1937 P C 14 (17,

[2] Inadequacy of consideration in conjunction with circumstances of indebtedness and ignorance of plaintiff are facts from which Courts may infer undue influence (1901) 25 Bom 126 (128) (DB).

[3] An immature young man who had just attained majority and whose mind was clouded and affected by his addiction to hemp-smoking, was deprived of his property by his Guru, who had a complete control over the boy—Held, that the transaction being for an inadequate consideration, could be set aside on ground of undue influence. (Vol 23) 1936 All 672 (673).

5. Previous indebtedness. — [1] Prior indebtedness is not sufficient to prove undue influence. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 118 (119)*('10) 7 All L Jour 729 (730) (DB).

[2] Prior dealings of short duration, resulting in a small indebtedness, cannot by themselves raise any inference of undue influence. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 65 (67) (DB).

[3] Existence of previous mortgage raise no presumption of undue influence. (Vol 14) 1927 All 315 (316) (DB).

[5] Accounts between money-lender and agriculturist — Balances struck from time to time—Bonds taken for amount found due each time, thus charging compound interest — No undue influence held could be inferred. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 63 (64) (DB).

6. Presumption. — [1] The Court will not presume undue influence where it is not pleaded by the parties. ('10) 7 All L Jour 391 (395) (DB).

[2] It must be shown that the lender was in a position to dominate the will of the borrower before any presumption can arise that contract was induced by undue influence. ('11) 10 Ind Cas 249 (250) (DB) (All).

[3] It is not necessary in order to establish presumption of undue influence that the parties should stand in some particular category of relationship to each other—The presumption can be more easily established and indeed may be assumed in such cases as transactions between parent and infant child, solicitor and client, or spiritual adviser and penitent, but it will arise in any case in which the facts show that the circumstances are such that influence can fairly be inferred. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 8 (9) : 71 Ind App 184 : I L R (1945) Bom 189 : I L R (1945) Kar (P O) 56 (PC).

[4] Money lent to profligate young man — Undue influence cannot be presumed. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 430 (431) (DB).

[5] Where a money-lender has admittedly lent money to a dissolute young minor and supplied him with large quantities of jewellery in presence of his touts and dependants and obviously gave a false colour to the transaction, undue influence is clearly to be presumed. ('02) 1902 Pun Re No. 2, page 2 (4) (DB).

[6] The mere fact that a party to an agreement has very strong motive for executing it raises no presumption that he has been unduly influenced. (Vol 20) 1953 Lah 885 (888) (DB).

[7] Gift unreasonable or prejudicial to donor—Undue influence cannot be presumed. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 194 (195) (DB).

[8] There is no presumption of undue influence in India as well as in England in the case of a gift to a son, grandson or son-in-law during the donor's last illness. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 278 (280) : 8 Low Bur 285.

[9] When a debt is incurred by a guardian on behalf of a minor and the minor ratifies it soon after coming of age, unless there is anything to show that the ratification was due to undue influence, no presumption of undue influence can be drawn. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 56 (57) (DB).

[10] Where an old feeble lady, dependant upon her nephew even for food and clothes, made a gift in his favour—Held that, the relation between parties is sufficient to raise presumption of undue influence. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 3 (5, 6) (PC).

[11] There is no presumption of undue influence in every case where a wife confers benefit on her husband without consideration. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 8 (9, 10) : 71 Ind App 184 : 1 L R (1945) Bom 189 : 1 L R (1945) Kar (PC) 56 (PC).

[12] Independent legal advice is not the only way in which the presumption of undue influence can be rebutted; nor does the fact that independent legal advice was given, rebut the presumption, unless it be shown that the advice was taken. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 3 (7) (PC).

7. Undue influence by third party. — [1] In the category of cases of undue influence might be covered cases where the party to a transaction exercised that influence in conspiracy with or through the agency of others. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 65 (66, 67) : 43 Mad 566 : 47 Ind App 1 (PC) & (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 223 (227) (DB). (Undue influence, which may affect a pardanashin lady's understanding of a document, may proceed from a third party.)

8. "Relations." — [1] There are well-known relations such as those of guardian and ward, patient and medical adviser, solicitor and client, trustee and cestui que trust and the like which plainly fall under sub-s. (1) of this section. (1908) 32 Bom 37 (44) (DB).

[2] The word "relations" means not only the personal relations, but the circumstances in which the contract was entered into. (1911) 34 Mad 7 (10) (DB).

9. Position to dominate. — [1] In order to make out a case for undue influence there must be certain relations between the parties anterior to the transaction in question which placed one party in a position to dominate the will of the other. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 295 (299).

[See also (1904) 28 Bom 639 (643) (DB).]

[5] Where there is no great pressure upon the mortgagors at the time of the execution of the mortgage deed, no inference can be drawn that the mortgagor is in a position to dominate the will of the mortgagors. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 91 (92).

[6] The mere fact that a man is indebted to another's brother does not put the other in a position to dominate the will of the debtor. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 535 (536) (DB).

[7] A creditor who knows that his debtor's estate is under the Court of Wards is in a position to dominate the will of the debtor. (1906) 28 All 570 (576) : 33 Ind App 118 : 9 Oudh Cas 188 (PC).

[12] Employer in embarrassing financial circumstances and fighting out big litigation — Employer's agent looking after litigation and also securing loans — Inference can be drawn that agent is in a position to dominate employer's will even if the employer is an astute person and a man of understanding. [13] Where the wife is very much younger than the husband, there is no legal presumption that she is in a position to dominate the will of her husband. (Vol 17) 1930 All 169 (171) : 52 All 368 (DB).

10. Unfair advantage. — [1] The expression "unfair advantage" is used as meaning an advantage obtained by unrighteous means. (1908) 32 Bom 37 (45) (DB).

[2] Under S. 16 one person being in a position to dominate another's will is not enough. Use of such position must be proved and bargain must be in favour of influencer. [4] In the absence of a finding that promisee was in a position to dominate the will of promisor, a finding that promisee had obtained an unfair advantage over promisor is not sufficient to establish a case of undue influence. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 146 (148) (PC).

Section 16 (contd.)

11. Burden of proof. — [1] The onus of proving undue influence ordinarily rests on the party who sets up that plea, but the circumstances of a case may make it an exception to the general rule. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 50 (51) (PC) * (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 157 (159) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 255 (258) * (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 219 (220) * (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 78 (50) (DB) * (1910) 4 Sind L R 276 (277) (DB).

[2] In order to put the burden of proof on the creditor to establish that the debt was not borrowed under undue influence it is essential to show first that the lender was in a position to dominate the will of the borrower. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 78 (78) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 470 (472) : I L R (1938) Nag 535 * (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 391 (392) : I L R (1940) Nag 149 * (Vol 14) 1927 All 44 (44, 45) : 48 All 666 (DB) * (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 535 (536) (DB) * (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 193 (196) : 27 Oudh Cas 4 * (1901) 1901 Pun Re No. 36, page 107 (110) (DB).

[3] The fact that the mortgagor was indebted in a small sum of Rs. 184 while the amount borrowed at the time of the mortgage was Rs. 2000 does not shift the burden of proving undue influence from mortgagor to the mortgagee. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 118 (119).

[4] Onus lies heavily on a person in a dominating position to prove affirmatively that no domination was practised and that the other party was separately advised in the independence of a free agent. (Vol 7) 1920 PC 65 (66) : 43 Mad 546 : 47 Ind App 1 (P C) * (Vol 21) 1934 All 507 (509) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 255 (257, 258, 259) * (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 96 (100) (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 34 (38) (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 63 (65) : 27 Nag L R 19 * (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 211 (215). [5] The plaintiff setting up a plea of undue influence must prove that there was active confidence between the executant and the person under whose influence the document is said to have been executed. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 982 (982) (DB).

[6] Where a person stands in the position of active confidence to another the onus is on him to prove the good faith of the transaction. (Vol 24) 1937 PC 50 (51, 52) (PC) * (Vol 17) 1930 PC 139 (139) (PC) * (Vol 14) 1927 PC 148 (150) (PC) * (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 6 (11) * (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 90 (91). (Transfer by elderly invalid person to one nursing him — Transferee must prove bona fides of transaction.)

[7] In the case of certain fiduciary relationships, such as that of a solicitor and client, the burden of proof is heavier on the solicitor accepting a gift from the client to establish that the gift was not the result of his influence. (Vol 14) 1927 PC 143 (150) (PC) * (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 317 (320, 321) (DB).

[8] Pleader not permanent pleader of client—He cannot be said to be in a position of active confidence — Pleader's father joint with him purchasing property from client — Burden is not on pleader to prove good faith (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 67 (69) : 4 Luck 270.

[9] Plaintiff succeeding to brother's property resisted by wealthy relatives — Defendant collecting money for litigation which ended in plaintiff's favour — Plaintiff executing sale deed of half property for nominal consideration to defendant's brother—Other half of property endowed to temple in which defendant had interest — Held that defendant must prove that transaction was honest and bona fide. [10] Person well advanced in age executing gift-deed in favour of his spiritual adviser for securing benefits to his soul — Having regard to the fiduciary relation

[11] Third person not in any way related to grantor or promisor is not required to prove soundness of transaction—But burden of proof is shifted on him if he is found to have had notice of undue influence. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 726 (731) : 58 Mad 454 (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 6 (11).

[12] Where fiduciary relation is established, it is settled law that the person in infiduciary position should affirmatively prove that the weaker party was a free agent and had independent and disinterested advice. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 919 (920) (DB) * (1906) 30 Bom 578 (581, 582, 589) (DB) * (1907) 30 Mad 169 (173, 174) (FB).

[13] In the case of the expectant heir or of persons under pressure without adequate protection the burden of showing the fairness of the transaction is thrown on the person who seeks to obtain the benefit of the contract. (Vol 24) 1937 PC 14 (17, 18) (PC).

12. High rate of interest.—[1] Mere excessive interest is not sufficient to show undue influence and Court cannot reduce interest solely on the ground that it is excessive. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 661 (662) (DB) * (Vol 23) 1936 All 712 (714) (DB) * (Vol 23) 1936 All 611 (612) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 949 (951) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 All 538 (538) (DB) * (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 535 (535) (DB) * (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 1033 (1033) (DB) * (1912) 1912 Pun L R No. 130, page 401 (403) * (1908) 32 Bom 208 (211).

[But see (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 211 (215). (Excessive rate of interest can of itself be evidence of the fact that there was undue influence.)]

[2] Relief against high rate of interest cannot be granted unless S. 16 is applicable. Creditor must prove necessity for the loan as well as for the high rate of interest. [3] Where a contract expressly provides for interest the Court can reduce interest only if exercise of undue influence is positively pleaded or proved or if circumstances raise the presumption of undue influence. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 344 (345) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 536 (537) (DB). (Before any reduction can be allowed on the rate of interest under Punjab Chief Court Circulars, Vol. I, p. 99, undue influence must be proved to have been exercised.)

[4] Where there is ample security, the exaction of excessive and usurious interest does not raise a presumption of undue influence unless it is shown that the lender was in a position to dominate the borrower's will. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 60 (65) : 51 Ind App 101 : 3 Pat 279 (P C). [5] The fact that the mortgage with ample security carries exorbitant rate of interest does not place the lender in a position to dominate the will within S. 16. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 330 (333) (DB).

to file suit—Creditor exacting harsher terms subsequently for further loans—He is in position to dominate the will of the borrower and contractual rate of interest can be reduced by Court. (Vol 21) 1934 All 938 (939) (DB).

[7] Excessive interest in itself may not be ground for relief, but it may be evidence of the very helpless condition of the borrower and of the unfair advantage obtained over him if the circumstances show that the debtor would not otherwise have accepted those terms. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 131 (135) : 36 Mad 533 (DB).

[8] Debtor consenting freely and willingly to pay high rate of interest—There can be no question of undue influence. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 65 (66) : 50 Bom 107 (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 273 (275) : 1 Luck 160 (DB).

13. Fiduciary relationship.—[1] The principles followed by Courts of Equity in dealing with transactions resulting through fiduciary relationship are equally applicable in India. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 726 (731) : 58 Mad 454 (DB).

[2] The principle of English law that a special relationship of confidence exists between parent and child notwithstanding that the child is actually of age at the time the transaction is made is equally applicable to cases under S. 16. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 278 (283) : 1940 Rang L R 35 (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 6 (13).

[3] It is not special relations arising from certain relations only such as parent or child, or guardian or ward, that are jealously watched by the Court ; on the other hand, the principle on which equity gives relief is extended and applied to all the variety of relations in which dominion may be exercised by one person over the other. [5] Weak-minded person executing gift-deed in favour of his elder brother—Latter held stood in fiduciary relationship to former. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 34 (36, 38, 39) (DB).

[6] Niece residing with uncle transferring to latter, her moiety of property, other moiety of which was already acquired by him—Consideration for transfer by niece being covenant by the uncle, to pay half the rents of the property to the niece and to devise half the property by will to her heirs—Transaction was probably voidable in a Court of Equity, in view of relationship between parties. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 168 (169) (PC).

[7] Husband heavily in debt mortgaging wife's property—Wife illiterate and submissive—Wife not knowing nature of transaction but merely signing document at husband's request without receiving any money—Wife held acted under influence of her husband and creditor who had notice of facts was in no better position. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 8 (9, 10) : 71 Ind App 184 : I L R (1945) Bom 189 : I L R (1945) Kar (P C) 56 (PC).

[8] Where a Buddhist lady made a gift of some land to her nephew who was also acting as her agent, it was held that although there was, what may be called, a fiduciary relationship between the parties, it was not such as to lead the Court to infer undue influence. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 67 (68) (DB).

[9] Where it does not appear that unsound advice was given to the donor by or on behalf of the donee, or that confidence was reposed by the donor in the donee, the gift cannot be set aside for undue influence. (1896) 23 Cal 15 (25, 26) : 22 Ind App 153 (PC). (Only donor's statement that he had confidence is not a sufficient proof of undue influence.)

[10] The mere relation of daughter to mother, in itself suggests nothing in the way of special influence or control. (06) 33 Cal 773 (784) : 33 Ind App 86 (PC).

[11] An ordinary servant cannot usually be expected to exercise undue influence on his master. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 394 (397) (DB) * (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 313 (314) (DB).

[12] The mere fact that the mortgagor was a servant of the mortgagee is not sufficient, in the absence of other evidence to show that undue influence was used in getting the mortgage executed. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 369 (370).

[13] It is a mistake to treat undue influence as having been established by a proof of the relations of the parties having been such that one naturally relied upon the other for advice. It must be shown that the influence was undue. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 426 (428) (DB).

[But see (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 278 (283) : 1940 Rang L R 35 (DB). (Undue influence is to be inferred from the special relationship between parties, apart from proof of actual fraud or unfair advantage.)]

[14] Where a transaction was finished through an attorney and the borrower had also another advice, held that undue influence was not proved. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 547 (552) (DB).

[15] Where one party standing in a fiduciary relation to another exercises undue influence over the latter, a third person deriving benefit of such exercise with knowledge of such relation cannot retain benefit so received. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 285 (289, 290) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 97 (106) (DB).

14. Mental incapacity.—[1] One of the ways of establishing that one party was in a position to dominate the will of the other is by showing that the mental capacity of the person dominated was affected by illness, or mental or bodily disease. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 391 (392) : I L R (1940) Nag 149 (DB).

[2] The law stated in S. 16 (2) (b) is based on the principle of equity that where a purchase is made from a poor and ignorant man at a considerable under-value, the vendor having no independent advice, a Court of Equity would relieve against the transaction. (1935) 18 Nag L Jour 67 (71).

[3] Old donor able to exercise independent and intelligent mind and showing strength of mind in dealing with his properties and business—Plea of undue influence negatived. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 137 (194) (DB).

[4] An old man who was hale and healthy and able to understand what he was doing, gifted away his property to his grand children in preference to his daughter with whom he was not on friendly terms. [7] A sale by an illiterate lady a few days previous to her death, when she was suffering from illness and had no professional or other independent advice, should be set aside. (1880) 5 Bom 450 (458).

[8] Where a party to a contract is weak but has ample protection and independent advice, and the other party is not shown to have taken any undue advantage of his weakness the Court will not extend its protection in favour of such weak party. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 839 (892) : 55 Cal 285 (DB).

[10] The mere fact that the vendee was in a distressed state of mind and was anxious to dispose of a portion of his property, raises no inference of the exercise of any undue influence. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 337 (339) (DB).

[11] Mere mental distress on the part of the borrower is not sufficient to raise a presumption of undue influence. It must be shown that the opportunity was used by the creditor to gain an unfair advantage. (1909) 4 Ind Cas 359 (360, 361) (DB) (Sind). (Per Pratt A. J. C.)

[12] If the contents of a written contract are not fully explained to or understood by a party who is illiterate, it is not binding on him. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 546 (547) (DB).

[13] Person of weak intelligence unable to understand exact nature and effect of transaction, executing deed of gift in favour of his elder brother — Deed held to be obtained by undue influence. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 34 (38, 39) (DB).

[14] The fact that the person is disqualified from managing his estate, as when his estate is under the management of Court of Wards, is not in itself sufficient to bring him within the category of those classes of persons whose supposed weakness of intellect or impaired capacity for contractual purposes prima facie suggests the inference that they have been imposed upon. (1905) 8 Oudh Cas 210 (216) (DB).

15. Fear of punishment.—[1] A state of fear by itself alone does not constitute undue influence. Assuming a state of fear amounts to mental distress which enfeebles the mind, still, there must be further action of some kind, the employment of pressure or influence by or on behalf of the other party to the agreement. (1900) 22 All 224 (229) (DB). (Person agreeing to submission to arbitration through fear of criminal proceedings—In absence of any allegation or proof as to other party taking advantage of his state of mind submission held not voidable.) * (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 573 (576) : 19 Pat 424 (DB) * (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 181 (184).

[2] The fact that the prosecutor was ready to compound offence and withdraw charge if a kabuliyat was executed and the accused executed the kabuliyat on condition of the withdrawal of the charge would not lead to the inference that the prosecution was in a position to dominate the will of the executant and used that position to obtain unfair advantage. (Vol 2) 1915 All 174 (175).

[3] When a criminal prosecution is instituted against a person and such person fearing the result of the prosecution enters into an agreement in favour of the complainant in consideration of his abandoning the prosecution it cannot be held that the consent of such person to the agreement was caused by "undue influence". 16. Pardanashin lady —[1] A pardanashin lady, in the true sense of that term is a lady living in seclusion that is, the "zanana," and having no communication with any male strangers except from behind a screen. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 985 (987) : 12 Lah 239 (DB).

[3] In cases of transactions by a pardanashin lady, the disposition made must be substantially understood and must really be the mental act, as its execution is the physical act of the person who makes it. [6] The extent and character of the explanation required must depend on the circumstances. Length, intricacy, the number and complexity of the dispositions, or the unfamiliarity of the subject-matter, are all reasons for requiring an increased amount and efficiency of explanation. [9] In the case of a pardanashin lady execution of any instrument to give it validity must be "intelligent execution" as opposed to mechanical execution. [See also (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 335 (337) (DB). (Execution should be clearly proved.)]

[11] It is only when the document executed by a pardanashin lady is prima facie valid proof having been given of intelligent execution that the question of undue influence arises. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 172 (177) (DB).

[12] In the case of a document executed by a pardanashin lady, the question is not whether the lady knew what she was doing, had done, or proposed to do, but how her intention to act was produced, whether all that care and providence was placed round her as against those who advised her which from their situation and relation to her, they were bound to exert on her behalf. (Vol 8) 1916 P C 172 (179) (PC) * (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 146 (155) : 6 Luck 619 (DB).

[14] Where a deed is executed by a pardanashin lady, it must be reasonably established that the deed was the free and intelligent act of the executant. (The fact that a pardanashin lady has acted under advice of her vakil does not preclude her from asking for relief on the ground that the contract was induced by undue influence.)

[15] The possessing of independent advice or the absence of it is a fact to be taken into consideration and well weighed on a review of the whole circumstances relevant to a decision whether the grantor, a pardnashin lady, comprehended and deliberately and out of free will carried out the transaction—But where upon the nature of the thing done, and the training and habit of the mind of the grantor as well as the proximate circumstances, affecting the execution, the conclusion is reached that the independent advice could not have altered the results then the absence of it does not detract from the valid nature of the consent. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 677 (680) : I L R (1944) Mad 118 (D B).

[16] Gift deed by pardanashin lady in favour of person standing in position of confidence to her—Donee must prove not only that donor knew what she was about, but also that she had independent advice. (Vol 33) 1946 All 121 (124, 125).

[17] Where a pardanashin lady is intelligent to understand the nature and effect of transaction and has got intelligent relations to assist her it cannot be said that she had no independent advice. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 234 (237).

[19] Bargain with pardanashin cannot be divided into parts or otherwise reformed by Courts so as to uphold certain portions while rejecting others. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 134 (136) : I L R (1940) 2 Cal 436 : I L R (1940) Kar (P C) 271 : 67 Ind App 309 (P C). (Pardnashin lady executing mortgage—That she was incurring personal liability not understood by her—Mortgage does not bind her at all.) * (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 159 (160) : I L R (1940) Nag 418 (D B) * (Vol 18) 1931 P C 303 (307) : 53 Ind App 450 : 11 Pat 227 (P C).

[21] The protection given by law to "pardnashin" ladies is analogous to that always given by Courts to persons who are weak, ignorant and infirm and hence, incapable of protecting themselves. Generally the person seeking protection has to prove weakness or infirmity. In case of "pardnashin" ladies law presumes them to be incapable of protecting themselves. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 306 (331) : 12 Pat 359 (D B).

[22] Wife is not "protected person"—No presumption of undue influence arises. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 210 (212) (P C).

[23] The protection offered to pardnashin ladies in respect of their transactions can be claimed only by them or persons claiming through their title to any property affected by the transaction and not by third parties. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 477 (487) (D B).

[24] The rule giving protection to pardnashin lady is not strictly applicable to cases where the pardnashin lady is not a contracting party and the case is one of fraud and not of undue influence. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 105 (117) : 11 Pat 50 (D B).

[25] Court should not extend unduly the rule for protection of pardnashin ladies — Adult pardnashin ladies of sound mind are sui juris and they must not be treated as though they were minors and incapable through mental deficiency of conducting their own business. (Vol 33) 1946 All 127 (130) : I L R (1945) All 465 (D B).

[26] The mere fact that the woman lives in seclusion or sits behind a pardah does not necessarily show that she is weak-minded, ignorant or incapable of understanding her affairs. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 208 (209) (P C) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 184 (187) (D B) * (1914) 36 All 81 (92) : 41 Ind App 23 (P C).

[27] A woman who is not a pardnashin lady is not subject to the same law as the pardnashin lady—Where the lady is not actually a pardnashin lady in the strict sense she is entitled to equitable relief afforded to that class when she had been sued on contracts which she had entered into. (1901) 23 All 137 (140) : 27 Ind App 168 (P C).

[28] Though a woman is not pardnashin it is for those who deal with her to establish that she had the capacity of understanding, that she entered into transaction voluntarily and with full knowledge and import of what the transaction meant. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 591 (592) (D B).

[29] The principles of law applicable to a pardanashin lady will not be extended to a man on the ground that he is old and not in robust health. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 254 (263) (D B).

[30] Where relationship of the transferee with the transferor who is a pardanashin lady is not such as would enable to dominate the will of transferor it cannot be said that the relation between the parties at the time of the transaction is such as would suggest that they are not on equal terms. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 234 (237).

[31] Contract by pardanashin lady without competent advice and under pressure of illegal guardian proceedings is bad as being induced by undue influence. (10) 1910 Pun L R No. 177, p. 505 (507) (DB).

[33] In cases of gifts undue influence will be presumed in transactions with pardanashin ladies. (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 10 (17) (DB).

[34] Burden of proof—Gift by pardanashin lady — Burden of proving bona fides of the transaction lies on the party affirming it. (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 10 (13) (DB).

[35] Lease by pardanashin lady — Agent's influence with deceased husband of lady — This fact does not put him in a position of confidence with regard to her or in a position to exercise undue influence. (1932) 15 Nag L Jour 101 (103).

17. Unconscionable bargain.—[1] In considering whether an unconscionable bargain should be relieved against only the terms of S. 16 must be considered. English equitable doctrine cannot be applied. (1906) 28 All 570 (573) : 33 Ind App 118 : 9 Oudh Cas 219 (P C) (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 334 (335) (DB) (1911) 10 Ind Cas 249 (250) (DB) (All).

[2] By sub-s. (3) of S. 16 three matters are dealt with. In the first place the relations between the parties to each other must be such that one is in a position to dominate the will of the other. Once that position is substantiated the second stage has been reached, viz., the issue whether the contract has been induced by undue influence. Upon the determination of this issue a third point emerges, which is that of the onus probandi. Error is almost sure to arise if the order of these propositions be changed. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 60 (63) : 51 Ind App 101 : 3 Pat 279 (P C) (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 426 (428) (DB) (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 224 (229) : 9 Lah 470 (DB) (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 330 (333) (DB) (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 661 (662) (DB). ((Vol 2) 1915 Cal 383 : 42 Cal 690 (DB), Disting.; 20 Oudh Cas 319, Foll.) (Vol 7) 1920 P C 65 (66) : 43 Mad 546 : 47 Ind App 1 (P C).

[3] Even though a bargain is unconscionable a remedy under the Contract Act does not come into view until the initial fact of a position to dominate the will has been established. Once that fact is established, then the unconscionable nature of the bargain and the burden of proof on the issue of undue influence come into operation. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 60 (63, 65) : 3 Pat 279 : 51 Ind App 101 (P C) (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 224 (229) : 9 Lah 470 (DB).

[4] In the absence of undue influence the Court has no power to give relief under S. 16 even if the bargain is hard and unconscionable. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 48 (49) : 1918 Pun Re No. 101 (P C) (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 547 (552) (DB) (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 748 (751) (DB) (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 208 (211) : 4 Rang 214 (DB) (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 207 (208) : 24 Oudh Cas 313 (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 383 (384) : 42 Cal 690 (DB) (13) 1913 Pun L R No. 305, p. 1027 (1027) (DB) (12) 1912 Mad W N 416

[6] Where the lender is in a position to dominate the will of the borrower and the transaction on the face of it appears to be unconscionable, a presumption arises that the transaction was induced by undue influence. [But see (1908) 8 Cal L Jour 135 (139) (DB). (There is no presumption that landlord can so dominate the will of his tenants as to induce them to enter into unconscionable bargain in his favour.)]

[8] Transaction unconscionable — Burden of proving that transaction was not induced by undue influence lies upon the person who was in a position to dominate the will of the other. SECTION 17 — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope.

2. Clause (1).

3. Clause (2).

4. Clause (3).

5. Clause (4).

6. Clause (5).

7. Explanation.

8. Proof of fraud.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] Difference between fraud and misrepresentation—In one case the

- (2) the active concealment of a fact by one having knowledge or belief of the fact;
- (3) a promise made without any intention of performing it;
- (4) any other act fitted to deceive;
- (5) any such act or omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent.

Explanation. — Mere silence as to facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud, unless the circumstances of the case are such that, regard being had to them, it is the duty of the person keeping silence to speak,^b or unless his silence is, in itself, equivalent to speech.

[a] Compare S. 238. [b] See S. 143.

Illustrations.

(a) A sells, by auction, to B, a horse which A knows to be unsound. A says nothing to B about the horse's unsoundness. This is not fraud in A.

(b) B is A's daughter, and has just come of age. Here, the relation between the parties would make it A's duty to tell B if the horse is unsound.

(c) B says to A, "If you do not deny it, I shall assume that the horse is sound." A says nothing. Here A's silence is equivalent to speech.

(d) A and B, being traders, enter upon a contract. A has private information of a change in prices which would affect B's willingness to proceed with the contract. A is not bound to inform B.

person making the suggestion does not believe it to be true and in the other he believes it to be true. (Vol 18) 1931 All 154 (156) : 33 All 374 (DB).

[2] It is not fraud to merely break promises or fail to perform obligations in future. Frauds ought to be restricted to misrepresentations, and dishonest misrepresentations of existing facts. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 239 (244).

[3] The mere execution of a deed of relinquishment by an exproprietary tenant cannot amount to constructive fraud on behalf of the landlord. (Vol 10) 1923 All 113 (114).

[4] Court will not take 'Fraud' in the same sense in which it is desired in this section to set aside a decree on the ground of fraud. (Vol 1) 1914 Sind 28 (30) : 8 Sind L R 3 (DB).

[5] The illustrations to sections 17 and 19 indicate that the principle is meant to extend to contracts which include an element of transfer, such as sales or mortgages. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 505 (508) (DB)* (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 555 (556).

2. Clause (1). — [1] Deliberately giving false replies by withholding material information, in answering questions of the insurance company during its enquiry into one's proposal amounts to fraud. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 254 (255, 256) : I L R (1939) Kar 611 (DB)* (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 412 (414) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 100 (DB)* (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 8 (12) (DB).

[2] Where a purchaser of a decree belonging to an insolvent from the official Assignee, represented to the Official Assignee that the decree was unsecured while as a matter of fact, it was secured and this fact was also known to the purchaser and he purchased the decree for 20 per cent. of its face value :

Held, that the sale was void for fraud and the Official Assignee was entitled to have it set aside, (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 603 (605) (DB).

3. Clause (2). — [1] The defendant after selling the property to a third person sold it to the plaintiff and it was agreed in the sale-deed that the seller should not be responsible to the buyer for loss caused to the latter if, by reason of the invalidity of the seller's title, the buyer was deprived of the property. It was found by the lower appellate Court that the buyer would never have bought if he had known that the seller had no title. Held, that the conduct of the seller must be held to amount to the active concealment of a fact by one having knowledge, and constituted fraud. (Vol 14) 1927 All 693 (698) (DB).

[2] If a vendor has been guilty of fraud by actively concealing the fact which it was material for the purchaser to know, and the purchaser was induced thereby to purchase, the fact that the purchaser by exercise of any diligence might have ascertained the truth is no defence to a suit to recover purchase money. (1888) 11 Mad 419 (436) (DB).

[3] Non-disclosure of minority is no misrepresentation or fraud.—Creditor cannot recover money. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 598 (598).

[4] Where a minor whose period of minority has been extended to 21 years states that he is of 20 years of age, his suppression of the fact that a guardian was appointed amounts to fraudulent representation as to his age. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 880 (881) : 11 Lah 167 (DB).

[5] Lady illiterate and not a business woman.—Agreement to refer to arbitration—Lady not made aware of the nature of the transaction—Lady's agreement obtained by persons having conflicting interests and standing in fiduciary relationship by fraudulent concealment of particulars—Award not binding on the lady either as award or as family settlement. (Vol) 3 1916 P C 172 (179) (PC).

[6] Concealment of claim of mortgagee against property sold—Clause in sale deed binding vendor to remove any claim or dispute about property — Held on facts that no inference of fraud within S. 17, could be drawn. (1896) 20 Bom 522 (534) (DB).

[7] One of the conditions of the plaintiff's employment under the defendant firm was that plaintiff was not to engage in any business of his own or join any other firm so long as he remained in the services of the defendant firm. Without the knowledge of the defendant firm plaintiff joined another in business transactions and induced the defendant firm to enter into contracts with that third person without disclosing his association with him. Held that the contracts were voidable at the instance of the defendant firm they having been procured as a result of the fraud practised by plaintiff and by his concealment of the fact that he was entering into contracts in contravention of the terms of his agreement with the defendant firm. (1922) 66 Ind Cas 441 (449) (DB) (Lah).

[8] X sold Y a horse with cracked hoof but filling the crack with some substance in such a way as to defy detection. Shortly after purchase lameness of horse was discovered. In a suit by Y, it was held that he was entitled to avoid sale on the ground of fraud and to recover purchase money. (1904) 1904 Pun Re No. 48, page 149 (151).

"Misrepresentation" defined.

18. "Misrepresentation" means and includes —

(1) the positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, though he believes it to be true ;

Section 17 (contd.)

4. Clause (3).—[1] To bring case within S. 17 (3) promisee must be shown to have no intention of performing promise, at time of making it. (1911) 35 Bom 98 (96) (DB).

[2] Mere failure to fulfil promise is not fraud, unless, from outset, promisee did not intend to fulfil it. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 142 (143).

[3] Where person orders and obtains possession of goods with intention of not paying for them, he commits fraud. He must then be considered as agent of vendor and his possession is that of vendor. If vendee tries to dispose of goods before payment by transfer of invoices to third party's name, third party gets no title to goods. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 421 (423) (DB).

5. Clause (4).—[1] False personation amounts to a deception, so as to constitute a fraud within the meaning of this section. ('86) 1886 Pun Re No. 21, page 37 (38) (DB).

6. Clause (5).—[1] Omissions to make disclosures mentioned in S. 55, para. (1) (a) and para. (5) (a) of the Transfer of Property Act, by the seller and buyer respectively are declared to be fraudulent by last para of that section. (1896) 20 Bom 522 (534) (DB). (Concealment of a claim of an equitable mortgagee against property sold—Vendor bound to and could readily remove the defect—Claim bearing small proportion to purchase money—Held defect was not material within the meaning of S. 55, para. (1), cl. (a).)

[2] For a full discussion of what is a material defect, see A. I. R. Commentaries on the Transfer of Property Act, 2nd (1945) Edition, S. 55 N. 2.

7. Explanation.—[1] 'Duty' clearly means a legal duty. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 598 (598).

[2] Purchaser occupies no fiduciary position and is under no obligation to disclose facts. There is in such case no duty to speak and silence does not amount to fraud. Intentional misleading communication would be fraudulent. Equal means of knowledge is immaterial where there is a misrepresentation or any thing lulling suspicion. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 603 (605) (DB).

[3] Contract of marriage between father of bridegroom and a third person on behalf of the bride, both Mahomedans—Negotiations concluded by pan rusam—It was subsequently discovered that the girl was suffering from epilepsy—Held that the father of the bridegroom was entitled to rescind . . . The right arose out of contractual relationship, and there being a breach of duty to disclose, the opposite party was only liable on the ground of fraud under this section. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 270 (271, 273) : I L R (1937) Nag 299.

[4] Where a party alleged that the other party who drew the acceptance memo took advantage of his illiteracy and lack of knowledge of English language and failed to direct him to the proper sense of the instrument when he misread the same and believed it to be something different, but on evidence it was found he had signed all documents and carried on the lengthy correspondence in English : Held that he was neither illiterate nor a person who did not understand the language and in these circumstances there was no duty cast upon the party the non-discharge of which amounted to fraud. (Vol 10) 1923 Sind 25 (27).

[5] Any guarantee which the creditor has obtained by means of keeping silence as to material circumstances is invalid; see S. 143.

8. Proof of fraud.—[1] Per Kinoid J. C.—Pleas such as misrepresentation and fraud must be examined with the utmost rigour. They are not pleas that an honest man would make, save in the most exceptional circumstances. They are pleas too, which, if allowed, would be capable of the most dangerous extension. (Vol 10) 1923 Sind 25 (28).

[2] Fraud is a matter of inference in all cases and direct evidence of this is seldom, if ever available. All that is necessary to show is that, circumstances exist, which show that, fraud must have been practised. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 439 (451) : I L R (1939) Lah 439 (DB). (If fraud is practised and the decree obtained is the result of fraud, relief must be granted whether the woman was or was not a pardanashin lady.) * (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 333 (338) : 7 Luck 131 (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 73 (77) (DB).

[3] Circumstances of mere suspicion should not be taken as proof of fraud, but the evidence must be sufficient to overcome the natural presumption of honesty and fair dealing. Fraud is not to be presumed or inferred lightly. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 73 (77) (DB).

[4] A charge of fraud, whether made in civil or criminal proceedings, must be established beyond reasonable doubt. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 93 (95) (PC).

[5] The party, alleging fraud, must furnish specific details. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 146 (148) : 64 Ind App 143 : 31 Sind L R 306 : I L R (1937) All 566 (PC). * (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 366 (371) : 60 Cal 262. (Court will not allow allegation of fraud to be made lightly, or otherwise than with the utmost precision and particularity and above all promptly.)

[6] To prove fraud, it must be proved that representations made were false to the knowledge of party, making them, or were such, that the party could have no reasonable belief that they were true; that they were made for the purpose of being acted upon and believed, that they were believed and acted upon and caused the actual damage alleged. (Vol 11) 1924 All 17 (19) : 45 All 624 (D B).

[7] Evidence of unfairness of transaction may be taken to assist the Court to come to a conclusion whether there was fraud or not. But that evidence alone is not sufficient to find fraud, where the direct evidence on the question of fraud is unreliable. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 83 (90) : 19 Pat 669 (D B).

[8] Party who relies upon fraud must plead and prove it, and must give particulars of alleged fraud; and can succeed, only upon proof of fraud as alleged. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 922 (923) (Low Bur) * (1841) 2 Moo Ind App 181 (244) (P C).

[9] Fraud accomplished — Plaintiff suing for possession suppressing fraud — Defendant in possession can plead and prove fraud to defeat plaintiff's claim. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 274 (275) : I L R (1941) Bom 575 (FB) ((1907) 31 Bom 405 (DB) overruled.) * (1904) 28 Bom 639 (643) (D B).

SECTION 18—Synopsis

1. Sub-section (1).

2. Sub-section (2).

3. Sub-section (3).

1. Sub-section (1) — [1] The principal difference between fraud and misrepresentation is that, in the one case, the person, making the suggestion, does not believe it to be true, and in the other he believes it to be true, though in both cases it is a misstatement of fact which misleads the promisor. (Vol 18) 1931 All 154 (156) : 53 All 374 (D B).

(2) any breach of duty which, without an intent to deceive, gains an advantage to the person committing it, or any one claiming under him, by misleading another to his prejudice, or to the prejudice of any one claiming under him;

(3) causing, however innocently, a party to an agreement to make a mistake as to the substance of the thing which is the subject of the agreement.

[2] If a blind, or an illiterate man signs a document on the misrepresentation that it contains something, which it does not contain in reality, then he can plead that, there was no consent as contemplated by the Contract Act. If that plea fails, it is still open to him to plead misrepresentation and ask for relief. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 140 (141).

[3] Where one party induces the other to contract on the faith of representations made to him any one of which is untrue, the whole contract is in a Court of Equity, considered as having been obtained fraudulently. So, where the plaintiff represented his power as auction purchaser as greater than what it really was in law and obtained assent of the tenants to the ikrarnama, it was held that the statement of the effect of law was a misrepresentation and therefore the plaintiff could not sue upon the contract. (1890) 17 Cal 291 (297) : 16 Ind App 233 (P C).

[4] A chartered a ship which was wholly unknown to him on the representation made by B that it was of a particular tonnage and it turned out to be of larger tonnage upon which A refused to accept it in fulfilment of the charter party. B sued A for damages for breach of charter party. Held, that A was entitled to treat the contract as void by reason of misrepresentation by B with regard to the size of the ship. B's assertion with regard to the size of the ship was not warranted by any information he had at the time and was not true and it also caused A to make a mistake as to the size of the vessel which was the quality the parties had principally in view. (1890) 14 Bom 241 (248).

[5] Hindu father agreeing to sell family property without necessity, alleging that he was sole owner—He is guilty of misrepresentation. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 219 (222) : 20 Sind L R 220 (D B).

[6] Vendor giving false information whether on inquiry or otherwise about income or rental of property to be sold—Held, that was misrepresentation. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 148 (149) : 28 Nag L R 184.

[7] Where A is persuaded by B, her brother, to execute a deed accepting the partition made during her (A's) minority though B well knew that she was under the false impression that her father had created a wakf of that property which false impression had been deliberately induced by him, Held, B's action amounted to misrepresentation. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 264 (267) (D B).

[8] An endorsement containing an acknowledgment of full satisfaction of the mortgage, when it is not so satisfied, amounts in law to misrepresentation. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 29 (30, 31) : 30 Nag L R 196.

[9] A vendor wrote a letter to the proposed vendee stating that the mares which he wished to sell were thoroughly sound and had no vice whatsoever, but added that the vendee should buy them only after satisfying himself with regard to them, through a friend. Vendor's information did not warrant the assertion regarding soundness of the mares. The mares were found unsound on purchase. Held that, this amounted to misrepresentation under S. 18 (1) as to the soundness of the mares. (86) 1886 Fun Re No. 41, page 73 (79, 80) (D B).

[10] Seller professing to be owner, though merely lease-holder, is guilty of misrepresentation. (Vol 16) 1929 All 887 (839) (D B).

[11] Where B, an agent of a company, relying upon information given to him by C, that a certain person would be a director of the company, induced certain persons to buy shares, Held, that, B was not warranted in making the positive assertion relying upon the second-hand information given to him and, therefore, there was misrepresentation within S. 18 (1). (1900) 4 Cal W N 369 (388) (D B).

[12] Misrepresentation made by a salesman of one of the contracting parties, is misrepresentation made by one contracting party to other. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 35 (41) : 15 Luck 191 (DB).

[13] Person, executing deed, neither blind nor illiterate—Plea of non est factum is not open to him, where there is no fraudulent misrepresentation—He is bound by deed even though he has not read it or understood it. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 103 (109) (PC).

2. Sub-section (2). — [1] The second clause of S. 18 is probably intended to meet all those cases which are called in the Courts of Equity, cases of 'constructive fraud,' in which there is no intention to deceive, but where the circumstances are such as to make the party, who derives a benefit from the transaction, equally answerable in effect as if he had been actuated by motives of fraud or deceit. (1879) 3 Bom 242 (267). (Deed of release signed on representation and belief that it was a deed of composition.)

[See also (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 121 (123) : 16 Sind L R 235. (No misrepresentation as to real nature of document—Its acceptance without protest is tacit acceptance of its terms.)]

[2] Where vendor of lease-hold property is informed by vendee of object of his purchase and knows that the lease contains covenants, which will defeat that object, and yet remains silent; such silence will in equity be equivalent to misrepresentation. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 661 (662) : 42 Cal 28 (DB).

[3] Tenant proposing to take a house, on rent, situate in another town and containing not less than four bed-rooms — Landlord sending a plan of the house showing that it had four bed-rooms—Acting on that plan tenant entering into contract of lease—Subsequent discovery that house did not contain the required number fit to be used as bed-room — Held that, tenant was justified in repudiating the contract on ground of misrepresentation in plan. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 173 (174).

[4] At the time of an auction of liquor shops in a district a statement was circulated among the proposed bidders showing the names of the places of the liquor shops and the average quantity sold therein. Plaintiff was a purchaser of one of such shops. Near the place of the plaintiff, there was another shop which prior to the auction was allowed to be brought still nearer but no mention was made of this change in the statement. In a suit by the plaintiff for a declaration that the Secretary of State had no right to make a demand on the plaintiffs for money until the loss which the plaintiff had suffered owing to the neglect of the defendant was made good. Held, there was an omission to state material fact and the plaintiff could proceed under S. 19, on the ground of misrepresentation. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 17 (17) (DE).

3. Sub-section (3). — [1] Where the company, by their Directors, acting within their authority, and in perfect assurance, sold a bill to the bank on behalf of the company as a bill upon which the company was liable, which, however, turned out to be one, upon

19. When consent to an agreement is caused by coercion, "[* "] fraud, or misrepresentation, the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused.

Voidability of agreements without free consent. A party to a contract, whose consent was caused by fraud or misrepresentation, may, if he thinks fit, insist that the contract shall be performed, and that he shall be put in the position in which he would have been if the representations made had been true.

Exception.—If such consent was caused by misrepresentation or by silence, fraudulent within the meaning of S. 17, the contract, nevertheless, is not voidable, if the party whose consent was so caused had the means of discovering the truth with ordinary diligence.

Explanation.—A fraud or misrepresentation which did not cause the consent to a contract of the party on whom such fraud was practised, or to whom such misrepresentation was made, does not render a contract voidable.

Illustrations.

(a) A, intending to deceive B, falsely represents that five hundred maunds of indigo are made annually at A's factory, and thereby induces B to buy the factory. The contract is voidable at the option of B.

(b) A, by a misrepresentation, leads B erroneously to believe that five hundred maunds of indigo are made annually at A's factory. B examines the accounts of the factory, which show that only four hundred maunds of indigo have been made. After this B buys the factory. The contract is not voidable on account of A's misrepresentation.

(c) A fraudulently informs B that A's estate is free from incumbrance. B thereupon buys the estate. The estate is subject to a mortgage. B may either avoid the contract, or may insist on its being carried out, and the mortgage debt redeemed.

(d) B, having discovered a vein of ore on the estate of A, adopts means to conceal, and does conceal, the existence of the ore from A. Through A's ignorance B is enabled to buy the estate at an under-value. The contract is voidable at the option of A.

(e) A is entitled to succeed to an estate at the death of B; B dies; C, having received intelligence of B's death, prevents the intelligence reaching A, and thus induces A to sell him his interest in the estate. The sale is voidable at the option of A.

[a] The words, "undue influence," were repealed by the Indian Contract Act, Amendment Act, 1899 (6 [VI] of 1899), S. 3.

which the company was not liable: Held, there was misrepresentation within the meaning of Cl. (3) of S. 18. (1881) 5 Bom 92 (97, 98).

[2] Where a party executes a document under a mistake as to the subject of the contract on an innocent misrepresentation by the other party that the document contained all the terms agreed upon, while in fact it did not contain all the terms, held that the mistake was sufficient to justify repudiation of the contract. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 151 (153) : 56 Bom 180 (DB).

[3] A sale in execution cannot be set aside in a suit by the auction-purchaser on the ground of a mistake in the sale proclamation as to the extent of the judgment-debtor's share in the property, where it is not proved that any misrepresentation was intentionally made by or on behalf of the decree-holders. (Vol 8) 1921 All 223 (224) (DB).

[2] Section 17, read with S. 19, permits a contract to be avoided, when based on representations known to be false by the person making them. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 505 (508) (DB).

[3] Where there was a misrepresentation as to the nature of the document and not merely as to its contents, there was no real execution and the document was void ab initio and not merely voidable. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 201 (203). (Obiter.)

[4] Where there is no consent at all within the meaning of S. 19 the document is ab initio void and need not be set aside. But where there is consent, but such a consent is caused by one of the grounds mentioned in S. 19 making it voidable, the party objecting to the consent must prove it before the contract can be avoided. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 514 (525) : 2 Pat 52 (DB).

[5] Person induced to execute deed under belief that he is signing deed of different nature by promisee's fraud—Contract is void ab initio. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 786 (788) (DB).

[6] Section 19 of the Contract Act, cannot apply in the case, where the contract itself contains a defeasance clause. If the conditions of such clause are fulfilled, the party, who is given the right to annul the contract under it, is entitled to do so, unless the other party proved that the former has waived his rights. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 412 (417) : ILR (1942) 1 Cal 100 (DB).

2 'Consent caused by coercion, fraud or misrepresentation.'—[1] Fraud which brings about consent to a transaction does not make a transaction void, but only voidable at the instance of the person defrauded. (1904) 28 Bom 639 (642) (DB) & (1910) 37 Cal 81 (87, 83) (DB).

[2] Secrecy prima facie implies fraud. (1909) 32 Mad 242 (233) (SB).

[4] Where a person, against whom a decree with costs for possession was made, and whose right of appeal was time barred, made an offer to decree-holder that he would not file an appeal from decree if costs were given up and the decree-holder accepted it, it was held that the agreement was void under S. 20, if the judgment-debtor had honestly believed that he had right to appeal when he made the representation as both the parties were under mistake of fact; but, if the judgment-debtor had acted dishonestly, the agreement was voidable under S. 19 as brought about by misrepresentation. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 511 (512) : ILR (1940) Lah 392.

[5] Mistake, induced by innocent misrepresentation, is sufficient to justify repudiation of the contract. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 151 (153) : 56 Bom 180 (DB). (Signing an agreement under the mistaken belief that it contained all the terms of contract, where, in fact, a material term was omitted—No fraud—Contract can be repudiated on ground of innocent misrepresentation.)

[6] Misrepresentation must have in fact materially induced contract, in order to give the right of avoidance, and such plea ought to be specifically taken in the plaint. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 908 (909) (SB).

[7] Where one of the contracting parties says : "I am well known to the National Bank in your city," it is not a statement of fact, but only his own opinion as to the state of his credit, though it may be false; such statement is not one of fact, and even if false, does not avoid the contract under S. 19. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 830 (831) (DB).

[8] Whether misrepresentation caused other party to consent to contract or not is a question of fact. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 198 (198) (DB).

[9] Mother and guardian of minor executing bond in lieu of debt barred by time—Recitals, contained in the bond, showing that the mother executed it on misrepresentation that a debt was due from her late husband—Held, that neither the minor nor his mother guardian can be held liable on the bond. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 12 (18).

[10] Mortgage brought about by concealing, fraudulently from mortgagee the existence of prior mortgage is voidable at option of mortgagee. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1059 (1059) (DB).

[11] In entering into a contract or inducing another person to act, if one should misrepresent a fact, then the contract between him and the person so deceived shall be based in law upon the ground that the fact so misrepresented must be made good by the party misrepresenting it. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 124 (128).

[12] Where both the plaintiff and the defendant are parties to the fraud, and the fraud has been successfully committed, the plaintiff is not entitled to any relief from the Court on the maxim "in pari delicto potior est conditio possidentis." (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 124 (127) : 8 Luck 235 (DB).

[13] Misrepresentation inducing consent to marry cannot upset a marriage. The position in law is that the party imposed upon must be deceived to such an extent that there is in reality, no consent at all to the marriage. (Vol 20) 1933 All 122 (126, 127) : 55 All 185.

3. Inadequacy of consideration. — [1] Inadequate consideration may lead to an inference of fraud or undue influence. But the inadequacy must be apparent and not merely inferential (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 539 (542) (DB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 505 (508) (DB). (Held, the mortgage could not be avoided merely for inadequacy of consideration.)

4. Exception.—[1] The exception to S 19, Contract Act, applies to all cases of misrepresentation as distinguished from fraud and should not be restricted to misrepresentation, which is "fraudulent within meaning of S. 17." (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 473 (475) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 889 (DB). (Intending seller causing bogus letters written to him quoting high price — Purchasers induced to pay high price on showing of letters. This amounts to fraud. Exception does not apply.) & (1888) 11 Mad 419 (439) (DB).

[2] Where execution sale is sought to be set aside on ground of misrepresentation by the officer conducting sale, exception to S. 19 does not apply. (1909) 36 Cal 323 (333) : 36 Ind App 32 (PC).

[3] There can be no estoppel where the truth of the matter is known to both parties. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (546) : 30 Ind App 114 (PC). (A false representation made to a person, who knows it to be false, is not such a fraud as to take away the privilege of infancy).

[4] Failure to make such inquiries, as an ordinary prudent man would make, may be evidence that the person, to whom misrepresentation was made, was not actually deceived. (Vol 10) 1923 Sind 5 (14) : 16 Sind L R 112 (FB).

[5] There is no misrepresentation, if there are means of discovering truth with ordinary diligence. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 151 (153).

[6] A person, who had the means of discovering the truth, with ordinary diligence, cannot avoid the contract on the ground that he was deceived by the misrepresentation. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 148 (151) : 28 Nag L R 184 & (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 94 (95) : 1918 Pun Re No. 42 & (1900) 4 Cal W N 369 (382) (DB). (Application of exception not restricted to cases, where party had constructive notice of fraud) & ('86) 1886 Pun Re No 41, page 73 (77) (DB). (Whether he had such means is a question of fact to be determined on the facts of case.) & (1879) 4 Cal 801 (807) (DB).

[7] Exception to S. 19, applies when contracting party might, with due diligence, have discovered misrepresentation before he entered into contract. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 173 (174).

[8] If the executants had not the means of discovering truth with ordinary diligence, the exception to S. 19 is not applicable. (1879) 4 Bom 242 (269).

[9] In the case of active misrepresentation, to get relief under S. 19, party defrauded, need not establish that he had no means of discovering truth with ordinary diligence. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 473 (476) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 889 (DB) & (Vol 18) 1931 All 154 (157) : 53 All 374 (DB).

[10] If a vendor is guilty of fraud, by actively concealing a fact, which it was material for the purchaser to know, and the purchaser was induced thereby to purchase, the fact that the purchaser by exercise of ordinary diligence might have ascertained the truth will not come within the exception. (1888) 11 Mad 419 (436) (DB).

[11] Vendor of land failed to disclose that land had been leased to third party and represented to vendee that he could take immediate possession of land. Sale is voidable and does not fall within exception to S. 19. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 560 (561) (DB).

[12] Where there is no reason to suspect the representation as untrue, but the statement turns out to be such, the party who makes the misrepresentation cannot be heard to plead that the right to relief is gone, because the other party had the means to discover the truth by due diligence. (1900) 4 Cal W N 369 (381) (DB).

[13] The phrase "fraudulent within the meaning of S. 17" applies to word "Silence" exclusively and not to the word "Misrepresentation." (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 473 (475) : 1 L R (1939) 1 Cal 389 (DB) & (Vol 18) 1931 All 154 (157) : 53 All 374 (DB).

5. Explanation.—[1] Explanation to the section must not be taken as meaning that any subsequent fraud will not affect the validity of the original contract as it deals with fraud only so far as it affects the free will of the parties at the time of entering into contract. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1152 (1154) (DB). (Material alteration after execution of deed—Explanation does not apply.) & (1913) 37 Bom 158 (169). (Fraud in the performance of a contract is no ground for rescission)

[2] Illustration (b) to S. 19 is not exhaustive of the class of cases which could come under that explanation. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 198 (198) (DB).

[3] Where the fact of minority of one of the parties to a contract is known to the other, the misrepresentation by the minor as to his age is not such a fraud as would vitiate the contract, and the explanation would cover such a case, irrespective of the consideration whether the principles of estoppel as laid down in S. 115, Evidence Act, would apply to minors or not. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (546) : 30 Ind App 114 (PC).

[4] Whether a particular misrepresentation was of such a nature, that it did cause the consent of the person, to whom it was made, or whether it was of such a nature that his consent was, in no way, affected by the misrepresentation is a question of fact. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 198 (198) (DB).

[5] See also Notes on Section 17.

6. Who can avoid the contract.—[1] If a transaction which is voidable is admitted by the person, who is entitled to avoid it, it cannot be questioned by a third party. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 924 (925) (DB). (Obiter). & (1912) 36 Bom 37 (41) (DB).

[2] The right to avoid a transfer or conveyance is not a mere personal right, but can be exercised by heirs or legal representatives of person unduly influenced or defrauded, unless the person has indicated his election to stand by transaction. : (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 93 (94) : 43 Bom 173 (DB).

7. Remedies under the section. — [1] Where there is an omission to state material fact, on the part of one of the contracting parties, only two remedies are open to the other, (i) to avoid the contract before the expiry of the term of contract or (ii) to enforce it as represented. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 17 (18) (DB) & (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 149 (150, 151) : 28 Nag L R 184. (When party cannot be put in represented position only remedy of avoiding remains—There is no right to sue for damages.) & (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 173 (175). (A party to contract can repudiate it when misrepresentation comes to his knowledge.) & (1881) 5 Bom 92 (98). (Can be set aside.) & (Vol 5) 1918 All 74 (76) : 40 All 619 (DB).

[See also (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 111 (113, 114) (DB)]

[2] Where a party to a contract treats it as voidable and exercises his option, he cannot go back to the agreement to enforce it. When he not only states that he treats the document incorporating the agreement in suit as void but proceeds on that footing to make his demands on the other party, though the latter does not admit that the former could do so and the former party does not, at any time, give up the attitude taken by him, he cannot afterwards be permitted to enforce the agreement as a subsisting contract. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 197 (212) : ILR (1943) Kar 49 (DB).

[4] Person induced to be partner by fraud — Court can rescind contract and reimburse him with amount paid. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 180 (181) (DB).

[5] Relief cannot be granted when fraudulent or illegal object has been carried out and both parties are in pari delicto. (1911) 5 Cal W N 408 (409).

[6] Where the parties have made an agreement and one party records it erroneously, the other party, if he knows at the time that there is an error, acts fraudulently, if he seeks to take advantage of that error, and cannot be allowed to enforce it. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 778 (779) : 61 Cal 548.

[7] After commencement of winding up proceedings of a company, a shareholder cannot have his contract to take shares set aside on the ground of fraud or misrepresentation unless he has not only repudiated his shares, but also taken proceedings to have his name removed or asserted his right to repudiate them in an action by company to enforce calls upon him before liquidation. Even if the contract was voidable on the ground of fraud or misrepresentation if the applicant had ratified it he was debarred from questioning it. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 94 (95) : 1918 Pun Re No 42.

[8] Misrepresentation about subject-matter of contract made not in the contract but collaterally—Remedy is claim for damages for breach of the collateral contract if any. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 113 (114) (PC).

8. Rescission of contract—Effect : See S. 64.

9. Plea of fraud. — [1] In cases of accomplished fraud if only one party acts fraudulently, he cannot be allowed, as plaintiff or defendant, to plead his own fraud. (Vol 23) 1941 Bom 274 (278) : ILR (1941) Bom 575 (FB) & (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 357 (361) : 1 L R (1942) Nag 564 (DB). (No equitable relief, such as a declaration that the plaintiff is the owner of a certain property can be granted when the plaintiff has acted fraudulently.) (Person deliberately conveying his property to defraud others cannot be allowed to set up his fraud against it — He is bound by the deed.)

[2] Where both parties are equally fraudulent, the Courts will refuse to enforce the fraudulent transaction, with the result that— (a) where the plaintiff seeks relief on the allegation and on the basis of joint fraud, his suit will be dismissed; and (b) where he seeks relief by suppressing the fraud, the defendant can plead and prove the common fraud to defeat the plaintiff's claim. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 274 (278) : 1 L R (1941) Bom 575 (FB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 379 (380) (DB). (Fraud of both plaintiff and defendant to defraud pre-emptors—Plaintiff suing to enforce the transaction—Defendant will be allowed to prove want of consideration and also his fraud — Principle of 'pari delicto' applies here to defeat plaintiff's suit.) & (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 259 (260). (Parties to fraud cannot seek Court's assistance.)

Power to set aside contract induced by undue influence.

^a[19A. When consent to an agreement is caused by undue influence, the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused.

Any such contract may be set aside either absolutely or, if the party who was entitled to avoid it has received any benefit thereunder, upon such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem just.

(b) A, a money-lender, advances Rs. 100 to B, an agriculturist, and, by undue influence, induces B to execute a bond for Rs. 200 with interest at 12 per cent. per month. The Court may set the bond aside, ordering B to repay the Rs. 100 with such interest as may seem just.]

SECTION 19A—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Who can avoid the contract.
3. Plea and proof of undue influence.
4. Limitation.

1. Scope.—'Undue influence', though separately treated in Contract Act, is only a branch of a fraud in equity and invites same relief as fraud. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 275 (277) (DB).

[2] Court has power to interfere and relieve a defendant against unconscionable transactions under this section. (1907) 31 Bom 348 (352).

[3] Where a sale deed is executed under circumstances, giving an unfair advantage to the dominating party, that sale deed cannot be upheld in a Court of law. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 63 (65) : 27 Nag L R 19.

[4] There is nothing in law to prevent a joint owner of the property, on reaching majority, accepting and agreeing to a partition of joint property, made during his minority. When such person is persuaded to execute a deed accepting such partition by misrepresentation and undue influence by the person standing in fiduciary relation by concealing material facts such deed is voidable at the instance of such person. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 264 (266, 267) (DB).

[5] Acknowledgment of liability to pay certain sum is not binding, when the executant signed it under intimidation. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 362 (363).

[6] No contract can be avoided merely on the ground that it embodies on unconscionable bargain unless undue influence can be proved by the plaintiff. ('18) 1913 Pun L R No. 305, page 1027 (1031) (DB) & (1910) 4 Sind L R 276 (277) (DB). (High rate of interest—Undue influence not proved—No relief under this section.) & (1908) 32 All 589 (594). (Do.)

2. Who can avoid the contract. — [1] Relief under this section could be granted only to the person whose consent to the contract was induced by undue influence. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 94 (96) (DB).

[2] Contract procured by undue influence is only a voidable one and only gives the person, under undue influence, a right of choice or election. Such right once exercised is exhausted. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 162 (165).

[3] The fact that the party had acted under independent advice will not preclude him from seeking relief under S. 19A. (1911) 34 Mad 7 (10) (DB).

[4] The rights under Ss. 19 and 19A can be exercised by party's legal representatives, unless the party has at the date of death lost it by acquiescence or otherwise. (Vol 23) 1936 All 672 (674) & (Vol 14) 1927 Bom. 384 (387) : 51 Bom 133 (DB). (Per Marten C. J.) & (Vol 5) 1913 Bom 93 (94) : 43 Bom 173 (DB). (A and B, two sisters, brought up by their uncle—Sale-deed executed by them in his favour for inadequate consideration acting under his influence—B dies—A sues to avoid the sale both in her own right and as heiress to B—Held, suit was competent and sale declared void.)

[See also (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 762 (763) (DB). (Plea under S. 19A by way of defence is available to the representative of executant within three years after the contract)]

[5] Transferee of a bond is invested with all the rights of the transferor in respect of the bond, including the right to avoid it under S. 19A on the ground of undue influence. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 105 (106) (DB). (Suit must be brought without undue delay.)

[See however (1918) 1913 Pun L R No. 305, page 1027 (1031) (DB). (Speculator purchasing equity of redemption on chance of getting easy redemption, seeking avoidance of mortgage on ground of undue influence—Held, it was doubtful whether he could set up the plea though original mortgagor could have done so.)]

[6] Where the transferee has brought the land with

Agreement void where both parties are under mistake as to matter of fact.

20. Where both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement, the agreement is void.

Explanation. — An erroneous opinion as to the value of the thing which forms the subject-matter of the agreement is not to be deemed a mistake as to a matter of fact.

Illustrations.

(a) A agrees to sell to B a specific cargo of goods supposed to be on its way from England to Bombay. It turns out that, before the day of the bargain, the ship conveying the cargo had been cast away, and the goods lost. Neither party was aware of these facts. The agreement is void.

(b) A agrees to buy from B a certain horse. It turns out that the horse was dead at the time of the bargain, though neither party was aware of the fact. The agreement is void.

(c) A, being entitled to an estate for the life of B, agrees to sell it to C. B was dead at the time of the agreement, but both parties were ignorant of the fact. The agreement is void.

open eye, the Court will not ordinarily interfere on his behalf. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 105 (106) (DB).

[7] Where a disqualified proprietor whose estate had been taken by Court of Wards under a transaction, and became willing to restore the money advanced to him with interest, the Court under S. 19A would set aside the transaction on those terms. (1902) 5 Oudh Cas 256 (258).

3. Plea and proof of undue influence. — [1] Where undue influence is pleaded, precision should be observed. Unless pleadings make out a case, Court will not investigate. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 107 (109) : 6 Pat L Jour 253 (DB).

[2] If there are facts on record to justify inference of undue influence, the Court has power to administer relief notwithstanding inartistic pleading. All that Court is to see is that adversary of the party pleading undue influence is not taken by surprise. (Vol 13) 1931 Nag 63 (64) : 27 Nag L R 19.

[3] To avoid a contract under S. 16 of the Contract Act a party has to establish not only that the other party was in a position to dominate his will but he must also prove that the other party has used that position to obtain an unfair advantage over him. (Vol 7) 1920 PC 65 (66) : 43 Mad 546 : 47 Ind App 1 (PC) * (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 63 (65) : 27 Nag L R 19. (Transaction being unconscionable along with dominating position — Inference of undue influence may be drawn.)

[4] Unless one of the parties was in a dominant position, mere unconscionableness of bargain alone will not justify a Court to interfere with contract under S. 19A. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 249 (250) (DB) (All).

[5] When a transaction is unconscionable, the burden of proving that the contract was not induced by undue influence is on the person who is in dominant position. (Vol 7) 1920 PC 65 (66) : 43 Mad 546 : 47 Ind App 1 (PC).

[6] Although the plaintiff fails to substantiate his plea of misrepresentation, still that will not disentitle him from getting such relief as under the circumstances proved, he is entitled to. The suit need not be dismissed on account of such failure. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 63 (65) : 27 Nag L R 19.

[7] A plea under the second clause of S. 19A may be allowed to be raised in second appeal and second appellate Court may impose such terms and conditions as may seem just to any order for the contract being set aside. (Vol 12) 1925 All 783 (784) : 47 All 932 (DB).

4. Limitation. — [1] Transfers made by undue influence are voidable under S. 19A and such suits are governed by Art. 91, Limitation Act. (Vol 21) 1934 All 507 (511) (DB).

[2] Where the suit is really one for avoiding a contract on the ground of undue influence, the plaintiff cannot evade for provisions of the law of limitation by framing the suit as one for possession alone. (Vol 21) 1934 All 507 (511) (DB).

SECTION 20 — Synopsis.

1. Applicability and scope.

2. Illustrative cases.

3. Restoration or compensation for advantage received under contract void for mutual mistake. — See S. 65.

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] In order to make agreement void both parties must be under mistake of fact. (Vol 10) 1923 Sind 25 (28).

[2] Where there is a mutual mistake as to a fact, which goes to the root of the contract, and frustrates the object of the agreement, S. 20 will apply and the agreement is void. [5] Though S. 20 deals only with common mistake, as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement and does not cover cases of frustration yet the general principle of frustration may be imported into by construction so as to cover such cases also. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 509 (514) (DB).

[6] Where parties agree to purchase or sell a specific article and it happens that at the time of the agreement the article is not in existence, there is a common mistake as to an essential fact and the agreement is void. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 49 (51) : 45 Bom 1222 (DB).

[10] Mistake known at the time to one party to the contract may be proved, and performance in accordance with the terms of the error will not be compelled. (1904) 28 Bom 421 (426) (DB).

[11] Where the subject-matter of the contract is substantially obtained, S. 20 will not apply. Thus, where, in a sale, the subject-matter of the sale was substantially obtained by the vendee, it was held that the contract need not be set aside, and for the small portion that he did not obtain, compensation could be awarded. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 90 (91).

[3] A Receiver, in a suit, sold by auction certain property under order of the Court. The plaintiff, the highest bidder, deposited in Court the necessary amount. A notice, under the Calcutta Improvement Act, affected the property. Both the parties were unaware of it at the time of sale. Held, that the agreement was void. [4] Plaintiff, purchaser, alleging that price, as stated in written agreement, was in excess of agreed amount, sued to recover difference. Held, suit would not lie, though plaintiff could sue to avoid the contract under S. 20 on the ground that parties to agreement were under mistake in matter of price. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 12 (12).

[5] Suit by municipality for possession of property decreed — Agreement between parties that if plaintiff gave up claim for costs, defendant would deliver possession and would not file appeal — Defendant found to have no right of appeal while making agreement — Held agreement was void under S. 20 or voidable under S. 19. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 511 (512).

[6] Both parties to settlement under Bombay Act VII of 1863 entering into it in belief that plaintiffs were superior holders of all land in village — Settlement, being an agreement is void on ground of common mistake of fact essential to agreement. (1892) 17 Bom 407 (412, 413) (DB).

[7] Defendant offering some stones in the belief that they were genuine emeralds — Plaintiff accepting offer in same belief — After purchase, stones turned out to be pieces of green coloured glass — Agreement held to be void on ground of common mistake regarding fact essential to agreement. [8] Where a person impersonating the real owner forged his signature to mortgage and also confirmed the sale by mortgagee by a similar forgery, it was held that the vendee and mortgagee were under a mistake as to the essential fact that the real owner had executed the mortgage. [9] Per Garth C. J. — Semble — Even if it only appeared that compromise had been entered into and

[10] A lease was executed at a fixed annual rent. Assessment was subsequently enhanced by Government. Lessor sued for recovery of the enhanced rates. It was held that he could not recover the enhanced assessment, as the defendant's liability was fixed by the terms of the lease though both parties believed then that the assessment would not be increased. [12] When parties compromise bona fide believing the right of ownership of the plaintiff but subsequently it is found that no such right existed it will not amount to a mistake. [13] Lessee from Government of a certain village with a condition that proprietary rights will be conferred on the fulfilment of certain terms, sold some lands without a covenant for title. In a suit by dispossessed vendee for compensation it was held there was no material mistake of fact in the case. ('93) 1893 Pun Re No 62, p. 279 (283) (DB).

[14] Subsequent to the contract to supply certain articles but before delivery of goods, the tariff on the goods sold was raised and the vendor refused delivery unless vendee paid the enhanced duty. Held, that the vendor was bound to deliver the goods and the plea of mutual mistake did not exist. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 79 (80) : 11 Rang 201 (DB).

[15] A separate warranty in a contract proves that the matter of the warranty is not an essential part of the contract, so as to render the contract void under S. 20 on the plea of mistake. (1907) 30 Mad 284 (290) (DB).

[16] A document, dated 3rd August 1896, recited that on the security of a ship belonging to the defendants, "now under sail to the Nicobars from Negapatam" a certain sum was lent. Defendants agreed to repay with interest as soon as the ship reached Negapatam, on the expiry of eight months from 23rd July 1896. The ship had left Negapatam on the 23rd and was lost at sea three days thereafter. Plaintiff sued to recover the sum advanced on the plea that the ship was lost even before the contract was concluded and therefore was void under S. 20. Held, that the risk started from the 23rd July as per terms of the agreement, and it was on that date alone that the ship commenced the voyage. Section 20 did not apply. (1902) 25 Mad 561 (566) (DB).

[17] A suit by the Secretary of State for possession was compromised whereby the defendant recognised the title of plaintiff and agreed to be in possession as a lessee. In a subsequent suit for rent the defendant contended that there was mutual mistake regarding the fact of plaintiff's title to the land Held, that the essence of the compromise was the recognition of plaintiff's title, and the question whether there was actually title or not did not matter and therefore a mistake regarding that was not a mistake as to an essential fact. Contract caused by mistake of one party as to matter of fact.

22. A contract is not voidable merely because it was caused by one of the parties to it being under a mistake as to a matter of fact.

[19] Defendant entered into a contract by which he sold certain goods lying with his agent at the plaintiff's town and handed over a delivery note to the plaintiff and on the same day ordering the agent to deliver the goods. Meanwhile the agent had already despatched the goods to the plaintiff by rail which fact was not known to either of the parties to the contract. Plaintiff knowing this subsequently demanded the railway receipts and also offered to pay the purchase money. The defendant refused and sold the goods, as soon as they arrived, at a profit. In the suit by plaintiff for damages it was held that the parties cannot be said to have contracted under a mutual mistake to entitle the defendant to set aside the contract. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 514 (515) (DB).

[20] A compromise decree can be set aside if the agreement embodied therein was brought about by the mistake of both parties and the Court as regards its subject-matter. (1881) 6 Cal 687 (705, 706) (DB).

[21] Mortgage suit was compromised on mortgagee agreeing to take 25 bighas of mortgaged land. A commissioner was appointed to make partition. By a mistake induced by the mortgagor the commissioner gave only 10 bighas to the mortgagee. A decree was passed on the basis of the commissioner's report. In a suit by the mortgagee to set aside the decree, it was held that as the decree as passed did not represent agreement of the parties as to the subject-matter thereof, the decree could be modified. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 155 (157) : 8 Pat 726 (DB).

3. Restoration or compensation for advantage received under contract void for mutual mistakes—See S. 65.

SECTION 21—Note 1

[1] Section 21 deals with only those mistakes of law which give birth to a contract and not any other mistake of law. Therefore, if under a mistake of law, which is not the origin of a contract, a payment is made, then under S. 72 it is refundable. The English Common law rule that a payment under a mistake of law is not recoverable has no application in India. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 245 (249).

[2] An innocent mistake of law also is governed by S. 21. (1907) 1907 All W N 197 (198) (DB).

[3] The construction of a contract is a matter of law—If a party acts under a mistaken view of his rights under a contract, he is not entitled to any relief. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 327 (333, 341) : 22 Pat 220 (DB).

[4] Where mutual mistake is one of law as to the legal rights of any party, S. 21 would apply. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 93 (102).

[5] Ignorance of particular rights, however excusable, is on the same footing as ignorance of general law—Money paid voluntarily with a full knowledge of all the facts, cannot be recovered. (186) 164 Ind Cas 732 (739) (DB) (Cal).

[6] In certain cases, English Courts of Equity relieve against agreements induced by an error of law, but the Indian Contract Act specifically lays down that error of law does not vitiate the contract—Much less will a conveyance, after the lapse of many years, be set aside on the ground that it was induced by error of law, unless there has been misrepresentation or fraud, etc. (1887) 11 Bom 174 (176, 177) (DB) (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 99 (105) : 29 Sind L R 445 (DB). (Compromise in ignorance of law.) (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 836 (838) (DB). (A mortgagee took a mortgage with notice of a previous but unregistered mortgage and got it registered, under the belief that the latter mortgage would get precedence over the first mortgage being registered first—Held that this was mistake as to law in force in British India; that S. 21, Contract Act, applied and that the contract was not voidable) (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 19 (40) (DB). (Compromise in probate proceedings, requiring the probate to be granted in an amended form, for which there was no provision in law—Mistake in law held not sufficient to set aside compromise)

[7] Mortgage for an indefinite period—Provision as to period contravening S. 8 (2), Punjab Alienation of Land Act—Whole mortgage held not void by reason of S. 21. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 630 (632) : 13 Lah 508 (DB).

[8] Where a consumer of electricity pays the bill to the Electricity Supply Company under mistake that the Company had made rules, after all necessary legal preliminaries had been gone through, this is not a mistake as to any law in force in British India and the consumer can recover the amount back. (Vol 26) 1939 Pesh 8 (9).

[9] Mistakes of parties about right of the defendant municipality to acquire land under S. 92, Bombay District Municipalities Act, is one of fact and not of law. (Vol 7) 1920 Sind 59 (60) : 14 Sind L R 22 (DB) (Vol 5) 1918 All 74 (76) : 40 All 619 (DB).

[10] Pure mistake of law, unless it is a mistake bearing upon private or special right of person, resulting in the payment by one person to another, is no ground for relief under S. 72. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 177 (178) (DB).

SECTION 22—Note 1

[1] In the absence of fraud on the part of the defendant inducing the plaintiff to enter into a contract, the mere circumstance that the contract was caused by one of the parties to it (plaintiff) being under a mistake as to a matter of fact, will not make the contract voidable. (1885) 9 Bom 358 (361) (DB).

[2] Any proceeding or order cannot be reopened on the ground of mistake of fact of one of the parties to it. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 670 (672) (DB).

[3] The mistake due to negligence of one of the parties is not sufficient to relieve that party of his own agreement. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 670 (672) (DB).

is fraudulent; or

In each of these cases, the consideration or object of an agreement is said to be unlawful. Every agreement, of which the object or consideration is unlawful, is void.

(a) A agrees to sell his house to B for 10,000 rupees. Here B's promise to pay the sum of 10,000 rupees is the consideration for A's promise to sell the house and A's promise to sell the house is the consideration for B's promise to pay the 10,000 rupees. These are lawful considerations.

(b) A promises to pay B 1,000 rupees at the end of six months if C, who owes that sum to B, fails to pay it. B promises to grant time to C accordingly. Here the promise of each party is the consideration for the promise of the other party, and they are lawful considerations.

(c) A promises, for a certain sum paid to him by B, to make good to B the value of his ship if it is wrecked on a certain voyage. Here A's promise is the consideration for B's payment, and B's payment is the consideration for A's promise; and these are lawful considerations.

(d) A promises to maintain B's child, and B promises to pay A 1,000 rupees yearly for the purpose. Here the promise of each party is the consideration for the promise of the other party. They are lawful considerations.

(e) A, B and C, enter into an agreement for the division among them of gains acquired, or to be acquired, by them by fraud. The agreement is void, as its object is unlawful.

(f) A promises to obtain for B an employment in the public service, and B promises to pay 1,000 rupees to A. The agreement is void as the consideration for it is unlawful.

(g) A, being agent for a landed proprietor, agrees for money, without the knowledge of his principal, to obtain for B a lease of land belonging to his principal. The agreement between A and B is void, as it implies a fraud by concealment by A on his principal.

(h) A promises B to drop a prosecution which he has instituted against B for robbery, and B promises to restore the value of the things taken. The agreement is void, as its object is unlawful.

(i) A's estate is sold for arrears of revenue under the provisions of an Act of the legislature, by which the defaulter is prohibited from purchasing the estate. B, upon an understanding with A, becomes the purchaser, and agrees to convey the estate to A upon receiving from him the price which B has paid. The agreement is void, as it renders the transaction, in effect, a purchase by the defaulter, and would so defeat the object of the law.

(j) A, who is B's mukhtar, promises to exercise his influence, as such, with B in favour of C, and C promises to pay 1,000 rupees to A. The agreement is void, because it is immoral.

(k) A agrees to let her daughter to hire to B for concubinage. The agreement is void, because it is immoral, though the letting may not be punishable under the Indian Penal Code.

[6] The plaintiffs required a steamer to sail from Jeddah 'fifteen days after the Haj' to convey pilgrims to Bombay. They chartered steamer from the defendants. The defendants contracted only with respect to English date. The plaintiffs were under the belief that the date corresponded with fifteenth day after the Haj. On finding the mistake, the plaintiff brought a suit to rectify an alleged mistake — Held that as the mistake was on the plaintiffs' part there could not be rectification. (192) 16 Bom 561 (566)

[7] A kabuliati, at an enhanced rate of rent was executed under a mistake of fact as to the title of the executant. It was acted upon and on the basis of it a claim for ejectment was resisted successfully — Held, if there was any mistake, it was an innocent mistake and as there was no fraud or misrepresentation the kabuliati was binding upon the heir of the executant. 1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Section does not apply to claims founded on tort. (Vol 18) 1931 All 83 (85) : 53 All 316 (D B).

[2] A voidable transaction does not fall within S. 23. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 268 (269) : I L R (1937) Nag 94.

[3] Anything which is not lawful within S. 23 is unlawful for the purposes of an agreement or compromise and a decree incorporating such an agreement or compromise is a nullity. (1909) 2 Ind Cas 865 (878, 874) (All).

[4] A contract which is ultra vires is not necessarily illegal. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 512 (513) : 53 Mad 771 (D B). (Bank prohibited by memorandum of association to lend on mortgage, lending money on mortgage—Contract though ultra vires is not illegal.)

2. Unlawful consideration or object. — [1] To bring a case within the purview of S. 23, it is necessary to show that the object or consideration of the agreement is unlawful. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 840 (850, 851) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 241 (D B).

[2] A presumption of lawfulness exists in first instance in favour of every consideration and the law presumes against illegality to begin with. Therefore, the onus of establishing that a particular consideration is illegal as a matter of fact is on the person who asserts so. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 111 (113) & (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 223 (226) (D B).

[3] The word "object" in S. 23 is distinct from "consideration" and means something aimed at. It means "purpose or design." (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 209 (212) (D B) & (1906) 33 Cal 702 (710).

[4] Section 23 is not concerned with motive. It confines the Court to the object of the transaction and not to the reasons or motives which prompted it. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 305 (311, 312) : I L R (1940) Nag 573 and 618 (F B) & (Vol 17) 1930 All 357 (360, 362) : 52 All 406 (D B). (Fact that contract was entered into in expectation of some ulterior gain would not affect contract which is valid in every other way.)

[5] In determining validity of contract the object of the agreement and not action actually taken under the agreement should be considered. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 349 (350).

[6] Where the object of a contract is illegal, the whole contract is illegal, and no right of action exists in respect of it—The test for determining whether an action lies is to see whether the plaintiff can make out his claim without relying on the illegal transaction to which he was a party. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 24 (25).

[7] When plaintiff proves lawful object and consideration to the promise, defendant cannot set up that he acted illegally by giving his promise in particular manner as Court shall not allow any one to be benefited by his own fraud. (1910) 4 Sind L R 44 (47) (D B).

[8] B, a Hindu, borrowing money from A and bribing certain officer therewith—To pay off A, B obtaining loan from C and executing mortgage in his favour—Purpose of mortgage loan held was not to effect illegal purpose. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 305 (312) : I L R (1940) Nag 573 and 618 (F B).

[9] Preventing estate by legal means from being taken over by Court of Wards is not unlawful purpose. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 529 (555).

[10] Pronote executed by ward of Court though void is lawful consideration for bond executed by his son after his death and after estate had ceased to be under the Court of Wards. (Vol 10) 1923 All 590 (590) (D B).

[11] Where a cantonment board contracts to confer "old grant" tenure upon a person in the cantonment land, the consideration or object of the agreement, even if it is in excess of the powers of the board under the Cantonment Act and the rules thereunder, cannot be said to be unlawful. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 99 (104) (D B).

[12] Judgment-debtor executing bond in consideration of decree-holder refraining from executing decrees for arrears of rent before passing of U. P. Stay of Proceedings (Revenue Courts) Act of 1937 and U. P. Stayed Arrears of Rent (Remission) Act of 1939 : Held that neither consideration nor object of agreement was unlawful. (Vol 28) 1941 All 193 (194) : I L R (1941) All 367.

[14] Loan for gambling—Place of gambling not proved to be public—Play not conducted for purposes of profit by owner of house where it was conducted—Money lent held was recoverable, as not necessarily being for illegal purpose. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 155 (155).

[15] Where the consideration for a contract to pay enhanced rent by tenant to his landlord is the settlement of disputes as to rate of rent and abandonment of still higher claims on the part of landlord, the contract is valid and enforceable. (1911) 11 Ind Cas 699 (700) (DB) (Mad).

[16] Suit for ejectment — Tenant's plea that he was occupancy tenant—Suit compromised—Tenant passing promissory note in consideration of withdrawal of suit—Consideration held not unlawful. (Vol 1) 1914 All 533 (533).

[2] Public policy requires that men of full age, and competent understanding, shall have the utmost liberty of contracting and that their contracts, when entered into freely and voluntarily, shall be valid and that Court should not interfere with this freedom of contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 120 (124) : 27 Oudh Cas 175 (DB).

[3] Just as a contract may be invalid because it is contrary to public policy in its substance or in its purpose, so it may be invalid because it is contrary to public policy in respect of the coercive method of its procurement. This is, perhaps, the true underlying principle and this general rule has been reduced so far as possible to specific rules. Where the instrument of coercion is the doing or threatening of wilfully illegal act of any description, it retains the name of coercion in Indian Statute. But even though the instrument of coercion is not, thus, in itself, illegal, as in the case of a threat of prosecution, it may amount to undue influence and the enforcement of a contract so procured may nevertheless be held, in appropriate cases, to be contrary to public policy. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal. 218 (239) (DB).

[4] The Courts ought to be very cautious in deciding a question of public policy, and though, with the development of public opinion and morality, the doctrine must be applied with necessary variation, each case has to be decided on its own facts. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 22 (24) (DB).

[5] The question whether a contract is opposed to public policy or not is to be decided on general principles only, and not by any consideration of the terms of particular contract. (1909) 32 Mad 185 (190) (DB).

[6] The doctrine of public policy will not be extended beyond the class of cases already covered by it. The Courts cannot invent new heads of public policy (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 328 (339) : 61 Cal 80 (DB). (Doctrine does not apply to case of appointment of servant for a term.) & (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 22 (24) (DB). (Payment of commission by debtor to agent of creditor, who facilitates transaction of heavy loan is legal.) & (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 154 (156) (DB). & (1911) 6 Low Bur Rul 1 (2) (DB).

[7] A person who asks a deed to be declared invalid as being opposed to public policy must prove the grounds which would bring it under S. 23. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 727 (730).

[8] A transaction, to be void as being against public policy, must be found as a fact, in its inception, to amount to or involve an illegality or be of such nature that, if permitted, it will defeat the provisions of the law. (1902) 4 Bom L R 948 (950) (DB).

[9] The plea that a contract is void as being opposed to public policy and illegal, may be raised for the first time in arguments though not pleaded. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 626 (627) (DB).

[10] The question of public policy is one of law and even when the facts have not been fully pleaded by the parties, the Court will deduce them from evidence and apply the doctrine of public policy. (1910) 6 Nag L R 148 (151).

[11] Plea, as to deed being invalid as opposed to public policy is one of mixed law and fact and cannot be raised for first time in second appeal. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 727 (731).

[14] Money paid under agreement opposed to public policy can be recovered. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 409 (410) (DB).

[15] Sections 23, 26 and 27 of the Contract Act cannot be regarded as exhausting all instances of agreements which are contrary to public policy. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 404 (405) : 27 Oudh Cas 100. (Person binding himself by agreement to associate for whole of his life only with certain body of his fellow-men is contrary to public policy.)

[17] Champertous agreements are, in their essence, speculative; and fairness or otherwise of a particular bargain is to be decided regard being had to the value of property and the commercial value of claim. The proportion to be retained by the claimant is an important matter to be considered while judging the fairness of a bargain made at a time when result of litigation is problematical. 15. Stifling prosecution.—[1] Stifling prosecution is well recognised as opposed to public policy. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 173 (174) : 43 Cri L Jour 734.

[2] The essential element in stifling a prosecution is the tampering with the administration of justice by a private individual. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 519 (521) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 840 (850) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 241 (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 455 (456) (DB).

[3] An agreement, the object of which is to stifle a prosecution, is against public policy. (1904) 28 Bom 326 (329) (DB) * (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (234) (DB) * (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 196 (197) * (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 686 (687) (DB) (Mortgage.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 635 (635) : 37 Mad 385 (Pro-note) * (Vol 18) 1926 Oudh 40 (40) Pro-note. * (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 243 (243) : 26 Oudh Cas 378. (Pro-note) * (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 278 (279) : 17 Oudh Cas 213 * (1910) 6 Nag L R 148 (151).

[4] In regard to agreements to stifle prosecutions, it is of the essence of the defence that the defendant should establish a contract, whereby the proposed or actual prosecutor agrees, as part of the consideration received or to be received by him, either not to bring or to discontinue criminal proceedings for some alleged offence. It is, of course, impossible for such a contract to be made unless both parties know of the proposed or actual proceedings. Proof that there has actually been crime committed is obviously unnecessary. But it is also of course necessary that each party should understand that the one is making his promise in exchange or part exchange, for the promise of the other not to prosecute or continue proceeding. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 95 (96) : I L R (1941) Kar (P C) 141 : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 1 : 68 Ind App 144 (P C).

[See also (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 223 (224) (DB). (Mere possibility of talk of criminal proceedings at some stage or another will not make transaction illegal.) * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 658 (658) : I L R (1937) Mad 471.]

[5] If it be an implied term of a deed that criminal complaint would not be further proceeded with, then the consideration for the deed is unlawful, quite irrespective of the fact, whether any prosecution in law has been started or there is something for which it is to be dropped. It is also not necessary that the agreement to settle criminal prosecution should be expressly stated as part of the consideration. It is enough if the inference necessarily follows from the evidence that the consideration was such. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 573 (575) : 19 Pat 424 (DB).

[6] The question whether there was, or was not, an agreement to stifle prosecution is one of fact (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (245) (DB). (Such an agreement will seldom be set out in paper and perhaps, more often than not be only an implied one.)

[7] Transaction entered into with object of stifling criminal prosecution—Object achieved—Parties not in fiduciary relationship — Both parties in pari delicto — One of the parties cannot repudiate transaction. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 24 (26).

[8] An agreement to compound a non-compoundable offence is forbidden by law, and when such an agreement will constitute the consideration for or be the object of, an agreement the latter will fail to develop into a contract. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (234) (DB).

[9] Where an offence is non-compoundable, an agreement, the purpose of which is to compound that offence, is illegal as opposed to public policy (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 82 (84) : I L R (1945) Bom 208 * (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 173 (176) : 43 Cri L Jour 734 * (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 349 (350). [10] If, even a part of the consideration of an agreement is shown to be the stifling of a non-compoundable offence, the agreement must be held to be void. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 197 (205) : I L R (1943) Kar 49 (DB) * (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 173 (174) : 43 Cri L Jour 724.

[11] In deciding the question as to whether the consideration for an agreement was the settlement of the pending criminal cases the Court cannot be confined to the terms of the agreement. The whole evidence must be examined. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (342) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB).

[12] Where the consideration for an agreement is a promise not to prosecute for an offence, which is non-compoundable the agreement is not enforceable (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 413 (414, 416) : 57 Bom 478 (DB) * (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 662 (662) : 44 Cri L Jour 29 : I L R (1943) Mad 183 (DB). [13] An agreement not to prosecute for a non-compoundable offence, is not enforceable only where the consideration for the agreement was clearly such an illegal promise (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 413 (414, 416) * (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 502 (503) : 1 Pat 164 (DB) * (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 454 (455) : 2 Pat L Jour 630 (DB).

[16] It is not enough that the motive which impelled the party, who undertook the liability under the agreement, was that a pending criminal case should be withdrawn. The test to be applied is whether it was an express or implied term of the bargain between the parties that a non-compoundable criminal case should not be proceeded with. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 82 (84) : I L R (1945) Bom 208 * (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 840 (850) : I L R (1939) 1 Cal 241 (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 All 318 (318) : 49 All 540 (DB).

[17] The fact that the prosecution was actually withdrawn as a result of the execution of the bond does not necessarily show that the object or consideration of the bond was the stifling of the criminal case. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 840 (850) : ILR (1939) 1 Cal 241 (DB).

[18] Agreement between husband and wife, pending criminal case against husband by wife's brother relating to a non-compoundable offence, is valid, provided, it is made independently of the criminal case. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 33 (34).

[19] Where security is given by an outsider, who is under no existing obligation, the consideration could be nothing else but withdrawing of the criminal case and as such, the security is not entertainable in law (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 840 (851) : ILR (1939) 1 Cal 241 (DB).

[20] Where the withdrawal of the complaint is due to the debtor having executed a pronote in favour of the creditor, but such withdrawal is not the consideration of the pronote, the pronote is not invalid. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 530 (533).

[21] It is not necessarily unlawful to agree to withdraw a criminal complaint of a non compoundable offence; because, it may have been withdrawn because complainant had very little chance to succeed in establishing his case. (Vol 16) 1929 All 456 (457).

[22] Sale of property, for raising money, to be given to third party as bribe, to induce him to withdraw criminal charge against vendor — Vendee not party to unlawful agreement — Sale held valid. (1832) 8 Cal 24 (28) (DB).

[23] Contract for payment of money in respect of which a criminal prosecution is pending is not by itself opposed to public policy, where there is a civil liability. The consideration and object of such a contract is not illegal within the meaning of S. 23. The withdrawal of the prosecution in the case might be the motive but is not the object or consideration so as to render the agreement illegal. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 421 (422) (DB) * (Vol 23) 1941 Oudh 593 (596) (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 840 (851) : ILR (1939) 1 Cal 241 (DB) * (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 105 (106) (DB) * (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 541 (543) : 13 Lah 356 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 416 (417) * (Vol 17) 1930 All 826 (826) (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 564 (565) (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 7 (7) * (1928) 107 Ind Cas 605 (606) (Lah) * (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 364 (365, 366).

[24] A man, to whom a debt is due may take security for that debt from his debtor, even though the debt arises out of a non-compoundable offence, and he threatens to prosecute for that offence, provided, he does not in consideration of such security agree not to prosecute and such an agreement will not be inferred from the creditor using strong language. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 413 (416) : 57 Bom 678 (DB) * (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (224) (DB) * (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (341, 342) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB) * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 656 (658, 659) : ILR (1937) Mad 471 * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 231 (232) * (1926) 94 Ind Cas 465 (468) (DB) (All) * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 455 (456) (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 59 (64) : 53 Cal 51 (DB) * (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 278 (279) : 17 Oudh Cas 213 * (06) 1906 Pun Re No. 9, p. 29 (37) * (1901) 1901 Pun Re No. 41, p. 119 (123, 124) (DB) * (1912) 8 Nag L R 97 (104).

[25] In cases of agreement to stifle prosecutions, the fact that there was a debt really due from the accused to the complainant, is irrelevant if the agreement to abandon a prosecution is part of the consideration for payment of the debt. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 95 (96) : 68 Ind App 144 : ILR (1941) Kar (PC) 141 : ILR (1942) 1 Cal 1 (PC).

[26] A creditor must not, by stifling prosecution, obtain a guarantee for his debt. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 413 (416) : 57 Bom 678 (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 59 (64) : 53 Cal 51 (DB).

[27] If the agreement as to the civil liability changes the nature or the extent of the original civil liability; for example, if the guarantee of a surety is introduced or if the liability is changed from a personal one to a mortgage security, this will be an indication that the agreement is not merely in settlement of the original civil liability, but that it is one made under pressure and in return for an agreement not to prosecute. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (342, 343) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB).

[28] A reference is invalid and the award which followed would be inoperative when the reference is the result of an understanding between the parties to abandon the prosecution of a non-compoundable case. [29] If it is an implied term of the reference to arbitration of a civil dispute that the criminal complaint would not be further proceeded with, then the consideration of the reference is invalid, whether any prosecution had been started or not. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 100 (102) : 57 Ind App 117 : 57 Cal 1302 (PC). ((Vol 13) 1926 Cal 519, Reversed.)

[30] Where the partners agree to refer their whole dispute concerning the partnership to arbitration, the agreement does not become void under S. 23 simply because a criminal prosecution under S. 406, Penal Code, is pending against one of the partners at the instance of the other partners, and in pursuance of such an agreement the prosecution is dropped. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 465 (466).

[31] In case of offence compoundable with or without Court's leave, agreement between complainant or prosecutor and accused, or person interested in his welfare, to withdraw prosecution, is not against public policy and is therefore valid. Void Agreements.

Agreements void if consideration and objects unlawful in part.

24. If any part of a single consideration for one or more objects, or any one or any part of any one of several considerations for a single object, is unlawful, the agreement is void.

Illustration.

A promises to superintend, on behalf of B, a legal manufacture of indigo and an illegal traffic in other articles. B promises to pay to A a salary of 10,000 rupees a year. The agreement is void, the object of A's promise, and the consideration for B's promise, being in part unlawful.

SECTION 24—Synopsis

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Distinct Covenants—Severability.
3. Mortgage transaction.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] One entire consideration for two several contracts, one of them for doing illegal act.—The whole is void. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang. 45 (47) : 1939 Rang L R 711 (DB).

[2] Section 24 does not apply to a transfer of immovable property. (Vol 21) 1934 All 246 (249) (DB) (Vol 23) 1935 Oudh 501 (505) (DB) (Vol 17) 1930 All 1 (3) : 52 All 338 (FB). (Where, however, the object of the consideration of the transfer is unlawful, as that word is defined in S. 23, the transfer is not effective.)

[3] Section 24 does not apply to cases of an out and out transfer. (Vol 12) 1925 All 474 (476).

[4] Section 24 has no application to a contract which is a single contract and has no contingent part. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 47 (49).

[5] There is nothing in Ss. 23 and 24 to support the view that a sale, made with the view to defeat a probable execution, would be a sale with a fraudulent and unlawful object, and, therefore, void. (1879-80) 4 Bom 70 (73) (DB).

[6] Section 24 has no application to promises which are offered in the alternative. Such a case is expressly provided for in S. 53 under which in the case of an alternative promise, one branch of which is legal and the other illegal, the legal branch alone can be enforced. (Vol 18) 1931 All 589 (592) (DB).

[7] The bad part may be rejected and the good retained. A bond may be good though consideration is partly good and partly illegal. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat. 306 (409) : 12 Pat 359 (DB) (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 270 (271) (DB) (11) 10 Ind Cas 465 (465) (All).

[8] Section 24 has no applicability to a case where the plaintiff is seeking to enforce an equity in respect of a perfectly valid security. (Vol 4) 1917 All 290 (292) : 39 All 539 (DB). (Per Walsh J.) (Vol 22) 1935 All 862 (863) : 58 All 230 (DB).

[9] Where, after the marriage, the Muhammadan husband agreed by a kabi nama in favour of his wife that he would do nothing without the permission of his wife, that if he so did, she would be at liberty to divorce him, that he would pay over to her the whole of the money which he might earn during the time the marriage continued, and so on: Held, in a suit by the wife to enforce such a contract, that S. 24 did not apply, there being nothing unlawful in the consideration for the agreement whether it was the marriage or the natural love and affection between the parties arising from the relation created by the marriage. (1875) 15 Beng L R (App) 5 (7).

[10] Part of transaction without necessary sanction of Magistrate—Whole is invalid. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 283 (283) (DB).

[11] Debtors executing bond with interest at high rate—One of them to render service without pay till bond becoming payable—Consideration as to render service is unlawful—Contract being indivisible is void. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 249 (250) : 3 Pat L Jour 412 (DB).

[12] Defendant agreed, by a kabuliat, to pay the plaintiff an enhanced rent by more than two annas in the rupee, thus contravening provisions of S. 29 (b), Bengal Tenancy Act. The plaintiff contended that the decree be given for so much of the enhanced rent as does not exceed the two annas in the rupee. Held, the contract was to pay the enhanced rent; the contract, qua the payment of the enhanced rent, did not consist of two parts. The contract was not severable and, therefore, was void. (1897) 24 Cal 895 (896) (DB).

[13] Pending a criminal prosecution against the defendant, his pleader stood bail for his appearance in the Criminal Court; and to indemnify the pleader against any loss which he as bailee might suffer, a nominal sale-deed and a nominal rent-note were passed to the pleader's relative, the plaintiff. In a rent suit by the plaintiff: Held (1) that contract for indemnifying the pleader for his bail-bond was illegal, and this illegality rendered sale-deed void in law; (2) that rent-note was tainted with same illegality which affected sale-deed and could not stand on any separate footing; (3) that agreement was indivisible agreement; part of a single consideration for one object was unlawful and therefore whole agreement was void under S. 24, Contract Act, 1872. (1908) 32 Bom 449 (453, 454) (DB).

[14] Where the finding of the Court was to the effect that the consideration for the promissory notes was, at least in part, losses to the plaintiffs in respect of gambling debts and the Court could not ascertain the exact proportion of such consideration: Held, the whole of the suit was properly dismissed. ('13) 35 All 558 (559) (DB).

[15] If adultery, past or future, is consideration or indivisible part of the consideration for an agreement, such agreement is illegal and the contract would be void. (1905) 27 All 266 (269).

[16] Consideration for an agreement by a person to pay a certain sum of money to a prostitute, if she allowed him to cohabit with her, is immoral and unlawful and the contract is, therefore, void under S. 24, Contract Act, although a contract to compensate made about past cohabitation can come under cl. (2) of S. 25, Contract Act, even though the consideration for it is unlawful under S. 23. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 71 (71, 72).

[17] Where an agreement between parties creates a false evidence to defeat the succession of real owner to property and also purports to compound a non-compoundable case no suit lies under S. 65, Contract Act, to recover any money advanced in pursuance of agreement. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 54 (59, 60) (DB).

[18] Client agreeing to pay pleader money and part of the suit property as Inam for "religious purposes"—Held, that in spite of the words "religious purposes" the consideration for the services of the pleader was the money agreed to be paid and the gift of part of the property in suit. Agreement being inseparable the whole of it was void. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom. 470 (470, 471): 49 Bom 619 (DB).

[19] Objects one of which is unlawful if inseparable the whole agreement is void. ('34) 1934 Mad W N 568 (573) (DB).

[20] Transfer of occupancy holding is forbidden by law and contract, a part of consideration for which is such a transfer, is void. ('13) 13 Ind Cas 9 (10) (All).

[21] Where it is brought to notice of Court that whole part of consideration for contract sought to be enforced was for illegal purpose, Court is bound to take notice of such fact and to give effect to it, notwithstanding the fact that contract might appear on the face of it to be perfectly legal contract and that no question of illegal consideration was raised in pleadings by defendant. (1905) 27 All 266 (270).

[22] Provision in a will or contract partly for illegal purposes can stand though not separated from valid purposes. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 119 (121) (PC). (Case from Honduras and not under Indian Contract Act).

[23] Where contract is legal and as evidence of contract something illegal is done, the whole contract cannot be said to be illegal. Signature of one of the executants of pronote forged by other—Plaintiff lender concurring — Intention not to cheat executant whose signature was forced — Contract is not wholly void—Plaintiff can succeed against party who had really executed pronote. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 929 (931).

2. Distinct covenants—Severability.—[1] Where the various promises of the two parties are quite interdependent, one large part of the contract, if void, vitiate the whole. (Vol 9) 1922 Upp Bur 9 (11): 4 Upp Bur. Rul 110.

[2] Where a part of the consideration is unlawful, then general rule is that when you cannot sever the illegal from the legal part of a contract, the contract is altogether void. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 132 (134): 57 Bom 278 (DB).

[3] In an agreement, if different classes are separable, the fact that one clause is void does not necessarily cause the other classes to fail. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 264 (265) (DB) & (Vol 20) 1933 All 468 (470). (There is nothing in the terms of S. 24 to prohibit the creditor from enforcing that part of the agreement which the borrower was competent to make.) & (Vol 17) 1930 All 1 (3): 52 All 338 (FB). (Where part is within competence of promisor, promisee can enforce the part enforceable.) & (Vol 4) 1917 All 290 (291, 292): 39 All 539 (DB). (Section 24 does not render wholly invalid a mortgage by one deed of the mortgagor's occupancy holding which by law he has no right to mortgage and his fixed rate tenancy which he can validly mortgage.) & ('10) 7 All L Jour 778 (781). (The compromise consisting separate and distinct portion is lawful excepting the unlawful portion.)

[4] Agreement to pay additional rent for increase in area and an agreement to pay enhanced rent for release of an obligation by the tenant in same instrument — Former agreement void—Validity of the latter agreement is not affected. Where in the same instrument there are distinct engagements by which a party binds himself to do certain acts some of which are legal and some illegal the performance of those legal can be enforced. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 171 (177, 178) (DB).

[5] There is distinction between contract and transfer in pursuance of contract. Section 24 does not apply to transfers under Transfer of Property Act. Where, therefore, transfer of several items of properties can be split up and separated, the whole transaction is not void because one part of it is vitiated. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 501 (504, 505) (DB).

[6] Debtor alienating property though restrained under Sch. 3, Para. 11, Civil P. C.—Such transfer is no transfer in law — But agreement contained in such transfer deed to repay money from his person is enforceable. (Vol 20) 1933 All 468 (470, 472) (DB).

[7] If sale and surrender form part of same transaction but are separable, sale is not void though surrender is void. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 6 (7): 27 Nag L R 113.

[8] Where a suit was based upon a bond for a certain sum of money, part of which was interest upon the amount covered by the first bond, and it was agreed in the second bond that the whole amount of the consideration as mentioned in the bond should bear interest. Held, that the obligee can recover such sums of money as in law he is entitled to recover, notwithstanding that part of the consideration is compound interest which could not, under the law in Sonthal Parganas, be decreed by Courts. (1899) 26 Cal 238 (240) (DB).

[9] Where the sale of lands and surrender of occupancy rights therein were both contended to be void as being one transaction and intended to defeat the Tenancy law. Held that the surrender was separable from the sale and the former alone was void. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag. 302 (304): 22 Nag L R 136 (DB).

Agreement without consideration void, unless—

25. An agreement made without consideration is void unless—

- (1) it is expressed in writing, and registered under the law for the time being in force for the registration of [documents]^a and is made on account of natural love and affection between parties standing in a near relation to each other, or unless
- (2) it is a promise to compensate, wholly or in part, a person who has already voluntarily done something for the promisor, or something which the promisor was legally compellable to do, or unless
- (3) it is a promise, made in writing, and signed by the person to be charged therewith, or by his agent generally or specially authorized in that behalf, to pay wholly or in part a debt of which the creditor might have enforced payment but for the law for the limitation of suits.

In any of these cases such an agreement is a contract.

Explanation 1.—Nothing in this section shall affect the validity, as between the donor and donee, of any gift actually made.

Explanation 2.—An agreement to which the consent of the promisor is freely given is not void merely because the consideration is inadequate; but the inadequacy of the consideration may be taken into account by the Court in determining the question whether the consent of the promisor was freely given.

Illustrations.

(a) A promises, for no consideration, to give to B Rs. 1,000. This is a void agreement.

(b) A, for natural love and affection, promises to give his son, D, Rs. 1,000. A puts his promise to B into writing, and registers it. This is a contract.

Section 24 (contd.)

[10] The void part of an agreement would not invalidate the rest of the agreement if it could be properly separated from it. But where the parties thereto have treated the two debts as a lump sum the contract must be regarded as an integral one and void. (1885) 9 Bom 176 (179) (DB).

[11] Wrestling match — Agreement that party failing to appear should pay certain sum and the winner should get the gate money — Former being legal and separate from the other illegal one, is enforceable. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 264 (265) (DB).

[12] Bond agreeing to repay money on a certain date—Further condition that if money was not repaid on that date the creditor to enter into possession of plaintiff's cultivatory holding as a usufructuary mortgage—Whole contract is not illegal though the latter covenant was contrary to the provisions of the Tenancy Act, and the plaintiff could get money decree. (Vol 11) 1924 All 80 (80) : 45 All 621 (DB).

3. Mortgage transaction. — [1] While an application for execution was pending, the defendants executed a mortgage for satisfaction of judgment-debt providing for payment in excess of the decretal amount. The mortgage was for an amount S and bore an interest at 9 p. c. p. m. on the whole amount. In a suit to recover the amount of mortgage, with future interest, one of the pleas raised by the plaintiff was that so far as the provisions of S. 13, cl. (c), Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act went, the only time that could at the most be deleted is the clause in the mortgage as to provision for interest. Held, the money that was agreed to be paid in consideration of the mortgage, is the entire sum of money mentioned as principal in the deed along with interest on it and it was not permissible to split up the consideration. The mortgage therefore was void. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 237 (239) (DB).

[2] Mortgage of occupancy holdings with other properties legally transferable, for single consideration—Mortgage given possession of occupancy lands not transferable. Suit to recover possession of the remaining lands—Held that, he was not entitled to seek any relief in Court at all as part of mortgage contract was illegal. (Vol 12) 1925 All 543 (544) : 47 All 780 (DB).

[3] Mortgage of occupancy holding with covenant for indemnity if mortgagee is not paid.—As the two portions of the deed were inseparable and the mortgage of the occupancy holding being illegal, the covenant also could not be enforced. (Vol 8) 1921 All 392 (392) : 43 All 81 (DB).

[4] If a usufructuary mortgage of an occupancy holding is void a personal covenant to that effect embodied in the deed is also void and unenforceable. (Vol 9) 1922 All 134 (135) : 44 All 486 (DB) * (29) 27 All L Jour 479 (480). (If, however, the mortgage was to come into existence on the breach of a personal covenant to pay, the failure of the mortgage would not lead to the failure of the personal covenant.) * (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 186 (187). (Even money decree cannot be passed against mortgagor for mortgage which is illegal under S. 6 (d), T. P. Act.)

[5] In a contract where one of several considerations moving from the defendant was the mortgage of reversionary interest which was illegal under S. 6 (d), T. P. Act: Held, the whole agreement was void. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 230 (232) : 20 Oudh Cas 155.

(g) A agrees to sell a horse worth Rs. 1,000 for Rs. 10. A denies that his consent to the agreement was freely given. The inadequacy of the consideration is a fact which the Court should take into account in considering whether or not A's consent was freely given.

[2] This section is exhaustive; so that, instances of agreements wanting in contractual capacity, agreements by bankrupts, after they had obtained final discharge to pay their debts, and promise to pay time-barred debts cannot be placed on the same footing, as done in English law. Certain agreements, like agreements to pay time barred debts, are made valid under Indian law; while they are illegal contracts under English law. (1906) 16 Mad L Jour 422 (425).

[3] An agreement without consideration is void under this section and therefore, it cannot be enforced. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1102 (1102)* (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 169 (170) (DB). [8] An agreement executed by the father after his son's marriage that he would pay maintenance to the son's wife on the happening of certain event was held to be one without consideration. (11) 1911 Pun L R No. 245, page 910 (911, 912).

[9] An agreement to take less than what is due and to give time for payment being without any consideration is a mere nudum pactum, and cannot be binding in law. Section 63 cannot validate such an agreement as that section cannot override the provisions of S. 25. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 144 (144) : 6 Rang 191 (DB).

[See however (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 660 (666). (Agreement to give up a portion of claim needs no consideration.)]

[10] Subscriptions were raised from persons of the caste of plaintiff and defendant for festival but it was not in consequence of any prior agreement by defendants that plaintiff incurred obligations. There was not any promise by defendants to compensate plaintiff for something done by him for defendants. Held, the promise by defendants to pay was purely voluntary for no legal consideration and payment could not be enforced as payment of money due under contract. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 330 (330).

[14] Where an arrangement has been arrived at between certain members of the family that is designed to promote peace and good will among certain of its members, this, by itself, is a good consideration to support the transaction. [15] Whenever a third person undertakes the liability of another, in whom he is interested, the third person's promise cannot, in law, be considered as being made without consideration or vitiated by illegality. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 223 (225) (DB).

[2] A compromise of a doubtful claim or right is a sufficient foundation for an agreement. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (94) (FB)* (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 539 (543). 4. Negotiable instruments.—[1] Presumption that there was a consideration for executing a bond, can only arise under S. 118 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, and a bond executed by a minor, being void is not a negotiable instrument, nor can such a presumption ever arise with regard to a contract made by a minor. (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 14 (15).

5. Clause (1).—[1] 'Parties standing in a near relation' do not mean 'near relatives' only. The parents of a Mahomedan lady stand in a near relation to her husband and an agreement to pay them certain maintenance is a valid disposition within S. 25 (1). (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 146 (146, 147) (DB).

[2] A suit is not maintainable by a wife for an allowance for maintenance on an agreement, for which the sole consideration is a stipulation that the wife is not to communicate with or molest her husband. In such a case there can be no question of S. 25, Contract Act, applying; for obviously no natural love and affection can exist between the parties. The wife must establish some valid and legal consideration for any such agreement. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 501 (503).

[3] Husband promising to pay wife for maintenance, and separate residence, by a registered deed, which stated certain quarrels and disagreements as the cause, which were not enough to entitle the wife to claim the amount under Hindu law : Held, that the agreement was without consideration and S. 25, cl. (1) did not apply as the agreement was not made on account of natural love and affection, the document showing quite a contrary state of affairs. (1900) 4 Cal W N 488 (490) (SB).

[4] Where a person undertakes by means of a registered document, out of natural love and affection, to discharge the debt due by another and, on the former failing to do so, the debtor himself discharges the debt, the debtor is entitled to recover from such person the amount paid by him to discharge the debt, as the breach of the obligation becomes actionable under S. 25. (1903) 13 Mad L Jour 428 (428) (DB).

[5] A sued B, his brother, who was on bad terms with him, for a half share in certain ancestral property—Suit dismissed on oath of B that property was not ancestral—Subsequently, B executing a registered document by which he agreed to give half share to A—Suit by A to recover share—Held that the agreement was valid under S. 25 (1) as B had such natural love and affection for his brother that he was willing to give him the property in order to be reconciled to him—Held also that the document was a valid gift or family settlement. (1899) 1 Bom L R 495 (497) (DB).

[6] Father executing mashahara patra in favour of widowed daughter providing for monthly allowance and charging certain property with its payment—Allowance not to be allowed to fall into arrears for more than one year—Grantee restricted from bringing suit for more than one year—Mashahara patra held to be agreement within S. 25 (1) and the restrictive condition was void under S. 28. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 720 (721) (DB).

[7] Where a person settles an annuity upon his alleged wife who was not validly married to him, the settlement cannot be construed to be a contract for consideration of love and affection but is a gift pure and simple and no consideration is necessary. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 34 (35) (PC).

6. "Agent generally or specially authorised in that behalf."—[1] Section 25 (3) specifically requires that the person renewing a time-barred debt must be either the person himself or his agent generally or specially authorised in that behalf. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 464 (465) * (1882) 11 Cal L R 581 (583) (DB).

[2] A power of "mookhtarnama" to pay debts, or to secure debts, or otherwise to deal with debts, is prima facie a power to deal with existing debts, and it does not authorize the agent to revive time-barred debts. (1882) 11 Cal L R 581 (554) (DB).

[3] Executor can promise to pay the deceased's time-barred debts. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 539 (544).

[4] A Hindu father or grandfather can pass a promissory note for a time-barred debt and such a note constitutes a binding contract under S. 25 (3) even on the sons and grandsons. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 522 (523) * (Vol 9) 1922 All 402 (402) : 44 All 628 (DB). (Execution of bond by father in lieu of time barred debt is binding on son.)

[5] A guardian of an infant cannot make a promise to pay a time-barred debt. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 850 (852) (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 464 (465). (De facto guardian — No presumption that he is generally or specially authorised to renew a time-barred debt.)

[6] Agent to Court of Wards has no authority to bind a minor by promise under S. 25 (3) to pay debt barred by limitation. (1896) 19 Mad 255 (257) (DB).

[7] The Deputy Commissioner, acting on behalf of the Court of Wards, is not an agent authorised to pay a time-barred debt of the ward. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 107 (110) : 15 Luck 308 (DB).

[8] Pleador's statement in Court, promising payment of time-barred debts on certain conditions, does not bind his client in absence of special authority. The statement is not a new contract within S. 25 especially when it is not signed. (Vol 11) 1924 All 12 (15) (DB).

7. 'Debt,' meaning of. — [1] The word 'debt' in S. 25 must be taken to have been used in its ordinary meaning of a sum payable in respect of money demand recoverable by action. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1145 (1146) : 40 Mad 31 (FB) * (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 212 (213) : 13 Lah 448 (DB).

[2] Word 'debt' in S. 25 (3) includes a judgment-debt — Execution — Application filed when decree was barred by limitation — Application by judgment-debtor stating that he has failed to pay instalments owing to his illness, and that he agrees to pay the decretal amount by monthly instalments to which the decree-holder has agreed, and that execution should be stayed for the present, is a promise to pay a barred debt. (1881) 3 All 781 (785) (DB) * (1890) 14 Bom 390 (391, 392) (DB) * (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 388 (389) : 50 Cal 974 (DB). (A promise for consideration to be acted on when previous judgment is barred is valid, even when not in writing.) * (1879) 4 Cal 500 (506, 508) (DB).

[3] The liability of a member of a joint family to have his property sold for a debt contracted by the manager for the joint family purpose and binding on the joint family property is a debt within the meaning of S. 25. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 23 (24, 26, 27) : 45 Mad 345 (DB).

[4] A promise to pay amount which might be found due by arbitrator on taking accounts of the partnership between parties does not amount to a promise to pay debt under this section. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1145 (1146) : 40 Mad 31 (FB).

8. Clause (2). — [1] This clause appears to cover cases where a person without the knowledge of the promisor, or otherwise than at his request, does the latter some service and the promisor undertakes to recompense him for it. In such cases the promise does not need a consideration to support it. (1896) 20 Bom 755 (758) (DB).

[2] Where a man promises to pay a woman an allowance in consideration of past co-habitation, he merely undertakes to compensate for past services voluntarily rendered to him. (1881) 3 All 787 (788) (DB) * (1875-77) 1 All 478 (480) (DB). (Registered settlement creating charge on estate for annuity in consideration of past-cohabitation — Agreement is not void for want of consideration.) * (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 71 (72). (Obiter.)

[But see (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 135 (137) (DB). (Such agreement will not come under S. 25 (2) as the services must be deemed to have been rendered at the request of the promisor and not voluntarily.)]

[3] A contract entered into by a minor is null and void and any consideration received by the minor cannot be a good consideration for a fresh promise by him after attaining majority. Such promise does not fall under S. 25 (2) and therefore cannot be expressed. (Vol 15) 1928 All 440 (441) : 51 All 164 (FB). (Mukerji J., contra.) * (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 159 (160) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 561 (565) : 16 Lah 546 (FB). (Overruling (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 37; (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 205 : 2 Lah 263 (DB); ('11) 1911 Pun Re No. 31 (DB) and ('88) 1888 Pun Re No. 86 (DB).) * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 24 (25, 26) (DB) * (1906) 16 Mad L Jour 422 (423) (DB). (Subsequent ratification of contract entered into by a minor cannot form a valid contract.) * (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 14 (15) * (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 123 (125). (Do.)

(Vol 20) 1933 All 659 (660) (DB).

[5] Where plaintiff had voluntarily expended money for establishing a market, to please District authorities, and not at the request of defendants (shopkeepers) or for their benefit, agreement by defendants to pay plaintiff in consideration of such expenditure certain commission on articles sold through their agency in such market, is one that does not come within S. 2 (d) of Contract Act, and is void for want of consideration. (1881) 3 All 221 (227) (DB).

[6] X agreed to pay Y Rs. 5 per mensem for life in consideration of Y having trained X in the art of singing and dancing at his own cost. It was found that Y's sister and not Y himself had rendered those services for X. In a suit by Y it was held that, as Y himself had done nothing for defendant, there was no consideration for the agreement and therefore it was unenforceable. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 80 (81).

[7] A Mohamadan son based his claim upon a Rukka written by his father by which he was appointed manager of his father's shop and the Rukka was not gratuitous but was by way of remuneration for work done. The Rukka was written by the father under the apprehension of immediate death and was against the rule of Muhamadan law : Held, that the agreement was without consideration and it did not fall under cl. (2) of S. 25 as it was not a promise to compensate one who had voluntarily done something for the promisor. ('93) 1893 Pun Re (Cri.) No. 61, page 272 (272) (DB).

[8] Agreement to pay a certain annuity to a person in consideration of past services rendered by him voluntarily and also for future services that might be rendered by him — No promise to render future services by such person — Held, that the agreement so far as regards future services was without consideration and that with regard to past services was valid under S. 25 (2) — The agreement being one and indivisible was wholly void. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 765 (766) (DB).

[9] Two joint Hindu brothers applied to have their property taken up under Court of Wards and while it was being so managed an agreement was made between them whereby one of them H. D., became manager of the property with an allowance of Rs. 12000 per annum and ceded to the other, S. D., absolutely and unconditionally, his interest in the family property. Held, that the agreement between the brothers was not bad for want of consideration, as S. D., had foregone the profits of his share of property during the management of Court of Wards and that he refrained from suing his brother for an account after the cessation of management by Court of Wards; and even if it were not so, the agreement would be good either under S. 25, Cl. (2) or under S. 70 of the Act, (1895) 17 All 264 (269, 271) (DB).

9. Promise to perform existing obligation. —

[1] Promise to pay what the promisor is already under an obligation to pay is without consideration. Any separate promise to pay the amount at a particular place must be supported by consideration before it can be legally enforced. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 101 (102) : 9 Low Bur Rul 75.

[2] No right of suit arises, where a person promises a pleader any extra money for winning the case, after his remuneration is fixed and he has been engaged on his behalf. The promise has no consideration. (1871) 3 N W P H C R 25 (26) (DB) * (1877-78) 2 Bom 362 (364) (DB).

[See (1880-81) 5 Bom 258 (261) (DB). (Agreement for further remuneration before acceptance of Vakalat-nama—Agreement not void for want of consideration as it constitutes one transaction.)]

10. Promise to pay time-barred debt.—Cl. (3).—

[1] A time barred debt, can form a good consideration because the debt is not extinguished although the remedy is lost. (Vol 16) 1929 All 657 (657) (DB) * (1912) 16 Cal W N 636 (638). (The promise to pay may be conditional or absolute.) * (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 633 (634) (DB).

[2] A promise to pay time-barred debt referred to in this clause constitutes novation of the contract which can form the basis of a suit independently of the original debt. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 287 (289) : 6 Luck 7 (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 505 (507) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 984 (984) * (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 481 (483) (DB) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 242 (242) (DB) * (1909) 31 All 495 (496, 497) (DB) * ('05) 1905 Pun Re No. 102 Page 306 (307, 308) (DB).

[4] In order that a document may be valid under S. 25 (3), it is enough if there is an express promise to pay; there need not be any reference to the time barred debt. (36) 83 Cal 759 (762) * (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 134 (135) : 1938 Rang L R 6 (DB). (Following (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 240 : 7 Rang 292 * (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 1016 (1018) * (1910) 33 Mad 159 (161, 162) (DB).

[But see ('41) 1941 Nag L Jour 363 (364). (If the debt is barred against the father, the sons are no longer under a pious obligation to pay it. [5] Where actual consideration was something, different from that recited in document, effect must be given to real consideration and this rule is equally applicable to contracts falling under S. 25 (3). (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 1016 (1018) * (1910) 33 Mad 159 (160, 161) (DB).

[6] Under S. 25 (3) a promise to pay a debt barred by limitation must be express promise to pay and not merely an unconditional acknowledgment involving an implied promise to pay. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 460 (461) (DB). [9] The defendant's Muamim, duly authorised by the defendant, acknowledged in writing a certain time-barred sum due to plaintiff and there was also a written promise to pay within a month. Held, it was not a mere acknowledgment but an express promise, which was enforceable. (Vol 19) 1932 All 38 (40).

[13] Where a mortgage bond by guardian of a minor provided that the mortgagees should retain a portion of the consideration in order to pay a debt, it is impossible to hold that the mortgagor by acknowledgment contained in the mortgage bond made an implied promise to the creditor. S. 25 (3) is inapplicable in this case. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 219 (220).

[14] Customer sending a letter to bank promising to pay time-barred debt as soon as he could arrange within a period of six months — This amounts to promise to pay a barred debt and is contract within S. 25 (3). (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 212 (213) : 13 Lah 448 (DB).

[15] Equitable mortgage—Promissory note executed on same for payment of mortgage debt—Fresh promissory note executed for balance of mortgage debt after three years when personal remedy under mortgage was barred—Held that, the fresh promissory note though it could not operate as valid acknowledgment for keeping alive the personal remedy, constituted a new promise within S. 25 (3). (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 134 (136) : 1938 Rang L R 6 (DB).

[16] Where A purchased the stock of an old firm by paying to B a certain sum of money in respect of debts due to B by the firm, and there was no obligation on A to pay anything, but he signed a letter to B acknowledging that a certain amount was due by him on account of the debts of the firm : Held, that as there was no obligation, there could have been no consideration for the implied promise and that the letter could not have been signed otherwise than in inadvertence and that it did not amount to an unconditional acknowledgment from which a promise to pay could be inferred. (Vol 20) 1933 All 175 (176).

[17] In order that a valid contract may be constituted under S. 25 (3), it is necessary that the statement should be in writing and should be signed by the person, to be charged therewith, or by his agent, generally or specially authorised. An unsigned statement, therefore, by a pleader that his client would pay a time-barred debt does not bind the client. (Vol 11) 1924 All 12 (15) (DB) * (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 447 (450) * (08) 1908 Pun Re No. 102 page 473 (479) (DB). [18] To bring a case under S. 25 (3) the creditor need not establish knowledge on the debtor's part, at the time of making a new promise, as to the debt having become wholly or partially barred. (1913) 18 Cal L Jour 329 (331) (DB) * (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 447 (450) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 242 (242) (DB) * (1918) 18 Cal L Jour 269 (271) (DB) * (1900) 23 Mad 94 (97, 98) (DB).

[But see (1910) 20 Mad L Jour 656 (656). (The endorsement "balance due was Rs. 80" in the plaintiff's account books, in the handwriting of the defendant and signed by him, though implies a promise it is not the promise to pay a barred debt required by S. 25, which must indicate a consciousness on the part of the executant, of the debt being barred.)]

[19] The words "by the person to be charged therewith" in S. 25 are wide enough to cover the case of a person who agrees to become liable for the payment of a debt due by another, and need not be limited to the person who was indebted from the beginning. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 678 (678, 679).

[20] Whenever an acknowledgment is coupled with an agreement to pay interest, it cannot be regarded as a mere acknowledgment but it should be regarded as an agreement with a promise to pay within the meaning of S. 25 (3), Contract Act. (Vol 30) 1943 All 63 (64) : I L R

[23] Where fresh though small advance is made and there is also an old time-barred debt, the consolidated sarkhat embodies a new contract for fresh consideration and the entire amount can be recovered. [24] It is true that under S. 25 (3), an agreement to pay a time-barred debt is regarded as one without consideration, but this sub-section only applies when a wholly gratuitous promise is made to pay such a debt. It does not apply when a promise to pay a time-barred debt is made for some consideration though the consideration might be inadequate. (Vol 30) 1943 All 63 (65) : I L R (1943) All 171 (DB).

[25] A contract entered into by a guardian is voidable by the minor on attaining majority but not void. Sub-section (3) of S. 25 applies to the case of a minor who executes a promise in writing to pay a debt incurred by his guardian. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 250 (252) : 19 Nag L R 135.

[26] If a person promises to pay a portion of a barred debt, he can only be sued for that portion alone. Illustration (e) indicates the real meaning of the words "wholly or in part of the debt." (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 678 (679).

[27] Section 25 (3) is based on an agreement—Offer not accepted is no agreement—Section 25 (3) would not apply where the offer was rejected. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 72 (73). (Offer to pay time-barred debt, 7 annas in a rupee, rejected by creditor—Offer cannot be made basis of suit.)

[28] Where in settlement of time-barred debt due from joint family, several liability for one third of the debt was undertaken by each of the three branches of the family, it was held that this limitation of liability is in itself a good consideration which will support a new contract apart from S. 25. [29] A promise to pay a barred debt by a manager of a Hindu family who is not the father of the junior member is not binding on such junior member. The question lies within the region of Hindu Law and not of Contract Act. Section 25 (3), Contract Act, does not apply to such a case. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 327 (329).

[30] An agreement to pay the amount found due on a particular day which was acknowledged in writing, need not be in writing. Such agreement is for consideration and the contract being with reference to a debt not time-barred, Section 25 will not come into operation. (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 293 (299) : 26 Nag L R 320.

[31] On the death of the mortgagee the proceedings in which a preliminary decree was passed against the mortgagor, abated for failure to implead mortgagee's legal representative within the prescribed time. [2] Where a husband gifted away his property to his wife and land was changed to her name and then he mortgaged the property, held that (1) question as to validity of gift should be determined by reference to S. 5, Punjab Laws Act, and not to S. 25 of the Contract Act. ('99) 1899 Pun Re No. 38, p. 186 (186, 187, 188) (DB).

12. Explanation 2. — [1] Under this explanation inadequacy of consideration is not relevant unless it affects the question of free consent to contract. Moreover the section applies only to contracts which are wholly without consideration and not to contracts which may be for inadequate consideration. SECTION 26 — Note 1

[1] Sections 23, 26 and 27 do not exhaust all instances of agreements contrary to public policy. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 404 (405) : 27 Oudh Cas 100.

[2] Though S. 26 is in general terms, it is doubtful whether partial or indirect restraint on marriage is within scope of the section. (Vol 29) 1942 All 351 (353) : I L R (1942) All 810 (DB).

[3] Section 26 is not restricted to the case of first marriage only but also applies to a person already married. Hence an agreement for repayment of money spent on the boy's education if he married another during the lifetime of his wife is void. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 156 (1) (156) : 7 Low Bur 304 (DB).

[But see ('08) 4 Nag L R 86 (89, 90).]

[4] Though a stipulation not to take another wife is illegal as being in contravention of S. 26, yet promises to live in wife's house and to work and support her, are good and lawful and therefore enforceable. ('13) 15 Ind Cas 915 (916, 917) : 1 Upp Bur 108.

[5] Agreement to pay woman certain annual allowance only "until death or remarriage" or "during widowhood" is not illegal. ('12) 10 All L Jour 185 (186, 187).

[6] Compromise between co-widows in mutation proceedings—Both to be entered in equal shares—Either on re-marriage to forfeit her share : Held, compromise was not in restraint of marriage as no direct prohibition to remarry was imposed by it. [7] A Kabinmah by a Mahomedan husband authorising his wife to divorce him in the event of his marrying a second wife, is not void under S. 26. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 761 (762) (DB).

[8] Wakf deed giving share of profits to widows contained condition forfeiting such share on widow's re-marrying — Held condition was neither illegal nor improper and did not offend S. 26. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 168 (110) (DB).

[9] Promise to pay a bride price, while marrying a major girl, cannot be enforced as being immoral and in restraint of marriage. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 357 (359) : 1 Lah 574 (DB).

[10] Contract restricting major girl's right of marrying according to her own choice is void. (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 22 (22).

SECTION 27 — Synopsis

1. Agreement in restraint of trade.
2. Agreement for mutual benefit.
3. Service contracts.
4. Sale of good-will — Exception.

Section 27 (contd.)

1. Agreement in restraint of trade. — [1] Section 27 aims at contracts by which a person precludes himself altogether for a limited time or over a limited area from exercising his profession, trade or business and not at contracts by which, in exercise of his profession, he enters into ordinary agreements with persons dealing with him which are necessary for carrying on his business. ('90) 13 Mad 472 (475).

[2] Where a claim is founded on tort, S. 23 and S. 27 do not apply. (Vol 18) 1931 All 83 (85) : 53 All 316 (DB).

[3] Every person has a right to a free course of trade and to conduct his business upon his own lines even though it results in an interference with the business of another person to his detriment. (Vol 18) 1931 All 83 (89) : 53 All 316 (DB).

[4] Whether a contract is in restraint of trade within the meaning of S. 27 is a question of law. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 110 (111).

[5] Whether contract is in restraint of trade within the meaning of S. 27, Contract Act, is question to be determined on construction of contract in each case. ('90) 13 Mad 472 (474).

[6] Where the restrictive clauses appear in the formal document of dissolution of partnership and no local limits are at all specified, it is not permissible to enter upon a consideration of what the parties were likely to have contemplated. As the place of restriction is not nominated in the bond limitation should not be imported which the parties have not seen fit to express, in order to aid so unprecedented a contract." (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 197 (210) : I L R (1943) Kar 49 (DB).

Burden of proof. — [7] To succeed under S. 27 one must establish that suit is one to enforce agreement whereby some one is restrained from exercising a lawful profession, trade or business of any kind. ('05) 29 Bom 107 (118) (DB).

[8] Burden of justifying covenant in restraint of trade lies on the party upholding it. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 101 (104) (PC).

Law applicable. — [9] Agreement in restraint of trade is governed not by lex loci contractus but by the law of the place of performance. ('76-78) 1 Mad 134 (148).

Restraint of trade. — [10] Bare agreement in restraint of competition cannot be upheld — Restrictive clause must be ancillary to main transaction and necessary in interest of both parties — Restriction on outgoing partner not to do business, in which he had specialised, in the whole world held not valid. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 197 (210, 211) : I L R (1943) Kar 49 (DB).

[11] Defendants agreeing to remain subject to the head of their caste and not to carry on their profession of working in lead with assistance of any other persons than the caste people — Agreement cannot be enforced for want of consideration and being against public policy. ('78-80) 2 Mad 44 (44, 45) (DB).

[12] Agreement not to set up a business in consideration of promise to pay a sum for life is void as in restraint of trade though partly executed. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 51 (54) : 8 Low Bur Rul 389 (FB).

[13] Defendant carrying on business as a carrier of passengers by boat agreed to pay large sum to the plaintiff in consideration that the latter should abstain from carrying on similar business. Held that the contract was void and did not fall within the exception 1 to S. 27 as the plaintiff had no goodwill in his rival business. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 546 (551) (DB).

[14] Covenant giving person exclusive right to convey passengers to and fro on road between Ootacamund and Mettupolliam is not contract in general restraint of trade and can be enforced. ('68-69) 4 Mad H C R 77 (DB).

[But see (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 473 (475, 476) : 17 Pat 255 (DB). (Contract purporting to be license granting defendant exclusive right to collect hides of animals in particular area in plaintiff's zamindari amounts to granting monopoly to defendant and is therefore unenforceable.)]

[15] Contract between licensee for manufacture of salt with buyer whereby former agrees to sell all salt manufactured by him to buyer and not to any other and at fixed price is void in so far as it restrains the former from selling to any other. (1890) 13 Mad 475 (476, 477).

[16] In a contract between a manufacturer and a purchaser of salt a stipulation that the former should not sell to other people than the latter is not in restraint of trade. But the stipulation that the former should not manufacture more than the quantity specified amounts to restraint of trade but if it is separable from the rest, it does not affect the validity of the other condition. (1892) 15 Mad 79 (80, 81) (D B).

[17] Agreement not to supply coolies to one of the rival cooly suppliers is void. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 673 (674).

[18] Broker agreeing to give up admitted claim to brokerage in consideration of plaintiff selling like quantity of goods for future only through him — On failure, brokerage on whole to be paid by defendant — Agreement is not void as being in restraint of trade or for uncertainty. (1875) 23 Suth W R 146 (146) (D B).

[19] Agreement to supply silica sand for one year, with stipulation not to supply sand, during that period, to four specified factories, is void only to the extent to which it restrained trade or business. (Vol 18) 1931 All. 539 (540).

Partial restraint. — [20] Section applies even when the restraint is for a limited period only or is confined to a particular area. Such matters of partial restriction have effect only when the facts fall within the exception to S. 27. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 114 (115) : I L R (1942) Kar 25 (D B) * (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 445 (445) : 13 Luck 405 (D B). (Contract between Hindus whereby one of them agreed to cease to carry on his business in certain locality in Calcutta in consideration of receiving certain sum of money from other, is void.)

[But see (1904) 6 Bom L R 223 (27). ("Restraining a person from" implies a total restraint.) * (1890) 17 Cal 320 (323) (D B). (Goods purchased at certain rate for particular market — Stipulation for higher rate should goods go to any other market is not one in restraint of trade.) * (1890) 13 Mad 475n (476, 477). [2] Rules framed for regulating use of market amounts to restraint of trade, if they are unreasonable and stifle trade. Restraint is reasonable if it affords fair protection to the parties and does not interfere with public interests. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 73 (77) : 1 L R (1948) Nag 740 (D B).

[3] Agreement between neighbouring landowners that market for sale of cattle shall not be held on same day on lands of both is not void. (Vol 2) 1915 All 94 (95) : 37 All 212 (D B).

[4] Agreement between traders to carry on business among members of their private association is valid. (Vol 18) 1931 All 83 (85) : 53 All 316 (D B).

[5] The fact that the scheme of the agreement would limit competition and keep up prices, does not necessarily bring it within the terms of S. 27. (1905) 29 Bom 107 (118) (D B).

[6] Agreement by Barrister carrying business in partnership not to practice for certain time is valid. (1918) 17 Cal W N 215 (218) (P C).

[7] Agreement between ice factory owners to work one factory alone and to divide profits — Agreement is not 'in restraint of trade.' (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 110 (111).

[8] The abandonment of a bona fide claim is good consideration for a compromise even though the agreement on which the claim was based was void as being in restraint of trade. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 673 (674).

3. Service contracts. — [1] Section 57 of the Specific Relief Act extends to agreements of negative character such as are necessarily implied from the contracts for whole time service and the operation of such contracts as contracts for service appear to prevent the application of S. 27 of the Contract Act to such negative agreements so far as they purport to impose restriction only during the period of affirmative agreement for service. (1903) 5 Bom L R 878 (882) & (1946) 48 Bom L R 90 (91, 92). (Question whether particular covenant is unreasonably wide has to be decided on the nature of the agreement, the qualifications of employee, and service he has to render considered along with places where employer can get alternative service of the same nature.)

[2] Contracts by which persons are restrained from competing after term of their engagement is over, with their former employers within reasonable limits fall under the general prohibition contained in S. 27. (Contract restricting employee from serving for specified period in other firm in a certain territory is valid.)

[3] Physician agreeing to serve as assistant stipulating not to practise as physician and surgeon for three years—Agreement is not void. (1899) 23 Bom 103 (117, 118) (D B).

[4] Contract by theatrical party with a proprietor of a theatre to play for the latter and not to play for any one else or in any other place till the termination of certain period or till the former went to England—

Agreement, held, void being in restraint of lawful profession, trade or business, in the absence of any suggestion that the proprietor was bound to employ the party so as to bring the case under S. 57, Specific Relief Act. (1912) 16 Cal W N 534 (535, 536).

4. Sale of good-will—Exception.—[1] Contract selling real good-will in the trade of plying ferry-boats between certain landing places — Contract does not amount to agreement contravening S. 27. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 167 (168) : 48 Ind App 508 : 48 Cal 1030 (PC).

[2] Restraint in a contract selling a good-will can be said to be injurious to public if it is calculated to produce pernicious monopoly, prohibiting other persons to trade in the line, so as to enhance prices to unreasonable extent. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 75 (84) (PC).

[3] A bare covenant not to compete cannot be upheld, unless it is ancillary to main covenant and necessary to make it effective. It can be upheld only if it is reasonable and is consistent with interests of public. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 101 (104) (PC).

[4] When the Court is satisfied that restraint was reasonable as between the parties it must always be very difficult to prove in a case connected with the good-will that public interest was affected. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 75 (84) (PC).

[5] Vendor company carrying on business in Canada transferring same to another company — Covenant restraining vendor from doing any similar business whatsoever in Dominion of Canada—Restriction as to space, held, not unreasonable—Holding of small shares by vendor company in another company, carrying similar business was not a breach of agreement. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 75 (80, 84) (PC).

[6] Where the vendor of a good-will contracts not to "directly or indirectly engage" in similar business, the phrase is not void for uncertainty. (Vol 28) 1941 P C 75 (80) (PC).

SECTION 28 — Synopsis

1. Scope of the section.
2. Agreements affecting jurisdiction of Courts.
3. Agreements affecting limitation for enforcing rights under contract.
4. Agreements restraining enforcement of rights.
5. Exception 1.

1. Scope of the section. — [1] Agreement by which one party thereto is restricted absolutely from taking usual legal proceedings is void to that extent. (Vol 21) 1934 Sind 1 (8) : 27 Sind L R 280 & ('76) 1 Cal 466 (469) (DB).

[2] Section 28 cannot be construed so as to exclude agreements to refer to arbitration without order of Court in a pending suit. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom. 565 (576) : 51 Bom. 908 (FB).

[3] Section cannot be applied to rights under a decree. (1885) 7 All 124 (125, 131) (DB).

[4] Agreement not to appeal against decree is not a void agreement and is not prohibited by S. 28. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat. 644 (645) (DB) & ('75-77) 1 All 267 (270) (FB) & ('82) 8 Cal 455 (458) (DB) & (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 451 (452) : 5 Luck 391 (DB). (Agreement by which parties agree as to procedure to be adopted by Court in deciding case on merits and also consenting that the decision will be binding on them is tantamount to saying that no right of appeal will be exercised by the parties.)

[5] Compromise of doubtful rights arising out of a previous contract is not void. It is outside the scope of S. 28. (Vol 18) 1926 Sind 202 (206).

Exception 1. — This section shall not render illegal a contract, by which two or more persons agree that any dispute which may arise between them in respect of any subject or class of subjects shall be referred to arbitration, and that only the amount awarded in such arbitration shall be recoverable in respect of the dispute so referred.

Exception 2. — Nor shall this section render illegal any contract in writing by which two or more persons agree to refer to arbitration any question between them which has already arisen, or affect any provision of any law in force for the time being as to references to arbitration.^b

[a] The second clause of Exception 1 was repealed by the Specific Relief Act, 1877 (1 [I] of 1877). The repealed clause is reproduced here as the Contract Act is in force in certain Scheduled Districts to which the Specific Relief Act does not apply :—

“When such a contract has been made, a suit may be brought for its specific performance, and if a suit, other than for such specific performance, or for the recovery of the amount so awarded, is brought by one party to such contract against any other such party in respect of any subject which they have so agreed to refer, the existence of such contract shall be a bar to the suit.”

2. Agreements affecting jurisdiction of Courts. — [1] By private agreement parties cannot divest the Court of its inherent jurisdiction to try disputes arising out of the agreement. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag. 48 (49) * (Vol 17) 1930 Bom. 185 (186, 187); 54 Bom. 278 (DB). (Words “to that extent” mean that only the stipulation which ousts the Court’s jurisdiction is void and not the whole agreement.)

[2] Parties cannot make agreement that suits relating to disputes will be brought only in a particular Court even if cause of action arose outside its jurisdiction. (‘09) 3 Sind L R 45 (47).

[3] Agreement that another Court to the exclusion of Court having jurisdiction shall have jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the disputes arising under the agreement of the parties, is illegal. But if such an agreement specifies the place, where, according to the facts stated in the agreement, the cause of action is deemed to arise, the agreement is legal. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah. 611 (612).

[4] Where two Courts have jurisdiction to try suit, agreement restraining party to sue the other in one of them, particularly, is not in absolute restraint of legal proceedings and is not void under S. 28. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1145 (1146) * (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 57 (61) : I L R (1945) Lah 281 (FB). ((Vol 10) 1923 Lah 425; (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 605 and (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 295 overruled — Nor is such an agreement opposed to public policy under S. 28 — Per Mahajan J.) * (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 47 (48) * (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 275 (276); 20 Luck 105 * (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 334 (335) : I L R (1939) Nag 641 * (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 198 (199) * (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 279 (279) : 57 Cal 1280.

(A claim cannot be time-barred under an indent providing that no claim can be recognised if not made in writing within 60 days from due date of payment, as such clause cannot take away plaintiff’s statutory right to bring claim within prescribed time)]

[See however (‘12) 14 Bom L R 741 (743) (DB). (Clause in declaration that no suit shall be brought against the company in connection with the policy later than one year after cause of action accrued. Held, that clause was valid for parties agreed thereby that if no suit were brought within a year then neither party should be regarded as having any rights as against the other.)]

[2] Condition in contract that on happening of certain event one party shall lose his rights is not a condition limiting period within which he may seek relief in ordinary Courts—Condition is not void. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 3 (4) : 8 Rang 383 (DB).

[3] Condition in fire insurance policy that company would not be liable for loss or damage after expiration of twelve months from happening of the loss or damage, unless claim was the subject of pending action or arbitration, does not contravene S. 28. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 15 (16) : 11 Rang 475.

[4] A condition in Insurance-policy providing for forfeiture of all benefits unless an action is brought within three months from the rejection of the claim does not infringe S. 28. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 186 (187) (DB) * (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 351 (351) (DB) * (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 225 (229) : 38 Bom 344 (DB). (Phrase “thus enforce his rights” refers to enforcement by usual legal proceedings in ordinary tribunals—Per Batchelor J.)

[5] Article III Cl. (IV) of the schedule to Carriage of Goods by Sea Act does not limit time within which holder of bill of lading may enforce his rights against carrier. It extinguishes the right itself and is irretrievably lost — Insertion of clause in a bill of lading incorporating the article is not void. (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 124 (126) : 25 Sind L R 222.

[6] The stipulation, on the back of the railway receipt, that no claim for overcharge of freight be entertained, unless made within six months is of a nature referred to in S. 28. (‘88) 1888 All W N 59 (60, 61) (DB).

[See (10) 34 Bom 13 (27). (176) 1876 Pun Re No. 87 Page 67 (71) (DB).

[4] Even if a barrister Advocate makes a special contract with his client that the latter would not be sued for fees, such a contract would be void under S. 28. (Vol 20) 1933 All 417 (420) : 55 All 570 (FB). ((1903) 25 All 509 overruled.)

[5] Plaintiff agreeing to forbear to sue debtor at the request of defendant who agreed to indemnify plaintiff—Agreement so far as it restricted plaintiff's right to sue, held, void. (179) 1879 Pun Re No. 120 page 358 (360) (DB).

Section 29—Note 1.

[1] Uncertainty explained—Where a reasonable meaning can be construed into the contract, the con-

Illustrations.

(a) A agrees to sell to B 'a hundred tons of oil.' There is nothing whatever to show what kind of oil was intended. The agreement is void for uncertainty.

(b) A agrees to sell to B one hundred tons of oil of a specified description known as an article of commerce. There is no uncertainty here to make the agreement void.

(c) A, who is a dealer in cocoanut-oil only, agrees to sell to B 'one hundred tons of oil.' The nature of A's trade affords an indication of the meaning of the words, and A has entered into a contract for the sale of one hundred tons of cocoanut-oil.

(d) A agrees to sell to B 'all the grain in my granary at Ramnagar'. There is no uncertainty here to make the agreement void.

(e) A agrees to sell to B 'one thousand maunds of rice at a price to be fixed by C'. As the price is capable of being made certain, there is no uncertainty here to make the agreement void.

(f) A agrees to sell to B 'my white horse for rupees five hundred or rupees one thousand.' There is nothing to show which of the two prices was to be given. The agreement is void.

[2] It is impossible for a Court of justice to give effect to a contract, the meaning of which it is unable to find out with reasonable clearness. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 328 (329) (D B).

[3] Section 29 contemplates that the meaning of an agreement shall be clear on the face of it. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 10 (10) : I L R (1945) Mad 521 (D B). (An agreement to pay certain amount "after deductions as would be agreed upon" between the parties, held, void for uncertainty).

[4] The construction of an ambiguous stipulation in a deed may be governed or qualified by a recital, but on the other hand, if the intention of the parties is clearly to be collected from the operative part of the instrument, that intention is not to be defeated or controlled because it may go beyond what is expressed in the recital. (1880) 2 Mad 239 (257) : 7 Ind App 83 (P O).

[5] Where the term in an agreement is vague in the extreme and might be interpreted in as many ways as there are interpretations thereof, the agreement is certainly one which must be considered as void because of uncertainty under S. 29. (1921) 4 Nag L Jour 67 (69).

[6] No contract is void merely because no time for performance is specified. (Vol. 11) 1924 All 657 (658) : 46 All 514 (D B).

[7] Plea that the agreement was void for uncertainty held could not be availed of where the parties themselves did not regard it as vague and had acted on it. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 194 (197) : 25 Nag L R 131 (D B).

[8] Illustrative cases where contract is not void for uncertainty :

(a) Contract to execute a Kabala "containing necessary stipulations." (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 889 (893, 894) : 55 Cal 285 (D B).

(b) Where the indigo cakes mortgaged are described as those to be manufactured from the crops to be grown on lands of the Pupri Factory from the date of the execution of the mortgage up to the date of its being paid off, held that there is no vagueness as to the indigo cakes. (1904) 31 Cal 667 (678) (D B).

(c) A covenant for renewal without specifying period and rent must be presumed to be for the same period and rent as in the original and therefore not void for uncertainty on that ground. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 509 (510) (DB.)

(e) Where the mortgagors described the mortgaged property in the mortgage deed as "their property" and at the date of the mortgage the mortgagors had specific interest in the mortgaged property, it was held that the words were sufficiently certain or at any rate were capable of being made certain. (1890) 12 All 175 (178, 179) (D B).

(f) Where the contract for supply of goods did not mention the maximum limit of purchase, it was held that the contract was not uncertain. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 315 (317) (D B). (It was open to Courts to reject dishonest claims for damages based on alleged failure to comply with large and unreasonable orders.)

(g) 2nd defendant executing an agreement in favour of plaintiff and making himself liable for all loans advanced by the plaintiff to his brother, the 1st defendant: Held that the fact that no amount or limit is stated does not make the agreement uncertain and unenforceable. (1937) 1937 Mad W N 760 (761).

[h] Where a Nattukotal Chetty impliedly agreed to give something extra to his agent as remuneration for the collection of outstandings left uncollected by the agent's predecessor, but did not fix a rate of percentage: Held, that in view of the nature of the business of Nattukotal Chetties, the contract was enforceable and the agent was entitled to a reasonable amount as remuneration. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 981 (934) (DB).

[9] Illustrative cases where contract is held to be uncertain and therefore void :

[a] A contract for pre-emption entered into by the co-sharers for an unlimited period is unenforceable against the heirs and representatives of the co-sharers as being too vague and uncertain. But a contract for pre-emption between the co-sharers entered into at the time of the settlement, held must be presumed, in the absence of anything to the contrary, to have been intended to hold good for the whole period of the settlement and not longer and therefore not uncertain. (Vol 11) 1924 All 400 (403) : 46 All 333 (DB).

[b] Certain persons describing themselves as residents of X, giving a bond for payment of money in which as collateral security they pledged "Kul haq haq" (their properties) Held, that the general hypothecation was too indefinite to be acted upon and no charge on their property situated in X was created. [d] Agreement to sell at favourable or concession rate. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 243 (246) : 52 Mad 300 (DB).

[e] A covenant of partnership giving one party the right of specifying the share of the profits to be assigned to the other and affording no indication as to the proportion of losses which one party is to bear in the partnership is void for uncertainty. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 328 (329) (D B).

[f] An agreement to pay rent in cash without the rate being definitely fixed. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 115 (116) (DB).

SECTION 30 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Wager and speculating contracts.
3. Collateral agreements.
4. Suit relating to recovery of deposit, winnings or losses.
5. Evidence and proof.

1. Scope. — [1] There is no distinction between the expression "gaming and wagering" in the English Gaming Act 1845, and the earlier Indian Act XXI of 1848, and the expression "by way of wager" used in S. 30 of the Indian Contract Act, (IX of 1872). ('03) 29 Cal 461 (467) : 28 Ind App 239 (PC) (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 18 (20).

[2] Section 30 requires that there must be at least two parties, the agreement between them must be by way of wager and further both sides must be parties to that wager. ('04) 28 Bom 616 (621) (DB).

[3] Betting is not illegal but law is unwilling to assist in enforcing obligations arising out of it or wagers. Section 30 expressly says that agreements by way of wager are void. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1007 (1008) : 52 Cal 677 (1885) 9 Bom 358 (364) (DB) (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 241 (242) : 7 Rang 263.

[4] The words "entrusted to any person to abide the result of a game, etc." in S. 30 refer only to monies deposited with stake-holders. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 163 (164) (DB).

2. Wager and speculating contracts. — [1] A speculative contract is not necessarily a wagering contract. (Vol 10) 1923 All 273 (276) (DB).

[2] To bring a contract under S. 30, it is necessary to show that both parties intended that no delivery or acceptance shall take place and agreed that the mere difference in price shall be paid; but if only one of the parties intends that no delivery shall take place, the contract is not vitiated (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 220 (221, 222) (Vol 4) 1917 P C 101 (102) : 42 Bom 373 : 45 Ind App 29 (PC). (Absence of intention to give delivery is not enough.) (Vol 31) 1944 All 196 (197) : ILR (1944) All 397 (Vol 29) 1942 All 170 (174) : I L R (1942) All 289 (DB). (Option to demand delivery or acceptance does not take out the transaction out of wagering contract.) (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 781 (783, 784) (DB). (The mere fact that as to the greater part of the goods there was no delivery but an adjustment of claims, does not vitiate the transaction.) (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (130, 131) (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 278 (274) (DB) (1900 02) 1 Low Bur Rul 107 (108) (DB). (Promissory notes in respect of transactions which were really intended only for payment of money by either party to other according to chances in market, though purporting to be agreements for actual purchase of goods, held to have been given in consideration of gambling transaction.) (Vol 17) 1930

(Subsequent agreement not to demand or give delivery does not make the contract a wagering one.) (Vol 16) 1929 All 890 (893) : 51 All 1027 (DB) (Vol 16) 1929 All 134 (138) (DB) (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 157 (170) : 53 Bom 367 : 30 Ori L Jour 595 (DB) (Vol 18) 1926 Lah 318 (319) : 7 Lah 442 (DB). (Definite agreement not to enforce actual delivery of goods has to be shown.) (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 326 (331, 332) (DB). (If a contract is wagering in its inception the mere fact that in certain contingencies delivery could be asked for would still not render the contract enforceable.) (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 511 (512) : 49 Bom 689 (DB). (Contract for forward delivery. Settlement by cross-contract. Contract held wagering contract within S. 1, Bombay Act III of 1865, though not under S. 30, Contract Act.) (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 79 (84) (DB). (Understanding between principal and agent alone to deal in differences only is not enough. The third parties on the one side and the agent and principal on the other must together agree to deal only in differences.) (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 284 (285) (DB) (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 378 (378). (Mere contemplation that delivery would not in fact be likely to be demanded is not sufficient to make a contract a wagering one.) (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 290 (292). (It is not sufficient to show that neither party intended nor contemplated that there should be any delivery of goods. It must be shown further that there was an agreement that neither party would have the right to make nor demand delivery.) (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 186 (186) (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 324 (325) (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 114 (116) : 15 Sind I. R 5 (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 868 (869). (Contracts in which only differences are payable and delivery is either excluded or optional, are wagering contracts.) (Vol 13) 37 Bom 264 (277) (Vol 13) 15 Bom L R 750 (760, 761). (Seller may, technically speaking, be said to deliver goods to his buyer by giving him a delivery order on a certain person but just as mercantile contracts for payment of differences so also delivery orders may be used and passed from hand to hand amongst persons who have no other intention than that of adjusting differences amongst themselves.) (Vol 09) 11 Bom L R 997 (1004) (Vol 07) 9 Bom L R 125 (138) (Vol 08) 5 Bom L R 503 (505) (Vol 02) 29 Cal 461 (467) : 28 Ind App 239 (PC) (1899) 1 Bom L R 263 (266). (1893) 22 Bom 399 (903) (1894) 17 Mad 480 (491) (DB).

[3] The test as to true character of a transaction is comparison between magnitude of transaction and capacity of person who seeks to have it declared a wager. (1910) 12 Bom L R 1062 (1066).

[4] There is nothing illegal in speculating. This method of doing business is common place and embraces all commodities. Whether commodities are paid for and held with a view to making profit or are re-sold before delivery is irrelevant as far as the distinction between speculation and gambling is concerned. Gambling and wagering are not dealings in commodities at all. They are only bets on market price of goods in future, though they may take the form of a transaction of sale and purchase. There is no obligation on either party to deliver, or take delivery of any goods. The buyer simply pays the difference between the price of the bargain and the price at some future date. The essence of gaming and wagering is that one party is to win and the other to lose upon a future event which is uncertain. Thus, the difference between the two can be seen by seeing whether the transaction is real or a mere peg to hang the bet upon. Where parties could be compelled to carry out the contract of sale it is real. It is necessary to look behind the contract for its true understanding. It must be borne in mind that there is nothing wrong in different contracts so long as the parties are not absolved from delivering commodity or paying its price. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 345 (351) : 1 L R (1938) Nag 308 (DB).

[5] The essence of wager is that each side stands to win or lose according to the uncertain or unascertained event in reference to which the chance or risk is taken. To make an agreement a wager there ought to be common intention to bet. ('04) 28 Bom 616 (621) (DB).

[6] To constitute a wager, the transaction between the parties must "wholly depend on the risk in contemplation" and neither must look to anything but the payment of money on the determination of an uncertainty. (1885) 9 Bom 358 (363) (DB).

[7] The essence of wagering contract is that neither of the parties should have any interest in the contract than the sum which he will win or lose. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 185 (187).

[8] There is no authority for the proposition that because under the terms of a contract an obligation to pay or receive differences may arise on the happening of a particular event, the contract is void as a wager if that event does not happen. Such a result would be inconsistent with the principle underlying S. 57 of the Contract Act. ('10) 34 Bom 519 (533) (DB).

[9] Persons in a position to carry out contract at the time of making contract or at the time of performance—Contract is not necessarily wagering contract even if contract provides for alternative of receiving or paying on differences instead of actual delivery. (Vol 9) 1922 All 360 (361); 43 All 585 (DB); (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 115 (117) (DB). (Contract containing stipulation to pay differences between contract price and market price in the event of breach of contract by either party.)

[10] A contract containing a condition that one of the parties becoming unable from pecuniary circumstances to perform the contract shall not put an end to it but if contract be beneficial to that party, damages shall be ascertained and paid then and there to the party, is not of the nature of gambling transaction. ('05) 7 Bom L R 154 (156).

[11] Where two wrestlers agreed to play match on condition that party not appearing was to forfeit a certain sum and that winner was to receive certain amount out of gate money, the contract held was not wagering one. (Vol 18) 1951 Bom 264 (265) (DB).

[12] The purchase of option or right to call for shares is not necessarily wagering contract; test is whether in such contract, differences only are intended to be paid ;

so also double option is not more necessarily gamble than single option. Contract is not wagering contract unless neither of parties intend to give or take delivery. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 183 (189).

[13] The transaction may be cloaked behind the forms of genuine commercial transactions which neither party intended to have legal operation. Where the documents show an ordinary commercial transaction, and in conformity with them one of the parties incur personal obligations on a genuine transaction with third parties so that he himself is not a winner or loser by the alteration of price, but can only benefit by his commission, the inference of betting is irresistibly destroyed. In such cases, the fact that no delivery is required or tendered is of practically no value. Ordinary speculation conducted on the stock exchange through a broker who makes himself by the rules personally liable to the other members of the stock exchange for the performance of the contract cannot be a bet. (Vol 29) 1942 P C 19 (21) (PC).

[14] The mere fact that various contracts are in the nature highly speculative will not per se render them void as wagering contracts, unless the facts are of such a nature that they are incompatible with a lawful contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (131).

[15] An agreement of a forward sale containing a provision for delivery and resale to the first party of the same quantity as that of the previous transaction, before the date of that transaction and at the rate prevailing on the date of the resale though highly speculative does not amount to a wagering contract. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 319 (323) : 14 Rang 347 (DB).

[16] Merchant buying goods in Japan and desirous of paying for them in Rupees and not in Yen, entered into contract with Bank—Contract taking form of purchases of Yen to be delivered during specified period at fixed rate — Bank covering itself by Yens purchased against Yens sold. It was held that transactions were genuine and not wagering contracts. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 269 (271) (DB).

[17] Where grain pit was purchased by plaintiffs as commission agents on behalf of defendants and latter not being able to pay purchase-money former sold it at loss and sued defendants for loss; : Held, that case did not come under S. 30, even though the probabilities to the knowledge of the plaintiffs were that the defendants would resell the contents of the grain pit through plaintiffs as commission agents getting the benefits of any rise in prices or suffering any fall. (Vol 1) 1914 All 321 (322) : 36 All 426 (DB).

[18] Where under a contract for purchase of rubber coupons the buyer was entitled to delivery of coupons purchased and formal tender of coupons purchased was in fact offered to him. Held that the contract was not a wagering contract. (Vol 33) 1946 P C 63 (64) (PC). (Case from Ceylon).

[19] Vendor agreeing to sell what he has not and may never have — Price fixed upon calculation of risk taken by purchaser for sum far below real value. Contract is eminently speculative, not to say gambling one. (1867-69) 12 Moo Ind App 292 (308) (PC). (Purchaser retaining part of price until risk is determined — Risk contracted is pro tanto diminished and contract becomes incapable of being performed.)

[20] To constitute wager parties must contemplate determination of uncertain event on which risk depends as the sole condition of contract. Agreement to advance money for litigation in consideration of the return thereof without interest together with a share in property is not opposed to public policy; nor is it in the nature of a wager. It should be treated as a conditional promise or guarantee. ('09) 8 Ind Cas 500 (500) (Oudh)

[21] The tenant of a field agreed to allow another to pick the cotton crop of that field in exchange for a promise to deliver 2½ khandis of cotton at the time of picking. Held, that this was not wagering contract. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 291 (292) : 19 Nag L R 21.

[22] Where a contract for purchase of salt was successively transferred from one to another, every transferee paying the amount of profits and delivery was likely to be much delayed and the actual date of delivery was doubtful. Held that contract was one by way of wager. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 564 (564).

[23] Transactions of sale and purchase—No delivery—Only one khata for all transactions—Panchayat fixing artificial rates for a certain day—Khata not showing loss or profit—The transactions held wagering ones. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 85 (86) (DB).

[24] Contract to deliver certain documents to a party to a suit for a certain amount if the suit were compromised, but if the party won the suit four-times the amount was agreed to be paid. Held, the transaction was not a wager but only a contingent contract and was enforceable. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 135 (137).

[25] Where two persons holding opposite views about the issue of a future uncertain event, mutually agree that, dependant upon the determination of that event, one shall win from the other and the latter shall pay a sum of money or other stake, neither party having any other interest in that contract than the sum or stake and there being no other real consideration for the contract by either party, the transaction is a wagering contract within S. 30. (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 202 (207, 208).

Teji Mandi transactions.—[26] Teji Mandi contracts are not presumed to be wagering contracts in the absence of evidence to the contrary. (Vol 13) 1926 P C 119 (120) : 53 Ind App 241 : 51 Bom 1 (P C) * (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 825 (826). (Defendant at Delhi placing with plaintiff, pakka ahrti of Bombay, order for forward transaction of certain amount of cotton bales and undertaking to pay mandi as soon as a telegram was received—Contract held complete between parties—Defendant failing to pay amount of mandi on demand—Plaintiff selling bales at loss—Defendant held liable for mandi and loss suffered by plaintiff.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 79 (82) (DB) * (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 408 (408, 409) : 47 Bom 263 (DB) * (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 66 (70) * (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 183 (185). (Each contract, whether Teji or Mandi, is unilateral and not reciprocal.)

[27] Forward contracts for purchase and sale of goods are legitimate commercial transactions though speculative. They may be wagering or gambling transactions. When there is bargain for differences they are wagering contracts, even if one party has option to demand delivery. In spite of the terms of the contract, extrinsic evidence may establish the common intention of both parties that there was to be no delivery but only to take differences according to rise or fall in prices on date of delivery. But when it is established that substantial parts of goods were actually taken delivery of, the transaction may be taken to be genuine commercial transaction. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 341 (344, 345) (DB) * (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 284 (285) (DB) * (1913) 15 Bom L R 85 (93).

The Patta Patti Contracts.—[28] The patta and patti contracts are highly speculative but not opposed to public policy as wagering contracts. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (130) * (Vol 15) 1928 P C 80 (82) : 55 Ind App 32

: 51 Mad 96 (P C). (In absence of proof that contracts were entered into upon the terms that their performance should not be demanded but the differences only should be payable if the seller was unable to give delivery and buyer was not agreeable to take delivery through third parties so as to exonerate seller, making of patta patti resulting in agreement to pay differences only would not make the transaction a wagering one.)

Nazrana contracts.—[29] What are known as nazrana contracts in the Punjab are not necessarily wagering contracts. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 350 (353) : 13 Lah 766 (DB)

Badni transactions.—[30] Liabilities incurred on badni transaction are unenforceable. In absence of common intention to wager there can be no badni or wagering transactions. Where transactions included sales and purchases by the same dealers for a fixed date coupled with failure to deliver in practically all cases : Held that the transactions were badni. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 420 (422) (DB).

[31] Where the contract for sale of goods specifically provides that the goods would be delivered after weighing them and the purchaser asks for delivery and is not repudiated that delivery was not contemplated, the mere fact that the contract involved very large quantities of the goods does not make the contract a badni transaction though they are highly speculative forward contracts. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 689 (690) (DB).

[32] Where the transactions which parties entered into are beyond their means and there is no intention on the part of either contracting party from the very beginning to give or take delivery, the transactions are badni and so void. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 875 (876).

Insurance policy.—[33] In India an insurance for a term of years on the life of a person in which the insurer has no interest is void as wagering contract under S. 30. (1899) 23 Bom 191 (210) * (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 33 (35, 36) (DB). (Person effecting insurance on his younger brother's life, held had no insurable interest, and hence the insurance contract was void under S. 30 and S. 23).

Lottery.—[34] Transaction between definite number of persons—Each to contribute rupee 1 for first week—On week end prizes drawn—A prize winner getting gramophone out of transaction—Remaining subscribers 4 annas more for next week and drawing made next week end—Prize winner getting gramophone and dropping out—Similar drawings continuing for 20 weeks—Remaining subscribers each then getting one gramophone—There was, held, no offence under S. 294A, Penal Code and since each one got his money's worth, though some got less and some more by lot and since there was no invitation to public to join, the transaction did not amount to wager. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 136 (137).

[35] An agreement to decide a suit by lottery is void ab initio as being one by way of wager and opposed to public policy. (1909) 5 Nag L R 107 (110).

[36] Effect of Government sanctioning lottery is that no prosecution would lie in respect thereof. But the sanction does not affect civil law relating to lotteries—Agreement to purchase ticket of such lottery is void. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 138 (140) : 42 Bom 876.

[37] Lottery and wagering contracts are two distinct things. A scheme may amount to a lottery though none of the competitors is a loser. If the subscribers have purchased a chance of winning a prize the scheme would be a lottery, whether the prizes are paid circuitously from the interest earned on the subscribers, contributions or are paid directly from those contributions. A lottery is not in British India unlawful in the sense that it is prohibited by law. It is only in relation to S. 294A, Penal Code, that it becomes illegal. (Vol 28) 1936 Mad 22 (227, 229, 244) : 59 Mad 562 (FB). (The chit fund held amounted to lottery and the promoters of the kuri by keeping place for conducting it and by its publication committed offence under S. 294A, Penal Code.)

[38] Where an agreement provides that winners are to get prizes and subscribers to get refund of contribution without interest in the end and the promoter to retain only interest, it was held the chit fund is not a wagering agreement. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 583 (585) : 50 Mad 696 (FB).

[39] Though kuri, as ordinarily conducted in Malabar, is not lottery, yet if some subscribers obtain as prizes amounts which are in excess of the amounts subscribed by them, it comes within definition of lottery and suit to recover money paid for such lottery is not enforceable. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 139 (139).

[40] Chit fund with arrangement for payment of prize every month by casting lots, was held illegal as lottery. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 281 (282, 286) (DB).

[41] Sale of a share in sweepstake ticket after that ticket has drawn a horse, for a definite amount, is not a wager and is not opposed to public policy and the vendee can enforce the payment of his share in the prize money. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 72 (73) (DB).

Other cases. — [42] Where the parties to arbitration contract that neither they nor their witnesses shall give evidence and the arbitrators cannot fairly use judicial discretion in the absence of evidence, the submission merely amounts to wager and is invalid. (1913) 7 Sind L R 113 (115).

[43] A lent a sum of money to B on the risk or security of a ship belonging to B under sail to Nicobar from Negapattam. B stipulated that as soon as the ship returned back after its voyage he would repay the amount with interest. The ship having been lost in the voyage A sued B for recovery of the amount. Held that the agreement was one by way of wager and therefore the suit was liable to be dismissed. (1902) 25 Mad 561 (566).

3. Collateral agreements — [1] A contract collateral to a wagering contract is not necessarily unenforceable. (Vol 31) 1944 All 196 (197) : 1 L R (1944) All 397 (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 71 (75). (Difference between void and illegal transactions lies in their effect on collateral transactions. It is holding of lottery that is prohibited and not receiving prize money and agent receiving such money for winners is bound to account for the same.) (1901) 23 All 165 (166) (DB) (1900-07) 1 Low Bur 128 (130) (FB).

[2] Two partners entering into wagering contract with third person — One partner satisfying liability of both — He can claim the other's share of the loss — Transactions collateral to wagers are not affected by S. 30. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 48 (49).

[3] The forbearance of a plaintiff to sue coupled with his forbearance to declare the defendant a defaulter constitutes a good consideration for the fresh agreement, though the original contract was wagering transaction, and the plaintiff is entitled to recover on fresh agreement. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 781 (784) (DB).

[3a] A party to a wagering contract can sue to set aside an award made in pursuance of arbitration clause contained in the wagering contract. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 759 (761) : 60 Cal 856.

Principal and agent. — [4] A contract is not illegal merely because it is for a wager. It is merely void. Accordingly, contracts which are not by way of wager, but are collateral and subsidiary to wagering contract may be enforced by a suit. Where the plaintiff, a commission agent, bets in his own name for the defendants and pays the losses, the plaintiff can recover from defendants the sums so paid. (1904) 17 C P L R 67 (73) (Vol 27) 1940 All 95 (96, 97) (1940) 2 Mad L J 997 (1000). (Dealings in stocks and shares.) (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 761 (762) : 16 Lah 1077 (DB). (Badni transaction.)

(Vol 19) 1932 Lah 356 (358) : 13-Lah 766 (DB). (A set-off of adjustment in the accounts of third parties should be treated on the same footing as cash payment by the agent.) (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 375 (376). (Badni transactions) (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 420 (422) (DB) (Vol 14) 1927 All 823 (824) : 49 All 926 (DB) (Vol 12) 1925 All 102 (102) (Agent must act as agent and not as principal.) (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 284 (286) (DB) (Vol 10) 1923 All 585 (585) : 45 All 503 (DB) (1911) 33 All 219 (222) (DB) (1908) 1908 Pun Re No. 74, p. 341 (342, 343) (DB) (Agent must prove either actual payment on his principal's behalf, or that liability has been incurred which is enforceable by law, and that surrender of claim to profits made under badni contracts does not constitute actual payment.) (1904) 14 Mad LJ 326 (328) (1901) 23 All 165 (166) (DB) (1895) 1895 Pun Re No. 80, p. 380 (386) (DB). (Agent failing to prove either an actual payment upon the principal's behalf, or that a liability has been incurred which is enforceable at law — He cannot claim set-off on that account in a suit by the principal but in such a suit it is open to the agent to repudiate his liability by advancing the plea that they were wagering transactions.)

[But see (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 408 (409). (A suit by agent against principal for loss caused to him for having entered into wagering contracts on his behalf with third parties cannot lie and the plaintiff cannot be allowed to alter their claim to one for refund of losses paid upon wagering contract.)]

[5] An agent, who has received money on an illegal contract between him and the third party, cannot put forth the plea of illegality of the contract as a defence in an action by his principal to recover money from him. (1903) 25 All 639 (641) (DB) (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 244 (244) : 7 Rang 300. (The onus lies on the principal to prove affirmatively that the agent actually received the money on his behalf.) Pakka Adat dealing. — [13] Pakki Adat dealings are legitimate modes of conducting commercial business in Bombay market. (Vol 4) 1917 P C 101 (102): 42 Bom 373: 45 Ind App 29 (PC)* (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 125 (127) (DB) * (Vol 22) 1935 Sind 38 (41) (DB). (Pakki Adat contracts are almost necessarily of a speculative nature and bordering upon wager.)

[14] Adatia does not make contracts with third parties as agent but as principal, the constituents having no right to be brought into contact with third parties. Thus in a suit against his constituents for recovery of losses incurred by pakka adatia—on contracts entered by him with third parties for his constituents—in order to win, the defendants must prove that there was an understanding between them and the plaintiff, (i) that they were not only speculating but gambling, (ii) that there was no intention of effecting any delivery of goods, (iii) that if the plaintiff incurred losses he would be indemnified, (iv) that differences would be received and paid. (Vol 18) 1921 Bom 288 (243): 45 Bom 386 (DB).

[15] Where the correspondence between the parties showed that the plaintiff who was pakka adatia knew that defendant was gambling and not merely speculating and where he assisted the defendant in carrying on the wagers and delivery was never intended to be given or called for and where even the constituents of plaintiff knew that the transactions were to be closed either before or at the vaidha by payment of differences only, the transactions came within the purview of S. 30. Mere agreement to fix the losses or gains prior to the vaidha will not take the case out of the section under the above circumstances. Per Macleod, C. J.: Where pakka adatia is under contract of employment with his constituent only, bar under Bombay Act III of 1865 can defeat suit by pakka adatia. Pakka adatia contracts as principal, his constituent having no right to be brought into contact with third parties, while broker contacts agent for client who himself is personally responsible to person with whom broker contracts. [16] Contract between pacca arhiya and his constituent providing that there should be no delivery but that only difference should be paid, held wagering contract and so void. (Vol 27) 1940 All 182 (184): ILR (1940) All 136.

[17] Wagering contracts between pakka adatia and his constituents are not valid if pakka adatia has entered into other contracts to shield first contract. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 88 (89) (DB).

4. Suit relating to recovery of deposit, winning or losses. — [1] A deposit made by one gambler with the other as security for the observance of the terms of wagering contract can be recovered unless the amount has in fact been appropriated for the purpose for which it was deposited. [But see (Vol 7) 1920 All 167 (167): 42 All 449. (Money deposited as security in respect of satta transaction (wagering contracts) cannot be recovered by suit.) S. 65 does not apply.]

[2] Claim for recovery of loss sustained in consequence of contract in nature of wager is not enforceable. Person entering into wagering contract with partner of firm as between principal and principal cannot recover losses from other partners. (Vol 17) 1930 All 525 (526) (DB).

(Where consideration for hundi was that plaintiff would not report the defendant as defaulter to the Turf Club, the consideration was held to be legal.)

CHAPTER III. OF CONTINGENT CONTRACTS.

"Contingent contract" defined.

31. A 'contingent contract' is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event collateral to such contract does or does not happen.

disentitle him to recover back money. (1900) 22 All 452 (453, 454) (DB).

[18] If money won in a lottery is paid to third person as agent for the winner the taint would be purged by its passing into the hands of a person who is bound to account and winner can sue for recovery from the agent. (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 18 (21).

[19] A provision in a kuri entitling the stake-holder to recover from the benefited subscriber the amount of all the instalments immediately on default in the payment of any one of them is not penal and is enforceable. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 231 (234); ILR (1941) Mad 486 (DB).

[20] Kuri transaction—Successful bidder executing mortgage under terms of kuriwari, for due payments of remaining instalments—Liability on mortgage, incurred on date of its execution—The mortgage bond cannot be regarded as only affirming the pre-existing liability of the successful bidders as subscribers to the kuri obit to pay their subscriptions according to the instalments fixed in the Kuriwari. (Vol 20) 1941 Mad 231 (233)* (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 231 (233); ILR (1941) Mad 486 (DB).

5. Evidence and proof. — [1] The difference between speculative and wagering transactions is very narrow and not always clear, and depends upon the evidence in each case. (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 99 (99, 100) : 15 Sind L R 193 (DB)* (Vol 18) 1931 P C 136 (140) : 53 All 190 : 58 Ind App 173 (P C). (Question could not safely be left to decision of Commissioner under Order 26, Rule 11, Civil P. C.)

[3] The party who sets up that an agreement is void by way of wager, should be allowed to let in oral evidence to prove that it is so. (1905) 32 Cal 437 (442) (FB).

[4] Court will not allow party, setting up defence of wagering, to interrogate his opponent generally as to his business transaction apart from the one in question. (1918) 37 Bom 347 (351).

[5] The Court must for itself find out what were primary intentions of the parties when they entered into transaction in question before it and must not be misled by the mere protestation of one of the parties as to his real intentions. (1907) 9 Bom L R 125 (137).

[6] In transactions entered through brokers according to usage of particular market, there is a strong presumption against intention to wager which can be rebutted by evidence of common intention to wager. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 44 (46, 48, 49) (DB)* (1908) 5 Bom L R 768 (772, 776). (Contract between stock-holder and stock-jobber—But capacity to pay in delivery does not necessarily prove bona fides of offer.)

[7] Person alleging a transaction to be a wagering contract must show that under terms of arrangements no goods were to be taken or delivered under the forward contracts but that the contracts were to result merely in the payment of differences. (1939) 182 Ind Cas 416 (417) (P C)* (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (130)* (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 330 (330) (DB). (Onus is greatly increased when both parties themselves are stock-brokers)* (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 290 (291, 292)* (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 453 (459) (DB)* (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 81 (81)

(DB)* (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 99 (99) : 15 Sind L R 193 (DB). (This is so even when the contract is between same parties)* (1894) 17 Mad 480 (491) (DB)* (1913) 37 Bom 347 (350).

[8] If the contract between pakka adatias and their constituents is a contract of employment it is not wagering contract and the pakka adatia must win unless constituent brings contract within the provisions of Bombay Act, III of 1865. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 238 (239) : 45 Bom 386 (DB).

[9] Section 30 requires a common intention between contracting party and broker to wager and the burden lies on the former to show that the transaction is by way of wager. (Vol 7) 1920 Sind 29 (30) : 14 Sind L R 227 (DB).

[10] That there has been no delivery but only payment of differences in numerous other transactions between the parties is not enough to rebut the evidence against the contract being a wagering one. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 290 (291).

[11] General rule in India is that Teji Mandi transactions must be regarded as wagering ones and that the onus of proving the contrary lies heavily on party alleging so. Ability to pay full price is not sure guide. (1913) 37 Bom 264 (272).

[12] The Courts must look to surrounding circumstances besides the terms of original contracts indicating the original agreement between the parties. Common intention to wager must be established, that there was to be no actual delivery but only payment of differences. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (130)* (Vol 29) 1942 All 170 (174) : 1 L R (1942) All 289 (DB). (Court is entitled to consider the course of dealings between party)* (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 215 (215). (Intention may be gathered from oral evidence)* (Vol 28) 1936 Rang 319 (321) : 14 Rang 347 (DB)* (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 759 (766) : 60 Cal 856. (Intention cannot be expected to be declared in writing)* (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 111 (112) : 26 Nag L R 125* (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 362 (362) (DB). (Court is bound to scrutinize with suspicion the defence of wagering contract set up by defendant, who has accepted payments in successful dealing but has recourse to plea of wagering contract when transactions end in loss)* (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 319 (320) : 38 Bom 204 (DB)* (1913) 37 Bom 347 (350)* (1906) 30 Bom 83 (89). (The Court must prove among all surrounding circumstances including parties' conduct)* (1903) 5 Bom L R 503 (505, 506) (DB). (Court must look into the contract itself, also at dealing of parties immediately before and after transaction and into the circumstances of persons dealing in commodities under dispute)* (1900) 24 Bom 227 (230) (DB)* (1898) 22 Bom 899 (903). (Court can even go behind written agreement.)

[13] Where it appeared that the sale price was far beyond the means of the parties, and that no attempt was made to complete the transaction by delivery of goods. Held, that parties intended, not an actual transfer of goods, but a mere adjustment of prices according to fluctuation of market rate, and that the agreement was a wagering contract. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 329 (330).

[1] Person contracting to buy shares if appointed sole agent of company—Contract is contingent. (Vol 12) 1925 All 658 (661, 662).

Enforcement of contracts contingent on an event happening.

32. Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if an uncertain future event happens cannot be enforced by law unless and until that event has happened.

If the event becomes impossible, such contracts become void.

Enforcement of contracts contingent on an event not happening.

33. Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything, if an uncertain future event does not happen, can be enforced when the happening of that event becomes impossible, and not before.

[3] Guardian of minor entering into agreement to sell land for fixed price contingent upon leave of Court — Court sanctioning sale but at higher price — Held, contract was never complete contract at any time as it was contingent upon Court's permission which did not extend to whole contract as agreed. (1886) 12 Cal 152 (155) (DB).

[4] A wrote a letter to B as security for the repayment of a loan of Rs. 1½ lakhs advanced to him. The letter ran as follows "in consideration of your having at my request acceded to the proposal to advance Rs. 1½ lakhs, I hereby bind myself to procure a loan, within two weeks, of Rs. 11 lakhs on the first mortgage of the Mill property and to pay to you thereout the said sum of Rs. 1½ lakhs agreed to be advanced by you". B sued A for breach of contract contained in the letter. Held, that the contract was not a contingent contract but it amounted to a substantial undertaking by A that a loan of Rs. 11 lakhs should be procured and that out of the loan Rs. 1½ lakhs would be repaid to B. [8] Where the possibility of completing a contract is dependent on the will of a third person, a defendant who has entered into the contract to the performance of which such consent is necessary will not, if such consent cannot be procured, be decreed to obtain it and thus perform an impossibility. OF THE PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACTS.

Contracts which must be performed.

37. The parties to a contract must either perform, or offer to perform their respective promises, unless such performance is dispensed with or excused under the provisions of this Act, or of any other law.

Section 35 — Note 1

[1] In contracts under S. 35 the specified event as a rule is independent of will of either party. There is no question of breach of any agreement. (Vol 10) 1928 Rang 26 (26) : 4 Upp Bur Rul 99.

[2] Where in surety bond surety undertook to get judgment-debtor to deposit decree amount before certain date or to pay amount himself in case of default, and judgment-debtor died before specified date : Held, that S. 35 (2) applied to case and not para. (a) A promises to deliver goods to B on a certain day on payment of Rs. 1000. A dies before that day. A's representatives are bound to deliver the goods to B, and B is bound to pay the Rs. 1000 to A's representatives.

(b) A promises to paint a picture for B by a certain day at a certain price. A dies before the day. The contract cannot be enforced either by A's representatives or by B.

38. Where a promisor has made an offer of performance to the promisee, and the offer has not been accepted, the promisor is not responsible for non-performance, nor does he thereby lose his rights under the contract.

Effect of refusal to accept offer of performance.

Every such offer must fulfil the following conditions:—

- (1) it must be unconditional;
- (2) it must be made at a proper time and place, and under such circumstances that the person to whom it is made may have a reasonable opportunity of ascertaining that the person by whom it is made is able and willing there and then to do the whole of what he is bound by his promise to do;
- (3) if the offer is an offer to deliver anything to the promisee, the promisee must have a reasonable opportunity of seeing that the thing offered is the thing which the promisor is bound by his promise to deliver.

An offer to one of several joint promisees has the same legal consequences as an offer to all of them.

Illustration.

A contracts to deliver to B at his warehouse, on the 1st March 1873, 100 bales of cotton of a particular quality. In order to make an offer of performance with the effect stated in this section, A must bring the cotton to B's warehouse, on the appointed day, under such circumstances that B may have a reasonable opportunity of satisfying himself that the thing offered is cotton of the quality contracted for, and that there are 100 bales.

SECTION 38 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Tender.
3. Tender in part.
4. Unconditional tender.
5. "Able and willing."
6. Reasonable opportunity of inspection.
7. Tender to one of joint promisees.
8. Refusal or acceptance of offer.
9. Waiver of tender.

1. Scope.—[1] Section 38 requires, in case of payment, a genuine and unconditional offer to pay unconditionally at a proper place, made by person in a position to pay. (1880) 5 Cal L R 105 (107).

[2] Section does not apply to a case of principal and agent. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 464 (465) : 2 Pat 585 (DB).

[3] In construing S. 38, rule of English law as to tender should not be relied on. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 131 (133) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 337.

2. Tender. — [1] Where payee does not agree to accept payment to third party as equivalent to payment to himself there is no proper tender. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 180 (181).

Section 38 (contd.)

[2] A formal tender is unnecessary when its refusal is quite evident (Vol 10) 1923 P C 26 (28) : 50 Ind App 41 : 46 Mad 108 (PC).

[3] Where condition in contract that notice should be given of arrival of goods is not essential part of it, failure to give such notice or mistake in notice given, is not breach of contract entitling one party to avoid it. Nor can that notice by itself be deemed to be offer of performance within meaning of S. 38. Where on receipt of notice of arrival of goods, one party has to apply for delivery of goods but fails to do so, he commits breach and is liable in damages. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1066 (1067) (DB).

[4] A valid tender on a contract of debt is as much a performance and discharge of a debtor's duty as an actual payment. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 68 (70) : 55 Cal 624 (DB).

[5] Offer of performance is not discharge of obligation. (10) 20 Mad L Jour 709 (713) (DB).

[6] Promisor, after he makes a tender is not responsible for non-performance and will not be required to pay interest from date of tender. (10) 20 Mad L Jour 709 (713) (DB).

Tender by cash. [7]—The currency in any particular country must be determined by the law of that country and that law is naturally in terms limited to defining what is legal tender in that country. But when that is fixed by the local law, it determines what is the legal tender of that country for purposes of transactions in any other country, so that a foreign Court will, when such questions come before it, give effect to the proper law of legal tender so determined. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 26 (32) (PC).

[8] Agreement entered into in London — One party employed by the other in New Zealand on certain remuneration of $700 sterling — The word "sterling" held, referred to English Currency and not to New Zealand one. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 136 (138) (PC).

[9] Where there is an obligation to pay a foreign unit of account, the form must be regulated by the municipal law of the country whose unit of account is in question and what would be a legal tender must depend upon the law in force at the time when the tender should have been made. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 74 (77) (PC).

[10] Mortgage in one country covenanting repayment of given number of notes of different country — Tender of equivalent of such notes in currency of former country according to market rate in such country held proper. (Vol 30) 1943 P C 69 (71) (PC).

[11] In the case of money claims, in order to stop the running of interest a tender before suit must be followed by payment into Court. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 109 (111) : 55 Mad 458 (DB).

[12] Tender by cheque will be valid tender if the person to whom it is tendered is willing to receive payment by a cheque. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 230 (232) : 52 Mad 322 (DB).

[13] Debtor sending hawala to creditor to be presented to debtor's debtor and get payment — Creditor not presenting it due to his own laches—Debtor's debtor becoming insolvent — Debt can be deemed satisfied. (Vol 28) 1936 Rang 164 (165) (DB).

[14] Payment by voucher—Creditor accepting voucher and presenting it at treasury—Voucher not cashed due to mistake of creditor in endorsing it — Tender held valid. (Vol 25) 1938 All 15 (16) (DB).

3. Tender in part.—[1] Creditor is not bound to reduce costs of proceedings by accepting tender of part payment and thereby bringing suit within pecuniary jurisdiction of less costly tribunal. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 131 (134) : 1 L R (1938) 2 Cal 337.

[2] Rule treating tender of part of debt as nullity applies only when tenderor admits that more is due than is tendered. (192) 16 Bom 141 (150).

[3] Part payment is no valid tender—Its acceptance will not preclude a creditor from claiming the residue unless under a condition of tender, he accepted it in full discharge.—If there are several distinct debts, the tenderor should make appropriation specific or it will not be good for any. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 527 (530) (DB).

[4] Refusal of cheque on the ground that it was for less amount and not that it was not in cash is wrong—The tender is valid. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 118 (120) : 55 Bom 525 (DB).

[5] Where tender made by the lessee is not for the full amount which was due and the name of the sender is not disclosed, the tender is invalid. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 140 (141).

[6] Tender to be proper must be of whole amount due — This applies to mortgages also. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 241 (242) : 26 Oudh Cas 59 (DB).

[7] Tender of principal only where interest is expressly stipulated is not a proper tender. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1040 (1040).

[8] Mortgage deed providing for payment by yearly instalments and also delivery of possession—Mortgagee held could not refuse tender of the yearly instalment on the ground of the breach of the condition for delivery of possession. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 26 (28) : 50 Ind App 41 : 46 Mad 108 (P C).

[9] Where only for one consideration, a party to contract undertakes to do number of things which constitute only one contract, contract cannot be enforced piecemeal. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 266 (269) : 1 L R (1943) Nag 643.

4. Unconditional tender. — [1] Incomplete or conditional tender is not equivalent to payment. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 347 (349) (PC) (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 91 (93).

[2] Deposit in Court not good if made with condition — But if accepted by Court and upon objection by decree-holder, petitioner withdrew condition, it cannot be held as invalid. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 418 (419, 420) : 2 Pat 534 (DB).

[3] If the offer is accompanied by a condition which prevents it from being perfect or complete in itself, it is not equivalent to payment, and the promisee is under no obligation to accept it. Where the plaintiff sends a single cheque for two items, only one of which was due at the time while the other was payable after some time the cheque being one and indivisible can be accepted as a whole or not at all, and hence the tender of one of the items by that cheque is not good and the promisee is therefore within his rights in rejecting it. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 168 (175, 176) (DB).

[4] Conditional tender of rent demanding receipt that tenant paying rent was kaimi riyat is not good tender. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 332 (333).

[5] Debtor tendering portion of debt and asking creditor to take that in full satisfaction — This is tender with condition—Creditor is entitled to reject it. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 264 (272).

[6] Where tenant tendered reduced amount of rent and interest on arrears, on plea that not having been in possession of entire area he was entitled to abatement of rent, but no ground was made out for such abatement, tender is not good tender. (14) 41 Cal 493 (513) : 40 Ind App 223 (PC).

[7] Tender is not valid pro tanto if larger sum is in fact due and if tender is accompanied by demand for cancellation and delivery of mortgage deed. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 402 (404).

[8] Tendering higher priced goods, cannot be performance of contract. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 28 (30) (DB).

Section 38 (contd.)

[9] There cannot be tender or agreement to waive tender of unascertained sum. Offer to pay amount found due on settlement of accounts if payee undertook to execute indemnity bond, is not valid tender. ('11) 34 Mad 320 (322) (DB).

[10] A tender made "under protest" is not bad in law. Similarly the tender of more than what is due is also good. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 168 (175) (DB).

5. "Able and willing." — [1] Offer made by promisor through solicitor to pay debt with interest due thereon on date of offer does not of itself afford reasonable opportunity to promisee of ascertaining whether promisor is able and willing to perform his promise—Offer to representatives of creditors stands on same footing. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 131 (133); ILR (1938) 2 Cal 337.

[2] Plea of tender is good only if it is accompanied by deposit in Court. It must not only allege that person raising plea is still ready. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 874 (875) (DB).

[3] Mere offer by postal letter to tender expenses of sale and registration by vendee is not legal tender. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 546 (547) (DB).

[4] Offer to perform — Must fulfil all requirements regarding delivery. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 97 (100).

[5] In order to be considered to be ready and willing to deliver, a seller need not be in physical possession of the goods. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 971 (972) (DB).

[6] Vendor to notify an arrival of goods from Mills and vendee to take delivery at vendor's godowns — Vendor need not prove presence of goods at godowns. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1290 (1291) (DB).

[7] Contracts of purchase — Defendants offering to deliver goods to plaintiff though they themselves had not taken delivery from their own vendors—Plaintiff refusing though repeatedly asked — Tender held valid and plaintiff held committed breach. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 888 (889).

[8] Mere expression by letter of willingness or readiness to deliver is not proper offer, nor willingness to execute release deed without having document ready for delivery. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 210 (216); 38 Mad 959 (DB).

6. Reasonable opportunity of inspection.—[1] Section 38 only requires reasonable opportunity to be given to buyer to examine goods sold. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 144 (144) & (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 62 (65) (DB) & (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1168 (1171) (DB). (Promisor is under no obligation to prove identity of goods.)

[2] Natural place of inspection is place of delivery unless such place is not final destination of the goods to vendor's knowledge and inspection at that place is unsuitable or unreasonable. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 879 (883); 39 Cal 928.

[3] Though joint survey would be, by itself, reasonable opportunity, yet it is not essential element to constitute reasonable opportunity. Also it cannot be taken that purchaser is entitled to continue inspecting and examining goods until expiration of period for delivery. Reasonable opportunity afforded for examination is reasonable limit alike for vendor and purchaser. (1881-82) 6 Bom 692 (698, 699). (Period of twenty-four hours held to be reasonable opportunity.)

[4] Vendor not bound to see that purchaser takes delivery in time when he has accepted tender of delivery and drawn samples. (Vol 8) 1916 Sind 35 (36); 9 Sind L R 160 (DB).

[5] Tender of money locked up in box or of goods enclosed in case, which other party is not allowed to open is not sufficient tender and plea of tender as an answer to action is incomplete unless accompanied by tender in Court. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 210 (216); 38 Mad 959 (DB).

7. Tender to one of joint promisees — [1] Coheirs of a single promisee are not joint promisees within the meaning of S. 38 ('09) 1 I C 219 (219) (DB) (Mad).

[2] Assignees of mortgagee are not joint promisees within S. 38 — Receipt by co assignee of his share of mortgage-debt, is not on behalf of others—His liability to account for amount realised cannot be enforced. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 818 (822) (DB).

[3] Mortgagees must be regarded, unless contrary is shown, as to be in position of tenants-in-common. Payment to one of two mortgagees is not discharge of mortgagor's liability to the other. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 27 (28); 5 Pat L Jour 376 (DB). & (Vol 5) 1918 Upp Bur 19 (21); 3 Upp Bur Rul 42.

[4] This section does not deal with legal consequences of accepted tender. ('13) 36 Mad 544 (545) (FB). (Per White C. J. dissenting from the Full Bench decision—Per Full Bench: Payment to one promisee has legal effect of payment to all joint promisees.) & (Vol 32) 1945 All 511 (515, 516); I L R (1945) All 165 (DB). Section does not deal with case of offer accepted by one of several joint promisees but refers only to case of offer which has been rejected.) & (Vol 1) 1914 All 518 (518) (DB).

[See also (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 420 (421) (DB). (Collusive and fraudulent payment of rent to one does not mean payment to whole body of landlords.) & ('12) 35 Mad 685 (687) (DB). (Do.)]

[But see (Vol 24) 1937 All 527 (527). (Payment of rent to one of co-sharers gives valid discharge.) & (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 261 (263); 48 Mad 693 (DB) & ('23) 73 Ind. Cas 682 (687) (Pesh). [5] Obiter—Acceptance by one of joint promisees absolves debtor from liability to the other where postal money order is addressed to both. (Vol 10) 1923 All 465 (466).

[6] See also under Section 43.

8. Refusal or acceptance of offer. — [1] Mortgagee's reply to equity of redemption that no tender need be made as mortgagor's right has vested in him but also mentioning the amount due on the mortgage, is not a refusal of a tender, so as to stop running of interest. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 26 (28); 46 Mad 103; 50 Ind App 41 (P C).

[2] Interest ceases to run when valid tender is improperly refused. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 310 (311) (DB) & (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 230 (232); 59 Mad 322 (DB). 9. Waiver of tender.—[1] Contract of repurchase — Production of cash only is strict compliance but vendee's conduct may amount to dispensation with literal compliance. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 533 (534) (DB).

39. When a party to a contract has refused to perform, or disabled himself from performing, his promise in its entirety, the promisee may put an end to the contract, unless he has signified, by words or conduct, his acquiescence in its continuance.

(a) A, a singer, enters into a contract with B, the manager of a theatre, to sing at his theatre two nights in every week during the next two months, and B engages to pay her 100 rupees for each night's performance. On the sixth night A wilfully absents herself from the theatre. B is at liberty to put an end to the contract.

(b) A, a singer, enters into a contract with B, the manager of a theatre, to sing at his theatre two nights in every week during the next two months, and B engages to pay her at the rate of 100 rupees for each night. On the sixth night A wilfully absents herself. With the assent of B, A sings on the seventh night. B has signified his acquiescence in the continuance of the contract, and cannot now put an end to it, but is entitled to compensation for the damage sustained by him through A's failure to sing on the sixth night.

5. Waiver.
6. Promisor's insolvency—Effect.
7. Contract of service.
8. Compensation for breach.
9. Rescission — Plaintiff's default — Effect.
10. Restitution.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Section 39, Contract Act, applies to cases of what are called "executory" contracts and not to "executed" contracts. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 8 (5) : 22 Pat 306 (DB).

[2] Section 39 does not apply to transaction which is an actual conveyance of immovable property. (1877-78) 2 Bom 547 (548) (DB) * (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 514 (515) : 2 Pat L Jour 168 (DB) * (1912) 34 All 273 (277) (DB).

[See also (Vol 17) 1930 All 506 (508) (DB)]

[3] The word "anticipatory" nowhere occurs in the section. This section applies to all breaches which occur before the expiry of the last date on which the contract can be performed in the whole or in part though it also covers all earlier breaches. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 693 (695, 696) : 8 Lah 501 (DB).

[4] Section 39 only enacts what was the law in England and the law in India before the Act was passed. The illustration (a) is not quite happy and is likely to lead to misapprehension. (1879) 4 Cal 252 (256) (DB).

[5] Remedy in S. 39 is not only remedy to party who has done his part of contract ; he can also sue other party to recover debt, arising from part of contract done by him. (1910) 34 Bom 192 (198) (DB).

2. "Disabled himself from performing." —

[1] Where a party has by his own conduct made it impossible for himself to perform his contract in its entirety within the stipulated time, the other party is legally entitled to put an end to the contract without incurring any liability for damages. (1931) 32 Pun L R 593 (597) (DB).

[2] East Africa Order, 1897, Part IV, Art. 11 (b)—Party bound to convey timber by wagons, selling off wagons and oxen and disabling himself from performing his promise in its entirety — Promisee may put an end to the contract. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 190 (192) (PC).

[3] Where a widow enters into a compromise with the sole person entitled to the estate, whereby she obtains a life estate in the property on condition that she would not exercise the right of adoption conferred by her husband, she cannot take any advantage under the compromise if subsequently she adopts in pursuance of the authority of her husband. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 265 (275) (DB).

[4] Contract of affreightment—Demand by shipper for space as per terms of contract — Fact that shipper had no goods to ship and was attempting to obtain advantage due to rise in freight does not entitle the shipowner to repudiate the contract—On the date of demand it cannot be said that shipper had disabled himself from performing his part of the contract under S. 39. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 146 (150).

[5] Party not to cut trees more than he had paid for—Cutting in breach—Promisee entitled to rescind. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 259 (268) : 25 Oudh Cas 169 (DB).

[6] The defendant agreed to sell to plaintiff property, for a certain sum which he had received from plaintiff, after buying the property at an auction sale. The defendant bought it, but by collusion with a third person put it out of his power to perform his part of the contract. The plaintiff sued for the refund of his money — Held, that a suit lay for cancellation of the contract under S. 39, and was triable by Small Cause Court for the refund of the amount. (Vol 16) 1929 All 62 (62).

[7] Agreement between landlord and tenant — Tenant to use specified area for grove — Tenant breaking condition by using small portion for other purposes — Zamindar is entitled to eject the tenant if he has not acquiesced in the breach. (Vol 15) 1928 All 117 (118).

3. "In its entirety." — [1] Right of rescission arises only when other party fails to perform contract in its entirety. (1912) 6 Sind L R 103 (106) (DB).

[2] Where the question is whether the one party is set free by the action of the other, the real matter for consideration is whether the acts or conduct of the one do or do not amount to an intimation of an intention to abandon and altogether refuse performance of the contract. (1906) 33 Cal 477 (482) (SB). (1874) 9 C P 208, applied.)

[3] Repudiation must be total, absolute and clear. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 247 (251) : 47 Bom 924 * (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 126 (126).

[4] Where there was contract to deliver goods in two instalments and plaintiff failed to tender for, or take delivery of, first instalment although market was in his favour, but, as regards second instalment, made tender which defendants refused to recognise because of such failure, held, under circumstances, conduct of plaintiff had not amounted to renunciation, to absolute refusal to perform contract, such as would amount to rescission and therefore defendants could not accept it as reason for not performing his part. (1906) 33 Cal 477 (482, 484) (SB).

[5] Where a party to a contract complains about delay in carrying out the contract and protests against the other party's right to put an end to it, it cannot amount to a refusal to perform. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 427 (431) (DB).

[But see (06) 1906 Pun Re No. 103, page 363 (366) (DB).] (Mortgage—Part of consideration left with mortgagee who undertook to pay off prior encumbrance with it—Default by mortgagee—Mortgage contract never came into existence owing to non-payment of consideration as agreed—Even if there was a completed contract it came to an end owing to mortgagee's default to carry out its terms—This was a case of rescission under S. 39—Mortgagee cannot claim repayment.) * (1895) 18 Mad 126 (127). (Mortgage—Part of consideration left with mortgagee to pay prior mortgagee—Default—Held, that mortgagor was entitled to cancel the mortgage under S. 39, but mortgagor was bound to give up the benefit he had received—Mortgagee was not entitled to treat the mortgage as one in force for the sum already received.]

[7] Property mortgaged for 15 years in consideration of mortgagee paying mortgagor's decree-holder—Mortgagee making default, mortgagor pays off decree-holder—Mortgagor entitled to redeem before expiry of 15 years as mortgagee breaks condition. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 12 (14) : 2 Luck. 279 (DB).

[8] Contract for supply of goods contained condition regarding cash payment on delivery of railway receipts but credit had for long been allowed to purchaser—Rescission of contract on ground of purchaser's refusal to pay cash on one occasion cannot be sustained under S. 39. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 298 (301) : 1914 Pun Re No 63 (DB).

[9] Defendant in Madras agreed to take goods to be supplied by plaintiffs by monthly shipments from England. There was also proviso in agreement by which plaintiffs were excused from monthly shipments if space in ships sailing for Madras was not available. Second shipment was not made within one month from first, though ship was available few days earlier for such shipment. Defendant having rescinded contract, plaintiffs sued him for damages for non-acceptance : Held, reasonable construction was that interval contemplated by parties to agreement was not precisely one month or 30 days, but one month more or less, regard being had to time which it may be reasonable to allow to plaintiff to find steamer available for required shipment ; and that, plaintiffs having failed to make second shipment by steamer which was available, defendant was entitled to rescind contract. (1895) 18 Mad 63 (70, 72) (DB).

[10] The defendants who contracted to purchase 25 bales of yarn from the plaintiff and take delivery of the bales one day after notice of arrival, took delivery of three bales and did not take delivery of seven bales, though notice was given about their arrival as well. The plaintiffs treated this as a repudiation of the entire contract and did not give notice of arrival as regards the remaining 15 bales. In a suit by plaintiffs for damages for breach of contract in respect of 22 bales, held, the plaintiffs were not entitled to treat the conduct of the defendant as a repudiation of the entire contract and were bound to give the notice. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1290 (1291) (DB).

[11] Talking of refusing to perform but asking for further information and speaking of sending definite reply when it arrives is no repudiation. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 28 (29) (DB).

[12] Unreasonable postponement will entitle vendor to terminate contract for sale of land. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 141 (142) (DB).

[13] Where, in contract, under which defendants agreed to deliver certain goods to plaintiffs, to be paid for, on delivery, defendants made part delivery, for which, however, plaintiffs declined to pay until certain cross claims of theirs had been adjusted, and defendants, thereupon, refused to deliver remainder and cancelled contract, it was held that there was not such refusal on part of plaintiffs to perform their part of contract as to entitle defendants to rescind under S. 39. (1879) 4 Cal 252 (256) (DB).

[14] Contract for sale—Vendor unable to make out good title—Vendee can repudiate contract under S. 39 or treat the case as one of want of mutuality. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 195 (202, 203) : 51 Bom 247 (DD)

[15] Sale of house—Possession not delivered forthwith—Vendee can rescind contract. (32) 1932 Mad W N 122 (125) (DB).

[16] Agreement by B to supply goods to A—Ready delivery within one week—Delivery of all the goods within one week not asked for by A—A held had impliedly refused to perform the contract in its entirety and S. 39 applied. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 18 (20) (Oudh).

[17] Promise of indemnity is an implied term of the contract of agency, hence the refusal of the principal to indemnify the agent for any act done by him in the course of agency, justifies him to rescind the contract of agency under S. 39. (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 30 (32) : 9 Sind L R 77 (DB).

[18] Parties to a contract agreeing to substitute old contract by a new one, by payment cash down of Rs. 500 and by execution and registration of a mortgage bond for balance—Cash not paid—Assuming that registration receipt was offered to promisee and he refused to accept it, held that promisor refused to perform his part of the contract in its entirety as cash payment was part of agreement of passing liability for balance on mortgage bond—S. 39 applied and parties were relegated to their own position under the old contract—There was no novation under S. 62. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 121 (124) (DB).

[19] Promisee is not bound to accept part performance. (21) 3 Lah L Jour 141 (144) (DB).

[20] The party repudiating the contract is entitled before the date fixed for completion of the contract to withdraw his repudiation, unless and until the other party has accepted the repudiation and elected to treat the contract as terminated, and to insist upon the contract being performed in its entirety. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 217 (220) : 5 Lah 497 (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 693 (695, 696) : 8 Lah 501 (DB).

[21] Under a contract for sale, yarn to be delivered on steamer at Madras in July, August and September, in three shipments—No yarn shipped in July and August, but ten bales shipped together in September—Defendant not complaining of even delays in deliveries but just before tender of the goods, gave notice to plaintiffs of his intention to put an end to entire contract—Defendant was not entitled to rescind entire contract but plaintiffs should be awarded damages in respect of the bales allocated for the September shipment. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 675 (676) (DB).

4. "Promisee may put an end to the contract."

[1] Repudiation by promisor before time of performance—Promisee may at once accept repudiation and bring his action as on a breach of it, or he may treat notice of intention as inoperative and await the time for performance and then hold the other party responsible for all the consequences of non-performance—Contract is not necessarily broken by the mere notice of intention to break the contract. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 778 (781) : 49 Mad 681 (DB) * (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 217 (220) : 5 Lah 497 (DB) * (12) 6 Sind L R 187 (189) (DB) * (1872) L R 7 Ex 111 (112, 113). (Same considerations apply to a contingent contract.) * (1868) 1 Mad H O R 162 (163).

[2] Where the promisee treats the notice of intention of promisor not to perform the contract as inoperative, the promisee keeps the contract alive for the benefit of the other party as well as his own, he remains subject to all his own obligations and liabilities under it, and enables the other party not only to complete the contract, if so advised, notwithstanding his previous repudiation of it, but also to take advantage of any supervening circumstance which would justify him in declining to complete it. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 778 (781) : 49 Mad 781 (DB) & (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 303 (312) : 46 Bom 489 (DB) & (11) 1 Mad W N 265 (266) (DB) & (1872) L R 7 Ex 111 (112).

[8] Repudiation before time of performance — Acceptance determines the contract — Party repudiating cannot turn round and insist on performance or sue for damages for non-performance. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 217 (220) : 5 Lah 497 (DB).

[4] Where one party to contract has not merely offered to cancel the contract but has definitely expressed an unalterable resolve to refuse to perform it, the other party to the contract may accept the termination several months after the offer after making vain efforts to induce the buyer to change his mind. This is to be distinguished from the case where one party to a contract makes a definite offer to put an end to the contract and that offer has been definitely rejected by the other party, in which case it will not be open to the latter party to cancel the contract several months afterwards by merely accepting the offer to terminate the contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 217 (220) : 5 Lah 497 (DB).

[5] On renunciation of a contract by one party, the other party will be justified in regarding himself as discharged from all liability. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 136 (147) : 43 Cal 790 (DB).

[6] A, party to contract informing his intention not to perform contract to B, the other party to contract — Contract terminates when B exercises his option of treating the contract as cancelled, and so, breach takes place when A receives letter of cancellation. (Vol 21) 1934 All 740 (764) : 56 All 828 (DB). (Reversed on a different point in (Vol 25) 1938 P C 165 : 65 Ind App 182 : I L R (1938) All 601 : 32 Sind L R 531 (PC).)

[7] Contract for sale — Defect in vendor's title — Vendee cannot be compelled to rescind contract or accept the title without investigation. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 859 (861) (DB).

[8] Contract for lease of toll—Default by contractor in payment of kist—Re-sale of toll—Sale postponed for want of bidders — Subsequent sale and suit for loss incurred—Held, that notice of re-sale put an end to contract—S. 39 applied and not Ss. 107 and 68—Limitation for suit for loss ran from date of re-sale and not date of actual sale. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 704 (706).

[9] Per Scott, C. J.—The fact that party to contract under S. 39, when other side has refused to perform it, may put an end to it and sue for compensation for breach, does not oblige him to take that course at his peril; he may, if he prefers it, sue to recover any debt due to him which has arisen from his execution of his part of contract. (10) 34 Bom 192 (198) (DB).

[10] Repudiation of the contract by one of several joint promisors entitles the promisee to rescind the contract as against others. (09) 19 Mad L Jour 28 (31) (DB).

5. Waiver.—[1] Promisor refusing to perform his part of the contract in its entirety — Promisee not rescinding contract but acquiescing in its performance — Promisee not entitled to demand price under the contract before the date due under the contract. (Vol 12) 1925 P. C. 188 (193) (PC).

[2] Legatee agreeing to pay guzara to testator from date of execution of will — Will executed — Legatee making default in payment of guzara—Will not revoked by testator — Legal representatives of testator cannot revoke will and rescind contract. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 193 (209, 210) : 21 Luck 314 (DB).

[3] Mortgage suit — Preliminary decree—Subsequent agreement—Plaintiff agreeing to take property at valuation less than amount fixed by preliminary decree — Judgment-debtor agreeing to pay additional sum—Security for latter offered — Default — Plaintiff asking for personal decree for amount due on preliminary decree and also praying execution against surety — Plaintiff is not estopped by acquiescence from proceeding with preliminary decree from the mere fact that the plaintiff mistakenly pursued both the remedies at the same time. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 353 (355) (DB).

[4] Contract for sale of property—Portion of purchase money left with vendee — Vendor being unable to give possession of property sold, vendee obtaining possession of other equivalent property but making default in payment to creditor—Held, that vendee having waived his right to put an end to the contract, was bound to return the balance of the purchase money as agreed. (Vol 21) 1934 All 617 (618).

[5] Contract of agency continuing—Principal is liable to pay agents' commission according to agreement till their dismissal in spite of all shortcomings in discharge of their duties as there was acquiescence in the continuance of managing agency. (Vol 16) 1929 All 87 (94) (DB).

[6] Contract to sell timber—Vendor insisting on payment of full price before vendee can be allowed to remove timber—Vendor selling part of contract timber to third party — Vendee keeping contract alive, has no cause of action to sue for damages if he claims credit for value of timber sold. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 979 (982) (DB).

6. Promisor's insolvency — Effect.—[1] A bare notice of insolvency does not necessarily and in all cases amount to a declaration of intention not to fulfil obligation under the contract. It is a question of fact in each case. (Vol 1) 1914 Sind 53 (55) : 8 Sind L R 95 (DB).

7. Contract of service. — [1] Sections 39 and 64 and justice, equity and good conscience require that servant who quits his master's service in India before expiry of contract period, should be ordinarily paid for full period he worked under master deducting the damages caused by breach. (12) 23 Mad L Jour 680 (682).

8. Compensation for breach. — [1] Repudiation by promisor before time of performance—Acceptance by promisee and later suing at once for damages for non-performance—Promisee will be entitled to such damages as would have arisen from the non-performance of the contract at the appointed time, subject however, to abatement in respect of any circumstances which may have afforded him the means of mitigating his loss. (1872) L R 7 Ex 111 (113) & (12) 6 Sind L R 187 (189) (DB). (Law as to damages as in case of anticipating breach of forward contracts discussed.)

[2] If a promisor performs his promise after the time fixed for performance and the promisee accepts the performance, the promisor is not liable to damages unless at the time of accepting performance the promisee gives notice of his intention to claim compensation. (12) 14 Ind Cas 129 (130) (All).

[3] Contract to pay debts of another — Breach — Starting point of limitation for suit for damages for breach—Time does not begin to run against the promisee from the date of repudiation of agreement by the promisor—Fact that promisee himself paid the debts in itself gives him no cause of action—If the promisee paid them before the expiry of a reasonable time after the agreement, the defendant may plead want of reasonable time to perform and that consequently there was no breach—If the plaintiff (promisee) waited till the expiry of a reasonable time, defendant's breach of contract

By whom Contracts must be performed.

40. If it appears from the nature of the case that it was the intention of the parties to any contract that any promise contained in it should be performed by the person by whom promise is to be performed, the promisor himself, such promise must be performed by the promisor. In other cases, the promisor or his representatives may employ a competent person to perform it.

Illustrations.

(a) A promises to pay B a sum of money. A may perform this promise, either by personally paying the money to B, or by causing it to be paid to B by another; and if A dies before the time appointed for payment, his representatives must perform the promise, or employ some proper person to do so.

(b) A promises to paint a picture for B. A must perform this promise personally.

Effect of accepting performance from third person. 41. When a promisee accepts performance of the promise from a third person, he cannot afterwards enforce it against the promisor.

42. When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then unless a contrary intention appears by the contract all such persons, during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, his representative jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, the representatives of all jointly, must fulfil the promise.

[1] Contract for sale of immovable property—Defect in title — Vendor cannot sue for rescission of contract. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 859 (861).

[2] Party committing breach cannot require other party to perform his part of the contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 474 (475).

10. Restitution.—[1] The party putting an end to the contract under S. 39, is liable under S. 64 to restore to the other party any benefit received by him under the contract. (Vol 80) 1948 P C 34 (39) : 70 Ind App 35 : 1 L R (1948) Kar P C 80 (P C). (Case of contract coming under S. 39 comes under the phrase 'voidable contract.')

[1] On death of banker liability of his sons to pay sums to customers is not changed. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 129 (131) (DB).

[2] Specific performance regarding contract for purchase of immovable property can be claimed against legal representative. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 274 (274) : 7 Rang 423 (DB).

Section 41 — Note 1

[1] The section applies only where a contract has been in fact performed by some person other than the person bound thereby. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 68 (70) : 39 All 178 : 44 Ind App 60 (P C) * (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (90) : 1 L R (1942) 1 Cal 287 (DB).

[2] What is required by S. 41 is actual performance and not a substituted promise. According to the section, performance by a stranger, accepted by the promisee, produces the result of discharging the promisor, although the latter has neither authorized nor ratified the act of the third party. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 972 (974).

[3] Subsequent mortgage in lieu of a prior mortgage — Suit on subsequent mortgage — Subsequent mortgage found invalid therein—Revival of right of suit on proper mortgage — Contract Act, S. 41, does not apply. (Vol 8) 1916 P C 68 (70) : 39 All 178 : 44 Ind App 60 (P C).

[4] A instituted suit against B and C. The plaintiff averred that the amount in suit was due to A by B and that C was liable for the reason that he had undertaken to make the payment. It was alleged that C had intimated this fact to A whereupon the debit and credit entries had been made in accounts but subsequently C informed in writing that inasmuch as B had failed to pay him he withdrew his undertaking to pay to A. Subsequently A withdrew his case against C and proceeded only against B. The lower appellate Court applied S. 41 and dismissed the suit. On appeal held that there was no novation within meaning of S. 62 and that S. 41 did not apply to the case. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 335 (338).

[5] Just like S. 63, S. 41 also enables a promisee not only to release a debt at the instance of a third party, but also to enable the promisor whose debt has been released at the instance of the third party to take advantage of that release. The intention is that release need not be made in favour of the person liable. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 123 (124) (DB).

[6] A adopted B. Subsequently B renewed promissory notes executed by A — B's adoption set aside — Creditor can fall back on original notes as in such cases B is not 'third person.' (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 972 (974).

[7] A was the cashier and accountant of a company and B was the auditor of the company. A misappropriated large sums of the company and executed a promissory note for Rs. 50,000 in favour of the company for the amount misappropriated by him. B was liable to the company for his negligence and paid Rs. 60,000 to the company in full discharge of that liability. It was contended that by reason of payment by B, A's liability under the promissory note was discharged under S. 41 of the Contract Act. Held, that S. 41 had no application as A's liability was a contractual one while B's liability was one in tort. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 218 (226) (DB).

[8] Where pre-emption decree proved abortive, after payment by pre-emptor of the unpaid purchase money to vendor, the vendor cannot enforce his lien for unpaid purchase money, against vendee, till he has reimbursed the pre-emptor, money paid by him. (13) 16 Oudh Cas 1 (3, 4).

Section 42 — Note 1

[1] Under S. 42, the obligation to perform the promise of the promisor devolves jointly on all his representatives and on the death of one of them, his heirs

43. When two or more persons make a joint promise, the promisee may, in the absence of any one of joint promisors express agreement to the contrary, compel any [one or more] of such joint promisors to perform the whole of the promise.

Each of two or more joint promisors may compel every other joint promisor to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract.

Sharing of loss by default in contribution. If any one of two or more joint promisors makes default in such contribution, the remaining joint promisors must bear the loss arising from such default in equal shares.

Explanation.— Nothing in this section shall prevent a surety from recovering, from his principal, payments made by the surety on behalf of the principal, or entitle the principal to recover anything from the surety on account of payments made by the principal.

Illustrations.

(a) A, B, and C jointly promise to pay D, 3,000 rupees. D may compel either A or B or C to pay him 3,000 rupees.

(b) A, B, and C jointly promise to pay D the sum of 3,000 rupees. C is compelled to pay the whole. A is insolvent, but his assets are sufficient to pay one-half of his debts. C is entitled to receive 500 rupees from A's estate, and 1,250 rupees from B.

(c) A, B, and C are under a joint promise to pay D, 3,000 rupees. C is unable to pay anything, and A is compelled to pay the whole. A is entitled to receive 1,500 rupees from B.

(d) A, B, and C are under a joint promise to pay D, 3,000 rupees, A and B being only sureties for C. C fails to pay. A and B are compelled to pay the whole sum. They are entitled to recover it from C.

1. Scope — [1] Sections 43, 69, 70 do no more than state in written form what was law before the Act. (1898) 9 Cal 395 (397) (DB).

[2] Section 43 operates to enable the creditor to sue one of several joint promisors without impleading the others and has the effect of converting a joint contract into a joint and several contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 94 (95) & (5) 1905 Pun Re No. 81, page 254 (255) (DB).

[3] Under the provisions of S. 43 it is quite within the competency of the lender to sue all or any of the joint promisors as he may choose. There is nothing in the Civil P. C., which mitigates such a course. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 164 (165) : 2 Pat 466 (DB).

[4] Where A and B bound themselves for conduct of C, but could terminate suretyship on giving notice to postal authorities in whose service C got in, suit for contribution against heirs of A will lie by B who had to pay under surety bond for misconduct of C as guarantee was continuing guarantee and properties of A were liable therefor. (Vol 8) 1921 All 287 (258) : 43 All 132 (DB) & (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 426 (427) : 7 Pat 353 (DB).

[See however (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 357 (358) (DB).]

2. Joint promisors. — [1] Where the debts are jointly incurred the liability of each is for the whole amount. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 962 (963) & (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 24 (25) (DB).

[2] Joint contract of agency created by registered Kabulyat is not put an end to by death of one of promisors as agency is joint and several according to S. 43. Surviving agent will be liable to render accounts and suit against him is governed by Art. 116 of Limitation Act. (1913) 17 Cal L Jour 201 (204, 205) (DB).

[3] Whether a sale-deed is joint transaction making all vendees jointly liable or is really several transaction making each vendee responsible for his own share only is a question of fact depending on the intention of the parties. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 806 (807) (DB).

6. Partners. — [1] Section 43 applies as much to partners as to other co-contractors. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 407 (409) * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 819 (821) : 9 Lah 217 (DB) * (1893) 17 Bom 6 (11) (DB) * (1881-82) 6 Bom 700 (702) * (1898) 21 Mad 256 (257) (DB).

[2] Cause of action against firm is a joint cause of action against all partners and each partner is jointly and severally liable for the whole claim. (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 75 (76).

[3] One partner paying partnership debt is entitled to contribution from other partners. (Vol 29) 1942 Nag 72 (72, 73) : 1 L R (1942) Nag 340.

[4] A person who is a partner in a firm and also a creditor of it is not only a promisee of the firm, but he is also one of the joint promisors to himself and under S. 43 (2) he can only call upon each of the other joint promisors to contribute equally to the payment to be made to himself as promisee. (Vol 8) 1921 Nag 45 (46).

[5] Suit instituted against partners in private capacity, if unsuccessful, cannot be continued against them as firm and S. 43 has no application to such a case. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 167 (168) : 1915 Pun Re No 76 (DB).

7. Joint tort-feasors.—[1] If an act is manifestly unlawful, or the doer of it knows it to be unlawful as constituting either civil wrong or a criminal offence, he cannot maintain an action for contribution or indemnity against the liability which results therefrom. An express promise of indemnity to him for the commission of such act is void. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 1 (5) (FB) * (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 49 (51) : 15 Pat 219 (DB) * (1902) 25 Mad 399 (601, 602) (DB).

[3] Person in wrongful possession cannot bring suit for contribution if payment was made in support of his own title. (1911) 13 Cal L Jour 646 (647) (DB).

[4] Where joint debtors (who were joint tort-feasors in the suit) have under compromise in Court contracted to pay a sum to plaintiff and some of them pay the sum and sue the rest for contribution, their claim cannot be resisted on the ground that all of them were joint tort-feasors before the compromise. (Vol 3) 1916 All 160 (161) : 38 All 237 (DB).

8. Contribution. — [1] "Contribution" signifies payment by each of the parties interested of his share in any common liability. Mutuality is thus the test of contribution. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal. 626 (626) (DB) * (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 278 (279) (DB).

[2] Where A and two others jointly executed a hand-note and there was no provision in the contract by which A and the others bound themselves to repay the loan to the promisee, to the effect that A would not be entitled to compel the other joint promisors to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, and on a joint decree being passed in a suit by the promisee, the amount was realised from A who thereupon filed a suit for contribution against his co-promisors :

Held, that under S. 43, Contract Act, the Court had no option but to grant a decree to A especially as there was no material before the Court to enable it to come to the finding that under the terms of the contract, the entire liability for the money borrowed was to be borne by A alone. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 411 (413) (DB).

[3] One of the co-vendors paying compensation to vendee in pursuance of a clause in sale-deed is entitled to contribution from other co-vendors even though they were not consulted when payment was made. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 382 (383).

[4] Decree passed jointly against A and B in proportion to their shares under thikanama, A and B being in possession under same thikanama — Decretal amount paid by A only—B is bound to contribute to the extent of his share. (Vol 16) 1929 All 792 (793) (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 234 (235) : 10 Pat 168 (DB).

[5] One of three judgment-debtors alone having paid the whole amount decreed is entitled to one-third from each of the joint judgment-debtors, and if nothing can be realised from either of them, he is obviously entitled to get half the total amount from the other. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 148 (149).

[6] Co-sharer landlord brought suit for his share of rent against all except one of several co-tenants, and sold holding in execution of decree obtained therein. A purchaser of interest of remaining co-tenant applied under S 310A, Civil P. C., (1882) and sale was set aside on his making required deposit : Held (Per Doss J.) that plaintiff was entitled to recover defendant's share of decretal debt, not under S. 70 as, being co-tenant, he was himself liable to landlord for whole debt, but under S. 43 his obligation to pay remaining, notwithstanding that decree was passed against other co-tenants only. (1911) 33 Cal 1 (6, 7, 11, 12).

[7] Debt kept alive by acknowledgment — Joint promisor bound to contribute towards debt—One promisor paying decretal amount has cause of action against other for contribution from date of payment—The other is bound to contribute. liability, even if the decree as such is found to be not binding on the defendant. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 386 (387, 388) : 57 Mad 973 (DB).

[9] Payment by one of the co-debtors which does not exonerate other co-debtors from liability does not give a right of contribution to the co-debtor making such payment. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 279 (280) (DB).

[10] A mere undertaking to pay the amount at some future date is not equivalent to payment. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 261 (263) : 48 Mad 693 (DB).

[11] Where the defendants were co-principals with the plaintiff, each being bound to pay only his share of the debt, to discharge his own part of obligation, it was held that the mere fact that there was a decree against the plaintiff (one of the several joint debtors who were new defendants) did not entitle him to sue the others for contribution. (1878) 11 Beng L R 76 (82, 83) (DB).

[12] In a suit for contribution, the respective liabilities of all the parties should be ascertained and determined once for all and nothing should be left undetermined which may lead to further litigation for the ascertainment of such liability between two or more of the parties to the suit. Hence, a suit for contribution would fail in limine where a person, who is a necessary party and in whose absence the liabilities of the parties to the suit cannot be satisfactorily ascertained, is not impleaded in the suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 119 (121) (DB).

[13] All partners must be joined in suit for contribution by one or more partners if partnership has come to an end and no adjustment has been made. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 9 (9).

[14] Where the claim for contribution is not based on the ground that as a partner the defendant is liable to contribute but the basis of the claim is a joint decree made against the plaintiff and the defendant in respect of debt contracted for partnership trade in execution of which the plaintiff alone had to pay the entire amount due under the decree, in such a case, the law of partnership does not prohibit the entertainment of a claim for contribution against other partner. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 508 (508).

[15] When one of the members who was compelled, at the suit of certain creditors of the partnership, to pay the whole amount due to them, he or his legal representative after his death can sue for contribution from the other partners after the dissolution of the partnership, though his right to sue for accounts or for a share in the partnership assets had become barred. In such a suit the defendants can show that on a settlement of accounts the amount payable by them as contribution would be wiped out or reduced. (1909) 32 Mad 203 (205, 206) (DB).

[16] Under the terms of a compromise arrived at between two partners, in a suit for dissolution of partnership, one of the partners agreed to accept as binding upon him a mortgage of partnership property executed by the other partner and originally disputed by him and to pay a sum of money in consideration of his share in the mortgaged property being released, a major portion of which amount, however, he failed to pay. The Privy Council subsequently held in a suit brought by the mortgagee on the foot of the said mortgage, that it was not binding on the partner who originally disputed the same but subsequently accepted it and the whole of the mortgage money was realised by the mortgagee from the executant of the mortgage alone :

Held that the other partner was liable to contribute to the said debt by paying the amount originally agreed to be paid by him under the terms of the compromise notwithstanding the fact that the mortgage in dispute was subsequently pronounced by the Privy Council not to be binding on him. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 10 (11) : 11 Nag L R 53 (P C).

[17] For contribution, a prima facie case is made by the production of the judgment and the certificate of satisfaction. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 437 (439).

[18] As to liability of co-sureties to contribute equally as between themselves, see section 146.

9. Accord and satisfaction by one. — [1] Under the English Law, accord and satisfaction made by one of several parties jointly liable or jointly and severally liable to the same creditor for the same debt, discharges the claim of the creditor against all. There is no reason why this principle would not apply to cases of joint and several liability under S. 43, Contract Act. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (91) : ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB).

10 Joint decree for costs—Contribution. —[1] On broad grounds of justice and equity there appears no reason why a decree for costs should be excepted from the doctrine of contribution. The only ground on which such an exception could possibly be based would be the doctrine that no contribution lies between joint tort-feasors. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 128 (129) : 24 Oudh Cas 145 (DB).

[2] Where in a suit in which both the defendants were equally delinquent in taking up the defence and a decree for cost is passed against them and one of them pays the same, he is entitled to contribution from the other. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 347 (349) * (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 579 (580) * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 167 (168, 169) : 59 Mad 250 (DB).

[3] M borrowing sum on simple mortgage from N and S—Portion of amount paid by N and rest by S—Mortgage decree passed and property put to sale—Suit by R against N and S for declaration of title to half property—Decree with costs—Costs recovered only from S—Suit by S against N for contribution—S and N held liable for costs only in proportion to their interest in property affected by R's suit and not equally. (Vol 25) 1938 All 631 (632) : I L R (1938) All 950.

[4] A co-defendant paying the full amount of costs cannot claim contribution unless some equity exists in his favour. In this respect a decree for costs stands on a different footing from a decree for payment of money arising out of a joint liability. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 146 (147).

[5] Defendants neither taking interest nor defending suit are equitably entitled to exemption from contribution for costs in joint decree against them. (Vol 16) 1929 All 654 (655) * (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 63 (65) * (Vol 24) 1937 All 227 (228).

[6] Mere execution of mortgage to satisfy the joint decree for costs does not entitle a defendant to claim contribution from other—Suit for contribution is premature until he redeems mortgage or mortgaged property is sold in satisfaction of mortgage. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 253 (255) : 12 Luck 45 (DB).

45. When a person has made a promise to two or more persons jointly, then, unless a Devolution of joint rights. contrary intention appears from the contract, the right to claim performance rests, as between him and them, with them during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, with the representative of such deceased person jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, with the representatives of all jointly.³

Illustration.

A, in consideration of 5000 rupees lent to him by B and C, promises B and C jointly to repay them that sum with interest on a day specified. B dies. The right to claim performance rests with B's representative jointly with C during C's life, and, after the death of C, with the representatives of B and C jointly.

Section 44 (contd.)

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] English law doctrine that release of one of several joint debtors releases all from liability has no application to India. ('11) 14 Cal L Jour 854 (857, 858) (DB).

[2] Section means, generally, that release to one of several contractors does not discharge co-contractors, and applies as well to a discharge after breach as to a release before breach. (1879) 4 Cal 336 (338).

[3] Section 44 applies as much to partial discharge as to complete discharge. ('42) 46 Cal W N 234 (237, 238) (DB).

1A. Co-sureties.—[1] As to whether release of one co-surety discharges others, see Section 188.

2. Co-mortgagors.—[1] Release by the creditor of one of the mortgagors, jointly and severally liable, has not the effect of releasing others. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 502 (505) : 44 Cal 162 (DB).

[2] The qualified release of a part of the mortgage security in favour of some of several joint mortgagors, resulting from the mortgagee not seeking to enforce his right as against any surplus sale-proceeds of such part when sold in satisfaction of a prior mortgage, ought not to affect the mortgagee's right. ('03) 30 Cal 953 (958) (DB).

[3] Where five brothers had made themselves jointly liable for a sum of money under a bond and mortgaged certain village as security for the debt and the mortgagee having subsequently taken a separate bond from each of the two brothers for one-fifth of the whole amount, sought to recover the remaining three-fifths of the said amount from remaining three brothers: Held that any one of the five might be sued for the whole amount and the promisee was entitled to recover the three-fifths from the remaining three brothers. (1876) 25 Suth W R 419 (419) (DB).

3. Co-heirs. — [1] Claim for rent barred against some co-heirs—Remaining heirs not separately liable for entire rent. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 861 (862) (DB).

4. Co-judgment-debtors.—[1] The release of a joint judgment-debtor does not operate as a release of the others. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 328 (330) (DB) * (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 505 (507) * (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 209 (211) : 50 Cal 718 (DB) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 934 (936) : 39 Mad 548 (DB). (The other judgment-debtors can claim the benefit of the amount actually paid by the released judgment-debtor.) * (1880) 6 Cal L R 212 (214).

[See also (Vol 14) 1927 All 830 (831) (Joint decree against father and son—Father becoming insolvent and compounding with decree-holder—Son is liable only for such portion of decretal amount as had not already been realised by decree-holder in pursuance of the composition.)]

[2] Where some of the original defendants against whom joint decree for costs was passed die during the pendency of a Privy Council appeal and no substitution is made, it does not amount to a release by the decree-holder of the interests of those judgment-debtors and the interests of all the other judgment-debtors are not also released from all liability under the decree. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 24 (25) (DB).

[3] Release granted to one of several judgment-debtors without any intention to release others will discharge others only pro tanto and not in respect of the entire amount decreed. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 51 (53) (DB).

5. Decree against one co-promisor — Effect.—

[1] Where a promisee chooses to proceed against one co-promisor, and obtains a judgment, he has no right to proceed against the other co-contractors or co-promisors. (Vol 28) 1936 Bom 344 (345) : 60 Bom 954 (DB).

6. Contribution, right of. — [1] Where the promisee releases one or more of the joint promisors, the liability as between joint promisors to contribute equally does not end. (1941) 45 Cal W N 357 (361).

[2] Joint promissory note—Part payment by co promisor—Other co-promisor is liable for balance subject to his right of contribution. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 197 (137, 138).

SECTION 45 — Synopsis.

1. Scope.
2. Discharge by one.
3. Performance of promise during joint lives.
4. Devolution of joint rights.
5. Partnership.

1. Scope. — [1] It is doubtful whether S. 45 applies to claim for possession of land. Where, however, suit is really for specific performance of contract, defendant may plead S. 45 as bar. ('12) 1912 Pun L R No. 49 page 150 (158) : 1911 Pun Re No. 57 (DB)

[2] The words "as between him and them" in S. 45 signify that as between the debtor and original body of creditors, the right to claim payment would rest with the body, but if by part-payment the number of creditors is reduced, the right to claim payment will be a right arising as between the debtor and the remaining creditors. Where a partner of a dissolved firm collects his share of debts, impleading others, the other partners can sue for their share of debts. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 14 (15) : 1919 Pun Re No. 128.

2. Discharge by one. — [1] Payment to one of three persons who are jointly entitled to receive money is not good payment against others. (1913) 17 Cal Jour 372 (375) (DB) * (1913) 36 Mad 544 (549, 552) (FB). (One of two or more payees of negotiable instrument can give valid discharge of entire debt without concurrence of other payees)

[2] Where a tenant pays off the entire rent due from him to one of two co-sharers, he can escape liability to the other, if he shows that his payment to that co-sharer was one made bona fide. But if the payment by him was made to defeat the claims of the other co-sharer, the latter's right to recover his share of rent is not affected. (Vol 8) 1916 Mad 208 (208, 209) (DB).

[4] Payment to one co-mortgagee without consent of others does not give discharge of debt due to others. (Vol 17) 1930 All 98 (98, 99) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 983 (935) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 425 (429) (DB). (Payment operates as discharge as to share of payee only.) * (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 64 (64) (DB). (Release given by one co-mortgagee is not a discharge of entire mortgage much less a release given by one of heirs of a deceased mortgagee.) * (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 593 (596) (DB). (Consent of other is necessary.) * (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 91 (92). (Where two co-mortgagees advanced money without any specification of the shares, the presumption is that each of them advances half of the money. But a mere undertaking to pay the amount at some future date is not payment.) * (1909) 1 Ind Cas 219 (219) (DB) (Mad). (A release of a mortgagor by one of several joint mortgagees, on payment to him of the mortgage-debt, discharges the mortgagor from all liability under the mortgage to the other mortgagees, inasmuch as the mortgagor had made a promise to two mortgagees jointly and the right to claim performance rested with both mortgagees jointly.)]

[5] Where money was lent on joint account by two brothers who were appointed executors of the deceased testator by his will, the mortgagor in making repayment must see that he made the payment to and obtained a receipt from a person entitled to give him a discharge. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 568 (568, 569) (DB).

[6] Co-mortgagees being tenants-in-common their interests are severable or partible among themselves; so that one of them can sue on the mortgage provided those who are unwilling to be joined as plaintiffs are made defendants. Similarly, if some of the co-mortgagees are estopped from suing, Court can sever debt and give decree to others for their share. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 411 (412) (DB).

[7] See also S. 38.

3. Performance of promise during joint lives.—

[1] Joint promisees are not entitled to split up their claims and sue separately for their shares. All of them must join the suit which must also include the entire debt. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 84 (84, 85) * (Vol 23) 1938 Pat 274 (276) : 37 Ori L Jour 848. (Promissory note executed in favour of two brothers forming joint Hindu

[2] Mortgage—Several mortgagees — Suit by one mortgagee to enforce part of security—All mortgagees made parties—Allegation that other mortgagees had received their share of mortgage money—Plaintiff undertaking to increase amount of claim and pay court-fee if other mortgagees' claim not satisfied—Suit as framed competent—Suit as framed cannot possibly be defeated when all the mortgagees are parties thereto and plaintiffs seek to recover whatever is due in the security. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 788 (789) (DB).

[3] Plaintiff sued for money decree on promise to himself alone, but lower Courts rightly found that debt was due, not to him alone, but to him and two others jointly, and the plaintiff appealed against this finding. Held that the proper decree to make would be to dismiss appeal and confirm decree dismissing his suit, without going into any question as to permitting or refusing to permit him to amend plaint. (1591) 1891 Pun Re No 86, p. 422 (426, 427) (FB).

[4] In the case of a joint lease, one of the co-lessors cannot maintain a separate suit against the lessee for his share of rent but where the lessee collusively and not bona fide pays the rent to one of the co-lessors, the payment operates as a discharge of that co-lessor's share only and the other co-lessor can maintain a suit for his share of rent without making the other co-lessor, who has received the money, party to it. (Vol 32) 1945 All 311 (315, 316) : 1 L R (1945) All 165 (DB).

[5] The defendants sold a certain village to the plaintiff and his brother, fixing the price on the basis of the net income which the defendants stated at the time of the contract to be a certain amount. The plaintiff later on discovered that the defendants had overstated the income and made certain other fraudulent representations, alleging that on a partition entered into subsequent to the purchase between himself and his brother the village fell to his share. The plaintiff sued for compensation for the fraud of the defendants at the time of the sale. Held, that the suit was not one of pure tort, but was one for a wrong arising out of a contract, and that the suit was bad for non-joinder it having been brought only by one of the joint promisees; Held, also, that the fact that there was subsequent partition between the plaintiff and his brother did not confer on plaintiff the right to sue the defendants for compensation. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 583 (584) (DB).

[6] All co-owners must join in suit to recover their property—Defendant cannot be deprived of his right to insist on the other co-owners being joined on the record by reason of there being evidence to show that they approve of the suit being brought by the plaintiff alone. (1886) 10 Bom 32 (34) (DB).

[7] One co-promisee may sue on his own account. S. 45 does not prohibit this and one plaintiff must not be held to have lost his rights to enforce an obligation because others entitled to share in that right have lost their remedy only by the expiry of the period of limitation, and have been joined as defendants. ('05) 1905 Pun Re No. 57, p. 192 (198) (FB).

[8] The principle that payment to one of several joint creditors does not operate as a discharge of the debts in so far as the other creditors are concerned is not applicable to a case where the payment is to a joint mortgagee who was the manager and agent of the others. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 125 (126) (DB).

[9] Where after mortgage to one member on behalf of family partition had taken place, payment to one of divided members is not valid discharge. (1910) 20 Mad L Jour 709 (715) (DB).

[10] Members of joint Hindu family firm having a joint cause of action against defendant—Defendant has a right to ask to join all members in suit for enforcement of claim, though plaintiff may adjust sums recovered from his co-contractors. (1881) 6 Cal 815 (826) (DB).

[11] Transaction of mortgage really entered into by joint Hindu family but executed in favour of minor member. Tender of mortgage money to managing member of family is good and valid tender in law. (Vol 9) 1922 All 355 (356) : 44 All 64 (DB).

[12] Manager of joint Hindu family can enforce contract made with family—Junior members not necessary parties. (1911) 33 All 272 (277, 278) : 38 Ind App 45 (PC).

[13] Where the right of a person to recover certain debt has devolved upon his sons jointly and the sons constitute a joint Hindu family, they can file only one suit against their debtors for the recovery of the whole amount. Some of them cannot split up the claim and institute a suit for a part thereof on their own behalf on the ground that others did not join with them as co-plaintiffs. In such a case, it would be incumbent upon those instituting suit to claim the whole amount on behalf of themselves and their brothers on payment of the full court-fees and to make their brothers who refused to join as co-defendants. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 178 (176) : ILR (1939) Kar 602 (DB).

[14] Payment made to junior member of joint Hindu family during lifetime of its manager in whose favour the bond was executed does not discharge the promisor. (Vol 6) 1918 Mad 29 (29) : 41 Mad 637 (DB).

[15] Joint cause of action by members of an undivided Hindu family against defendant — Suit in name of only one member not maintainable. (1895) 18 Mad 33 (35, 36) (DB).

[16] Plaintiff suing defendant in his name only for joint debt due to him and three brothers in a joint Hindu family—Defendant can insist on all the contractors being made co-plaintiffs when there is a joint cause of action notwithstanding an expression of willingness by the other members of the family that the plaintiff should sue alone. (1888) 7 Dom 217 (219) (DB).

[17] One of several joint promisees may sue alone if other promisees refuse to join in action in which case they may be added as co-defendants and notice may be given to them. [19] Suit on pro-note—Pro-note not standing in the name of beneficiary but in the name of one who is a party to the litigation—Beneficiary in a position to give a valid discharge—Held, suit by beneficiary was maintainable. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 85 (86) (DB).

[20] Suit on pro-note — Pro-note standing in the name of plaintiff and not of the holder, a party, although not a plaintiff and in a position to give valid discharge — Held that suit by plaintiff was maintainable. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 346 (348) : 11 Pat 616 (DB).

[21] Where two brokers were employed in respect of the same transaction, the proper procedure for one broker is to file a suit for the entire amount of commission impleading the other broker either as a co-plaintiff or as a defendant. If he institutes suit for his own share which is mentioned in the agreement without impleading the other, the suit is liable to be dismissed. (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 16 (16) (DB).

[22] Where a hatchita was executed by a person in favour of himself and three others each having a definite share, it was held that a suit by two of the three promisees for their shares under the hatchita against the executant and the other promisee who refused to join with plaintiffs was maintainable. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 595 (597, 598) (DB).

[23] Joint lease entered by co-promisees—Some suing for possession — Others impleaded as defendants on their refusal to join—Suit held maintainable. (12) 1912 Pun L R No. 49, p. 150 (158) : 1911 Pun Re No. 57 (DB).

4. Devolution of joint rights. — [1] Where one of several joint tenants is liable for whole rent on the death of one of such joint tenants leaving several heirs, no question can arise as to whether the liability is joint. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal-165 (166) : 50 Cal 737 (DB).

[2] Where the agreement between the parties does not specify any shares and it is impossible to say in what shares the consideration was to be paid by or the land to be divided between the parties, the right to enforce the contract, on the death of one of the parties, vests in his legal representative along with others and not in others alone. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 478 (479) (DB).

[3] Mortgage in favour of B and D—Suit by B alone — D dying during course of suit—B acquiring D's rights of recovering debts — Non-joinder of D held immaterial—B, although he had no right to sue on the day when he instituted the suit, had acquired the full and exclusive right when D died. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 242 (244) : I L R (1939) Nag 515 (DB).

[4] Appeal by all plaintiffs in suit by several co-sharers—Common cause—One appellant dying during pendency of appeal—No legal representative brought on record—Court can pass any decree as the case required even though no legal representative is brought on record —Section 45, Contract Act, does not apply. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 155 (158) : 16 Luck 382.

[5] Part-assignment of debt is valid in law, and action can be maintained thereon by the transferee provided he makes both the transferor and other assignees that may be concerned parties to the suit. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 337 (340) (DB).

[6] In a case of a joint debt, an assignment by one of the joint creditors does not enable the assignee to enforce the payment of the whole debt. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 532 (533).

5. Partnership. — [1] Section 45 of the Act has no application to debts due to trading partnerships. Although the right of the deceased partner devolves on his executors, the remedy survives to his co-partners, who alone must enforce the remedy by action. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 197 (200) : 4 Lah 142 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 306 (307) : 7 Rang 806. (Burmese Buddhist husband and wife are regarded as partners) * (94) 17 Mad 103 (117) (DB).

Time and Place for Performance.

Time for performance of promise, where no application is to be made, and no time is specified.

46. Where, by the contract, a promisor is to perform his promise without application by the promisee, and no time for performance is specified, the engagement must be performed within a reasonable time,

Explanation.—The question, "What is a reasonable time?" is, in each particular case, a question of fact.

Time and place for performance of promise where time is specified and no application to be made.

47. When a promise is to be performed on a certain day, and the promisor has undertaken to perform it without application by the promisee, the promisor may perform it at any time during the usual hours of business on such day, and at the place at which the promise ought to be performed.

Illustration.

A promises to deliver goods at B's warehouse on the 1st January. On that day A brings the goods to B's warehouse, but after the usual hour for closing it, and they are not received. A has not performed his promise.

48. When a promise is to be performed on a certain day, and the promisor has not undertaken to perform it without application by the promisee, it is the duty of the promisee to apply for performance at a proper place and within the usual hours of business.

Explanation.—The question, "What is a proper time and place?" is, in each particular case, a question of fact.

[4] If surviving partners refuse to sue for recovery of debts due to firm the remedy of the legal representative of deceased partner lies in suit against others for winding up, for accounts and for appointment of receiver. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 58 (61); 8 Low Bur Rul 130 (DB).

[5] Where firm is dissolved, suit by one partner for individual share of a debt, owing to the firm, is not maintainable even if other partners are made co-defendants. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 196 (197).

[6] Payment to one of two partners constituting firm operates as discharge. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 53 (54).

[7] Where a partner of a dissolved firm collects his share of debts, impleading others, the other partners can sue for their share of debts. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 14 (15); 1919 Pun Re No. 128.

[8] Although one partner alone cannot sue for partnership debt, yet he can use name of firm and of co-partners so as to be able to sue, and unwilling partner can only claim indemnity for costs. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 246 (246) (DB).

[9] Section 45 has not been modified by the Civil Procedure Code, save as appears in O. 30, which is confined to cases where suits are brought not by individuals but in the name of firms. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 115 (117); 8 Lah 1 (DB).

[10] Rule 4, O. 30, Civil P. C., is enacted to set at rest doubt in connection with S. 45, Contract Act, regarding suits by or against firms. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 581 (591); 51 Bom 986 (DB).

[1] When no time is fixed for completion of sale, it must be implied that it is to be completed in a reasonable time. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 165 (169) (PC).

[2] Person borrowing ornaments for use in ceremony — It is unreasonable for him to detain them after completion of ceremony and demand by their owner. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 895 (896, 897); 6 Luck 80 (DB).

[3] Contract for sale of goods — Goods to be delivered in instalments — Dates of delivery of instalments not fixed — Instalments must be deemed to be rateably distributed over period appointed for delivery of whole quantity of goods. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 721 (727); 43 Cal 805 (FB).

[4] C. I. F. Contract—In absence of any stipulation as to time for payment, payment must be made when bill of lading and other shipping documents are presented to buyer. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 139 (141); 1 L R (1942) Mad 33 (DB).

[5] Subsequent mortgagee to redeem prior mortgages — Time not fixed for such redemption — Puise mortgagee must redeem within reasonable time, i. e., by the first date when redemption is obtainable. (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 331 (332) & (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 132 (134) & (1900) 23 Mad 441 (443, 444) (DB).

[6] Mining leases not containing time for payment of royalty — Royalty must be paid within reasonable time of coal being raised. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 609 (609, 610) (DB).

[7] B agreeing with A to pay certain debts owing by A—Three years from date of contract held was reasonable time for performance. (1912) 22 Mad L Jour 207 (211).

Section 47 — Note 1.

[1] Section 47 applies only when a certain day is fixed for performance. (1907) 9 Bom L R 903 (909).

[2] Contract governed by rules of Bombay Cotton Trade Association—Vendor is bound to tender delivery order backed by goods before 1 p. m. of due date—Vendor not tendering goods before specified time fails to perform his part of contract. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 268 (272); 40 Bom 517.

[3] Acceptance by mortgagor of part of mortgage money after agreed period does not amount to new contract but is mere acquiescence in late payment. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 825 (829) (DB).

[4] Electric supply company—Discount to be allowed for prompt payment — Consumer receiving bill after expiry of date fixed for payment with discount is not entitled to fresh bill fixing fresh date for payment. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 292 (292, 293); 15 Lah 729.

Section 48 — Note 1.

[1] Sections 48 and 49 clearly indicate that the mode of performance of a contract is a question of fact in a particular case. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 330 (332); 1 I. R. (1945) Nag 252.

Place for performance of promise where no application to be made, and no place fixed for performance.

49. When a promise is to be performed without application by the promisee, and no place is fixed for the performance of it, it is the duty of the promisor to apply to the promisee to appoint a reasonable place for the performance of the promise, and to perform it at such place.

Illustration.

A undertakes to deliver a thousand maunds of jute to B on a fixed day. A must apply to B to appoint a reasonable place for the purpose of receiving it, and must deliver it to him at such place.

[2] No doubt a limited company entitled to receive money is not on the same footing as an ordinary individual who may at any moment change his residence and there may be a good reason to infer that money due to a company is to be paid by a debtor in another country at the office of the company. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 330 (332) : 1 L R (1945) Nag 252.

[3] The plaintiff took a licence from the defendant to take wood from the defendant's forest and deposited a certain amount as security in the treasury maintained by the defendant. The deposit was to be refunded on the expiry of the term of the licence. On a demand being made by the plaintiff by letter for refund of the deposit, the defendant insisted on the personal attendance of the plaintiff at the place where the treasury was maintained. In the suit by the plaintiff to recover the security deposit, the defendant contended that he was justified in insisting on the plaintiff's personal attendance at the place of the treasury for payment and should not, therefore, be made liable for costs of the suit. It was not established by the defendant that personal attendance by the plaintiff was a term to be annexed to the contract to refund : Held, that though the matter may not be governed directly by S. 48, the plaintiff in applying for refund must be taken to have applied at a proper place in circumstances where performance could be made within usual hours of business by remittance of the amount. The defendant was not justified in insisting on the personal attendance of the plaintiff for payment of the security deposit and should have remitted the amount to the plaintiff when the plaintiff had applied for refund of the same. As the litigation was due to the defendant's fault, the plaintiff was entitled to his costs. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 330 (332) : 1 L R (1945) Nag 252.

Section 49 — Note 1.

Scope—[1] Indian Contract Act makes no provision for place of performance when no time or place is fixed and where there is no provision to perform without application. (1907) 9 Bom L R 903 (910).

[2] Where place of performance is not mentioned in the contract, a Court is not precluded from finding out implied intention of the parties in regard to the place of performance. (1941) 22 Pat L Tim 282 (283).

[3] Section 49 clearly indicates that the mode of performance of contract is a question of fact in a particular case. When the manner and the place of repayment of money are not the subject of express contract it is the duty of the Court to gather what, by necessary implication, having regard to the nature of the contract and the circumstances in which it was entered into, the parties must have meant. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 330 (332) : 1 L R (1945) Nag 252.

[4] Section 49 is one of those provisions of the Contract Act which have no application to matters governed by the law merchant, which is contained, for the most part, in the Negotiable Instruments Act. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 251 (255) : 1 L R (1942) Bom 620 (DB).

Debtor to find creditors—[5] It is common law rule that debtor must seek out his creditor. But in India rule as to place of performance, whether it be payment or any other mode of performance, is to be determined by S. 49 of Contract Act, 1872. (1905) 7 Bom L R 99. (994) (DB).

[6] Contract silent as to place of payment of liability — Payment should be made where creditor is — Intention of parties to the contract must be seen. (Vol 14) 1927 P C 156 (158) : 54 Ind App 265 : 5 Rang 451 (PC) & (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 207 (208) : 26 Nag L R 300 & (1908) 30 Bom 167 (171).

[7] Section 49 does not preclude the application of the rule of English Common Law that the debtor must seek out his creditor and pay his debt where the creditor happens to reside, unless there is an arrangement to the contrary and does not get rid of the inference which should justly be drawn from the terms of the contract itself or from the necessities of the case. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 695 (698) (DB) & (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 251 (252) & (Vol 14) 1927 P C 156 (158) : 54 Ind App 265 : 5 Rang 451 (PC) & (Vol 2) 1915 Nag 65 (67) : 11 Nag L R 189 & (1913) 20 Ind Cas 683 (683) (Low Bur).

[8] The promise to pay the creditor implies that the debtor will find the creditor to pay him and will pay where the creditor is; under S. 49, Contract Act, it is reasonable to suppose that if the debtor applies for a place to be appointed the creditor will appoint the place where he himself resides, at any rate, he has the power so to appoint; if the debtor fails in his duty to apply, he cannot by his failure better his position, or deprive the creditor of his statutory powers to appoint a reasonable place. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 283 (284) : 59 Bom 365 & (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 97 (99, 100) : 63 Cal 726 & (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 62 (64) (DB).

[9] By British law the duty of a debtor to find and pay his creditor is only imposed upon him when the creditor is within the realm. (Vol 12) 1925 PC 290 (292) : 53 Ind App 58 : 53 Cal 88 (PC).

[10] In the case of a wife claiming maintenance from her husband and claiming return of ornaments against her father-in-law : Held that neither the husband nor the father-in-law were debtors and the English rule had no application to the case. Even if they were debtors, the common law rule did not apply inasmuch as in the case of husband, his liability, if any, did not arise out of contract. It arose, if at all, because he maltreated his wife to such a degree that she could not live with him any longer and in the case of the father-in-law, it was reasonable to infer that the parties contemplated re-payment and delivery of the cash and articles at the family house or at the place where the wife was residing with her husband. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 695 (698) (DB).

[11] Where lease is silent as to the place where the rent is to be paid, the question as to where it is payable is to be decided with reference to S. 49. If from the circumstances in which the contract in question was entered into, it is reasonable to infer that the intention of the parties was that performance was to be in a certain place, that, inference should be drawn whether the rule of the English Common Law which requires the debtor to seek the creditor applies or not to India. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 977 (978, 979) & (Vol 20) 1933 All 147 (148).

Contract of agency—[12] Barring the earlier Bombay decisions, there has been a pronounced disinclination on the part of the Indian Courts to apply to this Performance in manner or at time prescribed or sanctioned by promisee.

50. The performance of any promise may be made in any manner or at any time which the promisee prescribes or sanctions.

(a) B owes A, 2000 rupees. A desires B to pay the amount to A's account with C, a banker. B, who also banks with C, orders the amount to be transferred from his account to A's credit, and this is done by C. Afterwards, and before A knows of the transfer, C fails. There has been a good payment by B.

(b) A and B are mutually indebted. A and B settle an account by setting off one item against another, and B pays A the balance found to be due from him upon such settlement. This amounts to a payment by A and B, respectively, of the sums which they owed to each other.

(c) A owes B, 2000 rupees. B accepts some of A's goods in reduction of the debt. The delivery of the goods operates as a part-payment.

(d) A desires B, who owes him Rs. 100, to send him a note for Rs. 100 by post. The debt is discharged as soon as B puts into the post a letter containing the note duly addressed to A.

Performance of Reciprocal Promises.

Promisor not bound to perform, unless reciprocal promisee ready and willing to perform.

51. When a contract consists of reciprocal promises to be simultaneously performed, no promisor need perform his promise unless the promisee is ready and willing to perform his reciprocal promise.

country unreservedly the general maxim that a debtor should find and pay his creditor. It might, in some cases, strictly arising out of the relationship of debtor and creditor be useful to invoke it as a matter of inference or of implication; but in other cases and particularly in cases where the relationship is one of agency, the place of payment has to be determined independently of any such general maxim with reference to the terms of the contract, the circumstances attending on it and the necessities of the case. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad. 300 (304).

[13] In the case of Pakki Adat agency primarily the place of payment is the place where the constituent resides but where the constituent has chosen to give directions to the effect that the payment should be made at any other place, it should be so done—Per Chandavarkar J. (1909) 93 Bom 364 (368) (DB).

[14] Insurance company at Lahore appointing certain person working at Meerut as its chief agent for Rajputana and Bundelkhand area—Appointment made at Lahore and all payments to be made at Lahore—Appointment subsequently cancelled—Suit by agent at Ajmer for damages for cancellation of the appointment—Subsequent suit by the company at Lahore for recovery of certain amount due by agent: Held that the cause of action arose at Lahore and that S. 49 was not applicable to the case. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 85 (86, 87)

Delivery of goods—[15] Section 49 applies to promises for payment of money as well as to promises for delivery of goods. (Vol 20) 1933 All 147 (148) & (Vol 14) 1927 P C 156 (158) : 54 Ind App 265 : 5 Rang 451 (PC).

[16] Section 49 is only a general provision and in the case of a contract for sale of goods is modified by S. 93 of the Contract Act. (S. 95 of the Indian Sale of Goods Act). (1911) 10 Ind Cas 18 (19) (Oudh).

[17] Place of delivery : "At any place in Bengal"—Buyer has the choice of place subject to the condition that it must be reasonable and within Bengal (1897) 24 Cal 8 (17) : 23 Ind App 119 (PC).

[18] Even in a case where goods are sent by V. P. P. the contract is intended to be performed at the place where the goods are to be received and the Court at that place has jurisdiction to try the suit arising out of the contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 581 (582).

Promissory note payable on demand—[19] S. 49 has no application where money payable under a promissory note is payable on demand (1908) 81 Mad. 223 (228) (DB) & (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 251 (254, 255, 256) :

ILR (1942) Bom 620 (DB). (Section does not apply to negotiable instruments.) & (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 445 (445) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 323.

[See also (1912) 16 Cal L Jour 279 (281) (DB).]

[20] Section 49 does not apply to a promissory note which is payable on demand and which is silent as to the place of repayment and a fortiori the Common Law rule applies, and it being necessary for the debtor to seek out his creditor and pay him, in the absence of any agreed place for payment, the place of repayment must be deemed to be the place where the creditor resides. The Court at such place has therefore jurisdiction to entertain the suit on the pro-note. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 443 (445) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 323.

[1] The method of payment in discharge of a contract includes also mere transfer of figures in accounts. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 144 (146) : 20 Sind L R 335.

[2] Where a subscriber of a chit fund conducted by a company deposits money towards the future instalments he has to make in a bank as directed by the rules of the company, the performance of the promise by him is good. And if the bank goes into liquidation, the promisee company has to take the risk. (Vol 29, 1942 Mad 337 (338)).

[3] Where the defendant, not entitled to have delivery of goods until he had paid for them, procured the delivery from an unauthorised agent of the plaintiff, and paid money to the agent who embezzled the amount so paid to him : Held, that the plaintiff could sue defendant for recovery of the price of goods sold to him. (1874) 12 Beng L R 360 (365) (DB).

[4] When a person agrees with his partner, who is also his creditor for Rs. 6000 by setting aside 6 As. of his share of partnership profits towards its liquidation, it was held that the creditor could not recover the debt in any other way than that stipulated for in the contract. [4] Ordinary law as to performance of contracts in Ss. 51 and 52 applies where the Railway makes a special contract contrary to Risk note. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat. 39 (40).

2. Simultaneous performance. — [1] Unless otherwise agreed, delivery of goods and payment of price are concurrent conditions in a contract for sale of goods. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 971 (971) (DB) & (1870) 2 N W P H C R 60 (61).

[5] In a suit for breach of contract to purchase goods, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove that on the due date he had the goods actually in his possession. It is quite sufficient if he is able to prove that he had the capacity to deliver them to the purchaser when called upon to do so, in other words that he was in a position to fulfil his part of the contract on the due date on a demand being made by the purchaser. 4. Burden of proof. — [1] In the absence of any provision in the law of the place or any local ordinance which deals with the question whether in an action to recover damages for breach of contract the plaintiff is bound to establish his readiness and willingness to perform his part, regard must be had to the English Law applicable in the case of concurrent obligations. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 91 (92) (PC).

[3] In a suit for specific performance, the plaintiff has to allege and if the fact is traversed, to prove a continuous readiness and willingness from the date of the contract to the time of the hearing, to perform the contract on his part. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 265 (267) (DB). (a) A and B contract that A shall build a house for B at a fixed price. A's promise to build the house must be performed before B's promise to pay for it.

(b) A and B contract that A shall make over his stock-in-trade to B at a fixed price, and B promises to give security for the payment of the money. A's promise need not be performed until the security is given, for the nature of the transaction requires that A should have security before he delivers up his stock.

53. When a contract contains reciprocal promises, and one party to the contract prevents the other from performing his promise, the contract becomes voidable at the option of the party so prevented; and he is entitled to compensation^a from the other party for any loss which he may sustain in consequence of the non-performance of the contract.

Illustration.

A and B contract that B shall execute certain work for A for a thousand rupees. B is ready and willing to execute the work accordingly, but A prevents him from doing so. The contract is voidable at the option of B and, if he elects to rescind it, he is entitled to recover from A compensation for any loss which he has incurred by its non-performance.

[a] See S. 73.

54. When a contract consists of reciprocal promises, such, that one of them cannot be performed, or that its performance cannot be claimed, till the other has been performed, and the promisor of the promise last-mentioned fails to perform it, such promisor cannot claim the performance of the reciprocal promise, and must make compensation to the other party to the contract for any loss which such other party may sustain by the non-performance of the contract.

1. Applicability.—[1] Property mortgaged—Part of property along with other property subsequently sold — Part of consideration left with vendee to pay off mortgage — Vendee not paying off mortgage — Vendee dispossessed of portion of property by third person later on — Mortgagee obtaining decree for sale — Mortgaged property sold and purchased by mortgagee — Suit by vendor for damages, and compensation for breach of contract by vendee—Section 54, Contract Act, held, did not apply, as there was no promise, by vendors, on which payment of mortgage money depended — Section 78, held, applied and plaintiff was entitled to compensation. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 263 (266, 267) (DB).

[2] Where the agreement has been embodied in a compromise decree the judgment-debtor cannot say that, because the decree-holder committed the default first, he was entitled to avoid his own obligations under the terms of the decree; especially, when those terms were independent of each other. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 164 (168) : 25 Nag L R 110.

[3] Breach of essential term of contract, alone, entitles the other party to repudiate contract—Breach of non-essential term entitles the other party to damages only. (Vol 11) 1924 Sind 105 (105) (DB).

2. "Fails to perform."—[1] Where contract consisted of twelve parts, non-performance of one does not necessarily indicate an intention to put an end to contract. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 312 (315) (DB).

[2] Sale of property—Part of consideration left with vendee to pay off mortgage by vendor—At time of sale vendor failing to put vendee in possession of very small proportion of property — Still vendee cannot refuse to redeem mortgage. (Obiter.) (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB).

[3] Vendor, desiring to enforce contract for sale, with condition that title adduced should be approved by purchaser's solicitor, must prove that solicitor did approve of title or that such title was tendered, as made it reasonable not to approve of it. (1911) 35 Bom 110 (120).

3. Breach of contract — Effect — Promisee.—

[1] When promisor fails to perform his part of the contract, promisee can rescind the whole contract; but, if the promisee treats it as a subsisting contract, he must do his part fully to entitle him to insist on the promisor's carrying out the contract. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 188 (189, 193) (PC) (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 979 (982) (DB). (Contract to sell certain timber — Vendor insisting on payment of full price before vendee could be allowed to remove timber—Vendor selling part of contract timber to third party — Vendee keeping contract alive — But claiming credit for value of timber sold — Vendee cannot be said to be willing to make full payment and could not, therefore, sue vendor for damages.) (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 979 (982) (DB) (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 379 (382).

[2] Seller agreeing to send "delivery telegram" but failing to do so — Buyer is entitled to rescind contract as being broken and to sue seller in damages; for a covenant as to delivery is as much an essential part of a contract for sale as a covenant for payment of price. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 103 (107) (DB).

[3] Where vendee does not complete sale owing to vendor's defective title, vendee need not pay brokerage if he had joined the vendor. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 220 (221) (DB).

[4] Where defendants agreed to charter a ship, of which the tonnage was guaranteed by the plaintiff, and the ship actually was found to weigh more, it was held, that the defendants were justified in repudiating the contract and thus refusing to charter that ship. (1891) 15 Bom 389 (396, 399) (DB).

[5] Where the plaintiff agreed to sell "entire stock of coal or 7 to 8 hundred tons of coal" the words were not only words of estimation but descriptive of the stock; and, therefore, the plaintiff was liable to pay damages to the defendant when the entire stock sold was only 469 tons. (1910) 37 Cal 334 (337, 338) (DB).

[6] Where in a mortgage, the mortgagee does not pay prior mortgagee as per agreement, the mortgagor was held entitled, in a separate suit, to claim damages from the mortgagee resulting from non-performance of the contract by him. (1907) 10 Oudh Cas 69 (75).

[7] Mortgagor mortgaged his property for 15 years and the condition was that mortgagee should pay decree-holder of the mortgagor regularly by instalments. Mortgagee failed to pay after some instalments and it was held that mortgagor was entitled to redeem his property before the expiry of the period of 15 years. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 12 (13, 14) : 2 Luck 279 (DB).

[8] When a ship owner has contracted to give a certain notice to a charterer or to do any other act, with a view to inform the charterer when the ship will be ready, the charterer is not bound to ship his goods until the ship owner has given him that notice or has done that act.

Therefore, in an action for not shipping goods under the following contract, "H. S. to arrive after completion of two country voyages for London on notice in May or June" it appearing that the plaintiffs had sent the vessel for one country voyage only, held, that the defendants were entitled to refuse to ship the goods. (1879) 4 Cal 237 (243, 251).

[9] Where parties to a contract consisting of reciprocal promises failed to perform their respective promises, one wilfully, and the other, because he was not bound to perform his part until the other had fulfilled his, the contract is broken by act of both parties and a suit for specific performance will not lie, though the latter is entitled to compensation for breach of contract. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 210 (216) : 38 Mad 959 (DB).

55. When a party to a contract promises to do a certain thing at or before a specified time, or certain things at or before specified times, and fails to do any such thing at or before the specified time, the contract, or so much of it as has not been performed, becomes voidable, at the option of the promisee, if the intention of the parties was that time should be of the essence of the contract.

Effect of failure to perform at fixed time in contract in which time is essential. If it was not the intention of the parties that time should be of the essence of the contract, the contract does not become voidable by the failure to do such thing at or before the specified time; but the promisee is entitled to compensation from the promisor for any loss occasioned to him by such failure.

Effect of acceptance of performance at time other than that agreed upon. If, in case of a contract voidable on account of the promisor's failure to perform his promise at the time agreed, the promisee accepts performance of such promise at any time other than that agreed, the promisee cannot claim compensation for any loss occasioned by the non-performance of the promise at the time agreed, unless, at the time of such acceptance, he gives notice to the promisor of his intention to do so.^a

[1] Contract to collect arrears of rent prior to sale for the vendor on vendor's executing a deed of assignment — Deed of assignment not executed — Contract could not be enforced. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 395 (397).

[2] A party, cancelling a contract without any justification, is precluded from making any defence, which would have been open to him in an action for damages by the other party. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 181 (182).

[3] Agreement to sell house for consideration to be paid — Consideration converted into cash debt, evidenced by three bonds — Suit for money on bonds — Held, that bonds were without consideration as the contract of sale was not carried through and that the remedy of vendor was to sue for specific performance of contract or for damages for breach. (1936) 19 Nag L Jour 232 (236).

[4] Hundi given on consideration of execution by A to B of a mortgage for money due on accounts — Mortgage not executed — D suing on hundi — Suit must be dismissed under S 54, Contract Act — No decree can be passed on consideration other than shown in hundi. (1908) 3 Mad L Tim 405 (405).

[5] Where contract loan is for consolidated sum of money to be paid from time to time, and lender refuses to lend small portion remaining due to borrower, lender, by his conduct, puts end to contract and cannot claim interest at contract rates. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 210 (215).

[6] A and B were both chelas of C, the late mohunt of a muth. According to custom and practice of the muth, there was one mohunt only and two chelas cannot become mohunts at the same time. Both the chelas had become mohunts with the result that dispute had arisen between them. They therefore executed an ekernama. They agreed that A should be declared to be the mohunt and B adhiakari of the said muth to the end of their lives and that in the event of difference between the parties A would give to B Rs. 40 a year for maintenance. Notwithstanding this agreement B brought a suit against A claiming the mohuntship — Held, that B, by his action, in bringing a suit for mohuntship, broke his promise and defeated the whole intention of the agreement, and that he could no longer hold A to his part of the contract to pay B the maintenance. 2. When time is essence of contract.
3. When time is not essence of contract.
4. Extension of time.
5. Sale of land.
6. Merchantile contracts.
7. Agreement to lease.
8. Acceptance of performance after time fixed — Paragraph 3.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] Section 55 provides for a special rule in regard to the performance of a promise to do a certain thing at or before a specified time namely that (unlike terms of contracts generally) the Court is not to enforce such a promise in accordance with its term but is to enforce it subject to the provisions of S. 55. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 417 (421) : 1 L R (1937) Bom 782 (DB).

[2] Section 55 of Contract Act does not lay down any principle which differs from law of England as to contracts for sale of land. In such cases, equity looks at substance and not at letter of agreement in order to ascertain whether properties notwithstanding that they named specific time within which sale was to be completed, really and in substance intended more than that it should take place within reasonable time. Prima facie equity treats importance of such time limits as being subordinate to main purpose of parties. Specific performance of contract to sell land will be granted, although there has been failure to keep dates assigned to it, if justice can be done between parties and if nothing in express stipulations of parties, nature of property or surrounding circumstances, make it inequitable to grant relief. Intention to make time essence of contract must be expressed in unmistakable language; it may be inferred from what passed between parties before but not after contract is made. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 83 (84, 85) : 40 Bom 289 : 43 Ind App 26 (P O). (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 23 : 38 Bom 77, Reversed. * (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 71 (76) : 57 Bom 292 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 205 (205) : 11 Lah 99 (DB) * (1926) 98 Ind Cas 890 (891) (DB) (Lah) * (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 651 (652) (DB) * (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 40 (47) (DB).

[3] Question whether time mentioned in contract is of essence or not depends upon facts and circumstances of each case — Real intention of parties to agreement has to be deduced from all surrounding circum-

[4] Section 55 does not enable a promisee to keep alive a broken contract in the hope of being able to recover heavier damages for its breach. Time essence of contract—Promisor's failure—Promisee's intimation of rescission after long time—Damages held to be difference of rates at date of breach and not of intimation to rescind. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 573 (574, 576) : 37 Mad 412 (D B).

[5] Section 55 applies to cases where property in the goods passed by the contract, as much as to contracts where the property did not pass. (1881) 6 Cal 64 (69) (D B).

[6] Performance of an act till or by a certain day connotes performance on that day. ('33) 1933 Mad W N 88 (88) (DB).

[7] Where the performance of a contract falls due on a holiday, seller is bound to establish that he was entitled to perform the contract on the day following the holiday, by reason of the existence of a valid usage which is deemed to have been incorporated in the contract between the parties. He must not only prove existence of trade usage, but also establish that usage when read into written contract does not make it insensible or inconsistent. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 809 (812) (DB).

[8] Where the plaintiff claims remuneration on the basis of the contract, in which time was of essence, and that contract, which was foundation of the claim, fails completely, the plaintiff is not entitled to remuneration on the basis of quantum meruit of his services. (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 40 (49) (DB)&(1913) 19 Ind Cas 48 (50) (Low Bur). (Where time is the essence of contract, claim for quantum meruit is unsustainable when work is delayed.)

[9] Failure to perform by specified time—Promisee is entitled to rescind in case time is of the essence of contract—If time is not of the essence, he is entitled only to damages—Whether time be of essence or not contract must be performed within reasonable time. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 71 (72) : 9 Sind L R 137.

[10] Sale of house site by municipality—Stipulation that construction of house should be completed within three years and that, in default, title of vendee would cease and vendee will be entitled only to 90 per cent. of the purchase money—Default by vendee—Contract, held, did not become void on happening of contingency but was only voidable at the option of Municipality and vendee was not entitled to claim refund. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 135 (136).

[11] As soon as contract for sale of goods within a specified date is broken, obligation of purchaser to take delivery vanishes; he is not bound to take the goods when delivered later. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 194 (197) (DB).

2. When time is essence of contract.—[1] Where in execution of a money decree, the decree-holder agrees to accept less amount in full satisfaction if paid within two months, but on failure the decree-holder is to proceed with the execution, time is the essence of the contract, and the Court will not relieve against the forfeiture. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 542 (544, 546) : 16 Pat 395 (DB).

[2] Where the words of a contract are that in case the judgment debtor fails to pay up the decretal amount within the time specified, the sale would stand confirmed and no order is necessary, the wording shows that the parties meant that the benefit which was to accrue to the judgment-debtors would be lost to them if the payment was not made within the specified time; or in other words, that time was of the essence of the contract (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 118 (116) : 16 Pat 202 (FB) & (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 691 (692) (DB).

[8] In kuri transactions, time being of the very essence of the contract, the bidder loses his right to the amount payable to him, unless the security is furnished within the period prescribed. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 822 (823).

[4] Compromise decree—Payment by instalments over a long period—It cannot be laid down as a matter of law that time is not the essence of the contract in such a case. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 696 (702) (DB).

[5] Where by a consent decree, the decree-holder has agreed to accept by way of certain instalments a lesser amount than actually due and there is a default clause in the decree, time will ordinarily be deemed to be the essence of the contract, and in case of default of any of the instalments the decree-holder would be entitled to claim the whole amount. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 46 (46, 47).

[6] Where a creditor agrees to accept part of debt, in full satisfaction, only if it is paid within certain time, time is essence of such agreement. ('35) 1935 Mad W N 1032 (1032) (DB) & (Vol 18) 1926 All 278 (280, 281) & (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 234 (235).

[7] Contract for supply and purchase of molasses—Quantity to be supplied in twelve monthly instalments, each instalment to be delivered within specified period. Held, on the facts of the case that the time was of essence of the contract and that the vendor was, therefore, entitled to put an end to the contract on breach of stipulation to take delivery of one instalment. 3. When time is not essence of contract.—[1] Where time is not of essence of contract, failure to comply by specified time entitles promisee to damages only. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 71 (72) : 9 Sind L R 137.

[2] Where time for performance is fixed but time is not made the essence of the contract either party can give notice to the other fixing reasonable period for performance. [3] Where there is an express provision that time is of the essence of the contract and at the same time the contract provides for extension of time in certain contingencies, and provides for the payment of a fine or penalty for every day or week the work undertaken under the contract remains unfinished on the expiry of the time provided in the contract, such provision is inconsistent with time being of the essence of a contract, and would be calculated to render ineffective an express provision in a contract to that effect. It cannot be said in such a case, that it was intended that time should be of the essence of the contract. The principle applies equally to P. W. D. contracts. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 1 (7) (DB) & (Vol 10) 1923 Nag. 140 (140). [5] Contract of sale and act of transfer embodied in same deed.—Clause as to cancellation on failure to satisfy the dues of certain creditors by a certain date—Finding that appellants were not responsible for failure of the respondents to pay the whole dues by the fixed date; Held, that the time was not of the essence of the contract. [6] Agreement granting remission of part of debt if debtor paid the rest, of the debt in two instalments on specified dates.—In case of default in payment of instalment on date fixed, the remitted amount was to become due and was to be recoverable from the properties given as security for the debt or personally from the debtor.—Time fixed for payment of instalments, held, was not essence of contract. [7] Agreement to sell leasehold property — Vendee given possession on payment of money — Pucca documents to be executed and registered within six months after obtaining the consent of the lessor — Time, held, was not essence of contract. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 71 (78) : 57 Bom 292 (DB).

[8] A consent decree or order is only the order of the Court carrying out the agreement between the parties and consequently no greater sanctity can be placed upon a consent decree than upon the agreement itself and if such an order names a specific time by which a particular term embodied in order has to be performed unless the language shows unmistakably that it was the intention of the parties to make the right of the parties depend on the observance of the time limit prescribed, the stipulation as to time is tantamount to this, that the term shall be carried into effect within a reasonable time. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 234 (235).

[9] Consent decree providing for exchange of houses of plaintiff and defendant, after plaintiff had contracted well in his house.—Exchange to be effected by a certain date—Plaintiff failing to construct well but applying for execution of decree — Defendant contending that time being of essence of decree it was voidable—Time, held, was not of essence as conduct of defendant in not protesting against the delay showed that he did not regard time as of vital importance. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 282 (283).

[10] Contract to deliver linseed in two instalments at specified periods—Terms as to payment were cast on delivery—Part delivery made by defendant — Claim by plaintiff for excess refraction — Defendant refusing to deliver remainder of linseed unless plaintiff paid in full for the portion already delivered. Held, time was not of essence of contract so as to entitle defendant to cancel the contract. (1879) 4 Cal 252 (257) (DB).

[11] Stipulation either to transfer certain bonds and decrees in two months or to pay the amounts due under them, does not of itself show that time is of essence of contract. (1909) 5 Mad L Tim 247 (248) (DB).

4. Extension of time.—[1] Under S. 55 the right of the promisee to avoid the contract after breach is not circumscribed by any chronological limitations. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 429 (432).

[2] If the time is originally of the essence of the contract, it does not cease to be of the essence of the contract because a party agrees to grant a short extension. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 443 (445) : 16 Luck 357.

[3] When the purchaser seeks to have damages for breach of contract, assented at a later date than that fixed by the contract for delivery, the effect of S. 55 is to put an agreement, come to after the original date of performance of a contract has expired, on the same footing as the original agreement. Mere forbearance from suing or giving a formal notice of rescission does not amount to extension of time for the performance of contract so as to alter the relevant date on which damages are to be assessed. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 429 (431) ((Vol 9) 1922 PC 178 : 48 Ind App 175 : 43 All 357 (P C) Relied on.) * (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 1 (5) (DB).

[But see (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 229 (235). [4] Compromise between parties that amount due under mortgage decree should be paid by instalments, and that the mortgagor should furnish additional security within specified time—Time essence of contract — Failure of mortgagor to furnish security within time — Court, held, could not enlarge time. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 62 (64) (DB).

[5] Parties by consent fixing date for payment of decretal amount—Sale to be cancelled on payment — Time being of the essence of the contract could not be extended by Court. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 691 (692).

[6] Contract for delivery of goods within specified time—Failure to perform—Several agreements extending time for performance — There need not be continuous and unbroken chain of extension—Final agreement of extension is necessary. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 429 (432, 435).

[7] Though time is of the essence of the contract, a default by payee, such as renders proper tender by the purchaser by due date impracticable, would be interpreted as extending time, when purchaser was prepared with ready and willing tender. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 57 (60) : 1 Rang 472.

5. Sale of land.—[1] Where Specific Relief Act is inapplicable, in a suit on an agreement to sell land, rule of justice, equity and good conscience apply. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 259 (260) (DB).

[2] As regards contracts for the sale of land the Court must look not at the letter, but at the substance of the agreement in order to ascertain whether the parties, notwithstanding that they named a specific time within which completion was to take place really intended no more than that it should take place within a reasonable time. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (50) : 19 Sind L R 41 * (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 518 (519, 520) (DB). (Where a contract for sale of share in a village provides that if the vendee does not pay the balance of the purchase money within a specified time, the vendee will not be entitled to get back the earnest money paid by him the time is not of the essence of the contract.) * (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 151 (153, 154) : 4 Lah 327 * (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 356 (360) (DB).

delay by the vendee will entitle the vendor to terminate the contract. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 141 (142).

[6] In the absence of express stipulation or other circumstances, the date fixed in the contract to sell land is not of the essence of contract, but it can be made so by serving notice by either party to complete within reasonable time. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 339 (342, 343) (DB) * (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 736 (742) (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 164 (168) : 25 Nag L R 110 * (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 211 (212) * (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 651 (654) (DB). (Reasonableness of time so limited is determined by the Court with reference to all circumstances of the case.) * (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 259 (260) (DB).

[7] The doctrine that time may not be essence of a contract does not apply to a contract for resale of property conveyed — The right to repurchase being an option must be exercised according to strict terms of contract. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 544 (544) : 42 Mad 802 * (Vol 14) 1927 All 321 (324) : 49 All 405 * (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 42 (43, 44) : 11 Low Bur Rul 441.

[8] Where in a contract for the sale of land time is expressly made 'of the essence of the contract in all respects', specific performance cannot be decreed in favour of the party in default and the default, though trivial, will entitle the other party to stand on the letter of the agreement — Time being of the essence of the contract, the vendor was entitled to rescind it on the expiry of the prescribed period. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 152 (157) (P C).

[9] Agreement to sell immovable property — Conduct of parties showing time as not of essence — Subsequent notice by defendant to complete the contract within the short time of four days — The plaintiff sent the engrossment of the conveyance just on the 5th day of notice — The defendant wrote the same day that the earnest money was forfeited — The purchase money also was refused — Plaintiff sued for specific performance — Court can enforce contract beyond time fixed, if notice is unreasonably short. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 14 (16, 17).

[10] Contract for sale of immovable property to be performed within a certain time — Time not essence of contract — Vendee performing his part but not vendor — Vendor disentitled to claim specific performance — Vendee entitled to avoid the contract and claim return of purchase money. [11] In a contract purchaser agreed to purchase some land and paid advance, the agreement was that the balance would be paid within a fixed time. The purchaser failed :

Held, the purchaser was not entitled to return of the deposit as the contract was avoided on failure of the purchaser to perform his part at a fixed time when time was of the essence of contract. ('10) 33 Mad 375 (382) (DB).

[4] Contract for purchase of 6 cases of printed cloth to be shipped in November — December 1907 — Subsequent alteration in contract, no fresh stipulation made as to time of delivery — Held, in merchantile contracts the stipulations as to time are of the essence of contract and in absence of fresh stipulation the previous stipulation was to hold good. ('10) 8 Ind Cas 945 (947) (Low Bur).

[5] Contract for purchase of bales of yarn — Condition that vendee should take delivery within certain period on payment — Failure to take delivery entitling vendor to sell goods and recover damages from vendee — Held, time was of the essence of contract in such sales and therefore S. 55, cl. 2 was not applicable. ('13) 1913 Pan L R No. 144 p. 493 (496) : 1913 Pun Re No. 80 (DB).

[6] In the case of Hazarmal contracts, as distinguished from forward delivery contracts, no date for delivery is fixed, but the expectations of the purchaser and the vendors are that delivery could be demanded and given as soon as possible if the goods are ready or after they became ready. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 410 (412).

[7] Contract for sale, time being of the essence — Custom alleged to exist that the purchaser could take delivery after some days of the fixed date — Definite custom must be proved by the purchaser. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1232 (1233).

[8] Notices for the purpose of making time of the essence of a contract are not expressly mentioned in S. 55 but are no doubt available in relation to merchantile contracts. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 427 (434) (DB).

7. Agreement to lease. — [1] Where time is distinctly of the essence of contract, it is within the power of the lessee to rescind it when the lessor has broken the contract by not putting the lessee in possession on the date agreed upon — The Transfer of Property Act and the Contract Act have to be read together, and under Part 1, S. 55, Contract Act, the lessee can rescind the contract. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 328 (328).

[2] Agreement to lease fixing four months for giving formal patta — Time not of essence — Lease in possession paying rent to lessor — Purchaser of leasehold property with knowledge of agreement to lease suing lessee for ejectment — Lessee's right to claim specific performance of contract, held, not barred by efflux of time. [3] Time is not usually of essence in a contract for the sale of leaseholds. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 71 (73) : 57 Bom 292 (DB).

[4] Where the nature of the property intended to be sold requires that time should be of the essence as for instance, if the contract is for sale of a life interest or a mining lease given for a fixed period, the parties can make it so by express agreement in the contract itself or subsequently giving reasonable notice to complete on a certain day. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 51 (52, 53) : 63 Cal 804.

8. Acceptance of performance after time fixed — Paragraph 3. — [1] Acceptance of payment after the expiry of the time fixed operates as a waiver of limitation as to time in the contract. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 82 (83) : 2 Pat L Jour 520.

[2] Acceptance of performance of contract in which time is of essence after expiry of time without notice to claim compensation forfeits right to such compensation.

Agreement to do impossible act.

56. An agreement to do an act impossible in itself is void.

A contract to do an act which, after the contract is made, becomes impossible, or, by reason of some event which the promisor could not prevent, unlawful, becomes void when the act becomes impossible or unlawful.

Where one person has promised to do something which he knew, or, with reasonable diligence, might have known, and which the promisee did not know, to be impossible or unlawful, such promisor must make compensation to the promisee for any loss which such promisee sustains through the non-performance of the promise.

(b) A and B contract to marry each other. Before the time fixed for the marriage, A goes mad. The contract becomes void.

(c) A contracts to marry B, being already married to C, and being forbidden by the law to which he is subject to practise polygamy. A must make compensation to B for the loss caused to her by the non-performance of his promise.

(d) A contracts to take in cargo for B at a foreign port. A's Government afterwards declares war against the country in which the port is situated. The contract becomes void when war is declared.

(e) A contracts to act at a theatre for six months in consideration of a sum paid in advance by B. On several occasions A is too ill to act. The contract to act on those occasions becomes void.

[4] Purchaser may by his conduct waive although time is made the essence of the contract and where the time is once allowed to pass and parties continue to negotiate for completing the purchase then time no longer remains the essence of the contract. But simple extension of time without anything more amounts only to a waiver to the extent of substituting such extended time for the original time and does not destroy the essential character of the time. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 324 (326) (DB).

[5] Mere delay on the part of a party to the contract should not be taken to amount to waiver or abandonment by him. Unless the parties have expressly or impliedly by their conduct made time the essence of the contract, delay is no valid plea in a suit on contract. Undue delay on the part of one party to a contract coupled with reasonable notice given to him by the other party will disentitle the party delaying from claiming any relief in equity. SECTION 56 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Becomes impossible.
3. Becomes unlawful.
4. Refund and compensation.

1. Scope.—[1] Section 56, Contract Act, clearly does not apply to case, in which, although consideration of contract is lost, performance of promise on other side is still possible. (1880) 2 Mad 187 (190).

[2] Section 56 contemplates that a contract may be void under its provisions and yet compensation may be payable by the person, who is unable to perform it, whether the impediment is impossibility or unlawfulness, and whether the impediment existed at the time of the contract or supervened. The real question that must be considered, when it has to be determined whether S. 56 is applicable or not in any suit, except where the contract is sought to be specifically enforced, is not whether the contract was or became void, but whether the promisor has to make compensation for non-performance. The substance of S. 56 (viz., the payment of compensation being excused) can only apply when there is no contract to the contrary. (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 21 (24).

[3] Part of compromise decree, directing payment direct out of Court, to minor's next friend can be ignored on analogy of S. 56 as unlawful. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 811 (816) (DB).

science, rules of which can be applied, if they are not in conflict with the provisions of Contract Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 82 (84, 86) : 13 Luck 65 (DB).

[5] Co-sharer zemindar contracting to sell 800 acres of his undivided share to P — Land specified adjoining to P's — Sale-deed written crudely — Two postscripts — Co sharer promising in sale-deed to get land measured out and handed over to P. Held, that postscript could not be cut off from agreement and that P could not give general character instead of specific, to his claim — Contract was contingent and S. 32 applied. Section 56 did not apply (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 26 (28) (DB).

[6] Contract impossible of fulfilment owing to supervening condition can be relied on in defence. (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 27 (30) * (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 880 (834) : 45 Cal 28 (DB). (Even if defendant offers delivery on certain terms.)

[7] It is not accurate to say that impossibility excuses breach, without further qualification. It would be more correct to say that precisely opposite is the rule (Obiter). (Vol 6) 1919 P C 85 (90) (PC.)

2. Becomes impossible — [1] In English law, a contract to do act which becomes impossible in law after contract is made, becomes void when act becomes impossible, but contract to do act which becomes impossible in fact does not become void, unless, according to true intention of parties, agreement was conditional on its performance being or continuing possible in fact. Indian Contract Act makes no distinction of this kind. In second paragraph of S. 56, so far as contract to do act which becomes impossible in fact are concerned, it lays down as general rule what was English law only in certain exceptional cases. ('10) 1910 Upp Rul 2nd Qr 22 (24 & 25).

[2] Test of impossibility is whether it was practically impossible for party to perform the contract within specified time. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 509 (510).

[3] 'Impossible' includes what has become impracticable but it does not include what has become more onerous and burdensome. ('10) 1910 Mad WN 686 (687).

[4] A security bond is, in essence a contract for the due performance of a certain thing, and a party is entitled to have that contract enforced by the Courts, unless it cannot be enforced due to some reason, if the latter falls ill. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 61 (62).

[5] What is reasonable time for performance of contract is to be decided by circumstances of particular case. Where, in a contract for supply of goods by transport by boats, no time is fixed for performance, and the goods are shipped in time but the subsequent delay in transit is due to causes beyond defendant's control, the defendant is not liable for damages for delay. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 287 (291, 292).

[6] Section 13 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, provides that notwithstanding anything contained in Section 56 of the Contract Act, a contract is not wholly impossible of performance because a portion of its subject-matter, existing at its date, has ceased to exist at the time of the performance.

Frustration — [6a]. Section 56 does not cover every case of frustration. It applies only to cases of physical impossibility. A subsequent unforeseen event or contingency, for which neither of parties is responsible and for which they have not provided, may sometimes operate to avoid the contract. Regard must be had to the nature and circumstances of the transaction and the implied terms. But no Court has power of absolution and special care must be taken to avoid making new. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 509 (513, 514).

[7] Doctrine of 'frustration of venture' is based not upon existence of any actual impossibility in fact but upon existence in the circumstances of the case, of an implied condition, which must be absolutely necessary to give effect to the transaction which parties must have intended. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 291 (292) : 1 L R (1941) 2 Cal 78 * (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 85 (86) (DB).

[8] Where it has not become impossible for a party to perform his obligation under contract, but merely burdensome to him, doctrine of frustration can have no application. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 300 (303, 304) : 24 Pat 197 (DB).

[9] Whether frustration occurs or not depends on the nature of the contract and on the events which have occurred. The doctrine of frustration may apply to a contract of unascertained goods. Where the specification of goods to be supplied does not define what was to be the source of the goods, the contract cannot be said to have frustrated if only one of the many ways of performing it has become illegal or impossible. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 144 (145, 146) (P C).

[10] If the seller has no goods at all ready for shipment, he cannot take advantage of the circumstance that shipment was impossible; that defence should be available only to a person who, but for the impossibility of shipment by reason of circumstances beyond his control, was in fact in a position to fulfil his engagement. [5] In appropriating a particular debt the probable prejudice that may be caused to third persons having claims against the debtor is no concern of the creditor—He can place himself in the most advantageous position so long as he does not act either unconscionably or inequitably. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 534 (535) (DB).

[2] Two debts owing, one bearing compound interest and the other simple interest—Debtor not indicating

[But see (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 219 (221). (Two debts — Personal debt being older than Havalah debt—Payment without appropriation by either party—There is no rule that payment must be credited towards older debt)]

[3] The Court should, in the absence of any appropriation by the debtor or creditor, direct that the payment should be applied in discharge of the debts in order of time if there be such, and if they are all of the same date, in discharge of each of such debts proportionately. (Vol 22) 1935 All 221 (228) : 57 All. 605 (FB) : (Vol 24) 1937 All 1 (2) : 58 All 791 (FB) : (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 326 (327, 328) : 1 Pat L Jour 474 (DB).

Contracts which need not be performed.

Effect of novation, rescission, and alteration of contract.

62. If the parties to a contract agree to substitute a new contract for it, or to rescind or alter it, the original contract need not be performed.

Illustrations.

(a) A owes money to B under a contract. It is agreed, between A, B, and C, that B shall thenceforth accept C as his debtor instead of A. The old debt of A to B is at an end, and a new debt from C to B has been contracted.

(b) A owes B 10,000 rupees. A enters into an arrangement with B, and gives B a mortgage of his (A's) estate for 5000 rupees in place of the debt of 10,000 rupees. This is a new contract, and extinguishes the old.

(c) A owes B 1000 rupees under a contract. B owes C 1000 rupees. B orders A to credit C with 1000 rupees in his books, but C does not assent to the arrangement. B still owes C 1000 rupees, and no new contract has been entered into.

1. "If the parties to a contract agree." — [1] Parties are not in a position to avoid a contract under S. 62 without the other side's consent. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 225 (227) (DB).

[2] A contract is concluded when in the mind of each contracting party there is a consensus ad idem and a modification or revocation of the contract requires a like consensus. (Vol 12) 1925 P C 232 (232) (PC).

[3] No legal novation or modification of an existing contract is created in a case where one party proposes the novation but the other party accepts the proposal in a qualified manner. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 81 (53) (DB).

[4] Rights under leases granted already cannot be affected except by agreement by lessees. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 186 (188) (PC).

2. Novation of contract — Effect.—[1] Essence of novation lies not in the dissimilarity of the terms between the two contracts but in the intention of the parties to supersede the old by the new. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 169 (170) (DB) * (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 29 (30) (DB). [See also (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 15 (16) : I L R (1942) Bom 101. (Vague statements or inferences cannot be relied upon to extinguish a right which had accrued under a negotiable instrument.)]

[2] A collateral agreement must be, in every sense, a complete legal contract and the effect must be to vary or add to the terms of the contract.—Such collateral agreements are viewed with suspicion and so must be proved strictly. The terms of the agreement and also the animus contrahendi on the part of all the parties must be established clearly. No laxity in this respect would be allowed. (Vol 82) 1945 P C 144 (145) (P C).

[3] Whether there is a novation or not depends on the intention of parties. One should look to the substance and not to mere form. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 538 (542) (DB).

[4] Whether the parties intended the substitution of a new contract depends upon the circumstances of each case. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 63 (64, 65) * (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (90) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB).

[5] Under S. 62, it is not always necessary to prove that a new contract has been substituted; it is enough if an alteration in the original contract is proved. Consequently, where an instalment bond is actually executed by the debtor after striking of the balance on the bank account, the terms of the original contract are varied, and this variation will be sufficient to absolve the debtor from the performance of the original contract. The creditor cannot, therefore, fall back upon the original contract and cannot sue thereon. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 897 (898).

[6] Whether there has been a mere variation of terms or abandonment depends upon the facts of each particular case and is often not easy to determine but the following test may be applied, viz., that in the first case (variation) there are no such executory clauses in the second agreement as would enable one to sue upon that alone if the first did not exist; in the second (rescission) one could sue on the second arrangement alone, and the first contract is got rid of either by express words to that effect, or because, the second dealing with the same subject-matter as the first, but in a different way, it is impossible that the two should be both performed. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 347 (353, 354) : 62 Cal 175 (DB).

[7] Parties must rescind the prior contract altogether in order that there may be valid novation; if there is no such intention, there is no substitution and original contract is available. [8] When a contract is novated there is a fresh contract coming into existence, directly, or by implication, in place of the original contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 222 (286) (DB).

[23] Lease by manager of joint family—Addition of coparcener's name while getting it confirmed by widow of lessor on death of lessor does not operate as novation of lease. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 919 (921).

[24] Where one person executed a bond for a debt due by another and afterwards came to a settlement that the latter should pay the debt by instalments, should execute mortgage for the balance and that default in payment should make the latter liable as before : Held, that failure to carry on the settlement, though some of the instalments were paid, did not revive the former's liability as it was absolved by the settlement subsequent to the bond. (Vol 20) 1938 Lah 464 (465) (DB).

[25] If a contract is clear and unambiguous, its true effect cannot be changed merely by the course of conduct adopted by the parties in acting under it. Such conduct, if it is clear and unambiguous, may in certain events raise the inference that the parties have agreed to modify their contract, but short of that such conduct cannot have the effect of changing the operation of an unambiguous agreement, though it might possibly, in special cases, support along with other appropriate evidence, a claim for rectification. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 26 (29) (PC).

3. Novation by substitution of new party [1] To supersede a contract by another contract, all the parties to the first contract must be parties to the second contract. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 261 (263) : 48 Mad 693 (DB).

[3] In each case the question is not only whether a new debtor has consented to assume liability but whether the creditor has agreed to accept his liability in substitution of the liability of the original debtor. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (90) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 237 (D B) & (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 205 (206, 207) : I L R (1944) Kar 208 (DB) & (03) 5 Bom L R 617 (617) (DB).

[4] An assignment of contract to be operative must amount to a novation, requiring the consent of the other party to the contract. (1892) 16 Bom 441 (448).

[5] If the promisor being requested by the promisee, agrees to pay the debt to a third party, the original contract is replaced by a new one and the original promisee cannot enforce his claim against the promisor. The substituted contract is supported on this consideration namely, the original promisee's forbearance to demand the payment from the promisor. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 66 (68).

[6] If a landlord came to know after the execution of the kabuliyat that the tenant had allowed his brother an interest in the tenancy, that would not amount to novation. (12) 16 Cal L Jour 271 (278) (DB).

[7] Defendant purchasing all property of plaintiff's debtor and agreeing to pay plaintiff's debt out of consideration—Simultaneous agreement between plaintiff and defendant, latter admitting and accepting liability—Plaintiff held entitled to decree against purchaser. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 129 (132) : 41 Cal 187 (DB).

[8] A contract by the purchaser of a property to pay the whole or part of the consideration retained by him for payment to the vendor's creditors can be enforced by the latter, though they were not parties to the contract. Basis of liability is not novation but purchaser in that case becomes a trustee for vendor's creditors. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 941 (941) (DB).

[9] In a suit by A against B and C the plaint averred that certain amount was due to A from B and that C had undertaken to make the payment. It was alleged that C had intimated this fact to A but subsequently C withdrew his undertaking to pay to A as B had failed to pay him. Held that there was no novation within S. 62. All that C did was to assume responsibility to A on behalf of B and that later on C resiled from this undertaking. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 335 (335).

4. Cross contracts.—[1] In "cross contracts" the second contract does not operate to extinguish the first contract completely nor is it effective as a novation. The two contracts are distinct and separate and intention of parties only to pay differences does not extinguish them. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 144 (146) : 20 Sind L R 335.

[2] Where there are two contracts, one for sale and the other for purchase of the same amount, of the same class of goods, e.g., one hundred bales of cotton for settlement on the same day, the obvious intention of the parties is that the contracts should not be carried out according to their terms but should be treated as balancing each other. In such a case, generally speaking the parties intended that the contracts shall be cancelled, and that in lieu of the existing contracts, there shall be a fresh contract under which one party has to pay and the other to receive on the due date the difference, and neither party is to insist on the original contracts being carried out according to their terms. The Court may readily infer such a fresh contract, either from the terms of the instructions for the second contract in referring to an intention to close the first contract, or from the manner in which the contracts have been dealt with in the books, e.g., by treating the first two contracts as cancelled, and replaced by a liability to pay or a right to receive the difference, or by other sufficient evidence. But, the liability to pay or receive the difference on the contracts would only arise, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, on the day fixed for the performance of the original contracts. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 91 (92) (DB).

5. Agreement to substitute in future. — [1] In order to operate as a novation under S 6 the new contract must involve present supersession or extinguishment of the liability arising under the old contract. A mere agreement between the parties to effect such a supersession or extinguishment at a future date cannot constitute novation. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 289 (289, 290) & (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 476 (477) & (Vol 16) 1929 All 508 (508) : 51 All 799 (DB).

[See also (Vol 26) 1933 Nag 224 (224) : I L R (1941) Nag 464 & (1888) 1888 Pun Re No. 66, page 167 (169) (DB). (If there is no completed "contract", the other party is entitled to rescind it and to revert to the former consideration under the old contract.)]

6. Section 62, whether applies after breach of original contract.—[1] Section 62 contemplates that the original contract subsists and that the parties have agreed to replace it by a new contract. If there is a breach of the original contract S 62 does not apply (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 823 (824) (D B) & (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (90) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 237 (D B) & (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 413 (415). (Section 62 presupposes that the original contract is still capable of performance.) & (1888) 15 Cal 319 (325) (DB).

[See also (1936) 63 Cal 194 (201, 202). ('Parties to a contract' ordinarily signifies parties to an existing contract rather than parties to a contract that has already been discharged. There is, however, difficulty in applying this principle to a debt.)]

[See however (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 148 (150) : I L R (1946) Nag 36 (DB)].

[But see (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 314 (315, 316) : 45 Mad 180 (DB). (The provisions of S 62 apply to cases of substituted agreement after the breach of the original contract as well as to cases of substituted agreements prior to the date of performance under the original contract. The Common Law Rule, that there can be no accord and satisfaction after the breach of the original contract is by the enactment of S. 62 departed from.)]

[2] If after a breach of contract parties enter into a new contract to settle the amount of damages suffered in the breach of old contract, cause of action on the old contract is wiped out and the plaintiff can only sue on later contract (Vol 10) 1923 All 518 (519) : 45 All 472 (DB) (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 332 (333).

[3] The effect of non payment of the mortgage money within the stipulated period is merely to furnish a cause of action to the mortgagee to sue on the mortgage; the mortgage remains in force so long as it is not discharged and until this is done, it can be substituted by a new contract. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 477 (488).

7 Invalid novation — Effect — [1] Novation means the wiping out of the original contract as well as the creation of a new valid contract. If the new agreement is invalid it cannot serve as novatio, and the original contract continues unless the rights thereunder are expressly abandoned. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 26 (26, 27, 28) (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 260 (261) : ILR (1946) Nag 500. (In order to constitute novation, there must be a new contract and not merely a new agreement, i.e., there must be a new enforceable agreement) (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 772 (779) : I L R (1942) Mad 95 (FB). (Pro-note executed by a person renewed by him after his adjudication as insolvent and before discharge—Creditor can sue on the original pro-note) (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 816 (818) (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 104 (104) : I L R (1937) Nag 353 (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 985 (989) : 12 Lah 239 (DB) (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1201 (1203) : 52 Mad 465 (DB) (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 83 (84). (Defendant executed a bond in favour of plaintiff for a certain amount. Afterwards defendant executed a lease of his land in favour of one A and transferred to the plaintiff the right to recover the lease money. Held, plaintiff could sue on his original bond) (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 352 (353) (DB) (Vol 3) 1916 P C 68 (70) : 44 Ind App 60 : 39 All 178 (PC). [2] Where plaintiff sued defendant for a certain amount for which the defendant had executed a sarkhat bearing an unobliterated one-anna stamp and there was no promise to pay contained in the sarkhat, but there was only an acknowledgment that a certain amount had been borrowed : Held, that if the plaintiff was able to prove alunde by oral evidence that the defendant had the money then he was entitled to a decree. (Vol 14) 1927 All 502 (504).

[3] When an oral agreement is subsequently embodied in a deed unenforceable due to improper stamp, the creditor cannot fall back on the oral agreement. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 266 (267) (DB).

[4] To effect novation, contract substituted must be capable of enforcement in law. (12) 16 Cal L Jour 264 (268) (DB).

[See also (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 442 (450) : 10 Pat 63 (DB). (S. 62 cannot deprive promisor of any benefit under S. 6, Regulation 3 of 1872.)]

8. Negotiable instrument invalid — Whether plaintiff can fall back on original consideration —

[1] Where there is a pre-existing debt or liability and a promissory note or bill of exchange is passed in respect of it the plaintiff can fall back on the original consideration if for any reason the new contract fails. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 575 (576) : 12 Pat 862 (DB) (Vol 14) 1931 Nag 113 (115) : 27 Nag L R 53 (Vol 14) 1929 Sind 164 (164) (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 12 S (1243) (DB) (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 356 (357) : 7 Lah 206 (DB) (Vol 10) 1913 Rang 254 (256) : 1 Rang 121 DL (12) 8 Nag L R 7 (8, 9) (08) 1903 Pun Re No. 7, page 26 (28) (97) 1897 Pun Re No 71 page 326 (328).

[2] The extinction of a promissory note in satisfaction of a debt does not necessarily mean that original debt is extinguished but the note may operate as a substitute for that debt and the original debt is kept in abeyance pending the discharge or otherwise of the promissory note. It is however certainly open to parties to treat the original debt as discharged and substitute therefor the obligation under the promissory note. (Vol 10) 1928 Mad 317 (318) : 46 Mad 415 (11B) (Vol 15) 1923 Lah 424 (425). (Each case has to be decided on its own facts, the question being whether a new contract was substituted or whether a hundis was given in course of performing the prior contract and in the latter case the creditor can fall back on the original transaction) (11) 9 Ind Can 896 (897) (S nd). A pro-note accepted in full satisfaction of a claim debars the plaintiff from bringing a suit on the original claim though the defendants by subsequent fraud on their part might have made the pro-note invalid.

[3] The giving of a hundis in payment of the price of goods sold operate as a payment, only if the hundis is honoured and that if the hundis is dishonoured the right to sue on the original cause of action is revived; but if another hundis is substituted, it would operate as discharge of the first one only if the new contract could be legally enforced failing which the plaintiff can fall back on the first hundis. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 56 (57).

[4] Renewed promissory note inadmissible in evidence for want of proper stamp—Plaintiff can fall back on old note (Vol 18) 1931 All 560 (562) (DB).

[5] The following views are held as regards the question as to whether where the giving of a bill of exchange or a promissory note is contemporaneous with the loan the plaintiff can sue for the original debt if the new contract fails.

(a) When a loan has been granted on the security of a negotiable instrument, there is no cause of action independent of the negotiable instrument itself, and when that negotiable instrument is inadmissible in evidence the suit must fail (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 89 (90) (DB) (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 23 (24) : 58 Mad 261 (DB) (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 432 (432)

(b) Where money is lent and at the same time a promissory note is given therefor the creditor can sue for the money due as on the original contract of loan (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 37 (38) (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 268 (265) (DB) (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 378 (378) (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 159 (160) (DB). (In a suit based upon a hundis, which, being insufficiently stamped, is not receivable in evidence, the plaintiff can disregard such hundis and can treat it as an agreement to pay the money had and received.) (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1148 (1150).

(c) The question depends on the facts and circumstances of each case. The instrument may be given only as a collateral security or conditional payment. If the obligation to pay is proved to exist independently of the instrument the plaintiff can sue the defendant. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 225 (228) (DB) (Vol 16) 1929 All 254 (256) : 51 All 530 (DB). (If a hundis is an embodiment of the whole of the contract between the parties, it is effective as novatio and if inadmissible, no evidence aliunde is possible while if it does not embody whole contract it is not effective as novatio.) * (Vol 15) 1928 All 371 (376) : 50 All 839 (SB)* (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 437 (437, 438)* (Vol 10) 1923 All 529 (530) (DB)* (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 317 (318) (DB)* (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 80 (81) : 15 Sind L R 185 (DB).

9. Alteration of documents—Effect. — [1] The rule relating to the effect of material alterations in a deed is that, if an alteration (by erasure, interlineation or otherwise) is made in a material part of a deed after its execution, by or with the consent of any party thereto or person entitled thereunder, but without the consent of the party or parties liable thereunder, the deed is thereby made void. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 160 (168) : ILR (1940) All 625 : ILR 1940 Kar (PC) 287 : 67 Ind App 318 (P C)* (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 1016 (1018). (Rule does not apply to documents which are merely evidence of the pre-existing liability.)* (Vol 20) 1933 All 443 (449) (DB). (A change of date of a document is material alteration avoiding document.)

[2] The deed materially altered no longer continues the same deed and no person can maintain an action upon it. (Vol 30) 1943 All 24 (25) : ILR (1942) All 938 (DB)* (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 245 (246, 247) (DB) * (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 196 (197).

[3] Any material alteration in an instrument even with the consent of the parties vacates the original instrument and makes it a new instrument. (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 45 (46).

[4] Where the alteration makes no material change as regards the rights of the parties, the party is entitled to sue on the instrument. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 181 (182)* (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 177 (179) (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 486 (487, 488)* (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 659 (659).

[See also (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 543 (544) (DB).]

[5] Where there has been a material alteration in the document, which is fraudulent, the Courts will not allow the plaint to be amended and the plaintiff to fall back on the original cause of action but where the alteration, though material, is innocent and the plaint is based on the original cause of action as well as on the altered document the claim, if properly proved, can be allowed on the original cause of action. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 66 (68).

[6] An alteration made in good faith to carry out the original intention of the parties does not vitiate the instrument. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 177 (179) (DB).

[7] The defendant executed a mortgage bond to the plaintiff in 1919. Subsequent to this, a simple bond was executed in 1922 for the balance, then owing under the bond of 1919. The plaintiff sued on the bond of 1922 but the suit was dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff had materially altered the terms of the bond. The plaintiff then sued on the original bond of 1919: Held, that the execution of the bond of 1922 was a novation of the contract embodied in the bond of 1919, and the fact that the plaintiff had, by his own act, rendered the bond of 1922 invalid could not have the effect of reviving the mortgage bond of 1919 and the suit was, therefore, not maintainable. (Vol 18) 1931 All 325 (326) (DB).

[8] Suit on hand-note—Hand-note found tampered—No cause of action independently of hand-note—Decree, held, cannot be awarded even if the defendant admits the debt. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 572 (573, 575) : 16 Pat 527 (DB).

[9] No decree can be given on any previous oral agreement. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 628 (629).

[10] Any alteration or interpolation appearing on the face of a document is presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary to have been made before the execution of the deed. The burden of proving that the interpolation was made later on would lie upon the contesting executant, more particularly when the deed was registered with the interpolation in question already in it. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 177 (179) (DB).

[11] A contract note, relating to certain shares, was originally drawn in the plaintiff's favour. He requested the defendant, a share-broker, to delete his name from the note, so far as certain shares were concerned, and to substitute for it the name of another person H. A fresh contract note relating to these shares, was made out in the name of H, and sent to him by the defendant. The defendant admitted this, but maintained that the transactions relating to these shares were entered into by him not for H, but for the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff was liable in respect of them; Held, that the onus rested on the defendant of showing that despite the altered terms of the contract note, the plaintiff remained liable to him in respect of the transactions in the shares, and that the Court would require very strong evidence to discharge that onus. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 93 (94) (PC).

10. Consideration under S. 62. — [1] Section 62 does not require any further consideration for the validity of the substituted contract than the putting an end to the obligation under the original contract. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 297 (299) (DB)* (Vol 30) 1943 P C 147 (153) : ILR (1944) Kar (P C) 85 (P C). (Novation constitutes a good consideration for a fresh promise.) * (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (90) : ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 200 (202).

[2] Plaintiff filed a suit for Rs. 810 — Defendant, pleaded a reference to arbitration, under which award was made for payment of Rs. 400 with annual instalments of Rs. 50 — Held, settlement of a dispute was a valid consideration and S. 62 applied. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 163 (1) (163).

[3] A mere promise by a creditor, made at the request of his debtor, to forbear from suing him is regarded as a voluntary promise and is of no effect. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 121 (128) : 1914 Pun Re No. 4 (DB).

[4] Section 63, Contract Act, would be applicable only if it were merely a case of an extension of time. Where a mortgagee not only gives further time to the mortgagor but enters into a new contract for the transfer of property, in payment of the outstanding mortgage debt, there is a substituted contract and S. 63 has no application. Such a case is governed by S. 62, and the agreement would not be binding if it is not supported by consideration. (Vol 18) 1931 All 589 (592) (DB).

11. Burden of proof. — [1] When a party wants to make out a case of novation, he should plead the necessary facts to found novation, and state what was the original contract and in what way it has been replaced by a new contract. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 100 (102) : ILR (1941) Nag 144 (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 477 (486) (DB).

[2] Burden of proof of the fact that there has been, by consent of parties, a departure from the terms of the original contract is on the person asserting it. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 347 (353, 354) : 62 Cal 175 (DB).

12. Limitation. — [1] Novation of contract gives a fresh and independent cause of action, and limitation begins to run from the day on which new promise is broken. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 632 (632) : 29 Oudh Gas 24.

Promisee may dispense with or remit performance of promise.

which he thinks fit.

63. Every promisee may dispense with or remit, wholly or in part, the performance of the promise made to him, or may extend the time for such performance,^a or may accept, instead of it, any satisfaction

Illustrations.

(a) A promises to paint a picture for B. B afterwards forbids him to do so. A is no longer bound to perform the promise.

(b) A owes B, 5000 rupees. A pays to B, and B accepts, in satisfaction of the whole debt, 2000 rupees paid at the time and place at which the 5000 rupees were payable. The whole debt is discharged.

(c) A owes B 5000 rupees. C pays to B 1000 rupees, and B accepts them, in satisfaction of his claim on A. This payment is a discharge of the whole claim.^b

(d) A owes B, under a contract, a sum of money, the amount of which has not been ascertained. A, without ascertaining the amount, gives to B, and B, in satisfaction thereof, accepts the sum of 2000 rupees. This is a discharge of the whole debt, whatever may be its amount.

(e) A owes B, 2000 rupees, and is also indebted to other creditors. A makes an arrangement with his creditors, including B, to pay them a ^c[composition] of eight annas in the rupee upon their respective demands. Payment to B of 1000 rupees is a discharge of B's demand.

SECTION 63—Synopsis

1. Applicability and scope.
2. "Promisee."
3. "Dispense with or remit."
4. Extension of time.
5. "May accept instead of it any satisfaction."
6. Necessity for consideration.
7. Evidence.
8. Composition with creditors.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] Section 63 constitutes a wide departure from the principles of the English Common law and those principles cannot be relied on to interpret the section. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 1 (6) (DB) (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 87 (91); ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB) (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 245 (250) (DB).

[2] Pre-existing agreement, as under the English law, is not necessary for the promisee to do any of the acts mentioned in this section. (Vol 15) 1928 P O 99 (102) : 9 Lah 510 : 55 Ind App 154 (PC). ((1904) 28 Bom 66 (71, 72), Overruled.) (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 181 (184) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 101 (DB).

[3] Section 63 does not apply to the case of a substituted contract. (Vol 18) 1931 All 589 (591, 592) (DB) (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 636 (638, 639) : 54 Mad 889 (DB).

[4] Section 63 does not apply where the parties stand in the position of decree-holder and judgment-debtor. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 697 (700) (DB).

[5] Agreement made after breach of contract may be enforced. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 143 (150) : I L R (1946) Nag 36 (DB) (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 153 (153) : 23 Sind L R 294 (DB).

[6] Section 63, Contract Act, has nothing to do with the interpretation of S. 92 of the Evidence Act. (Vol 17) 1930 All 721 (723) : 53 All 157 (FB).

[7] Section 55, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, overrides S. 63, Contract Act, in insolvency matters. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 1009 (1011) : 58 Mad 702.

2. "Promisee."—[1] Suit on promissory notes executed by defendants' father and their separated brother—Father dying pendente lite—Defendants also impleaded and decrees obtained—Defendants executing promissory note in consideration of the plaintiff not executing the decrees or filing suit against them and agreeing to assign the decrees in payment to defendants—Subsequent notice rescinding agreement as defendants failed to pay—Held, he could not do so, so long as the decree was in force and capable of execution and that he was not a promisee within the meaning of this section to take advantage of it. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 225 (227) (DB).

3. "Dispense with or remit."—[1] Promisee is not bound to accept part performance of a contract. (1921) 3 Lah L Jour 141 (144) (DB).

[2] A claim which arises, not out of any promise, cannot be claimed to have been remitted or dispensed with. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 122 (123) : I L R (1944) Nag 327.

[3] Dispensation should be by a voluntary conscious effort—Mere omission to assert does not amount to dispensation of the performance—Even negligence does not amount to it. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 469 (476).

[4] Actual remission and not mere agreement to remit is permitted by the section. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 794 (799) : 53 Mad 127 (DB).

[5] Conditional remission is not enforceable under the section. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1144 (1145) (DB).

[6] A notice to promisor that, if he did not perform a certain act the contract will be cancelled, does not operate as a rescission of the contract. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 321 (324) : 26 Nag L R 88 (DB).

[7] Promisor or his assignee, though not party to agreement, can take benefit of release. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 123 (124) (DB). (Release in favour of one member of firm, operates as absolute release in favour of the firm.)

[8] Remission by person on verge of insolvency, without consideration is not operative against Official Receiver—Section 53, Provincial Insolvency Act, invalidates it. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 737 (738) (DB).

[9] No suit lies for the recovery of the amount remitted when a remission had been made and communicated by the creditor to the debtor. (1911) 9 Ind Cas 763 (764) : 9 Mad L Tim 270. (19 Mad. 391, Foll.)

4. Extension of time.—[1] Time of performance of contract cannot be extended without mutual consent. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 117 (119) (DB) (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 573 (574) : 37 Mad 412 (DB). (Time cannot be extended without consent of promisor to claim heavier damages.)

[2] Party choosing contract as broken, and resale ordered—Promisee postponing the date of resale for want of bidders—There is no extension of time and S. 63 does not apply. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 704 (706).

[3] A creditor can extend the time under S. 63 even after expiry of time for performance. (Vol 18) 1931 All 589 (592) (DB).

[4] Mere forbearance to sue or to give notice of rescission does not amount to an extension of time for the performance of a contract. Extension can be granted only at the request of the promisor. Nor does negligence result in extension of time. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 1 (5) (DB)

Section 63 (contd.)

[5] Ultimate agreement to extend time—Gaps between intervening agreements to extend time since the expiry of date in the original contract—The gaps are of no importance—Final agreement to extend the time alone is necessary under the section. (Vol 38) 1948 Bom 429 (482) (DB).

[6] Written agreement, collateral to promissory note, postponing time for payment is valid and enforceable. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 539 (540) : 89 Mad 129 (FB).

[7] Calculation of damages for breach of contract, where time has been extended, is to be made from date of extension and not from original date. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 178 (180) : 48 Ind App 175 : 43 All 257 (PC) * (Vol 30) 1942 Bom 229 (235).

[8] By mere extension of time for delivery, the contract does not necessarily become a new contract, but the promisee gets certain rights under S. 63, Contract Act. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 294 (296) : 41 Cal 35.

5. "May accept instead of it any satisfaction."

— [1] Promisee may accept any satisfaction on, but until the satisfaction agreed upon remains executory, the original cause of action is not discharged. — But where the promisee accepted the promise itself in satisfaction the original cause of action is immediately discharged. (Vol 38) 1946 Nag 148 (150) : 11 R (1946) Nag 86 (DB) * (1922) 65 Ind Cas 812 (813) (DB) (Pat). Contract of marriage according to which tilak money was paid by plaintiff to defendant—Defendant refusing the marriage, returning part of money and promising to pay balance shortly — Suit for balance and damages — Held that the plaintiff never intended to accept the promise instead of the performance of the contract. * (1908) 4 Low Bur Rul 365 (367). (Creditor agreeing to part payment, in full satisfaction, on condition debtor paid the amount within a date or conveyed certain properties— There is no satisfaction and discharge of original debt until either of the things is done before the time.) * 1888) 15 Cal 319 (326, 327) (DB). (Subsequent arrangement after due date agreeing to take part of dues on bond in cash and part in the shape of fresh bond—Creditor not intending to accept the bare promise by debtor to pay and execute the bond—Held, there was no discharge of the original debt.)

[2] Accord and satisfaction imply an agreement to take the money, in satisfaction of the claim, in respect of which it is sent, which must be evident from an actual agreement between the parties or from the conduct of one of the parties. Therefore, mere retaining of the money sent by promisor does not imply satisfaction. (Vol 9) 1922 All 461 (463) : 44 All 719 (DB).

[3] Before a party can be said to accept something other than the performance stipulated for, in satisfaction of the contract it should be open to him to refuse such satisfaction and to insist on performance of the contract in accordance with its terms. (37) ILR (1937) 1 Cal 757 (763).

[4] The fact that remission was made under an oral agreement will not prevent the discharge taking effect under S. 63, independently of such agreement, which is not illegal. (1903) 26 Mad 195 (196).

[5] Agreement to accept a further part payment, in addition to the one made at the time, in full satisfaction is valid. (1913) 20 Ind Cas 544 (545, 546) (DB) (Oudh).

[6] Promissory note taken to reimburse loss on breach of contract for sale—Receipt for one of the payments under it stating that whole amount is recoverable if not paid within a particular time — Held there was no agreement reviving original cause of action. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 189 (190).

[7] Agreement to sell property in satisfaction of debt may operate as a discharge of the debt if that is the intention of parties. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 218 (220) : ILR (1944) Mad 742 (DB)

[8] Where a creditor discharges a person from his liability under a promote, directing the debtor to apply the sum for a particular purpose the discharge operates as a discharge of the note. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 480 (481) (DB).

6. Necessity for consideration. — [1] In a case falling under S. 63, no fresh consideration is necessary. (Vol 18) 1931 All 539 (592) (DB) * (Vol 38) 1946 Bom 469 (476) * (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 181 (184) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 101 (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 84 (86) 1938 Rang. L R 660 (DB). (Held (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 144 : 6 Rang. 191 impliedly overruled by (Vol 15) 1928 P C 99 55 Ind App 154 : 9 Lab 510 (PC).) * (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 196 (202) (DB). (Section 62 need not be invoked for its enforcement.) * (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 137 (138). (Agreement to extend time) * (Vol 14) 1927 All 451 (452) : 49 All 599 (DB) * (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 463 (465) : 47 Cal 537 (DB) (Dower debt may be relinquished without consideration.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 538 (588) : 15 Cri L Jour. 694. (Under S. 63 no consideration is necessary to force a portion of rent payable.) * (1911) 34 Mad 156 (158) (DB) * (1898) 20 Bom 636 (644) (DB) * (1896) 19 Mad 398 (408). (No consideration required for extending time)

[2] Where there is no actual dispensation or remission, but an agreement to remit in future, consideration is necessary for such agreement (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 181 (184) : ILR (1943) 1 Cal 101 (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 688 (689) (DB) * (Vol 24) 1935 Rang 188 (189) (DB).

7. Evidence. — [1] Though an agreement to extend time cannot be proved by oral evidence, where the mortgage is in writing satisfaction of part of the debt by payment and balance of remission can be proved by oral evidence. (Vol 17) 1930 All 721 (723) : 53 All 157 (FB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 794 (797, 798) : 53 Mad 127 (DB).

[2] Assignment of decree — Agreement reciting certain sum as consideration — Part of the amount—howsoever received was only paid—Suit for balance—Defendant should be allowed to prove orally, in rebuttal of his claim that the part not paid was never intended to be paid where the plaintiff is allowed to prove orally that only part was received. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 35 (36) (DB) (Reversing (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 660)

[3] Conduct of party may be evidence of waiver by a party of his rights under a contract. (1922) 64 Ind Cas 461 (469) (Nag).

8. Composition with creditors. — [1] A composition is an arrangement between the compounding debtor and all or some of the creditors by which the creditor agrees expressly or impliedly with the debtor and also with each other to accept from the debtor lesser amounts in full satisfaction of the amounts due. (Vol 25) 1938 Lab 769 (771, 772) (DB).

[2] Composition deed — Every creditor need not execute deed—Signifying acquiescence by other means is sufficient— But he cannot simply stand by idly. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 194 (201) (DB) * (Vol 22) 1935 All 441 (442).

[3] Defendant entering into composition with creditors, including plaintiffs—Plaintiffs' general agent refusing to accept payment at composition rate — Other creditors paid at that rate — Plaintiff's firm cannot rescind from the arrangement. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 361 (362).

[4] As to discharge of surety when creditor compounds with, gives time to, or agrees not to sue, principal debtor, see S. 135.

64 When a person at whose option a contract is voidable rescinds it, the other party thereto need not perform any promise therein contained in which he is promised. Consequences of rescission of voidable contract. The party rescinding a voidable contract shall, if he have received any benefit thereunder from another party to such contract, restore such benefit so far as may be, to the person from whom it was received.

[a] See Section 75.

SECTION 64 — Synopsis

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Contracts by minors and their guardians.
3. Option to rescind.
4. Restoration of benefit received thereunder.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] The principle "one who seeks equity must do equity" applies to person seeking to set aside voidable transfer — He must reimburse prior transferor to the extent of his loss. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 150 (151, 152) : 49 Cal 911 (DB) & (Vol 18) 1931 All 201 (202) : 52 All 331 (DB)

[2] The principle on which Ss 64 and 65 rest is not confined to cases expressly included in either of them and is that no man can at once treat the contract as avoided by him so as to resume the property which he parted with under it and at the same time keep the money or other advantage which he received under it. The rule is applied as a rule of equity and good conscience. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 303 (305) (DB).

[See (1872) 14 Moo Ind App 53 (65) (PC).]

[3] Section 55 shows that the contracts referred to therein are voidable. Therefore, S. 64 is not limited to contracts voidable under S. 19 or S. 19A. (1910) 33 Mad 375 (396) (DB).

[4] A party who has "put an end to" contract under S. 39 is liable under S. 64 to restore any benefit received from the other party. (Vol 30) 1943 P C 34 (38, 39) : I L R (1943) Kar (PC) 30 : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 213 : 70 Ind App 35 (PC) & (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 259 (263) : 25 Oudh Cas 169 (DB). (Section 64 applies to all cases of voidable contracts, whether voidable under S. 19 or by reason of breach under S. 39.)

[5] Under mutual mistake of fact each party must return benefit derived through other's mistake. This principle is not limited to S. 64 and S. 65 only. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 152 (156).

[6] Where a person agrees to advance monies to another from time to time upto a certain limit with object of financing litigation by latter, but fails or refuses to pay the full amount, he is nevertheless entitled under S. 64 to a refund of the amount actually advanced by him. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 718 (728) (DB).

[7] Suit on pro-note against one defendant withdrawn — Decree against other — Subsequent compromise whereby plaintiff not to file suit against other or execute decrees — Pro-note executed by other defendant — Money of new note not paid — Suit thereon — Held, that the contract was not voidable under S. 64. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 225 (227) (DB).

[8] Neither S. 64 nor S. 74 is applicable to a deposit, the stipulation for forfeiture of which in case of breach of contract is not one by way of penalty. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 526 (627) : I L R (1944) Mad 269 (DB).

[9] Agreement to execute contract to Municipal Committee — Agreement voidable as it was subject to approval of Municipal Committee — Municipality rescinding contract — Effect is to release the promisor from performing any promise under the agreement. (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 124 (125) (DB)

[10] Purchaser advancing money to vendor to pay off encumbrances on property contracted to be purchased — Sale not completed through purchaser's default and therefore vendor rescinding contract — Vendor must restore the benefit received thereunder — No equitable charge is created under S. 64 on the property in favour of the purchaser for the amount spent by the vendor for discharging the encumbrances as S. 64 has nothing to do with the question of charge. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 204 (205).

[11] Life insurance — Fraudulent concealment of material facts by assured — Policy becomes void — Assured or his heirs cannot recover premiums paid even in absence of agreement as to forfeiture — Sections 64 and 65, Contract Act, do not apply. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 281 (283, 284) : I L R (1944) Mad 842 (DB)

2. Contracts by minors and their guardians. —

[1] Sections 64 and 65 are applicable only to contracts between competent parties, and not to cases, where there is not, and could not be, any contract. A contract entered into by a minor is absolutely void, and therefore this section has no application to contracts by minors. (1904) 26 All 342 (342) (DB) & (1921) 60 Ind Cas 519 (520) (Lah) & (1904) 30 Cal 539 (548) : 30 Ind App 114 (PC) & (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 15 (16) : 31 Nag L R 62 (Sup) (DB) (Person whose estate is under superintendence of Court of Wards is incompetent to enter into contracts.)

[2] The term 'person' and 'party' in S. 64 are interchangeable terms. They have reference to such person as is mentioned in S. 11 of the Act i.e., a person competent to contract. (1899) 26 Cal 381 (389) (SB).

[3] Where a minor sues to cancel a mortgage executed by him during his minority, the Court cannot direct compensation to be paid by the minor as a condition of his getting the relief, the contract itself being void. (Vol 2) 1915 All 209 (211) & (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 294 (245). (Sale.) & (1898) 25 Cal 616 (625).

[4] Where a minor, representing himself to be a major, enters into a transaction and subsequently sues to set it aside on the ground of minority, equity requires that the relief should be granted to him conditional on his returning the benefit received by him. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 30 (31) : 24 Oudh Cas 348. (Sale.) & (Vol 8) 1921 All 326 (327) (DB). (Mortgage.) & (1921) 60 Ind Cas 519 (520) (Lah) & (1910) 1910 Pun L R No. 98, page 279 (281) : 1910 Pun Re No. 76 (DB). (Fact that Ss. 64 and 65 do not apply to such sale does not exclude application of rule of equity contained in S. 41, Specific Relief Act) & (1909) 31 All 21 (30) (DB).

[5] Sale of a shop by two Hindu widows, one of whom was minor — Sale-deed not registered — Suit by purchaser to recover certain money paid in reliance upon the sale — Held, that the sale being by a minor was void, and plaintiffs did not acquire any interest in the shop. Money advanced on such contract cannot be recovered. (1910) 32 All 25 (27, 30) (DB).

[6] Suit on promissory note executed by minor by representing himself to be major — Minor can plead his infancy — Minor is not liable to pay money received under the note — Sections 64 and 65 have no application. (1911) 3 All L Jour 1058 (1058, 1059) (DB).

[7] The doctrine that a minor may be compelled to refund the benefit received by him when any of his transaction is declared to be null and void at his instance, is only applicable to suits for possession so far as immovable property is concerned. In suits for possession, the Court may give the minor a decree to the effect that he will be entitled to regain possession of his property only if he pays the mortgagee or the vendee at least that part of the consideration which was required by him for necessary purposes. In a declaratory suit, this equitable relief cannot be granted to the defendants because the Court cannot tuck on the equitable relief for refund of the consideration, or part thereof, to the declaration sought by the minor plaintiff. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 943 (944) (DB).

[8] A contract entered into by a certificated guardian, without authority, is not void, but only voidable and the party rescinding the contract must, if he has received any benefit thereunder from the other party to the contract, restore such benefit so far as may be. (Vol 16) 1929 All 890 (893) : 51 All 1027 (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 All 369 (372) : ILR (1938) All 614 (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 250 (253) (DB). (Sale by de facto guardian.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 499 (499) : 49 Bom 576 (DB).

[9] Transfer of minor's property by a person, not duly appointed as guardian, is void ab initio but minor must, under Ss. 64 and 65, restore any advantage received under it or make compensation for such advantage. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 1 (13) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 722 (723). (Alienation by self-constituted guardian.)

[10] Minor's property sold by guardian and some land purchased with purchase-money — Land so purchased does not constitute benefit within meaning of S. 64 and hence need not be returned by ward in setting aside sale. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 650 (650, 651) : 42 Mad 36 (DB).

[11] Where a sale by a guardian on behalf of minor is declared void ab initio, the vendee cannot claim for the improvement effected by him on the property. Ss. 64 and 65 do not apply. (1913) 1913 Pun L R No. 98, page 359 (361).

[12] Where a mortgage executed by the guardian of minor's property is found to be voidable at the option of the minor, a subsequent sale of the property by the guardian, free from incumbrance, for the minor's benefit, amounts to a repudiation on behalf of the minor of the earlier mortgage and the vendee takes the property free from prior mortgage. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 861 (662) (DB).

3. Option to rescind. — [1] The word 'rescinds' implies an express and unequivocal cancellation of the contract. Where a domestic servant leaves his service without notice and the master engages another servant, the contract with former servant is not necessarily rescinded by the master and the servant is not entitled to get the pay for the work done. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 207 (208).

[2] In the case of a breach of a revocable contract or trust, the choice of the remedy lies with the party whose rights are infringed, and not with the promisor or trustee. (1913) 20 Ind Cas 783 (783) (DB) (Oudh).

[3] N an insolvent owing money to A — P owing to N — By arrangement between them P paying to A — P suing A for return of money — P cannot call in aid S. 64 or S. 65 — S. 64 provides for repayment only by the person at whose option the contract is rescinded. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 973 (980) (DB).

[4] Under S. 64 person who puts an end to contract under S. 39 is party rescinding voidable contract. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 104 (110) : 12 Nag L R 177 (DB).

[5] Contract with stipulation to rescind may be rescinded for reasons not necessarily specified — Such contract is not void. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 75 (76, 77).

[6] As to whether a party rightfully rescinding a contract is entitled to compensation, see S. 75.

4. Restoration of benefit received thereunder. [1] Section 64 is in terms applicable to parties to contract and on equitable principle is extended to others who are not parties, but the principle underlying the section is that the person made liable to refund must have received benefit under the contract. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 398 (400) (DB).

[2] Where there is no evidence to show either that the money borrowed was spent for purposes of tawashi or that there was such a lack of tawashi money that it was necessary to borrow, the mere fact that it was borrowed by karnavan for expenses of tawashi does not render the tarwad property liable. Section 64 is inapplicable to such case as no benefit has been received by the other members who were no parties to the borrowing. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 398 (400) (DB).

[3] Section 64 cannot mean that the person rescinding a contract must restore all that he has received under it, irrespective of what he has given under it. The reasonable view is that he may be made to restore any balance of advantages received under the contract which can be clearly separated off from the advantage for which consideration has been given by him. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 259 (263) : 25 Oudh Cas 169 (DB).

[4] The term "benefits under the contract" extends only to the money paid as consideration and not to the improvements effected by a usufructuary mortgagee. (Vol 18) 1931 All 201 (203) : 52 All 831 (DB).

[5] Party rescinding voidable contract must return benefit received so far as may be to the person from whom it was received — A executing sale deed in favour of B for cash consideration, and also in consideration of his services rendered at mutation proceedings, as a result of which objections to mutation were withdrawn — Subsequent suit by A to set aside sale on ground of fraud — A held liable to refund cash consideration and also a sum of money as compensation for services rendered by B. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 170 (171) (DB).

[6] Where a sale executed for recovering share of inheritance is set aside on the ground of undue influence, the vendees are entitled to compensation, the measure of which would be the expenditure which they incur on behalf of the vendor, recovering his share in the inheritance. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 92 (94) : 1 Luck 144 (DB).

[7] Where an unauthorised sale by an executor or administrator is set aside, and a bona fide purchaser is deprived of the property purchased by him, then he is entitled in equity to be reimbursed for any expenditure incurred by him which has the effect of improving the permanent value of the property. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 71 (74, 75) (DB).

[8] Where a party to marriage contract, having accepted cash and jewels, subsequently repudiates the marriage contract he is bound to return what he has taken. (1922) 65 Ind Cas 812 (813) (DB) (Pat).

[9] Where a person at whose option, under S. 55 a contract is voidable, rescinds it, while he gets compensation under Ss. 73 and 74 for the breach, he has to restore, under S. 64, any benefit so far as may be to the other party, the object being to replace the parties in the position which they occupied before the contract was made. (1910) 33 Mad 375 (395) (DB).

[10] Buyer improperly declining to complete contract — Seller putting end to contract under S. 39 — Seller is liable under S. 64 to restore any instalments of price unless paid as earnest — Buyer is entitled not only to claim credit for payment but can sue for return of it — But he is not entitled to interest — Seller can make counter claim for damages if contract does not provide penalty. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 37 (39) : I L R (1941) Kar 495 (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 168 (169).

Obligation of person who has received advantage under void agreement or contract that becomes void.

65. When an agreement is discovered to be void, or when a contract becomes void, any person who has received any advantage under such agreement or contract is bound to restore it, or to make compensation for it, to the person from whom he received it.

Illustrations.

(a) A pays B, 1000 rupees, in consideration of B's promising to marry C, A's daughter. C is dead at the time of the promise. The agreement is void, but B must repay A the 1000 rupees.

(b) A contracts with B to deliver to him 250 maunds of rice before the first of May. A delivers 130 maunds only before that day, and none after. B retains the 130 maunds after the 1st of May. He is bound to pay A for them.

(c) A, a singer, contracts with B, the manager of a theatre, to sing at his theatre for two nights in every week during the next two months and B engages to pay her a hundred rupees for each night's performance. On the sixth night, A wilfully absents herself from the theatre, and B, in consequence, rescinds the contract. B must pay A for the five nights on which she had sung.

(d) A contracts to sing for B at a concert for 1000 rupees which are paid in advance. A is too ill to sing. A is not bound to make compensation to B for the loss of the profits which B would have made if A had been able to sing, but must refund to B the 1000 rupees paid in advance.

SECTION 65 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. "Discovered to be void."
3. Contract by person under disability.
4. "Becomes void."
5. "Received any advantage."
6. Compensation.
7. Limitation.

1. Scope. — [1] Section 70 is wider in scope than S. 65 and should not be invoked for a refund of benefit. Where a contract is void not on account of mistake of law, but a mistake of what has been done, S. 65 would apply. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 388 (391, 392) : 1 Luck 444 (DB).

[2] Section 65, Contract Act, applies to transfers also. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 410 (413) : 13 Luck 531 (DB).

[3] Section 65 is a departure from English law. It does not favour a person guilty of wilful default. (1940) 44 Cal WN 11 (37) (SB).

[4] Section deals with (a) agreements enforceable by law and (b) with agreements not so enforceable. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 403 (404) : 50 Ind App 69 : 45 All 179 : 26 Oudh Cas 223 (PC).

[5] Section 65 applies only if agreement was discovered to be void or became void after it had been entered into. (1913) 18 Ind Cas 9 (10) (All) * (42) I L R (1942) All 817 (819) (DB).

[6] Section 65 starts on the basis of there being an agreement or contract between competent parties; and has no application to a case in which there never was, and never could have been, any contract. (1903) 30 Cal 589 (549) : 30 Ind App 114 (PC) * (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 89 (90) : 53 Bom 309 (DB) * (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 147 (147) : 45 Bom 225 (DB) * (1904) 26 All 342 (343) (DB).

[7] Section codifies rules of equity. (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 164 (168) (DB).

[8] The fact that Ss. 64 and 65 do not apply to the facts of a case does not exclude the application of the rules of equity contained therein. (10) (1910) Pun L R No. 98, p. 279 (281) : 1910 Pun Re No. 76 (DB).

[9] Sections 69 and 70, U. P. Municipalities Act; cannot be held to have repealed S. 65, Contract Act. That being a rule of statutory law must be given effect to. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 388 (392) : 1 Luck 444 (DB).

[10] Section 65 does not apply to a case in which there is a stipulation that by reason of a breach of warranty by one of the parties to the contract, the other party shall be discharged from the performance of his part of the contract. (1902) 25 Mad 183 (214) (DB).

[11] Language of S. 65 is wide and general. The burden of proving that it does not apply is on the party alleging thus. The petitioner can always argue that he is entitled to relief under it. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 111 (112).

[12] Relief under S. 65 cannot be claimed at the last moment in appeal. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 410 (414) : 13 Luck 531 (DB).

[13] Lessee according to a lease entering into possession and constructing tin shed and 'chabutra'. Lease subsequently held legally defective—Lessee claiming costs of construction — Held, that the agreement not being void, and there being no circumstances to justify equitable considerations, S. 65 did not apply and lessee could not recover. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 231 (237) : 17 Luck 530 (DB).

2. "Discovered to be void." — [1] The words 'discovered to be void' in S. 65 refer to an agreement which was void ab initio, but was not known to be void by the parties. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 444 (447) : 41 Mad 197 (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 7 (9) (DB). (The term 'discovered to be void' imparts that agreement, though found to be void, was not void on the face of it.)

[2] A purchaser cannot recover back the redemption money paid for an undisclosed mortgage, after his purchase was found to be sham and unenforceable. It is not an advantage under agreement and also the sale was not "discovered to be void." (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 59 (41).

[3] An agreement which amounts to fraudulent preference is not 'void' as between the parties under S. 65. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 978 (980) (DB).

[4] The word "agreement" as used in expression "agreement, discovered to be void" has no application to transactions which are "contracts" under Contract Act. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 192 (201) : 44 Bom 631 (DB).

[5] Agreement to transfer decree—Consideration paid in part to decree-holder in advance—Proposed transferee dead—Original decree-holder realising the decretal amount by execution—Suit for recovery of amount advanced with interest on the death of the proposed transferee—Contract being personal found to be incapable of fulfilment: Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover the earnest money with interest. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 588 (589, 590) (DB).

[6] Section 65 also applies to agreements that are void ab initio. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 98 (98) * (Vol 23) 1941 Bom 378 (380) : I L R (1941) Bom 666 (DB).

(The agreement to sell the right of reversioner is manifestly void from its inception. Vendee is entitled to get back consideration with interest)

[But see (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 266 (269) : 43 Cal 115 (DB) * (1913) 7 Sind L R 58 (60) (DB). (Section 65 does not apply to contracts that are void ab initio.)]

[7] Difference between a voidable instrument and one void ab initio.—In former case restoration cannot be claimed unless the instrument is avoided; while, in the latter, relief can be claimed independently of the instrument. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 335 (346) : I L R (1939) Nag 1 (FB).

[8] If an agreement is void ab initio it cannot be discovered to be void when the Court finds it to be so because the parties are presumed to know the law. But under special circumstances, Court may hold that discovery was made later. Mortgage void for no necessity if acted upon by both parties shall be regarded as 'discovered to be void' only after decree to that effect. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 212 (215).

Contravention of statute — Civil P. C. Sch. III, Para II—[9] Defendant being incompetent to alienate the field under Paragraph 2 of Schedule III to the Code of Civil Procedure, plaintiff suing for refund of consideration money and damages—Section 65 of the Contract Act applied and plaintiff was entitled to a refund. Contravention of statute—Municipal Law.—[10] General law of contracts grants relief to a party when a special law, like the Municipalities Act, considers an agreement unenforceable. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 957 (960, 961, 962) : I L R (1939) Mad 928 (DB) * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 98 (98). Contravention of statute — Miscellaneous.—[11] Supply of goods to Municipality — Agreement not in form prescribed by statute — Held, that though the contract was void, plaintiffs were entitled to compensation in proportion to the advantage received by Municipality. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 480 (481) : 58 Mad 65 (DB).

[12] The municipality is entitled to benefit under S. 65, if lessee has secured benefit of lease, which is invalid, not being in conformity with Ss. 68 and 69, Madras District Municipalities Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 746 (748).

Contravention of statute — Excise Laws.—[13] Agreement to make over excise shop in return for certain profit is illegal — Licensee is not entitled to claim back the amount paid. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 374 (374, 375) : 22 Pat 334 (DB).

[14] Though partnership between partners to jointly work liquor shop is void refund is allowable under S. 65. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 250 (251) : I L R (1937) Nag 376.

[But see (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 415 (415, 416). (No refund is allowable either under S. 84, Trusts, Act or S. 65, Contract Act.)]

Contravention of statute — Tenancy Law—[15] Lease of malguzari forest without sanction and in ignorance of fact that any sanction was needed—Deputy Commissioner taking forest under protection under S. 203, O P. Land Revenue Act, Lessee could recover consideration from lessor under S. 65. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 137 (138).

[16] No suit can be brought for recovering money paid for the transfer of occupancy land, which law declares void. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 119 (120).

[But see (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 885 (886). (Agreement to transfer karnam service Inam when it would be enfranchised is void and forbidden by law but refund of the money advanced can be claimed.)]

Contravention of statute — Registration Law.—[17] Person exchanging a house worth more than 100 rupees by an unregistered deed, can recover possession of the same but must refund the consideration. (13) 1913 Pun L R No. 203, page 687 (688, 689) (DB).

[18] Permanent alienation of agricultural land in favour of non-agriculturists — No sanction by Deputy Commissioner—Alienee cannot claim a refund of consideration. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 820 (822) : I L R (1939) Lah 30.

[But see (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 979 (979). (Vendor alleging himself to be member of agricultural tribe but found to be non-agriculturist—Sale opposed to Punjab Alienation of Land Act—Case is covered by S. 65.)]

[19] Co-operative Credit Societies Act S. 29 — An agreement to advance money to non-member cannot be enforced — But if it is advanced it can be recovered on principle of implied contract to repay. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 330 (331) (DB).

[20] Agreement, void under S. 19 of Punjab Act, V of 1912, loyally observed for several years — Agreement providing that in case of breach, the other party to pay a certain sum—Breach occurring—Apart from the express provision for payment of fixed amount the other party is entitled to refund of consideration. able relief under S. 65. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 111 (112, 113).

[23] Though bona fide character of transaction cannot be proved by virtue of S. 36, Civil P. C., still they are not illegal—Suit would lie to recover consideration. (Vol 10) 1923 Nag 11 (12).

[24] Alienation of trust property not provided by trust deed and in order to purchase one's own property is invalid and does not bind trust and as such alienor is entitled for refund of consideration money. (Vol 17) 1980 Mad 372 (374) (DB).

[25] Mortgage, without previous sanction of Deputy Commissioner, required under Punjab Colonization of Government Lands Act, S. 19—Parties knowing that sanction was necessary but not knowing that contract was void—Case falls within S. 65 (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 401 (402) (DB) & (Vol 31) 1944 All 276 (278): ILR (1944) All 574 (DB) (Even where there is no personal covenant in an illegal mortgage or suri peshgi lease deed, the plaintiff is entitled to claim refund of consideration.) & (Vol 29) 1942 All 409 (409): ILR (1942) All 817 (DB). (Cause of action arises when agreement is made—S. 68, T. P. Act, 1—not applicable.) & (Vol 27) 1940 P C 204 (207, 210): 67 Ind App 431: 1 L R (1940) Kar P C 419 (PC). (Invalid mortgage acted upon by both parties.) & (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 22 (24) 20 Oudh Cas 306 (DB). (Mortgage found to be void for want of proper attestation.)

[26] Invalid mortgage of tenancy rights under Oudh Tenancy Law serves as a valid acknowledgment of old debts and only a money decree can be passed on the original transaction. But the mortgage being void, compensation under S. 65 cannot be awarded. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 401 (402).

[27] Section 65 has no application to mortgages which are valid up to the mortgagor's lifetime. Hence the mortgagee cannot recover the mortgage money, when, after the mortgagor's death, the mortgage becomes void under S. 28, Broach and Kaira Incumbered Estates Act. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 65 (65, 66): 41 Bom 546 (DB).

Illegal contracts.—[28] When the consideration to an agreement is unlawful and opposed to public policy under S. 23, S. 65 of the Contract Act is inapplicable; this being neither the case of an agreement which was discovered to be void, nor of a contract which became void, but of an agreement which was void ab initio. ('98) 1893 Pūn Re No 86, p. 346 (347) & (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 415 (415, 416) & (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 573 (575): 19 Pat 424 (DB) & (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 57 (57). (Contract not in accordance with statutory requirements is no contract at all and does not 'become void' and 'is not discovered to be void'.)

[29] Per Bose J.—When a contract is void for illegality as opposed to being merely nugatory, money paid or goods delivered in pursuance of it cannot ordinarily be recovered unless it is still executory because of the maxim ex turpi causa non oritur actio; in fact the test of illegality is the applicability of the maxim. But there are several exceptions to this rule, one of which is where the contract is made illegal by statute with the object of protecting a particular class of persons to which the plaintiff belongs. In such a case, restitution can be ordered. (Vol 26) 1988 Nag 335 (344): ILR (1989) Nag 1 (FB).

[See also ('05) 1 Cal L Jour 261 (268, 269).]

[30] Criterion which makes Court to assist or not to assist party in recovering money paid under unlawful agreement, is morality and public policy and not locus penitentiae. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 358 (368): 14 Rang 597 (DB) & (Vol 25) 1936 Bom 54 (61) (DB).

[31] Though brit is no, saleable, contract for sale of Jajmanka brit is not illegal and suit lies for repayment of consideration. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 321 (322).

[32] Section 65 cannot be taken advantage of in case of wagering contracts. ('85) 9 Bom 358 (362) & (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 168 (169) (DB). (Chit fund) & (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 163 (163, 164) (DB). (But person who is not a party to the fraud can get back the money left by him with another.) & ('02) 25 Mad 561 (567) (DB).

[See also (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 225 (229): 59 Mad 562 (FB). (Suit for recovery of price and refund of money paid—Latter is maintainable but not former—Subscriber cannot in such case claim benefit under S. 65 but he is entitled to rely on S. 84, Trusts Act.)]

[33] Agreement void being in restraint of trade—Damages cannot be recovered—Court, however, allowed recovery of Rs. 150 given for security and price of monopoly. ('05) 28 Mad 520 (525) (DB).

[34] Where circumstances under which the defendant received the money constitute an offence under S. 215, Penal Code, the plaintiff's suit for recovery of the money is not maintainable. ('95) 1895 Pūn Re No. 66, p. 330 (332) & (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 83 (85): 32 Cr L Jour 934. (Money paid as bribe.)

[35] If illegal contract remains totally unperformed, a party can claim a refund even in the very suit brought for the enforcement of such illegal contract (Per Carr J.—He must bring another suit.) (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 49 (53, 54): 2 Rang 414 (DB) & (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 211 (212): 31 Sind L R 170 (DB). (Person paying money for arranging his marriage can claim refund when marriage is not performed.) & (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 159 (160): ILR (1944) Nag 535 (DB). (Do.) & (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 330 (330, 331). (Two kinds of marriage brokerage agreements (immoral and those that are not immoral, but unenforceable) explained.) & (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 22 (22) & ('09) 32 Mad 185 (190) (SB).

[36] (i) An agreement to remunerate or reward a third person in consideration of negotiating a marriage is contrary to public policy, and cannot be enforced. (ii) An agreement to pay money to the parents or guardian of a bride or bridegroom, in consideration of their consenting to the betrothal, is not necessarily immoral or opposed to public policy. Where the parents of the bride are not seeking her welfare, but give her to a husband otherwise ineligible, in consideration of a benefit secured to themselves, the agreement by which such benefit is secured is opposed to public policy and ought not to be enforced. (iii) Where an agreement to pay money to the parents or guardian of a bride or bridegroom, in consideration of their consenting to the betrothal, is, under the circumstances of the case, neither immoral nor opposed to public policy, it will be enforced, and damages also will be awarded for breach of it. (iv) A suit will lie to recover the value of ornaments or presents given to an intended bride or bridegroom in the event of the marriage contract being broken. (v) Although a Court may not enforce an agreement to pay money to the parents or guardian of an intended bride or bridegroom, on the ground that the agreement is opposed to public policy, yet a suit is maintainable for the recovery of any sum actually paid, pursuant to the agreement, if the contract is broken and the marriage does not take place. [34] If it is proved in a suit by minor for possession of properties alienated by guardian, that a substantial part of the money was not required for minor's benefit the whole sale is void and the minor shall have to pay the remaining portion to the purchaser but if a substantial portion is spent for his benefit, the sale would be upheld. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 239 (240) (DB).

[35] Family, consisting also of minor members, carrying on business — Mortgage deed — Money not applied to minor's benefit — No relief is claimable against minor under S. 65. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 595 (597) (DB).

[36] A contract effected on behalf of the minor by a person disqualified by personal law to represent the minor is void and the minor is not required to refund the consideration. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 290 (293).

[37] Where the step-mother of a minor sold property, belonging to the minor, in order to pay off a mortgage executed by his father and to meet the marriage expenses of the minor: Held, that the sale could be set aside at the instance of the minor, but the minor was bound to refund the consideration money. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 499 (499, 500) : 49 Bom 576 (DB).

[38] Sale deed executed on behalf of minor — Subsequently deed found invalid and not affecting minor's interest — Minor nevertheless must be compelled to restore and benefit received under it, not only under Ss. 64 and 65 but also under considerations of equity. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 1 (13) (DB).

Collateral contracts. — [39] Where the uralars of a devasam borrowed a sum of money to discharge the devasam debts, but used it to discharge their own tarwad debts instead, and assigned their urayama right to the creditor on lease, so that he may repay himself by demising the devasam lands on kanom, such a transfer, being a transfer of a trust, is invalid in law. Assuming that S. 65 is not intended to vary the rule, that a mistake of law is no ground on which a party can be relieved from his own contract, the creditor is still entitled to recover back the amount advanced, on the ground that the collateral agreement which provided for its repayment failed. An agreement that an obligation which is contracted shall be discharged in some particular mode is collateral to the primary contract which created the obligation, though the two agreements may be mixed up in one contract. (1886) 9 Mad 441 (444) (DB).

[40] A valatdan patta (mortgage) of an unrecognised portion of a Bhag was held void, but a personal covenant to compensate if possession of the mortgagee were disturbed could be enforced. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 102 (103) : 38 Bom 249 (DB).

[41] Where covenant to compensate was collateral and not merely dependent upon the mortgage, then, though main contract was wholly null and void, the plaintiff was entitled to claim under the covenant. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 102 (105) : 39 Bom 358 (DB).

[42] MR contracted with N and HL for the purchase of two houses from them and agreed to pay Rs. 500 as earnest money. Instead of paying the earnest money, he made over halves of currency notes for Rs. 500, retaining the other halves himself. Subsequently, MR brought a suit for specific performance of his contract; but his suit was dismissed, and the decree dismissing suit was ultimately affirmed by the High Court. After this MR sued N and HL for recovery of the half currency notes which he had made over to them. Held, that the suit was not barred either by S. 13 or by S. 43 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and on a finding by the lower appellate Court that the half notes had in fact been made use of by the defendants in lending money, that the defendants had received an advantage within the meaning of S. 65. ('94) 1894 All W N 157 (157, 158) (DB).

[43] Agreement void ab initio as contravening provisions of S. 28 of the Legal Practitioners' Act—A client is bound to make compensation to the vakil for the advantage received. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 132 (135) : 53 Mad 309 (DB).

[44] Compensation should be made by a person who received unlawful advantage under an agreement which is void ab initio. An unlawful agreement does not render the agreement for restitution unlawful. (1909) 11 Bom L R 693 (698) (DB).

6. Compensation. — [1] Right to compensation does not depend upon the possibility of apportionment. (1899) 23 Bom 15 (21).

[2] Contractor can claim compensation under Ss. 65 and 70, for the work done, though the contract violates S. 96 (1) (b), U. P. Municipalities Act. (Vol 23) 1936 All 723 (728, 729, 730) : 58 All 1069 (DB).

[3] Vendee unable to restore goods under S. 65 must make compensation under S. 65 or S. 70. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 957 (960, 961, 962) : I L R (1939) Mad 928 (DB).

[4] Relief contemplated by S. 65 is that the party prejudiced by the mistake should be relieved from the consequences thereof. He is entitled to be placed in the same position as he would be if there had been no mistake and also to be compensated for any loss which may have necessarily resulted from the mistake. Where the debt which was released by mistake was, on the date of discovery of the mistake, not barred by limitation, the party entitled to relief on the ground of mistake could claim no compensation, as no loss was sustained. He can only be entitled to a declaration that the release is void and should be cancelled if in writing. If, however, the plaintiff's remedy had become barred at the date of the discovery of the mistake, there is a loss which is the necessary result of the mistake when relief against the mistake will comprise not only a cancellation of the release but also compensation for the loss. (1904) 14 Mad L Jour 443 (459) (DB).

[5] Where property of a lunatic is mortgaged without authority of Court, it is void; but mortgagee, who had spent money in causing a previously subsisting attachment to be raised, is entitled to be compensated for the money thus spent. (1913) 14 Mad L Tim 489 (490, 491) (DB).

[6] The section does not impose on party any obligation to make compensation in respect of that of which he has not enjoyed the benefit. (1905) 27 All 592 (602) (DB) (Vol 27) 1940 All 840 (841, 842). (Case of lease not binding on lessee).

[7] The second part of S. 65, namely, "or to make compensation for it," only comes into play when the advantage cannot be restored. Interest on sum paid under void contract would only be payable after the advantage has been refused to be restored. Where a contract of sale is found to be void and the amount paid under it is repaid by the vendor to the vendee, the vendee is not entitled to any interest on the amount from the date of its payment to the date of the institution of the suit for damages by the vendor for breach of contract if it is not proved that the amount had earned any interest in the hands of the vendor. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 564 (565) (DB).

[8] In the absence of any contract there is no liability to pay any interest on compensation granted under S. 65. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 957 (963) : I L R (1939) Mad 928 (DB).

[9] Mortgage decree containing no provision as to interest—Defendant taking several adjournments to pay the decretal amount—Plaintiff including interest in the amount — Subsequently defendant contending that he was not liable to pay interest — Held that though the contract of the defendant created a contractual obligation to pay interest, such an agreement was void for mistake of fact. (Interest was awarded as compensation for the benefit obtained under a void agreement.) (1904) 28 Bom 393 (399) (DB).

7. Limitation.—[1] In the absence of special circumstances the time at which an agreement is discovered to be void under S. 65, is the date of the agreement. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 63 (65) : 60 Ind App 13 : 54 All 1067 (PC) (Vol 29) 1942 All 409 (410) : I L R (1942) All 817 (DB). (Parties must be deemed to have had information of provisions of statute and it must be assumed that they knew that the agreement was void when they entered into it.) (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 27 (31) : I L R (1940) Nag 553 (DB) (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 87 (97) : 12 Luck 435 (DB). (In special circumstances it may be later.) (Vol 18) 1926 Nag 241 (243). (Cause of action does not arise on date on which agreement is found impossible of performance.) (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 737 (737).

[2] After deciding that an agreement is void, Court has no power to regard decision as a new ground of action for granting relief in the same suit — Cause of action must arise prior to institution of suit. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 177 (180) (DB).

[3] Where a party has been deprived of the satisfaction originally obtained, a fresh cause of action accrues when the act agreed upon becomes impossible. (1926) 96 Ind Cas 909 (910) (Mad).

[4] No question of limitation arises where the restitution is granted by the same decree which has declared the contract of sale void. (1903) 25 All 618 (627) (DB).

[5] Dispossession of lessee by previous lessee — Suit for damages for return of nazrana — Time runs when the subsequent lessee was actually dispossessed—Article 116, Limitation Act, applies. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 81 (84) : 18 Pat 654 (DB).

[6] Where the lease is void, lessee is entitled to return of money—Article 116, Limitation Act, applies. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 462 (465) (DB).

[7] Suit for refund of advance paid under void agreement should be brought within three years of discovering agreement to be void. When the agreement is one forbidden by law, ordinarily plaintiff must be deemed to have been aware of the fact when he entered into it. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 885 (886).

[8] Limitation starts only from date of failure of consideration. Article 97 applies. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 7 (9) (DB).

[9] A claim for money paid under a contract, which becomes void, is governed by Art. 97 of the Limitation Act; and it must be preferred within three years from the time the contract becomes void. (Vol 15) 1928 All 860 (863) (DB).

Mode of communicating or revoking rescission of voidable contract.

Effect of neglect of promisee to afford promisor reasonable facilities for performance.

66. The rescission of a voidable contract may be communicated or revoked in the same manner, and subject to the same rules, as apply to the communication or revocation of a proposal.^a

67. If any promisee neglects or refuses to afford the promisor reasonable facilities for the performance of his promise, the promisor is excused by such neglect or refusal as to any non-performance caused thereby.

OF CERTAIN RELATIONS RESEMBLING THOSE CREATED BY CONTRACT.

[a] The property of a Government ward in the C. P. is not liable under this section. See the C. P. Court of Wards Act, 1899 [24 [XXIV] of 1899], S. 31 (1).

SECTION 67 — Note 1.

[1] Where one party shows clear renunciation or absolute refusal to perform the contract, the other party will be justified in regarding himself as discharged from all continued liability under the contract. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 136 (147) : 43 Cal 790 (DB).

SECTION 68 — Synopsis

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Necessaries.
3. Interest on value of necessaries.
4. Proof of necessity.
5. Alienation by guardian for necessaries.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Chapter V of the Contract Act does not deal with obligations arising from contracts. (1910) 34 Bom 583 (588) (DB).

[2] A minor falls within the class of persons referred to in S. 68 and so, though he is not liable even for "necessaries" and no demand in respect thereof is enforceable as against him by law, a statutory claim is created thereby against his property, enforceable by the person who has furnished such supplies. (1908) 80 Cal 589 (539, 540, 541) : 80 Ind App 114 (PC).

[3] Section 68 and not S. 70 deals exhaustively with liability for things supplied or delivered to a minor. (Vol 8) 1921 Nag 103 (106) : 17 Nag L R 20.

[4] The relief which is contemplated under S. 68, Contract Act, is not dependent on any contract but is quite independent of it. The section does not create any personal liability, but on the other hand creates a statutory claim against the property of the person who is incapable of entering into a contract and has been supplied with necessaries suited to his condition in life. Two things are necessary under S. 68, Contract Act, namely (1) that the person against whom the suit is brought is incapable of entering into a contract, and (2) another person (the plaintiff) has supplied him or any one whom he (the person incapable of entering into a contract) is legally bound to support with necessaries suited to his condition in life. (Vol 23) 1936 All 819 (820).

[5] Under S. 68, Contract Act, it must not only be shown that moneys advanced were to be expended on goods suitable to the condition in life of the infant but also that they were suitable to infant's actual requirements at the time of sale and delivery as any one who supplied necessaries to an infant is in the position of a legal creditor; so any one who advances money to an infant for the purpose of procuring necessities is entitled to stand in the position of legal creditor. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 359 (360) (DB).

[6] A creditor is entitled to recover monies advanced to a minor for his necessaries, by invoking the principle laid down in S. 68, Contract Act, the minor's estate being liable therefor. (Vol 23) 1936 All 172 (175) (DB).

[7] The general rule is that a contract by a minor is absolutely void and unenforceable. It cannot even be made valid by confirmation or ratification on his attaining majority. Section 68 of the Contract Act is an exception to the general rule and the minor's estate is liable for the necessities supplied to him. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 247 (248) : 18 Nag L R 119.

[8] In a suit on a pro-note, where the defendant establishes his plea of minority at the date of the execution of the pro-note, the plaintiff cannot be allowed at the revisional stage to invoke S. 68, Contract Act, so as to alter the whole character of the suit. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 569 (571).

[9] Sections 68 and 70 of the Contract Act only apply where the money was advanced to the minor or to his guardian as such and not to a third party even though the minor was benefited by such advances. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 14 (21) (DB)

[10] Where the share of T was attached, while he was separate from his mother and where T had minor sons but T's brother and mother representing themselves to be owners and to be persons in possession of T's share, mortgaged that share and with the mortgage money satisfied the decree against T's estate. Held, that the mortgagors having never purported to act on behalf of minor sons of T and having totally ignored their existence, the mortgage could not be enforced against either T's descendants or T's property and that S. 68 of the Contract Act did not apply to the case. (Vol 12) 1925 All 218 (213, 214) (DB).

[12] Subsequent to coming into force of C. P. Court of Wards Act (I of 1915) a suit against a minor based on S. 68 of the Contract Act is not maintainable. (Vol 8) 1921 Nag 105 (105) : 17 Nag L R 20.

[13] Sections 68 and 11 — S. 37 of the U. P. Court of Wards Act (1912) has to be read with Ss 11 and 68 of the Contract Act. That section is no bar to a claim under S. 68 of Contract Act. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 119 (121) : 18 Luck 318.

[14] Promissory-note executed by a ward of Court for his necessities is not enforceable. He cannot get advantage of S. 68. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 764 (765) : 16 Lah 932. ((Vol 14) 1927 Lah 414, Overruled.)

2. Necessaries. — [1] Necessaries mean goods suited to the condition in life of the infant and to his actual requirements. So things purchased with which the infant is plentifully supplied are not necessities. ('09) 36 Cal 768 (777)

[2] Word 'necessaries' in S. 68 cannot be restricted to what is necessary for elementary requirements of minor such as food and clothing. (Vol 17) 1930 All 128 (129) : 52 All 381 (DB).

[3] The term 'necessaries' is not confined to goods. It can include other things such as good teaching and instructions whereby the minor may profit himself afterwards; and also money to enable him to obtain these necessities. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 65 (68) : I L R (1939) Nag 592.

[4] Cloth supplied to a minor and cash lent to him to effect necessary repairs in his house are 'necessaries' within the meaning of S. 68. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 12 (13).

[5] A creditor advancing money to save the property of a minor from being sold for revenue is entitled to be reimbursed from the property of minor. (Vol 17) 1930 All 128 (129) : 52 All 381 (DB) & (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 33 (33).

[6] Where the guardian of a minor borrows money for the payment of rent due to lambardar, which the minor was bound to pay, the minor is liable under the transaction, as the guardian can do, what the minor himself would do. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 65 (67) : I L R (1939) Nag 592.

[7] Minor is bound in respect of loans supplied to him for necessities. Agricultural operations and payment of creditors may, in suitable circumstances, be necessary purposes. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 390 (391) : I L R (1937) Nag 458.

[8] Money advanced to a minor required for defence in certain criminal proceedings pending against him, and used for that purpose—Leader suing to get it back — Plea of minority at the time of contracting. Held, that the minor was liable as the money was paid for 'necessaries' the minor's liberty being in jeopardy. ('94) 21 Cal 72 (80) (DB).

[See also (99) 22 Mad 314 (317) (DB)]

[9] An infant's estate is liable for all the costs and expenses, properly incurred by the guardian in proceedings properly taken to preserve the infant from complete ruin and destitution. ('81) 7 Cal 140 (143, 144)

[10] Money spent on the obsequies of the father of the minor cannot be deemed to be necessities supplied to the minor within the meaning of S. 68. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 132 (133) (DB).

[11] Money borrowed by a guardian of a Hindu minor for Diwali expenses is not a loan incurred for 'necessaries' and the minor's estate is not liable. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 65 (68) : I L R (1939) Nag 592.

[12] Moneys paid to a minor for the discharge of his father's decretal debts, for the recovery of which nothing was done, cannot be called necessities but moneys borrowed by him for the necessary costs of a Civil or Criminal proceeding are held as necessities within S. 68 of the Contract Act. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 247 (248) : 18 Nag L R 119.

[13] During the lifetime of his father, money borrowed by a person incapable of entering into a contract to pay for the Sradh of his mother, is not a necessity under S. 68. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 485 (486) (DB).

[14] The question whether bulls are or are not necessities depends on the evidence led in by the parties in each particular case. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 592 (592).

[15] By general principles of Hindu law a minor is under an obligation to provide out of the family property the funds necessary for performing the marriage ceremonies of his sister in a manner suitable to the social position of the family and its pecuniary sources: (32 All. 325 Foll) Such provision is "necessary" and one which the minor is 'legally bound' to make within S. 68. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 14 (17) (DB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 327 (329, 330) : I L R (1940) Nag 632 & (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 285 (287) & ('10) 32 All 325 (334) (SB) (21 Cal 892 : 23 Mad 512, Ref.)

[16] Advancing of funds to a male Hindu minor for meeting his own marriage expenses is not supplying him with necessities suited to his condition in life within the meaning of S. 68 of the Contract Act, and a person advancing such funds is not entitled to be reimbursed from the property of such a minor. The Hindu law does not enjoin the marriage of a Hindu male before the age of majority. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 327 (329, 330) : I L R (1940) Nag 632.

[See (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 387 (389)]

[17] The money spent over an object which an infant is legally bound to perform cannot be recovered unless it constitutes a 'debt' and is not a bounteous gift. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 14 (19) (DB).

[18] Unregistered sale deed — One of the vendors minor—Vendee suing to recover amount alleged to have been paid to some mortgagees in discharge of mortgage on the property in question and some more amount advanced to vendors — Held, that plaintiff acquired no interest in the property, as the mortgage was by a minor and they were not entitled to recover the money paid to discharge the mortgage nor to get the amount advanced to vendors, which was not for necessities. (1910) 32 All 25 (27) (DB).

[19] Debt incurred by guardian for improving or developing minor's estate is not binding on such estate.

Re-imbursement of person paying money due by another, in payment of which he is interested.

69. A person, who is interested in the payment of money which another is bound by law to pay, and who therefore pays it, is entitled to be reimbursed by the other:

Illustration.

B holds land in Bengal, on a lease granted by A, the zamindar. The revenue payable by A to the Government being in arrear, his land is advertised for sale by the Government. Under the revenue law, the consequence of such sale will be the annulment of B's lease. B, to prevent the sale and the consequent annulment of his own lease, pays to the Government the sum due from A. A is bound to make good to B the amount so paid.

Section 68 (contd.)

Money borrowed for its upkeep or its preservation binds the estate (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 414 (419 420) (DB).

3 Interest on value of necessities. — [1] No interest on the value of necessities can be allowed by way of damages. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 414 (415).

[See (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 106 (109) : I L R (1940) Mad 27 (DB).]

[But see (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 12 (13).]

4. Proof of necessity. — [1] In the case of necessities supplied to an infant the onus of proof lies on the creditor. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 65 (67) : I L R (1939) Nag 592.

[2] It is not sufficient to plead that money was advanced and spent for the minor, but it must also be shown that it was necessary. (1907) 10 Oudh Cas 38 (39, 40) (DB).

[3] In a case where a creditor seeks to make the estate of the minor liable for advances made for necessities mere bona fide enquiry by the creditor into the existence of the necessity and advance in good faith thereafter will not suffice, but at the same time the creditor need not prove the actual application of the money. To require this is to ask him to do the impossible. The creditor is required to prove the circumstances of the minor's estate the absence of any other source from which the necessity could be met at the time of the transaction and the suitability of the necessity having regard to the social status and the condition in life of the minor. If these are established and the creditor has advanced money for meeting such necessities after satisfying himself about the same, the creditor is entitled to a decree against the estate of the minor unless it is proved by the other side that the guardian did not actually apply the money for necessary purposes. The burden will, in such circumstances, shift on the defendants to prove that the guardian, instead of using the money for the minor as required, used it for his own purposes. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 68 (71, 72) (DB).

[4] A plaintiff is not debarred from proving that the goods were necessary if no enquiry had been made at the time the goods were supplied as to the necessity. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 414 (415).

[5] A money lender, advancing money to a minor alleging that it was for necessities must draw the bond so as to bind the minor's estate. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 648 (651) : 37 Mad 38 (DB).

[6] Mere statement in a bond executed by a person borrowing money in his personal capacity that the amount was to meet certain necessary expenses of the minor will neither bind the minor nor will afford sufficient proof of the amount having been spent for the necessities of the minor. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 299 (299).

[7] Pronote by the guardian — Failure to mention that the loan was for the minor — Minor's estate is still liable for the debt if it is proved to be for minor's benefit or is otherwise binding on him. (39) 1939 Mad W N 909 (909).

5. Alienation by guardian for necessities. — [1] Section 68, Contract Act, refers to a person who supplies a minor with necessities suited to his condition in life; S. 68 does not show that a guardian can execute a valid mortgage of the ward's properties. (Vol 20) 1935 Rang 83 (84) : 11 Rang 193.

[2] A sale by the administrator of the estate of the deceased of property of his minor heirs is void and cannot be supported under S. 68, nor can the sale be ratified by minor subsequently. (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 53 (53) : 9 Low Bur Rul 186 (DB).

[3] In a contract of loan made by a mother of a minor, he is liable only for such sums as are spent for procuring necessities for him. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 196 (196) * (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 285 (287).

[4] A decree can be enforced against the minor's property if the debt was contracted for purposes necessary within the meaning of S. 68. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 399 (399).

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] Sections 69 and 70 — The sections are not exhaustive of the principle contained therein (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 657 (658) (DB).

[2] Sections 69 and 70 are distinct — Where one applies the other does not. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 63 (64).

[3] Sections 69 and 70 deal not with contribution but reimbursement. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 63 (64)

[4] The section converts the natural obligation into a legal obligation to pay on the part of the person who has received benefit of the payment by another person of what he was bound to pay. (1881) 3 All 66 (72) (FB).

[5] The section applies where a person pays money which another is bound by law to pay. The obligation to repay money which another has paid and on which a person has benefited does not arise in every case excepting those which fall under this section and S. 70. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 21 (23) : I L R (1945) Nag 820 * (1921) 19 All L Jour 78 (75) (DB) * (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 105 (106) (DB). (Suit for contribution by co-tenant—Impleading two of the landlords and transferee from one of the co-tenants on the ground that the transferee wrongly paid the rent to the landlord and claiming refund—Held, that the claim for reimbursement is not maintainable in the suit for contribution and that the case did not come under this section as there is no mutuality between the landlords on the one hand and the plaintiff and other co-tenants on the other.) & (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 607 (608). (Contract between agent and principal that agent will pay for goods sold where purchaser fails to pay—Agent paying in a transaction where the order was not placed through him but the purchaser led him to believe that he would pay him—Held, that the agent to get the benefit of this section must have privity of contract with the purchaser.) & (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 663 (667, 671, 672) : 63 Cal 1172 (DB). 2. Suits for contribution.—(1) The right and duty of contribution is founded on doctrines of equity and does not depend upon contract. (Vol 25) 1938 P O 169 (174) : 65 Ind App 219 : 13 Luck 494 : 32 Sind J. R 772 (P C) & (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 531 (538) : I L R (1939) Mad 776 (DB).

SECTION 70 — Synopsis

1. Scope and applicability.
2. "Lawfully does anything."
3. "For another."
4. "Not intending to do so gratuitously."
5. "Enjoys the benefit."
6. Compensation.
7. Quantum meruit — Compensation for services rendered.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] The section is not exhaustive of the principle contained therein. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 657 (658) (DB).

[2] Section 70 must be interpreted according to its clear and explicit terms and not in reference to the provisions of the English law relating to the matter. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 364 (369): 11 Lah 375 (DB).

[3] Courts in India ought to be guided more by justice, equity and good conscience than by English precedents and should not cut down the beneficial provisions of S. 70, Contract Act, which are intended to apply to all cases of benefit bona fide conferred by one person on another and which benefit is enjoyed by the other person. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 95 (98) : 38 Mad 235 (DB).

[4] The terms of S. 70 are unquestionably wide, but applied with discretion they enable the Courts to do substantial justice in cases where it would be difficult to impute to the persons concerned relations actually created by contract. But it is incumbent on final Court of fact to be guarded and circumspect in their conclusions and not to countenance acts or payments that are really officious. (1911) 88 Cal 1 (7) (DB) * (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 141 (145) : 42 Bom 556 * (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 389 (391).

[5] Where there is an express contract, S. 70, Contract Act, has no application. (1935) 62 Cal 612 (623) (DB) * (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 56 (56).

[6] For an applicability of S. 70, Contract Act, law will presume a contract, but where there could not have been a contract the law will not presume one. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 390 (393) : I L R (1937) Nag 111.

[7] Contract Act, S. 70, does not apply to the case of a minor. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 344 (346) (DB) * (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 324 (326) : 19 Pat 789 (FB).

[But see (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 317 (320) (DB).]

[8] An obligation to repay money which another has paid and by which a person is benefited does not arise in every case. In India, the matter is regulated by Ss. 69 and 70, Contract Act. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 21 (23) : I L R (1945) Nag 820 * (Vol 32) 1945 All 428 (429).

[9] It is not in every case in which a man has benefited by the money of another that an obligation to repay that money arises. The question is not to be determined by nice considerations of what may be fair or proper according to the highest morality. To support such a suit there must be an obligation express or implied to repay. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 23 (30) : 72 Ind App 89 : I L R (1945) Kar P C 73 (P C) * (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 307 (311) : 9 Luck 701 (DB).

[10] Section 70 must be read so as to justify the officious interference of one man with the affairs or property of another or to impose obligation in respect of services which the person sought to be charged did not wish to have rendered. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 21 (23) : I L R (1945) Nag 820.

[11] Under S. 70 plaintiff must prove (1) that he was doing something lawful when he was making the payment; (2) that he did not intend to pay gratuitously; (3) that what he did was done for the defendant and (4) that the defendant did enjoy the benefit. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 95 (97) : 38 Mad 235 (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 389 (391).

[12] Section 70, Contract Act, applies to a case when the "person" for whose benefit the payment is made is a large caste. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 141 (147) : 42 Bom 556.

[13] If there is special Act settling the relation of parties the general Act is inoperative. House Accommodation Act ousts the jurisdiction of Civil Court to decide the question of necessity for repairs and its costs. Under S. 70, Contract Act, Civil Courts must take the amount arrived at by the Special Court as it is. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 1158 (1159) : 1910 Pun Re No. 103 (DB).

[14] Section 70, Contract Act does not contemplate the case of payment of money. (Vol 30) 1943 All 220 (232) : I L R (1943) All 610 (FB).

[But see (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1097 (1102, 1103) (DB). ("Does" includes payment of money.)]

[15] An undertaking to pay is not actual payment and does not afford a cause of action for the suit contemplated by Ss. 69 and 70 of the Contract Act until the money or its equivalent is actually paid. (1904) 1904 Pun Re No. 31, p. 109 (111) (DB).

[16] The provisions of S. 70 can be applied even when one of the parties concerned is a corporation or other public body. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 176 (178) : 10 Rang 522.

[17] Section 70 is not repealed or altered by Ss. 48 and 49, Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 417 (419, 420) : I L R (1937) Bom 782 (DB).

[18] Out of the two sections, namely, Ss. 65 and 70, the latter section covers a wider ground and should not be invoked in the case of a benefit received under a contract. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 388 (391) : 1 Luck 444 (DB).

2. "Lawfully does anything."— [1] The meaning of the word "lawfully", in S. 70 is merely "bona fide". (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 317 (318) (DB).

[2] Section 70 applies when a person lawfully does something for another; the word "lawful" cannot be ignored. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 21 (23) : I L R (1945) Nag 820.

[3] In ascertaining whether an act is "lawfully" done for another, the test to be applied should be, whether the person so acting held such a position to the other as either directly to create or by implication reasonably to justify the inference that by the act done for the other person he was entitled to look for compensation for it to the person for whom it was done. 3. “For another”. — [1] Doing anything “for another” person means in some way taking his place as the doer. That is the first meaning of “for”. There is no justification for importing into S. 70 looser senses of “for” and the phrase “does anything for another person not intending to do so gratuitously” in S. 70 means that when a person has proved that he did the thing for another person as explained above, he must then prove that he did not intend to do it gratuitously. Liability of person to whom money is paid, or thing delivered, by mistake or under coercion.

71. A person who finds goods belonging to another and takes them into his custody, is subject to the same responsibility as a bailee.^a

72. A person to whom money has been paid, or anything delivered by mistake or under coercion, must repay or return it.

(b) A railway company refuses to deliver up certain goods to the consignee, except upon the payment of an illegal charge for carriage. The consignee pays the sum charged in order to obtain the goods. He is entitled to recover so much of the charge as was illegally excessive.

[8] If there is an agreement which is invalid under S. 28 of the Legal Practitioners' Act or no agreement at all, the pleader can sue under S. 70 of the Contract Act, and he can get whatever is a fair and just remuneration for the services he has actually rendered. [9] Section 28 of Legal Practitioners Act prohibits the recovery of any money under an agreement not recorded in a particular manner. It no doubt supersedes those provisions of the Contract Act under which agreement can be enforced generally. But it does not touch S. 70 which has no relation to express agreement at all, but which is intended specially to deal with cases where remuneration can be claimed in the absence of an agreement. SECTION 72 — Synopsis

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Mistake of fact.
3. Mistake of law.
4. Coercion.

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Section applies only where money was not really due to the defendant. (Vol 8) 1921 All 81 (84) : 43 All 272 (DB).

[2] Section 72 which specifically deals with the question as to whom money must be repaid or a thing returned, must be regarded as exhaustive, apart from other specific provisions of the law. ('11) 1911 Pun W R No. 32 p 82 (90) (DB).

[3] Section has no application where property is neither delivered by mistake nor under coercion. (1905) 27 All 592 (602) (DB).

2. Mistake of fact.—[1] A payment under a mistake of fact cannot be regarded as a voluntary payment and is recoverable under Section 72. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 660 (662).

[See (1912) 15 Ind Cas 361 (362) (Low Bur). (. . . Voluntary payment made with full knowledge of fact, cannot be recovered under Section 72.) * ('71) 8 Bom H C R (A C) 102 (105, 106). (. . . Money paid under mistake induced by fraud—Payment is not voluntary—Money can be recovered.)]

[2] The rule governing the recovery of money paid under a mistake of fact is that the person paying under a mistake of fact, however ignorant he may be and however forgetful he may have been is entitled to recover such money unless he has at any time waived his claim or has been estopped by reason of conduct by which the payee has altered his position by parting with the money. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 66 (70) : 12 Rang 25. * (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 660 (662).

(Bank making payment in respect of cheque for getting that it was countermanded by drawer is not entitled to refund of amount from payee.) * (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 66 (68) : 50 Bom 49 (DB). (Where drawee paid to wrong person, and kept quiet for a long time he is not entitled to recover it though he had paid by mistake.)]

[3] Where money is paid or goods delivered to a man by mistake, it can be recovered so long as his status quo is maintained, i. e., so long as he can be equitably regarded as still having the benefit of that which was paid or delivered to him. The doctrine involved in the cases is the doctrine of equitable restitution. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 17 (18, 19) (DB). (. . . A making excess delivery to B by mistake — B transferring to others under same mistake—A cannot thereafter claim from B for excess delivery.)

[But see (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1255 (1257) : 48 Mad 925 (DB). (Party who received money by mistake should refund though he himself had also paid by mistake to his vendor who had become insolvent)]

[4] To establish a cause of action to recover money as money paid by mistake, the mistake should be as to some fact causing a liability to pay. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 78 (82) (P O). (Cash handed over under voluntary contract hardly comes within that description.)

[5] It is not necessary that the mistaken payment must be of a such a nature that if such payment were not rectified the liability would be created against the person paying. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 660 (662, 663).

Section 72 (contd.)

[But see (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 66 (70) : 12 Rang 25.]

[See (Vol 15) 1928 All 500 (504) : 50 All 818 (DB). (Money paid under a forged document may be recovered with interest.)]

[7] Where money is paid to another under the influence of a mistake, that is upon the supposition that a specific fact is true, which would entitle the other to the money, but which fact is untrue, and the money would not have been paid if it had been known to the payer that the fact was untrue, an action will lie to recover it back. (G falsely representing that he was M and mortgaging M's property to A—Subsequent mortgage by G of same property to R—R paying amount to A as first mortgagee as agreed under influence of mistake that G was M—R held entitled to return of amount paid to A.) * (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 150 (151) : I L R (1946) Mad 531 (DB). (Purchaser in execution paying off mortgage on property under bona fide mistake that it was valid mortgage—Recovery of amount so paid can be made.)

[8] Where a person seeks to recover a payment under a mistake of a fact, he must prove not only that he was mistaken as to the facts but he is also bound to show that it was such a mistake which caused him to pay. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 327 (327) : 22 Pat 220 (DB).

[16] Official Assignee declaring dividend and paying it to creditors who had proved their debts—Applicant decree-holder submitting his claim in time but through oversight his name not included in list of creditors and notice of dividend not issued to him—Applicant held entitled to be admitted as creditor and to have refund of any excess dividend that had been paid in error to the other creditors. [20] When a consumer of electricity gives an amount of money to an electricity company claiming it under the rules framed by it, under the mistake that the company had made the rules after necessary legal preliminaries had been gone through, the case is one of mistake of fact and is covered by S. 72. 3. Mistake of law. — [1] Where a mistake is a pure mistake of law in British India and not a mistake bearing upon the private or special right of the person and where such mistake results in the payment by one person to another making it inequitable that the payee should retain the money, such a mistake is no ground of relief within S. 72. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 177 (178) (DB)* (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 327 (338) : 22 Pat 220 (DB)* (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 956 (957) * (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 234 (237)* (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 179 (181) : 52 Mad 12 (DB)* (1912) 15 Ind Cas 361 (362) (Low Bur).

[2] A person who makes a payment of tax under a misapprehension as to his liability to do so cannot recover it in a Court of law, although one would expect a corporate body to refund voluntarily any amount which had been paid to it in error. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 956 (957).

[3] The construction of a contract is clearly a matter of law, and if money is paid in consequence of a mistake as to the true construction of a contract, it is paid under a mistake of law and is irrecoverable. 4. Coercion. — [1] The word "coercion" used in S. 72 is used in its general and ordinary sense and its meaning is not controlled by definition in S. 15. (1913) 40 Cal 598 (612) : 40 Ind App 56 (PC) * (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 635 (636) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 55 (57) : 5 Rang 653* (1922) 65 Ind Cas 517 (518) (DB) (Cal).

[2] Where property of one person is wrongfully attached in execution of a decree against another and the real owner pays off the decree amount under protest to save the property from seizure, the owner is entitled to demand repayment of that sum from the decree-holder as being an involuntary payment made under coercion. [4] A person who is compelled to make a payment under O. 21, R. 89, Civil P. C., in order to save his property being sold, does not make the payment voluntarily but is subject to coercion within the meaning of S. 72, Contract Act, and consequently is entitled to recover the consideration for the sale. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 635 (636) (DB)* (Vol 30) 1943 All 267 (269, 270) : I L R (1943) All 510. [5] The right to recover money paid to raise an attachment or set aside a sale does not depend upon any conditions annexed to such payments when made but arises out of the compulsion of law involved in such cases. It is a statutory right under S. 72, Contract Act. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 725 (726, 727, 728, 730)* (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 493 (494, 495) (DB).

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE CONSEQUENCES OF BREACH OF CONTRACT.

73. When a contract has been broken, the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive from the party who has broken the contract compensation for any loss or damage caused to him thereby, which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach, or which the parties knew, when they made the contract, to be likely to result from the breach of it.

Such compensation is not to be given for any remote and indirect loss or damage sustained by reason of the breach.

Compensation for failure to discharge obligation resembling those created by contract.

When an obligation resembling those created by contract has been incurred, and has not been discharged, any person injured by the failure to discharge it is entitled to receive the same compensation from the party in default, as if such person had contracted to discharge it, and had broken his contract.

Explanation.— In estimating the loss or damage arising from a breach of contract, the means which existed of remedying the inconvenience caused by the non-performance of the contract must be taken into account.

Illustrations.

(a) A contracts to sell and deliver 50 maunds of saltpetre to B, at a certain price, to be paid on delivery. A breaks his promise. B is entitled to receive from A, by way of compensation, the sum, if any, by which the contract-price falls short of the price for which B might have obtained 50 maunds of saltpetre of like quality at the time when the saltpetre ought to have been delivered.

(b) A hires B's ship to go to Bombay, and there take on board, on the first of January, a cargo which A is to provide, and to bring it to Calcutta, the freight to be paid when earned. B's ship does not go to Bombay, but A has opportunities of procuring suitable conveyance for the cargo upon terms as advantageous as those on which he had chartered the ship. A avails himself of those opportunities, but is put to trouble and expense in doing so. A is entitled to receive compensation from B in respect of such trouble and expense.

(c) A contracts to buy of B, at a stated price, 50 maunds of rice, no time being fixed for delivery. A afterwards informs B that he will not accept the rice if tendered to him. B is entitled to receive from A by way of compensation, the amount, if any, by which the contract-price exceeds that which B can obtain for the rice at the time when A informs B that he will not accept it.

(d) A contracts to buy B's ship for 60,000 rupees, but breaks his promise. A must pay to B, by way of compensation, the excess, if any, of the contract-price over the price which B can obtain for the ship at the time of the breach of promise.

(e) A, the owner of a boat, contracts with B to take a cargo of jute to Mirzapur for sale at that place, starting on a specified day. The boat, owing to some avoidable cause, does not start at the time appointed, whereby the arrival of the cargo at Mirzapur is delayed beyond the time when it would have arrived if the boat had sailed according to the contract. After that date, and before the arrival of the cargo, the price of jute falls. The measure of the compensation payable to B by A is the difference between the price which B could have obtained for the cargo at Mirzapur at the time when it would have arrived if forwarded in due course, and its market-price at the time when it actually arrived.

(f) A contracts to repair B's house in a certain manner, and receives payment in advance. A repairs the house, but not according to contract. B is entitled to recover from A the costs of making the repairs conform to the contract.

(g) A contracts to let his ship to B for a year, from the first of January, for a certain price. Freight rises, and on the first of January the hire obtainable for the ship is higher than the contract-price. A breaks his promise. He must pay to B, by way of compensation, a sum equal to the difference between the contract-price and the price for which B could hire a similar ship for a year on and from the first of January.

(h) A contracts to supply B with a certain quantity of iron at a fixed price, being a higher price than that for which A could procure and deliver the iron. B wrongfully refuses to receive the iron. B must pay to A, by way of compensation, the difference between the contract-price of the iron and the sum for which A could have obtained and delivered it.

(i) A delivers to B, a common carrier, a machine, to be conveyed, without delay, to A's mill, informing B that his mill is stopped for want of the machine. B unreasonably delays the delivery of the machine, and A, in consequence, loses a profitable contract with the Government. A is entitled to receive from B, by way of compensation, the average amount of profit which would have been made by the working of the mill during the time that delivery of it was delayed, but not the loss sustained through the loss of the Government contract.

(j) A, having contracted with B to supply B with 1000 tons of iron at 100 rupees a ton, to be delivered at a stated time, contracts with C for the purchase of 1000 tons of iron at 80 rupees a ton, telling C that he does so for the purpose of performing his contract with B. C fails to perform his contract with A, who cannot procure other iron, and B, in consequence, rescinds the contract. C must pay to A, 20,000 rupees, being the profit which A would have made by the performance of his contract with B.

(k) A contracts with B to make and deliver to B, by a fixed day, for a specified price, a certain piece of machinery. A does not deliver the piece of machinery at the time specified, and, in consequence of this, B is obliged to procure another at a higher price than that which he was to have paid to A, and is prevented from performing a contract which B had made with a third person at the time of his contract with A (but which had not been then communicated to A), and is compelled to make compensation for breach of that contract. A must pay to B, by way of compensation, the difference between the contract-price of the piece of machinery and the sum paid by B for another, but not the sum paid by B to the third person by way of compensation.

(l) A, a builder, contracts to erect and finish a house by the first of January in order that B may give possession of it at that time to C, to whom B has contracted to let it. A is informed of the contract between B and C. A builds the house so badly that, before the first of January, it falls down and has to be rebuilt by B, who, in consequence, loses the rent which he was to have received from C, and is obliged to make compensation to C for the breach of his contract. A must make compensation to B for the cost of rebuilding the house, for the rent lost, and for the compensation made to C.

(m) A sells certain merchandise to B, warranting it to be of a particular quality, and B, in reliance upon this warranty, sells it to C with a similar warranty. The goods prove to be not according to the warranty, and B becomes liable to pay C a sum of money by way of compensation. B is entitled to be reimbursed this sum by A.

1. Scope and applicability of the section.—[1] Section 73 applies to all contracts, including those in respect of lands. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 120 (122) : 19 Sind L R 337. (Hence Indian Courts not to apply foreign rules of law or equity.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 261 (262) (DB) * (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 386 (396) * (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1315 (1318) : 40 Mad 338 (FB).

[2] Section 73 is inapplicable to breach of warranty. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 843 (848) (DB).

[3] Section 73 does not supersede Hindu law in respect of liability of son for father's debts. (1909) 1909 Pun Re No. 24, page 60 (60).

[4] Section 73 relates to breaches of contract and not to torts. (1913) 11 All L Jour 335 (338, 339) * (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 75 (75). (Claim on breach of contract comes under S. 73 and not tort.)

[5] In a suit for damages arising out of a wrongful attachment, an amount which will be as near as can be estimated to that by which the plaintiff is the worse for the defendant's wrong-doing is to be awarded, provided that the harm suffered by plaintiff is a natural and probable consequence of the defendant's wrong-doing. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 1206 (1207, 1208) : 5 Bur L Tim 115.

[6] The expression compensation is not ordinarily used as an equivalent to damages, although compensation may, often, have to be measured by the same rule as damages in an action for a breach. The term compensation signifies that which is given in recompense, an equivalent rendered. Damages, on the other hand, constitute the sum of money claimed or adjudged to be paid in compensation for loss or injury sustained, the value estimated in money, of something lost or withheld. The term compensation etymologically suggests the image of balancing one thing against another. Its primary signification is equivalence, and the secondary, and more common meaning is, something given or obtained as an equivalent. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 507 (511, 512) (DB).

[7] The remedy of a suit for damages for breach of a contract need not be one of the terms of the contract but becomes available under the law in case of a breach of a contract. The ordinary remedy of a suit for damages in case of breach is not excluded merely because certain other remedies in case of breach are mentioned in the contract. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 269 (270).

[8] Illustrations to S. 73, Contract Act, are not more than general rules. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 146 (150).

[9] A right to indemnity is given by the original contract whereas a right to damages arises in consequence of the breach of that contract. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 43 (44).

2. Breach of contract.—[1] In a suit to enforce a contract it is necessary to ascertain its exact terms, so as to determine the breach thereof. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 148 (149) (DB).

(n) A contracts to pay a sum of money to B on a day specified. A does not pay the money on that day. B in consequence of not receiving the money on that day, is unable to pay his debts, and is totally ruined. A is not liable to make good to B anything except the principal sum he contracted to pay, together with interest up to the day of payment.

(o) A contracts to deliver 50 maunds of saltpetre to B on the first of January at a certain price. B afterwards, before the first of January, contracts to sell the saltpetre to C at a price higher than the market-price of the first of January. A breaks his promise. In estimating the compensation payable by A to B, the market-price of the first of January, and not the profit which would have arisen to B from the sale to C, is to be taken into account.

(p) A contracts to sell and deliver 500 bales of cotton to B on a fixed day. A knows nothing of B's mode of conducting his business. A breaks his promise, and D, having no cotton, is obliged to close his mill. A is not responsible to B for the loss caused to B by the closing of the mill.

(q) A contracts to sell and deliver to B, on the first of January, certain cloth which B intends to manufacture into caps of a particular kind, for which there is no demand, except at that season. The cloth is not delivered till after the appointed time, and too late to be used that year in making caps. B is entitled to receive from A, by way of compensation, the difference between the contract-price of the cloth and its market-price at the time of delivery, but not the profits which he expected to obtain by making caps, nor the expenses which he has been put to in making preparation for the manufacture.

(r) A, a ship-owner, contracts with B to convey him from Calcutta to Sydney in A's ship sailing on the first of January, and B pays to A, by way of deposit, one-half of his passage-money. The ship does sail on the 1st of January, and B after being, in consequence, detained in Calcutta for sometime, and thereby put to some expense, proceeds to Sydney in another vessel and in consequence, arriving too late in Sydney, loses a sum of money. A is liable to repay to B his deposit with interest, and the expense to which he is put by his detention in Calcutta, and the excess, if any, of the passage-money paid for the second ship over that agreed upon for the first, but not the sum of money which B lost by arriving in Sydney too late.

order, and such terms are misinterpreted by seller and such misinterpretation is acted upon by the buyers, it is not open to the buyer to contend that he did not make the offer as understood by the seller, and if the buyer refuses to make payment for the goods supplied as per terms as understood by the seller, the buyer commits a breach of the contract. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 873 (878) (DB).

[4] Where out of three contracts for supply of flour, plaintiff fulfilled only one, and on refusal of the same, sued for damages for the breach of that contract, he cannot succeed unless the parties intended to treat each contract separately. (1937) 1937 All L Jour 1250 (1251).

[5] Notice of repudiation by vendor — Buyer may treat the notice as inoperative — Then contract continues for the benefit of vendor as well — Vendor may elect to complete contract in spite of previous repudiation. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 118 (116).

[6] Where a party has not qualified obligation under a contract he is liable to make compensation in damages for non-performance, although the performance has been rendered impracticable by some unforeseen cause beyond his control. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 429 (429, 430).

[7] Person to be responsible for loss of money not due to act of God or King's enemies — Loss due to robbery — Person held responsible. (Vol 29) 1942 Pesh 33 (35) (DB).

[8] Injunction issued prohibiting vendee to import certain goods — Vendee cancelling his contract to purchase, though vendor willing to keep contract open — Injunction shortly dissolved — Vendee not cancelling cancellation — Cancellation, held, to be voluntary — Person, obtaining injunction, held, not liable. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 222 (224) (P C).

[9] Purchase by N of license for pawnshop auctioned by municipality — Terms of sale reduced to document, which recited that N was licensed for three years, subject to certain conditions, but contained no guarantee as to validity of license — Grant, subsequently, set aside by Commissioner under powers given him by Burma Municipal Act — License again auctioned and again brought by N for much higher sum — N suing committee in damages for breach of contract basing his claim on difference between two bids. The municipality were not in a position to guarantee what the action of the Commissioner would be, nor could it be presumed that they ever intended to give any guarantee in the matter and that there was no breach of contract on their part and so they were not liable in damages. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 16 (17) : 7 Rang 441 (DB).

[10] Consignment of 200 bundles of steel rods through Railway — Nine bundles found to have been changed — Refusal to take delivery — Offer of Railway Company for delivery of 191 bundles — Refusal to accept — Suit for damages — Railway liable only for nine bundles. (Vol 20) 1933 All 595 (596) (DB).

[11] Employer entitled to close work for definite and indefinite period for causes stated in contract — Power of closing for definite period exceeded but acquiesced in by employee — Subsequent indefinite closing legal — Employees cannot get damages. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 126 (129) : 58 Bom 262 (DB).

[12] Goods of inferior quality delivered — Contract is broken on due date, and not when inferiority of quality is discovered, in the absence of a contract that, the due date shall be postponed until it is ascertained whether the goods are of the contract quality or not. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 208 (208, 205) : 45 Bom 129 (DB).

[13] Where there was a duty on the part of the vendor to give notice to the vendee of the arrival of the goods and it was not done, it amounts to a breach of contract. (1924) 19 Mad L Jour 654 (658) (DB).

[14] Defendant contracting to supply 1,000 maunds of husks to plaintiff — 589½ maunds supplied — The balance mixed with sand — Plaintiff refusing delivery — Defendants liable for breach. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 163 (164).

[15] Agreement to lend money on mortgage delayed — New agreement stipulating payment of interest from a given date — Defendant finally refusing to execute deed with added clause to which he had agreed — Plaintiff, held, was entitled to compensation. (1938) 17 Bom 457 (465) (DB).

[16] Mortgagee agreeing to pay creditors of mortgagor — Failure to pay — Mortgagor cannot recover the sum as a debt — Remedy of mortgagor is by way of damages only. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 135 (136) : 31 Nag L R 235.

[17] A executed a bond in favour of B for Rs. 1300, on B's assurance on oath that he would pay the debt of A, amounting to Rs. 1100, and pay cash of 200. B failed to perform his contract within a reasonable time — Held, that the contract became voidable, entitling A to sue B further for cancellation or for damages under S. 73 ('82) 1882 Pun Re No. 186, page 542 (548) (DB).

[18] Defendants contracted to transfer their business including stock in trade and outstandings to the plaintiffs and to pay them Rs. 1650 in consideration of the plaintiffs discharging the debts of the firm. Defendants resiled from their contract. Held that plaintiffs could sue them for damages in terms of S. 73. Damage arose as plaintiffs were prevented from making profit out of the concern. ('89) 1889 Pun Re No. 20, page 64 (68) (DB).

[19] The true basis of the claim for damages by anybody injured by an improper execution proceeding after receiving satisfaction by decree-holder can only be that it is a breach of an implied agreement not to execute the decrees any further. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 961 (964).

[20] A paper was signed by the defendant to the effect that he and plaintiff had entered into a partnership for 2½ years and that amount of brokerage, earned by each partner separately, was to be divided equally among all. No counter agreement was given by plaintiffs and nothing further was done. Defendants, having refused to settle account, denied partnership. The plaintiffs sued for their share of profits. Held, on the facts, that the transaction amounted to an agreement to enter into partnership, and that plaintiffs were entitled to damages for breach, on the basis of the profit that would have been made during the 2½ years. ('67) 1867 Pun Re No. 68, page 130 (132) (DB).

[21] Surety representing principal to be major, and agreeing to compensate plaintiff, if representation proved false—Principal found to be minor—Surety must compensate the plaintiff. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 327 (331) : I L R (1940) Nag 632.

[22] Where defendant sold goods to plaintiff, receiving part of the consideration and agreed to receive the balance by instalments, and deliver the goods on demand and the plaintiff brought a suit for damages as the defendant had failed to deliver; held, that the defendant was liable. ('11) 1911 Pun L R No. 207, page 801 (802).

[23] Sale—Direction to vendee to pay off creditor—Creditor who was not paid obtaining decree against vendor—Suit by vendor against vendee could lie. (Vol 18) 1931 All 754 (755, 756) : 53 All 946 (DB).

[24] A Municipal Board accepted plaintiff's tender subject to certain conditions one of which provided that the contract was subject to the approval of the Engineer. The contract further provided that the contractor was bound to carry out changes made in the work, design, plan, etc., by the Engineer and that such alterations would not invalidate the contract. The Engineer asked the work to be stopped until further orders. After some correspondence between the parties, a new specification was resolved upon but the Council invited fresh tenders and gave the work to a new tenderer. The Board had committed a breach of contract. ('29) 1929 All L Jour 735 (740).

[25] Where a defendant failed to perform his part of the contract by delivering the goods by a certain date but kept on saying after expiry of the date that he would deliver them as soon as he received them from his vendor, without requesting the plaintiff to extend the time for delivery, and ultimately the plaintiff repudiated the contract, the breach occurred on the date by which the defendant was bound to perform his part of the contract. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 1 (7) (DB).

[26] Sale of goods—Portion ready for delivery—Balance to be delivered on particular date—Failure to deliver—Date of breach for ready goods, the date of contract; for other goods, the date, fixed for delivery. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 208 (204, 205).

[27] Contract of agency—Undertaking by agent not to work for other mills—The mere fact that he was buying and selling cloths from other mills and merchants, was not a violation of the contract. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 664 (665) (DB).

[28] Where price is to be paid on receipt of railway receipt, failure to take delivery, on mere intimation of arrival of a portion of the goods, does not amount to breach of contract. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 193 (195) (DB).

[29] Loss in revenue of toll-collector by discontinuance of traffic owing to plague regulations—Toll-collector cannot get damages from Government for breach of contract. (1902) 4 Bom L R 874 (876) (DB).

[30] The defendant purchased from the plaintiff a cargo of Watson's Harry steam coal per Grecian, at Rs. 21 per ton. On the arrival of the coal in Calcutta, the defendant was called on to take delivery, which, after inspection, he refused to do on the ground that, the coal had not the usual certificate from Watson. On the same day, the plaintiffs themselves, and three days after, their attorneys, wrote to the defendant that, unless he took delivery, the coal would be sold on his account and risk. The defendant refused to take delivery and the very next day without any proper advertisement, the plaintiffs sold the coal to M. & Co., for Rs. 13 per ton. But it was found that the real purchasers were the plaintiffs themselves. Held, that the sale was not a valid sale and that the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover any damages under the circumstances of the case. (1875) 15 Beng L R 276 (269, 290, 291, 292).

[31] Mutual obligations—Plaintiff has to prove that he was ready and willing to perform his part of the bargain. It is not necessary to prove that he made an actual tender of the money. (Vol 10) 1923 All 220 (224) (DB).

[32] To make decree for damages for the breach of a contract which is not the subject-matter of the litigation would be to assume that there has been a breach of the contract which has never been attempted to be specifically enforced. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 774 (775) (DB).

[33] If the documents relied on as constituting a contract contemplate the execution of a further contract between the parties, it is a question of construction whether the execution of a further contract is a condition of term of the bargain or whether it is a mere expression of the desire of the parties as to the manner in which the transaction already agreed to, will in fact go through. In the former case, there is no enforceable contract either because the condition is unfulfilled or because the law does not recognise a contract to enter into a contract. In the latter case there is a binding contract and reference to the more formal document may be ignored. In such cases refusal to execute a formal contract cannot give rise in any case to an action for breach of contract. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 29 (31) : 60 Ind App 297 : 60 Cal 980 (PC).

[34] In a suit for breach of an executory contract, it is open for the defendant to show that it is not binding upon him inasmuch as it is not binding on the plaintiff. (1903) 27 Bom 618 (621) (DB).

[35] The plaintiff, a tailor, sued a Railway company for damages because of an undue delay in transit due to the fault of their servants. He had entrusted to the company his sewing machine to be carried to a place where car festival was to be held, with the object of making special profit. He had not intimated this object to the company, nor did he inform them that the machine was wanted within a fixed time. Held, that he was precluded from maintaining the suit by one of the conditions on the back of the forwarding note signed by him to the effect that defendants are not responsible for any loss of or damage to goods by reason of accidental or unavoidable delay in transit or otherwise. (1898) 21 Mad 172 (174, 175, 178) (DB).

3. Anticipatory breach of contract. — [1] If one party to a contract repudiates it, the other party may either treat the repudiation as inoperative, or he may treat the repudiation as a wrongful putting an end to the contract, and may at once bring his action as on a breach of it, but he cannot both sue upon the breach and also keep the contract open. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 118 (119).

[2] A repudiation of contract, before the time for performance arrives, which is not accepted by the other party, the contract being kept alive, cannot be treated as an anticipatory breach of the contract. (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 103 (103) : 23 Sind L R 370 & (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 289 (293) : I L R (1938) Nag 81.

[3] When a party to a contract is entitled to cancel the contract by reason of the breach by the other, notice of cancellation should be given to the other party — If no notice is given then the breach is condoned and the contract is allowed to continue. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 211 (211).

[4] A breach of contract may take place before the time fixed for performance of the contract has arrived, where the promisor had repudiated the contract — In such an event, the promisee may elect to sue him for breach of the contract without waiting for the time fixed for performance. The exact measure of damages upon anticipatory breach is in the ordinary case precisely the same as it would be if the repudiation were not accepted as a breach and the injured party brought suit, after the time of performance, for non-performance at the time set i. e., though the plaintiff sues at once for an anticipatory breach of the contract, his damages are to be assessed according to the cost of performance, not at the time and place of the breach but at the time and place set for performance. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 185 (187, 189) : 48 Cal 427 (DB) & (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 78 (80, 81) : 11 Low Bur Rul 182 (DB). (Breach — Repudiation — Other party may sue at once or wait till the due date—Measure of damages is the same in both cases, the difference between the contract rate and the market rate on the due date.) & (Vol 4) 1917 P C 255 (257) (PC). (Jury will take into account what the plaintiff has or could have or ought to have done in mitigation of his loss.) & (11) 21 Mad L Jour 182 (193, 194) (DB) & (06) 1906 Pun Re No. 137, p. 502 (504).

[5] Lease of dry dock.—Dry dock lost through lessee's negligence before end of term—Covenant enabling lessor to sue for re-delivery on breach of certain obligations—Such breach having taken place, lessor can sue before end of term, for damages for loss of the dock and for breach of the covenants — But rent cannot be claimed for period subsequent to commencement of action. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 85 (89) (PC).

[6] A seller is not to be defeated merely by its being shown that after repudiation by the buyer he had not the goods to implement the contract actually in his physical possession.—He can show that he could supply the goods contracted for either from the open market or from any other source and he would be entitled to maintain a suit for damages for wrongful repudiation. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 410 (410) (DB).

[7] Contract to place a part of a ginning factory at plaintiff's disposal for a certain period at a fixed rate—Anticipatory breach committed — Estimate of profits is the measure of plaintiff's loss — Plaintiff need not cut down the loss by actually getting his cotton ginned in another factory. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 200 (202) : 55 Ind App 299 : 55 Cal 1048 : 24 Nag L R 154 (PC).

[8] Contract for manufacture of goods according to specifications for sale in particular market— Such market lost — Order cancelled — Manufacturer ceasing to manufacture goods and claiming damages for breach of contract at 15 per cent. of contract price which he could have earned as profits — Such method of calculation, held proper—Damages awarded at 7½ per cent. on net value of goods. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 291 (293, 294) : ILR (1946) Mad 192 (DB).

4. Measure of damages. — [1] It is the general intention of the law, that in giving damages for breach of contract, the party complaining should, so far as it can be done by money, be placed in the same position as he would have been in, if the contract had been performed. The rule, which prescribes as a measure of damage the difference in market prices at the respective times, is merely designed to apply this principle and it generally secures a complete indemnity to the purchaser. (Vol 34) 1947 Sind 22 (24) (DB) & (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 146 (150) & (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 79 (82) (DB).

[2] Under the terms of S. 73 the compensation is only for the loss actually suffered and such compensation is not to be given for any remote or indirect loss or damage sustained by reason of the breach of the contract — The section does not give any cause of action unless and until the damage is actually suffered. (Vol 83) 1946 Pat 283 (267) (DB) & (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 393 (394, 395) : 15 Pat 394 (DB).

[3] Under this section damages are to be awarded as compensation for any loss or damage arising naturally in the usual course of things from the breach of contract. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 243 (245) : ILR (1938) Nag 283 (DB).

[4] On breach of contract the party guilty of the breach must pay the injured person such damages as may accrue within a reasonable time. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 178 (181) (DB).

[5] In awarding damages it is an ordinary rule that change of circumstances may be taken into consideration. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 427 (430) : 52 Bom 883 (DB).

[6] Where the parties have themselves fixed the value of their right, that amount is a proper measure of damages sustained by a party. (Vol 2) 1915 All 40 (41).

[7] The mortgagee is entitled to damages on account of failure of the debtor to pay the debt at the stipulated time, and that the measure of damages prima facie should be the same as the rate of interest agreed upon, though the Court has discretion to reduce this rate if it is found to be unusual. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 254 (257) : 3 Lah 200 (FB) & (29) 115 Ind Cas 26 (29) (DB) (Lah).

[8] The amount due on a debt or for damages for breach of contract or in tort, is to be determined according to the rate, prevailing at the date when the cause of action arises. Where, therefore, no time for repayment of a grain loan is fixed in the bond, the debt is payable on demand and the grain must be valued at the rate prevailing on date of bond. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 949 (951) (DB).

[9] The rate of exchange prevailing on the date of judgment is not the rate applicable in a suit for damages. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 239 (240) : 48 Cal 886.

[10] On the breach of a contract by defendants to transfer their business, including stock and outstandings, plaintiffs would be entitled to recover compensation under this section for loss or damage which resulted to them from their having been prevented from making profit which would have accrued to them if defendants had fulfilled their promise and plaintiffs had fulfilled theirs. (189) 1889 Pun Re No. 20, p. 64 (67) (DB).

[11] Promise of a share in partnership — Breach — Measure of damages is the difference between value of plaintiff's estate after breach of promise and its value if there had been no breach. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 243 (244) : 1915 Pun Re No. 64 (DB).

[12] Where the suit is one for damages for breach of a partnership contract the death of one partner subsequent to suit does not affect the measure of damages. (Vol 8) 1916 Mad 926 (927) (DB).

[13] Building contract — Contractor contracting to build up building according to plan and of particular kind — Building owner appointing supervising engineer — Collusion between contractor and engineer — Building, when nearly complete found very defective as to necessitate its pulling down — Passing of running bills by engineer, does not preclude owner from challenging work done — Measure of damages is amount that would be required for constructing the building agreed for. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 111 (112, 113, 114, 116) (DB).

[14] Contract for sale of shares — Breach — Seller holding on to the shares after breach cannot recover difference below market price from purchaser. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 48 (49) : 43 Ind App 6 : 43 Cal 493 : 8 Low Bur Rul 348 (PC).

[15] In cases, where the elements of fraud, oppression, malice or the like are found, the law does not confine its remedy to the payment of compensation merely proportionate to any pecuniary loss actually suffered by the injured person — It can grant vindictive or exemplary damages by way of punishment to the wrong-doer. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 493 (495) (DB) & (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 706 (708) : 60 Cal 918. (Charge of fraud against businessman — Exemplary damages may be allowed.)

[16] A contract of hiring of machinery gave the right to the owners of the machinery even after the hiring has been terminated to claim damages in addition to the arrears of rent due on the date of the termination of the hiring for breach of the agreement. The plaintiff, the owner, claimed rent up to the date of the plaint and thereafter up to date of decree : Held that, the agreement between the parties was a hiring agreement with an option to purchase and that the proper basis for the assessment of damages for use of the machinery not delivered up to the owner in pursuance of a demand was the amount of the hire agreed upon in the agreement. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 603 (605) (DB).

5. Sale of goods — Measure of damages. — [1] The law as to damages on forward contracts may be summed up as follows : (1) Damages to be assessed with reference to the date fixed for delivery. (2) If that date is in future, the Court must estimate rate as best it can and it matters not that the estimate is to the great extent speculative. (3) If the plaintiff has rescinded the contract and the defendant proves that after rescission plaintiff has made fresh contract at better rates or that acting reasonably and as prudent man, he might have made such contract, this will be considered ground for abatement of damages. (4) If plaintiff after rescission makes fresh contract, he does so at his own risk and if he gets worse rate, he cannot make use of that for purpose of enhancing his damages. (12) 6 Sind L R 187 (191).

[2] In an action for non-delivery or non-acceptance of goods under a contract of sale, the law does not take into account in estimating damages anything that is accidental as between the plaintiff and the defendant; as for instance, an intermediate contract entered into with a third party for the purchase or sale of goods. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 178 (180) : 48 Ind App 175 : 43 All 257 (PC) & (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 98 (98, 99) : 15 Sind L R 214. (Loss sustained by either party through his breach of contract with a third party cannot be recovered unless the other party is aware of it.) & (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 161 (162). (Profits which the plaintiff would have made out of another contract if the defendant had fulfilled his contract, can be recovered only if the defendant knew about it at the time of making the contract.)

[3] Where in the case of a C. I. F. contract, the buyer fails to accept the drafts and cannot be made to pay the price the sellers are only entitled to the difference between the contract price and the price of the goods on the date of the breach. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 9 (15) : 26 Sind L R 167 & (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 75 (78) : 11 Low Bur Rul 141 (DB).

[4] Goods sold under a C.I.F. contract, pass to buyer on shipment by seller and the latter is not liable for subsequent damage. (Vol 4) 1917 Sind 36 (37) : 10 Sind L R 118.

[5] The principle, by which Courts are guided in awarding damages is restitutio in integrum, and exact cost of effecting a complete restitutio in integrum is difference between original contract rate and that at which vendor can sell to fresh purchaser goods of same quantity and quality and of same shipment. Election to take advantage of repudiation of a contract goes only to question of breach. Damages must be estimated by difference between contract price and market price at day or days appointed for performance, and not at time of breach. (Vol 1) 1914 Sind 53 (58) : 8 Sind L R 95 (DB).

[6] Where the property has not passed in the goods, the seller's only remedy for a breach of contract to accept and pay for the goods is as a general rule, a suit for damages, and the measure of damages for such breach is the difference between the contract price and the market price when the contract is broken, that is, on the due date which is the last day on which the delivery can be made. (1924) 6 Lah L Jour 415 (416, 417) (DB) & (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 279 (279) : ILR (1944) Nag 749 & (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 210 (210) : I L R (1943) Nag 772 & (Vol 23) 1936 All 514 (516) & (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 834 (837) (DB) & (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (52) : 19 Sind L R 41 & (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1021 (1023) (D B) & (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 390 (391) (DB) & (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 75 (76, 77) & (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 103 (104) & (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 17 (20) & (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 573 (574, 576) : 37 Mad 412 (DB) & (10) 1910 Pun L R No. 2, page 4 (6) & (1876) 1 Cal 264 (273) (DB).

[7] In assessing damages for breach of contract for sale of goods, price ruling on the date on which contract was finally cancelled is the criterion and not that prevailing on any previous date. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 830 (832) (DB) & (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 139 (141) : 1939 Rang L R 622 & (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 111 (112) : 31 Nag L R 250.

[8] Damages for breach of contract to sell, calculated at market rate prevailing on date of breach — No date for delivery is fixed — Notice of non-acceptance is given after certain date — Difference between market rate prevailing on that date and contract rate is the amount of damages. (Vol 4) 1917 All 433 (433, 434).

[10] Where the buyer takes the delivery not on the day fixed for delivery but on a subsequent day and there is shortage in delivery, the seller is liable in damages for the difference between contract rate and market rate on the day fixed for delivery and not on the market rate on a day other than the day fixed for delivery. (Vol 9) 1922 Low Bur 1 (1).

[11] Breach of contract to purchase property — Damages though fixed by parties may be awarded according to difference between contract price and value of property. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 411 (412) (DB).

[12] The measure of damages for breach of contract to sell goods is the sum by which the contract price falls short of the price at which the purchasers might have obtained goods of like quality at the time and place that they should have been delivered. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah

[18] Proper basis for calculating damages sustained by breach of warranty of quality of unascertained goods would be difference between value of goods as supplied and the market value of goods of guaranteed quality on date of breach and vendor will not be liable beyond this for any special damages incurred by vendee by a breach of his contract with a third person, of which the vendor had no notice. Section 73 Ill. (m) does not apply where sale is of unascertained goods and where contract between A and B in the illustration (m) is not made on same occasion as that between B and C and where basis of damages in both is consequently different. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 633 (633, 634) (DB).

[14] When goods delivered under contract of sale of goods by sample were all not equal to sample, measure of damages recoverable by purchaser is difference between market rates of goods delivered and those contracted to be delivered on date of delivery. B again sent to A list of same rates but on next day B sent telegram quoting different rates. A sued B for damages. Held, that contract was complete when A accepted rates and gave orders for goods, measure of damages being price prevailing in A's city on the day of delivery and the contract rate plus cost of freight. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 426 (428) (DB).

[16] Agent selling his own goods to principal—Profit made by such act of the agent—Measure of damages is difference between contract rate and market rate at time of delivery. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 86 (87, 88) (DB).

[17] Vendor informs the debtor beforehand of his inability to give delivery at the time fixed by contract — The purchaser does not rescind the contract — The measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the higher price the goods bear on the last day appointed for fulfilment of the contract. [18] Contract of affreightment—Demand by shipper for space under terms of contract, shipper having no goods to ship and attempting to take advantage of rise in freight — Facts, can be considered in assessing damages, but do not entitle ship-owner to repudiate contract. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 146 (150).

[19] Contract — Damages — Plaintiff, asking defendant, their agent to reship goods delivered for sale in foreign country — Defendant not carrying out his instructions—Plaintiff's remedy is relief by way of damages according to market rate in that country on date of refusal. [20] Where customs duty is payable by the buyer it should be added to the contract price in assessing damages even when goods are not delivered. (Vol 11) 1924 Sind 38 (40) : 17 Sind L R 236 (DB).

[21] Method of assessing damages in case of a breach of contract to supply future goods is to ascertain the quantity, to ascertain the price at which the same might have been fairly sold in the market during the season to which the contract relates, deducting from such price the ordinary charges of producing and selling the goods in question and in no case the amount awarded should exceed the amount of liquidated damages fixed by the parties. (Vol 10) 1923 All 199 (201).

[22] A contracts to sell goods to M—M contracts to sell them to C—Subsequent agreement that A shall deliver to C direct—Failure to take delivery—Measure of damages is the difference between the price to be paid

[23] The usual practice in produce markets is that where there is a chain of sellers and buyers, the damages as ascertained between the last buyer and seller would probably without further litigation from the measure of the damages to be recovered all along the chain. (Vol 12) 1925 PC 161 (163) : 49 Mad 1 (PC).

[24] In ascertaining market value on a particular day for assessing damages value created for special purposes is irrelevant and it is for this reason that prices created by Bulls and Bears are of no use. (1902) 26 Bom 235 (239) (DB).

[25] When a contract of sale does not provide a penalty, the right of the seller to damages, on the failure of the buyer to complete payment, will arise under S. 73 or S. 75, Contract Act, and is something quite independent of the amount of any part payment made. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 37 (39) : ILR (1941) Kar 495 (DB).

[26] Where a purchaser delays to take delivery of goods resulting in the deterioration of goods even though the property in the goods did not pass to him, he has to compensate the seller under S. 73 for any loss occasioned by the delay. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 86 (91) : 10 Sind L R 14.

[27] On breach by purchaser, resale must be held within reasonable time. Measure of damages is difference between contract price and realization on resale with costs and expenses. This criterion is not applicable when resale is unduly delayed, in which case basis is difference between contract price and price on day of breach. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 593 (595) : 16 Lah 553 (DB) * (Vol 32) 1945 Lah 85 (42) : 1 L R (1944) Lah 573 (D B). (But if purchaser agrees to harsh terms Court cannot relieve him on equitable grounds.)

[28] Goods not appropriated — Resale, power of, in contract—Measure of damages—Held, that, as the goods had not been ascertained or even appropriated for purposes of agreement they did not come within the power of re-sale as framed, and the re-sale was inoperative as a method of measuring damages. (1912) 39 Cal 568 (579, 580, 581) (DB).

[29] Goods sold—Time for delivery not fixed—Buyer notifying seller that he would not accept delivery after a certain date—Held, contract must be deemed to have subsisted till that date and the damages are to be calculated at the difference in the market rates of that date and the date of contract. (Vol 4) 1917 All 433 (433, 434).

[30] Contract providing penalty for failure to accept draft or making payment at maturity and not for failure to take delivery of goods — Failure to take delivery of goods on intimation of arrival—Seller can claim difference between contract price and that on date of default. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 317 (318) (DB) * (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 339 (391) (DB).

[31] Sale of goods—Price paid at time of purchase—Failure by vendor to deliver goods, entitles purchaser to recover purchase money with interest from the date it was paid and also to usual damages. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 21 (23).

[32] Time extended for delivery but not fixed—Vendors must deliver only within reasonable time—In that case vendees cannot refuse to take delivery — Vendors cannot sue for price but can claim damages represented by market rates. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 325 (326, 329) : 48 Bom 374 (DB).

against yen sold — Importer failing to pay bills by purchase of yen commits breach — Measure of damages is difference between contract rate and buying rate of yen to be purchased against yen sold. (Vol 28) 1936 Rang 269 (271) (DB).

[34] Contract to deliver goods by instalments—Seller repudiating before due date—Damages are the difference between contract price and market price at dates of delivery though last date has not elapsed at the time of action but the seller can show in mitigation that in the interval the buyer could have obtained a new contract on better terms. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 721 (724) : 43 Cal 305 (F B).

[35] Contract for sale of goods—Goods to be delivered on arrival — Damages for non-delivery will be with regard to dates of actual arrival of goods and not the date when the goods were expected. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 648 (649) (DB).

[36] Where the goods are specially made to order but are not marketable the measure of damages is the price of the goods. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 742 (744) : 13 Lah 886 (DB).

[37] In the case of breach of contract of sale of goods if there was an available market for the goods at the date of breach, the damages must be based on the difference between that market price and the contract price; a contract of re-sale becomes immaterial, because if there was a market, the law presumes that the buyer can minimise his damages by procuring substituted goods in the market so that he is thus in the same position, apart from the difference in price, as if the seller had not made default. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 196 (197) : 59 Ind App 398 : 11 Pat 600 (P C).

[38] Defendant contracting to deliver goods at a particular place and not aware that goods were delivered by defendant's agent to railway for transit — Contract cannot be avoided for common mistake — Defendant refusing to hand over railway receipt but selling the goods—Damages should be calculated as on the date of refusal to hand over railway receipt. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 514 (515, 516) (DB).

[39] Where the term of the plaintiffs' contract, with defendants, regarding delivery, was subsequently varied and there was to be no delivery to defendants, there could not be a breach of contract on part of defendants by reason of their not taking delivery. Correct measure of damages would be such as would put plaintiffs in same position as if their contract with defendants as varied had been carried out. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 346 (347) (DB).

[40] Plaintiff ordering goods through defendants but failing to pay the draft on due date—Defendants doing so and taking delivery of goods—Plaintiff on tendering value entitled to goods — Refusal by defendants — The plaintiff was entitled to damages, namely the difference between the market value of the goods on the day on which he sent the cheque and the amount due by him on the draft. (1921) 23 Bom L R 1108.

[41] Where property contracted to be sold to plaintiff is sold by owner to another, the measure of damages in a suit for damages on breach of contract is the difference between actual price and contracted price. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 252 (255) (DB).

[42] Credit and debit entries in buyer's accounts, as goods were left with seller—Subsequent pledge by buyer — Buyer's suit for account — The contract being unenforceable both entries cancel each other — If debit entry represents damages for conversion, value of goods is value at time of conversion. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 340 (342) (DB).

[43] In cases where conversion has occurred, the profit obtained by conversion is usually held to be the best evidence of the measure of damages; but the measure of damages will still be the loss sustained, by not having the property delivered at the price agreed on. A man cannot by merely changing the form of action entitle himself to recover damages greater than the amounts to which he is in law entitled according to the true facts of the case and the real nature of the transaction. The usual rule in damages is that damages should be calculated from the date of the breach. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 141 (143) : 1 L R (1943) Nag 272.

6. Sale of immovable property—Defect in vendor's title.—[1] The rule of English law not permitting a purchaser to recover damages for breach of a contract of sale relating to immovable property is not applicable in India in view of the express provisions of S. 73 which are comprehensive enough to apply to breaches of contracts arising from the sale of movable as well as immovable property. A vendor is, therefore, entitled to recover damages for breach of a contract of sale relating to immovable property. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1315 (1318) : 40 Mad 338 (FB)* (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 146 (147, 148)* (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 4 (7) : 31 Nag L R (Sup.) 101* (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 263 (264)* (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (51) : 19 Sind L R 41* (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 262 (264) : 5 Lah 527 (DB)* (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 709 (711) (DB)* (Vol 8) 1921 Upp Bur 16 (17, 18) : 4 Upp Bur Rul 41* (1908) 32 Bom 165 (171).

[2] In cases of breach of contract for sale of immovable property through inability on the vendor's part to make a good title the damages must be assessed in the usual way unless it can be shown that the parties to the contract expressly or impliedly contended that this should not render the vendor liable for damages. (1908) 32 Bom 165 (171)* (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (51) : 19 Sind L R 41* (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 262 (264) : 5 Lah 527 (DB).

[3] Knowledge of the purchaser of the defect of title in his vendor does not affect his right to recover damages. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1315 (1320) : 40 Mad 338 (F B).

[4] Where a purchaser of immovable property is dispossessed owing to lack of title in the vendor, he can claim as damages not only the actual price paid by him, but according to the enhanced value at the time of his eviction. [5] In case of breach of contract of sale of immovable property which had been acquired by Government plaintiff is entitled to difference between contract price and price fixed in land acquisition proceedings apart from statutory allowance. (1911) 38 Cal 458 (466, 467).

[6] No hard and fast rule can be laid down for assessment of damages for breach of contracts to sell. The circumstances of each case have to be considered in deciding what is reasonable and proper compensation for the damage caused by a breach of contract. Under S. 73 the Court is not bound in every case to award damages on the basis of a difference between the price at the date of the contract and the market price at the date of the breach. If circumstances require so, no damages need be awarded for breach of contract to sell real property where the vendor is not guilty of fraud. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 478 (478) : 49 Bom 1 (DB)* (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 370 (372, 373). (The rule that the measure of damages is the value of the land at the date of eviction cannot be accepted as a hard and fast rule. The circumstances of each contract must be examined and the intention of the parties determined.) * (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 257 (257) : 20 Nag L R 55.

[7] Where the vendors undertook to be responsible in case the vendors or their heirs or anybody else made claim of any kind to the property sold, the damages should be measured by the value of the land at the time of sale and not by that at the time of eviction. [8] Where sale was made with an indemnity for title by the vendor but not for improvements made by the vendee, the vendee would not be entitled to compensation for any improvements made by him. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 870 (872, 873).

[11] In suit for damages by dispossessed vendee against the vendor, and not for recovery of original price on the ground of failure of consideration, measure of damages is loss suffered by vendee. (Vol 17) 1930 All 771 (777) : 52 All 604 (DB).

[12] Vendor failing to make good title — No fault or fraud on his part — Bargain will be off and vendor would have only to pay purchaser's cost of agreement and inspection of title deeds. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 334 (334, 335) (DB).

[13] Contract of sale—Date of performance postponed — In such cases damages are to be calculated with reference to the last date, if any, to which the contract was intended or to the date on which the contract was finally broken. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 176 (177) : 8 Lah 198 (DB).

[14] A selling property to B, who sold it to C. — C unable to obtain possession of half owing to defect in A's title — Measure of damages is half the value of the share estimated by him in his original transfer to B. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 361 (365).

[15] Where a coparcener sells specific items of family property and in a subsequent partition other items are allotted to his share and the alienee is deprived of the items sold, he is entitled to damages from the vendor and he can claim the full market value of the lands at the time when he is deprived of them. [16] A manager of a joint Hindu family, who has agreed to sell immovable property belonging to himself and the minor members of the family, is individually liable for damages for failure to perform the contract if it is found that it is not binding on the minors, though both the contracting parties believed that there was necessity and acted in good faith. [12] A suit for the recovery of money advanced by one party to another, in connexion with marriage which subsequently fell through, is not one for the mere recovery of a loan or refund of money advanced, but is in essence one for damages in respect of the breach of contract of marriage and so is not cognizable in the Court of Small Causes. [7] Contract by mother and minor daughter with company that the minor daughter would do certain service to the company failing which they were to compensate company for loss—Minor daughter failing to fulfil contract : Held, that the mother was liable on her covenant to pay to the company any loss which they suffered in consequence. This was not a contract of indemnity by the mother. Her failure to earn the sum paid caused a loss to the company of the moneys advanced, and this was, thus, the measure of their damages, and the amount of compensation payable by the mother. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 359 (359) (DB).

[8] Measure of damages for breach of contract of service is obtained by considering what is usual rate of wages for employment contracted for, and what time would be lost before a similar employment could be obtained. (Vol 17) 1980 Mad 654 (657) (DB).

14. Compromise decree.—[1] Compromise decree providing for injunction preventing sellers, defendants, from selling goods to third parties and providing for damages in case of breach—Defendants making breach and paying damages as per compromise—This did not enable judgment-debtors to render nugatory all their obligations under the prior part of the contract whenever it suited their pockets to do so. It provided that they shall pay at the specified rate, if they fail to perform the contract in any respect, but it did not say that such payment was to be a full and exclusive satisfaction of all obligations under the contract. The payment into Court did not make the decree a satisfied decree. It provided a mode of enforcing such payment but it did not say that the other terms would not be enforced by execution of the decree, namely, by applying to the Court to enforce the injunction. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 27 (28, 29, 30) : 55 Ind App 58 : 55 Cal 238 : 24 Nag L R 17 (PC).

[2] Where obligation of under-proprietor to pay rent was derived from his status which was established by compromise decree, and not from agreement previous thereto, suit for arrears of rent against him would not be suit for breach of contract under S. 73 of Contract Act; contract, if any, having merged in decree. (Vol 4) 26 All 299 (308, 309) : 31 Ind App 116 : 7 Oudh Cas 116 (PC).

15. Contract of lease.—[1] In a lease, where there is a covenant not to assign, and the tenant assigns without leave, then clearly the landlord suffers damage, because he is deprived of the liability of the original lessee under the terms of the lease. Again, if there is a covenant not to sub-let and the tenant sub-lets, without leave, to a careless person, whereby the premises are damaged, then clearly the landlord would be entitled to recover damages against the tenant for sub-letting without leave. But the mere fact that the sub-letting results in a profit to the tenant would not cause damage to the landlord. Therefore, in such case, in the absence of proof that the landlord has suffered any damage owing to the tenant recovering a higher rent from the sub-tenant, he will not be entitled to damages. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 27 (27) : 45 Bom 1197 (DB).

[2] In an action for damages for breach of contract to give lease, plaintiff is entitled to profit he would have made had he cultivated the lands in husbandlike manner with interest at six per cent. per annum. Opportunity which plaintiff had of renting other lands and thereby remedying inconvenience should also be taken into account. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 867 (869) (DB).

[3] Lessee was turned out of the land by the lessor, who cancelled the lease, and agreed to pay damages—Measure of damages is the money paid by the lessee to the lessor, the money spent by lessee over the property, and interest on the whole from the dates on which the payment and expenditure were made. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 287 (287).

[4] A tenant rented a shop from a landlord for one year for Rs. 220 and paid Rs. 110 in advance, in part payment of the rent. The landlord deliberately broke the contract, and did not give possession of the shop to the tenant who, in a suit for damages, was granted by the lower Court Rs. 110, actually paid by the plaintiff to the defendant, and Rs. 220 as damages : Held, that damages could not be so calculated because the tenant in such cases is entitled to compensation calculated on the actual loss suffered or likely to be suffered by him by the breach of the contract by the landlord, and in calculating such damages, the Court has to bear in mind the means that existed for the plaintiff to reduce the amount of damages. (1928) 109 Ind Cas 335 (335) (Lah).

16. Contingent contract.—[1] The fact that a contract is a contingent contract does not affect the measure of damages. In case of breach of such contract, damages should be measured in the usual manner. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 192 (192).

17. Transfer of property—Covenant by transferee to pay off transferees' creditors.—[1] Where A transferred certain property to B in consideration of the latter applying a portion of purchase money to the payment of a debt due by A and on default by B, A's brother paid the same A was entitled to sue and recover the amount which B had agreed to pay. He was not bound to show he had suffered any damage by failure of B to pay the sums left with him. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 46 (48) : 8 Pat 860 (DB).

[2] Contract of sale—Part of purchase money left with vendee for payment to prior mortgagee—Failure of vendee to pay mortgage as a result of which vendor was dispossessed in execution of a decree for sale on the mortgage—Vendor, held, entitled to compensation for loss occasioned by vendee's breach, (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB). (Decree for foreclosure.) (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 148 (151) (DB).

[3] Where mortgagor left money with mortgagee to pay off prior incumbrance, which mortgagee did not pay off, mortgagor is entitled in law to recover damages from the mortgagee. (1912) 15 Ind Cas 526 (527) (Oudh).

[4] Where money has been left with a vendee or mortgagee in order to discharge some earlier mortgage and such vendee or mortgagee fails to discharge the liability, a cause of action for damages arises immediately and the vendor or mortgagor need not wait until the property is actually sold or until he is sued or a decree is passed against him before bringing a suit for damages. (Vol 23) 1936 All 598 (599) (DB).

[5] Decree assigned—Part consideration left with assignee to be paid to assignor's creditor after decree is realized—Assignee refusing to pay—Suit by creditor of assignor against assignee for his amount is one for compensation for breach of contract and governed by Art. 116. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 155 (157) (DB).

18. Quantum meruit.—[1] A plaintiff cannot claim on quantum meruit if he has chosen to tie himself down with the express terms of an agreement, for a liability by implication is excluded by the contract being express. (Vol 17) 1930 All 545 (549) : 52 All 688 (DB).

[2] If a contract is to do work for a lump sum, nothing can be recovered by way of quantum meruit if part only of the work is done. (1911) 19 Ind Cas 48 (51) (Lah).

19. "Which naturally arose . . . likely to result from the breach of it."—[1] The principles for assessment of damages are : where a party sustains a loss by reason of a breach, he is, so far as money can do it, to be placed in the same situation as if the contract had been performed. This leads to two rules, (1) the damages must be such as may fairly and reasonably be considered as arising naturally, that is, according to the usual course of things from the breach and (2) the damages must fairly be such as could have been in contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract and cannot include compensation for remote or indirect loss or damage. (1907) 6 Cal L Jour 393 (401) (DB).

[2] For awarding damages under S. 73, Contract Act, the loss or damage must arise in the usual course of things from the breach of contract. The law does not regard collateral or consequential damage arising from delay in the receipt of money. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 106 (109) : 1 L R (1943) 1 Cal 578 (DB).

[3] In order that the latter part of S. 73 of the Contract Act may apply, it has to be proved that not only the plaintiff but the defendant also knew, when the contract was made, that such loss was likely to result from the breach. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 103 (107) (DB).

[4] Under S. 73, promisee can recover compensation for any loss or damage caused to him by breach or which parties know as possible result of breach. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 61 (62) : 42 Bom 499.

[5] Marine insurance—"Ware house to ware house" clause—Goods landed at port of destination—Removal to uncleared ware house—Destruction of goods by fire : Held, that it could not be reasonably contended that the destruction of the goods by fire happened in the usual course of things as a result of the negligence or that parties knew that it was likely to result from it. (1909) 3 Sind L R 191 (194).

[6] Defendant, who had covenanted with lessee of mine to reserve barrier between his mine and another one, on breach of covenant was held to be liable for damages which actually accrued to plaintiff and not the loss to which plaintiff might put himself to prevent loss. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 639 (641) (DB).

[7] Where the plaintiff's case was that the father of the defendant did not build the wall which he agreed to build in 15 days, the portion of his house adjoining that wall had been affected adversely by the elements, and that it, therefore, cost him the sum to put his building right : Held, that plaintiff's claim to damages could not be allowed as it was not based on what the damage was within a reasonable period of the breach of the contract and was remote and indirect. (1928) 108 Ind Cas 433 (434) (Nag).

[8] A lessee is not liable for remote damages suffered by his lessor owing to former's default in paying rent to superior landlord and by consequent sale of tenure and loss to lessor because lessor himself might have saved himself from loss by paying rent. (1908) 35 Cal 683 (689).

[9] The law cannot recognize any loss, not naturally following from breach of contract. Where a vendor directed vendee to pay creditor within fixed date in order that vendor might get promised remission, but vendee failed to do so, vendor is not entitled to claim amount as damages. (1913) 18 Ind Cas 449 (450) (DB) (All).

[10] The seller's travelling charges to place of breach for resale of goods are too remote and cannot be recovered as damages under S. 73. (Vol 4) 1917 Sind 36 (37) : 10 Sind L R 118.

[11] For failure to pay debt, plaintiff was sued upon and debt was recovered from him with costs : Held, defendant was not liable for costs of suit as law does not recognize consequential damage by late payment. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 942 (944).

[12] Contract for sale of land—Vendor in breach of contract bringing suit against vendee on ground of title — Costs of such suit incurred by vendee cannot be included in damages to which vendee is entitled. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 146 (148).

[13] A agreed to collect debts and pay out of collection certain debt. On failure to discharge the debt after collection A held liable for loss caused. (Vol 2) 1914 Mad 942 (943).

[14] The words "which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach", in S. 73, Contract Act do not mean that general rules, such as those given in the illustrations to the section, must be followed irrespective of the facts, but only impose a limitation upon the damages which can be allowed. That the damages must not be remote. No doubt, ordinarily, loss or damage will be presumed when a contract at a lower rate of freight than the market rate is broken by the shipowner, but there is nothing in the wording of S. 73 which precludes the rebuttal of such a presumption. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 146 (150, 151).

[15] Where the liability arising out of breach of contract is merely contingent, S. 73 would give no cause of action in respect thereof, unless and until the damage is actually suffered. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB).

[16] The plaintiff sued a railway company for damage caused by non-delivery of a sewing machine at the festival time when he expected to make special profit. The suit was for damages on account of loss of estimated profits, the travelling expenses of himself and his assistants at the place of delivery and expenses for food and lodging : Held, that the damages claimed were too remote. (1898) 21 Mad 172 (176, 177, 178) (DB).

20. Default of plaintiff.—[1] Sections 73 and 74 are meant for benefit of party willing to perform contract and not for defaulting party. (1910) 33 Mad 375 (379) (DB).

[2] A plaintiff, who has failed to perform his part of contract and proved no damages, cannot succeed in a suit for damages for breach of the contract. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 1000 (1000) (DB).

[3] Party to be entitled to compensation must have done something to his own prejudice in performance of his part of the contract. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (132).

[4] A party to a contract cannot be in a better position by reason of his own default than if he had fulfilled his obligations. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 382 (384).

[5] Plaintiff's plea to benefit by his own breach of contract and enforce it against defendants cannot be allowed. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 84 (84) (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 845 (846) : 36 Cr L Jour 737.

[6] Vendor having no goods to deliver is not entitled to compensation for vendee's refusal to take delivery. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (132).

[7] To maintain a suit for damages for alleged breach of contract, the plaintiff should have performed his part of the contract, taken possession of the land, put forward any accounts of the alleged loss and claim damages on that basis alone. It is the duty of plaintiff in such circumstances to mitigate the damages. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 118 (122) (DB).

[8] Mere fact that party has committed breach of term of contract with reference to first instalment, in which goods are to be delivered, does not in itself entitle the other to treat the contract as at an end. But where breach has been such as goes to the root of the contract, the party in default cannot insist on remainder being carried out. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 382 (384) (DB).

[9] A agreed to give B reasonable time to fulfil order placed with him, having regard to exigencies of B's business. The order was however given too late. B not liable to pay damages for not carrying out terms of contract. (1911) 12 Ind Cas 339 (340, 345) (Oudh).

[10] Where the plaintiff was guilty of unjustifiable conduct in not co-operating with the railway in tracing out the lost bale by helping them to identify the same etc., when requested by the railway so to do: Held, that the last day of which the market value should be taken into calculation ought to be the day on which the plaintiff would in ordinary course have received the goods if he had complied with the request of the railway and co-operated with them in tracing out the lost bale. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 737 (739) (DB).

[11] Plaintiff agreeing to construct house for defendant according to estimated cost less certain rebate—Defendant stopping work and settling dues at certain amount—Suit by plaintiff for work actually done —Defendant cannot claim rebate proportionate to rebate upon original estimate. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 538 (538) : 1 L R (1938) 2 Cal 320 (DB).

[12] The doctrine of frustration only applies if the disturbing cause goes to the extent of substantially preventing the performance of the whole contract : "interference leaving a considerable part capable of performance, will not be an excuse." (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 204 (238) : 19 Pat 1.

21. Proof of damages.—[1] Section 73 makes it compulsory for the plaintiff to prove that he has suffered damage and the extent to which he has suffered before a Court can award him damages for breach of contract, and if he does not give the best evidence, every presumption should be made against him, but this does not relieve the Court altogether of the duty of assessing the damages, as best it can, on evidence and materials actually before it. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 49 (52) : 19 Sind L R 41 (Vol 5) 1918 P C 149 (150) (PC) (Vol 2) 1915 All 295 (297).

[2] In a suit for damages for a breach of contract, the defendant is entitled to know exactly what case he has to meet and he must be afforded an opportunity to investigate the details of the claim so that he can call evidence about it if he can, and so he can attack the plaintiff's estimate of damages, as well as the basis on which it is grounded. The plaintiff must consequently furnish the necessary particulars. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 530 (531).

[3] The rule, that in a suit for work done by a contractor against his employer, it is for the plaintiff to prove his claim and if the evidence he has produced is not reliable, he can get nothing beyond what the defendant has admitted, can hardly be applied to a case where the defendant is a railway company and the defendant's measurements were not properly made and the defendant has not been able to produce all relevant materials in connection with the measurements that the defendant made. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 165 (167) (DB).

[4] The amount of damages must be established with reasonable certainty. But this does not mean that absolute certainty is required nor, in all cases, is there a necessity for direct evidence as to the amount. Where the defendant has, by his wrong, put it out of the plaintiff's power to prove the quantum of damage exactly, the presumption is against the defendant and the burden is upon him to reduce the amount from the highest possible estimate. Only such approximation to certainty is required as would satisfy the mind of a prudent and impartial person. Where there has undoubtedly been an infringement of a right, nominal damages are recoverable even though no actual damage can be proved. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 49 (50, 51, 52) (DB).

[5] In a breach of contract to sell immovable property, the market value of the land is what it will fetch in the open market. In such a case earlier sales of the same property or comparison with other similar plots in the locality will also help in ascertaining the value. (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 197 (199) : 15 Sind L R 21.

[6] It is open to the Judge of the Small Cause Court to assess the damages for bailee's negligence, even in the absence of more definite evidence as to the extent of the negligence which he has found to be proved. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 356 (358).

[7] Contract for delivery at a place — Plaintiff producing no evidence to show market rate at the place — Plaintiff is not entitled to damages. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 59 (60).

22. Date when damages become due. —

[1] Damages for breach of contract become due on the date when the contract is broken. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 39 (41).

[2] If contract was to do work for lump sum, price could not be recovered until work was completed. (1913) 19 Ind Cas 48 (51) (Low Bur).

[3] Where, even after the date originally fixed for delivery, the seller continued to supply and the purchaser to receive the contracted goods: Held, that on evidence that there was an extension of time granted, and as delivery was going on, it was not open to the seller to fall back upon the date originally fixed for delivery as the date for assessing damages. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 624 (625) (DB).

[4] Where a term in a contract provided that the delivery of the goods should be given as and when they arrived at A and the goods arrived at A on December 2, 1942 and the buyers demanded delivery on December 9, 1942 and the demand was not complied with : Held, that the contract was broken on December 2, 1942, when the delivery should have been made, and that it was the date to be taken for the assessment of damages. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 418 (418, 419) : 1 L R (1945) Mad 180 (DB).

[5] Where a contract is made by defendant that certain goods shall be delivered at a certain place to the plaintiff, but the time of delivery is not given in the contract, the plaintiff cannot extend the time for delivery beyond a reasonable period so as to suit his own convenience while calculating the amount of damages for breach. But if goods are delivered and accepted after long delay, it is open to the plaintiff to say that he would put an end to the contract on a particular date so as to calculate damages from that date. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1232 (1234).

[6] Where a contract is made in English currency the date for calculation of damages is the date of the breach, and the date on which the rate of exchange is to be taken for conversion is the date on which the money was to be paid and that the rate of interest is that fixed in the contract. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 265 (267, 268) : 1 Rang 339 (DB).

[7] There can be no action for breach of contract unless damage has actually been suffered. Action by the judgment-debtor therefore commenced before the judgment-debtor has paid the amount due by him to the decree-holder twice over is not maintainable. (Vol 20) 1933 All 511 (512).

[8] The section does not give any cause of action unless and until the damage is actually suffered. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB) (1908) 10 Bom L R 1113 (1123, 1124, 1125).

23. Suit for specific performance. — [1] Where a plaintiff claiming specific performance prays in the alternative for the return of moneys expended by him and for other proper relief, the prayer is wide enough to include a claim for compensation for breach of contract in substitution for its performance. (91) 1891 Pun Re No. 83, page 408 (413) (DB). (Sale-deed not registered— Suit for specific performance — Although proof of contract is excluded, compensation for breach may be given.)

74. ^a[When a contract has been broken, if a sum is named in the contract as the amount to be paid in case of such breach, or if the contract contains any other stipulation by way of penalty, the party complaining of the breach is entitled, whether or not actual damage or loss is proved to have been caused thereby, to receive from the party who has broken the contract reasonable compensation not exceeding the amount so named, or, as the case may be, the penalty stipulated for.]

Explanation. — A stipulation for increased interest from the date of default may be a stipulation by way of penalty.]

Exception. — When any person enters into any bail-bond, recognizance, or other instrument of the same nature, or, under the provisions of any law or under the orders of the ^b[Central Government] or of any ^c[Provincial Government], gives any bond for the performance of any

Section 73 (contd.)

[2] Specific performance not granted for special reasons to party entitled—Party is entitled to damages in lieu thereof. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 163 (165).

24. Defences to suit for damages.—[1] Where the buyer wrongfully cancels the contract without justification, he cannot set up any defence which he might otherwise have done to any action for damages. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 181 (182).

[2] A party, who by his conduct makes a performance of the contract impossible, is deprived of his rights to recover anything by way of damages from the other party. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 119 (120).

[3] Where there is a contract subject to condition that the plaintiff may, upon a breach of it, treat it as cancelled and not ask for damages, the defendants are bound to justify their refusal to perform the contract since they cannot themselves bring about the state of affairs which would avoid the contract. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 435 (442) * (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 44 (44, 45) : 46 Bom 806 (DB).

25. "Obligation resembling those created by contract." — [1] I, under-proprietor of entire village, selling some land to defendants—Subsequently J mortgaging all his interest in village to plaintiff—Mortgagor to pay revenue then payable and any amount by which it might be enhanced at any future settlement—Settlement officer, subsequently, enhancing amount of rent payable to superior proprietor by defendants—Plaintiff being required to pay whole of under-proprietary rent to superior proprietor, claiming against defendants amount of enhanced rent—Defendants, held, were under "obligation resembling those created by contract" within S. 73 and were, therefore, liable as in action for damages for breach of express contract. (1903) 6 Oudh Cas 346 (350).

26. Plaintiff's duty to mitigate loss — Explanation. — [1] Implementing of contract is a part of the general law and is also recognised by the explanation to S. 73 of the Act. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 84 (85) : 11 Low Bur Rul 326 (DB).

[2] The explanation to S. 73 casts a burden upon the person complaining of the breach of contract to show that he did not possess means of remedying the inconvenience caused by the non-performance of the contract. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 17 (22). 18 Luck 327 (DB).

[3] There is a duty cast upon the plaintiff to minimise the damage, if he could, but the burden of proving that the plaintiff had the means available, and did not take steps to avail himself of the means would lie heavily on the defendant. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 261 (262, 263) (DB).

[4] Tenant agreeing to pay Government revenue and cess failing to pay it — Landlord having notice of intended sale, but taking no steps to avoid it by paying necessary dues — Sale taking place — Landlord is entitled to damages for breach of contract. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 88 (89) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 All 481 (490) : 50 All 695 (D B) * (Vol 2) 1915 P C 48 (49) : 8 Low Bur Rul 343 : 45 Cal 493 : 43 Ind App 6 (P C) * (1911) 9 Ind Cas 470 (471, 472) (Low Bur).

[5] Party is not entitled to damages for breach of contract if he might have avoided loss by the use of reasonable precautions. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 601 (605) (DB).

[6] A plaintiff who sues for damages owes the duty of taking all reasonable steps to mitigate the loss consequent upon the breach and cannot claim as damages any sum which is due to his own neglect. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 28 (30, 31) : 49 Bom 25 (DB).

[7] The duty to minimise damages arises where breach has occurred. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 427 (432) (DB).

[8] Where plaintiffs could have taken delivery earlier and avoided deterioration of goods, it was held that they had failed to do what they might have done to "remedy the inconvenience." (1911) 9 Ind Cas 470 (471) (Low Bur.)

[9] If at the date of breach plaintiff could do something to mitigate damage, defendant is entitled to benefit of it. But the fact that by reason of loss of contract which defendant has failed to perform plaintiff obtains the benefit of another contract which is of value to him does not entitle the defendant to the benefit of the latter contract. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 48 (49, 50); 43 Cal 493 : 8 Low Bur Rul 343 : 43 Ind App 6 (P C).

[10] Principle on which damages for breach of contract are assessed is laid down in S. 73, and explanation to that section shows that means which existed for remedying the inconvenience caused should be taken into consideration. (1902) 1 Low Bur Rul 21 (22) * (1928) 109 Ind Cas 335 (335, 336) (Lah).

public duty or act in which the public are interested, he shall be liable, upon breach of the condition of any such instrument, to pay the whole sum mentioned therein.

(a) A contracts with B to pay B, Rs. 1000 if he fails to pay B, Rs. 500 on a given day. A fails to pay B Rs. 500 on that day. B is entitled to recover from A such compensation, not exceeding Rs. 1,000, as the Court considers reasonable.

(b) A contracts with B that, if A practises as a surgeon within Calcutta, he will pay B, Rs. 5,000. A practises as a surgeon in Calcutta. B is entitled to such compensation, not exceeding Rs. 5,000, as the Court considers reasonable.

(c) A gives a recognizance binding him in a penalty of Rs. 500 to appear in Court on a certain day. He forfeits his recognizance. He is liable to pay the whole penalty.

(d) A gives B a bond for the repayment of Rs. 1,000 with interest at 12 per cent. at the end of six months with a stipulation that, in case of default, interest shall be payable at the rate of 75 per cent. from the date of default. This is a stipulation by way of penalty, and B is only entitled to recover from A such compensation as the Court considers reasonable.

(e) A who owes money to B, a money-lender, undertakes to repay him by delivering to him 10 maunds of grain on a certain date, and stipulates that, in the event of his not delivering the stipulated amount by the stipulated date, he shall be liable to deliver 20 maunds. This is a stipulation by way of penalty, and B is only entitled to reasonable compensation in case of breach.

(f) A undertakes to repay B a loan of Rs. 1,000 by five equal monthly instalments, with a stipulation that, in default of payment of any instalment, the whole shall become due. This stipulation is not by way of penalty, and the contract may be enforced according to its terms.

(g) A borrows Rs. 100 from B and gives him a bond for Rs. 200 payable by five yearly instalments of Rs. 40, with a stipulation that, in default of payment of any instalment, the whole shall become due. This is a stipulation by way of penalty.]

damages must be the result of a "genuine pre-estimate of damages." They do not include a sum fixed in terrorem. (Vol 28) 1941 PC 101 (103) (PC).

[2] The distinction between penalty and liquidated damages has been abolished by the Indian Contract Act and now in every case (except bail bonds or where the bond is given for the performance of any public duty or act in which the public are interested, in which a sum is named as damages to be paid in case of breach of contract), the Court, which tries the suit, is not bound to award more than 'reasonable compensation' not exceeding the amount so named. (83) 1883 Pun Re No. 150, page 452 (453) (FB) & (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 285 (287: 60 Cal 1879 & (Vol 16) 1929 PC 179 (180) (PC). (The effect of S. 74 is to disentitle the plaintiffs to recover simpliciter the sum named in the contract as due and payable as on breach, whether penalty or liquidated damages.) & (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 557 (568) (D B) & (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 896 (906) : 38 Mad 178 (F B) & (94) 1894 Pun Re No. 99, page 864 (369) (DB) & (1858) 5 All 238 (241, 242) (DB) & (1883) 9 Cal 689 (692) (DB) & (1881) 3 Mad 224 (228) (DB).

[3] The addition of the words "or if the contract contains any other stipulation by way of penalty" to S. 74, by Amendment Act in 1899 has considerably enlarged the scope of the section and has the effect of getting rid of all subtle technicalities on the application of the equitable principle regulating the duty of the Court to relieve against penalties. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 5 (6) (DB).

[4] There cannot be a stipulation by way of penalty unless there is another antecedent promise. For a sum to be treated as a penalty it must be an amount to be paid in case of a breach of an antecedent promise. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 574 (576) (DB). (Contract to pay heavy rate of interest is not by itself a stipulation by way of penalty and cannot be relieved against under S. 74 : see also note "where rate of interest is exorbitant.")

[5] Penalty in S. 74 means only a separate payment—Re-taking of chattel and retention of moneys already paid under seizure clause in hire-purchase agreement is not separate and extraneous payment and does not amount to a penalty within the meaning of S. 74. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 193 (196) : 8 Rang 236 (DB).

[6] The word 'penal' implies that there is a main contract and a subsidiary contract, providing for some more drastic consequences (e. g., liability to pay something more than the debtor would be liable to pay under the primary contract) in the event of the breach of the original and main contract. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 200 (201) & (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 31 (36) (D B) & (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 291 (295) : 8 Luck 707 (D B). (Case of condition subsequent—To constitute the existence of penalty, it is only necessary to establish the element of punishment, however well deserved or temperate such punishment might be.) & (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 306 (315) : 54 Bom 381. (The Court may, however, carry out the terms of the secondary contract, if such a contract is just and reasonable but is not bound to.) & (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 378 (379, 380) (D B) & (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 31 (42) (DB).

[See also (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 234 (235).]

[7] Where a contract is for payment of a larger sum with a concession enabling a smaller sum to be paid in a particular way in full satisfaction, the law relating to penalties and S. 74 do not apply. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 370 (372) : 58 Bom 610 & (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 403 (405) (DB) & (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 234 (235) & (1909) 2 Ind Cas 850 (851) (DB) (Mad).

[See also (Vol 16) 1929 All 558 (559) (DB). (The term penalty cannot be properly applied where all that is agreed between the parties is that they shall revert to situation existing immediately prior to the new agreement, even though that may involve liability on the part of one of them for a sum greater than if he had carried out the agreement.)]

[8] Whatever may be the expression used in a contract in describing the payment to be made in case of a breach, the question must always be whether the construction contended for renders the agreement unconscionable and extravagant, and one which no Court ought to allow to be enforced. (1912) 16 Cal W N 697 (700) (PC). (Case from Ceylon.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 177 (179). (Where reasonable compensation for breach is provided, there is no penalty; but where it is in terrorem, it is penalty.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 796 (799) : 42 Cal 652 (DB) * (1909) 14 C P L R 49 (52). (One of the best tests, in practice being to see whether the stipulation would be wholly unreasonable, if regarded as an integral part of the contract.)

[9] Questions as to unconscionable bargains must be decided on the provisions of the Contract Act, as amended in 1899 and on these alone. Principles of the English Courts of equity are entirely inapplicable. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 249 (250, 251) : 1918 Pun Re No. 124 (P C).

[10] It is impossible to lay down any abstract rule as to what may or may not be extravagant, or unconscionable. It must be decided with reference to the particular facts and circumstances, which are established in each individual case. [2] Before the introduction of the Explanation in 1899, it was held, in the following cases, that when the higher rate of interest was payable as from the date of default (and not as from date of contract) the contract rate was enforceable—S. 74 did not apply, since no sum was named : (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 231 (236) : 2 Pat 296 (DB). 7. Where the rate of interest is exorbitant.

[1] There cannot be stipulation by way of penalty unless there is another antecedent promise. What S. 74 means is that for a sum to be treated as a penalty it must be payable in case of a breach of an antecedent promise. A heavy rate of interest is not itself penal and cannot be relieved against. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 574 (577) (DB).

[2] Where the transaction was, undoubtedly, improvident, but there is no evidence to show that the money-lender had unduly taken advantage of his position it is difficult for Court of Justice to give relief on grounds of hardship. [6] An agreement to pay interest at the rate of Rs. 12-12-0 per cent. per annum is not unconscionable nor can such an agreement become so, merely because there is stipulation to pay compound interest, at the same rate, in the event of there being a default in the payment of the simple interest agreed upon. [10] The circumstances in which a loan is incurred must be considered to determine whether a provision for compound interest agreed to be paid by a Hindu widow is reasonable or not — Borrowing of money at 12 per cent. compound interest by a widow for necessity held not unreasonable. 8. "Reasonable compensation." — [1] S. 74 recognises the right to reasonable compensation on breach of contract, which must mean same sort of compensation however small. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 205 (208) : ILR (1937) Nag 367.

[2] Whatever the distinction between liquidated damages and penalty may be, S. 74 is broad enough to include both classes of cases and the section gives wide discretion to the Court, in the assessment of damages, even in cases, where the parties to the contract have, in anticipation of the breach, expressly determined by agreement the sum payable as damages for the breach. Court is not bound to award the entire amount agreed upon and at the same time cannot decree damages exceeding the amount previously agreed upon by the parties. There is no specific limitation for the reduction of amount payable as damages, though the words "reasonable compensation" necessarily imply that the discretion must be exercised with care, caution and on sound principles. (1888) 5 All 238 (241, 242) (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 137 (138) (DB) * (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 428 (428) (DB) * (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 74 (74) * (1921) 62 Ind Cas 759 (760) (DB) (Cal) * (75) 1875 Pun Re No. 3, page 7 (8, 9) (DB).

[3] The damages awarded cannot exceed the sum of money specified in the contract, but can exceed the actual damage or loss proved. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 473 (474).

[4] Higher rate of interest from date of default is penal — In awarding compensation on breach, Court's discretion is not restricted to contract rate. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 457 (459) (DB).

[5] If other evidence and circumstances indicate that the damage equals or is likely to exceed the amount named, then the Court will abide by the amount named. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 285 (287) : 60 Cal 1379 * (Vol 34) 1947 Lah 112 (116) : 1946 48 Pun L R 243 (249) (DB) * (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 33 (34) : 6 Luck 321 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 249 (252) (DB) * (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 64 (65) : 3 Pat 657 (DB) * (Vol 2) 1915 All 40 (41) * (1913) 18 Ind Cas 183 (185) (Low Bur).

[6] If a Court finds the terms of the bond penal and the obligee only entitled to reasonable compensation and if the parties proceed to substitute what in their opinion would be the most reasonable compensation likely to be awarded by Court, such substituted amount would be the amount due. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 794 (796) : 53 Mad 127 (DB).

[7] Under S. 74 the plaintiff must prove his damage in the general sense. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 285 (287) : 60 Cal 1379.

[8] Where the other evidence in the case shows that the amount named in the contract as payable on breach thereof is excessive and unreasonable, the plaintiff will have to prove his damages irrespective of the figure. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 285 (287) : 60 Cal 1379 * (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 57 (58) * (Vol 16) 1929 P C 179 (180) (PC).

[9] The contract made by the parties is in itself evidence and if there is no other evidence of damage this evidence alone will be considered sufficient. [10] The sum named in the contract is not conclusive evidence of damages, and if there is other evidence or circumstances showing that it was excessive, the Court will not consider itself bound by it. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 285 (287) : 60 Cal 1379.

[11] Damages which are not direct result of defendant's action, or which are not contemplated cannot be recovered. (Vol 21) 1934 All 525 (526) (DB).

[12] As a general principle, the damages decreed must be commensurate with the injury sustained, when the injury consists of the breach of contract. Court acting upon the above principle would assess damages with a view to restore to the plaintiff such advantage as he might reasonably be expected to have derived from the contract had the breach never occurred. (1883) 5 All 238 (242) (DB).

[13] Enhanced rate from date of default — Held, reasonable compensation, not exceeding the penal rate, should not be less than the original rate. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 162 (162).

[14] A penal rate of interest on a mortgage bond may be reduced but should not be wholly disallowed. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 860 (860) (DB).

[15] The fact that under S. 74 the Court is given power to reduce the rate of interest fixed in a mortgage bond does not make the interest awarded at the reduced rate any less a claim under the bond and the charge created by the bond will be available also for the interest so awarded. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 695 (696) : 53 Mad 266 (DB).

[16] Loan on mortgage payable by yearly instalments with interest — Defaulted instalment to bear compound interest at higher rate — On default of three instalments whole sum to become exigible — Default made — Only simple interest on exigible sum could be awarded. [17] Where a mortgage-deed stipulated interest of twelve annas per cent. per mensem, and in case of default in payment of interest annually, the mortgagor made himself liable to pay interest at the rate of two per cent. per mensem on the unpaid interest till the payment of the entire mortgage money : Held, that the provision for interest on interest was intended only as compensation to the mortgagee in the event of default on the part of the mortgagor, and that if the provision was considered penal, the plaintiff could reasonably claim compensation at the rate charged by him. (Vol 20) 1935 Oudh 81 (82) (DB).

[13] In order to determine the reasonableness of a particular rate of interest, the whole conditions and the terms of lending must be considered together. (Vol 19) 1982 Mad 97 (99) (DB) (Vol 22) 1985 Mad 1072 (1073).

[19] Where the provisions as to interest are penal, it is the duty of the Court to decide what reasonable compensation should be awarded to a creditor, when a default is made by the debtor in the payment as stipulated, and the mere fact that the creditor has himself deemed it advisable to only claim compound interest at a lesser rate than the one provided in mortgage-deed does not necessarily preclude the Court from granting even a lower rate than that. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 120 (122).

[20] Interest—Agreed rate not proved—25 per cent. compound interest claimed—Considerable part of debt made up of previous interest at 25 per cent.—Award of 6 per cent. is not too low. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 450 (451).

[21] Where the plaintiff failed to prove that 24 per cent. per annum with yearly rests was the market rate of interest on the transaction in suit. Held, that the market rate of 12 per cent. per annum, with yearly rests, should be awarded. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 580 (582) : 3 Pat 465 (DB).

[22] Court is not compelled to allow rate of interest, not reserved in contract, but claimed in suit. (Vol 25) 1988 Nag 112 (113) : 1 L R (1988) Nag 91 (DB).

[28] Where a penal rate is a common rate of interest in every day transactions, e. g., a rise from 10½ per cent. per mensem to 12 per cent. per mensem, compound interest, in default, it can be allowed as compensation under S. 74. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 529 (530) (DB).

[24] Under S. 74 a Court cannot enforce a contract by which, if the principal with interest at 12 per cent. is not paid, double the amount shall become payable, even if the interest is to be paid in paddy instead of in money. (1878) 1 Mad 349 (350, 351) (DB).

[25] Where a grain bond provided that on failure to repay at a certain date, the defendant would be liable to pay interest at 37½ per cent. per annum, and the plaintiff waited for six years before enforcing the bond by which time the original claim for Rs. 400 had risen to Rs. 1,700. Held, that the prayer of the plaintiff is not for the performance of the contract but for compensation for breach, and it is the Court's duty to grant compensation, having regard to all the circumstances of the case. (Vol 10) 1928 Lah 452 (453) (DB).

[26] Contract for purchase of property—Penalty in case of breach by vendee—Default by vendee—Default due to failure of vendor to carry out his part of contract — Held, vendor could not ask for enforcement of provision contained in penalty clause—Further even if vendor had not been in default, if no loss was made out by vendor, vendee was not entitled to any relief. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 339 (341) (PC).

[27] Where the contract of sale itself provided that in the event of a breach, Rs. 3,200 were to be paid as damages by the party failing to perform his part of the contract : Held, that in the absence of any equitable ground for interference, the stipulated sum should be decreed as damages. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 284 (286) (DB).

[28] The right of resale, after the breach of contract to purchase, may be allowed as a means of ascertaining damages, subject to the rule of reasonable compensation contained in S. 74, and is not limited to cases where property has passed to the buyer. (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 46 (47) : 9 Sind L R 20.

[29] Certain goods worth Rs. X were contracted to be delivered annually—Held, Rs. X were not the maximum damages that could be paid by way of compensation on breach of agreement, the amount not being

[30] The suppliers of an oil plant entered into stringent guarantees with the purchaser in respect of (a) capacity, (b) efficiency and (c) economy, and by subsequent agreement named a figure as damages to be paid in case of non-fulfilment of the guarantees. On holding tests, the guarantee as to efficiency was not fulfilled. In a suit by the purchaser for damages : Held, that the amount was not excessive or unreasonable and being a genuine pre-estimate of damages, it was awarded. 9. Exception. — [1] Where a person enters into a bond with a District Board under Art. 498 of the Local Fund Code, which provides for forfeiture of the amount, deposited as earnest money or security for the due fulfilment of the contract, the contract falls within the exception to S. 74 of the Contract Act and the whole sum mentioned as penalty is payable. [8] Although the exception says that the person entering into the bond shall be liable upon breach of the bond to pay the whole sum mentioned therein, that does not mean that the Court is bound to exact the whole of the liability to the extent of the amount mentioned in the bond and to pass a decree for the whole amount. The Court's discretion is not entirely taken away and the Court can reduce the amount of the penalty according to the circumstances of the case. 10. Instalments — Illustrations (f) and (g). —

[1] The principle underlying illustration (f) is that the whole of the debt being payable immediately the creditor agrees with the debtor to allow him to pay the amount by instalments so long as he pays them regularly. But the principle underlying illust. (g) is that debtor by paying consideration gets the right to retain and use the amount of each instalment until the date of its becoming due and payable. If therefore in such a case the debtor commits breach and fails to pay one instalment, no doubt he becomes liable to pay to the creditor damages for breach but to be called upon to pay the whole of the balance in spite of the fact that he has given consideration for withholding the amounts of the other instalments till their respective due dates, would be in the nature of a penalty. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 177 (180).

[2] An agreement to pay an amount by a given date with condition that on default a larger sum shall be paid is in the nature of a penalty. But if there is an agreement to pay a particular sum followed by a condition allowing to the debtor as for example, the payment of a lesser sum or payment by instalments by a particular date or dates, then the party seeking to avail of the concession must carry out strictly the conditions on which it was granted and there is no power in the Court to relieve him from this obligation. [4] Where the Court finds that the amount of deposit or payment in advance is so great in comparison with the amount payable under the contract that the parties under the stipulation for forfeiture could not have intended it as merely a security for performance, but rather as a punishment for non-performance of the contract, the Court can grant relief against forfeiture. [5] An advance paid in respect of a contract of sale is not liable to forfeiture on default like earnest money. The question whether an amount paid is earnest money or part of the purchase money depends on the real intention of the parties. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 205 (207): 11 Lah 699 (DB) * (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 117 (118) * (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 254 (256) (DB).

[6] There is distinction between the penalty for breach of contract and the forfeiture of a deposit of earnest money. When the latter is a payment actually made, the former is compensation for breach. Section 74 deals with compensation for breach. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 213 (215) (DB).

[7] To come within the principles applicable to earnest money, a deposit must be paid at the time of entering upon the bargain. Those principles cannot be applied to any future payment to be made under the contract. An earnest is something paid or given at the time of the bargain to show that negotiation had been changed into a binding contract, and as a pledge for its due performance by the depositor to be forfeited in case of non-performance by his default. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 104 (111): 12 Nag L R 177 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 817 (818): 53 Mad 141 (DB).

[8] The rule of law applicable to cases of sale which forfeits the deposit in case of contract equally applies to leases also, and there is no essential difference in the characteristics attached to each of these kinds of contracts. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 584 (585, 586). (Where there is an express provision in the contract of lease which stipulates that the deposit which is a part of the rent will be forfeited on the breach of any of the conditions of the lease deed the contract must be given effect to without reference to S. 74 of the Contract Act: 16 Mad 474, Overruled.) * (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 62 (63) (DB).

[9] Per Walsh J.—Where A pays B a sum of money in advance for the performance of a contract at a future date which becomes impossible, so that there is a failure of consideration, B is not entitled to keep A's money in his pocket and A is entitled to recover it under law of equity and good conscience—There is no express provision corresponding to this rule of equity in the Contract Act. [10] Where upon an agreement of sale vendee deposits a sum of money with the vendor, the deposit, unless paid on any special terms, is not merely part-payment but is an earnest. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 679 (680) (DB)

[11] Plaintiff is entitled to a return of the earnest money if the contract gave him the option of withdrawing and if he was not satisfied as to the title of the defendant. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 237 (237).

[12] In order to enable the vendor to forfeit the deposit, there must be acts, on the part of the purchaser, which not only amount to delay sufficient to deprive him of the equitable remedy of specific performance, but which would make his conduct amount to a repudiation on his part of the contract. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 71 (72): 9 Sind L R 137.

[13] Smallness or largeness of deposit is one of the factors in determining whether there was deposit in reality, although it goes by that name in contract. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 584 (586) * (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 223 (224).

amount to cover the actual loss incurred, the plaintiff is entitled to claim only the difference between the loss incurred by him and the deposit money. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 485 (485) : 38 Mad 801 (FB). (On appeal from 1913 M W N 1023.)

[18] In a suit to recover money advanced towards a contract for the supply of goods the party making the advance is not entitled to interest from the date of the advance on the ground that the contract was not performed, when the contract did not provide for it and when no demand was made before suit. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 99 (100) : 50 Mad 94 (FB).

[19] The incidents of earnest-money have no application to a contract when money is advanced to supplier on the understanding that the original advance was to be adjusted immediately or in the final settlement. The purchaser is entitled to the balance remaining with the supplier. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 281 (282 283).

[20] Agreement to purchase—Mere fact that deposit is demanded implies that if the contract is broken it should be forfeited. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 246 (247).

[21] Where the conditions of sale of land by a Town Improvement Trust were that 10 per cent. of the purchase money was to be paid immediately and that on failure to pay the remainder in a fixed time, the property was to be re-sold : Held, that the trust was not entitled to the difference in price resultant on re-sale but only to the 10 per cent. deposit. (Vol 2) 1915 All 388 (389) : 38 All 52 (DB).

[22] Where a lease provides that the lessee shall be entitled to make alterations on the premises, subject to replacing them and, as security for replacing the alterations and rent, shall deposit certain amount which would be liable to be forfeited in case of non-observance of the terms, the clause relating to forfeiture does not amount to a stipulated penalty. In case of breach, in a suit by the other party for damages, credit for the amount forfeited must be given. Only the difference between the actual loss and the amount forfeited can be recovered. There is no difference between a suit for damages for breach of contract and a suit merely for value of damages caused. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 357 (358).

[23] For recovery of earnest money, see also under S. 18 (d) of the Specific Relief Act.

13. Forfeiture of salary. — [1] A stipulation in a contract of service that a servant should pay by way of damages double his daily wages for absence without leave is a penalty. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 95 (95) (DB).

[2] Where the plaintiff, a monthly hired workman in the service of the defendant Company, agreed that he should give 15 days' notice before leaving the company's service and in default, forfeit all arrears of wages, there was nothing illegal, nothing contrary to public policy in the stipulation. The plaintiff, by leaving the service without giving the required notice, forfeited all the wages that had not become payable though due to him. S. 74 had no application to the case. (1898) 2 Cal W N 687 (688, 689).

[3] Contract of service — Stipulation that employee shall pay £250 as liquidated damages in case he left service before a fixed period — Breach of contract by employee—Suit for damages—Held that the Court could award the full sum stipulated without proof of actual damage or loss and that the lower Court's assessment of damages at Rs. 900 was unreasonably small — Rs. 2000 awarded as the proper sum. (1885) 11 Cal 545 (550) (DB).

14. Breach of promise of marriage. — [1] Breach of promise of marriage — Parents promising to return double the value of the gifts given to the girl at the betrothal—Courts should grant reasonable compensation only. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 198 (198) : 11 Rang 143 (DB).

[2] It is doubtful whether the full amount named in the agreement should not be given. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 45 (47) : 8 Low Bur 399 (DB).

15. Pledge. — [1] The agreement that the pledge should become irredeemable if not redeemed after three months is not a stipulation by way of penalty. Even if it were an unfair agreement that would not in itself constitute it an agreement by way of penalty unless perhaps it could be shown that the value of the thing pledged was so very much larger than the amount of the loan that it would become obvious that the clause is really inserted as a means of bringing pressure upon the pledger to repay the loan within the contracted time. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 413 (415, 416).

16. Compromise decree. — [1] A compromise being an agreement is subject to S. 74 and to the equitable relief which the Court can give under that provision, notwithstanding that the compromise is embodied in a decree. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 234 (235) (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 33 (36) (DB) (Vol 33) 1946 Sind 150 (151, 152) : ILR (1946) Kar 132 (Vol 33) 1943 Sind 247 (250) : ILR (1943) Kar 245 (DB) (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 185 (187) (DB) (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 413 (415) (Vol 20) 1933 All 252 (254) : 55 All 334 (FB). ((Vol 11) 1924 All 689 : 46 All 571, Overruled.) (Vol 13) 1926 All 278 (280) (DB) (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 264 (264) (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1807 (1809) (DB) (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 18 (18) (DB).

[2] The true test for deciding the question whether the provision relating to the payment of a larger amount than the amount decreed on compromise on default by the judgment-debtor to perform any of the conditions of the decree is or is not a penal clause depends on a determination of the question whether or not the larger amount was actually due to the decree-holder at the time of the compromise; in other words, whether the decree-holder is merely withdrawing a conditional concession granted by him to the judgment-debtor or whether he is attempting to recover an amount which was not actually due to him. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 659 (662).

[3] Where a consent decree provides that in default of payment by the defendant on certain date of a certain smaller sum of money than is claimed to be due, the defendant shall pay to the plaintiff the larger sum claimed and which is really due plus the costs of the suit with interest at 9 per cent. per annum, time is not only the essence of such contract but it is also its whole consideration and such decree cannot amount to a penalty. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 98 (100, 102) : 23 Sind LR 375 (DB).

[4] Compromise mortgage decree—Provision to pay by instalments—In default whole amount realisable by sale of property without getting final decree—Instalment due on a particular date not paid — Permission to deposit money within three days granted—Money accordingly deposited—Notice issued to decree-holder — Held, judgment-debtor could not derive benefit of O. 34, R. 4 (2), Civil P. C. — Further held that provision to sell property in case of default in payment of instalment, not being penal, could not be relieved against. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 44 (45) : 9 Luck 387 (DB).

[5] Where in execution of a consent decree, the executing Court decides that a certain clause in the decree is not penal and does not fall under S. 74 of the Contract Act, and there has been no appeal from the decision, the question cannot be gone into in subsequent execution, even though reliance is placed not on S. 74 of Contract Act but generally on S. 47 of Civil P. C. (Vol 33) 1946 Sind 150 (151, 152) : ILR (1946) Kar 132.

17. Chit fund. — [1] Terms of a chit fund can be penal. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1105 (1107).

[2] In order to determine whether a clause in a bond by the bidder in the case of a chit fund transaction is a penalty or not, it is irrelevant to consider whether the amount of the chit that he buys and the amount of the instalments that he undertakes to pay are or are not the same. To hold that the obligation to pay the lump sum on failure to pay an instalment is a penalty would have the effect of relieving the purchaser of the chit fund from his obligation to carry out the contract that he has made and to pay the consideration that he has offered at the time of the auction. It can make no difference that the amount of the bond is larger than the amount of the chit fund. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 385 (386) (DB).

[3] Chit fund—Subscriber buying the chit—Security bond in favour of stake-holder — Provision to pay all future instalments in lump on default to pay any, not penal. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 657 (658) (DB) (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 252 (255).

[4] Where a chit agreement provided that in case the subscribers failed to pay their subscriptions regularly, they were not only to forfeit the dividend but were also to pay the whole amount on demand with interest thereon from the date of auction: Held, that the agreement was not penal. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 67 (69) (DB) (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 725 (726).

18. Landlord and tenant. — [1] Kabuliat — Covenant to pay higher rent if the lessee continues in possession after the term provided by the kabuliat expires—Case does not come within the meaning of S. 74 because it is not an attempted enforcement of the payment of a sum of money on failure to perform an act which the party has contracted nor a penalty payable on the performance of an act forbidden by the contract. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 62 (63) (Vol 21) 1934 All 115 (116, 117). (Owner notifying tenant of enhancement in rent—Tenant vacating premises after three months of being notified is liable to pay enhanced rent but not for damages for breach of contract, as he did not break any contract.) [2] Landlord and tenant — Increased rent reserved in case lessee commits breach of covenant in lease deed — Such increased rent is not penalty but is in nature of liquidated damages — Acceptance of original rent by lessor with knowledge of breach — He does not lose his right to recover higher rent subsequently, though he cannot recover for periods for which he has already received lower rent — Even if it is penalty, Courts cannot relieve against it. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 335 (337) : 58 Mad 856.

[3] A stipulation for payment of interest on non-payment of rent within a certain time is not always penal. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 722 (723) (DB).

[4] In absence of proof of coercion or undue influence a tenant is liable to pay the rent with the interest provided in the kabuliat. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 332 (333).

[5] Where a clause in the lease provided that interest at a certain rate per month should be paid in default,

S. 74 does not apply. (1910) 13 Cal L Jour 593 (594) (DB) (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 772 (772). (Interest and damages payable on default — Stipulation even if penal will not be relieved against.) (A landlord is entitled to recover interest at the rate stipulated in the contract though the rate is penal, hard and unconscionable.)

[6] Although the Courts should not lightly interfere with contracts between landlords and tenants in case of permanent mokarrari leases, a stipulation to pay 75 per cent. interest besides full damages is an unconscionable one and should not be enforced. (Richardson J. dissenting :—Stipulation ought to be enforced according to its true construction. The mere fact that the interest is high is, in the circumstances, no ground for relief.) [7] Stipulation to forfeit 6 months' rent, held as deposit, on breach of terms held not penal as S. 74 does not apply to forfeiture of deposit. Unreasonableness of the amount is the test of penalty. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 36 (37) (DB).

[8] Provision in kabuliyat for a certain rate of interest in case of single default and enhanced rate in the event of consecutive defaults is penal. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 16 (17).

[9] Paddy rent payable by fixed time — Stipulation to pay half as much again in default is stipulation by way of penalty — Landlord will get only reasonable compensation. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 111 (111) : 58 Cal 84 (DB).

[10] A covenant for re-entry on alienation by a lessee is not a penalty. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 12 (13) : 42 Mad 654 (DB).

[11] Where there was a contract for the sale of a ryoti land with transferable and heritable rights and title was clear and the vendee resiled from the contract, the vendor was deemed entitled to receive reasonable compensation for the breach, irrespective of the fact whether he sustained any actual loss or not. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 783 (784).

[12] Deposit in a lease contract interest on which is to be credited towards rent and the deposit to satisfy arrears of rent is no legal deposit where there was no recitation of forfeiture in the contract. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 817 (818, 819) : 53 Mad 141 (DB).

19. Penal stipulations — Illustrative cases. —

[1] Where the agreement stated that "if I fail to pay agreeably to the condition written, then the remission made by you under the amicable settlement is not to hold good", it will be a stipulation by way of penalty. (1861) 8 Moo Ind App 239 (261) (PC).

[2] Usufructuary mortgage — No interest on principal—On default of mortgagor to deliver possession of a small part of property, simple interest on whole principal payable — On default of mortgagor to pay simple interest within one year, compound interest payable : Held that stipulation for payment of simple interest and compound interest on the entire sum advanced on mortgagor's failure to deliver only $\frac{1}{4}$ th property mortgaged, was unconscionable. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 252 (253) : 13 Lah 542 (DB).

[3] Vendee agreeing that in case of default of payment to the prior mortgagees by the mentioned date, he would be liable to pay Rs. 15,000 as damages to the vendor : Held that the sum was in the nature of a penalty. (Vol 21) 1934 All 406 (422) : 56 All 766 (FB).

Party rightfully rescinding contract entitled to compensation.

75. A person who rightfully rescinds a contract is entitled to compensation for any damage which he has sustained through the non-fulfilment of the contract.

Illustration

A, a singer, contracts with B, the manager of a theatre, to sing at his theatre for two nights in every week during the next two months, and B engages to pay her 100 rupees for each night's performance. On the sixth night, A wilfully absents herself from the theatre, and B, in consequence, rescinds the contract. B is entitled to claim compensation for the damage which he has sustained through the non-fulfilment of the contract.

[4] Mortgage — Mortgagee in possession to appropriate rents and profits (net income of Rs. 250 per year) in lieu of interest — Stipulation that on default in payment of principal on due date, mortgagee would be entitled to usufruct plus interest at 1 p.c. p.m.—Stipulation held penal. (Vol 18) 1926 Nag 473 (474).

[5] Defendant agreeing to pay at Rs. 10 per month and at Rs. 15 on default for four consecutive months—Provision held penal. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 175 (176) (DB).

[6] Contract to lend paddy — Interest in paddy and whole to be finally converted into money — Rate of paddy varying in different years — Contract is penal. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 899 (902) (DB).

[7] Mining rights in land sold by its owner — Sale deed providing that vendor would pay land assessment, and in default, vendee by paying same would be absolute owner of property — Covenant was penal. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 304 (305) (DB).

[8] Where a plaintiff borrowed money on a mortgage bond which stipulated that the debt was to be satisfied within a specified period, failing which the creditors were to take possession of the mortgaged land outright for Rs. 600 made up of Rs. 300 principal and Rs. 300 penalty for breach of contract, and in the absence of proof of conduct of the parties to favour the supposition that when they executed the document they really believed that the right of redemption would be extinguished on failure of the stipulated payment, held that an extortionate stipulation was a penalty. [9] Agreement for the due maintenance of village irrigation — Samudyam land to be under management of main pattadar — Kists thereon to be paid by several pattadars proportionately — On default, double to be recovered from defaulters—Clause held penal. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 593 (602).

[10] Compromise of doubtful rights — Agreement by defendants to pay Rs. 27,500 if they failed to pay Rs. 12,500 by certain date — Stipulation held in the nature of penalty. (1909) 3 Ind Cas 933 (934) (DB) (Mad).

[12] Provision for surrender of possession of field in case default in the payment of yearly maintenance was made — Provision is penal. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 60 (63) : 27 Nag L R 24.

[13] When one of the terms of the agreement amounts to a bonus to the seller on every broken contract, and it is accordingly an advantage to the seller to have every contract broken and to delay making a claim for the breach as long as the law of limitation will allow, such a term operates as a penalty for breach of contract within the meaning of S. 74. [14] Compromise during execution — Decree-holder agreeing to accept smaller amount in full satisfaction if paid within two months or on default the decree-holder to proceed with execution without any objection being raised by judgment-debtor — Time is the essence of the contract and the stipulation is not penalty — Court will not relieve against forfeiture on the judgment-debtor's default. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 542 (544) : 16 Pat 395 (DB).

[15] Where a mortgagor voluntarily and in pursuance of a deliberate bargain, enters into an agreement to pay commission to the mortgagee and pays the amount, the mortgagor cannot avoid his liability for the commission paid. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 31 (39) (DB).

[16] Where it is mentioned in the compromise decree that a certain amount was due to the plaintiff and that it would be paid by the execution of a sale-deed in his favour, the agreement transferring the property for the payment of the decretal amount cannot be called a stipulation by way of penalty. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 1 (5) : 17 Luck 249 (DB).

[17] Right of re-sale stipulated under certain conditions—Not penal. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 265 (265) : 25 Oudh Cas 186.

[18] On partition a coparcener agreed to get an annuity on failure of which he was to resume his share : Held the provision was not penal. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 84 (85).

[19] Adjustment of decrees providing that decree would be satisfied on payment of a smaller sum than originally claimed—Portion paid immediately—Balance to be paid within fixed date—Stipulation that on default decree-holder will realise it (decree) by execution — Default : Held that in absence of express stipulation that in case of non-payment amount remitted would not be allowed, whole amount of original decree could not be claimed in execution by way of penalty. ('37) 65 Cal L Jour 210 (211).

SECTION 75 — Note 1

[1] The damages are awarded as a pecuniary compensation for the injury which a party sustains as a result of a default by the other party — The party to be entitled to compensation must have done something to his own prejudice in the performance of his part of the contract — Where, therefore, the vendor had no goods to deliver, he suffered no injury by the breach of the vendee refusing to take delivery and was not entitled to any damages. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 129 (132).

[2] When a contract for sale does not provide a penalty, the right of the seller to damages, on the failure of the buyer to complete payment, will arise under S. 73 or S. 74 and is something quite independent of the amount of any part payment made. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 37 (39) : ILR (1941) Kar 495 (DB).

[3] Contract — Damages — Anticipatory breach — Injured party can either rescind it or elect to treat it as continuing—Damages are to be assessed not from date of breach but from date on which it was rescinded. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 289 (293) : I L R (1938) Nag 81.

[4] Mahomedan marriage — Negotiations concluded by pan rusum—Subsequent discovery that bride suffered from epileptic fits—Bridegroom's father can rescind contract but on rescission cannot recover damages for pan rusum expenses as the damages arise out of rescission and not non-fulfilment. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 270 (271, 273) : I L R (1937) Nag 299.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF INDEMNITY AND GUARANTEE.

124. A contract by which one party promises to save the other from loss caused to him by the conduct of the promisor himself, or by the conduct of any other person, is called a "contract of indemnity."

Illustration.

A contracts to indemnify B against the consequences of any proceedings which C may take against B in respect of a certain sum of 200 rupees. This is a contract of indemnity.

Section 75 (contd.)

[5] If, after a voidable contract has been fulfilled, one of the parties discovers facts which if known earlier would entitle him to rescind the same without legal proceedings, he is not bound to sue for a formal rescission of the same before he can claim damages. ('82) 1882 Pun Re No. 60, p. 175 (176) (DB).

[SECTIONS 76 to 123 — Repealed.]

SECTION 124 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Contract of indemnity.
3. Implied contract of indemnity.
4. Contract of indemnity—Effect.
5. Contract of indemnity—Suit on.
6. Contract of indemnity—Discharge of.
7. Limitation—See Limitation Act, Art. 83.

1. Scope.—[1] The expression 'contract of indemnity' in S. 124 has been used in a narrow sense and the general law about contracts of indemnity is much wider than the contract of indemnity as defined in the Contract Act. A contract of fire insurance or marine insurance is always a contract of indemnity though under the Contract Act, it would more properly come under S. 31 defining contingent contracts. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 68 (69) (DB).

[2] Section 124 deals only with one particular kind of indemnity which arises from a promise made by the indemnifier to save the indemnified from the loss caused to him by the conduct of the indemnifier himself or by the conduct of any other person but does not deal with those classes of cases where the indemnity arises from loss caused by events or accidents which do not or may not depend upon the conduct of the indemnifier or any other person, or by reason of liability incurred by something done by the indemnified at the request of the indemnifier. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 302 (303) : ILR (1942) Bom 670 (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 315 (316) : I L R (1940) Bom 552 (DB).

[3] Right to indemnity given by original contract should always be distinguished from right to damages arising from breach thereof. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 43 (44).

[4] In a contract of indemnity there is no privity of contract between surety and debtor while in the case of a contract of guarantee, surety, creditor and principal debtor are parties to the contract. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 19 (20) : 12 Luck 484 (DB).

[5] Forbearance to sue principal at the surety's request is sufficient consideration for promise by surety to pay the amount himself. ('11) 2 Mad W N 145 (145) (DB).

[6] Sections 124 and 125 which deal with the contract of indemnity lay down only the rights of the promisee; the rights of the promisor are not mentioned —

It is a well-known principle of law that where one person has agreed to indemnify another, he will, on making good the indemnity, be entitled to succeed to all the ways and means by which the person indemnified might have protected himself against or reimbursed himself for the loss. This principle is based on natural equity and is of general application. It is an essential part of the law about indemnity and the Contract Act does not impair it. (1890) 14 Bom 299 (303) (DB).

2. Contract of indemnity. — [1] Where property is transferred by a vendor to a vendee with a direction to the vendee to pay off a third person, the transfer may amount to a contract of indemnity. (Vol 25) 1938 All 297 (298, 299) : I L R (1938) All 500 (F B) (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 194 (197) : 17 Pat 751 (DB). (Covenant to pay off prior mortgage debt by vendee.) (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1185 (1186) (DB).

[2] Plaintiffs executing and registering ijara deed in favour of defendants — Defendants agreeing to pay off mortgages executed by plaintiffs — Ijara deed held to be a contract to pay off mortgages and not a contract of indemnity. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 275 (277) : 17 Pat 538 (DB).

[3] An agreement between the seller and the purchaser whereby the consideration for the sale is to be paid by the purchaser to a creditor of the vendor amounts to a contract of indemnity. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 147 (148).

[4] The clause in a registered sale-deed that, "If upon the objection of any one any damage or loss accrues to the vendee, the vendor will be liable" amounts to a contract of indemnity and is not a mere covenant for title and quiet possession. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 388 (388).

[5] Mother and minor daughter entering into contract with firm company — Mother agreeing that minor should do service for company failing which, mother and daughter would compensate loss suffered by Company — Daughter failing to fulfil contract — Suit by Company to recover loss: Held, this was not a contract of indemnity by the mother. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 359 (359) (DB).

[6] Surety's contract with creditor, if not collateral but creating original liability, is contract of indemnity. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 345 (346) : 3 Pat L Jour 396 (DB).

[7] Contract between insurance company and its employee — Increment in salary to be proportionate to increase of business — Contract held could not be construed as contract of guarantee. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 509 (510).

3. Implied contract of indemnity. — [1] A right to indemnify generally arises from contract, express or implied, but it is not confined to cases of contract. A right to indemnity exists where the relation between the parties is such that either in law or equity there is an obligation upon the one party to indemnify the other. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 472 (475) : ILR (1947) Mad 58 (DB).

Rights of indemnity-holder when sued.

125. The promisee in a contract of indemnity, acting within the scope of his authority, is entitled to recover from the promisor—

(1) all damages which he may be compelled to pay in any suit in respect of any matter to which the promise to indemnify applies ;

(2) all costs which he may be compelled to pay in any such suit if, in bringing or defending it, he did not contravene the orders of the promisor, and acted as it would have been prudent for him to act in the absence of any contract of indemnity, or if the promisor authorized him to bring or defend the suit ;

(3) all sums which he may have paid under the terms of any compromise of any such suit, if the compromise was not contrary to the orders of the promisor, and was one which it would have been prudent for the promisee to make in the absence of any contract of indemnity, or if the promisor authorized him to compromise the suit.

[2] It is a general principle of law that when an act is done by one person at the request of another which act in itself is not manifestly tortious to the knowledge of the person doing it and such act turns out to be injurious to the rights of a third party, the person doing it is entitled to an indemnity from him who requested that it should be done. (Vol 25) 1935 P C 191 (192, 193) : I L R (1938) Bom 502 : 65 Ind App 286 : 32 Sind L R 786 (P C) & (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 472 (477) : I L R (1947) Mad 58 (DB).

[3] Purchaser buying properties subject to charge impliedly undertakes to indemnify owner against incumbrance. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 1 (4) : 57 Mad 218 (DB).

4. Contract of indemnity — Effect.—[1] Indemnity clause in a mortgage deed gives a right to the mortgagee to proceed against the mortgagor. (1921) 63 Ind Cas 108 (108) (DB) (Lah).

[2] In a suit on the contract of indemnity the indemnifier must pay taxed costs and also actual costs and reasonable expenses of the litigation. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 588 (389).

[3] Vendor undertaking to indemnify the vendee against litigation — Vendee can claim pleader's fees unless they are unreasonable. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 544 (545) : 43 Mad 898 (DB).

[4] Manager of Hindu joint family cannot claim money, misapplied by him, from members of the family who had contracted to indemnify him for debts incurred for family expenses. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 109 (112) (PC).

[5] Appellant giving letter written on stamped paper to another person desiring him to join in the appeal as co-appellant and undertaking to indemnify him from costs — Letter in the handwriting of appellant and sealed with his seal, though not signed, exonerates co-appellant from demand of costs. (1859) 7 Moo Ind App 148 (159) (PC).

5. Contract of indemnity — Suit on. — [1] Indemnifier cannot sue debtor in his own name for want of privity of contract unless he gets assignment from promisee while surety can. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 544 (551) : 49 Mad 156 (DB).

[2] Contract between A and B—B agreed to indemnify A—A's creditor cannot sue B. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 344 (345) : 60 Bom 954.

[3] A creditor who is not a party to a compromise among the debtors, which contains a contract of indemnity, cannot institute a suit upon that contract. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 457 (457) : 55 Mad 436 (DB).

[4] Cause of action for claim against promisor accrues to promisee when promisee is damaged. Suit before actual loss is premature. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 161 (162, 163) (DB) & (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 974 (974). (Remote chance of being deprived of anything will not entitle person to realise damages from promisor or indemnifier.)

[5] Where under the terms of a sale-deed, the consideration is to be paid by the vendee to a creditor of the vendors, the agreement by the vendee is a contract of indemnity. The indemnifier cannot be called on to make good his promise until the indemnified has incurred actual loss. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 147 (148).

[6] Suit for specific performance of a contract to sell — Property agreed to be sold mortgaged to a third person — Plaintiff who had agreed to purchase the property got a letter whereby the defendant agreed to indemnify the plaintiff against all claims by third person : Held that it is not necessary that actual damage should be caused before plaintiff can act. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 597 (599).

[7] Where the defendant's promise to indemnify is absolute one, an action can be brought the moment there is failure of performance and a plea for non damnificatus would be bad. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 555 (556) : 38 Mad 791 (DB).

[8] Mortgagor paying mortgage amount to mortgagee's alleged heir on indemnity by A can sue A if mortgagee's rightful heir obtains decree against property even before he pays decretal amount. (Vol 6) 1919 All 279 (280) : 41 All 395 (DB).

[9] Where in a suit under a contract or right of indemnity, the real sum due by defendant to plaintiff, for which the latter has obtained a decree, is less than the real loss incurred by defendant, defendant cannot ask for a decree on a third party for this latter sum and the case must proceed on the claim for indemnity as regards that first mentioned sum i. e., the sum for which a decree has been passed. (1921) 59 Ind Cas 16 (16) (Bom).

[10] Assignment of debt — Assignor agreeing to indemnify — Suit against the debtor by the assignee dismissed—He is entitled to be indemnified—Failure to examine a witness in the suit, no bar to the assignee's right of action on the indemnity. (Vol 6) 1918 Mad 353 (359).

6. Contract of indemnity — Discharge of. — [1] R indebted to B and B to H — R paying H with B's authority—H giving credit to B and letter of indemnity to R against losses—Letter is discharged by B obtaining credit from R for the money. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 121 (123) (P C).

7. Limitation. — See Limitation Act, Art. 83.

Section 125 — Note 1

[1] Section 125 is by no means exhaustive. The indemnity-holder has other rights besides those mentioned in S. 125, which deals only with his rights in the event of his being sued. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 802 (803) : I L R (1942) Bom 670 & (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 159 (161) : I L R (1944) 2 Cal 318.

[2] If the indemnity-holder has incurred a liability and that liability is absolute, he is entitled to call upon the indemnifier to save him from that liability and to pay it off. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 302 (303) : I L R (1942) Bom 670.

126. A "contract of guarantee" is a contract to perform the promise, or discharge the liability, of a third person in case of his default. The person who gives "Contract of guarantee," "surety," "principal debtor," and "creditor." the guarantee is called the "surety;" the person in respect of whose default the guarantee is given is called "the principal debtor;" and the person to whom the guarantee is given is called the "creditor." A guarantee may be either oral or written.

[4] Part of purchase money left with vendee for paying vendor's creditors.—It is not covenant by way of indemnity.—On vendee's default, vendor can sue vendee without actual loss. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 367 (368) (DB). (See also under S. 55 (5) (b), T. P. Act.) * (1918) 36 Mad 848 (352) (DD). (Do.)

[5] Indemnity or guarantee need not be in writing.—It may be inferred from conduct.—If person who guarantees on behalf of firm has no authority, he is personally liable. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 50 (50, 51) (DB).

Compelled to pay.—[6] Amount which can be recovered under S. 125 is amount which has been paid, whether under compulsion of adjudication or under terms of proper compromise.—Measure of damages is extent to which promisee has been damaged. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 126 (127, 128) : 15 Nag L R 78.

[7] Indemnifier can be asked to indemnify before person to be indemnified has incurred loss—"Compelled to pay" need not be construed as "already paid." Liability of promisee.—[8] Sum recovered by trustee in bankruptcy of a promisee from promisor in an indemnity contract should be applied exclusively to discharge claim agreed to be indemnified. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 208 (209) : 56 Cal 262.

[9] Plaintiffs were owners of house and lands which were mortgaged. Lands alone were sold to defendant who agreed to indemnify against claims of mortgagees by paying off his mortgage. Plaintiffs also mortgaged house to defendant for sum required to pay off prior mortgage. Money was left with defendant. On failure of defendant to pay off prior mortgage, house and the lands were sold in execution of the mortgage decree. Lands were freed by defendant. But the house was sold and was purchased benami by defendant. Plaintiffs sued defendant for breach of contract to indemnify him: Held, that the defendant was bound to return house to plaintiffs if it was purchased by him benami or, if not purchased benami, he was bound in damages. Plaintiffs were also entitled as damages to all costs to which they were put. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 492 (496).

[16] Vendee agreeing to discharge mortgage on property purchased.—Default.—Cause of action for suit by vendor arises on date fixed in covenant or when fulfilment demanded.—But suit for specific performance is premature in absence of action by mortgagee or damage suffered. [2] A guarantee is a contract to indemnify upon a contingency and the Court is to determine what contingency the parties intended when they executed the contract. (Vol 17) 1980 Cal 17 (19) : 57 Cal 764 (DB).

[3] Suretyship agreement, though supplementary to principal contract (i. e. if principal contract falls agreement of suretyship also falls) is separate and distinct. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 199 (200) : I L R (1940) Kar 347 (D B).

2. Contract of guarantee—Meaning.—[1] The primary idea of suretyship is an undertaking to indemnify if some other person does not fulfil his promise. (Vol 28) 1986 All 327 (332) : 58 All 804 (FB).

[2] A contract of guarantee involves three parties, the creditor, the surety and the principal debtor, and a contract to which those parties are privy. The foundation is the contract between principal debtor and the creditor. Then there must be a contract between the creditor and the surety, by which the surety guarantees the debt. But if those are the only contracts the case is one of indemnity. In order to constitute a contract of guarantee, there must be a third contract, by which the principal debtor expressly or impliedly requests the surety to act as surety. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 815 (316, 317) : I L R (1940) Bom 562 (DB).

[But see (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 530 (531) (DB). (There need not be privity between principal debtor and surety.)]

[3] There can be no contract without a liability enforceable at law. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 197 (199) : 42 Bom 444 (DB).

[4] A contract of guarantee presupposes the existence of a "principal debtor" and no such contract can be made as regards a broker before a sale has taken place when there is no principal debtor in existence in respect of whose default the guarantee can be given. [2] Father mortgaging his separate property and having benefit of whole mortgage loan—Son made party to mortgage deed as party of second part not described as surety, but joining at the request of the mortgagee—Son held in reality to be a surety and entitled to benefit of security to the extent of his contribution towards mortgage debt. [5] Employment contract between insurance company and employee—Increment in salary to be proportionate to increase of business—Contract, held could not be construed as one of the guarantee and that securing of business was not condition precedent to accrual of salary. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 509 (510).

[8] Relative of judgment-debtor offering cheque to decree-holder in satisfaction of claim — Relative is not surety. (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 6 (7) (DB).

[9] Person promising to pay extra rate of interest in consideration of creditor giving time to debtor, without any liability on part of debtor, is not surety. (Vol 17) 1930 All 548 (544) (DB).

[10] Persons who are jointly and severally liable on promissory notes are not sureties. One of two joint promisors paying whole debt cannot claim lien on shares of another held by creditor. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 39 (42) : 55 Mad 949 (DB).

[11] Where on arrest of A by a decree-holder for realising decree-debt, B, relation of A, gives Government promissory notes as security for fulfilment of obligation under decree, there is neither contract of guarantee as contemplated by S. 126, nor any personal liability as surety under S. 145, C. P. C., (1908). This creates only equitable charge on G. P. Notes in favour of decree-holder to secure amount due under decree. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 30 (30) (DB).

[12] Under a sub-brokerage contract, the sub-broker undertook to make good the loss arising out of the default of the constituents introduced by him. By a letter the sub-broker agreed to be liable for an ascertained amount due from the various constituents introduced by him and stipulated that the amount should be debited to his account:

Held that the contract embodied in the letter was neither a contract of indemnity nor a contract of guarantee. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 815 (317) : I L R (1940) Bom 552 (DB).

[13] Where under the sub-brokerage contract the sub-broker was to get fifty per cent. broker's commission, to introduce constituents to the broker and to be answerable to the broker for the performance by the constituents introduced of their obligations, it was held that the contract was one of indemnity and not of guarantee and therefore the broker was under S. 135 entitled to compromise the amount due from the constituents without the consent of the sub-broker. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 815 (317) : I L R (1940) Bom 552 (DB).

4. "Oral or written." — [1] A contract of guarantee need not necessarily be in writing. It may be expressed by word of mouth or it may be tacit or implied and may be inferred from the course of conduct of the parties. Chapter VIII is not exhaustive on the subject. (Vol 17) 1930 All 848 (849) (DB) & (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 50 (50) (DB).

5. Guarantee for honesty.—[1] There is a broad and substantial distinction between a surety for the payment of a debt and one for the honesty of a guardian and in order to find out whether a particular transaction

127. Anything done, or any promise made, for the benefit of the principal debtor, may be a Consideration for guarantee. sufficient consideration to the surety for giving the guarantee.

(a) B requests A to sell and deliver to him goods on credit. A agrees to do so, provided C will guarantee the payment of the price of the goods. C promises to guarantee the payment in consideration of A's promise to deliver the goods. This is a sufficient consideration for C's promise.

(b) A sells and delivers goods to B. C afterwards requests A to forbear to sue B for the debt for a year, and promises that, if he does so, C will pay for them in default of payment by B. A agrees to forbear as requested. This is sufficient consideration for C's promise.

(c) A sells and delivers goods to B. C afterwards, without consideration, agrees to pay for them in default of B. The agreement is void.

128. The liability of the surety is co-extensive with that of the principal debtor, unless it is Surety's liability. otherwise provided by the contract.

Illustration.

A guarantees to B the payment of a bill of exchange by C, the acceptor. The bill is dishonoured by C. A is liable, not only for the amount of the bill, but also for any interest and charges which may have become due on it.

6. Surety becoming principal debtor. — [1] If on failure of principal debtor, the money is claimed from the surety and the surety executes a promissory note, he becomes a principal debtor. (Vol 32) 1945 All 233 (284, 285) : 1 L R (1945) All 117 (DB).

7. Contract of guarantee — Proof. — [1] Contract of guarantee as also the consideration for it must be strictly proved when they are relied upon. Due weight must be given to custom of merchants in drawing presumptions. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 876 (879) (DB).

[2] Guarantor merely guaranteeing payment of debtor's debt is entitled to require debt to be proved against him — Debtor agreeing debt to be proved in particular way — Guarantor is bound by that mode of proof. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 108 (119, 120) : 1 L R (1941) Bom 278 (DB).

8. Limitation. — [1] Section 128 of the Contract Act defines the liability of a surety but does not affect the statute of limitation. A payment by the principal debtor does not bind the surety for the purposes of limitation. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 707 (710, 712) : 44 Cal 978 (DB).

(c.) A guarantees payment to B of the price of five sacks of flour, to be delivered by B to C, and to be paid for in a month. B delivers five sacks to C. C pays for them. Afterwards B delivers four sacks to C, which C does not pay for. The guarantee given by A was not a continuing guarantee, and accordingly he is not liable for the price of the four sacks.

SECTION 129—Note 1

[1] Question of continuing guarantee is to be determined with reference to the whole instrument. Cases of ambiguity require consideration of nature of business, position of parties and surrounding circumstances. (Vol 17) 1930 All 730 (731) : 52 All 997 (DB).

Revocation of continuing guarantee.

130. A continuing guarantee may at any time be revoked by the surety, as to future transactions, by notice to the creditor.

Illustrations.

(a) A, in consideration of B's discounting, at A's request, bills of exchange for C, guarantees to B, for twelve months, the due payment of all such bills to the extent of 5,000 rupees. B discounts bills for C to the extent of 2,000 rupees. Afterwards, at the end of three months, A revokes the guarantee. This revocation discharges A from all liability to B for any subsequent discount. But A is liable to B for the 2,000 rupees on default of C.

(b) A guarantees to B, to the extent of 10,000 rupees, that C shall pay all the bills that B shall draw upon him. B draws upon C. C accepts the bill. A gives notice of revocation. C dishonours the bill at maturity. A is liable upon his guarantee.

[2] In considering whether bond constitutes continuing guarantee surrounding circumstances must be considered unless wording of guarantee precludes it. Husband allowed to overdraw from Bank to extent of Rs. 18,000 on his wife's depositing with Bank title deeds of her house as security—Bank advancing Rs. 18,000—Husband wanting further finance—Wife executing legal mortgage in respect of house in favour of Bank for Rs. 25,000 to allow husband to overdraw to that extent—Banking account kept on the same basis—Security providing for total amount of Rs. 25,000 with interest or for any amount for time being owing and due to Bank from the wife "on footing of the bond" which specially referred to husband's overdraft: Held, that Court was not precluded from enquiring whether there was continuing guarantee; that the mortgage was a continuing guarantee for her husband's liability on his overdraft account limiting her liability to the amount stated in mortgage deed. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 282 (283, 284) : ILR (1941) Mad 313 (DB).

[3] There is no analogy between a security bond executed by a surety under S. 55 (4), Civil P. C., and a continuing guarantee as defined under S. 129, Contract Act. In the former case there is no series of transactions giving rise to distinct liabilities which the guarantee is intended to cover but there is only a single transaction under which the surety undertakes responsibility for certain things to be done in future though on different occasions. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 101 (102).

[4] Illustration (a) to S. 129 is wrong as statement of law. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 173 (174) : 8 Rang 320 (DB).

[5] Guarantee for performance of definite, existing arrangement (lease)—Consideration not variable as result of future dealings—Contract is not one of continuing guarantee. (Vol 17) 1930 All 730 (731, 732) : 52 All 997 (DB).

[6] Contract of surety for the appearance of the judgment-debtor on each and every occasion when required is one of continuing guarantee and is revocable by notice to creditor. (Vol 18) 1931 All 243 (244) : 52 All 1014.

[7] Repayment of mortgage debt guaranteed by surety to extent of certain amount—Contract held, contract of continuing guarantee—Suit against guarantor held maintainable before suit on mortgage. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 224 (225) : 58 Ind App 806 : 59 Cal 320 (PC), (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 17 : 57 Cal 764 (DB), Reversed.)

[8] A request to advance money to another person up to a certain limit for his trade is continuing guarantee. Formal written acceptance is not necessary. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 756 (758) : 57 Mad 398 (DB).

Afterwards, without A's knowledge or consent, C and B agree that B should be paid by a commission on the goods sold by him, and not by a fixed salary. A is not liable for subsequent misconduct of B.

Afterwards, B becomes embarrassed, and, without the knowledge of A, B, and C, contract that C shall continue to supply B with oil for ready money, and that the payment shall be applied to the then existing debts between B and C. (1877-78) 3 Cal 174 (184) (DB).

SECTION 133 — Synopsis

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Variation operating as discharge.
3. Variation not operating as discharge.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] The principle of the law on the discharge of sureties is that the surety, like any other contracting party, cannot be held bound to something for which he has not contracted. If the original parties have expressly agreed to vary the terms of the original contract, no further question arises. The original contract has gone, and unless the surety has assented to the new terms, there is nothing to which he can be bound, for the final obligation of the principal debtor will be something different from the obligation which the surety guaranteed. Presumably he is discharged forthwith on the contract being altered without his consent, for the parties have made it impossible for the guaranteed performance to take place. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 21 (24) : 59 Bom 180 : 62 Ind App 23 (P C) * (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 108 (119, 120) : 1 L R (1941) Bom 273 (DB) * (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 585 (588) (DB) * (Vol 5) 1918 P C 210 (212) (PC).

[2] The application of this principle must always depend upon a correct analysis of the contract in fact made. Guarantees frequently relate to obligations without special reference to any specific contract between the creditor and the principal debtor. In such a case the doctrine referred to would have a very limited application. But when the contract between the creditor and the principal debtor is the basis of the surety bond and has been shown to the sureties before the bond is executed and is referred to in the body of the judgment the principle will apply. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 21 (25) : 62 Ind App 23 : 59 Bom 180 (PC).

[3] A variation of conditions requires the consensus of all the principal parties. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 203 (204).

[4] Consent by the surety to the variation necessarily implies that the surety has the knowledge of the nature of the variation. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 164 (165) : 45 Bom 157 (DB).

[5] In determining the liability of a surety the terms of the bond must in every case be carefully studied ; and if there is any change in the position of the principal debtor as regards his creditor, it must materially affect the position of the surety, before the latter can be absolved from liability. A surety is bound according to the letter of the engagement and no further. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 426 (429) : 7 Luck 226 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 203 (204) * (1913) 14 Mad L Tim 249 (255) (DB).

[But see (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 576 (579) (DB). (Variation in small particular absolves surety.)]

[6] A appointed gomasta in Government treasury — B undertaking to make good any loss due to A's negligence or misconduct — Bond to ensure during A's service — B to remain responsible for defalcation discovered within one year of A's resignation or dismissal — Subsequently Government abolishing A's post — A continuing as treasurer's servant — Security bond held was wide enough to cover circumstances — Change in A's position held was not material so as to absolve B from liability. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 426 (429) : 7 Luck 226 (DB).

[7] If there is a substantial alteration in the contract even if there is no actual prejudice to the surety which can be shown to exist, the surety will be discharged as neither the Court nor the jury will go into the question whether there has been any actual prejudice or not. The surety is the sole judge as to whether he will continue to remain liable on the new contract or not. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 168 (171) : 56 Bom 101 (DB).

[8] Surety bond in favour of Court guaranteeing performance of decree that may be passed against debtor in suit by creditor — Ss. 133 to 139 do not apply but the principles thereof do. Section 133 (contd.)

[9] Where the Court in whose favour the surety bond is executed is not responsible for any change in the situation of surety, he is not entitled to ask the Court to relieve him of his obligation under the bond on the ground that the decree-holder has arrived at certain arrangements with the principal judgment-debtor. (Vol 32) 1955 Nag 258 (263, 264) : 31 Nag L R (Sup) 83 (DB).

[10] Section 133 provides only for a particular case of variance, namely, where the contract of guarantee contemplates a series of transactions extending over a period of time. It does not apply to a variance made in the case of a contract consisting of a single transaction. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 168 (174) : 36 Dom 101 (DB).

[11] Section 133 cannot operate to alter the primary law of the contract of guarantee that the promisee must show performance before he can hold the promisor to his promise. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 21 (25) : 62 Ind App 38 : 59 Bom 180 (PC).

[2] Security bonds were executed by sureties during pendency of a suit against their principal debtors. During pendency of execution proceedings the judgment-debtor went up in appeal and execution was stayed on offering fresh securities for the decretal amount. [10] Partners starting business on certain capital with a stipulation to dissolve partnership when loss occurs—Surety for one partner guaranteeing partner's share in loss — When losses actually occurred, changes and additions made in business thus changing its character and constituting breaches and variations in contract of suretyship—Surety is not liable for losses in new business. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 193 (194) (DB).

[11] Sub-agency—Change in terms as to remuneration of sub-agent in variance of contract — There is variation of contract with sub-agent (principal debtor). (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 164 (165) : 45 Bom 157 (DB).

3. Variation not operating as discharge. — [1] Agreement to buy a certain quantity of cotton at a certain rate and time — Defendant guaranteeing the performance of it — Subsequent agreement by plaintiff to sell same cotton at a higher rate — Suit by plaintiff against surety for recovery of difference between the two rates—Surety is not discharged as the first contract is not rescinded by the second. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 78 (80).

[2] Compromise of a suit for a recovery of a debt the terms whereof are that the debt should be paid in instalments and attachment to continue till the terms had been complied with—A standing surety for defendant's performance of his part — Order of Court giving judgment-debtor liberty to sell attached property — This order is not a variation of the contract and the surety is not discharged. (Vol 11) 1921 Lah 211 (212) (DB).

[3] A breach of contract is not a variation and hence a breach of contract between the principal and the creditor does not in any way discharge the surety although the creditor has not enforced any remedy against the principal. (1909) 36 Cal 626 (627, 628) (DB).

[4] Contract of guarantee by defendant with plaintiff Bank to extent of Rs. 3,00,000 — Bank opening second account with principal debtor on deposit of Rs. 20,000 without consent and knowledge of defendant. Held, guarantee was not discharged. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 587 (541, 544) (SB).

(Vol 22) 1935 Mad 748 (750).

[6] Where a surety bond is given to the Court an alteration in the judgment-debtor's position by the act of third party does not render the bond unenforceable as S. 133 does not apply in such circumstances. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 470 (471).

[7] A surety giving security under O. 38, B. 5, Civil P. C. for property to be attached before judgment continues to be liable though the suit is decreed by award of arbitrators. (Vo 5) 1918 Sind 53 (2) (54) : 11 Sind L R 122 (DB).

[8] A surety for due payment of instalments by the judgment-debtor is not discharged where the judgment-debtor offers to come to terms and the decree-holder does not accept them within the time fixed by the judgment-debtor. The belated acceptance by the decree-holder does not amount to a variance. (1904) 1 All L Jour 38 (39).

[9] Surety for securing stay of execution is not discharged from liability by the agreement entered into between the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor, without surety's consent, by which interest was increased and further time was granted to judgment-debtor. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 552 (555).

[10] It cannot be laid down as broad proposition of law that the mere fact that a decree happens to be a consent decree it discharges from liability a surety who

SECTION 134 — Synopsis

1. Scope of the section.
2. "Any act or omission of the creditor."
3. Omission to sue principal within limitation — Effect.

1. Scope of the section. — [1] Section 134, Contract Act, presupposes the existence of a contract of guarantee, to which the creditor and the surety, if not also the debtor, are parties. The liability of the surety arises from an undertaking given by him to the creditor in consideration of something done by the latter. Where, therefore, there is no contract between the surety and creditor and a security bond is executed by the surety at the instance of the debtor and in pursuance of orders of the Court granting stay of execution, the creditors are not parties to the contract of guarantee, even if they are empowered under the bond to enforce it. In such circumstances, S. 134 does not apply. (Vol 23) 1936 All 549 (552) (DB).

[2] Relative of judgment-debtor offering cheque to decree-holder in satisfaction of his claim—Relative held not a surety for judgment-debtor — Relative stopping payment of cheque — Decree-holder held has an independent cause of action against relative—Relative, held cannot take advantage of S. 134, Contract Act. (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 6 (7) (DB).

[3] When a surety executes a subsequent note in discharge of the first note, the principal debtor is discharged, and under S. 134 of the Contract Act, the co-sureties are also discharged from liability. The debt under the subsequent promissory note is quite a new transaction and a co-surety who is ignorant of it, cannot be made liable without his consent to make contribution. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 119 (119) (DB).

[4] Decree passed against both surety and principal debtor by which rights and liabilities of surety were replaced by those created by decree — Before Debt Conciliation Board creditor released principal — Surety not absolved—S. 134 does not apply. (39) 1939 Nag L Jour 402 (402, 403).

2. "Any act or omission of the creditor." — [1] Discharge of debtor without the consent of the surety destroys the liability of the surety though he had signed as a co-executant where the creditor knew that he was a surety. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 360 (360).

[3] Where in a suit against principal debtors and the surety, the names of the original debtors are struck out upon an application by the creditor, the only result is to preclude the bringing by the creditor of a fresh suit in respect of the subject-matter against them, and is not to release or discharge the principal debt. (Vol 26) 1933 P C 110 (111, 114) : 1939 Rang L R 358 : 66 Ind App 198 (PC). ((Vol 24) 1937 Rang 302, Reversed.)

[6] Creditor proceeding against surety first but not absolving principal debtor—Surety is not discharged as the principal is not discharged thereby. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 465 (466) (DB).

[7] Failure of creditor to serve summons on debtor would enable Court to dismiss the suit against debtor; but that reason does not free the surety from his liability as such. [9] It is always open to a creditor to pursue his remedy against one of the debtors and forbearance to sue the others does not bring the case within Ss. 134

Discharge of surety when creditor compounds with, gives time to, or agrees not to sue, principal debtor.

135. A contract between the creditor and the principal debtor, by which the creditor makes a composition with, or promises to give time to, or not to sue, the principal debtor, discharges the surety, unless the surety assents to such contract.

[11] The legal consequence of the creditor's act in taking over the debtor's estate is to discharge the principal debtor. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 340 (341) (DB).

[12] Mortgage by A in favour of G — K standing surety — A adjudicated insolvent — Sale of mortgaged property by Receiver—Only part payment made to G — Receiver keeping balance as commission—Suit by G for balance against A and K—Claim against A given up — G can proceed against K — S. 134 does not apply. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 906 (907).

[13] Where the original agreement is void, as in the case of a minor's contract, the surety is liable as principal debtor and is not discharged by the creditor withdrawing his claim against the debtor or his legal representative after his death. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 376 (377) : 1916 Pun Re No. 54.

[15] Wife depositing shares as collateral security for liability of company in which husband was principal share-holder—Company going into liquidation—Creditor taking company's property in full satisfaction of his dues—Wife induced to sign a letter continuing shares to be security for advances—Wife subsequently induced to give fresh guarantee of indebtedness, misrepresenting that she was still liable as surety. Held that principal debt having been discharged the wife was absolved from all liability. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 210 (213) (P C).

[16] A surety is not discharged by the discharge of the principal debtor by operation of law. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 145 (146) (DB). (Therefore, when a new statutory provision (e. g., Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act) has had the effect of granting a partial discharge to the principal debtor and the creditor has taken no part in releasing the principal debtor from his liability the remedy of the creditor against the guarantor will not be affected. Hence the relief as against the guarantor should not be restricted to the amount of the debt as scaled down in the Act.)

[17] Composition between principal and creditor discharging principal — Surety expressly contracting to remain liable even after the principal's discharge is not absolved. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 437 (438) : I L R (1940) Mad 757 (DB).

3. Omission to sue principal within limitation — Effect. — [1] Section 134, Contract Act, applies where there is either a release or a discharge of the principal debtor. The section intends that the act or omission of the creditor should be something in the nature of a breach of the contract on his part—The failure of the creditor to bring a suit within the period of limitation against the principal debtor is not an act or omission of the nature contemplated by that section. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 729 (732) : 16 Lah 757 (DB) * (Vol 19) 1932 All 610 (612) : 54 All 1007 (DB).

[3] As for S. 20, Limitation Act, the liabilities of the principal debtor and surety are distinct, though their liabilities arise out of the same transaction. SECTION 135 — Synopsis

1. Applicability.
2. Composition.
3. Extension of time.
4. Assent of surety.

1. Applicability.— [1] The principles underlying Ss. 133 to 141 apply to surety bonds executed in favour of Courts though the sections are not themselves applicable. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 428 (431, 432) (DB) * (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 23 (25) : I L R (1938) Bom 794 (DB) * (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 309 (310) : 56 Mad 625 (DB). (Bond for restitution of execution.)

[But see (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 336 (336). (Section 135 has no application to surety bond executed under S. 55 (4), Civil P. C., such a bond being in favour of Court.) * (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 355 (356) : 43 Mad 272 (DB). (Section does not apply to surety under O. 38, R. 3, Civil P. C.)]

[2] Surety for appearance of judgment-debtor — Decree-holder giving time to judgment-debtor—Whether surety is discharged or not depends on discretion of Court, such a bond being in power of Court. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 896 (897).

[See also (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 337 (338) (DB). (Surety executing bond for appearance of judgment-debtor—Judgment-debtor appearing and paying part of decree-debt—Acceptance by decree-holder's pleader—Surety's liability ceases on principle of S. 135.)]

[8] Auction-purchaser at execution allowed to withdraw deposit on furnishing security to re-deposit when asked—Surety bond executed—Auction-purchaser asked to re-deposit—Time asked — Decree-holder not objecting—Time granted, but order reviewed and surety asked to deposit amount—Surety held not absolved, the bond being in favour of the Court and the consent of decree-holder, therefore, being immaterial. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 472 (473).

[4] Sub-brokerage contract on behalf of broker to introduce constituents is not contract of guarantee but one of indemnity—Broker can compromise without sub-broker's consent. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 315 (317) : 1 L R (1940) Bom 552 (DB).

[5] Person executing a promissory note jointly with another binding himself jointly and severally, cannot plead that he was surety for the other and take advantage of S. 135 unless he brings himself under the definition of surety given in S. 126 and is a party to contract of guarantee. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 216 (217) (DB).

2. Composition.—[1] Sections 134 and 135 apply to private composition behind back of surety—Principle of these sections does not apply to composition after notice to surety and accepted by Court—In such case, it becomes act of the Court. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 236 (242) : 44 Mad 381 (DB).

[2] Creditor accepting composition during insolvency after part payment by surety—Surety is not entitled to refund. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 236 (239) : 44 Mad 381 (DB).

[3] Composition between principal and creditor discharging principal—Surety expressly contracting to remain liable even after principal is discharged, is not absolved. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 487 (438) : ILR (1940) Mad 757 (DB).

[4] Surety for amount which may be decreed by Court—Maximum liability fixed at Rs. 500—Plaintiff in suit claiming Rs. 3000—Parties to suit compromising and agreeing to definite sum of Rs. 950—Surety held discharged. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 313 (315) : 11 Pat 500 (DB).

[5] Adjustment materially altering decree, though not certified, discharges the surety. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 246 (249) : 1 L R (1943) Bom 382.

[6] Where the plaintiff as the endorsee of a promissory note sues the maker of it, and the latter pleads that the plaintiff knew that the note was an accommodation note made for the benefit of the acceptor and that the plaintiff, after the note fell due, took a mortgage from the principal debtor, viz., the acceptor, and gave him time, these facts if found true, would be sufficient to discharge the maker from liability. (1890) 13 Mad 172 (177).

[7] Consent decree without surety's consent or knowledge discharges surety. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 818 (818).

[8] Surety agreeing to pay decretal amount as decreed in suit after contest—Suit compromised and decreed on basis of award—Surety is discharged. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 177 (178) : 55 Cal 91 (DB).

[9] Surety for performance of decree that may be passed—Compromise of suit not explicitly or implicitly excluded from scope of surety bond—Bona fide compromise of suit between creditor and principal debtor does not discharge surety. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 55 (56) : 55 Bom 97 (DB).

[10] Suit compromised—Compromise not contemplated by surety for defendant and prejudicial to his interest—Surety is discharged. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 122 (124) : 54 Bom 118 (DB).

3. Extension of time.—[1] Where a creditor extends time for the payment of debt, without surety's consent, the surety is discharged. (Vol 2) 1915 Low Bur 62 (62) (1929) 120 Ind Cas 552 (552) (All).

[2] Defence by surety that creditor gave time to the principal debtor without his consent, contemplates a subsequent contract between a creditor and the principal debtor whereby time originally fixed is subsequently extended. (Vol 16) 1929 All 664 (665) (DB).

[3] Grant of time to principal debtor discharges surety only if creditor cannot sue before extended time expires. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 736 (759) : 57 Mad 398 (DB).

[4] Stipulation in surety bond that surety was not to be discharged by any dealings between creditor and principal debtor—Surety is not in any way relieved by time given to principal debtor without his knowledge or concurrence. (1901) 23 All 137 (146, 147) : 27 Ind App 168 (PC).

[5] Money decree against debtors and sureties—Debtors allowed time, thus increasing interest and burden on sureties—Decree-holder not entitled to interest after time when he might and ought to have put up property for sale. (1879) 4 Cal 331 (335, 336) (PC).

[6] When the payment of only a portion of a guaranteed debt is allowed to be postponed, the discharge of the surety extends only to such portion and not to the rest of the liabilities with regard to which he is not prejudiced. (1913) 14 Mad L Tim 249 (255) (DB).

[7] Section 135 does not apply to claims which have been decreed. Liability of surety is not discharged by the decree-holder's giving time to principal judgment-debtor. (1906) 9 Oudh Cas 28 (28, 29).

[8] Court and not decree-holder granting time to judgment-debtor to pay by adjourning case from time to time in spite of decree-holder's opposition—Surety is not discharged—Surety acquiescing in orders of Court cannot say that time was granted without his consent. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 377 (277).

[9] Striking of balance by principal debtor unsigned by surety does not discharge surety, inasmuch as while it extended time and privileges to the creditor, it did not confer any benefit on principal debtor. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 627 (627) (DB).

[10] Creditor granting time to the debtor and allowing instalments without surety's consent—Surety is discharged from liability. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 428 (430) (DB).

[11] Consent order—Instalments or giving time to principal debtor—Surety is discharged unless it is expressly provided to proceed against surety. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 809 (310) : 56 Mad 625 (DB).

[12] The question as to whether an advance of interest operates as giving time to the principal debtor is a mixed question of law and fact. As a rule acceptance of interest in advance by creditor operates as giving time to principal debtor and consequently as a discharge to the surety. (1879) 4 Cal 132 (134) (DB).

[13] Drawer of hundi paying interest to holder in order to obtain time for payment—Liability of accommodation acceptor depends on whether he knew of and consented to the arrangement. (1881) 6 Cal 241 (249) (PC).

[14] The mere taking of additional security will not discharge the surety, but the surety will be discharged if, along with the taking of additional security, there is an express or implied contract to give time to the debtor. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 756 (758) : 57 Mad 398 (DB).

[15] A mere agreement between the creditor and the principal debtor, by which the creditor promised to give time to the principal debtor does not discharge the surety under S. 135, unless the agreement amounts to a contract, i. e., at the instance of the debtors. Where, therefore, there is no consideration to an agreement of the above nature, surety is not discharged by reason of the forbearance of the creditor to realize the instalments payable by the principal debtor. (1900) 22 All 351 (352) (DB) (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 80 (80, 81) (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 311 (312). (Mere gratuitous agreement to give time does not discharge surety.)

[But see (1913) 14 Mad L Tim 249 (253) (DB). (When surety is prejudiced by the grant of time to the

Surety not discharged when agreement made with third person to give time to principal debtor.

136. Where a contract to give time to the principal debtor is made by the creditor with a third person, and not with the principal debtor, the surety is not discharged.

Illustration.

C, the holder of an overdue bill of exchange drawn by A as surety for B, and accepted by B, contracts with M to give time to B. A is not discharged.

Creditor's forbearance to sue does not discharge surety.

137. Mere forbearance on the part of the creditor to sue the principal debtor, or to enforce any other remedy against him, does not, in the absence of any provision in the guarantee to the contrary, discharge the surety.

Illustration.

B owes to C a debt guaranteed by A. The debt becomes payable. C does not sue B for a year after the debt has become payable. A is not discharged from his suretyship.

Section 135 (contd.)

principal debtor, it is immaterial under the Indian Law whether the agreement for grant of time is or is not backed by consideration.]]

[16] Surety's liability does not come to an end if the creditor gives time to the principal debtor in consideration of part payment of the debt by the latter. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 117 (117);

[17] An acknowledgment by the principal debtor does not save limitation against the surety unless it is shown that the latter allowed himself to be represented by the person who made the payment. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 691 (694) : 13 Lah 240.

[18] Entering into an agreement with a principal debtor granting him time will not discharge the surety if the right against the surety is reserved. This principle is applicable to all negotiable instruments even though S. 139 of the Negotiable Instruments Act provides for such reservation only in the case of bills of exchange. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 75 (78) : 37 Mad 482 (DB).

4. Assent of surety. — [1] Principle that the rights of surety are not to be interfered with without his consent, ought to be applied even to a case not governed by Contract Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 23 (25) : 1 L R (1938) Bom 794 (DB).

[2] Where the surety acquiesces in an order of Court granting time to judgment-debtor to pay, it cannot be said that time was granted without surety's consent. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 277 (277).

[3] Arrangement with creditor on behalf of surety by agent authorized or authority subsequently ratified — Arrangement is binding on surety none the less when agent is principal debtor — No direct notice to surety is necessary — Surety is not discharged from his liability. (Vol 16) 1929 P C 273 (279) (PC).

Section 137 — Note 1

[1] Mere forbearance to sue the principal debtor or to enforce any other remedy against him does not, in the absence of any provision in the guarantee to the contrary, discharge the surety. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 226 (228) (PC) * (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 80 (84) : 1 Lah 262 (DB).

[2] The fact that the creditor has not sued the principal debtor and exhausted the remedies against him is no defence to an action against the surety. There is no rule of law that a creditor cannot proceed against the surety unless he has first exhausted his remedies against the debtor. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 748 (749) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 101 (101, 102) (DB) * ('69) 6 Bom H C R 241 (242) (DB).

[3] Principal debtor and surety — Mortgage decrees obtained by prior and subsequent mortgagees — Subsequent mortgagee not immediately executing decree but waiting for execution by prior mortgagee — Sale not sufficient even to satisfy prior mortgagee — Subsequent mortgagee then proceeding to execute decree against surety: Held, that failure by subsequent mortgagee to proceed against principal debtor did not discharge surety. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 260 (262) (DB).

[4] Debtor asking creditor for time to pay the instalments payable by him — Creditor agreeing provided there is no legal impediment in granting time : Held, a mere agreement between the creditor and the principal debtor does not discharge the surety unless the agreement amounts to a contract — In this case the agreement amounted to a mere gratuitous forbearance on the part of the creditor within S. 137. (1900) 22 All 351 (352) (DB).

[5] Where K supplied goods to employees of M who was surety for his employees, a statement by K that he did not intend to file a suit against the employees does not amount to waiver of claim so as to discharge M from liability nor does it take the case out of S. 137. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 187 (187).

[6] Decree-holder agreeing to accept payment by instalments of decretal amount in execution of decree — Certain person standing surety to the effect that in case of default in instalments the whole amount was payable with interest within certain time — Default by judgment-debtor — Decree-holder failing to execute decree which becomes time-barred — He then sued surety for amount : Held, that as the bond laid down the period within which decree-holder had to execute his decree in case of default, his action in not doing so was much more serious than "mere forbearance" in favour of his debtors, and hence his suit was to be dismissed. ('86) 8 All 259 (261) (DB).

[7] A failure to sue the principal debtor until recovery is barred by the statute of limitation does not operate as a discharge of the surety. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 110 (112) : 66 Ind App 198 : 1 L R (1939) Rang 358 (PC). (Obiter.) * ('41) 1941 All W R (CC) 123 (124) * (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 419 (420) : 13 Lah 817 (DB).

[But see (Vol 28) 1936 All 549 (552) (DB) * (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 20 (22) (DB) * ('02) 24 All 504 (510) (DB) * ('89) 11 All 310 (313) (DB).]

[8] Plaintiff suing surety along with debtor — Debtor not alive at the time of institution of suit — Failure on part of plaintiff to substitute debtor's legal representative within time thus allowing claim against debtor to become time-barred : Held, that surety was not discharged as suit against him was instituted within time and forbearance by creditor to enforce remedy against debtor did not discharge surety. ('86) 12 Cal 330 (332, 333) (DB).

[9] The fact that a person forbears to sue the moment the debt becomes due, at the request of the debtors, does not amount to a promise to give time to the debtors so as to discharge the surety. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 80 (80, 81).

[10] The abatement of an appeal as against the principal debtor does not necessarily imply that the debt payable by him is extinguished or discharged — The liability of the surety continues in spite of the abatement. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 75 (75).

138. Where there are co-sureties, a release by the creditor of one of them does not discharge the others; neither does it free the surety so released from his responsibility to the other sureties.³

Release of one co-surety does not discharge others.

[a] See S. 44.

139. If the creditor does any act which is inconsistent with the rights of the surety, or omits to do any act which his duty to the surety requires him to do, and the eventual remedy of the surety himself against the principal debtor is thereby impaired, the surety is discharged.

Discharge of surety by creditor's act or omission impairing surety's eventual remedy.

Illustrations.

(a) B contracts to build a ship for C for a given sum, to be paid by instalments as the work reaches certain stages. A becomes surety to C for B's due performance of the contract. C, without the knowledge of A, prepays to B the last two instalments. A is discharged by this prepayment.

(b) C lends money to B on the security of a joint and several promissory note made in C's favour by B, and by A, as surety for B, together with a bill of sale of B's furniture, which gives power to C to sell the furniture, and apply the proceeds in discharge of the note. Subsequently, C sells the furniture, but, owing to his misconduct and wilful negligence, only a small price is realized. A is discharged from liability on the note.¹

(c) A puts M as apprentice to B, and gives a guarantee to B for M's fidelity. B promises on his part that he will at least once a month, see M make up the cash. B omits to see this done as promised, and M embezzles. A is not liable to B on his guarantee.

[1] A surety paying off a debt is entitled to all the rights and securities of the creditor as against the principal debtor. (Vol 6) 1919 All 56 (58) : 42 All 70 (D B) & (Vol 14) 1927 All 538 (540) : 49 All 640 (D B). (Part payment of debt by surety is not enough to step into creditor's shoes.) & (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 115 (115). (It is immaterial whether the surety has incurred a fresh obligation to the creditor.)

[2] A surety who has paid the debt of his principal is subrogated to all the remedies and rights which the creditor has not only against the principal but against the others and to all the securities and rights of action generally which the creditor has in respect of the debt. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 342 (343). (A and B undertaking to be liable jointly and severally for each other's debt owing to a Bank—Bank recovering B's debt from C who stood surety for B — C held was subrogated to right of action which the Bank had against A.)

[3] Section 140 expressly says that the surety upon payment of all that he is liable for is invested—that is immediately invested — with all the rights which the creditor had against the principal debtor. The condition laid down by the section for this right to arise is the payment by the surety of all that he is liable for, and not the payment of all that may be due to the creditor who holds the securities. Where the guaranteed debt is a fraction only of the debt, the surety's right comes into existence immediately on payment of that fraction, for, that fraction is, so far as he is concerned, the whole. Both under S. 140, Contract Act, and under the English law the surety's right to the benefit of the security vests in him the moment he pays the guaranteed amount. The creditor cannot afterwards make an appropriation to the prejudice of the rights of the surety which have accrued to him. Indeed, he cannot do so even before, as the surety is entitled to the benefit of every security held by the creditor, at the time when the contract of suretyship was entered into. The question is not whether the surety has a remedy against the principal debtor but whether he has any right against the creditor in respect of the securities held by him. A surety for a part only of a debt is on payment of that part entitled pro tanto to the security held by the creditors as cover for the debt as a whole. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 195 (204, 205) : I L R (1944) Mad 304 (DB).

141. A surety is entitled to the benefit of every security which the creditor has against the principal debtor at the time when the contract of suretyship is entered into, whether the surety knows of the existence of such security or not; and, if the creditor loses or, without the consent of the surety, parts with such security, the surety is discharged to the extent of the value of the security.

(a) C advances to B, his tenant, 2,000 rupees on the guarantee of A. C has also a further security for the 2,000 rupees by a mortgage of B's furniture. C cancels the mortgage. B becomes insolvent, and C sues A on his guarantee. A is discharged from liability to the amount of the value of the furniture.

(b) C, a creditor, whose advance to B is secured by a decree, receives also a guarantee for that advance from A. C afterwards takes B's goods in execution under the decree, and then, without the knowledge of A, withdraws the execution. A is discharged.

(c) A, as surety for B, makes a bond jointly with B to C, to secure a loan from C to B. Afterwards, C obtains from B a further security for the same debt. Subsequently, C gives up the further security. A is not discharged.

SECTION 141 — Note 1

[1] Section 141, prima facie, has reference to the simple case of a surety for a single debt for which the creditor holds a security or securities (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 195 (201) : I L R (1944) Mad 340 (DB).

[2] The surety is entitled to demand all the securities held by the principal debtor at the time of payment whether they had been received simultaneously with the loan advanced or subsequently. Section 141 only means that a surety cannot complain if before payment the creditor loses or parts with a security obtained by him after the contract of suretyship was entered into. Section does not enable the creditor to withhold from the surety any security actually held by him at the time when the debt is paid or in any other way to detract from the rights of the creditor as declared by S. 140. Section 141 only gives him liberty of action in respect of securities not held by him at the time of the contract of suretyship provided he exercises it before payment. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 195 (200, 201) : I L R (1944) Mad 340 (DB).

[3] Agreement by A to advance certain sum to B and as security for that B to mortgage to A certain properties — Sureties — Subsequent agreement between A and B varying amounts to be advanced and properties to be mortgaged — Consent of sureties not obtained — Sureties are discharged from original contract. [4] Property under attachment — Surety for judgment-debtor — Attachment released by creditor — Surety discharged to the extent of the property released. (Vol 21) 1934 All 616 (616, 617).

[5] Mortgagee is not at liberty to appropriate the mortgaged property to the discharge of another debt due to him without the consent of the person who has stood surety for the mortgage-debt, and if he does so he is bound to credit the surety with the value of the property. [6] Suit by mortgagee against principal debtor and surety on mortgage for more than Rs. 100 — Statement by mortgagee in plaint that he was suing on mortgage only as money bond, giving up his mortgage right — Except such statement, no other act of relinquishment, oral or documentary, giving up mortgage right — Mortgage right not being extinguishable except by registered document under S. 17 (i) (b) of Registration Act, mortgage right held was not extinguished by such statement — Surety, therefore, held was not discharged. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 501 (502, 503).

[7] One of joint promisors paying entire debt — He is not surety nor entitled to subrogation in place of creditor in respect of securities held by latter. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 39 (42) : 55 Mad 949 (DB).

Guarantee obtained by concealment invalid.

143. Any guarantee which the creditor has obtained by means of keeping silence as to a material circumstance is invalid.

Illustrations.

(a) A engages B as clerk to collect money for him. B fails to account for some of his receipts, and A, in consequence, calls upon him to furnish security for his duly accounting. C gives his guarantee for B's duly accounting. A does not acquaint C with B's previous conduct. B afterwards makes default. The guarantee is invalid.

(b) A guarantees to C payment for iron to be supplied by him to B to the amount of 2,000 tons. B and C have privately agreed that B should pay five rupees per ton beyond the market-price, such excess to be applied in liquidation of an old debt. This agreement is concealed from A. A is not liable as a surety.

Guarantee on contract that creditor shall not act on it until co-surety joins.

144. Where a person gives a guarantee upon a contract that the creditor shall not act upon it until another person has joined in it as co-surety, the guarantee is not valid if that other person does not join.

145. In every contract of guarantee there is an implied promise by the principal debtor to indemnify the surety; and the surety is entitled to recover from the principal debtor whatever sum he has rightfully paid under the guarantee, but no sums which he has paid wrongfully.

Illustrations.

(a) B is indebted to C, and A is surety for the debt. C demands payment from A, and on his refusal sues him for the amount. A defends the suit, having reasonable grounds for doing so, but he is compelled to pay the amount of the debt with costs. He can recover from B the amount paid by him for costs as well as the principal debt.

(b) C lends B a sum of money, and A, at the request of B, accepts a bill of exchange drawn by B upon A, to secure the amount. C, the holder of the bill, demands payment of it from A, and, on A's refusal to pay, sues him upon the bill. A, not having reasonable grounds for so doing, defends the suit, and has to pay the amount of the bill and costs. He can recover from B the amount of the bill, but not the sum paid for costs, as there was no real ground for defending the action.

(c) A guarantees to C, to the extent of 2,000 rupees, payment for rice to be supplied by C to B. C supplies to B rice to a less amount than 2,000 rupees, but obtains from A payment of the sum of 2,000 rupees in respect of the rice supplied. A cannot recover from B more than the price of the rice actually supplied.

[1] The expression "keeping silence" in S. 143 of the Contract Act implies intentional concealment as distinguished from mere non-disclosure. The withholding must be fraudulent which necessarily must be the case when a material circumstance is intentionally concealed. (1891) 15 Bom 585 (591) (DB).

[2] The mistake which invalidates a contract under S. 143 must be occasioned either by means of a misrepresentation made by the creditor or with his knowledge and assent concerning a material part of the transaction or by the creditor keeping silence as to a material circumstance. There is nothing in law to indicate that sureties are entitled to evade their contract of guarantee because of a mistake induced by the principal debtor. (1906) 33 Cal 713 (755) (FB).

[3] To justify the application of the rule enacted by S. 143, Contract Act, it must be proved not only that there was silence as to a material circumstance but that the guarantee was obtained by means of such silence. (1883) 6 Mad 406 (408) (DB).

[4] Contract of service — Continuing guarantee for honesty of servant already in employ — Past gross misconduct not disclosed to surety — Surety is not responsible for dishonesty of servant. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 424 (425) (DB).

[5] There is a difference between fiduciary guarantees and guarantees by persons in favour of banks. In the former case there may be a duty to disclose all material facts, there is no such duty in the case of a bank which takes a guarantee from a person to "disclose" the indebtedness of the person guaranteed at the date of the guarantee. Where, therefore, the suretyship is with regard to an advance to be made by a bank, the latter need not disclose past indebtedness to the surety. But if it gives wrong information when asked for, the suretyship is annulled. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 874 (879) : 53 Mad 826 (DB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 437 (439) : I L R (1940) Mad 757 (DB).

[6] M's bid at sale of Abkari farm accepted subject to his furnishing security — Failure to furnish security — Re-sale at loss — M becoming indebted for loss — In re-sale M again declared purchaser — N accepted as M's surety — N not inquiring nor informed by Collector as to M's indebtedness — N held was not discharged by reason of non-disclosure of M's indebtedness by Collector. (1883) 6 Mad 406 (418) (DB).

[1] Apart from S. 140 of the Contract Act, a surety has a right under S. 145 to be indemnified by the debtor and the surety's rights under this section are not limited to the rights of the creditor against the debtor. (Vol 19) 1932 All 610 (613) : 54 All 1007 (DB).

[2] The implied rights possessed by a surety are available when the suretyship has been undertaken at the request, actual or constructive, of the principal debtor, but not otherwise, since no one can make himself the creditor of another by volunteering to discharge his obligations. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 83 (85) : 39 Mad 965 (DB).

[3] Where a person stands surety for another there is always an implied warranty by the latter, that he would indemnify such person in case he is damaged owing to a default made by him in the performance of any of the conditions imposed upon him under the security bond. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 399 (400). (Surety for payment of decretal amount — Surety paying decretal amount on default by judgment-debtor — Surety is entitled to decree for decretal amount against judgment-debtor.)

[4] Surety, having undertaken the obligation at request of debtor, becomes entitled to recover from him whatever sums he has rightfully paid under the guarantee. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 19 (21) : 12 Luck 484 (DB).

[5] The liability of the principal debtor to pay the surety cannot arise from a mere implied promise to

146. Where two or more persons are co-sureties for the same debt or duty, either jointly or severally, and whether under the same or different contracts, and whether Co-sureties liable to contribute equally. with or without the knowledge of each other, the co-sureties, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, are liable, as between themselves, to pay each an equal share of the whole debt, or of that part of it which remains unpaid by the principal debtor.^a

[15] A payment by surety to creditor, made after suit against the principal debtor had been instituted and with the object of assisting that suit to reach a successful termination, might be held to be a wrongful payment; while a payment made before the institution of such suit might be held to be a rightful payment. SECTION 146 — Note 1

[1] In the case of co-sureties it is well-settled that if the creditor calls upon one of them to pay the principal debt or any part of it, that surety has a right, upon principles of equity, to call upon his co-sureties for contribution. (1904) 26 All 407 (418) (FB).

[2] The relation of co-sureties is not analogous to that of co-mortgagors—In the case of co-sureties no complication can possibly arise from the enforcement of the right of contribution. (1904) 26 All 407 (419) (FB).

[3] A guarantee drawn up in the plural number but signed by one surety only is binding on the surety who signed it unless he can show that he was to be liable only if the other surety or sureties signed. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 62 (63).

[4] A surety is liable to allow co-sureties the benefit of any counter-security he has received from the debtor. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 848 (848).

[5] Surety paying in excess of his share—Suit against co-surety and principal debtor is maintainable—All that the co-surety is entitled to claim is that he shall share proportionately in the proceeds of the security when it is realized. He is not in a position to insist that his liability is to be postponed until the security is realized and its extent ascertained on the ground that the property which has been conveyed to the plaintiff surety by the mortgagee on his paying the mortgage amount under the mortgage-deed is unrealized. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 405 (408, 409).

[6] Where the sureties are bound by the same instrument as the principal debtor, a suit by one surety against another for contribution is a suit on an implied contract, and, therefore, within the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes. (1879-80) 4 Bom 321 (323) (DB).

CHAPTER IX.

OF BAILMENT.

148. A "bailment" is the delivery of goods by one person to another for some purpose, upon 'Bailment', 'bailor', a contract that they shall, when the purpose is accomplished, be returned or and 'bailee' defined. otherwise disposed of according to the directions of the persons delivering them. The person delivering the goods is called the "bailor". The person to whom they are delivered is called the "bailee".

Explanation. — If a person, already in possession of the goods of another, contracts to hold them as a bailee, he thereby becomes the bailee, and the owner becomes the bailor, of such goods, although they may not have been delivered by way of bailment.

SECTION 148 — Note 1

[1] A 'bailment' has been aptly defined by Chancellor Kent, as a delivery of a thing entrusted for some special object or purpose upon a contract, express or implied, to conform to the object or purpose for the trust. (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 106 (107) : 28 Sind L R 13 : 29 Cri L Jour 481 (DB).

[2] Bailments are of two kinds: voluntary and involuntary. When the bailee dies and the goods bailed pass into the hands of a person representing him, that person becomes an involuntary bailee. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 416 (418)

[3] "For some purpose" does not indicate that bailee is to make use of goods deposited. (1935) 18 Nag L Jour 97 (99).

[4] "Directions" contemplated by S. 148, according to which goods are to be disposed of, cover the case of directions given after the purpose is accomplished. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 127 (128).

[5] Issue of water-proof coat to railway servant on condition of renewal, at his cost, on damage or loss, is bailment. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 41 (42) : 35 Cri L Jour 788.

[6] There is an implied contract in bailment to return articles in reasonable time after the purpose is served. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 395 (396) : 6 Luck 80 (DB).

[7] The true legal relation between the guest and hotel keeper in respect of the furniture used by the former is that of bailor and bailee as defined by S. 148. The bailment is one of hires; the guest hires not only the rooms which he occupies but the furniture which they contain. (1900) 22 All 164 (166) (DB).

Transfer of ownership. — [8] Where there is no obligation to return identical subject-matter, either in its original or in an altered form, there can be no bailment. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 168 (169) : I L R (1943) Nag 486 : 44 Cri L Jour 423.

[9] Delivery of Government promissory notes to a Government treasury for cancellation and consolidation into a single note is not a bailment. There is a complete transfer of possession and ownership. (1878-80) 2 All 756 (762) (DB).

[10] Entrusting a person with goods for safe custody is a species of bailment. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 299 (300)* (Vol 24) 1937 All 255 (257). (Custodian is not agent of true owner.)

[11] Some precious stones and lumps of gold of special quality and three sovereigns were given to a goldsmith to convert into jewellery and were lost by theft, not caused by want of proper care: Held, that as the intention was to convert the identical stones and lumps of gold into jewellery, the ownership did not pass to the goldsmith and the transaction being one of bailment, he was absolved from liability for the loss under Ss. 148, 151; and as regards three sovereigns, as the identical sovereigns were not intended to be melted and turned into jewellery, the property had passed to the goldsmith and he was indebted to the owner thereof and was liable to make good the loss. (1912) 15 Ind Cas 431 (431) : 5 Bur L Tim 106 * (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 264 (265) : 12 Luck 128. (Silver entrusted for making ornaments.)

Banker and customer. — [12] In the ordinary course of his trade, a banker is entitled to use moneys paid into his bank as his own, unless there is a direction which creates fiduciary relation between the banker and customer. Where the banker is to collect and remit, there is confidence and trust. Where the banker is to use and repay on demand there is no trust. (1909) 32 Mad 68 (70, 71) (DB).

[13] The relationship between a native banker and the person depositing money with him, in the ordinary way of business, is that of borrower and lender, and not bailor and bailee. (1889) 13 Bom 338 (341) (DB).

[14] There is distinction between bailment and deposit. Money paid into a bank to be credited into the current account of the person making the payment does not constitute a case of bailment. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 114 (115) : I L R (1946) Nag 210.

Contract with carriers. — [15] Section includes bailment for carriage. (1909) 32 Mad 95 (119, 120, 121) (FB).

[16] When a railway company receives and undertakes to carry goods from a station on its railway to a place on another distinct railway with which it communicates, it is a contract with the receiving company for the whole distance and the other railway company will

149. The delivery to the bailee may be made by doing anything which has the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the intended bailee or of any person authorized to hold them on his behalf.

150. The bailor is bound to disclose to the bailee faults in the goods bailed, of which the bailor is aware, and which materially interfere with the use of them, or expose the bailee to extraordinary risks; and if he does not make such disclosure, he is responsible for damage arising to the bailee directly from such faults.

If the goods are bailed for hire, the bailor is responsible for such damage, whether he was or was not aware of the existence of such faults in the goods bailed.

Illustrations.

(a) A lends a horse, which he knows to be vicious, to B. He does not disclose the fact that the horse is vicious. The horse runs away. B is thrown and injured. A is responsible to B for damage sustained.

(b) A hires a carriage of B. The carriage is unsafe, though B is not aware of it, and A is injured. B is responsible to A for the injury.

151. In all cases of bailment the bailee is bound to take as much care of the goods bailed to him as a man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances, take of his own goods of the same bulk, quality, and value as the goods bailed.^b

[a] The responsibility of the trustees of the Port of Madras constituted under the Madras Port Trust Act, 1905 (Mad. 2 [II] of 1905), in regard to goods has been declared to be that of a bailee, under sections 151 and 152, without the qualifying words "in the absence of any special contract" in S. 152; see S. 40 (1) of that Act. [b] As to railway contracts, see the Indian Railways Act, 1890 (9 [IX] of 1890), S. 72. As to the liability of common carriers, see the Carriers Act, 1865 (8 [III] of 1865), S. 8.

152. The bailee, in the absence of any special contract, is not responsible for the loss, destruction, or deterioration of the thing bailed, if he has taken the amount of care of it described in section 151.

[a] See S. 151, foot-remark a.

be regarded as its agent, and not as contracting with the bailor. (Vol 26) 1939 All 649 (654).

[17] Railway company allowing goods to be placed in their premises for transportation is liable as bailee to consignor. (Vol 23) 1936 All 69 (72) : 58 All 576 (DB).

[18] Company depositing promissory note with Government as security in respect of private warehouse—Government becomes bailee and must return note without demand on termination of license. (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 746 (748) : 1 I L R (1939) 2 Cal 52 : 41 Cr L Jour 134.

Delivery of possession. — [19] Plaintiff arranging with defendant to get made certain jewels from goldsmiths working in defendant's house — Every evening plaintiff receiving from goldsmith half made jewels, putting them in box given by defendant for her use, keeping box in room and taking key in possession — Defendant, held, was not bailee, since there was no delivery of goods, the key remaining with plaintiff. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 32 (32, 33).

[20] There must be the putting into the possession of the bailee or of his agent of the goods in question — Merely putting into possession of documents of title does not constitute bailment of goods. (Vol 21) 1934 All 568 (568, 569).

[21] Seller is not bailee of purchaser in absence of contract to that effect. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 380 (384) : 10 Luck 104 (DB).

[22] Property recovered from thieves and kept in custody of person in charge of malikhanas—Such person absconding with property—Secretary of State for India not liable as bailee, property having come into his possession under provisions of Criminal P. C. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 572 (577) : 1 I L R (1937) Lah 380 (DB).

Explanation.—[23] After order of redelivery judgment-debtor and decree-holder become bailor and bailee. (Vol 18) 1929 Lah 386 (387).

Section 149 — Note 1

[1] When the goods have not been put in possession of railway company, mere acceptance of consignment notes is not acceptance of goods. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 296 (299) : 8 Pat 808 (DB).

[2] Lady handing over jewels to goldsmith to be melted for making new jewels—Every day lady receiving half-made jewels and keeping them in box in goldsmith's house, with key in her possession: Held, there was no delivery to goldsmith who could not, therefore, be regarded as bailee. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 32 (33).

[3] The mere fact that the loading clerk filled up the serial number in the forwarding note, without doing anything further, would not amount to the delivery of goods to the Railway by the consignor. (Vol 10) 1923 All 449 (450) : 45 All 235 (DB).

[4] Section 72, Railways Act, makes the railway a bailee under Contract Act. Section 149, Contract Act, gives a clear definition of delivery and Ss. 148 and 149 are equally incorporated with Railways Act, and define and control the liability of the railway company. Hence a railway company is not exempted from liability within meaning of S. 72, Railways Act, even where a consignor did not take the railway receipt, when, as a matter of fact, the package was taken over by the goods clerk and was duly marked, and was actually dispatched from the receiving station. In such a case there is delivery within the meaning of S. 149, Contract Act. (Vol 9) 1922 All 9 (11, 12) : 44 All 218 (FB).

[2] Consignee is liable for demurrage if he unjustifiably refuses to take delivery. But that liability ceases from the date of notice that goods will be sold by the company if delivery is not taken. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 824 (826) (DB).

[3] Bank taking possession of document of title only is responsible for safe custody of document and not of goods. (Vol 21) 1934 All 568 (569).

2. Common carriers by sea. — [1] In India the liabilities of a carrier are governed by the English Common Law. (1891) 18 Cal 620 (625) : 18 Ind App 121 (PC). [2] Where contract to carry passenger was made by foreign Company in Calcutta, they were bound by provisions of S. 151 of the Contract Act. (1881) 6 Cal 227 (235) (DB).

[But see (1905) 28 Mad 400 (408) (DB). (Carriers by sea for hire are common carriers by the common law of England and where the contract is made in Calcutta, whatever be the nationality of the carriers they will be governed by the lex loci contractus, which is the common law of England.)]

[3] Owners of lighter carrying goods are liable for loss of and damage to goods as bailees under S. 152 if in using lighter, they did not take amount of care described in S. 151. (Vol 4) 1917 Sind 47 (49) : 11 Sind L R 1.

3. Carriers by railway. — [1] The liability of a Railway Company for loss of goods consigned for carriage is governed by the tests laid in the sections. The Railway Company is not in the position of insurers as common carriers. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 892 (893, 894) (DB).

[2] It is doubtful whether Ss. 151 and 161 of Contract Act apply to carriers by rail; even if they do not, a Railway Company would be entitled, like carriers before Carriers Act, to protection from liability by special contract. (1884) 10 Cal 210 (214) (FB).

[3] The responsibility of a Railway Company is, subject to the provisions of Act IX of 1890, that of a bailee under Contract Act. (1894) 17 Mad 445 (446) * ('86) 1886 Pun Re No. 97, page 240 (241) (DB).

[8] Transit of horse by railway — Horse sustaining injuries — No agreement signed by sender under S. 10 Railways Act IV of 1879 — Company is liable. ('82) 1882 Pun Re No. 27 p. 375 (382) (DB).

[9] Consignor's suit for compensation for non-delivery is a suit in contract, and not in tort. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 285 (286) : 2 Pat 442 (DB).

[10] Railway Company accepting goods for carrying — "Bill of lading mentioning goods received in good condition" — Also providing that no English Common Law was applicable — Goods found damaged before being taken into custody by Company — Estoppel does not arise, as Railway Company's liability did not depend upon bill of lading or English Common Law. (Vol 22) 1935 Sind 218 (219, 220).

[11] Section 11, Railways Act IV of 1879 — Payment of increased charge puts Company in the position of ordinary bailees. (1893) 17 Bom 723 (727).

[12] Goods referred to in S. 75, Railways Act (1890) sent on "risk note" and not 'complying with that section — Railway company is not liable for loss of the goods. (1912) 34 All 656 (657) (DB).

[13] A Railway Company receiving goods for carriage is not bound to inquire into the apparent owner's title or to see that the risk note is read and understood by the person who delivers the goods. It is a contract binding on the consignor. In such a case the responsibility of the railway as bailee is governed by Ss. 150 and 151, limited by the agreement referred to above. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 170 (173) : 55 Cal 142 (DB).

4. Inn-keeper's liability. — [1] English law not applicable to adjudge hotel manager's liability — His liability is that of bailee—Proprietor liable for damages caused to guest, when there were thefts, and he himself was aware of insecurity of premises. (Vol 9) 1922 All 471 (472, 473) : 44 All 735 (DB).

5. Negligence of servant. — [1] Bailee is responsible for negligence of servants in the use and custody of goods, in the course of employment, but not for unauthorised act done outside course of employment. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 151 (155) (DB).

[2] Bailee is liable for employee's negligence unless expressly exempted. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 356 (358).

6. Standard and proof of negligence. — [1] "Necessary care" within S. 151 is a finding of fact not open to question in revision. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 264 (265) : 12 Luck 128.

[2] Whether it can be inferred from facts found that ordinary prudence has been exercised, is a question of law and justifies an interference in second appeal. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 80 (81).

[3] No cast iron standard for measure of care by bailee—Goods destroyed by unprecedented flood—Bailee not responsible. (Vol 20) 1933 All 158 (159) (DB).

[4] Held, Railway Company is responsible for negligence in preventing damage to goods after the discovery of the fire. (1913) 37 Bom 1 (15) (DB).

[5] Plaintiff depositing money with defendant for safe custody—Defendant depositing same in a bank, in which he had put his money—Bank solvent at the time —Subsequently failing—Defendant not liable. (Vol 3) 1916 All 7 (8) (DB).

[6] Pressure of work, or avoidable accident cannot help carrier to avoid liability under S. 151. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 737 (738, 739) (DB).

[7] The degree of the care required of the carrier in dealing with the goods depends upon and varies with the nature and condition of the thing carried. A man of ordinary prudence would not send his own jute in a boat with 20 or 30 leaks of 1 or 1½ inches in length and keep the jute in the hold of the boat for thirty hours. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 92 (94) (DB).

[8] Where omission to take precautions is deliberate and such as man of ordinary prudence would not make, carrier is liable—Carrying goods in unlocked van is wilful neglect. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 498 (500) (DB).

[9] Where loss is due to theft by a railway servant the company is liable; but when it is by an outsider, railway company is not liable. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 697 (700) (DB).

Sections 151 & 152 (contd.)

[10] Bags of biri stacked in open with station master's consent, as per custom and habits of business — Bags destroyed by fire, cause unknown — Held, Company was not liable. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 257 (253).

[11] Bailee is to communicate bailor, in emergency, with reasonable diligence. (Vol 20) 1933 All 158 (159) (DB).

[12] In case of highly perishable articles, bailee should take special precautions. (1911) 9 Ind Cas 470 (471) (Low Bur).

[13] Plaintiff sending uninsured jewellery by V. P. P. to save insurance fee — Defendant doing same, plaintiff not objecting — Plaintiff cannot urge that defendants neglect to insure on a particular occasion was want of due care as laid down in section 151. ('06) 1906 Pun Re No. 70 page 260 (263) (DB).

[14] Gratuitous bailee and bailee for hire — No difference as to amount of care required by both in principle. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 151 (154) (DB).

[15] Bailees are not liable for theft of goods bailed, if they had taken due care of the articles. (1900) 1900 Pun Re No. 90 page 371 (376) (DB) & (1912) 15 Ind Cas 431 (431, (Low Bur). (But bailee is liable to make good the loss of goods which were not the subject-matter of bailment e. g., sovereigns given to goldsmith for making ornaments.)

[16] Bailees insuring their own goods against fire, but not the goods bailed to them — Omission to insure is not absence of due care. (1898) 11 Mad 459 (466) (DB).

[17] A borrowed car from B — Car damaged by accident. B repaired car and sued A for amount — Held, it was contract of bailment, A failed to carry out obligation and suit was governed by Art. 115, Limitation Act. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 518 (519) : 9 Luck 139 (DB).

[18] Plaintiff entrusted driving beam of his sewing machine to defendant, who was a coppersmith, for repair. He wanted broken tip soldered with copper. Defendant undertook to do repair. He employed another coppersmith to do the work under his instructions. In the course of soldering excessive heat was applied, and other tip of driving beam was melted, rendering driving beam useless. Held, in a suit for damages, that S. 151 governed the case, which required from defendant care of skilled coppersmith. Held, also, that, if a man undertakes, whether for reward or not, to do something requiring special skill, he may be fairly called on, if things go wrong, to prove his competence. ('08) 1908 Upp Bur Rul 11.

[19] Absence of proof of negligence — Railway Company taking care of consigned goods with prudence — Loss of consigned goods — Railway Company was not responsible for loss. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 583 (583) (DB).

[20] Plaintiff instructing defendant, who was a commission agent in bullion, to purchase silver bars and keep them with defendant — Defendant purchasing bars and reporting that they were kept at plaintiff's risk — Bars kept by defendant at his pedis unlocked and unattended — Three bars lost — Defendant was bound to take ordinary care as bailee and was liable for loss, being guilty of negligence — The fact that bars were kept at plaintiff's risk was an additional term, which was not accepted by plaintiff — Defendant was not therefore, absolved from ordinary liability of bailee, which he had accepted by purchasing bars. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 101 (101, 102, 103) (DB).

7. Special contract. — [1] If there is a special contract, the bailee may be held liable for the loss etc., even though he has taken such care of the thing bailed, as is required by S. 151. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 207 (208) (DB).

[2] Clause in laundry receipt "Clothing cannot be claimed in case of any accident by fire or if things get torn." Held, clause safeguards only accidental tearing happening in spite of reasonable care taken and would not safeguard laundry against tearing due to negligent treatment, or deliberately improper treatment — Clause to safeguard against employee's negligence must be explicit to that effect and bailee (laundry-keeper) was liable for employee's negligence. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 356 (357).

[3] A bailee's liability cannot be reduced by any contract below the limits prescribed by S. 151. (1909) 32 Mad 95 (120) (SB) & (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 61 (66) (DB). (Carriers by sea.)

8. Burden of proof. — [1] Bailees sued for damages for loss of goods — Plaintiff is to prove want of diligence or negligence by producing best evidence — In moments of peril and emergency, Court should not expect ordinary diligence, and should not attribute negligence merely because of wrong judgment. (Vol 4) 1917 P C 173 (175, 176) (P C).

[6] Railway Company is liable to compensate for loss of or damage to goods, though claim is not put forward till after delivery has been taken and "clear" receipt is granted. Receipt is only prima facie evidence of fact and raises presumption in favour of receipt of goods. Bailor is not precluded from proving that goods were really damaged or deficient in quantity when delivered to him. (1912) 39 Cal 311 (313) (DB).

[1] Railway Company is bound to deliver goods as per reasonable instructions of consignor, and also of consignee if latter's name appears on Railway receipt. (Vol 16) 1929 All 960 (960) : 52 All 126 (DB).

SECTION 161 — Note 1

[1] Section 161 lays down the Common Law rule that a bailee who retains goods after the period, for which it has been bailed, does so at his own risk and is liable for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the goods whether or not he was at fault. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 411 (415) (DB) * (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 1056 (1057) (DB).

[2] Bailee not returning goods without demand at expiry of period of bailment but creating obstacles to deprive bailor of use of goods—It is wrongful detention—Bailee is liable for loss or deterioration. (1934) 35 Pun L R 705 (708, 709) (DB).

[3] Word 'deterioration' in S. 161 includes depreciation in value owing to fall in price of goods—Its meaning is same as in risk note B protecting railway company under special conditions. (Vol 17) 1930 All 132 (134) : 52 All 238 (DB).

[4] Goods bailed or pledged—Implied contract of return on demand—Refusal to deliver unlawful—Action lies in tort or contract. (Vol 6) 1919 All 102 (103) : 41 All 643 (DB).

[5] Liability of railway is governed by S 161. Refusal to deliver, except for unjust and unreasonable condition, amounts to default. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 29 (31) : 27 Nag L R 230.

[7] When goods consigned to a railway company are taken by a devious route and delivered, such delivery cannot be said to be in proper time within the meaning of S. 161. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 354 (354) (DB).

[9] Court can draw presumption as regards value against pledgee, not producing property in his possession, or improperly disposed of by him. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 364 (368) (DB).

[10] In an action for damages, full value of the chattles, at the time of the conversion, is the measure of damages. Bailor is not, however, entitled to more damages than value of goods, if he delays filing suit. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 93 (94) (DB).

[11] Executor of deceased bailee is personally liable, if he refuses to return goods on due date. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 93 (94) (DB).

[12] On bailee's death, his estate is liable for loss caused to bailor, his heir being constructive trustee—Section 161 is not exhaustive. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 15 (16) : 5 Luck 220 (DB).

[13] The moment the default of the bailee is established, and the responsibility falls to be determined by S. 161, the burden shifts on to him to prove that the loss, for which he is sought to be made responsible, by the bailor occurred prior to the commencement of default on his part. (Vol 19) 1932 All 584 (585).

[14] Article 145 of the Limitation Act governs suits for recovering deposit from an involuntary bailee. Fact of possession with bailee becoming wrongful, after demand is made, does not make Art. 49 applicable. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 416 (419).

SECTION 162 — Note 1

[1] The object of S. 162 is simply to bring out the general principle of law on the surface that the heir of a bailee, when the bailment is gratuitous, does not occupy on the death of such bailee the character of a bailee. The section does not do away with the principle of law that such an heir occupies the character of a constructive trustee in regard to the subject-matter of the bailment. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 15 (16) : 5 Luck 220 (DB).

[But see (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 416 (418).]

163. In the absence of any contract to the contrary, the bailee is bound to deliver to the bailor, or according to his directions, any increase or profit which may have accrued from goods bailed.

Illustration.

A leaves a cow in the custody of B to be taken care of. The cow has a calf. B is bound to deliver the calf as well as the cow to A.

164. The bailor is responsible to the bailee for any loss which the bailee may sustain by reason that the bailor was not entitled to make the bailment, or to receive back the goods, or to give directions respecting them.

165. If several joint owners of goods bail them, the bailee may deliver them back to, or according to the directions of, one joint owner without the consent of all, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary.

166. If the bailor has no title to the goods, and the bailee, in good faith, delivers them back to, or according to the directions of, the bailor, the bailee is not responsible to the owner in respect of such delivery.^a

[a] See the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 [I] of 1872), S. 117.

167. If a person, other than the bailor, claims goods bailed he may apply to the Court to stop the delivery of the goods to the bailor, and to decide the title to the goods.

168. The finder of goods has no right to sue the owner for compensation for trouble and expense voluntarily incurred by him to preserve the goods and to find out the owner; but he may retain the goods against the owner until he receives such compensation; and, where the owner has offered a specific reward for the return of goods lost, the finder may sue for such reward, and may retain the goods until he receives it.

169. When a thing, which is commonly the subject of sale, is lost, if the owner cannot, with reasonable diligence, be found, or if he refuses, upon demand, to pay the lawful charges of the finder, the finder may sell it—

- (1) when the thing is in danger of perishing or of losing the greater part of its value; or,
- (2) when the lawful charges of the finder in respect of the thing found amount to two-thirds of its value.

170. Where the bailee has, in accordance with the purpose of the bailment, rendered any service involving the exercise of labour or skill in respect of the goods bailed, he has, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, a right to retain such goods until he receives due remuneration for the services he has rendered in respect of them.

Illustrations.

(a) A delivers a rough diamond to B, a jeweller, to be cut and polished, which is accordingly done. B is entitled to retain the stone till he is paid for the services he has rendered.

(b) A gives cloth to B, a tailor, to make into a coat. B promises A to deliver the coat as soon as it is finished, and to give A three months' credit for the price. B is not entitled to retain the coat until he is paid.

SECTION 171 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Banker's lien.
3. Factor's lien.
4. Wharfinger's lien.
5. Attorney's lien.
6. Agent's lien.

1. Scope.—[1] In the absence of any provisions in the Contract Act, English law, in the matter of liens, can be applied in India, on grounds of justice, equity and good conscience. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 114 (116, 117) : I L R (1946) Nag 210.

[2] Lien is a right of defence, and not right of action and therefore there is no bar of limitation. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 114 (115) : I L R (1946) Nag 210.

[3] In the absence of contract to contrary, bailee cannot sell goods pledged and if sells, loses his lien. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 36 (39) : 24 Sind L R 268.

2. Banker's lien. — [1] Customer having two accounts — Customer owing on one account to bank — According to English law, which can be applied in India, in the absence of specific provision, Bank can claim lien on other accounts, and liquidate debts by transferring monies from one account to another. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 114 (116, 117) : I L R (1946) Nag 210.

[2] A bank can have a lien over money, of its customer, in its hands, and not on money, handed in for a specific purpose and accepted — Money handed over for transmission — Bank has no lien on it even if the remitter and payee are the same person. (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 225 (225) : 21 Sind L R 385 (DB).

[3] The rights of a creditor, who accommodates the customers by storing goods, for the purchase of which he has advanced money, are higher than those of an ordinary bailee, and he has a general lien under S. 171 of the Act, in so far that, in the former case, there is an implication, that the security shall, if necessary, be made effectual to discharge the obligation. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 576 (577, 578) : 11 Lah 678 (DB) & (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 408 (410) : 8 Lah 373 (DB) & (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 664 (665) : 48 Mad 747 (DB). (Nattukottai Chetties are bankers).

[4] Banker's lien covers all moneys of a particular customer, except those held in trust account. Profits placed in old overdraft account by Administrator-General through mutual error, did not give bank lien thereon; as Administrator-General acted in fiduciary character, and right to liquidate old overdraft was pari passu with general body of creditors. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 66 (70, 71) : 12 Rang 25.

[5] Banker's lien can properly be said to arise only in respect of any securities held by the bank. If the customer deposits certain securities, and ultimately there is a sum due to the Bank, the Bank has a lien over these securities and it can hold them against the amount due by the customer. In the case of money of the customer, paid into the bank into his current account, or deposit account, the amount ceases to be the property of the customer, and becomes the property of the banker and he is thereafter under a contractual obligation to repay or give credit to the customer for the amount. In such a case, there is no property of customer of which the banker has possession, the possession of the banker co-existing with his ownership of his money. In such a case, therefore, the essential conditions necessary to the existence of the lien are lacking. In such a case, the purpose of the lien is attained by the application of the principle of set off, whereby the banker can take into account any item in his favour as against any payment made by his customer before arriving at the balance subsisting between them. Where there is a certain sum to the credit of the customer in some account and he later on becomes indebted to the bank in respect of bills drawn by it, the bank would clearly be at liberty to set-off the amount in question against the amount due on the bills. (Question, when does the right to set-off arise considered with reference to the facts of the case.) (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 447 (449, 450) : I L R (1946) Mad 200.

[6] General lien held by bank does not entitle it to appropriate the fixed deposit in "either or survivor's" account towards the debt due by one of them alone. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 316 (316) (DB).

[7] The bankers lien is subject to any contract to the contrary, and the existence of such a contract must be proved by one alleging it. (1896) 19 Mad 234 (236) (DB).

3. Factor's lien. — [1] Factor is an agent entrusted with goods to be sold for principal. (Vol 18) 1926 Oudh 202 (202, 203) : 1 Luck 133 : 27 Cri L Jour 328 & (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1001 (1003) (FB).

[2] Factor making advances against them cannot sell without owners consent — But he can sue for refund of advances, before actual sale, if he has reasonably waited for sale though refund of advance from sale proceeds alone was agreed. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 183 (183) (DB).

[3] There is no rule of law giving a lien to the banian as against his employee nor is there any custom to that effect. (1891) 18 Cal 573 (597) : 18 Ind App 78 (P O).

[4] Secretaries and treasurers of company, who have made advances to the Company, and incurred expenses, and made disbursements on behalf of the company in the conduct of its business, are not "bankers, factors, . . . etc." and are not entitled to any lien on the property of the company in their possession. (1889) 13 Bom 314 (320, 321, 322).

4. Wharfinger's lien. — [1] Owners of a screw-house who have a wharf as an accessory are not wharfingers. (1882) 8 Cal 312 (315).

Bailments of Pledges.

172. The bailment of goods as security for payment of a debt or performance of a promise "pledge," "pawnor," and is called "pledge." The bailor is in this case called the "pawnor." "pawnee" defined. The bailee is called the "pawnee."

Section 171 (contd.).

5. Attorney's lien. — [1] Attorney has lien for his charges upon documents, moveables, etc., coming into his hands unless it comes for specific purpose inconsistent with right of retainer. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 67 (68) : 48 Cal 817.

[2] Solicitor who is discharged by his client has lien on papers entrusted to him, for his costs. The lien extends also to translations of documents made by Court translator at his expense. (1880) 4 Bom 353 (356).

[3] Solicitor has no lien for his costs on property recovered or preserved by his exertions. Solicitors engaged in suit can ask for charge on assets of partnership in hands of receiver before creditors of partnership. (1910) 34 Bom 484 (485).

[4] Mere order for costs fastens notice of solicitor's lien on third party. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 542 (549) : 51 Bom 855 (DB).

[5] Section 171 has not the effect of depriving attorneys of the passive or retaining lien which they possessed prior to the passing of the Contract Act. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 341 (344) : 60 Cal 1442.

[6] Barrister, on behalf of his client, paid into Court large sum in satisfaction of decree under protest, stating that owing to mistake in decree more money was deposited. In execution of another decree, this sum was attached while being deposit in Court. The Barrister claimed lien over portion of sum deposited. Held that the Barrister had no lien against the sum under Ss. 171, 217 and 221. Rule of solicitor's equitable lien in England did not apply to case, Barrister having obtained no decree in favour of his client and there being no fruits to obtain lien on. As Barrister had parted with possession of money without making any reference to his lien for fees, amount of fees could not be regarded as having been paid in under protest. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 224 (224, 225) : 8 Low Bur Rul 70 (DB).

6. Agent's lien.—[1] As to agent's lien on principal's property, see S. 221.

SECTION 172 — Note 1

Scope.—[1] English law on pawning does not apply in India. In latter, pawn can be taken in though time is not fixed for repayment of loan on account of which goods are deposited as security. (1907) 6 Cri L Jour 118 (119, 120) (Low Bur).

[2] A "pledge" or "pawn" as defined in S. 172 lies midway between a loan and a mortgage, which wholly passes the property in the thing conveyed. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 974 (974) (DB).

[3] Creditor advancing money for purchase of goods, and storing them in his godowns—It is quite likely that goods are security for advances, but such arrangement has to be proved. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 219 (220, 221) (P C).

[4] Rights of a person in whose favour a hypothecation is made of a chattel are limited strictly to actual chattel hypothecated and do not extend beyond that. So when some animals are the subject of hypothecation, the young ones born, when under pledge with the pledgee, are not subject to hypothecation. The young ones are fructus, and not mere accession to property within the meaning of S. 70, T. P. Act. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 515 (516, 517) : 1915 Pun Re No 10.

[5] Hypothecation of not only movables existing on the premises at the time, but also in respect of movables which might be subsequently acquired and brought there is valid. (Vol 28) 1933 Cal 154 (159) : 59 Cal 1372 (D B).

Mortgage and pledge.—[6] Distinct right to redeem is inseparable incident of mortgage and cannot be taken away by express agreement — Pledge confers special interest in the property of right to sell if loan be not repaid. Pledgee has no right of foreclosure. In mortgage right to property is transferred to creditor. In pledge, the pledgee has no property in the pawn. Parties to pledge by special agreement can introduce a clause so that on failure to redeem within certain time pledged property to vest in pledgee. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 413 (415, 416).

[7] Profits that would accrue from immovable property cannot be pledged, as pledge can be of movable property or goods, and such profits are neither movable property nor goods. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 15 (16) (DB).

Essentials.—[8] To show that a person is a pawn broker, it must be proved that he carries on the business of lending money, on the security of goods pledged to him, and that he holds himself out to lend money on such security and is in the habit of doing so. (1907) 6 Cri L Jour 118 (120) (Low Bur).

[9] A pledge in law is neither a mortgage nor a lien and does not pass property in the goods but only passes what is described as "special" property, that is, no title to the goods passes but the pledgee is allowed to retain the thing pledged till payment of the debt and in default of payment, to sell the thing pledged so as to pass the property to the vendee. There can be a pledge of goods either by pledging the goods eo nomine or by pledging the relative documents. Mere deposit of share certificates which are not goods is not enough to constitute valid pledge. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 394 (395, 396, 397) : 1 L R (1941) Mad 419.

[But see (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 947 (949) (DB). (For pledge possession of goods is essential and not mere delivery of title deeds).]

[10] To constitute pledge there must be delivery to pledgee of goods and retainer by him. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 524 (528) : 59 Cal 667 (DB).

[11] In the case of pledge of goods delivery may not be simultaneous with money advanced—May be actual or constructive. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 524 (528) : 59 Cal 667 (DB).

Hypothecation.—[12] In the absence of fraud, there is no inherent illegality, immorality, or opposition to public policy in the non-possessory hypothecation of movables, and, therefore, a contract for such a hypothecation is a valid contract. It is a transaction which is customary throughout the country and is suited to the circumstances and business intercourse of the people. (1911) 7 Nag L R 72 (77).

[13] The method provided by S. 172 for the hypothecation of loose chattels is not the only method for creating security thereon. They may be hypothecated without transferring their possession. In such cases the only question is whether there was an intention to create a security. If so equity gives effect to it. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 165 (166) (DB).

[14] When there was a mortgage of certain shop goods then lying on the premises, and the mortgagor undertook to keep on the premises stock to the extent of the debt replacing sold goods by new goods it is not a mere license but an equitable mortgage of the sub-

173. The pawnee may retain the goods pledged, not only for payment of the debt or the performance of the promise, but for the interest of the debt, and all necessary expenses incurred by him in respect of the possession or for the preservation of the goods pledged.

Pawnee's right of retention.
Pawnee not to retain for debt or promise other than that for which goods pledged.

Presumption in case of subsequent advances.

Pawnee's right as to extraordinary expenses incurred.

174. The pawnee shall not, in the absence of a contract to that effect, retain the goods pledged for any debt or promise other than the debt or promise for which they are pledged; but such contract, in the absence of anything to the contrary, shall be presumed in regard to subsequent advances made by the pawnee.

175. The pawnee is entitled to receive from the pawnor extraordinary expenses incurred by him for the preservation of the goods pledged.

176. If the pawnor makes default in payment of the debt, or performance, at the stipulated time, of the promise in respect of which the goods were pledged, the pawnee may bring a suit against the pawnor upon the debt or promise, and retain the goods pledged as a collateral security; or he may sell the thing pledged on giving the pawnor reasonable notice of the sale.

If the proceeds of such sale are less than the amount due in respect of the debt or promise, the pawnor is still liable to pay the balance. If the proceeds of the sale are greater than the amount so due, the pawnee shall pay over the surplus to the pawnor.

stituted goods, and there is complete assignment of after-acquired property. It is not necessary that an equitable assignment should be enforced by a suit for specific performance. The only condition is that the goods on coming into existence should be capable of identification as the things assigned. (1912) 6 Sind L R 97 (99, 100).

[15] Equity governs hypothecation. (1936) 40 Cal W N 625 (626).

Priority. — [16] Where the question is as to the priority between two instruments of hypothecation, the ordinary rule of qui prior est tempore potest jure must prevail. (1936) 40 Cal W N 625 (626).

[17] Simple mortgage of movables with power of sale — Possession not delivered — Subsequent pledge in favour of another party — Pledge valid and takes priority. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 524 (531) : 59 Cal 667 (DB).

[18] A subsequent incumbrancer, who has got possession of hypothecated movables is entitled to priority over a prior incumbrancer, without possession, unless the prior incumbrancer proves that the subsequent incumbrancer had notice. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 201 (201) : 9 Rang 182 (DB).

[19] A bona fide incumbrancer, without notice, who is in possession of movable property is to be preferred to an incumbrancer whose security is of prior date. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 265 (265) : 7 Low Bur Rul 336 (DB).

SECTION 174 — Note 1

[1] Pledge and subsequent advance raise a presumption that there is a contract to hold the pledge for such advances. Where the later advance is separately secured such presumption does not arise. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 507 (508) (DB).

SECTION 176 — Note 1

[1] Section 176 by defining the personal rights of the pledgee does not in any way cut down his rights to seek any remedy he may have through Courts. (Vol 32) 1945 All 299 (302) : I L R (1945) All 873.

[2] Neither absence of power to sell the goods, nor to recover the debt out of the sale proceeds, bars the pawnee from suing for the debt under the contract of loan. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 346 (347).

[3] Rights of pledgee to sue on debt or sell pledged property are concurrent. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 947 (949)

(DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 471 (474) : 53 Bom 819 * (1904) 27 Mad 528 (530) (FB) * (1895) 22 Cal 21 (23, 24) (DB).

[4] Principle, that creditor cannot recover debt for which security is given, when he cannot return it, applies when the debtor and person giving security are same. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 915 (916).

[5] When date for redeeming the pawned article has passed, the pawnee can sell article. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 135 (136) : 45 Cri L Jour 633 * (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 421 (423) (DB).

[6] Reasonable notice must be given to the pledgor before effecting sale of the pledged articles. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 421 (423) (DB).

[7] Pawnee is not bound to sell the pledged goods within a reasonable time after the time fixed in the notice. He can sell at any time. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1022 (1024).

[8] Where no time is fixed for repayment, pawnee has the right to sell after giving reasonable time for repayment by notice. Notice does not become invalid on failure to mention the specified amount payable. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 162 (163, 164) : I L R (1943) Nag 234.

[9] The notice must refer to the debt for which the pledged goods are to be sold. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 26 (27).

[10] Notice need not mention actual time and place of sale. (Vol 5) 1918 All 363 (364) : 40 All 322 (DB). (Fort night's notice reasonable.)

[11] No fresh notice is necessary for an adjourned sale. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 524 (532) : 59 Cal 667 (DB).

[12] Debtor is in default, where he fails to pay by the date fixed for repayment in the notice. (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 135 (136) : 45 Cri L Jour 633.

[13] Notice is not necessary to make the debt due and recoverable. Notice is necessary only before the goods are sold. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 536 (536).

[14] Where no period was fixed for the repayment of the loan in order to enforce the right of sale the pawnee should prove : (a) a demand for the amount due; (b) a default by the pawnor; (c) a notice of sale giving reasonable time to the pawnor to pay; and (d) an actual sale. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 408 (410) : 3 Lah 373 (DB).

[15] Pawnee is not tied up by the same considerations as an unpaid vendor and can sell even though the price is not reasonable. (29) 1929 Mad W N 167 (167, 168).

177. If a time is stipulated for the payment of the debt, or performance of the promise, for which the pledge is made, and the pawnor makes default in payment of the debt or performance of the promise at the stipulated time, he may redeem the goods pledged at any subsequent time before the actual sale of them:^a but he must, in that case, pay, in addition, any expenses which have arisen from his default.

[a] For limitation, see the Indian Limitation Act, 1908 [IX] of 1908), Sch. I, No. 145.

^a[178. Where a mercantile agent, is, with the consent of the owner, in possession of goods or the documents of title to goods, any pledge made by him, when acting in the ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent, shall be as valid as if he were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same; provided that the pawnee acts in good faith and has not at the time of the pledge notice that the pawnor has not authority to pledge.

SECTION 178 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. "Consent of the owner."
3. Goods.
4. Documents of title.
5. Pledge of documents of title.
6. Expressly authorised.
7. Proviso.

1. Scope. — [1] Even after the amendment of 1930, "regarding this section, the old rule that a person cannot give another a title," higher than what he himself has, and which is subject to certain exceptions embodied in Ss. 178 and 178A continues to apply and the goods entrusted for safe custody cannot be the subject of valid pledge by the depositor. Section 178, which is confined to cases of mercantile agents only, does not apply to such case. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 299 (300).

[2] Section 179 does not limit the scope to S. 178, but saves a pledge to the extent of the pledgor's interest, notwithstanding the presence of invalidating conditions under S. 178 (case before the amendment). (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 152 (158) : 42 Bom 205 (DB).

2. "Consent of the owner." — [1] It is immaterial in the case of a mercantile agent how the consent of the owner to the agent's possession was obtained. Consent, though secured by fraud, protects pledgee acting bona fide. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 146 (147, 148) : 38 Cri L Jour 711 (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 198 (199) : 35 Cri L Jour 1875.

^a[178A. When the pawnor has obtained possession of the goods pledged by him under Pledge by person in possession under voidable contract. contract voidable under section 19 or section 19A, but the contract has not been rescinded at the time of the pledge, the pawnee acquires a good title to the goods, provided he acts in good faith and without notice of the pawnor's defect of title.]

Pledge where pawnor has only a limited interest. 179. Where a person pledges goods in which he has only a limited interest, the pledge is valid to the extent of that interest.

Suits by Bailees or Bailors against Wrong doers.

180. If a third person wrongfully deprives the bailee of the use or possession of the goods bailed, or does them any injury, the bailee is entitled to use such remedies Suit by bailor or bailee against wrong-doer. as the owner might have used in the like case if no bailment had been made; and either the bailor or the bailee may bring a suit against a third person for such deprivation or injury.

Section 178 (contd.)

[2] Bailment for specific purpose — Bailee selling unauthorisedly—Bailment ends and purchaser does not get good title. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 44 (46) : 45 Mad 173 (DB).

7. Proviso.—[1] Act is done in good faith when it is done honestly; whether it is done negligently or not, is immaterial. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 545 (547) (DB) (1908) 30 All 165 (166, 167) (DB).

[2] Where a person was entrusted with a diamond as agent for obtaining offers for it, and if any such offer was approved by the owner, for selling it, and acting contrary to the instructions of the owner, the agent pledged it to persons who assumed that the agent was entitled to do so : Held that the pledge was valid. [3] Shop-owner's employee in charge of the shop pawning articles in shop — Pawnee, receiving in good faith, is protected by S. 178. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 227 (230) : 24 Cri L Jour 858 : 1 Rang 199 (DB).

[5] Pledgee advancing large sum of Rs. 19,600.—This fact alone will not establish his bona fides. (1863) 9 Moo Ind App 140 (166) (P C).

[6] Where the pawnee does not act in "good faith" within the meaning of the proviso and where circumstances are such as to raise a reasonable presumption in his mind that the agent pawning goods was acting improperly, pawnee cannot claim to hold the goods liable for a debt contracted by an unauthorised agent. ('82) 1882 Pun Re No. 199, p. 577 (583) (DB). (Case before 1930 amendment.)

[7] Pledgee taking goods from agent of whom he knows nothing cannot be said to have acted bona fide, and if such agent has no authority to pledge, pledge is invalid. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 243 (244, 245) : 39 Cri L Jour 784.

[8] Where A and B, not being mercantile agents within meaning of S. 2 (9), Sale of Goods Act, deposited ornaments with C, who received them not in good faith, and all of them were accused of criminal breach of trust but C was acquitted : Held, that C was not protected under S. 178, Contract Act, and hence, was not entitled to possession of property under S. 517, Criminal P. C., although the general rule is that on acquittal property, in relation to which accused is charged, should be returned to him. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 33 (35) : 38 Cri L Jour 382.

[9] When it is alleged that circumstances exist whereby a transferee has obtained a better title to goods or documents than the transferor possessed, the person or persons relying on such transfer should be in a position to prove the circumstances. (1938) 67 Cal L Jour 276 (276) (DB).

SECTION 178A — Note 1

[1] Where certain ornaments are merely handed over to the accused for use and on their being misappropriated and pledged, the accused were convicted : Held, that the ornaments should be returned to the owner, that the pledgee could not retain them as the owner had been deprived of them by a criminal offence, and that the fact that the owner delayed to bring proceedings could not alter the fact that she was deprived of her possession of the ornaments by a criminal offence. Section 178A was not applicable to such a case as there was no contract. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 205 (206) : 36 Cri L Jour 1106.

SECTION 179 — Note 1

[1] Section 179 protects the bona fide pledgee and not the buyer. (1909) 11 Bom L R 926 (984, 985, 986).

[2] Mortgagor in possession of movables mortgaging to third person—Third person selling it—First mortgagee cannot recover from second mortgagee unless he proves that second mortgagee had notice of prior mortgage. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 177 (177, 178) (DB).

[3] Property in pledge—Pledger settling property in trust, but giving no power to redeem to trustee—Subsequent hypothecation to bona fide pledgee—Subsequent transferee can redeem property and proceed against it for his debt. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1201 (1206) : 52 Mad 465 (DB).

[1] Either a bailor or bailee of a chattel may maintain an action in respect of it against a wrong doer; the latter, by virtue of possession, the former, by virtue of his property. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 788 (790) : 43 Cal 783 (DB).

[2] Under S. 180 the bailee is entitled to maintain an action against a third party who does not claim under the bailor. As a bailee, he is not the agent of the bailor and can sue and claim the full damages for loss due to the alleged negligence of the defendant without prejudice to the rights of the bailor to adjust with the bailee amount of damages when recovered. (Vol 20) 1938 Bom 465 (467) : 58 Bom 189.

Apportionment of relief or compensation obtained by such suit.

181. Whatever is obtained by way of relief or compensation in any such suit shall, as between the bailor and the bailee, be dealt with according to their respective interests.

CHAPTER X.

AGENCY.

Appointment and Authority of Agents.

182. An "agent" is a person employed to do any act for another or to represent another in "Agent" and "principal" defined. dealings with third persons. The person for whom such act is done, or who is so represented, is called the "principal."

SECTION 182 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Broker.
3. Del credere agent.
4. Commission agents.
5. Pakka adatia and cutcha adatia.
6. Manager of joint Hindu family and guardian of minor.
7. Illustrative cases.

1. Scope. — [1] Definition of agent given in S. 182 is wider than in English law. It does not limit the employment to one by the principal only. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 643 (655) (DB). (Common manager appointed under S. 95, Bengal Tenancy Act, is agent within the definition.)

[2] Definition of agent given in S. 182 is very wide and embraces a servant pure and simple. (Vol 25) 1933 Nag 254 (255).

[3] Use of word "agent" in general way, loosely without specifying purpose of agency, does not help to determine, as a matter of fact, whether person is agent. (1913) 14 Mad L Tim 249 (255) (DB).

[4] Unless authority to act is conferred and accepted, the mere settlement of the terms of remuneration does not constitute a contract of agency. (Vol 5) 1918 Sind I (3) : 12 Sind L R 93.

[5] Whatever might be the words used in the pleadings, the relationship between the parties is to be determined upon the real character of the contract between them. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 204 (208) (DB).

[See also (30) 1930 Mad W N 729 (746) (DB). (Question of agency is mixed question of fact and law.)]

[6] Agency need not be created expressly by any written document and can be inferred from the circumstances and the conduct of the parties. (Vol 18) 1931 All 372 (372, 373) (DB).

[7] The word 'agent' does not of itself imply full authority to bind the principal, in the same way that a partner can bind his co-partner. Sections 186 and 187, Contract Act, show that the authority of an agent is to be gathered from either "words" or "circumstances" and is not implied in the mere fact that he is an agent. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom. 232 (228) : 48 Bom 20 (DB).

[8] A person does not become an agent on behalf of another merely because he gives him advice in matters of business. Agency is founded upon contract express or implied between the parties. (1907) 6 Cal L Jour 580 (585) (DB).

[9] Every act of agent in course of his employment on behalf of principal and within apparent scope of his authority binds principal unless agent is in fact unauthorised to do that act and person dealing with him has notice of same. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 687 (690) (DB).

[10] Agent empowered to pledge his principal to one kind of arbitration can pledge him to another, if it arises out of same transaction. (1910) 34 Bom 13 (49) (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 541 (544) (DB).

[11] The word 'person' in S. 182 includes a joint family — An agent appointed by the manager of the family is the agent of the family and not of the manager. (Vol 21) 1934 All 553 (556) (DB).

[12] Where the term of an agency for sale has expired, a subsequent execution thereof by the agent is invalid unless the term has been extended. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 964 (969) : 43 Cal 833 (DB).

2. Broker. — [1] A broker is the agent of the person for whom he acts. He is not entrusted with the custody and the apparent ownership of the goods, but he is to effect business on commission. (Vol 4) 1917 All 466 (468) : 39 All 81 (DB).

[2] Broker is the agent of party who first employs him. To make him agent of the other party there must be some words or conduct by which authorization to act on behalf of other party is expressed or is to be positively inferred. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 601 (603) (Low Bur).

[3] A broker is the agent of both parties and his contract is one of employment. But if he departs from the business of negotiation, makes himself the agent of his principal to sell or buy, he makes a contract of sale or purchase and is liable on it. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 548 (550) : 42 Cal 1050 (DB).

[4] The broker's duty is simply to bring the parties together, to arrange a transaction and to get the contract completed. The performance of the contract is a matter between the promisor and promisee. The broker need not look for the fulfilment of the contract for earning his remuneration. (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 56 (56, 57) (DB) (Vol 17) 1930 All 545 (548) : 52 All 688 (DB) (1923) 38 Cal L Jour 139 (141).

[5] Broker can claim commission if he brings about sale or even agreement to sell. (1921) 60 Ind Cas 727 (728) (Lah).

[6] To entitle a broker to his commission, he must prove either that the transaction has been completed or that if it is not, the non-completion was due to default on the part of the principal. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 433 (434) (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 126 (127) : 10 Low Bur Rul 15.

[7] The main office of a loan broker is to bring the borrower and the lender together, and when he has done that he has done all that is necessary for him to do and earn his commission. There must be in the lender the willingness to open negotiation upon a reasonable basis. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 270 (273) : 52 Bom 627.

[8] In the absence of a contract to the contrary brokerage is only payable on the completion of a deed of conveyance, it being the broker's duty to introduce a person willing and able to complete the purchase. (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 168 (169) : ILR (1944) Kar 42 (DB).

[9] Calcutta jute market — Brokers are liable to buyers and sellers in all "principal contracts" — In the case of breach of contract the broker is entitled to go to arbitration under a clause to that effect. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 419 (422) : 50 Cal 12.

3. Del credere agent. — [1] Del credere agent is one who guarantees performance of contract in consideration of extra remuneration. He is also party to contract. A dubash is not a del credere agent for contracts entered into without his intervention. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 544 (551) : 49 Mad 156 (DB).

[2] The certified brokers of the Bombay Native Stock and Share Brokers' Association are del credere agents of their constituents. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 308 (315) : 46 Bom 489 (DB).

4. Commission agents.—[1] A person who receives goods from another as a commission agent and then sells them for him is an agent up to a certain point, that is, up to the date of the sale, and thereafter may be a debtor pure and simple. The test to know the relation is this : does the commission agent, when he sells, has authority to sell in his own name; has he authority in his own right to pass a valid title. If he has, then he is acting as a principal vis-a-vis the purchasers and not merely as an agent and, therefore, from that point on, he is a debtor of his erstwhile principal and not merely an agent. Whether this is so or not must of course depend upon the facts in each particular case. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag. 254 (255).

[2] Commission agent is not legally agent of all persons and firms, whom he occasionally transacts business for. Agency is only with reference to specific sales or purchases made under directions of principal. (Vol 5) 1918 Sind 1 (3) : 12 Sind L R 93.

5. Pakka adatia and cutcha adatia. — [1] A pakki adat is a speculative transaction and not a wager and a pakka adatia has a right to be indemnified by the seller. (Vol 4) 1917 P C 101 (102) : 45 Ind App 29 : 42 Bom 373 (PC).

[2] Pakka adatia is something more than commission agent and very like ordinary del credere agent, receiving orders from constituents and placing them in open market; but he can allocate his principal's contracts to himself when it suits him to do so. (1913) 15 Bom L R 85 (96).

[3] Where there is a contract between a pacca arhtiya and a constituent, the pacca arhtiya is himself responsible to his constituent. The fact that he did or did not enter into a contract with a third party in pursuance of the order of his constituent makes no difference. For all practical purposes, the pacca arhtiya himself and his constituent act as principal parties. A contract between a pacca arhtiya on one side and his constituent on the other is a contract between them as principals and the pacca arhtiya does not act, in such cases, as an agent of his constituent. (Vol 27) 1940 All. 182 (188) : ILR (1940) All 186 & (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 195 (196). (The only claim of constituent against pukka artia is for liquidated sum.) & (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 581 (585) : ILR (1937) Lah 683 (DB).

[4] A pakka adatia can become principal to enforce any contract entrusted to him as agent by his original principal against that principal. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 187 (187).

[5] Pakka adatia enters into contracts under instructions from his employer, principal. But constituent is not concerned with method in which his instructions are carried out. So it is open to constituents to set up plea of wagering contracts. (1913) 37 Bom 347 (350).

[6] In pakka adatia agency cases, place of payment is primarily place where constituent resides, but payment may be made in any other place if constituent so chooses. Mere fact that principal has to bear charges on account of remittance and exchange does not sufficiently show that place of payment is place whence agent remits money. Liability of pakka adatia ceases when hard cash has come into his constituent's hands. (1909) 33 Bom 364 (368) (DB).

[7] Rule of English law that payment of commission is conclusive proof of existence of agency does not equally apply to pakka adatia dealing in Bombay. (1909) 11 Bom L R 926 (943).

[8] Even where the contract purports to give an agent absolute discretion, just as pakka adatias in Bombay have discretion as to calling for margin, it is incumbent on him to show that circumstances exist for the reasonable exercise of that discretion. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 125 (126, 127) (DB).

[9] When a cutcha adatia enters into transaction under instructions from and on behalf of his up-country constituent with a third party in Bombay, he makes privity of contract between the third party and the constituent, so that each becomes liable to the other, but also he renders himself responsible on the contract to the third party. He does not ordinarily communicate the name of his constituent to the third party, but he informs the constituent of the name of the third party. The position, therefore as between himself and the third party is that he is agent for an unnamed principal with personal liability on himself. His remuneration consists solely of commission, and he is in no way interested in the profits or losses made by his constituent on the contracts entered into by him on his constituent's behalf. Hence a contract of catcha adatia agency is not a wagering contract. (Vol 13) 1926 P C 119 (120) : 51 Bom 1 : 53 Ind App 241 (PC) & (Vol 27) 1940 All 182 (183) : ILR (1940) All 136.

If this authority to settle the lease could be inferred from the facts and circumstances, it would have been more than enough; or if it could be established that he had authority generally to make all settlements, that also would have been sufficient; or if the settlement of this lease was necessary in order to do an act which D was authorised to do, that also would have sufficed. SECTION 188 — Note 1

[1] According to S. 188, power-of-attorney should be construed strictly. [4] Where an act purporting to be done under a power-of-attorney is challenged as being in excess of the authority conferred by the power, it is necessary to show that on a fair construction of the whole instrument, the authority in question is to be found within the four corners of the instrument either in express terms or by necessary implication. The limits of necessary implication are indicated by S. 188, Contract Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 966 (969) (D B).

[5] Whenever the very act of the agent is authorised by the terms of the power, it is binding on the constituent, as to all persons dealing in good faith with the agent; such persons are not bound to enquire into facts aliunde. appointed by the principal.

Agent's responsibility for sub-agent.

Sub-agent's responsibility.

192. Where a sub-agent is properly appointed, the principal is, so far as regards third persons, represented by the sub-agent, and is bound by, and responsible for, his acts, as if he were an agent originally appointed by the principal.

The agent is responsible to the principal for the acts of the sub-agent.

The sub-agent is responsible for his acts to the agent, but not to the principal, except in case of fraud or wilful wrong.

193. Where an agent, without having authority to do so, has appointed a person to act as a sub-agent, the agent stands towards such person in the relation of a principal to an agent, and is responsible for his acts both to the principal and to third persons; the principal is not represented by, or responsible for the acts of, the persons so employed, nor is that person responsible to the principal.

Agent's responsibility for sub-agent appointed without authority.

Relation between principal and person duly appointed by agent to act in business of agency.

194. Where an agent, holding an express or implied authority to name another person to act for the principal in the business of the agency, has named another person accordingly, such person is not a sub-agent, but an agent of the principal for such part of the business of the agency as is entrusted to him.

SECTION 190 — Note 1

[1] As a general rule, an agent cannot without authority from his principal devolve upon another obligations to the principal which he has himself undertaken to personally fulfil. But in special circumstances, it is permissible for the agent to appoint a substitute who would be responsible to the principal in the same way as the agent himself. Such a substitute is not a sub-agent but an agent of the principal. (Vol 26) 1939 All 188 (189).

[2] Authority to appoint sub-agent may be presumed from facts and the nature of the agency. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 84 (85) : 11 Low Bur Rul 326 (DB).

SECTION 192 — Note 1

[1] There is no privity of contract between the principal and the sub-agent. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 509 (513) (DB).

[2] Authority to appoint sub-agents does not discharge agent's liability to principal for acts of sub-agent, nor creates a privity between principal and sub-agent nor brings the case under S. 194 i.e. procuring an agent. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 247 (250, 251) : 25 Sind L R 28 (DB).

[3] Every agent who employs a sub-agent is liable to the principal for money received by the sub-agent to the principal's use, and is responsible to the principal for the negligence and other breaches of duty of the sub-agent in the course of his employment. [6] Receiver to an estate appointing tahsildar — Tahsildar may be regarded as sub-agent liable to Receiver and not to the principal. (1908) 8 Cal L Jour 114 (115) (DB).

SECTION 194 — Note 1

[1] The true test to determine whether the person appointed by the agent authorised in that behalf to perform part of the business of agency is a substituted agent of the principal or the sub-agent of the agent is to see if there is a privity of contract between the principal and the person so appointed, and the test to be applied is the same whether the case falls within S. 194 or whether the person so appointed is nominee of the principal, although there is difference in the obligation

195. In selecting such agent for his principal, an agent is bound to exercise the same amount of discretion as a man of ordinary prudence would exercise in his own case; and, if he does this, he is not responsible to the principal for the acts or negligence of the agent so selected.

Illustrations.

(a) A instructs B, a merchant, to buy a ship for him. B employs a ship-surveyor of good reputation to choose a ship for A. The surveyor makes the choice negligently, and the ship turns out to be unseaworthy, and is lost. B is not, but the surveyor is, responsible to A.

(b) A consigns goods to B, a merchant, for sale. B, in due course, employs an auctioneer in good credit to sell the goods of A, and allows the auctioneer to receive the proceeds of the sale. The auctioneer afterwards becomes insolvent without having accounted for the proceeds. B is not responsible to A for the proceeds.

[2] Plaintiff who was owner of houses appointed a banking concern to lease out his houses. In the course of the correspondence, plaintiff wrote to bank's agent thus: "In any case you need not enquire from me about renting the cottages. You have full authority to accept anything." The banking concern appointed defendant as agent on behalf of plaintiff to rent the houses: Held, that the plaintiff had given very wide powers to the banking concern and the power to appoint an agent under these circumstances might well be inferred. A banking concern usually is not expected to go about in search of tenants and plaintiff must have known that other agencies would have to be employed in order to find suitable tenants for the houses. Under these circumstances the bank had authority to appoint defendant as agent and the latter was accountable to plaintiff. (Vol 26) 1939 All 188 (189).

[3] Where a person appoints one branch of a bank as his agent for the purchase of certain goods and that branch instructs another branch of the same bank to pay for and take delivery of the goods for such person the latter branch becomes a substituted agent of the person and is bound to carry out all the instructions of the principal in respect of the transaction. SECTION 195 — Note 1

[1] It cannot be said that as the agent is responsible to the principal for negligence in the relation of a substituted agent, his hands would be tied as soon as he made the nomination and cannot revoke it although he may later discover that the person appointed by him was unworthy of his choice. Section 195 itself implies the power of revocation in an agent in the case of a substituted person. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 76 (85).

[2] Where an agent selects a competent person as a sub-agent to do a particular business, the former is not responsible to the principal for the negligence of the agent so selected. (1909) 3 Sind L R 191 (194).

SECTION 196 — Synopsis

1. Ratification—Essentials of.
2. Acts done without authority.
3. Ratification—Effect of.
4. Ratification by quondam minor.
5. Acts which cannot be ratified.

1. Ratification—Essentials of.—[1] The first essential to the doctrine of ratification, with its necessary consequence of relating back, is that the agent shall not be acting for himself, but shall be intending to bind a named or ascertainable principal. (Vol 23) 1936 P C 193 (197) (P C) * (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 87 (92) (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 805 (811). (Man can ratify that which purported to be done for him, but cannot ratify thing done for somebody else.) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 250 (253) (DB) * (1908) 35 Cal 420 (429): 35 Ind App 48 (P C) * (1908) 8 Cal L Jour 458 (467) (DB) * (1881-'82) 6 Bom 463 (466) (DB).

[2] Section 196 refers to contracts which have been entered into by persons on behalf of others without their knowledge or authority but not to contracts which have been expressly forbidden either by those persons who are alleged to have ratified them later or by law. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 957 (960): ILR (1939) Mad 928 (DB).

[3] Effective ratification necessarily involves knowledge of all the material facts on the part of him who ratifies. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 278 (281) (P C) * (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 87 (92) (D B) * (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 312 (314): 6 Luck 19 (DB) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (485) (D B). (Full knowledge of facts must be proved.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 54 (58) (DB).

[4] In order to ratify something it is necessary that that thing must exist. (Vol 18) 1926 Cal 1215 (1217) (DB).

[5] It is possible for the act of an agent done within time to be subsequently ratified by the principal. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 290 (292) (DB).

[6] A principal cannot ratify a transaction in part and repudiate it in part. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 54 (58) (D B) * (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 25 (27).

[7] In determining whether the principal ratified an act of the agent the question is not what the principal intended to do but what he did. That is, his acts are conclusive evidence of his intention. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (483) (DB).

[8] An option of ratification is capable of being exercised within a reasonable time of the act purported to be ratified and not after the expiry of the period for which the option was open. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 957 (960): ILR (1939) Mad 928 (DB).

[9] There can be no ratification of a contract unless it is communicated to the other side or that subsequent Ratification may be expressed or implied.

197. Ratification may be expressed or may be implied in the conduct of the person on whose behalf the acts are done.

Section 196 (contd.)

actions show an approbation of the contract. (Vol 25) 1988 Nag 482 (482) : ILR (1940) Nag 29 (DB).

[10] Ratification is different from consent. Consent is an express or implied agreement to waive the right to avoid an act and precedes the transaction. Ratification is subsequent in point of time to the transaction which is voidable. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 180 (182).

2. Acts done without authority. — [1] In order to establish a case of ratification, it is essential that the party ratifying should be conscious that an act beyond the authority of the agent had been done, and further after notice of that fact, the party consciously by an overt act agreed to be bound by it or by acquiescence in the situation arising thereafter allowed the business to continue. In either event, consciousness of the act done by the agent without authority must be proved, and, secondly, it should be proved that, after notice of such unauthorized act, the principal adopted the transaction. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 62 (69) : 60 Bom 326 (DB).

[2] An act done by an agent of the Government, though in excess of his authority can be ratified by the Government and on being ratified is equivalent to previous authority. (1859) 7 Moo Ind App 476 (539, 540) (PC) * (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 174 (190) : 38 Mad 997 (D B) * (1861) 8 Moo Ind App 529 (554) (PC).

[3] Arbitration — Award — Agent not authorised to apply for or consent to reference — Principal aware of arbitration proceedings and tacitly ratifying action of agent — Principal cannot question validity of award. (1897) 24 Cal 469 (472) (DB).

[4] A mortgage executed by a general agent holding a power of attorney, which did not authorise him to execute mortgages is operative if acted upon and ratified by the principal. (Vol 9) 1922 All 197 (199) : 44 All 77 (DB).

[5] Where an act of an agent done in excess of his authority is ratified by the principal, the personal liability of the agent to the principal ceases. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (482) (DB).

3. Ratification—Effect of. — [1] Ratification is in law equivalent to previous authority. (Vol 30) 1943 P C 66 (68) : 70 Ind App 50 : I L R (1944) Mad 1 : I L R (1943) Kar (P C) 77 (P C) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 805 (811).

[2] Ratification relates back to the time of inception of the transaction and has a complete retroactive efficacy. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 87 (92) (DB) * (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 290 (292) (DB).

[3] Since an act done by a person not authorised to do it can be ratified, it follows that such act is not void but voidable. If it is not ratified, it will become void; but if it is ratified, it is validated. (Vol 25) 1938 All 369 (373) : ILR (1938) All 614 (DB).

[4] Ratification once deliberately made upon full knowledge of all the material circumstances becomes at once obligatory and cannot afterwards be revoked or recalled. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 174 (189, 190) : 38 Mad 997 (DB).

[5] Mere ex post facto submission not amounting to ratification does not amount to estoppel. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 95 (97) (DB).

4. Ratification by quondam minor. — [1] In order that an act may amount to a ratification, there must be after majority and after the late minor has acquired full knowledge of the nature and effect of the transaction, some promise or other act, which shows an internal acknowledgment of his liability in respect of the act done on his behalf during minority. Where, therefore, a person, two months after attaining majority, renews the promissory note executed by the late agent of his mother guardian and such agent at the time of the renewal is in the employ of the person in whose favour the promissory note is executed, it cannot be said that the act of the minor amounted to a ratification of the act of his mother guardian and the plaintiff must prove that there was a legal necessity. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 127 (128) : 31 Nag L R 243 * (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 68 (72) (DB).

[2] The question of ratification in minors' cases can arise only with respect to the actions of guardians. Such actions are ordinarily binding until set aside by the minor on attaining majority or by someone on his behalf before that. Therefore, on the minor's attaining majority if he does not repudiate the actions of his guardian within a reasonable time or if he elects to ratify them, he is bound by his election. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 390 (391) : ILR (1937) Nag 458.

[3] In order to ratify the transaction of a lease by guardian, it would not be enough to show that the rent was received by the am mukhtear unless it was further shown that that am-mukhtear was given the power not only to collect rent from tenants but also for ratifying contracts which his master could avoid. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 796 (800) (DB).

[4] Sale deed by minor's guardian—Minor on attaining majority ratifying that transaction by deed—Latter deed does not require registration. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 263 (264) : ILR (1943) Nag 574.

5. Acts which cannot be ratified. — [1] A void agreement cannot be ratified. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 362 (364) * (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 390 (391) : I L R (1937) Nag 458 * (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 748 (749). (Void lease against minor.) * (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 312 (314) : 6 Luck 19 (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 612 (613) (D B). (Void lease.) * (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 50 (54) : 55 Cal 841 (D B) * (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 214 (215) * (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 338 (343) * (1899) 9 Mad L Jour 104 (105) (DB).

[2] Alienation by manager of joint Hindu family void in its inception — Subsequent assent of members cannot validate it. (1912) 35 Mad 177 (182) (DB).

[3] Mortgage of minor's property by guardian not for minor's benefit but for his own—There can be no ratification. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 661 (662) (DB).

[4] Any action by a person who is not a guardian of the minor and who has no authority to act on behalf of the minor, is incapable of ratification. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 390 (391) : ILR (1937) Nag 458.

[5] Official Receiver is not agent of Court and an unauthorised sale by him cannot be ratified by Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1 (2) : 50 Mad 135 (FB).

[6] Where one of the partners sells the firm property to a person in his own right and not on behalf of the other partner or the firm and subsequently, the second partner also sells the same property to other person, there can be no ratification under S. 196 by the second partner of the sale by the first. (Vol 27) 1940 All 453 (454) : I L R (1940) All 674 (D B).

[7] A company cannot ratify or adopt a contract entered by a person on its behalf before incorporation though it may enter into a new contract embodying the terms of the old one or adopting the old one. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 100 (101).

SECTION 197 — Note 1

[1] Ratification may be express or implied. (Vol 30) 1943 P C 66 (68) : 70 Ind App 50 : I L R (1944) Mad 1 : I L R (1944) Kar P C 77 (P C).

[2] Express ratification unless communicated to other party is incomplete and is liable to be revoked. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 174 (180) : 38 Mad 997 (D B).

(a) A, without authority, buys goods for B. Afterwards B sells them to C on his own account. B's conduct implies a ratification of the purchase made for him by A.

(b) A, without B's authority, lends B's money to C. Afterwards B accepts interest on the money from C. B's conduct implies a ratification of the loan.

Knowledge requisite to valid ratification.

198. No valid ratification can be made by a person whose knowledge of the facts of the case is materially defective.

Effect of ratifying unauthorized act forming part of a transaction.

199. A person ratifying any unauthorized act done on his behalf ratifies the whole of the transaction of which such act formed a part.

200. An act done by one person on behalf of another, without such other person's authority, which, if done with authority, would have the effect of subjecting a third person to damages, or of terminating any right or interest of a third person, cannot, by ratification, be made to have such effect.

Illustrations.

(a) A, not being authorized thereto by B, demands, on behalf of B, the delivery of a chattel, the property of B, from C, who is in possession of it. This demand cannot be ratified by B, so as to make C liable for damages for his refusal to deliver.

(b) A holds a lease from B, terminable on three months' notice. C, an unauthorized person, gives notice of termination to A. The notice cannot be ratified by B, so as to be binding on A.

[3] Absence of notice by principal of his dissent to agent's unauthorised act within reasonable time raises presumption of ratification (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 343 (344) (D B).

[4] Ratification can be implied from the principal's silence or acquiescence. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1133 (1136) : (D B) * (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 476 (478) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 859 (862) (D B). [5] Ratification by a long course of conduct is as effective as one by formal declaration. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 174 (190) : 38 Mad 997 (D B).

[6] A mere ex post facto submission to what has taken place is no ratification of it. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 95 (97) (D B).

[7] Where an agent enters into a transaction not authorised by his principal, if the agent fully and frankly discloses what he has done and the principal takes no objection or abstains from pressing his objection after hearing the agent's explanations, ratification may readily be presumed. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 343 (344) (D B).

[8] Ratification cannot be inferred from mere omission to repudiate in terms an unauthorised transaction. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 652 (653) (D B).

[9] Where the supposed ratification relates to acts as to which there is no pretence of any prior authority, the circumstances of the alleged ratification must be such as to warrant the clear inference that the principal was adopting the supposed agent's acts, whatever they were or however culpable they were. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (485) (S B) * (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 87 (92) (D B).

[10] Acts relied upon as proving ratification must be inconsistent with denial of liability. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 104 (104).

[11] When an agent, contrary to instructions, makes advances against security, the principal may realise the security and hold the agent liable for the balance. Such intermeddling will not amount to ratification. (Vol 6)

1919 Mad 343 (348) (D B) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (482, 483, 486) (S B).

[12] Where an agent's authority to mortgage his principal's property is not established but it is proved that the principal was aware that the mortgage had been effected by his agent, and it is also proved that the money raised by the mortgage was received by the principal, the mortgagee would be entitled in equity to recover the mortgage debt from the principal. (a) A authorizes B to buy 1,000 bales of cotton on account of A, and to pay for it out of A's moneys remaining in B's hands. B buys 1,000 bales of cotton in his own name, so as to make himself personally liable for the price. A cannot revoke B's authority so far as regards payment for the cotton.

any interest in the property. ('81) 5 Bom 253 (256) (DB).

[3] Where a contract was to the effect that the consignee shall have authority to sell the goods at his discretion, and repay himself the advance out of the proceeds, drawing on the consignor in the event of a shortfall, the consignee had an interest within the meaning of S. 202 and the authority to sell could not be revoked to the prejudice of such interest except in accordance with an express contract reserving such power to the consignor. (1897) 20 Mad 97 (105, 106) (DB).

[4] Mortgage by deposit of title-deeds—Mortgagee put into possession to realise profits and appropriate the same towards interest—Mortgagee is one having an interest in the agency and it cannot be terminated before repayment of loan. (Vol 6) 1919 Low Bur 145 (146) : 9 Low Bur Rul 172 (DB).

[5] Where the authority of an agent is given for the purpose of effectuating any security or of protecting or securing any interest of the agent, it is irrevocable during the subsistence of such security or interest. The primary object of the power-of-attorney was to recover on behalf of the principal the fruits of his decree. It contained incidentally a provision for the employment of the agent, in order to realise that decree. It provided that his remuneration was to be one-half of the proceeds. It contained an indemnity clause against any out-of-pocket expenses which the agent was entitled also to recover from the amount of the decree. But the power-of-attorney was not for the purpose of protecting or securing any interest of the agent. That part of the agreement was purely incidental. Held, that the agency was not one coupled with interest under S. 202 of the Contract Act. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 9 (10) : I L R (1946) Mad 121 (DB).

[6] Agent for sale of goods entitled to retain part of the sale-proceeds in lieu of remuneration has no interest in the goods within S. 202. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 34 (35, 36) : 27 Nag L R 378.

[7] Section 202 makes no departure from English Law—Agency in plaintiff's favour wherein he has individual interest—Court will not grant injunction to restrain defendant from preventing plaintiff in acting as agent, when it would involve specific enforcement of contract, which cannot be so enforced. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 76 (85, 86).

[8] The principle of S. 202, Contract Act, applies only to cases, where authority is given for the purpose of being a security or a part of the security, and not to cases where the interest of the donee arises afterwards and incidentally ; in such cases, there is no authority coupled with an interest, but an independent authority, and an interest subsequently arising. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 542 (545).

[9] Agency created by an ordinary power-of-attorney for the management of an endowment can be revoked even though the endowment is made for the spiritual benefit of the person creating the endowment and the members of the family including the agent for such spiritual benefit cannot amount to an interest within the meaning of S. 202. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 231 (233) (DB).

SECTION 203 — Note 1

[1] Instructions received by plaintiff by letter to buy cotton as agent to X—Telegram revoking authority sent after receipt by plaintiff of letter—No action taken in pursuance of the authority by letter by plaintiff till receipt of telegram. Held, that the telegram revoked the authority. (1900) 24 Bom 403 (406) (DB).

[2] Where authority is conferred on agent, by two or more principals jointly, authority may be revoked by one, and notice of revocation given by one of principals is sufficient. (1913) 18 Cal L Jour 621 (626, 627) (DB).

[3] Where the agent is authorised or directed by his principal to pay to a third person money existing in his hands to the use of the principal, and he expressly contracts with such third person to pay him, or to hold the money on his behalf or for his use, he is personally liable to pay such third person. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 115 (116) (DB).

[4] Where authority was given to an agent to execute a decree and when the principal found that agent was delaying execution he revoked the authority given to agent—Held, that under S. 203 the authority given to the agent was validly revoked. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 599 (603) : 44 Mad 919 (FB).

[1] Agent terminating his agency before the fixed period without sufficient cause must compensate principal. (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 30 (32) : 9 Sind L R 77 (DB).

[2] An agreement provided that the respondent was to be the agent of the appellants for a period of one season certain ; with an option to continue for two seasons more, and "that said agent shall not during the continuance of this agreement purchase second-hand clothing from any other dealer except from the principals ; nor shall he during the continuance of this agreement act as agent for any other rival trader or traders"—Held, there was a clear contract between the parties that the respondent was to be employed as the agent for the appellants for a particular period and that the latter were not at liberty to revoke the contract. If the latter were at liberty during the period the

206. Reasonable notice must be given of such revocation or renunciation; otherwise the damage thereby resulting to the principal or the agent, as the case may be, must be made good to the one by the other.

Notice of revocation or renunciation may be expressed or implied.

207. Revocation and renunciation may be expressed or may be implied in the conduct of the principal or agent respectively.

Illustration.

A empowers B to let A's house. Afterwards A lets it himself. This is an implied revocation of B's authority.

When termination of agent's authority takes effect as to agent, and as to third persons.

208. The termination of the authority of an agent does not, so far as regards the agent, take effect before it becomes known to him, or, so far as regards third persons, before it becomes known to them.

Illustrations.

(a) A directs B to sell goods for him, and agrees to give B five per cent. commission on the price fetched by the goods. A afterwards, by letter, revokes B's authority. B, after the letter is sent, but before he receives it, sells the goods for 100 rupees. The sale is binding on A, and B is entitled to five rupees as his commission.

(b) A, at Madras, by letter, directs B to sell for him some cotton lying in a warehouse in Bombay, and afterwards, by letter, revokes his authority to sell, and directs B to send the cotton to Madras. B, after receiving the second letter, enters into a contract with C, who knows of the first letter, but not of the second, for the sale to him of the cotton. C pays B the money, with which B absconds. C's payment is good as against A.

(c) A directs B, his agent, to pay certain money to C. A dies, and D takes out probate to his will. B after A's death, but before hearing of it, pays the money to C. The payment is good as against D, the executor.

contract was in force to, or not to, supply goods to the respondent, the whole contract becomes meaningless and it is futile to describe the respondent as the agent of the appellants. (Vol 9) 1922 Sind 25 (26, 27, 29) : 15 Sind L R 140 (DB).

[3] Under S. 205, in the absence of any contract, the period of time to be implied depends on the particular circumstances of the case. (1904) 8 Cal W N 831 (837).

[4] Principal company appointing another company as managing agents for fixed term in view of latter's commercial reputation — Subsequently agent's reputation completely lost and principal suffering by its association—Held, there was sufficient cause for principal to terminate managing agency before fixed period. (Vol 16) 1929 All 87 (94) (DB).

SECTION 206 — Note 1

[1] What the section means to say is that when there is no express or implied contract that the agency should continue for any fixed period, reasonable notice must be given of the revocation or renunciation of the agency and etc. If the phrase "such revocation or renunciation" is to be taken as referring back to S. 205, it makes no meaning of the section. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 676 (678, 679) : 58 Cal 1158 (SB).

[2] In determining the reasonableness of the notice a very important element to be taken into consideration is the nature of the employment. In cases of an exceptional nature such as when a chief agency of an insurance company which had done good business ranging over 47 years, is to be terminated, two years' notice is reasonable. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 166 (169, 170) : 1 L R (1944) Bom 637 (DB).

[1] The doctrine of implied revocation or renunciation cannot be invoked in a case when the decree-holder had in the course of execution assigned his rights to his pleader, as the assignment does not entitle him without the permission of the Court, to take control of the execution proceedings. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 210 (212) : 1 L R (1940) Bom 370 (DB).

SECTION 208 — Note 1

[3] 'Gumasta' managing business of X—X dies about March 1903, 'gumasta' not knowing of it — In June 'gumasta' wrote a letter to his principal, acknowledging certain money retained by him on his behalf — In May 1906 plaintiffs, who had dealings with X brought a suit to recover monies of X, lying with 'gumasta'—Plea of bar of limitation, there being no acknowledgment of any debt — Held that, till X's death came to be known to him the 'gumasta' continued to be X's agent and hence letter of June 1903 was a valid acknowledgment. (1911) 85 Bom 302 (306) (DB).

[4] Express or actual notice of revocation of agent's authority is not necessary in the case of third person. It is sufficient to establish that the person had knowledge of the revocation of the agent's authority. (1918) 18 Cal L Jour 621 (626, 627) (DB).

[5] Agent appointed to sell house, employing auctioneers for the purpose—Before sale, authority of agent revoked—Public not informed of same—Subsequent sale is valid. (1974) 1874 Pun Re No. 63, p. 210 (211) (DB).

SECTION 209 — Note 1

[1] Entering into a contract by the agent for the supply of molasses in order to keep a distillery going is a reasonable step for the protection and preservation of the interests of the representatives entrusted to the agent. (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 48 (50, 51) (DB).

[2] Section 209 does not cover transfer of bank's property by accountant on the death of Managing Director. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 417(421) : 18 Luck 110(DB).

210. The termination of the authority of an agent causes the termination (subject to the Termination of sub-rules herein contained regarding the termination of an agent's authority) of the authority of all sub-agents appointed by him.

Agent's Duty to Principal.

211. An agent is bound to conduct the business of his principal according to the directions. Agent's duty in conducting principal's business. given by the principal, or, in the absence of any such directions, according to the custom which prevails in doing business of the same kind at the place where the agent conducts such business. When the agent acts otherwise, if any loss be sustained, he must make it good to his principal, and, if any profit accrues, he must account for it.

Illustrations.

(a) A, an agent engaged in carrying on for B a business, in which it is the custom to invest from time to time, at interest, the moneys which may be in hand, omits to make such investment. A must make good to B the interest usually obtained by such investments.

(b) B, a broker, in whose business it is not the custom to sell on credit, sells goods of A on credit to C, whose credit at the time was very high. C, before payment, becomes insolvent. B must make good the loss to A.

[10] Commission agent to sell and purchase for principal cannot deal with himself under fictitious name without principal's knowledge. Principal can repudiate such transactions as there is conflict between agent's duty and personal interest. Principal is bound where no such conflict exists and also if there is trade usage to that effect. But such usage is to be strictly pleaded and proved. (Vol 4) 1917 Sind 5 (9, 10) ; 10 Sind L R 86.

[11] Agent to collect rents though not entitled to sue is liable for damages if by his negligence he does not bring to the notice of the principal that certain arrears would be barred. Such a claim for damages for laches can be included in a suit for accounts by principal against agent. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 423 (424) (D B).

[12] Agent, while acting on behalf of the principal joining a combination of speculators and artificially inflating the rate and then settling on the basis of these rates, acts in flagrant breach of his duty to his principal as the agent is in a fiduciary position towards his principal and cannot make any secret profits or do any act in which his personal interest may conflict with his duty to the principal. (Vol. 15) 1928 Lah 196 (200); 9 Lah 7 (D B).

Defendant shroffs who were employed at treasuries to scrutinize coins and to pass only genuine Babashai passed. Shikkai coins as genuine Babashais and mint officers kept and used these shikkai for Government. Secretary of State sued defendants for damages for loss caused to Government. The agent is always bound to act with reasonable diligence, and to use such skill as he possesses; and to make compensation to his principal in respect of the direct consequences of his own neglect, want of skill, or misconduct, but not in respect of loss or damage which are indirectly or remotely caused by such neglect, want of skill, or misconduct.

(b) A, an agent for the sale of goods, having authority to sell on credit, sells to B on credit, without making the proper and usual enquiries as to the solvency of B. B, at the time of such sale, is insolvent. A must make compensation to his principal in respect of any loss thereby sustained.

(c) A, an insurance-broker, employed by B to effect an insurance on a ship, omits to see that the usual clauses are inserted in the policy. The ship is afterwards lost. (d) A, a merchant in England, directs B, his agent at Bombay, who accepts the agency, to send him 100 bales of cotton by a certain ship. B, having it in his power to send the cotton, omits to do so. The ship arrives safely in England. Soon after her arrival, the price of cotton rises. B is bound to make good to A the profit which he might have made by the 100 bales of cotton at the time the ship arrived, but not any profit he might have made by the subsequent rise.

if he has not sustained any loss, the principal can only ask for nominal damages. (1896) 20 Bom 633 (635) (DB).

[18] Neglect of duty by an agent does not cease to be such by repetition, and if there be any doctrine of lulling to sleep, it must depend upon and can only be another way of expressing estoppel or ratification. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 278 (281) (P C).

[19] There is nothing in S. 231 which would prevent a principal from seeking his remedy under S. 211, if he can bring his case under that section. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 721 (729) : 61 Cal 504 (DB).

[20] Pukka Adatia — No profits made owing to stringent market — Agent is not responsible to principal for profits. (Vol 14) 1927 All 617 (618) (DB).

[21] Agent is not entitled to remuneration for business misconducted; see S. 220.

SECTION 212 — Note 1

[1] Principal is entitled to sue his agent for damages for loss caused to him by negligence of agent, but if agent proves that he used reasonable skill and diligence, which persons of common prudence are accustomed to use about their own business affairs, he cannot be made liable because agent cannot ordinarily be deemed insurer for any loss which could not have been prevented by exercise of reasonable skill and diligence. Paramount and vital principle of all agencies is good faith and loyalty to principal; if agent establishes this, he cannot be held liable. (1911) 13 Cal L Jour 165 (181) (DB).

[2] Reasonableness as between agent and principal depends upon usual course of conduct and trade custom. Agent accustomed to send goods by rail uninsured is not liable for loss due to non-insurance. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 46 (48).

[3] Agent exercising reasonable skill and diligence is not responsible for loss caused due to an error of judgment. (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 30 (31) : 9 Sind-LR 77 (DB).

[4] Principal and agent — Plaintiff purchasing through defendants' agency — Directions to defendants after purchase to despatch the goods to a particular place — Goods sent to a wrong place — Defendants are liable in damages if negligence is proved. (1910) 7 All L Jour 732 (733, 734).

[5] Agent instructed to send goods by railway—Goods sent at owner's risk in open trucks destroyed in transit — Agent held to be negligent and liable for the same. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 280 (280) : 11 Lah 227 (DB).

[6] Where a commission agent, authorised to realise moneys on behalf of the principal, collected as much as he could from a merchant who had also dealings with the principal, giving credit for the balance and the merchant became an insolvent :

Held, that the agent did not fail in any way to exercise due prudence and was not guilty of any negligence. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 841 (842) (DB).

[7] An expert with special skill engaged for reward to perform a particular job, is bound to exercise his skill in the performance of the job and not rely on the statement of others. (1909) 13 Cal W N 59 (61).

[8] The standard applied to architects and engineers in England is not to be followed in India with regard to supervisors of buildings. Their liability to the employer is measured in the light of the agreement between them. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 988 (989) (DB).

[9] Plaintiffs, grain dealers at Hathras, ordering defendants, agents at Karachi, to purchase goods — Plaintiffs paid some money and defendants despatched goods by rail—Railway receipt delayed and plaintiffs not able to receive goods — Defendants instructing carriers not to deliver goods till their money was paid — Plaintiffs, in the meanwhile, paying defendants — Carriers' refusal to deliver goods to plaintiffs, in view of instructions—Fall in price of goods resulting in loss to plaintiffs — Suit for compensation — Held, that this was a proper case for relief under S. 212. (1911) 8 All L Jour 1160 (1162) (DB).

[10] Agent is not entitled to remuneration for business misconducted; see S. 220.

[2] Rendition of accounts means submitting and explaining them and paying balance found due from agent upon taking accounts. (12) 1912 Pun L R No. 59, p. 197 (207) : 1912 Pun R No 1 * (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 680 (684) : 43 Cal 248 (DB) * (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 156 (157) (DB).

[3] Principal writing "seen" on account books : Held, this was not by itself sufficient to prove that agent has rendered accounts. (Vol 21) 1934 All 553 (556) (DB).

[4] Principal is entitled to final account between himself and agent on termination of agency and agent can rely upon casual accounts settled between themselves as being prima facie correct. (1912) 13 Ind Cas 642 (642) (DB) (All).

[5] If illegal gratifications are given by agent he must, in account suit, show that they reached their destination and when account is being taken, no item can be passed without voucher or clear account of facts. (1909) 13 Cal W N 212 (216, 217) (DB).

[6] A suit for account lies against a servant on a fixed salary but the nature of whose employment is that of an agent. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 142 (143).

[7] Agent, suspected of misappropriation, kept under supervision is still agent and liable to account for realisations during such period. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 108 (111) (DB).

[8] Agent entrusted with principal's moneys to be employed in a specified manner—Agent making use of moneys for other purposes—Agent's liability in respect of such money is that of trustee. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (481) (DB).

[9] Where money is advanced to an agent for work to be done on the understanding that a bill is to be sent subsequently, agent must account for the money. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 609 (609) (DB).

[10] Person acting as agent to lady, used to take money from chest of lady's estate and put them to his own : Held, he was liable for money which was found deficit on taking accounts. (1909) 31 All 429 (438, 439) (DB).

[11] Audit of company's account does not preclude it from calling upon agents for rendition. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 218 (219) : 1917 Pun Re No. 86 (DB).

[12] When an agent is appointed by more than one principal, he is liable to them jointly. He is not bound to account separately to any one of them and if he does so, he is not absolved from his liability to the others. (Vol 20) 1938 Lah 93 (94).

[13] Section 213, Contract Act, imposes the duty "on demand" by the principal. If anything, these words suggest that the demand should be made on the agent at his place of business. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 588 (589) * (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 42 (44).

[14] Agent is liable for interest for moneys retained after demand. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 606 (606) (DB).

[15] An agent does not owe the same duty to the guarantor which he owes to the principal in the matter of proving the transaction. The agent is not bound to prove the transaction to the guarantor, but he has got to prove the amount of the liability for which the surety stood guarantees (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 108 (113) : I L R (1941) Bom 278.

2. Legal representatives of agent, liability of. — [1] After the death of an agent, his estate in the hands of his legal representatives continues to be liable to the principal for sums found due on account from the deceased agent. But the legal representative cannot be called upon to render account in the technical forensic sense in which the agent himself would be liable in an ordinary suit for rendition of accounts. In a suit for accounts filed by the principal against the deceased agent's legal representative, the burden of proof primarily lies upon the plaintiff and it is for the Court to take an account on such materials as are laid before it by the parties and determine what amount, if any, was due to the plaintiff from his deceased agent. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 21 (23) * (1912) 16 Cal L Jour 282 (284 to 287) (DB).

[2] Legal representative of agent is bound to furnish accounts and is liable for money found due on account which came to his hands. (1912) 16 Cal L Jour 288 (292, 293) (DB).

[3] Legal representative of deceased agent is liable to the extent of the assets of the agent in his hands for negligence or misfeasance of the agent. (1913) 17 Cal W N 5 (8) : 16 Cal L Jour 282 (DB).

[4] The death of the agent pending a suit for accounts against him does not exonerate his legal representatives from liability. Only the plaintiff would have to advance strict proof of the monies collected by the agent and not accounted for and a decree for the amount due should be passed against the assets of the deceased agent. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 276 (277) (DB).

[5] In a suit for accounts by principal against agent and after his death his heirs the agent is liable to account not only for sums actually received by him but also those which he has failed to collect. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 407 (408) : 44 Mad 214 (DB).

3. Suit for accounts. — [1] A suit for account is founded on the right of the plaintiff to receive an accounting from the other party; such a right can only arise if the parties are in a fiduciary relationship to each other. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 254 (255).

[2] Suit for money found due on an account being taken and a suit for rendering an account cannot be distinguished. (1912) 16 Cal W N 1042 (1044) (DB).

[3] It is not open to any principal who has got all the accounts of his agent in his possession, to employ the machinery of the Court for examining his accounts on the off-chance of making his agent liable for any sum which on such examination may be found due from him. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 418 (421) (DB).

[4] Plaintiff's suit for profits realised by defendants as agents — Agent pleading non receipt of any profits — Onus lies upon agent to prove that no profits were realised. (1901) 1901 Pun Re No. 46, page 152 (154).

[5] A suit by a principal for accounts because the defendant, his agent, has not rendered any account is different from a suit in which a principal alleges that the defendant, his agent, has rendered accounts but prays to have them re-opened or to surcharge and falsify them on the ground of fraud or material error. In the former, if agency is established a preliminary decree for accounts must follow as a matter of course, if account has not been already rendered. In the 2nd class of cases, the fraud must be specifically alleged and proved if the accounts are to be re-opened on the ground of fraud and if the principal seeks to surcharge and falsify, the particular grounds of such relief must be specifically stated and substantial errors pointed out. (1911) 13 Cal L Jour 165 (173).

[6] Plaintiff instructed defendant, commission agent, to re-ship goods to India — Instructions not carried out — No accounts rendered to plaintiff — Plaintiff sued for accounts : Held, plaintiff's relief was by way of damages. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 247 (250) (DB).

[7] A decree can be passed in favour of an agent in a suit brought by principal for rendition of accounts.

214. It is the duty of an agent, in case of difficulty, to use all reasonable diligence in communicating with his principal, and in seeking to obtain his instructions.

Agent's duty to communicate with principal.

215. If an agent deals on his own account in the business of the agency, without first obtaining the consent of his principal, and acquainting him with all material circumstances which have come to his own knowledge on the subject, the principal may repudiate the transaction, if the case shows either that any material fact has been dishonestly concealed from him by the agent, or that the dealings of the agent have been disadvantageous to him.

Right of principal when agent deals, on his own account, in business of agency without principal's consent.

Illustrations.

(a) A directs B to sell A's estate. B buys the estate for himself in the name of C. A, on discovering that B has bought the estate for himself, may repudiate the sale, if he can show that B has dishonestly concealed any material fact, or that the sale has been disadvantageous to him.

(b) A directs B to sell A's estate. B, on looking over the estate before selling it, finds a mine on the estate which is unknown to A. B informs A that he wishes to buy the estate for himself, but conceals the discovery of the mine. A allows B to buy in ignorance of the existence of the mine. A, on discovering that B knew of the mine at the time he bought the estate, may either repudiate or adopt the sale at his option.

But it cannot be laid down that a decree must be passed in favour of the defendant. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 723 (724).

4. Suit by agent. — [1] This section lays down that agent is bound to render accounts to his principal, but it is nowhere laid down in the Act that it is the duty of principal to render account to agent. ('99) 1899 Pun Re No. 60, p. 268 (DB) & (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 100 (100) & (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 701 (702). [2] Where it is equitable from the particular circumstances and the relations of the parties that one should account to the other, a suit for an account will lie. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 51 (53, 54); 30 Sind L R 371 (DB) & (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 483 (484).

SECTION 214 — Note 1

[1] Agent authorised to buy and sell at best rates cannot defer carrying out order till communicating rate of day to principal. (Vol 5) 1918 Sind 1 (5); 12 Sind L R 93.

[2] Bailee has the same power as an agent under S. 189 and is under the same duty as cast upon by S. 214. (Vol 20) 1933 All 158 (159) (DB).

[3] As to agent's authority in an emergency, see Section 189.

SECTION 215 — Note 1

[1] An agent cannot, without the knowledge and consent of his principal, be allowed to make any profit out of the matter of his agency beyond his proper remuneration as agent. (1902) 26 Bom 689 (702) (DB).

[2] Where there is conflict between duty and interest, the servant or agent must disclose any understanding, likely to result in gain to him, arrived at between the servant or agent and a third person who enters into a contract with the master or principal, otherwise such a secret bargain being a fraud on the master or principal will entitle him to rescind the contract with such third person. (Vol 16) 1929 All 87 (94) (DB).

[3] In order to set aside transaction by agent dealing on his own account, it is necessary that agent should have concealed material fact dishonestly or that the dealing should have been in fact to disadvantage of the principal. By law of England, however, if an agent, without disclosing the fact that he is the person dealing himself, deals with his principal, principal on discovering that fact can have transaction set aside. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 497 (498); 45 Mad 1005 (DB).

[4] A transaction which necessarily puts the agent's duty in conflict with the interest of his principal must be presumed to be disadvantageous to principal who is not informed of the fact. (Vol 22) 1935 Sind 38 (44) (DB).

[5] Disadvantage to principal does not mean a mere possibility. Disadvantage is a question of fact depending on the facts of each case and no presumption arises. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 195 (196); 22 Sind L R 409.

[6] If agent appointed to sell principal's goods for fixed price, buys them himself without previous consent of latter, principal may either repudiate transaction according to S. 216 or affirm it. If he affirms, he will be liable to pay to agent such charges as are only incidents of transaction of purchase; but not charges annexed by terms of contract to agency. (1910) 34 Bom 292 (307) (DB).

[7] When agent uses his debt due to his principal to obtain property for himself he realises that debt on principal's behalf and is liable to account for same. (Vol 1) 1914 All 351 (351) (DB).

[8] Agent employed to raise a loan on behalf of principal cannot lend his own monies without the knowledge of the principal. Such a contract is not void but only voidable at the option of the principal. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 727 (728) (DB).

[9] Agent joining secret combination to make personal profit—Agent is guilty of breach of duty. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 196 (200); 9 Lah 7 (DB).

[10] Where the plaintiff company were managing agents of the defendant's company to which the former supplied goods, the plaintiff company was held not entitled to make any profit on the goods supplied to their principal, the defendant company. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 205 (206); 8 Low Bur Rul 102 (DB).

[11] When an agent acts as principal in a contract without the knowledge of the party whose agent he is, he forfeits his right to remuneration from that party under the agency agreement. (1937) I L R (1937) 1 Cal 757 (761) & (1870) 7 Bom H C R 90 (95).

[12] Section 236 applies only where one person enters into a transaction with another on the basis that that other is an agent for a third person, and does not apply where an agent deals on his own account. In such a case, the principal may repudiate the transaction under S. 215. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 568 (568, 569) (DB.)

216. If an agent, without the knowledge of his principal, deals in the business of the agency on his own account instead of on account of his principal, the principal is entitled to claim from the agent any benefit which may have resulted to him from the transaction.

Principal's right to benefit gained by agent dealing on his own account in business of agency.

Illustration.

A directs B, his agent, to buy a certain house for him. B tells A it cannot be bought, and buys the house for himself. A may, on discovering that B has bought the house, compel him to sell it to A at the price he gave for it.

business of the agency, all moneys due to himself in respect of advances made or expenses properly incurred by him in conducting such business, and also such remuneration as may be payable to him for acting as agent.

Agent's duty to pay sums received for principal.

218. Subject to such deductions, the agent is bound to pay to his principal all sums received on his account.

SECTION 216 — Note 1

[1] An agent is bound not only not to injure the interests of his principal but also to further them. He should not place himself in a position where his interests might be adverse to that of the principal. (Vol 6) 1919 All 440 (444) : 41 All 635 (DB).

[2] When a person is an agent for others, all profits and advantages made by him in the business beyond his ordinary compensation are to be for the benefit of the employers. (1893) 16 Mad 238 (266) (DB).

[3] Where an agent sells his own goods to the principal converting himself into a principal in respect of the sale, without disclosing the true position to the principal, then the principal is entitled to claim from the agent any benefit which may have resulted to the agent from the transaction. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 86 (87, 88) (DB).

[4] Principal can have a decree for an account of profits of property outside British India purchased by an agent at a sale in execution of a mortgage decree passed in favour of his principal but he is not entitled to a mandatory injunction directing the agent to execute a reconveyance to the principal. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1133 (1136) (DB).

[5] First mortgagee in possession of mortgaged property and authorised to collect profits in lieu of mortgage money — Second mortgagee selling property in exercise of his power of sale under the mortgage and first mortgagee purchasing same and obtaining fresh lease of land on which mortgaged property stands — First mortgagee cannot be said to be agent of mortgagor in the purchase and mortgagor cannot take benefit of same nor is the mortgagor entitled to the benefit of assignment of a subsequent mortgage. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 140 (143, 144) : 7 Rang 61 (DB).

[6] Property purchased in court auction by agent acting on his own account contrary to principal's directions — Principal cannot ratify so as to derive benefit as it was not an act done in the course of the agency. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 250 (253) (DB).

[7] No broker, unless specially authorised, is entitled to get commission from both sides. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 184 (184).

[8] Section 216 is merely enabling and confers upon principal right to claim from his agent benefit of transaction to which agency business related, where agent, without knowledge of principal, has dealt with business on his own account, instead of on account of latter. Principal is free to exercise that right or not. (1910) 34 Bom 292 (303, 304) (DB).

[9] Agent entrusted with principal's moneys to be employed in a specified manner — Agent making use of these moneys for other purposes — Agent's liability in respect of such moneys is that of a trustee. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 478 (481) (DB).

SECTION 217 — Note 1

[1] The agent is entitled to a lien or retainer upon monies of his principal which are in his hands, for all expenses properly incurred. In such cases there is no question of limitation. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 84 (86) : 11 Low Bur Rul 326 (DB).

[2] The possessory lien of an agent attaches only to goods in respect of which the principal has a right against a third person to create a lien and such a lien is subject to all the rights and equities of a third person available against the principal. (1909) 36 Cal 713 (723) (DB).

[3] The word 'business' in S. 217 must mean a continuing business or the same business as that for which agent had been agent before. Hence, an agent cannot retain sums received on account of his principal in one business, on account of remuneration due to him for acting in another agency. (1885) 1885 Pun Re No. 49, page 97 (99) (DB). (Pleader realizing decretal amount for client in one suit — He cannot retain amount as fees in another suit.) (1910) 33 Mad 255 (256) (DB). (Pleader realizing money for his client in one cause — Money cannot be retained as fees in another cause.)

[4] A pleader was entrusted with certain shares in his private capacity for being sold but appropriated sale proceeds to fees due to himself: Held, that he had no right to pay himself for his fees out of sale proceeds of shares irrespective of his client's wishes. He had no lien or right of retainer under S. 217 or S 221. (1912) 13 Cr L Jour 513 (517-520) : 5 Sind L R 222 (DB).

[5] Where the amount of the promissory note was not an amount advanced by way of loan but an amount which, at the request of his client, the pleader disbursed for out-fees in the suit in which he was retained as vakil, it was held that independently of the promissory note, the pleader was entitled to recover the court-fees advanced by him and under S. 217 of the Contract Act, he was entitled to retain the same out of the sums received by him to the credit of his client. (1904) 27 Mad 512 (517) (DB).

[6] Order under S. 185, Companies Act, against managing agent — Managing agent should be allowed to retain such amounts as he is entitled to under S. 217 or the terms of the managing agency agreement or the Articles of Association. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 401 (402) (DB).

[7] An executor creditor in possession of the estate can claim a right of retainer and a lien upon it. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 720 (725) : 39 Mad 365 (DB).

SECTION 218 — Note 1

[1] Any person acting in the character of an agent, when he collects money professing to receive it on behalf of his principal is bound to render a proper ac-

219. In the absence of any special contract, payment for the performance of any act is not due to the agent until the completion of such act; but an agent may detain moneys received by him on account of goods sold, although the whole of the goods consigned to him for sale may not have been sold, or although the sale may not be actually complete.

count to the principal. The fact that master could not have enforced the payment does not enable the agent to keep it for his own use. (1908) 30 Cal 1011 (1014) (D B).

[2] An agent recovering money on behalf of his principal under an illegal or void contract must account to the principal for the money so received. He cannot set up the illegality of the contract as a justification for withholding payment in an action by the principal when the illegality had been waived by other contracting party by paying the money. (1908) 25 All 639 (641) (D B).

[3] The principal can sue for accounts the sub-agent appointed by him for collecting rents, though the sub-agent was to pay over the collections to the agent. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 917 (918) (D B).

[4] When a Hindu father incurs liability to pay a debt as an agent of another, the son becomes liable to pay it. The liability of the son arises at the same time as that of the father. The son is not absolved from such liability by the mere fact that the father subsequently misappropriated the sum or made himself criminally answerable. (1909) 19 Mad L Jour 759 (759).

[5] The suit properties were agreed to be sold to the plaintiff for the purposes of discharging certain debt due by the family of the defendants, but as there was some delay in completing the sale transaction, the plaintiff was requested to pay off the creditors even before the execution of the sale-deed and he was assured that the amount so paid might be adjusted towards the sale price and that, if the plaintiff had to pay to the creditors anything in excess of the sale price, the same would be made good to him with interest. The plaintiff managed to get a transfer of the documents held by the creditors on payment of smaller amount than was actually due under those documents and he claimed that he was entitled to get the benefit of the remission given by those creditors: Held, that in making disbursements out of the agreed sale price, the plaintiff was only acting as the agent of the defendants and he was not entitled to retain for his own benefit any remission that he obtained from the creditors. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 810 (810) (D B).

[6] Contract taken by A from military authorities and according to rules money deposited in recognised Bank by way of security — Bank going into liquidation and amount deposited lost by A — Bank held to be agent to military authorities and liable to make up the loss. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 34 (36) (D B).

[7] Principal also a banker under another name — Agent having deposit in the Bank — Suit by principal for sale proceeds in agent's hands — Agent can set off amount deposited. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 103 (104) (P C).

SECTION 219 — Note 1

[1] A broker's duty is to simply bring the parties together, arrange a transaction and to get the contract completed. The performance of that contract is a matter between the promisor and the promisee and the due fulfilment of the conditions is not the sine qua non for the earning of the commission. (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 56 (57) (D B).

[2] Broker employed to sell is entitled to his commission when sale is completed in favour of purchaser found by broker though actual negotiations or completion of sale did not take place through direct intervention of broker. (Vol 17) 1930 All 545 (548) : 52 All 688 (D B).

[3] A broker, to be entitled to his commission, must prove either that the transaction has been completed or that the non-completion was due to default of the principal. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 433 (434) * (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 158 (160).

[4] Broker engaged to purchase house—Brokerage is payable only on completion of conveyance, in absence of agreement. (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 168 (169) : I L R (1944) Kar 42 (DB).

229. Any notice given to, or information obtained by, the agent, provided it be given or obtained in the course of the business transacted by him for the principal, shall, as between the principal and third parties, have the same legal consequences as if it had been given to, or obtained by, the principal.

Illustrations.

(a) A is employed by B to buy from C certain goods, of which C is the apparent owner, and buys them accordingly. In the course of the treaty for the sale, A learns that the goods really belonged to D, but B is ignorant of that fact. B is not entitled to set off a debt owing to him from C against the price of the goods.

(b) A is employed by B to buy from C goods of which C is the apparent owner. A was, before he was so employed, a servant of C, and then learnt that the goods really belonged to D, but B is ignorant of that fact. In spite of the knowledge of his agent, B may set off against the price of the goods a debt owing to him from C.

Agent cannot personally enforce, nor be bound by, contracts on behalf of principal.

230. In the absence of any contract to that effect, an agent cannot personally enforce contracts entered into by him on behalf of his principal, nor is he personally bound by them.

Presumption of contract to contrary.

Such a contract shall be presumed to exist in the following cases :—

(1) where the contract is made by an agent for the sale or purchase of goods for a merchant resident abroad :

(2) where the agent does not disclose the name of his principal :

(3) where the principal, though disclosed, cannot be sued.

Section 229 — Note 1

[1] An agent fully represents his principal in dealing with other persons, and knowledge acquired by him while acting within the scope of his agency must be held to be the knowledge of his principal. SECTION 230 — Synopsis.

1. Scope.
2. Agent having interest in the contract.
3. Contract to the contrary.
4. Principal resident abroad.
5. Undisclosed principal.
6. Where principal cannot be sued.

1. Scope — [1] An agent is not entitled to personally enforce nor is he bound by a contract entered into by him as such. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 143 (143) &(Vol 1) 1914 Mad 97 (98) &(1882) 6 Bom 326 (362, 363).

[2] Where an elder brother signed a contract in his own name mortgaging his sister's property but the body of document described him as authorised agent, he was not personally liable. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 146 (147).

[3] Defendant, an organizer of a company, receiving deposit from plaintiff promising to appoint him as selling agent of the company — Company adjudged insolvent—Plaintiff's suit against defendant for refund of deposit held not maintainable as the defendant must be deemed to have received the deposit as agent. ('42) 1942 Nag L Jour 515 (517, 518) (DB).

[4] It is quite a common thing for a broker to act for both the parties in the sale of produce, and if he does not exceed the limits of his authority, he incurs no personal liability. (1910) 8 Mad L J 353 (354).

[5] Contract between agent and principal that agent would pay for goods supplied by principal to purchaser—Order not placed through agent—Purchaser making agent believe that he would pay him — Agent's suit against purchaser—Held that the fact that the purchaser made agent believe that he would pay him does not override the provisions of S. 230. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 607 (608).

[6] Where the principal sends goods to his agent and consigns them to railway but they are not delivered to agent, the agent has no locus standi to sue railway for damages, for railway receipt sent to him by principal does not confer upon him the ownership of the goods. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 590 (590).

[7] Plaintiff purchased goods on behalf of another firm and sent them to defendant who accepted them and wrote to plaintiff complaining of shortage and promising to pay price — Held, plaintiff cannot sue defendant as latter was only agent of firm for whom goods were purchased. (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 404 (405).

[8] Ordinarily speaking, the words "pacca arhtia" convey that the so-called agent is acting as a principal on behalf of the person with whom he buys or sells the commodities in question. There can, therefore, be no question of the application of S. 230, Contract Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 253 (254) (DB).

[9] Promise enforceable against principal cannot be enforced against agent. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1102 (1103).

[10] Where the plaint merely discloses a contract between the plaintiffs and the agent of a disclosed principal, the agent cannot be sued. Where there is a matter of doubt as to the liability of the agent or the principal in a contract, the usual course is to sue both defendants alleging that the principal was the principal to the contract and, in the alternative, suing the agent for breach of warranty of authority. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 269 (270) (DB).

[11] Mistake of fact on a consideration which was supposed to exist eventually turned out to be without substance — S. 230 has got no application — Purchaser is entitled to ask for return of deposit made with auctioneer. (Vol 29) 1942 All. 90 (93, 94).

2. Agent having interest in the contract. —

[1] An agent having an interest in the contract may sue in his own name, he being virtually a principal to the extent of his interest in the contract. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 673 (674) (DB) * (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 417 (418) : 5 Luck 201 (DB) * (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 547 (553) * (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 196 (197) * (1901) 24 Mad 130 (135, 136) (DB).

[2] Though an auctioneer is classified as an agent, the nature of his duties invest him with certain rights which differentiate him from an ordinary agent. In his capacity as an auctioneer he has an interest in the goods entrusted to him for auction-sale. He has a lien upon them for the charges and advances. His custody of the goods is not the bare custody of an ordinary agent, but he, by virtue of the auction of the principal's goods, acquires a special property in the goods which are in his possession for the purpose of the auction-sale. He can, therefore, sue in his own name for the value of goods sold at an auction-sale. (Vol 18) 1926 Sind 6 (7) : 20 Sind L R 287.

3. Contract to the contrary. — [1] The three cases mentioned in S. 230 in which contract to that effect may be presumed are by no means exhaustive. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 417 (418) : 5 Luck 201 (DB).

[2] The question whether an agent, who has made a contract on behalf of his principal, is to be taken to have contracted personally, or merely on behalf of his principal, and, if personally, what is the extent of his liability on the contract, depends on what appears to have been the intention of the parties to be deduced from the nature and terms of the particular contract and the surrounding circumstances. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 643 (652) (DB).

[3] The latter part of S. 230 says that in certain cases a contract to the effect that the agent shall be personally liable shall be presumed. The case in which, though disclosing the name and identity of the principal, the agent contracts personally is not one of them, but there being a specific contract to that effect there is no need for any presumption. (1945) 80 Cal L Jour 297 (304).

[4] Man who is agent and describes himself as such, may still be contracting in his personal capacity but the mere fact that he fails to specify his capacity as an agent in signing a contract does not raise any such presumption when the terms of the contract itself are clearly to the contrary. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 484 (485) (DB).

[5] Where there is nothing in the agreement raising implication that agent purports to render himself personally liable, the use of the word 'agent' negatives personal responsibility. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 569 (572).

[6] Where the "principal contract" form is employed, the custom accepting the incident of broker's responsibility obtains even although the names are in fact disclosed. The contract on the face of it being between the buyers and the unnamed sellers and the language adapted accordingly, there is a good custom entitling the brokers to enforce the contract. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 419 (421, 422) : 50 Cal 12.

[7] Evidence of a custom in the gunny market in Calcutta whereby brokers are made personally liable though they had no principals is admissible. Sections 230 and 236 do not apply to such case. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 587 (588).

[8] If on the face of a contract an agent appears to be personally liable, he cannot escape his liability by evidence of disclosure of principal's name apart from the contract. (1880) 5 Cal 71 (79, 80).

4. Principal resident abroad. — [1] Presumption in S. 230 (1) is a rebuttable presumption. The fact that the principal is abroad does not absolve the personal liability of the agent if the other contracting party looked to him alone for performance. (1922) 87 Ind Cas 157 (158) (DB) (Lah).

[2] Where corporate company is resident abroad, it must be presumed that agent is personally liable under contract of sale entered into with third party. But this presumption of law can be rebutted, when the foreign principal himself is, in writing, made the contracting party and contract is made directly in his name. (1904) 27 Mad 315 (333) (DB).

[3] Where plaintiff entered into a contract direct with the foreign merchant, the defendant only acting as a post officer in the matter, the latter is not personally liable under the contract though he would be if he acted as agent for the foreign merchant. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 296 (297) (DB).

[4] Where plaintiffs' indent was not accepted by the defendants, commission agents, but by a merchant residing abroad and the defendants did not undertake any primary liability, held, that S. 230 (1) of the Act was not applicable to the case and the plaintiffs were not entitled to sue the defendants for any claim regarding their indent. (1905) 1905 Pun L R No. 135, p. 488 (489).

[5] Agent of foreign State is personally liable for contracts entered into on behalf of principal where the contracts do not come under S. 86, Civil P. C., and permission to sue need not be applied for. (Vol 15) 1923 Sind 189 (190).

5. Undisclosed principal. — [1] When an agent does not disclose the name of his principal, the agent would be personally liable. (Vol 19) 1932 Nag 27 (28) : 27 Nag L R 324.

[2] An agent while entering into a contract of charter-party mentioned the name of the ship and its registration number. Held that though he did not disclose the name of the principal, benefit of S. 230 could not be given. The ships' name and number was sufficient indication of the identity of the principal. The essential point is the knowledge and not the declaration. (1831) 5 Bom 584 (589).

[3] Where one party to a contract knows that the other is only acting as an agent for a person known to him, a formal disclosure of the principal is unnecessary to make principal liable. (1922) 65 Ind Cas 473 (474) (DB) (Lah).

231. If an agent makes a contract with a person who neither knows, nor has reason to suspect, that he is an agent, his principal may require the performance of the contract; but the other contracting party has, as against the principal, the same rights as he would have had as against the agent if the agent had been principal.

[See also (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 34 (35) : 26 Sind L R 85 (DB). (It is not necessary that an agent should have disclosed himself as an agent in the contract to enable the agent to prove that contracts entered into in his name were entered into on the principal's behalf.)]

[5] A principal cannot be said to disclose himself if the other party gets knowledge about him not from the principal himself but from some other source. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 177 (178) : 53 Bom 110 (DB).

[6] Where an agent does not disclose the name of his principal, the presumption is that he contracts to be held personally liable as well. Such a presumption, however, is rebutted where the agent signs the contract expressly as "Agent and Manager." (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 641 (641, 642).

[See also (Vol 16) 1929 P C 254 (255, 256) (PC).]

[7] Where an agent does not disclose the name of the principal, he is personally responsible for the result of any fraud or wrong committed. So much of the money as is necessary to compensate for the loss caused thereby must be refunded, though the amount has been paid over to his principal. (1897-1901) 2 Upp Bur Rul 341.

[8] Agent entering into a contract on behalf of a principal who is disclosed but who is a minor is not personally liable on the contract to the third party. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 312 (314) : 6 Luck 19 (DB).

[9] Presumption under S. 230 will not arise when broker brings his principal vendor face to face with purchaser. But where purchaser has been making payments only to broker and does not know the name of vendor, broker can sue purchaser for balance of purchase money. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 170 (171) : 25 Nag L R 81.

[10] A broker who gives to the buyer a note in the form "bought by your order and for your account from our principals" is not an agent of the undisclosed principal for sale to make him liable under S. 230. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 548 (550) : 42 Cal 1050 (DB).

[11] Plaintiff entered into contract as principal, and sued upon as a principal—Plea that he was an agent not taken by defendant at an early stage but after evidence of plaintiff—Held, that even if the plaintiff was an agent he could sue in his individual capacity under S. 230. ('81) 1881 Pun Re No. 64, p. 148 (149) (DB).

[12] Where defendant, as manager of Banali Raj, got some work done by the plaintiff and name of Raja was not disclosed, held, defendant was not personally liable to plaintiff for work done by him for the Raj. (Vol 1) 1914 All 253 (254) (DB).

[13] Where in a court-auction a property is sold, the auction-purchaser is one party to the contract, but the other party to the contract is not the judgment-debtor or the decree-holder but the Court itself. In selling property in court-auction, the Court acts under the statutory powers given to it by the Code and not as the agent of any party and the contract that is made, when the bid is accepted and confirmed by the Court, is one between the Court on the one side and the auction-purchaser, whose bid is accepted, on the other, and therefore before Cl. (2) of S. 230, Contract Act, can be excluded, it must be alleged and proved by the party wishing to take advantage of S. 230, Cl. (1) that when making the bid or before doing so he had informed the Court or the Court-officer conducting the sale that he was making the bid only as the agent of some named third party. It would then be open to the Court-officer, the Nazir, either to accept his bids or decline them, if he is not fully satisfied that he had a proper power of attorney to make the bid. Where the auction-purchaser is accepted by the Court as agent, he is liable personally for deficit on re-sale. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 476 (477) (DB).

[14] The person liable is that whose name appears on the face of the bill. No other person can be held liable under a bill unless it is clearly indicated on the face of the instrument that an agent is acting in his behalf. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 428 (429).

[15] A rented a house from B for a school. B sued A to recover possession of the house and arrears of rent. A contended that he was merely a secretary acting for a society in London which ran the school and was not personally liable. Held, that on the form of the contract and from receipts passed it could not be inferred that the contract was made on anybody's personal credit except that of A. (1898) 22 Bom 754 (756, 757).

[16] Agent whose principal is undisclosed can sue under this section. (1912) 39 Cal 802 (807) (DB).

[17] Auctioneer is entitled to maintain a suit for the recovery of the price of goods sold against purchaser at auction. ('84) 1884 Pun Re No. 86, p. 241 (242).

[18] The form of a sold note was as follows : "Sold this day by order and for account of G, to my principal, G. P. Notes for Rs. 20,000 at Rs. 99-11-0." The note was endorsed "X for principal." Held, there was nothing in the note to rebut the personal liability of the person. (1890) 17 Cal 449 (454) (DB).

[19] Where the managing members of an ancestral trading firm enter into a contract, without disclosing the names of the other members, it is competent for them to sue on the contract without impleading the undisclosed members of the firm. The managing members are in the position of agents for undisclosed principals. (1905) 27 All 361 (362, 363) (DB) & (1910) 32 All 183 (186) (DB) & (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 739 (740) (DB).

6. Where principal cannot be sued. — [1] A person sued an unregistered union of employees and a member of the said union as the person who signed the contract on behalf of the union. Held, that under the law an unincorporated body could not be sued as such for recovery of a debt or on a contract. Only those persons who signed the contracts on behalf of the union and those who adopted them could be sued. Other persons who were members of an unincorporated body could not be proceeded against. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 530 (530, 531).

[2] Clause 3 of S. 230 is not applicable to a case where a contract is entered into by an unincorporated society. It is not that an unincorporated society cannot be sued at all, but that it cannot be sued except in the name of all the members. ('91) 1891 Pun Re No. 15 page 93 (99, 101) (DB).

SECTION 231 — Note 1

[1] Section 231 deals with the rights (a) of the principal and (b) of the third party in cases when the contract is entered into by the agent without disclosing the principal — The first clause refers to the general case and the rule is that the third party shall have, as

If the principal discloses himself before the contract is completed, the other contracting party may refuse to fulfil the contract, if he can show that, if he had known who was the principal in the contract, or if he had known that the agent was not a principal, he would not have entered into the contract.

232. Where one man makes a contract with another, neither knowing nor having reasonable ground to suspect, that the other is an agent, the principal, if he requires the performance of the contract, can only obtain such performance subject to the rights and obligations subsisting between the agent and the other party to the contract.

Illustration.

A, who owes 500 rupees to B, sells 1,000 rupees worth of rice to B. A is acting as agent for C in the transaction, but B has no knowledge nor reasonable ground of suspicion, that such is the case. C cannot compel B to take the rice without allowing him to set-off A's debt.

Right of person dealing with agent personally liable.

233. In cases where the agent is personally liable, a person dealing with him may hold either him or his principal, or both of them, liable.

Illustration.

A enters into a contract with B to sell him 100 bales of cotton, and afterwards discovers that B was acting as agent for C. A may sue either B or C, or both, for the price of the cotton.

Section 231 (contd.)

against the undisclosed principal the same rights which he would have against the agent if the agent had been the principal. The second clause deals with the particular case where the principal discloses himself before the contract is completed. The second clause should be read as governed by the first clause. (1908) 32 Bom 356 (361, 362) (DB).

[2] Even where a railway receipt is granted in the name of servant or agent, the real owner of the goods can claim for their value if lost. (1926) 92 Ind Cas 1007 (1008) (All.)

[3] Undisclosed principal selling goods through agent can enforce purchaser to pay purchase money. (1909) 1909 Pun Re No. 71 page 230 (236) (DB).

[4] If one partner enters into a contract in his own name still if he is acting as the agent of the firm, his co-partners will be in the position of undisclosed principals. They can be sued on the contract and may join as plaintiffs in suing. (1908) 10 Bom L R 306 (311) * (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 57 (59) * (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 29 (31) (DB) * (1908) 31 Mad 45 (46) (DB).

[5] A railway company entered into a contract with a person in the belief that he was the only person interested in the contract. They did not know that he had another partner. Subsequently the person who contracted with the company died. The defendant partner sued the company claiming payments and amounts due to the firm under one of the contracts. Held, that the right to claim performance rested with the deceased partner during his life time and that the dormant partner could not sue the contracting party after the death of the partner entering the contract. (1908) 10 Bom L R 306 (313).

[6] Business done by a commission agent in his own name though for the benefit of an undisclosed principal, who is liable to indemnify the commission agent against loss, is not business done by such undisclosed principal through the agent, but business done by the agent. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 24 (26) : 23 Sind L R 229.

[7] An agent contracting in his own name without mentioning the agency can sue and be sued upon the contract. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 509 (516) (DB).

[8] Under S. 231 a principal can, as against the agent, claim the full benefit of the contract entered into by the agent in his own name and as against the party contracting with the agent, the principal is bound by the equities arising between the agent and the contracting party. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 509 (511) (DB).

[9] A simple creditor can derive no advantage out of the circumstance that an agent is held out as the owner of the property. It is only a person who has obtained any sale, pledge, mortgage or other disposition for value of the property from the agent whom he believed to be the principal that can derive any advantage from such holding out. ('36) 1936 Mad W N 1015 (1016) (DB).

[10] Where principal can bring his case under S. 211, S. 231 does not debar him from seeking his remedy under that section — Contract for undisclosed principal — Breach by reason of agent's default — Principal can proceed only against other contracting party under S. 231 and not against agent. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 721 (722) : 61 Cal 504 (DB).

[11] An agent entered into a contract in his own name with a third party, brought a suit against him for damages for breach of the terms of the contract and successfully obtained a decree. The principal brought a suit against the agent subsequently for declaration of title to the decree — Held that the suit was not maintainable because the principal might have adopted the contract made by his agent and sued on it or he might have either commenced the action himself or intervened at any stage in the action begun by his agent. (1913) 40 Cal 335 (340, 341) (DB).

[12] The words "discloses himself" in S. 231 must be construed strictly. The third party's right to repudiate the contract arises only where the principal himself makes the disclosure; it cannot arise when the disclosure is made by some other person or the information reaches him from other person. (1908) 32 Bom 356 (363) (DB).

Section 232 — Note 1

[1] An undisclosed principal has a general right to enforce a contract entered into by his agent. Under S. 232, this general right of the principal to require performance is subject to the rights and obligations that existed between the agent and the other contracting party. Thus, S. 232 is to be read as a qualification of the first portion of para. 1 of S. 231. ('79-80) 4 Bom 447 (455).

Section 233 — Note 1

[1] Section 233 enacts substantive law, laying down who shall be held liable and not adjective law, defining the procedure by which the liability may be enforced. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 268 (270, 271).

[2] Section 233 cannot be construed as meaning only that the plaintiff might sue both the principal and the agent in the alternative, but that he cannot get judg-

Consequence of inducing agent or principal to act on belief that principal or agent will be held exclusively liable.

234. When a person who has made a contract with an agent induces the agent to act upon the belief that the principal only will be held liable, or induces the principal to act upon the belief that the agent only will be held liable, he cannot afterwards hold liable the agent or principal respectively.

235. A person untruly representing himself to be the authorized agent of another, and thereby inducing a third person to deal with him as such agent, is liable, if his alleged employer does not ratify his acts, to make compensation to the other in respect of any loss or damage which he has incurred by so dealing.

Person falsely contracting as agent not entitled to performance.

236. A person with whom a contract has been entered into in the character of agent is not entitled to require the performance of it, if he was in reality acting, not as agent, but on his own account.

[But see (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1213 (1213) : 49 Mad 900. (Liability is not joint but alternative.)]

[4] A person who has made a contract with an agent may, if and when he pleases, look directly to the principal unless he has waived that right by express terms of the contract. This right exists whether the person was or was not aware when he made the contract, that the person with whom he was dealing was an agent only. ('91) 18 Cal 31 (36) (FB).

[5] Agent obtaining loan on behalf of principal company—Lender not aware of principal for whom loan was obtained by agent—Subsequent discovery of principal by lender—Held that lender could sue principal for the money lent. ('81-82) 6 Bom 326 (353, 357).

[6] A plaintiff who has a right to sue both an agent and his principal under S. 233 is not competent, after he has sued one of them to judgment, to sue the other in a second suit. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 268 (273) & (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 344 (350) : 60 Bom 954 (DB) & ('87) 9 All 681 (688, 689) (DB).

[8] Money paid to agent—Money not credited—Money recovered by principal by suit—Debtor cannot recover money paid to agent. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 551 (552).

Section 235—Note 1

[1] There is no distinction in principle between the case of a man who represents that he has authority from another when he has no authority whatever, and the case of a man who represents that he has certain authority from another when he has authority of another description. In neither case can the man who makes the representation be said to be the authorised agent of the other with reference to the matter on which he has no authority. Section 235 of the Contract Act is intended to apply to both classes of cases. ('12) 34 All 168 (171) (DB).

[2] The representation that he has authority to act as agent may not be fraudulent; all that is required is that it was untrue. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 151 (156, 157) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 463 (DB) & ('10) 8 Mad L Tim 353 (353).

[3] An untrue representation of agency under this section need not necessarily be made in express and literal words; it may be conveyed by any words spoken or written combined with acts and omissions which would induce another person into the belief that he has such authority—The untrue representation must be one of fact and not merely of law—The fact that he made the representation under the belief that he had such authority does not affect his liability under this section except in cases where he would be prosecuted under S. 208. ('04) 17 C P L R 67 (71, 72).

[4] The words "if his alleged principal does not ratify his acts" in S 235 appear to indicate a named principal. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 207 (209).

[5] The measure of damages must be what benefit the other party would have had from the contract if the representation had been true. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 151 (156, 157) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 463 (DB).

[6] A person who borrows representing himself to be the agent, without authority, must recoup the creditor. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 439 (440).

[7] Muhammadan son who is not agent of his father mortgaging father's land—Section 235 applies and not S. 230. (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 49 (49, 50).

[8] Agent representing his principal purchasing goods on his behalf—Principal repudiating liability—Agent alone is liable. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 184 (185).

[9] A person was provisionally appointed as teacher by the secretary of school—At the next meeting of the Committee, it recognized him as one of the staff but owing to financial stringency it decided to dispense with his services from August—Held, that the secretary would not be personally liable to pay the compensation, for the case was not covered by S. 235, Contract Act. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 289 (289).

[10] Under a charter-party when a person untruly represents himself to be the authorised agent of the master to enter into contracts on his behalf he is personally liable for damages to the other party, and he is not liable for a greater amount than could have been recovered from the alleged principal and the fact that the master or principal is also liable would not make any difference in the liability of the agent. ('83) 7 Bom 51 (66).

[1] Section 236 deals with dispute between two persons one of whom falsely professed agent of third party and it does not apply where dispute is between principal and his agent. ('10) 34 Bom 292 (304).

237. When an agent has, without authority, done acts or incurred obligations to third persons on behalf of his principal, the principal is bound by such acts or obligations, if he has, by his words or conduct, induced such third persons to believe that such acts and obligations were within the scope of the agent's authority.

Liability of principal inducing belief that agent's unauthorized acts were authorized.

business for their principals, have the same effect on agreements made by such agents as if such misrepresentations or frauds had been made or committed by the principals; but misrepresentations made, or frauds committed, by agents, in matters which do not fall within their authority, do not affect their principals.

Section 236 (contd.)

[2] Person with whom contract is made as agent, when he is not so, cannot sue under S. 236. ('12) 39 Cal 802 (809) (DB) * ('07) 34 Cal 628 (633).

[3] Section 236 applies to contract when agent purports to act for a named principal, as well as when he purports to act for undisclosed principal. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 207 (208, 209).

[4] The section does not enact that the contract is void in circumstances mentioned in the section. It only provides that the alleged agent cannot require its performance. Being therefore enforceable by one of the parties and not enforceable by the other, it is a voidable contract under S. 2 (1) of Contract Act. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 207 (208, 209).

Section 237 — Note 1

[1] Unless the relationship of principal and agent is proved to exist between the parties, S 237, Contract Act, can have no application. (Vol 24) 1937 All 255 (257).

[2] Principal benefitting by money received through wrongful or unauthorised act of agent—His liability to restore it is joint and several with agent. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 570 (571).

[3] Agent borrowing for principal, who refuses to ratify—Creditor can sue principal to the extent money was applied to pay his legal debts. (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 42 (42).

[4] Wife giving shares to husband for safe custody—Unauthorized pledge of shares by husband to secure overdraft—Held, there was no relationship of principal and agent and S. 237 had no application—Shares were not liable for amount due on overdraft. (Vol 24) 1937 All 255 (257).

[5] Person who deals with agent whose authority he knows to be limited does so at his peril, in this sense that should agent be found to have exceeded his authority, the principal cannot be made responsible. In order that principle of "holding out" should apply to act done by agent and relied upon to bind principal, it must be an act of that particular class of acts which he has general authority on behalf of his principal to do. But if agent be held out as having limited authority to do on behalf of his principal, acts of particular class, then principal is not bound by an act done outside that authority. Where principal did not by any negligent or improper act, allow agent to be apparently invested with authority beyond or greater than the limited authority which customer knew him to possess, there could not be any stoppage as against principal in respect of any of the steps in transaction whereby customer was deceived by agent acting beyond his authority. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 151 (152) (DB).

[9] Person alleged that he had implied authority to settle lease on behalf of a shebait. Lower Court found he was acting as if he were the shebait. Held, the finding was insufficient to prove implied authority. He must prove, he had authority. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 109 (113): 60 Cal 111 (DB).

[10] Contractor asking goods to be sent to District Board Engineer—Engineer not agent of Board—District Board not liable. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 423 (424, 425) : 58 Cal 17.

[11] Where share-holders of limited company induced people to believe that certain firm were their agents and allowed manager of firm to sign hundies on behalf of company, held that company was liable for sum due under hundies. (Vol 1) 1914 All 238 (241) : 36 All 416 (DB).

[12] The right of a third party against the principal on the contract of his agent, though made in excess of agent's actual authority, is nevertheless to be enforced when the evidence shows that the contracting party has been led into honest belief in the existence of the authority to the extent apparent to him. Where an agent, acting within the scope of his implied authority, commits a fraud for his own benefit, the principal is liable to the party defrauded. (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 121 (127) : I L R (1945) Nag 204 (DB).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Ordinance No. XX of 1946, whereby provision was made for the continuance inter alia of Defence of India Rule 65 relating to control of trade by seas, ceases to be valid on the 25th March 1947. It is considered that conditions are still so abnormal as to make it necessary to continue a form of control with a view to ensuring the required priority for movement by sea of coal, foodstuffs, and other essential cargoes. With regard to ships registered in British India, the Bill provides for a system of licensing which will enable the shipping authority to specify the trades in which ships may engage and the voyages which they may undertake, and also to issue directions in respect of passengers and cargo priorities and routes. Ships registered outside British India will not be subject to licensing, but may be given priority directions provided they are taking on passengers or cargo in a British Indian port for discharge at any port in the continent of India. By the exercise of these powers, Government will be able to ensure essential supplies of coal both for the railways and for industry in the south and west of India, and transport of foodgrains and salt from the west coast.

Provision has also been made for control over fares and freight rates. In existing conditions Government consider it desirable that this power should be taken in order to protect the public from exploitation; fares and rates in nearly all other forms of transport are being controlled, and it is not desirable that sea transport should be allowed to form an exception. This provision will also enable action to be taken, should circumstances necessitate it, to prevent rate wars and other forms of wasteful competition."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"When the Bill, which subsequently became the Act of 1904,^a was published, the following remarks were made in the Statement of Objects and Reasons:— "Legislation is called for not only in order to lay down the fundamental conditions, which must be observed; but, also with a view to giving such societies a corporate existence, without resort to the elaborate provisions of the Companies Act; but it is thought that legislation should be confined within the narrowest possible limits. The Bill has, therefore, been drawn so as to deal only with those points which the Government consider to be essential and its provisions have been expressed in simple and general terms, a wide rule-making power being reserved to Local Governments, so that what is felt to be of the nature of an experiment may be tried in each Province or part of a Province on such lines as seem to offer most promise of success;" and these principles were followed in the Act as passed.

2. The adequacy of the existing Act was examined at a conference of Registrars of Co-operative Credit Societies in 1909, and it was held that, the Act still remained in many ways unduly restricted, and that it also required certain alterations in detail which had been suggested by experts since 1904. The conference of Registrars drew up proposals for the amendment of the Act, and after consulting Local Governments on these proposals the Government of India have prepared the Bill now published. The chief changes, contemplated by the Government of India, are four in number:—

(i) The Act of 1904 applies to societies for the purpose of co-operative credit only and not to co-operative societies of other kinds, such as those established for production or distribution. It has in practice been found that the establishment of credit societies has led to the founding of other classes of co-operative societies also, and it is advisable that the privileges, extended by the Act to co-operative credit societies, should be extended to these other societies. It is proposed, therefore, that the Act, as now revised, should be made applicable to all classes of co-operative societies—vide clause 1(i) and clause 4 of the Bill.

(ii) In the Act of 1904, societies were classified according as they were "Urban" or "Rural" and the principle

ACT HOW AFFECTED BY SUBSEQUENT LEGISLATION

—Adapted by A. O.

—Amended in C. P. and Berar by C. P. & Berar Acts 7 of 1930; 5 of 1940; 6 of 1941; 10 of 1945.

—Amended in U. P. by U. P. Acts 3 of 1919; 1 of 1944.

—Supplemented in C. P. by C. P. Act 1 of 1937.

—Repealed in part by Act 17 of 1914.

—Repealed and amended by Act 88 of 1920.

was laid down that, as a general rule, rural societies should be with unlimited liability. This basis for distinction was adopted, mainly because it represented a classification which had already been recommended and put in force in the initiation of co-operative credit societies in certain parts of India, but it was at the time criticised as unsuitable by experts, and it has in practice been found artificial and inconvenient. The real distinction is between societies with limited and those with unlimited liability and it is proper in the new Bill to maintain this distinction only while retaining the principle that agricultural credit societies must as a general rule be with unlimited liability—see clause 4 of the Bill.

(iii) The Act of 1904 did not contemplate that societies with unlimited liability should distribute profits. It is still felt that such societies do not represent the best form of co-operation for agricultural communities, but this form of societies has, in practice, been for some time in existence in several Provinces, and societies of this character, though not of the orthodox type, are recognized to be capable of useful work. Although, therefore, it is not intended to give them undue encouragement, it is proposed to legalize their existence and to permit an unlimited society, with the sanction of the Local Government to distribute profits—see clause 28 of the Bill (now see section 83).

(iv) A cardinal principle which is observed in the organization of co-operative societies in Europe is the grouping of such societies into Unions and their financing by means of Central Banks. This stage of co-operation had not been fully realised or provided for in the Act of 1904, but such grouping of societies has already been found feasible in most Provinces, and it is now considered desirable to legalize the formation of co-operative credit societies of which the members shall be other co-operative credit societies—vide clauses 5 (1), 6 and 10 (3) of the Bill (now see sections 6 and 8).

3. In addition to carrying out the main alterations above described the present Bill contains the several changes of detail and it has been found advisable to recast the Bill in order to improve the drafting and to incorporate the changes now contemplated. . . . "

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government".

4. Subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, a society which has as its object the Societies which may be registered. promotion of the economic interests of its members in accordance with co-operative principles, or a society established with the object of facilitating the operations of such a society, may be registered under this Act with or without limited liability :

promotion of the interests of its own members. We have further provided that where one of the members of a society is itself a registered society the liability of the society must ordinarily be limited."—S. C. R., 1912.

Restrictions on interest of member of society with limited liability and a share capital.

5. Where the liability of the members of a society is limited by shares, no member other than a registered society shall—

- (a) hold more than such portion of the share capital of the society, subject to a maximum of one-fifth, as may be prescribed by the rules ; or

Duties of registered societies.

15. Every registered society shall have an address, registered in accordance with the rules. Address of societies. to which all notices and communications may be sent, and shall send to the Registrar notice of every change thereof.

16. Every registered society shall keep a copy of this Act and of the rules governing such society, and of its by-laws, open to inspection free of charge at all reasonable times at the registered address of the society.

17. (1) The Registrar shall audit or cause to be audited by some person authorised by him Audit. by general or special order in writing in this behalf the accounts of every registered society once at least in every year.

(2) The audit under sub-section (1) shall include an examination of overdue debts, if any, and a valuation of the assets and liabilities of the society.

(3) The Registrar, the Collector or any person authorised by general or special order in writing in this behalf by the Registrar shall at all times have access to all the books, accounts, papers and securities of a society, and every officer of the society shall furnish such information in regard to the transactions and working of the society as the person making such inspection may require.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The duty of auditing the accounts of a society is on the Registrar or some person authorised by him. The authority in the latter case is to be given by order in writing.—See S. C. R., 1912.

Privileges of registered societies.

18. The registration of a society shall render it a body corporate by the name under which Societies to be it is registered, with perpetual succession and a common seal, and with power to bodies corporate. hold property, to enter into contracts, to institute and defend suits and other legal proceedings and to do all things necessary for the purposes of its constitution.

19. Subject to any prior claim of the ^a[Crown] in respect of land-revenue or any money re-
Prior claim coverable as land-revenue or of a landlord in respect of rent or any money recover-of society. able as rent, a registered society shall be entitled in priority to other creditors to enforce any outstanding demand due to the society from a member or past member —

(a) in respect of the supply of seed or manure or of the loan of money for the purchase of seed or manure—upon the crops or other agricultural produce of such member or person at any time within eighteen months from the date of such supply or loan ;

(b) in respect of the supply of cattle, fodder for cattle, agricultural or industrial implements or machinery, or raw materials for manufacture, or of the loan of money for the purchase of any of the foregoing things—upon any such things so supplied, or purchased in whole or in part from any such loan, or on any articles manufactured from raw materials so supplied or purchased.

Section 17—Note 1

[1] A refusal to furnish information by an officer of the society is not penalised by this Act. But in Bombay, Madras, Bengal and Bihar a wilful negligence or refusal to furnish information is made an offence and punishable as such ; see Bombay Act VII of 1925, Ss. 60 (b), 61, Madras Act VI of 1932, Ss. 52 (b), 55, Bengal Act XXI of 1940, S. 136 and Sch. V, item 2 ; and Bihar and Orissa Act VI of 1935, S. 45.

Section 18—Note 1

[1] Under S. 6 (2) of the Co-operative Credit Societies Act, 1904, it was held that the chairman of a society had no right to institute a suit against a member of the society in his own name, but that the suit should be one by the society itself. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 570 (570) (DB) (Cal).

[2] When the suit in which the decree was obtained was a suit against a Co-operative Loan Society, with unlimited liability and against the Secretary, the Chairman and two members who signed the bond in respect of the money lent by the plaintiff in the suit held that the suit was clearly wrongly constituted as the Co-operative Society alone should have been sued. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 203 (203) (DB).

[3] A decree against a Co-operative Society as a corporate body cannot be executed against a share-holder or member in his individual capacity. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 181 (182, 183) (DB).

[4] A village Society on registration under S. 18 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, becomes a body corporate and a creditor who has obtained an award under the Act against the Society is not entitled to execute the award against any individual member of the same but only against the Society and its assets. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 321 (323) : 11 Pat 174 (FB).

[5] A co-operative society is a legal person and its debts are distinct from liability of its members and they can be reached in winding up proceedings only. (1937) 20 Nag L Jour 6 (8) (DB).

[6] If a corporate body is not registered with limited liability, the members are liable to the full amount of the corporation's debts, but the liability, however, is a liability to contribute with others and such liability can only be enforced upon the winding up and no execution can proceed against a member. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 321 (323) : 11 Pat 174 (FB).

Section 19 — Note 1

[1] Where the money is due to the District Co-operative Bank from a Co-operative Society on account of loans having been advanced by the former to the latter, S. 19, Co-operative Societies Act, has no application. (Vol 27) 1940 All 188 (188, 189) : 1 L R (1940) All 181 (DB).

[2] Fat intended to be purchased and sold at profit and not for purpose of manufacturing some other commodity is not "raw material." (Vol 4) 1917 Lah 81 (82).

20. A registered society shall have a charge upon the share or interest in the capital and on the deposits of a member or past member and upon any dividend, bonus or profits payable to a member or past member in respect of any debt due from such member or past member to the society, and may set off any sum credited or payable to a member or past member in or towards payment of any such debt.

21. Subject to the provisions of section 20, the share or interest of a member in the capital of a registered society shall not be liable to attachment or sale under any decree or order of a Court of Justice in respect of any debt or liability incurred by such member, and neither the Official Assignee under the Presidency-towns Insolvency Act, 1909, nor a Receiver under the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1907, shall be entitled to or have any claim on such share or interest.

[a] See now the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920 (5 [V] of 1920).

22. (1) On the death of a member a registered society may transfer the share or interest of the deceased member to the person nominated in accordance with the rules made in this behalf, or, if there is no person so nominated, to such person as may appear to the committee to be the heir or legal representative of the deceased member, or pay to such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be, a sum representing the value of such member's share or interest, as ascertained in accordance with the rules or by-laws :

Provided that —

(i) in the case of a society with unlimited liability, such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be, may require payment by the society of the value of the share or interest of the deceased member ascertained as aforesaid ;

(ii) in the case of a society with limited liability, the society shall transfer the share or interest of the deceased member to such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be, being qualified in accordance with the rules and bye-laws for membership of the society, or on his application within one month of the death of the deceased member to any person specified in the application who is so qualified.

(2) A registered society may pay all other moneys due to the deceased member from the society to such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be.

(3) All transfers and payments made by a registered society in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be valid and effectual against any demand made upon the society by any other person.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

“We have redrawn cl. 19 (now S. 22) in order to make it clear that the successor of a deceased member may claim the right to be paid the value of the share or interest of the deceased in the case of a society with unlimited liability, and to secure in the case of a society with limited liability that the successor if duly qualified for membership may claim transfer of the shares or interest of the deceased.”—S.C.R., 1912.

23. The liability of a past member for the debts of a registered society as they existed at the time when he ceased to be a member shall continue for a period of two years from the date of his ceasing to be a member.

Section 19 (contd.)

Section 20—Note 1

[1] Under S. 73, Civil P. C., a Co-operative Society cannot enforce a charge under S. 19 unless there is a decree or charge under S. 20 of the Act. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 197 (197) : 42 Cal 377 (DB).

Section 21—Note 1

[1] Shares of member in Co-operative Society attached—Co-operative Society has locus standi to object to attachment. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 305 (306).

[3] A person does not cease to be a member of the society by his adjudication as insolvent. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 275 (275).

Section 22 — Note 1

[1] Bye-law 17 (b) of a Society which provided that “on the death of a share-holder, his shares may be transferred to his heir or nominee if he or she is eligible for membership and is duly elected as such,” held, was ultra vires and hence on the death of a member his share or interest could be transferred to his legal representative though he was not elected as a member. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 537 (541) (DB).

Section 23 — Note 1

[1] Inasmuch as no member can be called upon to contribute to the debts of the Society until liquidation, S. 23 of the Act applies only to members who cease to be members before liquidation. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (318) : 1 L R (1946) Nag 474.

[2] The words “the debts of a registered society as they existed at the time when he ceased to be a member” in S. 23, refer to the debts due from the Society to

24. The estate of a deceased member shall be liable for a period of one year from the time of his decease for the debts of a registered society as they existed at the time of his decease.

Register of members. 25. Any register or list of members or shares kept by any registered society shall be prima facie evidence of any of the following particulars entered therein:—

- (a) the date at which the name of any person was entered in such register or list as a member ;
- (b) the date at which any such person ceased to be a member.

Proof of entries in societies' books. 26. A copy of any entry in a book of a registered society regularly kept in the course of business, shall, if certified in such manner as may be prescribed by the rules, be received, in any suit or legal proceeding, as prima facie evidence of the existence of such entry, and shall be admitted as evidence of the matters, transactions and accounts therein recorded in every case where, and to the same extent as, the original entry itself is admissible.

Exemption from compulsory registration of instruments relating to shares and debentures of registered society.

27. Nothing in section 17, sub-s. (1), clauses (b) and (c), of the Indian Registration Act, 1908, shall apply to —

- (1) any instrument relating to shares in a registered society, notwithstanding that the assets of such society consist in whole or in part of immovable property ; or
- (2) any debenture issued by any such society and not creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest to or in immovable property except in so far as it entitles the holder to the security afforded by a registered instrument whereby the society has mortgaged, conveyed or otherwise transferred the whole or part of its immovable property or any interest therein to trustees upon trust for the benefit of the holders of such debentures ; or
- (3) any endorsement upon or transfer of any debenture issued by any such society.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We have inserted a new clause 27, to provide for the exemption from compulsory registration of instruments relating to the shares and debentures of registered societies, thus placing registered societies on the same footing in this respect as joint stock companies." —S. C. R., 1912.

third persons and it is with regard to these debts that the liability of a past member has been confined in the section to a period of two years from the date of his ceasing to be a member and no further. The debts referred to in the section have no reference whatever to the debts of the outgoing members due to the Society itself. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 315 (317) : 16 Luck 658 (DB) & (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 931 (932) : I L R (1937) Lah 649 (DB). & (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 947 (947)

[3] A person claiming not to be a past member within the meaning of S. 23 has a right to have his claim investigated by a civil Court. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 912 (913).

[4] The period of two years mentioned in S. 23 is to run backwards not from the date on which the award of the liquidator is made but from the date of the dissolution of the Society, that is, the date on which its registration was cancelled. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 284 (286) : I L R (1942) Lah 379 (DB).

[5] No doubt S. 23 limits the liability of a past member for the debts of the registered society, but there is no limitation either in the Act or in the rules under the Act for a debt of a past member due to a registered society. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 947 (947).

[6] Under Ss. 23 and 24 the liquidator cannot award anything against the estate of a deceased or the past member. (1939) 41 Pun L R 269 (270).

Section 24 — Note 1

[1] S. 24 is restricted to proceedings in liquidation under S. 42 of the Act. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 203 (204) (DB).

[2] It does not matter whether a member dies before or after liquidation. His estate is liable for a year after his death, but only for the debts as they existed at the date of his death. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (318) : I L R (1946) Nag 474.

[3] Under S. 24 the estate of a deceased member which devolves by inheritance on his widow under the Hindu Women's Rights to Property Act, is liable to the same extent as it would have been had he been alive. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (318, 319) : I L R (1946) Nag 474.

[4] Under S. 24 the limitation of one year for a suit by the liquidator against the heirs of a deceased member in possession of his estate for contribution due from him, starts from the date of death of the member and not from the date of liquidation. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (318) : I L R (1946) Nag 474

Section 25 — Note 1

[1] Section 26 does not abrogate S. 34, Evidence Act. It merely obviates production of the original books of account which would otherwise be necessary. The words "to the same extent as the original entry itself is admissible" show that the copies stand on no higher footing than the original. When copies of account are filed it is essential to produce evidence abundant to prove that the books of account are regularly kept in the course of business. Having done that the entries become evidence, but like all entries in books of account they are not substantive evidence except as regards admissions against the interest of the maker. They can only be used for corroboration. The accounts of Co-operative Societies form no exemption to this rule. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (319) : I L R (1946) Nag 474.

PROVINCIAL AMENDMENT.

UNITED PROVINCES.

After section 28 the following new section shall be inserted namely,—

"28-A. Deductions from salary to meet societies' claim in certain cases.—(1) A member of a society may execute an agreement in favour of the society providing that his employer shall be competent to deduct from the salary or wages payable to him by the employer such amount as may be specified in the agreement and to pay the amount so deducted to the society in satisfaction of any debt or other demand owing by the member to the society.

(2) On the execution of such agreement, the employer shall, if so required by the society, by a requisition in writing and so long as such debt or demand or any part of it remains unpaid, make the deduction in accordance with the agreement and pay the amount so deducted to the society.

(3) The provisions of this section shall also apply to all such agreements of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) as were in force on the date of the commencement of the Co-operative Societies (United Provinces Amendment) Act, 1944.

(4) Nothing contained in this section shall apply to persons employed in Federal Railways or other departments directly under the control of the Central Government."

—The Co-operative Societies (United Provinces Amendment) Act, 1944 (U. P. 1 (I) of 1944), S. 2. [25-3-1944.]

Property and funds of registered societies.

Restrictions on loans. 29. (1) A registered society shall not make a loan to any person other than a member :

Provided that, with the general or special sanction of the Registrar, a registered society may make loans to another registered society.

(2) Save with the sanction of the Registrar, a society with unlimited liability shall not lend money on the security of moveable property.

Section 28 — Note 1.

[1] Co-operative Society investing fluid assets in Government securities as per Government orders—Such investment not being part of their business, interest on those securities is not profits and is, therefore, assessable under the Income-tax Act. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 387 (389) : 52 Mad 640 (FB).

Section 29 — Note 1

[1] A contract by a Co-operative Credit Society to lend money to a non-member is illegal and cannot be enforced, but if the society pays moneys on the basis of such contract, it can be recovered on the principle that the obligee at the time of taking the money made an implied contract to repay. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 330 (331) (DB).

[2] Where a Co-operative Society advances a loan before its registration and subsequent to its registration the debtor acquiesces in the registration and makes payments towards the principal and interest, it must be inferred that the debtor agreed that the transaction entered into by him with the society before its registration should be binding upon him and the society after its registration. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang. 145 (146) : 1940 Rang. L. R. 77.

(3) The ^a[Provincial Government] may, by general or special order, prohibit or restrict the lending of money on mortgage of immovable property by any registered society or class of registered societies.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government".

30. A registered society shall receive deposits and loans from persons who are not members Restrictions on borrowing. only to such extent and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the rules or by-laws.

Restrictions on other transactions with non-members.

by rules, prescribe.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government".

31. Save as provided in sections 29 and 30, the transactions of a registered society with persons other than members shall be subject to such prohibitions and restrictions, if any, as the ^a[Provincial Government] may,

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We have inserted a new Cl. 31, giving power to the Local Government to restrict the transactions other than in regard to loans and borrowing of registered societies with persons who are not members of the society. We consider that it may be necessary in view of the extended scope of the Bill to impose such restrictions in certain cases, but we think that in view of our present limited experience, it would be unwise to endeavour to lay down definite restrictions in the Bill itself."—S. C. R. 1912.

Investment of funds. 32. (1) A registered society may invest or deposit its funds —

- (a) in the Government Savings Bank, or
- (b) in any of the securities specified in section 20 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, or
- (c) in the shares or on the security of any other registered society, or
- (d) with any bank or person carrying on the business of banking approved for this purpose by the Registrar, or
- (e) in any other mode permitted by the rules.

(2) Any investments or deposits made before the commencement of this Act which would have been valid if this Act had been in force are hereby ratified and confirmed.

Funds not to be divided by way of profit.

33. No part of the funds of a registered society shall be divided by way of bonus or dividend or otherwise among its members :

Provided that after at least one-fourth of the net profits in any year have been carried to a reserve fund, payments from the remainder of such profits and from any profits of past years available for distribution may be made among the members to such extent and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the rules or by-laws :

Provided also that in the case of a society with unlimited liability no distribution of profits shall be made without the general or special order of the ^a[Provincial Government] in this behalf.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government".

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We have amended clause 28 (now section 33) so as to permit distribution of profits not only from the profits of a single year but also from the accumulation of profits which might have been distributed in previous years but were not so distributed. By this means it will be open to societies to provide for the equalisation of dividends."—S. C. R., 1912.

34. Any registered society may, with the sanction of the Registrar, after one-fourth of the net profits in any year has been carried to a reserve fund, contribute an amount not exceeding ten per cent. of the remaining net profits to any charitable purpose, as defined in section 2 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890.

Section 29 (contd.)

[8] A bye-law of a Co-operative Society to the effect that the Society shall not sell goods on credit to a non-member cannot have the force of law, but can be regarded only as a domestic matter and it cannot be brought in defence of him for recovery of balance standing against him. (Vol 18) 1926 Nag 463 (464).

[4] Where a society registered under the Act constructs a house for its member under the bye-law framed under S. 8 (3), the transaction does not amount to a loan. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 8 (10) (DB).

Section 33 — Note 1

[1] Where prima facie there has been no breach of any provision of the Co-operative Societies Act itself or any of its bye-laws, by a resolution passed at an annual general meeting of the share-holders of a co-operative society declaring payment of certain dividend on the preference shares, such a resolution is not ultra vires, although it may be that the profits shown are apparent and not real profits, a considerable portion of them being unrealized interest income. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 394 (397) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 144.

Inspection of affairs.

35. (1) The Registrar may of his own motion, and shall on the request of the Collector, or Inquiry by Registrar on the application of a majority of the committee, or of not less than one-third of the members, hold an inquiry or direct some person authorised by him by order in writing in this behalf to hold an inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of a registered society.

(2) All officers and members of the society shall furnish such information in regard to the affairs of the society as the Registrar or the person authorised by the Registrar may require.

36. (1) The Registrar shall, on the application of a creditor of a registered society, inspect Inspection of books of indebted society. or direct some person authorized by him by order in writing in this behalf to inspect the books of the society :

Provided that —

(a) the applicant satisfies the Registrar that the debt is a sum then due, and that he has demanded payment thereof and has not received satisfaction within a reasonable time ; and

(b) the applicant deposits with the Registrar such sum as security for the costs of the proposed inspection as the Registrar may require.

(2) The Registrar shall communicate the results of any such inspection to the creditor.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We have amended clause 31 (now section 36) so as to render it possible for a creditor independently of the amount of his debt to move the registrar to take action, while on the other hand we have made it necessary for him to satisfy the registrar that his debt is for a sum due at the time of his application, that he has demanded payment of his debt and that payment has not been made within a reasonable time."—S. C. R., 1912.

37. Where an inquiry is held under S. 35, or an inspection is made under S. 36, the Registrar Costs of inquiry. may apportion the costs, or such part of the costs as he may think right, between the society, the members or creditor demanding an inquiry or inspection, and the officers or former officers of the society.

38. Any sum awarded by way of costs under section 37 may be recovered, on application to Recovery of costs. a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place where the person from whom the money is claimable actually and voluntarily resides or carries on business, by the distress and sale of any moveable property within the limits of the jurisdiction of such Magistrate belonging to such person.

Dissolution of society.

39. (1) If the Registrar, after an inquiry has been held under section 35 or after an inspection Dissolution. has been made under section 36 or on receipt of an application made by three-fourths of the members of a registered society, is of opinion that the society ought to be dissolved, he may cancel the registration of the society.

(2) Any member of a society may, within two months from the date of an order made under sub-section (1), appeal from such order.

(3) Where no appeal is presented within two months from the making of an order cancelling the registration of a society, the order shall take effect on the expiry of that period.

(4) Where an appeal is presented within two months, the order shall not take effect until it is confirmed by the appellate authority.

(5) The authority to which appeals under this section shall lie shall be the ^a[Provincial Government]:

Provided that the ^a[Provincial Government] may, by notification in the ^b[Official Gazette], direct that appeals shall lie to such Revenue-authority as may be specified in the notification.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government". [b] Substituted by A. O. for "Local official Gazette".

40. Where it is a condition of the registration of a society that it should consist of at least ten Cancellation of registration of society. members, the Registrar may, by order in writing, cancel the registration of the society if at any time it is proved to his satisfaction that the number of the members has been reduced to less than ten.

of registration.*

41. Where the registration of a society is cancelled, the society shall cease to exist as a corporate body —

- (a) in the case of cancellation in accordance with the provisions of section 39, from the date the order of cancellation takes effect;
- (b) in the case of cancellation in accordance with the provisions of section 40, from the date of the order.

42. (1) Where the registration of a society is cancelled under section 39 or section 40, the Registrar may appoint a competent person to be liquidator of the society.

(2) A liquidator appointed under sub-section (1) shall have power —

- (a) to institute and defend suits and other legal proceedings on behalf of the society by his name of office;
- (b) to determine the contribution to be made by the members and past members of the society respectively to the assets of the society;
- (c) to investigate all claims against the society and subject to the provisions of this Act, to decide questions of priority arising between claimants;
- (d) to determine by what persons and in what proportions the costs of the liquidation are to be borne; and
- (e) to give such directions in regard to the collection and distribution of the assets of the society, as may appear to him to be necessary for winding up the affairs of the society.

(3) Subject to any rules, a liquidator appointed under this section shall, in so far as such powers are necessary for carrying out the purposes of this section, have power to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and to compel the production of documents by the same means and (so far as may be) in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.^a

(4) Where an appeal from any order made by a liquidator under this section is provided for by the rules, it shall lie to the Court of the District Judge.

(5) Orders made under this section shall, on application, be enforced as follows:—

- (a) when made by a liquidator, by any Civil Court having local jurisdiction in the same manner as a decree of such Court;
- (b) when made by the Court of the District Judge on appeal, in the same manner as a decree of such Court made in any suit pending therein.

(6) Save in so far as is hereinbefore expressly provided, no Civil Court shall have any jurisdiction in respect of any matter connected with the dissolution of a registered society under this Act.

[a] In its application to British Baluchistan this sub-section shall be read as if the words "or the British Baluchistan Civil Justice Regulation, 1896, as the case may be" were inserted at the end: see the British Baluchistan Laws Regulation, 1913 (2 [II] of 1913), Sch. I.

SECTION 42 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Sub-section (2)—Powers of liquidator.
 - 2a. Contribution by members.
 - 2b. "Direction in regard to collection."
3. Sub-section (3)—Evidence.
4. Sub-section (5)—Enforcement of order.
5. Sub-section (6)—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

1. Scope. — [1] Co-operative Society is a legal person—Its debts are distinct from members' liability—Members can be reached by corporation's creditors only in winding up proceedings. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 484 (436) : I L R (1938) Nag 604 (DB).

[2] Even though the members of a co-operative credit society are subject to a statutory liability to contribute to the debts of the society, that liability can only be enforced by the procedure of winding up contained

3. The power referred to in clause (f) of sub-section (2) of section 42 of the said Act shall be deemed to have been conferred on a liquidator from the commencement of the said Act and all orders, purporting to have been passed by him in exercise of that power, prior to the coming into force of this Act, and all proceedings taken in pursuance of such orders, shall be valid notwithstanding any decree or order of a civil Court to the contrary.

4. Any suit, appeal, or proceeding, pending in a civil Court on the date on which this Act comes into force, in which the validity of an order purporting to have been passed by a liquidator in exercise of the power referred to in clause (f) of sub-section (2) of section 42 of the said Act has been called in question on the ground that no such power existed, shall abate.

in the act and not directly by a suit of the creditor. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 191 (194) : 57 Bom 319 (DB).

[3] Paid manager of Co-operative Bank appointed liquidator—His duties are quasi-judicial and he is public officer as defined in S. 2 (17), Civil P. C., and requires notice under S. 80 of Code. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 232 (233) * (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 287 (288) : I L R (1943) Lah 389 (DB).

2. Sub-section (2)—Powers of liquidator. — [1] A person cannot be proceeded against by the liquidator in a summary manner under S. 42 (2) (b) as a debtor to the society but as a member contributing to the assets of the society. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 931 (932, 933) : I L R (1937) Lah 649 (DB).

[2] While deciding the matter of contribution under S. 42 (2) the liquidator has jurisdiction to decide whether the liability of the past member has ceased under S. 23 (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 330 (331).

[3] Liquidator cannot order that debtors are jointly and severally liable for each other's mortgage but may determine contribution to be made by several debtors to meet debts. (Vol 5) 1918 All 419 (420) : 40 All 89 (DB).

[4] Liquidator's order without notice to party against whom it is made is without jurisdiction and a nullity. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 237 (240) : I L R (1943) Lah 553 (DB).

[5] Section 42 (2) (e)—Collection and distribution of assets. Only liquidator can collect assets of society from its members and distribute them rateably among creditors. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 434 (439) : I L R (1938) Nag 604 (DB).

[6] Where a liquidator makes an assessment on a person, who is not a member, or has ceased to be a member for over two years before the dissolution of the society, or whose liability to contribute had otherwise been extinguished by operation of law, he acts in excess of his jurisdiction and his order is a nullity and, therefore, incapable of execution. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 237 (239) : I L R (1943) Lah 553 (DB).

2a. Contribution by members. — [1] Member means member at date of dissolution of society. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 275 (275).

[2] "Past member" means past member, liable for debts under S. 23. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 912 (912).

[3] "Past member" means person, who is alive at all material times, but who has ceased to be member of society, otherwise than by death. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (318) : I L R (1946) Nag 474.

[4] What has to be seen is whether liability of past member is subsisting at date of dissolution in winding up of society—Crucial date is date of dissolution. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 284 (286) : I L R (1942) Lah 379 (DB).

[5] The heirs of a chairman of a society, against whom a personal decree has been obtained cannot call in the provisions of S. 24 as an answer to the claim of the decree-holder to execute the decree, as that section applies only to a proceeding in liquidation under S. 42. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 203 (203 and 204) (DB).

[6] Section 42 (2) (b) is limited to members or past members and has no application to claim for contribution against the heirs of a deceased member. In such a case, the liquidator's only remedy is by way of a civil suit. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (319) : I L R (1946) Nag 474.

[7] "Contribution" presupposes existing liability. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 237 (239) : I L R (1943) Lah 553 (DB).

[8] No claim can be made for contribution either against a member, a past member or the estate of a deceased member until the assets and liabilities of the society are determined. If it can pay off its debts from existing assets no claim for contribution can be made. That is only a last resort when all else fails. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 317 (319, 320) : I L R (1946) Nag 474.

[9] Section 42 (2) (b) : Contributory order made before assets of society are ascertained is ultra vires. First, the assets of the individual debtors should be realized. The contributory order made before such realization is ultra vires and cannot be executed. (41) 1941 Nag L Jour 412 (414) (DB).

[10] Member of joint family joining society and taking loan—Joint family, as such, not brought on list of members—Debt borrowed for family necessity—Contributory order against members of family, who are not members of the society cannot be made. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 48 (49).

[11] The liability of a member of co-operative society to contribute to the assets of the society in the event of its being dissolved before or during insolvency of the member is a debt provable in insolvency and therefore the liquidator should either prove it or have it excluded from the schedule under S. 33, Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920, if it came within the provisions of that section. Where he does not do so, the member's liability for such debt ceases on his being granted a complete discharge by the insolvency Court as expressly provided in S. 44 (2) of that Act. The liquidator, therefore, has no jurisdiction to assess the contribution of the insolvent as a member of the society under S. 42 (2) of this Act after his complete discharge. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 237 (238) : I L R (1943) Lah 553 (DB).

[12] Member applying in insolvency after society has gone into liquidation and obtaining his discharge—Decree passed by liquidator under S. 42 (2) (b) cannot be executed against the insolvent even if the liquidator was competent to make a decree and the liability could not be challenged by the executing Court because it was a decree made by a competent Court, as the liability must be deemed to have disappeared by force of S. 42 (2), Provincial Insolvency Act. (Vol 2c) 1941 Lah 314 (315).

[13] Where certain members of a society are adjudged insolvents, before the society is dissolved, and a liquidator is not appointed until after the discharge of the insolvents, the liability of the insolvents as members of the society is not provable under the terms of S. 34 (2), Provincial Insolvency Act. Under S. 42 (b), it is the liquidator alone who can ascertain and fix the liabilities of the members. Therefore, until a liquidator is appointed, it cannot be said that there is any debt or liability, certain or contingent, which can affect the members. The liquidator is not, therefore, debarred from fixing the liability of the insolvents as

(i) After sub-section (4) of section 42 insert the following sub-section, namely—

“(4A) Any sum ordered under this section to be recovered as a contribution to the assets of the society or as costs of liquidation may be recovered, on a requisition being made in this behalf to the Collector by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies, in the same manner as arrears of land revenue.”

(ii) In sub-section (5) of that section, before the words ‘orders made under this section’ insert the words ‘Save as provided in sub-section (4A).’ — [U. P. Act III of 1919, S. 2.]

members, under the provisions of the Provincial Insolvency Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 275 (276).

[14] Order of liquidator under S. 42 (2) (b) is not decree for money within meaning of S. 7 (iv-A), Court-fees Act (Madras Amendment) — Court-fee for suit for declaration that order is null and void is Rs. 100, under Sch. II, Art. 17-A (iii). (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 604 (605) : I L R (1938) Mad 65.

2b. “Direction in regard to collection.”—[1] Sub-sections (2) (b) and (2) (e) must be read as a whole. The directions given in sub-s. (2) (e) are mainly administrative. A liquidator has no power under sub-s. (2) (e) to make an order having the force of a decree in respect of a debt due to a society in liquidation. Such a debt is not included in contributions mentioned in sub-s. (2) (b). (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 355 (355).

3. Sub-section (3)—Evidence.—[1] Powers given by S. 42 (3) are subject to rules under the Act, Applicability of S. 32, Civil P. C., is restricted by R. 26 (e) framed by the Punjab Government under S. 43 (1). Liquidator summoning person has no power to ask security from such person or impose sentence of imprisonment or fine for failure to furnish security. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 357 (358) : I L R (1939) Lah 192 : 40 Cri L Jour 791.

[2] Proceedings under S. 42 (2) (b) and (d) are quasi-judicial—Some evidence is necessary for determination of questions referred to in cls. (b) and (d). Procedure laid down in rules not followed. Application for execution of order is not competent. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 631 (632) (DB).

4. Sub-section (5) — Enforcement of order. —

[1] Proceedings under S. 42 (2) (b) and (d) are quasi-judicial. Some evidence is necessary for determination of questions referred to in cls. (b) and (d)—Procedure not followed — Application for execution is not competent. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 631 (632) (DB).

[2] An heir of a deceased member of a co-operative society can be arrested for an arrear due from his deceased father by virtue of S. 2, U. P. Co-operative Societies (Amendment) Act, 1919, read with R. 31 (4), (5), (8) and (10) framed by U. P. Provincial Government under S. 43, and S. 42 (4a) of the Act as inserted by U. P. Act and S. 146, U. P. Land Revenue Act. (Vol 15) 1928 All 128 (131) : 29 Cri L Jour 244.

[3] No appeal lies from civil Court's order enforcing liquidator's order under S. 42. (Vol 5) 1918 All 419 (420) : 40 All 89 (DB).

5. Sub-section (6)—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

—[1] A civil suit for refund of money realised under the provisions of S. 42 (4a) of the Act as amended by U. P. Act, 3 of 1919 with S. 149 of U. P. Land Revenue Act is barred by the provisions of S. 233 (m) of the U. P. Land Revenue Act. (Vol 14) 1927 All 532 (533) : 49 All 701 (DB).

[2] Decree on an award in favour of a certain Co-operative Bank — On requisition from Registrar of Co-operative Societies, trees belonging to judgment debtor put to sale for realising the amount due — No objection to attachment and sale of trees by person claiming to be the real owner within the prescribed time— Suit in civil Court by such person is not maintainable as the amount was realised as arrear of land revenue under the Co-operative Societies Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 249 (250).

[3] Rule 15 framed in 1931 under Burma Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1927) S. 50, does not bar the jurisdiction of civil Courts in relation to proceedings of the Registrars or arbitrators in the same way as the jurisdiction of civil Court is barred with respect to matters connected with the liquidation of society under S. 42 of the Co-operative Societies Act. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 363 (364) : 1937 Rang L R 899.

[4] Civil Court in execution of order of liquidator cannot go behind it. If the order is thus enforced there is no error of jurisdiction on the part of the civil Court and revision to High Court does not lie. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 18 (18, 19) : 7 Rang 533.

[5] Contribution levied on member — Member not representing submitting to payment of amount—Suit by him for realisation of amount — Civil Court cannot entertain it. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 431 (433).

[6] Suit for declaration by past member (who admits himself to be one) that he is not liable to pay the amount declared by the liquidator as his liability ceased under S. 23—Liquidator, held, had jurisdiction to decide the amount of contribution under S. 42, sub s. (2) and the suit was not maintainable in civil Court. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 330 (331).

Liability to contribution disputed. — [7] If the liquidator makes an assessment on a person who is not a member, or had ceased to be a member for over two years before the dissolution of the society, or whose liability to contribute had otherwise been extinguished by operation of law, he has clearly acted in excess of his jurisdiction and his order is a nullity and, therefore, incapable of execution. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 237 (239) : I L R (1943) Lah 553 (DB).

[8] Liquidation of society — Civil Courts have jurisdiction to consider whether a person is liable as past member — Person denying his liability as past member — Liquidator cannot make him liable as past member. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 574 (576) : 59 Mad 895 (DB)* (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 831 (836) : I L R (1940) Mad 929 (DB) * (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 912 (913). (Person claiming not to be past member.) * (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 422 (423) : 14 Lah 703 (DB). (Person disputing his membership) * (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 643 (644). (Do.)

Action by non-member. — [9] Section 42 (6) is no bar to a civil suit by a member of the society against the purchaser for declaration that the property attached and sold for debt due from him was not liable to be sold. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 217 (219) : 23 Nag L R 66.

[10] Society wound up — Liquidator selling property, conveyed to him, to person having nothing to do with the society—Suit by a purchaser for possession — Civil Court not precluded from questioning the validity of the transfer since the matter is not connected with dissolution or winding up of society. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 98 (98, 99). (Case under S. 49, Burma Co-operative Societies Act, 1927.)

[11] Section does not bar a suit between co-members as to their respective rights when the plaintiff's property has been utilised by the defendant. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 38 (39) : 2 Rang 325.

42B. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or the rules made thereunder, where a compromise or arrangement is proposed between a registered society and its creditors or any class of them, the Registrar may, on the application of the society or of any creditor, or, in the case of a society the registration of which has been cancelled, of the liquidator, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors, as the case may be, to be called, held and conducted in such manner as may be determined by him :

Provided that the Registrar may, on his own motion, order such a meeting to be called for the purpose of effecting a compromise or arrangement.

(2) If creditors, not less than three-fourths in value of the creditors present either in person or by proxy at the meeting, agree to any compromise or arrangement, the Registrar may, in his discretion pass an order confirming the compromise or arrangement, and thereupon such compromise or arrangement shall be binding on all the creditors or the class of creditors, as the case may be, and also on the society, and, in the case of a society the registration of which has been cancelled, on the liquidator and on all persons who have been, or may be, required by the liquidator acting under clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 42 to contribute to the assets of the society :

Provided that the Registrar shall not confirm a compromise or arrangement unless the creditors who agree to it are not less than 51 per cent. in value of all the creditors or the class of creditors, as the case may be.

(3) A compromise or arrangement confirmed by the Registrar under sub-section (2) shall not be called in question in any civil Court.

(4) When an order calling a meeting is passed under sub-section (1) or the proviso thereof, the Registrar may give notice of such order to a civil Court in which proceedings, whether instituted before or after the order, in respect of any liability of the society due to a creditor to whom a copy of the order is posted under sub-section (6), are pending, and on receipt of such notice the civil Court shall stay the proceedings. If no compromise or arrangement is confirmed under sub-section (2), the Registrar shall inform the civil Court accordingly, and the proceedings which may have been stayed shall be resumed.

of one of the debtors of a co-operative society, which is in liquidation, for being declared insolvent. The official liquidator can press his claim against the insolvent in the same way as the other creditors will do. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 290 (290).

Action without jurisdiction.—[18] Executing Court can go behind the order passed by the liquidator under S. 42 (2) (b) and inquire if it has been passed within the limits of jurisdiction and can refuse to execute it, if it is found to be without jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 237 (239) : I L R (1943) Lah 553 (DB) & ('41) 1941 Nag L Jour 412 (414) (DB).

[14] Civil Court can intervene if liquidator's act or order is shown to be ultra vires. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 48 (49, 50).

[15] Liquidator exceeding his power under S. 42 — Court can determine its legality — Person proceeded against by liquidator as debtor and not as member of society — Suit by person that he is not so liable is maintainable. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 931 (934) : I L R (1937) Lah 649 (DB).

[16] Contributory order of liquidator against member of society without jurisdiction—Order can be challenged by way of suit in civil Court but it cannot be questioned in proceedings for its execution in civil Court. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 161 (162) : I L R (1946) Nag 60 (DB).

Matters relating to dissolution — [17] Correctness of amount assessed cannot be questioned by Court when award is passed by liquidator within his powers. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 284 (286) : I L R (1942) Lah 379 (DB).

[18] Order of the liquidator under S. 42 (2) (b) and (e) directing contribution by members is final and cannot be questioned in a civil Court even if the order is wrong, the matter being connected with dissolution of society. (Vol 18) 1926 Nag 379 (380) : 24 Nag L R 5.

[19] No question of validity of dissolution — No civil suit for declaration that order of contribution is null and void is maintainable. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 245 (246) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 186. (Assam Rules, R. 41 (e), (f) and (j).)

[21] Liquidator's order to collect assets of society from persons accountable to him — Civil Court cannot interfere. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 62 (62) : 44 Bom 582 (DB).

[22] Civil Court cannot entertain suit by members of the Executive Committee to recoup the amount paid under liquidator's orders from ordinary members, since the matter is connected with dissolution of society. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 578 (579) (DB).

[23] Court cannot refuse execution of liquidator's award under S. 42 (2) (f) though member against whom award was made, was discharged under S. 44, Prov. Insol. Act. The matter is not one of lack of inherent jurisdiction but only a question of illegal exercise of jurisdiction. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 280 (280). (Reversed in (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 287 : I L R (1943) Lah 389 (DB).)

(5) If a compromise or arrangement is confirmed under sub-section (2), the proceedings, if any, stayed under sub-section (4) shall abate, and no proceedings shall lie in a civil Court in respect of any liability of the society to which the compromise or arrangement relates.

(6) An order of the Registrar calling a meeting under sub-section (1) or the proviso thereof shall be published in the official Gazette at least fifteen days before the date of the meeting and a copy thereof shall be posted to each creditor concerned to his address as entered in the books of the society at least thirty days before the date of the meeting.

(7) An order of the Registrar confirming a compromise or arrangement under sub-section (2) shall be published in the official Gazette and a copy thereof posted to each creditor concerned to his address as entered in the books of the society, and the order shall be open to inspection free of charge at the office of the Registrar or the office of the society by any person interested in the compromise or arrangement.

(8) The Registrar may pass such order as he deems necessary with regard to the costs of calling, holding and conducting a meeting under sub-section (1) or the proviso thereof.

(9) The Registrar may, with the sanction of the Provincial Government, exempt such class of creditors as he thinks fit from the operation of this section.

(10) The provisions of this section shall also apply to proceedings pending in a civil Court, in respect of any liability of the society due to creditors or class of creditors, on the date on which this section comes into force."

—Heading and S. 42B, sub-ss. (1) to (9) were inserted by C. P. and Berar Act V of 1940, S. 2 [26-3-1940] and sub-s. (10) was inserted and deemed always to have been inserted by C. P. and Berar Act VI of 1941, S. 2.

"42-C. (1) Notwithstanding the terms of a compromise or an arrangement confirmed by the Registrar under section 42-B, a society which has paid to its creditors not less than two-thirds of the total amount payable to them under such compromise or arrangement, may, with a view to terminate such compromise or arrangement and with the previous sanction of the Registrar, borrow money or acquire new assets in such manner and from such sources as may be specified in the sanction.

(2) With the money borrowed or the new assets acquired the society shall pay off the balance of the amount payable to the creditors under such compromise or arrangement within such period not exceeding six months from the date of sanction as the Registrar may fix :—

Provided that, instead of paying the amount due to a creditor, the society may, with his consent in writing, treat the amount payable to him as a fresh deposit for a period of not less than two years. On treating the amount as fresh deposit, the liability of the society to such creditor as determined by the compromise or arrangement shall be deemed to have been discharged and he shall thereafter rank as a new creditor in respect of the deposit.

(3) When, for the purpose of determining the balance of the amount payable to creditors under sub-section (2) of this section, it is necessary to take into account assets of the society, which are not likely to be realised in cash for a long time, or which, in the opinion of the Registrar, it is not desirable to convert into cash, the Registrar shall make a valuation of such assets, and such valuation shall, subject to an appeal to the Provincial Government, be conclusive for the said purpose.

(4) If a creditor in respect of whom a compromise or an arrangement has been confirmed by the Registrar under section 42-B, fails to receive the amount payable to him under such compromise or arrangement by reason of his not accepting it or by reason of his not being traceable, the society shall keep the amount in deposit by opening a separate account in his name in the society. On the making of such deposit the amount payable to him under the compromise or arrangement shall be deemed to have been paid to the extent of the deposit. The creditor or any person claiming through him shall thereafter be entitled to claim only the amount so deposited.

(5) A compromise or an arrangement in respect of a society and its creditors confirmed by the Registrar under section 42-B, shall cease to be in force as soon as the whole amount of the liability determined thereunder has been or is deemed to have been paid, whether under the provisions of this section or otherwise, notwithstanding that the period originally stipulated for the discharge of such liability has not expired.

(6) After such compromise or arrangement has ceased to be in force no further claim shall remain against the society, or against any property movable or immovable which it may acquire thereafter, in respect of the liability which had been the subject of the compromise or arrangement and the society shall be free to conduct its business as a normally functioning society."

—C. P. and Berar Act X of 1945, S. 5. [17-9-1945.]

Rules.

43. (1) The ^a[Provincial Government] may, for the whole or any part of the Province ^band for any registered society or class of such societies, make rules^b to carry out the purposes of this Act.

SECTION 43 — Synopsis

1. Scope.
2. Sub-section (2) (1) — "Dispute touching the business of a society."
3. Decisions bearing on rules framed under sub-section (2), cl. (1).

4. Other rules.

5. Rule and bye-law.

1. Scope. — [1] The limits within which the rule-making powers of the Provincial Government could be exercised are contained in sub-s (1) of S. 43. Sub-section (2) simply sets out by way of illustration certain matters on which rules are considered desirable. It does

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

- (a) subject to the provisions of section 5, prescribe the maximum number of shares or portion of the capital of a society which may be held by a member;
- (b) prescribe the forms to be used and the conditions to be complied with in the making of applications for the registration of a society and the procedure in the matter of such applications;
- (c) prescribe the matters in respect of which a society may or shall make by-laws and for the procedure to be followed in making, altering and abrogating by-laws, and the conditions to be satisfied prior to such making, alteration or abrogation;
- (d) prescribe the conditions to be complied with by persons applying for admission or admitted as members, and provide for the election and admission of members, and the payment to be made and the interest to be acquired before the exercise of the right of membership;
- (e) regulate the manner in which funds may be raised by means of shares or debentures or otherwise;
- (f) provide for general meetings of the members and for the procedure at such meetings and the powers to be exercised by such meetings;
- (g) provide for the appointment, suspension and removal of the members of the committee and other officers, and for the procedure at meetings of the committee, and for the powers to be exercised and the duties to be performed by the committee and other officers; not, in any way, limit the powers given by sub-s. (1) and the items mentioned in sub-s. (2) do not exhaust the list of matters on which rules might be framed by the Provincial Government. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 394 (398) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 144 * (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 327 (332, 333) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 103 (DB).

2. Sub-section (2) (i) — "Dispute touching the business of a society."—[1] The disputed liability of a member to repay money due to a co-operative society is a dispute touching the business of the society. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 225 (226) : 14 Pat 292 (DB).

[2] Dispute between A, B and C members of society, relating to money alleged to have been borrowed by A from society but in reality misappropriated by B and C — Dispute held was concerning business of society. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 786 (787).

[3] Dispute between member, officer and society regarding money entrusted to officer for purchase of articles is within sub-s. (2) (i). (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 481 (482) (DB).

[4] The expression 'touching the business of the society' includes disputes arising out of particular transactions and disputes between members and officers. The words of S. 43 are very general and do not merely refer to a dispute regarding the internal management of the affairs of a society or disputes in regard to the principles which would regulate the conduct of business. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 481 (482) (DB).

[5] "Business" is not confined to money business and includes election of officers. (Vol 12) 1925 All 356 (358) : 47 All 374 (DB).

[6] Dispute within clause (i) cannot be limited to dispute concerning the internal management of the society. Where the principal business of a society is to finance its members, a dispute concerning the financial obligations of its members to the society would be a dispute concerning the business of the society. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 327 (333) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 103 (DB).

[7] Where a co-operative society has considered its treasurer to be responsible for embezzlement of money deposited with it by a person and the treasurer has throughout contended that he was not concerned with the alleged embezzlement, there is clearly a dispute between the treasurer and the society regarding question of embezzlement of money and hence the dispute can be referred to arbitration. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 301 (302).

[8] A suit for a declaration that the constitution of the board of management of a co-operative society was illegal, that it had no authority to function or to call an extra-ordinary general meeting of the share-holders, and that the resolution passed at the meeting thus convened was itself ultra vires is not a dispute between a member and the committee touching the business of the society. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 394 (396, 397) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 144.

[9] Under clause (i), the dispute referred to the Registrar must be dispute between the members of the society and the committee. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 290 (291) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 551.

[10] Mere willingness of the debtor to discharge his debt does not mean that there is no dispute. The dispute arises when the demand made for the payment is not immediately met and cannot be recovered without recourse to law. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 16 (18) : I L R (1945) Nag 67 (DB).

3. Decisions bearing on rules framed under sub-section (2), clause (i). — [1] The purpose of the Legislature as embodied in cl. (i) of S. 43 (2), Co-operative Societies Act, clearly is that when the Registrar gives directions for "arbitration", the parties would have no right to have recourse to any alternative proceeding. The words "arbitration" and "award" in S. 43 (2), cl. (i) have been used merely to signify a special tribunal and the order of a special tribunal, as contradistinguished from a civil Court and the decree of civil Court respectively. That special tribunal may or may not in all respects, or substantially conform to the characteristics of an arbitration tribunal strictly so-called. The conferment of a right of appeal from the decision of such a tribunal does not involve any inherent inconsistency. If, it is within the objects of the Act to set up a special tribunal for the decision of disputes, the power to create such a tribunal includes the power to set up an appellate authority, which would create more confidence and a greater sense of security

- (h) prescribe the accounts and books to be kept by a society and provide for the audit of such accounts and the charges, if any, to be made for such audit, and for the periodical publication of a balance-sheet showing the assets and liabilities of a society ;
 - (i) prescribe the returns to be submitted by a society to the Registrar and provide for the persons by whom and the form in which such returns shall be submitted ;
 - (j) provide for the persons by whom and the form in which copies of entries in books of societies may be certified ;
 - (k) provide for the formation and maintenance of a register of members and, where the liability of the members is limited by shares, of a register of shares ;
 - (l) provide that any dispute touching the business of a society between members or past members of the society or persons claiming through a member or past member or between a member or past member or persons so claiming and the committee or any officer shall be referred to the Registrar for decision or, if he so directs, to arbitration, and prescribe the mode of appointing an arbitrator or arbitrators and the procedure to be followed in proceedings before the Registrar or such arbitrator or arbitrators, and the enforcement of the decisions of the Registrar or the awards of arbitrators ;
 - (m) provide for the withdrawal and expulsion of members and for the payments, if any, to be made to members who withdraw or are expelled and for the liabilities of past members ;
 - (n) provide for the mode in which the value of a deceased member's interest shall be ascertained, and for the nomination of a person to whom such interest may be paid or transferred ;
 - (o) prescribe the payments to be made and the conditions to be complied with by members applying for loans, the period for which loans may be made, and the amount which may be lent, to an individual member ;
 - (p) provide for the formation and maintenance of reserve funds, and the objects to which such funds may be applied, and for the investment of any funds under the control of the society ;
 - (q) prescribe the extent to which a society may limit the number of its members ;
 - (r) prescribe the conditions under which profits may be distributed to the members of a society with unlimited liability and the maximum rate of dividend which may be paid by societies ;
 - (s) subject to the provisions of section 39, determine in what cases an appeal shall lie from the orders of the Registrar, and prescribe the procedure to be followed in presenting and disposing of such appeals ; and
 - (t) prescribe the procedure to be followed by a liquidator appointed under section 42, and the cases in which an appeal shall lie from the order of such liquidator.
- (3) The ^a[Provincial Government] may delegate, subject to such conditions, if any, as it thinks fit, all or any of its powers to make rules under this section to any authority specified in the order of delegation.
- (4) The power to make rules conferred by this section is subject to the condition of the rules being made after previous publication.
- (5) All rules made under this section shall be published in the ^a[Official Gazette], and on such publication shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

in the disputants. Clause (s) of S. 43 (2) is not the only provision giving rule-making power to set up a tribunal of appeal. As the Provincial Government has been given power to create by rules a special tribunal to decide disputes of the nature and between the parties mentioned in S. 43 (2), cl. (l), the jurisdiction of such special tribunal would be exclusive. Clause (l) gives that indication when it says that the Registrar, if he so chooses, may direct that the dispute shall be referred to arbitration. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 327 (384) : 1 L R (1938) 2 Cal 108 (DB).

(4) Bengal Rules.

[2] As to settlement of disputes touching the business of a co-operative society registered in the Province of Bengal, now see the Bengal Co-operative Societies Act, 1940, Ss. 86 to 88 and S. 140 (2) (lvii). The following cases were decided under the Rules framed by the Bengal Provincial Government under S. 43, Co-operative Societies Act, 1912.

[3] In the case of a mortgage in favour of the society, the award made by the Registrar can in no sense be a mortgage decree. The Registrar has no power to decide disputed claims of priority or to make a decision which in any way affects the rights of other persons interested either in the mortgage security or in the equity of redemption. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 290 (291) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 551.

[4] Court can entertain suit to have award declared invalid when reference to arbitrator itself is questioned. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 23 (24) : 60 Cal 1207 (DB).

[5] Where a dispute, which cannot be referred to arbitration, is referred to arbitration and no objection is taken before the arbitrator or the Registrar in appeal, the objection cannot be taken in revision against execution. (1936) 163 Ind Cas 591 (591) (Cal).

[6] The decision of the arbitrator may be wrong in fact or in law, but that is not a ground which would entitle the civil Courts to interfere in the matter. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 198 (202) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 82 (DB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 162 (163) & (1936) 164 Ind Cas 802 (804) (Cal). (Civil Court cannot alter award under S. 151, Civil P. C., even if it is anomalous or erroneous.) & (1934) 60 Cal L Jour 572 (575) (DB).

[7] The machinery and the procedure indicated by the provisions of R. 20 are totally inconsistent with the provisions contained in Chap. 2 of the Arbitration Act. Consequently the civil Court has no jurisdiction to appoint an arbitrator in a proceeding under R. 20 nor can it remove an arbitrator. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 255 (256) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 431 (DB).

[8] In the case of an award made under R. 22, the date of the award should be regarded as the date on which such award is officially communicated to the person or persons affected thereby and not the date of the decision of the arbitrator. An execution application filed within three years of the date on which award is communicated to the party will be within time. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 152 (153) : I L R (1940) 2 Cal 460.

[9] Article 178, Limitation Act, does not apply to the execution of the award under R. 22. (1936) 163 Ind Cas 591 (591) (Cal) & (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 255 (260) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 431 (DB).

[10] An award given by an arbitrator under R. 22 need not be stamped. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 695 (696) : 60 Cal 906 (DB).

[11] Rule 22 (1) is not confined to such disputes as are referable to membership only, but covers all disputes between a society and a member. Hence a dispute arising from a transaction entered into by two members as brokers is referable to arbitration. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 267 (268) (DB).

[12] A dispute regarding a loan taken by a past member of a society from the Co-operative Bank, being a dispute between a past member and a committee within R. 22 (1), cannot be referred to arbitration but should be referred to the Registrar. (1936) 163 Ind Cas 591 (591) (Cal).

[13] The whole scheme of the provisions of R. 22, sub-r. (1) to (7) is to oust the jurisdiction of the civil Court throughout the arbitration proceedings. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 255 (256) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 431 (DB).

[14] Suit for declaration that constitution of board of management of society is illegal and that it could not function or call extra-ordinary general meeting of share-holders and that resolution passed in such meeting is ultra vires is within jurisdiction of civil Court. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 394 (396, 397) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 144 & (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 317 (319) : 59 Cal 1165 (DB).

[15] In giving, by sub-r. (6) of R. 22, a finality to the decision of the special tribunal, the Provincial Government did not transgress its powers, but carried out the implications of cl. (1) as well as of general law. Sub-rules (2), (5) and (6) of R. 22 framed under S. 43 (1) are therefore not ultra vires and a Registrar has power to appoint a single arbitrator to decide a dispute filed before him. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 327 (334) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 103 (DB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 196 (201) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 82 (DB) & (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 162 (163).

[16] If the award is without jurisdiction, the civil Court can certainly declare it to be a nullity. Even if the arbitrator was validly appointed, the award can still be a nullity, if there was violation of the rules regulating the arbitration in matters of substance. Not only a proper appointment of the arbitrator in accordance with the rules is essential for creating jurisdiction in the arbitrator but the fundamental rules attaching restraint to the exercise of authority by the arbitrator are equally mandatory and a violation of them would nullify the award. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 198 (201) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 82 (DB).

[17] Rule 22 (6) framed under S. 43 of the Co-operative Societies Act is not meant to take away the jurisdiction of the executing Court to enquire into the competency of an award made under the provisions of the section, on the ground of jurisdiction. (Vol 29) 1933 Cal 267 (268) (DB).

[18] A contracting debt from Co-operative Bank—Inspector of Co-operative Societies standing as surety—Debt not paid—Bank filing dispute and Inspector forwarding same to Assistant Registrar recommending arbitration—Inspector later on challenging award and arbitrator's jurisdiction by instituting suit : Held that Inspector had brought himself within scope of R. 22 and, therefore, his suit, which was brought when Bank's claim was barred by limitation, was barred under R. 22 (6). (1937) 65 Cal L Jour 206 (209).

[19] An award given by an arbitrator under R. 22 has the force of a decree and before it can be enforced as a decree it is not necessary to file it in Court as in the case of awards by arbitrators appointed by the contract of parties. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 695 (696) : 60 Cal 906 (DB) & (1936) 163 Ind Cas 591 (591) (Cal).

(B) Bihar Rules.

[20] The following case was decided with reference to S. 49 of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act, 1935. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 500 (501) (D B). (Dispute referred to Registrar for award—Registrar functions as civil Court and does not act without jurisdiction in deciding whether dispute is time-barred or not.)

[21] As to settlement of disputes touching the business of a co-operative society registered in the Province of Bihar and Orissa, now see the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act, 1935, sections 48, 49 and 66 (2) (XXVI), (XXVII). See also the following cases :

[22] The disputed liability of a member to repay money due to a co-operative society is covered by R. 12 (1) and hence an award by the Registrar against such member is not without jurisdiction. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 225 (226) : 14 Pat 292 (D D).

[23] Under R. 12 of the rules framed under S. 43 of the Co-operative Societies Act, it is only members and persons claiming through members against whom the Registrar can pronounce a decision which can be executed as a civil Court decree. The society must enforce in the regular course any claim which it may have against outsiders. The decision of the Registrar so far as it affects a non-member is a nullity as being made without jurisdiction. This question must be considered by the Court executing the decision if it is raised by the person affected. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 145 (146) (D B).

[24] The co-operative society has complete power to refer any matter in dispute between them and the estate of a deceased member to the arbitration of the Registrar. But there is no power in the Registrar of Co-operative Societies to compel strangers to appear before him unless they are sued as representing the estate of a deceased member. So, if the Registrar passes an award against the sons of a deceased member personally, the civil Court has complete jurisdiction to set aside the award. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 575 (575, 576) (D B).

(C) Bombay Rules.

[25] For the settlement of a dispute touching the business of a co-operative society registered in the Province of Bombay, now see the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act, 1925, Ss. 54 to 59 and S. 71 (2) (u) and (oc). See also the following cases :

[26] An application to execute an award falls within S. 3, Limitation Act and hence it is subject to the law of limitation. Application to enforce award is not step-in-aid. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 424 (425) (D B).

[27] Award — Certificate of Registrar on award — Darkhast proceedings filed within three years of certificate are not barred — Whether award is decree of civil Court doubted. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 396 (397) (D B).

[28] Awards under the Bombay Act are executable as decrees of civil Court. They are effective from the date on which they are made. An application to execute an award made under the provisions of the Bombay Act is not a "proceeding arising out of a suit" within the meaning of these words in S. 3, Civil P. C., (Second Amendment) Act, 1937 (9 of 1937). (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 147 (147, 148, 150).

[29] Rules 31 and 34 provide that awards are to be enforced as decrees — Court having power to execute them can transfer them for execution. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 877 (877) : 46 Bom 130 (D B).

[30] In a dispute between the society and a member, if the member dies, the arbitrators can decide for the purposes of continuing proceedings as to who the legal representatives of the deceased are. If decision is wrong an appeal lies to the Registrar and the civil Courts have no jurisdiction in the matter. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 352 (353) (D B).

(D) C. P. and Berar Rules.

[31] Under the Co-operative Societies Act and the rules and regulations thereunder, the Registrar has clearly the power to pass an award not only against society but also its members individually. He can pass two awards one against the society in favour of the bank and another against each member of the society in favour of the society. But where he does not pass two distinct awards but a consolidated award both against the society and its members and mentions the names of all the members of the society, it can bear the interpretation that the award is both against the society and the members. It may be irregular in form but that would not invalidate the award. There is a presumption that the award was made against both the society and its individual members in accordance with the usual preliminary formalities and if it is not objected to by the judgment-debtor at any time, the sale held thereunder cannot become void. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 7 (8, 9) : I L R (1942) Nag 885.

[See also (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 434 (436) : I L R (1938) Nag 604 (D B).]

[32] Under R. 26, a dispute touching the business of the society between its member and its treasurer, who is an officer of the bank under S. 2 (d) must be referred to the Registrar who has jurisdiction to decide it. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 16 (18, 19) : ILR (1945) Nag 677 (DB).

[33] The expression "the business of a co-operative society" occurring in S. 26 is not restricted to the dealing with the members of the society only but includes business which the co-operative society is, under the law, empowered to transact. Hence the safe deposit of the fund of a society being essential to enable the society to command resources to grant loans to its members at any time, the investment or deposit of its funds cannot be isolated from the general business of the society. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 16 (19) : I L R (1945) Nag 677 (D B).

[34] C. P. Government, R. 26—Joint family members in corporate capacity becoming treasurers of society — Liability undertaken as treasurers can be treated as domestic dispute and Registrar has jurisdiction to decide dispute (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 16 (19, 20) : ILR (1945) Nag 677 (DB).

[35] Award can be enforced as a decree or in the manner prescribed for recovery of land revenue. (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 281 (282, 283) : I L R (1945) Nag 651.

[36] Application under R. 33 for enforcement as in the manner for recovery of land revenue — Subsequent attachment and sale under S. 128 (g), T. P. Act—Transferee is not affected by doctrine of lis pendens. (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 281 (282, 283) : ILR (1945) Nag 651.

[37] Rule 33 of the rules made by C. P. Government under S. 43 does not say that an award by the Registrar is a decree. The rule, therefore, recognises that the award, decision or order of the Registrar is not a decree. There is a vast difference between an award being deemed to be a decree and an award being executable as a decree. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 243 (244) : I L R (1942) Nag 636.

[38] Rule 33 prescribes that any sum falling due under an award shall on a certificate signed by the Registrar be recovered by the Deputy Commissioner as an arrear of land revenue. The award cannot be called in question in the revenue Court. But where there is an error patent on the face of the certificate, the Revenue Officer is justified in refraining from executing it and in referring it back to the Registrar. ('89) 1929 Nag L Jour 405 (407, 408).

(E) Madras Rules.

[39] As to the settlement of disputes touching the business of a co-operative society registered in the Presidency of Madras, now see the Madras Co-operative Societies Act, 1932, Ss. 51 and 65 (2) (o). See also the following decisions :

[40] Whether the Registrar of Co-operative Societies is empowered to pass a mortgage decree or not, when such a decree has been passed and it is sought to be executed, the executing Court cannot refuse to execute the decree; nor could it amend it in any way as it cannot be said that the decree is in such cases on the face of it passed without jurisdiction. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 40 (44) : 57 Mad 426.

[41] The Registrar of Co-operative Societies acting under R. 14 is a Court for the purposes of S. 52, T. P. Act. At any rate, where once the award made by him has been put before a competent civil Court in execution and the Court directs the sale of mortgaged property, any purchase during such proceedings will be subject to the rule of lis pendens. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 40 (42) : 57 Mad 426.

[42] Assistant Registrar acting under S. 14 is 'Court' within the meaning of S. 195, Criminal P. C. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 869 (870) : 32 Cri L Jour 219.

[43] The second sentence of sub-r. (1) of R. 14 of Madras Rules, is not beyond the rule-making powers granted by S. 43. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 210 (210).

[44] Debt due from one society to another—One of them preferring claim before Registrar—This reference to the Registrar constitutes "dispute" under R. 14 (2) to vest jurisdiction in the Registrar or Deputy Registrar. ('32) 1932 Mad W N 18 (20, 22) (DB).

[45] Bye-laws providing that president represents society in legal proceedings—President given opportunity of appearing and being heard—President deliberately evading opportunity—Rule 14 (4) is satisfied and there is no ground for writ of certiorari. ('32) 1932 Mad W N 18 (21) (DB).

[46] A Collector acting under R. 14 (5) of the rules made under the Co-operative Societies Act, is not a Court and an application made to him for execution of a decision of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies is not an application to a Court so as to save limitation under Art. 182 (5), Limitation Act. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 150 (151) : 59 Mad 257.

[47] An award under the Co-operative Societies Act when it is filed in a Civil Court under R. 15 (7) (e), attracts all the provisions of the Civil P. C., in the matter of execution. If it attracts all the provisions of the Code with regard to execution, it must of necessity attract the provisions of the Limitation Act which apply to the execution of decrees. The award, when it is filed has to be executed as a decree of the Court and in effect it becomes a decree of the Court. The provisions of S. 48, Civil P. C., must therefore, apply. Section 48 provides that a decree shall run for a period of twelve years, provided, of course, that steps in execution are taken at intervals of not more than three years as required by Art. 182, Limitation Act. If, S. 48 applies, it follows that the appropriate Article is 182 and not Art. 181. If Art. 182 does not apply but Art. 181 does, there would be a conflict as Art. 181 fixes a period of three years and S. 48, a period of twelve years. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 635 (635) : I L R (1940) Mad 649 (DB). ((Vol 24) 1937 Mad 31, Overruled).

(F) N. W. F. P. Rules.

[48] No procedure is provided in R. 18 for conducting the inquiry either by the Registrar or by the arbitrator for the appointment of a guardian for the minor debtor. It would, therefore, be unsafe to rely on the appointment of a guardian by a Registrar in the summary proceeding and to extend it to the execution of a payment order in a Civil Court, which should, by its very nature, be governed by the Civil P. C. Hence it would be just that whenever an executing Court is approached to carry out the payment order of the Registrar and there are minors in the case, the execution Judge should act under O. 32, Civil P. [49] Where it is alleged that an award made under the Co-operative Societies Act was made without jurisdiction or was not within the terms of the Act, it is open to the person aggrieved to bring a suit to that effect but such objections cannot be taken in execution proceedings held in pursuance of the award, the objector's remedy being an appeal to the Registrar. [50] The rules framed under S. 43 of the Co-operative Societies Act must be read together and then it becomes clear that the intention was to make all awards appealable and the use of the singular word in one sub-rule and the plural in another is due to unskilful drafting only. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 673 (675) (DB).

Decree held to be fully satisfied—No dispute remains outstanding and matter cannot be referred to the Registrar again—Remedy of the bank if not satisfied with the order of the executing Court is to appeal therefrom—Suit for a declaration in civil Court that the subsequent arbitration proceedings taken and the award therein are ineffectual is entertainable. [61] The provisions of R. 20 (7) (i) (ii) and (iii) refer merely to defects of the procedure and do not invalidate an award by reason of such defects or irregularities. Even if an award is invalid on the ground that it was antedated or had been made after the expiration of the time fixed for making the award or because it was inoperative on the ground of certain procedural defects and irregularities, the proper course for setting it aside is by means of an appeal to the Assistant Registrar under R. 20 (12) (i). [62] The bar of jurisdiction of a Civil Court created by R. 20 (12) (ii) is not absolute but limited only. A civil Court is perfectly competent to entertain a suit in all cases where it can be shown that the act of the authorities of the Co-operative Societies is not within the scope of the Act or is otherwise without jurisdiction. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 315 (321) : 16 Luck 658 (DB).

[3] Rule 26 (c)—This rule restricts the powers given by S. 32, Civil P. C., to those given in the sub-rule. THE FIRST SCHEDULE. — PORTIONS OF THE COPYRIGHT ACT APPLICABLE TO BRITISH INDIA.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.—[Repealed.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The question of the amendment of the Indian Copyright Act (XX of 1847) has been considered on several occasions since 1864 on the ground that the Act was incomplete and did not provide, among other matters, for the protection of copyright in photographs, translations, newspaper, telegrams etc. Legislation, however, has been postponed in view of the possibility of an amendment of the English Acts on the subject of copyright.

In 1908 a Conference and Convention, to which Great Britain was party, was held in Berlin with the object of bringing the domestic laws of all countries concerned into harmony with one another so as to obtain international uniformity of treatment and the ratification of that convention involved certain changes in the English Law. Its provisions were examined by a strong departmental committee appointed by the Board of Trade which came to the unanimous conclusion that the Berlin convention should be accepted by Great Britain with as few reservations as possible.

An Imperial Copyright Conference was subsequently convened in 1910 containing representations of the self-governing dominions and of the India Office, Colonial Office, etc. It endorsed the recommendation of the Board of Trade Committee and recommended that an Act dealing with the essentials of Imperial Copyright Law should be passed by the Imperial Parliament and that this Act should be expressed to extend to all British possessions subject to the rights of self-governing dominions and possessions to modify or add to its provisions by legislation in certain cases affecting only procedure and remedies.

A Draft Bill was approved by the Conference and eventually passed into law as the Copyright Act, 1911 (1 and 2 Geo. V, ch. 46) which came into operation in the United Kingdom on 1st July 1912.

The important changes in the Act are:—

(i) the abolition of the formality of registration of copyright;

(ii) the extension of the term of copyright from 42 years to one of life and 50 years subject to certain conditions;

(iii) the extension of the scope of copyright;

(iv) the substitution of one Act for several on the subject of copyright.

The Government of India considered that the early introduction of the Act into India was desirable both for Imperial and International as well as domestic reasons and consulted Local Governments in regard to the modifications and additions referred to in S. 27 of the Act that might be necessary to suit the special conditions of India. In view, however, of difficulties that were experienced in England through the non-proclamation in India of the Act of 1911 and having regard to the serious hardship and loss which might thereby be inflicted on English authors, the Act was brought into force in India by proclamation in the Gazette of India on the 31st October 1912 under S. 37 (2) (d) of the Act, the question of modifications or additions being postponed for subsequent consideration on receipt of the views of Local Governments. These are in substantial agreement with those of the Government of India who propose by virtue of the powers conferred by S. 27 of the Act of 1911 to pass the Draft Bill which embodies the modifications in and additions to the Act which are considered desirable, together with certain formal and necessary alterations due to the difference between English and Indian administration and procedure.

It will be observed that the changes proposed are as few as possible in view of the desirability of securing that uniformity throughout the Empire which was advocated by the Imperial Copyright Conference of 1910. . . ."

CONSTRUCTION AND MODIFICATION OF THE COPYRIGHT ACT.

3. In the application to British India of the Copyright Act (a copy of which Act, except such Application of Copyright Act to of the provisions thereof as are expressly restricted to the United British India with adaptations. Kingdom, is set out in the First Schedule), the following modifications shall be made, namely :—

- (1) the powers of the Board of Trade under section 3 shall, in the case of works first published in British India, be exercised by the ^a[Central Government];
- (2) the powers of the Board of Trade under section 19 shall, as regards records, perforated rolls and other contrivances, the original plate of which was made in British India, be exercised by the ^a[Central Government]; and the confirmation of Parliament shall not be necessary to the exercise of any of these powers;
- (3) the references in section 19, sub-section (4), and in section 24, sub-section (1), to arbitration shall be read as references to arbitration in accordance with the law for the time being in force in that part of British India in which the dispute occurs;
- (4) as regards works the authors whereof were at the time of the making of the works resident in British India, and as regards works first published in British India, the reference in section 22 to the ^bPatents and Designs Act, 1907, shall be construed as a reference to the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, and the reference in the said section to section 86 of the ^bPatents and Designs Act, 1907, shall be construed as a reference to section 77 of the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911; of the works resident in British India, and as regards works first published in British India, be construed as a reference to the 30th day of October, 1912.

[a] Substituted by A. O., for "Governor-General in Council". [b] 7 Edw. VII, c. 29.

Modification of copyright as regards translation of works first published in British India.

4. (1) In the case of works first published in British India, copyright shall be subject to this limitation that the sole right to produce, reproduce, perform or publish a translation of the work shall subsist only for a period of ten years from the date of the first publication of the work:

Provided that if within the said period the author, or any person to whom he has granted permission so to do, publishes a translation of any such work in any language, copyright in such work as regards the sole right to produce, reproduce, perform or publish a translation in that language shall not be subject to the limitation prescribed in this sub-section.

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1) the expression "author" includes the legal representative of a deceased author.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Under Ss. 1 and 3 of the English Act of 1911 the term for which the copyright subsists in translation is the life of the author and a period of fifty years after his death. The special linguistic conditions of India render desirable a substantial relaxation of this provision. The languages spoken in India are so numerous and differ so widely that the conditions which prevail cannot be compared with those in most European countries and vernacular translations from English and from one vernacular to another are not only common but serve the usual purpose of disseminating knowledge. Accordingly, translations of works first published in British India are permitted after the expiry of ten years from the date of first publication. However, if within this period of ten years the author himself publishes a translation of the work in any particular language, the limitation upon copyright prescribed by this section shall not apply to translation into that particular language. This provision is in accordance with the provisions of the Berne Convention." — See S. O. R. and S. C. R.

5. In the application of the Copyright Act to musical works the authors whereof were at the time of the making of the works resident in British India, or to musical works first published in British India, the term "musical work" shall, save as otherwise expressly provided by the Copyright Act, mean "any combination of melody and harmony, or either of them, which has been reduced to writing".

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The provisions of S. 19 of the English Act of 1911 are new, and in view of the peculiar conditions of Indian music objections were urged against the applications of this section in toto to Indian works. It was pointed out that it was impossible in most cases to identify the original composer or author and that the majority of Indian melodies have not been written in staff notation except through the medium of the phonograph and are subject to infinite variety of notation and tune. If, under these circumstances, S. 19 was adopted with its retro-active principle there might be fictitious claims of ownership in musical works and much confusion and undesirable litigation. To make it clear that in order to fall within the definition of 'musical work' music must have been graphically represented, the Legislature has adopted mutatis mutandis the definition of the term 'musical work' contained in the English Musical (Summary Proceedings) Copyright Act, 1902 (2 Edw. VII, c. 15), namely, 'musical work means any combination of melody and harmony, or either of them, printed, reduced to writing,'. — See S. O. R.

6. (1) Copies made out of British India of any work in which copyright subsists which if made in British India would infringe copyright, and as to which the owner of the copyright gives notice in writing by himself or his agent to the Chief Customs officer, as defined in the Sea Customs Act, 1878, that he is desirous that such copies should not be imported into British India, shall not be so imported, and shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be deemed to be prohibited imports within the meaning of section 18 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

(2) Before detaining any such copies, or taking any further proceedings with a view to the confiscation thereof, such Chief Customs officer, or any other officer appointed by [the Chief Customs-authority] in this behalf, may require the regulations under this section, whether as to information, security, conditions or other matters, to be complied with, and may satisfy himself, in accordance with these regulations, that the copies are such as are prohibited by this section to be imported.

(3) The [Central Government] may, by notification in the [Official Gazette] make regulations, either general or special, respecting the detention and confiscation of copies the importation of which is prohibited by this section, and the conditions, if any, to be fulfilled before such detention and confiscation; and may, by such regulations, determine the information, notices and security to be given, and the evidence requisite for any of the purposes of this section, and the mode of verification of such evidence.

(4) Such regulations may apply to copies of all works the importation of copies of which is prohibited by this section, or different regulations may be made respecting different classes of such works.

(5) The regulations may provide for the informant re-imbursing the ^d[Central Government] all expenses and damages incurred in respect of any detention made on his information, and of any proceedings consequent on such detention, and may provide that notices given under the Copyright Act to the Commissioners of Customs and Excise of the United Kingdom, and communicated by that authority to any authority in British India, shall be deemed to have been given by the owner to the said Chief Customs officer.

(6) This section shall have effect as the necessary modification of S. 14 of the Copyright Act.

[16th December, 1911.]

Be it enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

PART I.

IMPERIAL COPYRIGHT.

Rights.

1. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, copyright shall subsist throughout the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends for the term hereinafter mentioned in every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work, if—

SCHEDULE I — SECTION 1 — Synopsis

1. Original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work.
2. Author.
3. Sub-section (2).
4. "Substantial part thereof."

1. Original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work. — [1] The work "original" does not mean that the work must be the expression of original or inventive thought. Copyright Acts are not concerned with the origin of ideas, but with the expression of thought and in the case of "literary work" with the expression of thought in print or writing. The originality which is required relates to the expression of the thought but the Act does not require that the expression must be in an original or novel form, but that the work must not be copied from another work — that it should originate from the author. (Vol 11) 1924 P O 75 (85) : 51 Ind App 109 : 48 Bom 808 (PC) & (Vol 25) 1938 All 266 (268) : 1 L R (1938) All 370 (DB). (Ideas are not protected by copyright but by patent laws. Copyright protects the particular expression of ideas).

[2] The compiler of a work in which absolute originality is of necessity excluded is entitled to make use of preceding works upon the subject and where he bestows such mental labour upon what he has taken and subjects it to such revision and correction as to produce an original result he will not be committing a piracy. (Vol 25) 1938 All 266 (268, 269) : 1 L R (1938) All 370 (DB).

[3] New book produced by author after further studies and research — Fresh incidents and details, taken from works published before as well as after book, copyright of which alleged to be infringed — No infringement of copyright held committed. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 777 (780) : 16 Lah 103 (DB).

[4] Design registered as "The christograph—The Christian's Puzzle—Suitable for all sects and denominations"—Design consisting of envelope containing card-board piece casting a shadow of a well-known picture when held up — Design is not a literary work. (1888) 52 L J Ch 107 (108).

[5] Though letters may approach the character of a literary work, every private letter cannot be described as a literary work. (1813) 35 E R 225 (229).

[6] Copyright subsists in new corrections and addition made to an old work. (1801) 102 E R 138 (139).

[7] Old traditional poem renovated—Result is original literary work. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 594 (595).

[8] There is no copyright in book consisting of extracts from a larger work linked together by connecting words, but there may be copyright in notes to such extracts. (1923) 93 L J P C 113 (121).

[9] Milton's poems with Dr. Newton's notes published with the addition of some commentary—Copyright was infringed. (1818) 36 E R 1017 (1020).

[10] The author of a book the subject-matter of which is arranged in a new way totally different from the earlier works on the subject can get a copyright in the work. (Vol 8) 1921 All 95 (96) : 43 All 412 (DB).

[11] Generally a title of a composition by itself cannot be the subject-matter of the copyright though in certain cases it may be so extensive and important as to require protection against being copied. (Vol 27) 1940 P O 55 (58) (PC).

[12] Adopting title of a musical composition to a talkie film does not constitute an infringement of the

- (a) in the case of a published work, the work was first published within such parts of His Majesty's dominions as aforesaid ; and
- (b) in the case of an unpublished work, the author was at the date of the making of the work a British subject or resident within such parts of His Majesty's dominions as aforesaid ;

but in no other works, except so far as the protection conferred by this Act is extended by Orders in Council thereunder relating to self-governing dominions to which this Act does not extend and to foreign countries.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, "copyright" means the sole right to produce or reproduce the work or any substantial part thereof in any material form whatsoever, to perform, or in the case of a lecture to deliver, the work or any substantial part thereof in public ; if the work is unpublished, to publish the work or any substantial part thereof ; and shall include the sole right—

- (a) to produce, reproduce, perform, or publish any translation of the work ;
- (b) in the case of a dramatic work, to convert it into a novel or other non-dramatic work ;
- (c) in the case of a novel or other non-dramatic work, or of an artistic work, to convert it into a dramatic work, by way of performance in public or otherwise ;
- (d) in the case of a literary, dramatic or musical work, to make any record, perforated roll, cinematograph film, or other contrivance by means of which the work may be mechanically performed or delivered ; and to authorise any such acts as aforesaid.

(3) For the purposes of this Act, publication, in relation to any work, means the issue of copies of the work to the public, and does not include the performance in public of a dramatic or musical work, the delivery in public of a lecture, the exhibition in public of an artistic work, or the construction of an architectural work of art, but for the purposes of this provision, the issue of photographs and engravings of works of sculpture and architectural works of art shall not be deemed to be publication of such works.

performing rights in the composition where not a word of the composition is repeated in the film. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 55 (57) (PC).

[14] Title of a novel—No originality or invention displayed in the title—There can be no copyright. (1881) 50 L J Ch 809 (814).

[15] Publisher of trade advertisements classified under different headings has copyright in such headings though not in the advertisements themselves. (1893) 1 Ch 218 (225).

[16] Copyright subsists in a translation. There is no copyright in specifications of patents. (1814) 35 E R 408 (408).

[17] A's work translated into German — B retranslating it into English — Copyright is infringed. (1858) 22 L J Ch 457 (464).

[18] Though copyright might not include exclusive right of translation, author of book who made translation of it is entitled to copyright in it as if it were original work. (Vol 2) 1915 All 331 (331) : 16 Cr L Jour 656.

[19] Illustrated catalogue for advertisement and not for sale and without letter press is a book and subject-matter of copyright. (1882) 21 Ch D 869 (879).

[20] Person employing another to compile a book of designs has himself the copyright in the work. Copyright may subsist in an advertising catalogue. (1875) 19 Eq 623 (626).

[21] A subsequent compiler of a directory or a guide book cannot adopt information contained in previous works on the same subject, and must work out the information by original enquiry. (1866) 1 Eq 697 (701, 702).

[22] Registrar of London Coal Market publishing statistics of coal imports in annual sheets priced at £835 per annum — Lord of the Treasury publishing mineral statistics priced at 2s. 6d, including and acknowledging the registrar's statistics — Registrar, held, was entitled to an injunction. (1867) 3 Eq 718 (724).

[23] Telegraphic code-word book substantially copied for private use—Copyright is infringed. (1884) 26 Ch D 637 (643).

[24] Tables of information in a diary reproduced without making enquiry about the existence of copyright—Copyright is infringed. (1943) 1 All E R 323 (327).

[25] Diary called "The Birthday Scripture Text Book" interleaved with blank space against each day with a text of scripture appended and designed to record birthday's of friends—Subsequent publication of work called "The Children's Birthday Text Book," can be restrained. (1872) 14 Eq 431 (433).

[26] Though there can be nothing to prevent a person from publishing a work like a Court calendar, the making of a verbatim copy of another work without the application of original labour can be restrained. (1809) 33 E R 987 (988).

[27] East India calendar published by A — B copying the work and selling at a lesser price — Copyright is infringed, though there can be no copyright in works of this nature generally. (1806) 33 E R 105 (106).

[28] Reporter of law reports has no copyright in respect of reports of judgments but has the protection of law in selecting and reporting cases which he obtains by expenditure of time, labour and money. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 112 (112).

[29] Verbatim copying of head-notes or marginal notes inserted in digest of cases—Copyright is infringed. (1855) 24 L J C P 175 (181).

[30] While there may be no copyright in news, the particular form of language in which information is conveyed is the subject of copyright. (1892) 3 Ch 489 (495).

[31] To constitute a true and equitable abridgment, the entire work must be preserved in its precise import and exact meaning, and then the act of abridgment is an exertion of the individuality employed in moulding and transmuting a large work into a small compass, thus rendering it less expensive and more convenient both to the time and use of the reader. Independent labour must be apparent and the reduction of the size and work by copying some of its parts and omitting others confers no title to authorship, and the result will not be an abridgment entitled to protection. To abridge in the legal sense of the word is to preserve the substance, the essence of the work in language suited to such a purpose, language substantially different from that of the original. To make such an abridgment requires the exercise of mind and labour, skill and judgment brought into play and the result is not merely copying. To constitute a proper abridgment the arrangement of the book abridged must be preserved, the ideas must also be taken and expressed in language not copied but condensed. The mere process of selecting passages from works readily accessible to the public is not, but difficulty in obtaining access to the original or skill manifested in making or arranging the selection is sufficient to give the character of an "original literary work" to the selection. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 75 (79, 80): 48 Bom 308; 51 Ind App 109 (PC). ✕ (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 463 (469) (DB). (To copy certain passages and omit others, so as to reduce the volume in bulk is not such an abridgment as the Court would recognize as sufficiently original to protect the author.)

[32] University lectures taken down and published by student. Professor can restrain publication. (1888) 57 L J P C 2 (9).

[33] Printed music is to be considered as a book. (1835) 160 E R 117 (122).

[34] P originating name of a play, and of leading characters and supplying some lines in the dialogue—T, H and V writing music and lyrics: Held, that P's contribution could not be the subject-matter of copyright and he could not be called one of the joint authors. (1921) 1 Ch 503 (511).

[35] A producing a foreign drama but introducing two scenes of his own—B producing same foreign drama with A's scenes included: Held, in the circumstances of the case, there was no infringement of copyright. (1878) 1876 App Cas 488 (499).

[36] There can be a separate copyright in a building as distinct from a copyright in the plans on which the building is based and it vests in the architects. (1941) 3 All E R 144 (147, 148).

[38] The copyright of ordinary photographs of an actress as a stationary figure taken by a film company for its own purpose and with its own apparatus belongs to that company. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 266 (270): 1939 Rang L R 121.

[39] Drawing representing a hand holding a pencil and making a cross within a square is not an artistic work and there can be no copyright in it. (1890) 25 QBD 99 (104).

2. Author.—[1] Reporter of a speech delivered in public is the author of his own report. (1900) 1900 App Cas 539 (551).

[2] Person controlling the operation of taking a photograph is the "author" of it and not the person who does mechanical acts under his control. (1895) 2 Ch 531 (535).

[3] Proprietors of photographic firm sending an employee to take a photograph—The proprietors are not the "authors" of the photograph. (1889) 11 QBD 627 (633).

[4] A agreeing with B that B should adapt a foreign play, A to have the right of representing it on stage in London and D in provinces: Held, A by employing B did not become owner of copyright in the adaptation. (1856) 25 L J C P 127 (131).

[5] The term "author" applies also to a foreigner residing in the United Kingdom. (1868) 3 H L 100 (115).

[6] Whether a right of survivorship would or would not apply to a copyright in books published by one coparcener, the right can be inherited by the heirs of the author who owned the copyright. (Vol 8) 1921 All 95 (96): 43 All 412 (412) (DB).

3. Sub-section (2).—[1] Even before the Copyright Act of 1911, the owner of a copyright had the exclusive right to representation and performance of his work and not only to the printing and publication thereof. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 671 (672).

[2] It is not only quantity of the matter alleged to have been copied but the value of that portion, that has to be looked to. (1838) 40 E R 1110 (1110).

[3] The question whether there has been an infringement of copyright depends on whether a colourable imitation has been made. Whether a work is a colourable imitation of another is a question of fact. Similarity is a great point to be considered but mere similarity is not enough. A conglomeration of similarities which cannot be mere coincidence is evidence of infringement. (Vol 13) 1931 Cal 233 (236) (DB).

[4] If a defendant, who is undoubtedly at liberty to draw upon common sources of information, saved himself the trouble and labour requisite for collecting that information by adopting the plaintiff's work in general plan, style and arrangement with colourable variation, he is guilty of infringement of plaintiff's copyright even though the plaintiff's work is based on materials which are common property. ('85) 61 Cal L Jour 573 (575) (DB).

[5] When in a book published by the defendant, not only references of significance are copied from the plaintiff's book, but there is absolute identity of information and language that it appears that the work of the defendant is a copy of the plaintiff's in a high degree, the plaintiff is entitled to succeed in an action for infringement of copyright. (1922) 67 Ind Cas 983 (984) (Lah).

[6] Similarity in two dramatic works due to coincidence, both works being derived independently from common stock of dramatic ideas—There is no infringement of copyright. (1911) 28 T L R 69 (72).

[7] No appreciable likeness of words in two plays—Likeness of stage situation and scenic effect ought not to be taken into consideration. (1908) 77 L J K B 577 (582).

[8] A photograph of a lion reproduced in posters with minor change—Held, there had been an infringement of copyright. (1898) 14 T L R 550 (550, 551).

[9] Proprietor of copyright in two paintings entering description of the same under S. 4, (25 & 26 Vict., c. 68)—Person making and selling photographic copies of the same, held, would be convicted under S. 6 of the same Act. (1868) 3 Q B 387 (395).

[10] Music broadcasts diffused in factory by means of loudspeakers—Act is "performance in public and an infringement of the performing rights in such pieces. (1943) 1 All E R 413 (417, 418).

[11] As regards the position of broadcasters, so far as infringement of copyright is concerned, it is sufficient for them to show that they have "authorised" the performance in public of the works; and this will generally be established by proving that listeners with a licence were entitled to tune in their receivers and thus to perform the musical works in question in public as well as in private. (Vol 27) 1940 P C 111 (113) (PC).

[12] Cinema company engaging film actress placing order for advertisement with Cinema Journal—Publisher

2. (1) Copyright in a work shall be deemed to be infringed by any person who, without the consent of the owner of the copyright, does anything the sole right to do which is by this Act conferred on the owner of the copyright: Provided that the following acts shall not constitute an infringement of copyright:—

- (i) Any fair dealing with any work for the purposes of private study, research, criticism, review, or newspaper summary:
- (ii) Where the author of an artistic work is not the owner of the copyright therein, the use by the author of any mould, cast, sketch, plan, model, or study made by him for the purpose of the work, provided that he does not thereby repeat or imitate the main design of that work:

of Journal using advertisement by reproducing her photograph taken by another company for their use.—The proprietor of the first company knowing or having reason to suspect that the publisher will so use the photograph in infringement of copyright.—There is authorisation of the infringement by him. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 266 (271, 272): 1939 Rang L R 121.

[13] Representation of a picture by means of a tableau vivant, cannot be restrained. (1894) 2 Ch 1 (6).

[14] The copyright exists from the moment the work is made. (1887) 19 Q B D 629 (636).

[15] In England an author, publisher or painter had no copyright in his productions at Common law before the Statute of Anne (8 Anne, c. 19). (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 84 (85): 44 Bom 720 (DB).

[16] The Fine Arts Copyright Act of 1862 (25 & 26 Vict., c. 68) does not extend to any part of the British Dominions outside the United Kingdom. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 84 (84, 85): 44 Bom 720 (DB).

4. "Substantial part thereof".—[1] Picture of winged female kneeling on a rock and looking into the water below, reproduced in a magazine without the background and the wings.—Copyright, held, was infringed. (1905) 74 L J Ch 304 (309).

[2] It is a piracy to take a great portion of a melody such as Seventeen Bars in succession. (1835) 4 L J Ex Eq 2 (22).

[3] A man cannot, under the pretence of quotation, publish either the whole or part of another's work, though he may use, what it is in all cases very difficult to define, fair quotation. (1810) 11 R R 118 (120) & (1826) 38 E R 380 (385).

[4] Cartoons copied, some with and some without descriptive writing.—Object of larger work containing copies of the cartoons same as that of the originals.—Copyright is infringed. (1873) 8 Ex Ch 1 (7).

[5] Prima facie, an abridgment of a work was not, upto the year 1914, an infringement of copyright, if an abridgment was a fair and bona fide one and did not amount to reprinting of the work of the author. But the position seems now to have been considerably changed in view of the wider language employed in the Act of 1914. Now in order to decide whether a fair abridgment of the original work is or is not an infringement of copyright the test is whether or not it is a reproduction of the work or substantial part of it in any material form whatsoever. It may be that upto a certain limit when an abridgment is not more than a mere short synopsis index to other work there would be no infringement. On the other hand, when an abridgment is on such an extensive scale as to amount to a reproduction of a substantial part of the original work in a material form, it would undoubtedly be an infringement of copyright. (Vol 21) 1934 All 922 (924, 925) (DB).

[6] In the following English cases decided before 1914, it was held that a fair abridgment of the original work does not constitute infringement of copyright. (1801) 81 E R 817 (817). (Abridgment of Law Reports leaving out arguments of the counsels and some other parts is not a fair abridgment.) & (1785) 28 E R 1235 (1235) & (1761) 27 E R 270 (271) & (1740) 26 E R 489 (490). (Colourable shortening for evading the statute cannot be called an abridgment.)

[7] Portion copied not substantial and material.—Copyright is not infringed. (1878) 3 App Cas 483 (498).

SCHEDULE I. — Section 2 — Note 1.

[1] Right to republish 90 songs composed by D sold to P — Subsequently D selling 47 songs to M, 40 of which were the same as those sold to P. In a suit by the former to restrain M, the second purchaser, from selling or publishing any of the songs, held, that since P had acquired an exclusive right to publish them any one publishing them without his consent will be infringing his copyright. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 529 (531) (DB).

[2] The language of S. 2 is wide enough to include not only a sale of the copyright by a person not entitled to sell the same but also an attempt to sell the same. Accordingly, an advertisement by the defendant claiming a right in a copyright which was owned by the plaintiff and offering to sell the same constitute an infringement of the right. (Vol 32) 1945 All 55 (57): 1 L R (1945) All 20.

[3] An infringement takes place not only when a book is reprinted but also when a book, in respect of which a copyright exists, is sold. There is a fresh cause of action in every sale of the book. (Vol 21) 1934 All 922 (927) (DB).

[4] Picture of delty — Infringement of — Test for detecting piracy is whether mistakes and deviations have been reproduced. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 51 (53).

[5] In deciding whether there is an infringement of copyright in pictures, the question is whether the offending pictures are copies of substantial portions of the copyright pictures. The figures may have been reduced in the offending pictures and slight modifications may have been introduced or the clothes and colours may have been different but it is sufficient if the main figures have an identical pose. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 859 (860): 30 Cr L Jour 16.

[6] The Court should be reluctant to sit as an expert to decide the question of infringement of copyright without the aid of the expert evidence. But in a case capable of construction, the Court should exercise a prima facie judgment upon it. The proper course, in ordinary circumstance, in such cases is to get the opinion of such experts who may be appointed as Commissioners to investigate and report on the matters in issue. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 595 (597).

[7] In an action for breach of copyright intrinsic evidence to be derived from comparison of the two literary works must be of a most cogent force, though it may be sufficient and accepted in the face of direct evidence pointing the other way. Much stress cannot be laid upon the actual coincidences in two works by different authors in respect of the plan, scheme, phrasal identities and similar mistakes while deciding

- (iii) The making or publishing of paintings, drawings, engravings, or photographs of a work of sculpture or artistic craftsmanship, if permanently situate in a public place or building, or the making or publishing of paintings, drawings, engravings or photographs (which are not in the nature of architectural drawings or plans) of any architectural work of art :
 - (iv) The publication in a collection, mainly composed of non-copyright matter, bona fide intended for the use of schools, and so described in the title and in any advertisements issued by the publisher, of short passages from published literary works not themselves published for the use of schools in which copyright subsists: provided that not more than two of such passages from works by the same author are published by the same publisher within five years, and that the source from which such passages are taken is acknowledged :
 - (v) The publication in a newspaper of a report of a lecture delivered in public, unless the report is prohibited by conspicuous written or printed notice affixed before and maintained during the lecture at or about the main entrance of the building in which the lecture is given, and, except whilst the building is being used for public worship, in a position near the lecturer ; but nothing in this paragraph shall affect the provisions in paragraph (i) as to newspaper summaries :
 - (vi) The reading or recitation in public by one person of any reasonable extract from any published work.
- (2) Copyright in a work shall also be deemed to be infringed by any person who—
- (a) sells or lets for hire, or by way of trade exposes or offers for sale or hire ; or
 - (b) distributes either for the purposes of trade or to such an extent as to affect prejudicially the owner of the copyright ; or
 - (c) by way of trade exhibits in public ; or
 - (d) imports for sale or hire into any part of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, any work which to his knowledge infringes copyright or would infringe copyright if it had been made within the part of His Majesty's dominions in or into which the sale or hiring, exposure, offering for sale or hire, distribution, exhibition, or importation took place.

(3) Copyright in a work shall also be deemed to be infringed by any person who for his private profit permits a theatre or other place of entertainment to be used for the performance in public of the work without the consent of the owner of the copyright, unless he was not aware, and had no reasonable ground for suspecting, that the performance would be an infringement of copyright.

upon the question of infringement when such evidence can be explained on basis of authors having recourse to common source. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 26 (28, 29) (P C).

[8] List of selections of courses of study by a member of the Board of Studies of University—Publication of the list in the syllabus by the University : Held that the member retained no copyright in the selections inasmuch as when he laid the results of his skill and experience before the board and joined with the other members in preparing the syllabus for the examination he placed his labours unreservedly at the disposal of the university authorities : Held also, that when the University authorities published their syllabus they surrendered their copyright into the hands of the public. 3. The term for which copyright shall subsist shall, except as otherwise expressly provided Term of copyright. by this Act, be the life of the author and a period of fifty years after his death:

Provided that at any time after the expiration of twenty-five years, or in the case of a work in which copyright subsists at the passing of this Act, thirty years, from the death of the author of a published work copyright in the work shall not be deemed to be infringed by the reproduction of the work for sale if the person reproducing the work proves that he has given the prescribed notice, in writing of his intention to reproduce the work, and that he has paid in the prescribed manner to or for the benefit of, the owner of the copyright royalties in respect of all copies of the work sold by him calculated at the rate of ten per cent. on the price at which he publishes the work; and, for the purposes of this proviso, the Board of Trade may make "regulations prescribing the mode in which notices are to be given, and the particulars to be given in such notices, and the mode, time, and frequency of the payment of royalties, including (if they think fit) regulations requiring payment in advance or otherwise securing the payment of royalties.

4. If, at any time after the death of the author of a literary, dramatic or musical work which Compulsory licences. has been published or performed in public, a complaint is made to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council that the owner of the copyright in the work has refused to republish or to allow the republication of the work or has refused to allow the performance in public of the work, and that by reason of such refusal the work is withheld from the public, the owner of the copyright may be ordered to grant a licence to reproduce the work or perform the work in public, as the case may be, on such terms and subject to such conditions as the Judicial Committee may think fit.

Ownership of copyright, etc. 5. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the author of a work shall be the first owner of the copyright therein:

Provided that—

(a) where, in the case of an engraving, photograph, or portrait, the plate or other original was ordered by some other person and was made for valuable consideration in pursuance of that order, then, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, the person by whom such plate or other original was ordered shall be the first owner of the copyright;

(b) where the author was in the employment of some other person under a contract of service or apprenticeship and the work was made in the course of his employment by that person, the person by whom the author was employed shall, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, be the first owner of the copyright, but where the work is an article or other contribution to a newspaper, magazine, or similar periodical, there shall, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, be deemed to be reserved to the author a right to restrain the publication of the work, otherwise than as part of a newspaper, magazine, or similar periodical.

(2) The owner of the copyright in any work may assign the right, either wholly or partially, and either generally or subject to limitations, to the United Kingdom or any self-governing

Schedule I, Section 3 — Note 1

[1] In the case of any works in existence before this Act, the question which has to be examined to determine whether there is copyright under this Act in respect of such work, is to see whether copyright under the old Act (1847) was subsisting when this Act came into force. (Vol 18) 1931 All 353 (354) : 32 Cri L Jour 814.

[2] The powers of the Board of Trade under this section are, in the case of works first published in British India, to be exercised by the Central Government, see the Indian Copyright Act, 1914, S. 3 (1).

dominion or other part of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, and either for the whole term of the copyright or for any part thereof, and may grant any interest in the right by licence, but no such assignment or grant shall be valid unless it is in writing signed by the owner of the right in respect of which the assignment or grant is made, or by his duly authorised agent :

Provided that, where the author of a work is the first owner of the copyright therein, no assignment of the copyright, and no grant of any interest therein, made by him (otherwise than by will) after the passing of this Act, shall be operative to vest in the assignee or grantee any rights with respect to the copyright in the work beyond the expiration of twenty-five years from the death of the author, and the reversionary interest in the copyright expectant on the termination of that period shall, on the death of the author, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, devolve on his legal personal representatives as part of his estate, and any agreement entered into by him as to the disposition of such reversionary interest shall be null and void, but nothing in this proviso shall be construed as applying to the assignment of the copyright in a collective work or a licence to publish a work or part of a work as part of a collective work.

[8] Editor paid for securing contributions from writers for a journal—No evidence of the writers having been paid for the articles — Articles do not become the copyright of the publishers of the journal. (1846) 16 L J Ch 140 (144).

It is a mere agreement to assign. (1838) 59 E R 316 (317, 318).

Schedule I, Section 6 — Note 1

[1] The rights conferred upon the owner of copyright by Ss. 6 and 7 are based on different grounds. Under S. 6 he has the usual remedies available where a similar right of property is infringed and can recover damages for the loss sustained by infringement or if he prefers payment of the profits resulting from the piracy. Under S. 7 he has an action of detinue in respect of unsold infringing copies and plates which by virtue of the section are deemed to be his own property and an action for conversion in respect of such infringing copies and plates as may have been sold, and further the measure of damages for conversion under S. 7 is not limited to profits but extends to the full value of the work converted. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 233 (237, 238) (DB)* (1918) 2 Ch 281 (284, 285).

(2) The costs of all parties in any proceedings in respect of the infringement of copyright shall be in the absolute discretion of the Court.

(3) In any action for infringement of copyright in any work, the work shall be presumed to be a work in which copyright subsists and the plaintiff shall be presumed to be the owner of the copyright, unless the defendant puts in issue the existence of the copyright, or as the case may be, the title of the plaintiff, and where any such question is in issue, then —

- (a) if a name purporting to be that of the author of the work is printed or otherwise indicated thereon in the usual manner, the person whose name is so printed or indicated shall, unless the contrary is proved, be presumed to be the author of the work;
- (b) if no name is so printed or indicated, or if the name so printed or indicated is not the author's true name or the name by which he is commonly known, and a name purporting to be that of the publisher or proprietor of the work is printed or otherwise indicated thereon in the usual manner, the person whose name is so printed or indicated shall, unless the contrary is proved, be presumed to be the owner of the copyright in the work for the purposes of proceedings in respect of the infringement of copyright therein.

Rights of owner against persons possessing or dealing with infringing copies, etc.

7. All infringing copies of any work in which copyright subsists, or of any substantial part thereof, and all plates used or intended to be used for the production of such infringing copies, shall be deemed to be the property of the owner of the copyright, who accordingly may take proceedings for the recovery of the possession thereof or in respect of the conversion thereof.

Sch. I — Section 6 (contd.)

[2] Though remedies given by Ss. 6 and 7 are not alternative yet owner of copyright getting damages under S. 6 is not generally entitled to damages under S. 7. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 173 (175) : 1 L R (1938) Lah 84 (DB).

[3] Where in a case of infringement of copyright the plaintiff asked for damages under S. 6 on the footing of the loss sustained and in the alternative under S. 7 for the delivery of the unsold infringing copies and damages on the footing of conversion in respect of the infringing copies sold, and the Court awarded damages under S. 6 and also decreed delivery of the unsold copies, held, that the plaintiff could not claim damages under S. 7 also. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 233 (238) (DB).

[4] The plaintiff is entitled to an account and payment of net profits. (1857) 69 E R 1241 (1242).

[5] Since under Sch. I one of the remedies available for the infringement of a copyright is by way of injunction the precise rule of law contained in S. 56 of the Specific Relief Act cannot in any way interfere with the discretion of the Court in regard to the grant of temporary injunction thereunder. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 624 (625).

[6-7] Where a person publishes a book containing selections from another book there is a prima facie case for issue of temporary injunction. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 282 (283).

[8] In order to justify the grant of temporary injunction in an action by the plaintiff restraining the defendant from infringing his copyright it is not necessary for the plaintiff to make out a strong case and show that there is no other remedy open to him by which he can protect himself from the consequence of the injury. Injunction in such a case is an appropriate relief. In doubtful cases where the question as to legal right is one on which the Court is not prepared to pass an opinion, or the legal right being admitted the fact of its violation is denied, the course of the Court is either to grant the injunction pending the trial of the legal right or to order the motion to stand over until the legal right has been tried. In determining which of these two courses it shall adopt the Court is governed by the consideration as to the comparative mischief or inconvenience to the parties which may arise from granting or withholding the injunction. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 624 (626).

[9] Temporary injunction will not be granted in cases where no irreparable injury will be caused to the plaintiff by its non-issue and where the plaintiff's interest is otherwise protected. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 448 (449).

[10] Where the publications are voluminous it is the common course to state the piracy generally and refer to particular passages of the works in argument in proof of it, and injunction if granted being granted generally. If any part is shown to be taken from common source it would not in fact be copied from plaintiff's work and would not fall within the terms of the injunction (1840) 9 L J Ch 323 (324).

[11] An irrebuttable presumption arises that an alleged work is a work in which copyright exists and that the plaintiff is the owner of it where the defendant does not dispute the existence of the copyright. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 595 (595).

[12] There was provision in S. 3 of the Copyright Act of 1847 that a certificate of the entry in the Copyright Register Book was prima facie evidence of the proprietorship of the person mentioned therein to the copyright of the book in question. That provision has been repeated by the new Act of 1914. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1015 (1016) : 16 Cr L Jour 673.

[13] Action for infringement of copyright — Onus of proof — It is not for the defendant to prove that there was no infringement — The onus is upon the plaintiffs to prove that in fact there was. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 347 (349) : 1 L R (1939) Bom 295.

[14] Joint owners of copyright — One or more of them may sue on the infringement of the entire copyright, although the owners take as tenants-in-common. (1892) 3 Ch 402 (413, 414).

Schedule I, Section 7 — Note 1

[1] Owner of copyright can recover unsold infringing copies and price of copies actually sold. (Vol 25) 1938 AH 266 (271) : 1 L R (1938) AH 370 (DB).

[2] Action on infringement — Defendant in possession of some unsold copies — Plaintiff is entitled to delivery of such copies besides an injunction. (1898) 1 Ch 59 (64).

8. Where proceedings are taken in respect of the infringement of the copyright in any work and the defendant in his defence alleges that he was not aware of the existence of the copyright in the work, the plaintiff shall not be entitled to any remedy other than an injunction or interdict in respect of the infringement if the defendant proves that at the date of the infringement he was not aware, and had not reasonable ground for suspecting, that copyright subsisted in the work.

9. (1) Where the construction of a building or other structure which infringes or which, if completed, would infringe the copyright in some other work has been commenced, the owner of the copyright shall not be entitled to obtain an injunction or interdict to restrain the construction of such building or structure or to order its demolition.

(2) Such of the other provisions of this Act as provide that an infringing copy of a work shall be deemed to be the property of the owner of the copyright, or as impose summary penalties, shall not apply in any case to which this section applies.

10. An action in respect of infringement of copyright shall not be commenced after the expiration of three years next after the infringement.

Importation of Copies.

14. (1) Copies made out of the United Kingdom of any work in which copyright subsists which if made in the United Kingdom would infringe copyright, and as to which the owner of the copyright gives notice in writing by himself or his agent to the Commissioners of Customs and Excise, that he is desirous that such copies should not be imported into the United Kingdom shall not be so imported, and shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be deemed to be included in the table of prohibitions and restrictions contained in section 42 of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, and that section shall apply accordingly.

(2) Before detaining any such copies or taking any further proceedings with a view to the forfeiture thereof under the law relating to the Customs, the Commissioners of Customs and Excise may require the regulations under this section, whether as to information, condition or other matters, to be complied with, and may satisfy themselves in accordance with those regulations that the copies are such as are prohibited by this section to be imported.

(3) The Commissioners of Customs and Excise may make regulations, either general or special, respecting the detention and forfeiture of copies the importation of which is prohibited by this section, and the conditions, if any, to be fulfilled before such detention and forfeiture, and may, by such regulations, determine the information, notices, and security to be given, and the evidence requisite for any of the purposes of this section, and the mode of verification of such evidence.

(4) The regulations may apply to copies of all works the importation of copies of which is prohibited by this section, or different regulations may be made respecting different classes of such works.

(5) The regulations may provide for the informant reimbursing the Commissioners of Customs and Excise all expenses and damages incurred in respect of any detention made on his information and of any proceedings consequent on such detention; and may provide for notices under any enactment repealed by this Act being treated as notices given under this section.

(6) The foregoing provisions of this section shall have effect as if they were part of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876 : Provided that, notwithstanding anything in that Act, the Isle of Man shall not be treated as part of the United Kingdom for the purposes of this section.

[a] 39 and 40 Vict., c. 36. [b] Regulations called the Indian Copyright Regulations, 1914, have been made under the proviso to S. 3 and in conjunction with Ss. 14 and 19 of this Act as modified in its application to British India see General Statutory Rules and Orders, Vol. IV, page 480.

Schedule I, Section 8 — Note 1

[1] Defendant pleading that he had no reasonable ground for suspecting infringement should prove it affirmatively. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 314 (317) (P C).

[2] The defendant should allege ignorance in respect of the existence of the copyright and prove it to come within the provisions of S. 8. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 347 (351) : I L R (1939) Bom 295.

(7) This section shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to the importation into a British possession to which this Act extends of copies of works made out of that possession.

Delivery of Books to Library.

15. (1) The publisher of every book published in the United Kingdom shall, within one month after the publication, deliver, at his own expense, a copy of the book to the trustees of the British Museum,^a who shall give a written receipt for it.

(2) He shall also, if written demand is made before the expiration of twelve months after publication, deliver within one month after receipt of that written demand or, if the demand was made before publication, within one month after publication, to some depot in London named in the demand a copy of the book for, or in accordance with the directions of, the authority having the control of each of the following libraries, namely, the Bodleian Library, Oxford, the University Library, Cambridge, the Library of the Faculty of Advocates at Edinburgh,^b and the Library of Trinity College, Dublin; and, subject to the provisions of this section, the National Library of Wales. In the case of an encyclopædia, newspaper, review, magazine, or work published in a series of numbers or parts, the written demand may include all numbers or parts of the work which may be subsequently published.

(3) The copy delivered to the trustees of the British Museum shall be a copy of the whole book with all maps and illustrations belonging thereto, finished and coloured in the same manner as the best copies of the book are published, and shall be bound, sewed, or stitched together, and on the best paper on which the book is printed.

(4) The copy delivered for the other authorities mentioned in this section shall be on the paper on which the largest number of copies of the book is printed for sale, and shall be in the like condition as the books prepared for sale.

(5) The books of which copies are to be delivered to the National Library of Wales shall not include books of such classes as may be specified in regulations to be made by the Board of Trade.

(6) If a publisher fails to comply with this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds and the value of the book, and the fine shall be paid to the trustees or authority to whom the book ought to have been delivered.

(7) For the purposes of this section, the expression "book" includes every part or division of a book, pamphlet, sheet of letter-press, sheet of music, map, plan, chart or table separately published, but shall not include any second or subsequent edition of a book unless such edition contains additions or alterations either in the letter-press or in the maps, prints, or other engravings belonging thereto.

[b] The words "the National Library of Scotland" were substituted for the words "the Library of the Faculty of Advocates at Edinburgh" by the National Library of Scotland Act, 1925 (15 & 16 Geo. V, C. 73), S. 5 (1).

Special Provisions as to certain Works.

16. (1) In the case of a work of joint authorship, copyright shall subsist during the life of the author who first dies and for a term of fifty years after his death, or during the life of the author who dies last, whichever period is the longer, and references in this Act to the period after the expiration of any specified number of years from the death of the author shall be construed as references to the period after the expiration of the like number of years from the death of the author who dies first or after the death of the author who dies last, whichever period may be the shorter, and in the provisions of this Act with respect to the grant of compulsory licences a reference to the date of the death of the author who dies last shall be substituted for the reference to the date of the death of the author.

(2) Where, in the case of a work of joint authorship, some one or more of the joint authors do not satisfy the conditions conferring copyright laid down by this Act, the work shall be treated for the purposes of this Act as if the other author or authors had been the sole author or authors thereof:

Provided that the term of the copyright shall be the same as it would have been if all the authors had satisfied such conditions as aforesaid.

17. Without prejudice to any rights or privileges of the Crown, where any work has, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, been prepared or published by or under the direction or control of His Majesty or any Government department, the copyright in the work shall, subject to any agreement with the author, belong to His Majesty, and in such case shall continue for a period of fifty years from the date of the first publication of the work.

19. (1) Copyright shall subsist in records, perforated rolls, and other contrivances by means of which sounds may be mechanically reproduced, in like manner as if such contrivances were musical works, but the term of copyright shall be fifty years from the making of the original plate from which the contrivance was directly or indirectly derived, and the person who was the owner of such original plate at the time when such plate was made shall be deemed to be the author of the work, and, where such owner is a body corporate, the body corporate shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to reside within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends if it has established a place of business within such parts.

- (a) that such contrivances have previously been made by, or with the consent or acquiescence of, the owner of the copyright in the work; and
- (b) that he has given the prescribed notice of his intention to make the contrivances, and has paid in the prescribed manner to, or for the benefit of, the owner of the copyright in the work royalties in respect of all such contrivances sold by him, calculated at the rate hereinafter mentioned :

[2] The powers of the Board of Trade under this section are, as regards records, perforated rolls and other contrivances, the original plate of which was made in British India, to be exercised by the Central Government; and the confirmation of the Parliament is not necessary to the exercise of any of these powers; see the Indian Copyright Act, 1914, S. 3 (2).

[3] The reference in sub-section (4) of this section to arbitration is to be read as reference to arbitration in accordance with the law for the time being in force in British India; see the Indian Copyright Act, 1914, S. 3 (3).

and omissions have been previously made by, or with the consent or acquiescence of, the owner of the copyright, or unless such alterations or omissions are reasonably necessary for the adaptation of the work to the contrivances in question; and

- (ii) for the purposes of this provision, a musical work shall be deemed to include any words so closely associated therewith as to form part of the same work, but shall not be deemed to include a contrivance by means of which sounds may be mechanically reproduced.
- (3) The rate at which such royalties as aforesaid are to be calculated shall —
 - (a) in the case of contrivances sold within two years after the commencement of this Act by the person making the same, be two and one-half per cent.; and
 - (b) in the case of contrivances sold as aforesaid after the expiration of that period, be five per cent.;

on the ordinary retail selling price of the contrivance calculated in the prescribed manner, so however that the royalty payable in respect of a contrivance shall, in no case, be less than a half-penny for each separate musical work in which copyright subsists reproduced thereon, and, where the royalty calculated as aforesaid includes a fraction of a farthing, such fraction shall be reckoned as a farthing :

Provided that, if, at any time after the expiration of seven years from the commencement of this Act, it appears to the Board of Trade that such rate as aforesaid is no longer equitable, the Board of Trade may, after holding a public inquiry, make an order either decreasing or increasing that rate to such extent as under the circumstances may seem just, but any order so made shall be provisional only and shall not have any effect unless and until confirmed by Parliament; but where an order revising the rate has been so made and confirmed, no further revision shall be made before the expiration of fourteen years from the date of the last revision.

(4) If any such contrivance is made reproducing two or more different works in which copyright subsists and the owners of the copyright therein are different persons, the sums payable by way of royalties under this section shall be apportioned amongst the several owners of the copyright in such proportions as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration.

(5) When any such contrivances by means of which a musical work may be mechanically performed have been made, then, for the purposes of this section, the owner of the copyright in the work shall, in relation to any person who makes the prescribed inquiries, be deemed to have given his consent to the making of such contrivances if he fails to reply to such inquiries within the prescribed time.

(6) For the purposes of this section, the Board of Trade may make ^aregulations prescribing anything which under this section is to be prescribed, and prescribing the mode in which notices are to be given and the particulars to be given in such notices and the mode, time, and frequency of the payment of royalties and any such regulations may, if the Board think fit, include regulations requiring payment in advance or otherwise securing the payment of royalties.

[a] Regulations called the Indian Copyright Regulations, 1914, have been made under the proviso to S. 3 and in conjunction with Ss. 14 and 19 of this Act as modified in its application to British India, see General Statutory Rules and Orders, Vol. IV, p. 480.

(7) In the case of musical works published before the commencement of this Act, the foregoing provisions shall have effect, subject to the following modifications and additions :—

- (a) The conditions as to the previous making by, or with the consent or acquiescence of, the owner of the copyright in the work, and the restrictions as to alterations in or omissions from the work shall not apply :
- (b) The rate of two and one-half per cent. shall be substituted for the rate of five per cent. as the rate at which royalties are to be calculated, but no royalties shall be payable in respect of contrivances sold before the 1st day of July 1918, if contrivances reproducing the same work had been lawfully made, or placed on sale, within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends before the 1st day of July, 1910 :
- (c) Notwithstanding any assignment made before the passing of this Act of the copyright in a musical work, any rights conferred by this Act in respect of the making, or authorising the making, of contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed shall belong to the author or his legal personal representatives and not to the assignees, and the royalties aforesaid shall be payable to, and for the benefit of, the author of the work or his legal personal representatives :

- (d) The saving contained in this Act of the rights and interests arising from, or in connexion with, action taken before the commencement of this Act shall not be construed as authorising any person who has made contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed to sell any such contrivances, whether made before or after the passing of this Act, except on the terms and subject to the conditions laid down in the section :
- (e) Where the work is a work on which copyright is conferred by an Order in Council relating to a foreign country, the copyright so conferred shall not, except to such extent as may be provided by the Order, include any rights with respect to the making of records, perforated rolls or other contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed.
- (8) Notwithstanding anything in this Act where a record, perforated roll, or other contrivance by means of which sounds may be mechanically reproduced has been made before the commencement of this Act, copyright shall, as from the commencement of this Act, subsist therein in like manner and for the like term as if this Act had been in force at the date of the making of the original plate from which the contrivance was directly or indirectly derived :

Provided that—

- (i) the person who, at the commencement of this Act, is the owner of such original plate shall be the first owner of such copyright; and
- (ii) nothing in this provision shall be construed as conferring copyright in any such contrivance if the making thereof would have infringed copyright in some other such contrivance, if this provision had been in force at the time of the making of the first-mentioned contrivance.

Provisions as to political speeches.

20. Notwithstanding anything in this Act, it shall not be an infringement of copyright in an address of a political nature delivered at a public meeting to publish a report thereof in a newspaper.

Provisions as to photographs. 21. The term for which copyright shall subsist in photographs shall be fifty years from the making of the original negative from which the photograph was directly or indirectly derived, and the person who was owner of such negative at the time when such negative was made shall be deemed to be the author of the work, and, where such owner is a body corporate, the body corporate shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to reside within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends if it has established a place of business within such parts.

Provisions as to designs registered under 7 Edw. VII, c. 29. 22. (1) This Act shall not apply to designs capable of being registered under the Patents and Designs Act, 1907, except designs which, though capable of being so registered, are not used or intended to be used as models or patterns to be multiplied by any industrial process.

(2) General rules under section 86 of the Patents and Designs Act, 1907, may be made for determining the conditions under which a design shall be deemed to be used for such purposes as aforesaid.

Works of foreign authors first published in parts of His Majesty's dominions to which Act extends. 23. If it appears to His Majesty that a foreign country does not give, or has not undertaken to give, adequate protection to the works of British authors, it shall be lawful for His Majesty by Order in Council to direct that such of the provisions of this Act as confer copyright on works first published within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, shall not apply to works published after the date specified in the Order, the authors whereof are subjects or citizens of such foreign country, and are not resident in His Majesty's dominions, and thereupon those provisions shall not apply to such works.

[1] The reference in this section to the Patents and Designs Act, 1907 (7 Edw. VII, c. 29) is to be construed as a reference to the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, and the reference to S. 86 of the English Act is to be construed as a reference to S. 77 of the Indian Act : see the Indian Copyright Act, 1914, S. 3 (4).

Schedule I—Section 24—Note 1

[1] A new copyright under the Act is substituted for an old copyright provided that copyright was in exis-

Schedule to this Act, or to any interest in such a right, he shall, as from that date, be entitled to the substituted right set forth in the second column of that schedule, or to the same interest in such a substituted right, and to no other right or interest, and such substituted right shall subsist for the term for which it would have subsisted if this Act had been in force at the date when the work was made and the work had been one entitled to copyright thereunder :

Provided that—

(a) if the author of any work in which any such right as is specified in the first column of the First Schedule to this Act subsists at the commencement of this Act has, before that date, assigned the right or granted any interest therein for the whole term of the right, then at the date when, but for the passing of this Act, the right would have expired the substituted right conferred by this section shall, in the absence of express agreement, pass to the author of the work, and any interest therein created before the commencement of this Act and then subsisting shall determine; but the person who immediately before the date at which the right would have so expired was the owner of the right or interest shall be entitled at his option either—

(i) on giving such notice as hereinafter mentioned, to an assignment of the right or the grant of a similar interest therein for the remainder of the term of the right for such consideration as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration; or

(ii) without any such assignment or grant, to continue to reproduce or perform the work in like manner as theretofore subject to the payment, if demanded by the author within three years after the date at which the right would have so expired, of such royalties to the author as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration, or, where the work is incorporated in a collective work and the owner of the right or interest is the proprietor of that collective work, without any such payment;

The notice above referred to must be given not more than one year nor less than six months before the date at which the right would have so expired, and must be sent by registered post to the author, or, if he cannot with reasonable diligence be found, advertised in the London Gazette and in two London newspapers;

(b) where any person has, before the 26th day of July, 1910, taken any action whereby he has incurred any expenditure or liability in connexion with the reproduction or performance of any work in a manner which at the time was lawful, or for the purpose of or with a view to the reproduction or performance of a work at a time when such reproduction or performance would, but for the passing of this Act, have been lawful, nothing in this section shall diminish or prejudice any rights or interests arising from or in connexion with such action which are subsisting and valuable at the said date, unless the person who by virtue of this section becomes entitled to restrain such reproduction or performance agrees to pay such compensation as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression "author" includes the legal personal representatives of a deceased author.

(3) Subject to the provisions of section 19, sub-sections (7) and (8), and of section 33 of this Act, copyright shall not subsist in any work made before the commencement of this Act, otherwise than under, and in accordance with, the provisions of this section.

(1) of this section to the London Gazette and two London newspapers is to be construed as a reference to the Gazette of India and two newspapers published in British India. And the reference in proviso (b) to the 26th day of July, 1910, is to be construed as a reference to the 30th day of October, 1912 : see the Indian Copyright Act, 1914, S. 3 (5).

Schedule I — Section 25 — Note 1

[1] The certificate by the Secretary of State under S. 25 (2) has merely the effect of bringing into operation by the Legislature of that dominion to be in force therein either without any modifications or additions, or with such modifications and additions relating exclusively to procedure and remedies, or necessary to adapt this Act to the circumstances of the dominion, as may be enacted by such Legislature.

(2) If the Secretary of State certifies by notice published in the London Gazette that any self-governing dominion has passed legislation under which works, the authors whereof were at the date of the making of the works British subjects resident elsewhere than in the dominion or (not being British subjects) were resident in the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, enjoy within the dominion rights substantially identical with those conferred by this Act, then, whilst such legislation continues in force, the dominion shall, for the purposes of the rights conferred by this Act, be treated as if it were a dominion to which this Act extends; and it shall be lawful for the Secretary of State to give such a certificate as aforesaid, notwithstanding that the remedies for enforcing the rights, or the restrictions on the importation of copies of works, manufactured in a foreign country, under the law of the dominion, differ from those under this Act.

26. (1) The Legislature of any self-governing dominion may, at any time, repeal all or any of the enactments relating to copyright passed by Parliament (including Legislative powers of self-governing dominions. this Act) so far as they are operative within that dominion: Provided that no such repeal shall prejudicially affect any legal rights existing at the time of the repeal, and that, on this Act or any part thereof being so repealed by the Legislature of a self-governing dominion, that dominion shall cease to be a dominion to which this Act extends.

(2) In any self-governing dominion to which this Act does not extend, the enactments repealed by this Act shall, so far as they are operative in that dominion, continue in force until repealed by the Legislature of that dominion.

(3) Where His Majesty in Council is satisfied that the law of a self-governing dominion to which this Act does not extend provides adequate protection within the dominion for the works (whether published or unpublished) of authors who at the time of the making of the work were British subjects resident elsewhere than in that dominion, His Majesty in Council may, for the purpose of giving reciprocal protection, direct that this Act, except such parts (if any) thereof as may be specified in the Order, and subject to any conditions contained therein, shall, within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, apply to works the authors whereof were, at the time of the making of the work, resident within the first-mentioned dominion, and to works first published in that dominion; but save as provided by such an Order, works the authors whereof were resident in a dominion to which this Act does not extend shall not, whether they are British subjects or not, be entitled to any protection under this Act except such protection as is by this Act conferred on works first published within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends:

Provided that no such Order shall confer any rights within a self-governing dominion, but the Governor in Council of any self-governing dominion to which this Act extends may, by Order, confer within that dominion the like rights as His Majesty in Council is, under the foregoing provisions of this sub-section, authorised to confer within other parts of His Majesty's dominions.

For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression "a dominion to which this Act extends" includes a dominion which is for the purposes of this Act to be treated as if it were a dominion to which this Act extends.

27. The Legislature of any British possession to which this Act extends may modify or add to any of the provisions of this Act in its application to the possession, but except so far as such modifications and additions relate to procedure and remedies, they shall apply only to works the authors whereof were, at the time of the making of the work, resident in the possession, and to works first published in the possession.

Sch. I—Section 25 (contd.)

the provision that the Dominion in respect of which the certificate is issued should, for the purposes of the rights conferred by the Act, be treated as if it were a Dominion to which the Act extended. Thus, although under S. I, an author writing in a Dominion would not, when the Act was passed, have any copyright under the Act, the effect of the certificate would be that such an author would become a person entitled to the rights conferred by the Act. Hence the authors in that Dominion will have the same rights under the Act within the area to which that Act extends as they would have if the Act extended to the Dominion. But the certificate does not and cannot extend the Act to the Dominion if it is not in force there. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 326 (329) (PC).

28. His Majesty may, by Order in Council, extend this Act to any territories under his protection and to Cyprus, and, on the making of any such Order, this Act shall, subject to the provisions of the Order, have effect as if the territories to which it applies or Cyprus were part of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends.

PART II.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

Powers to extend Act to foreign works.

29. (1) His Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that this Act (except such parts, if any, thereof as may be specified in the Order) shall apply—

- (a) to works first published in a foreign country to which the Order relates, in like manner as if they were first published within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends;
- (b) to literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works, or any class thereof, the authors whereof were, at the time of the making of the works, subjects or citizens of a foreign country to which the Order relates, in like manner as if the authors were British subjects;
- (c) in respect of residence in a foreign country to which the Order relates, in like manner as if such residence were residence in the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which the Act extends; and thereupon, subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act and of the Order, this Act shall apply accordingly :

Provided that—

- (i) before making an Order in Council under this section in respect of any foreign country (other than a country with which His Majesty has entered into a convention relating to copyright), His Majesty shall be satisfied that that foreign country has made, or has undertaken to make, such provisions, if any, as it appears to His Majesty expedient to require for the protection of works entitled to copyright under the provisions of Part I of this Act;
- (ii) the Order in Council may provide that the terms of copyright within such parts of His Majesty's dominions as aforesaid shall not exceed that conferred by the law of the country to which the Order relates;
- (iii) the provisions of this Act as to the delivery of copies of books shall not apply to works first published in such country, except so far as is provided by the Order;
- (iv) the Order in Council may provide that the enjoyment of the rights conferred by this Act shall be subject to the accomplishment of such conditions and formalities (if any) as may be prescribed by the Order;
- (v) in applying the provisions of this Act as to ownership of copyright, the Order in Council may make such modifications as appear necessary having regard to the law of the foreign country;
- (vi) in applying the provisions of this Act as to existing works, the Order in Council may make such modifications as appear necessary, and may provide that nothing in those provisions as so applied shall be construed as reviving any right of preventing the production or importation of any translation in any case where the right has ceased by virtue of section 5 of the ^aInternational Copyright Act, 1886.

(2) An Order in Council under this section may extend to all the several countries named or described therein.

[a] 49 & 50 Vict., c. 33.

30. (1) An Order in Council under this Part of this Act shall apply to all His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends except self-governing dominions and any other possessions specified in the Order with respect to which it appears to His Majesty expedient that the Order should not apply.

^a(2) The Governor in Council of any self-governing dominion to which this Act extends may, as respects that dominion, make the like Orders as under this Part of this Act His Majesty in Council is authorised to make with respect to His Majesty's dominions other than self-governing dominions and the provisions of this Part of this Act shall, with necessary modifications, apply accordingly.

(3) Where it appears to His Majesty expedient to except from the provisions of any Order any part of his dominions, not being a self-governing dominion, it shall be lawful for His Majesty by the same or any other Order in Council to declare that such Order and this Part of this Act shall not, and the same shall not, apply to such part, except so far as is necessary for preventing any prejudice to any rights acquired previously to the date of such Order.

PART III.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

31. No person shall be entitled to copyright or any similar right in any literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work, whether published or unpublished, otherwise than under and in accordance with the provisions of this Act, or of any other statutory enactment for the time being in force, but nothing in this section shall be construed as abrogating any right or jurisdiction to restrain a breach of trust or confidence.

32. (1) His Majesty in Council may make Orders for altering, revoking, or varying any Order in Council made under this Act, or under any enactments repealed by this Act, but any Order made under this section shall not affect prejudicially any rights or interests acquired or accrued at the date when the Order comes into operation, and shall provide for the protection of such rights and interests.

(2) Every order in Council made under this Act shall be published in the London Gazette and shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament as soon as may be after it is made, and shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

33. Nothing in this Act shall deprive any of the universities and colleges mentioned in the Saving of University copyright. ^aCopyright Act, 1775, of any copyright they already possess under that Act, but the remedies and penalties for infringement of any such copyright shall be under this Act and not under that Act.

[a] 15 Geo., III, c. 58.

34. There shall continue to be charged on, and paid out of, the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom such annual compensation as was immediately before the commencement of this Act payable in pursuance of any Act as compensation to a library for the loss of the right to receive gratuitous copies of books:

Provided that this compensation shall not be paid to a library in any year, unless the Treasury are satisfied that the compensation for the previous year has been applied in the purchase of books for the use of and to be preserved in the library.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE

"We, the undersigned, the Members of the Select Committee of the Council of Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, to which the Bill to consolidate laws relating to Coroners has been referred, have the honour to present this preliminary report.

The Bill, as introduced, was intended merely to consolidate the existing law contained in two statutes and three Acts, and it provided, in the words of 33 Geo. III, Cap. 52, S. 157, that the Coroners should exercise the like jurisdictions as by law might be exercised by Coroners elected for counties in England. We have struck out this provision, which would have necessitated constant reference to English statutes and text-books, and we have in lieu thereof codified such part of the English law of Coroners as seemed adapted to the Presidency towns.

The amended Bill accordingly declares the coroner's jurisdiction to enquire into deaths by accident, homicide or suicide, sudden deaths by means unknown, and deaths of prisoners in prison. It enables him to order a body to be disinterred. It provides for summoning juries, swearing the jurors, viewing the body, summoning witnesses, and post mortem examinations.

It declares that the evidence shall be taken on oath, that witnesses unacquainted with English shall be examined through an interpreter, that questions suggested by the jury shall be put, and that the coroner shall take down the material parts of the evidence. Power is given to adjourn the inquest. When the witnesses have been examined, the Coroner will sum up, and the jury will consider of their verdict. When the verdict is delivered, the Coroner will draw up an inquisition setting forth the matters specified in S. 24, and in the form given in the second Schedule.

When the verdict amounts to murder, culpable homicide, or killing by a rash or negligent act (the last mentioned offence is about to be added to the Penal Code), the Coroner will bind by recognizance any person acquainted with the facts to appear at the next sessions, and prosecute or give evidence. The Coroner will also certify the recognizances and deliver them with the inquisition and evidence to the Court in which the trial is to be. He may also issue his warrant for the apprehension of the accused.

The amended Bill expressly abolishes the Coroner's jurisdiction as to treasure trove and wrecks, and declares that he shall not be liable to execute process.

The Coroner of Calcutta will, under the amended Bill, be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, and not by the Governor-General in Council.

As to Coroner's juries, we have provided (S. 81) that when an inquest is held on the body of a prisoner, no officer of the prison and no prisoner confined therein shall be a juror. There is a similar provision in the Schedule to the English Prisons' Act (28 & 29 Vic., c. 126), clause 48.

As to a Coroner's rights, we have added three clauses, one providing for repaying his disbursements for fees to medical witnesses, hire of rooms for the jury, and the like; another exempting him from serving on juries, and a third privileging him from arrest while engaged in the discharge of his official duty.

We have omitted the clause corresponding with Act 12 of 1867, S. 12, as this will more fitly be placed in the Prisoners' Bill now before the Council.

We have omitted, as unnecessary, the elaborate specification of the informalities in case of which the inquisition may be amended by a Judge of the High Court. For variances between the statements in the inquisition and the evidence. Act 18 of 1862 (Ss. 1 and 57) appears to provide sufficiently"

PROVINCIAL AMENDMENT.

Sections 8 to 20 are substituted for the original sections 8 to 20 by Bombay Act 13 [XIII] of 1930, section 2. These sections are as follows :

CHAPTER III.

DUTIES AND POWERS OF CORONERS.

"8. (1) When the Coroner is informed that the dead body of a person is lying within his jurisdiction and there is reasonable cause to suspect that such person has died under any of the circumstances mentioned in section 9 or has died a sudden death of which the cause is unknown, the Coroner may proceed to hold a preliminary inquiry on the body, without a jury.

(2) For the purpose of an inquiry under sub-section (1) the Coroner shall, as soon as practicable, after receipt of the information proceed to view and examine the body. Such view and examination shall be held in the presence of the Police Officer to whose section the case belongs and, if possible, in the presence of the relations or friends, if any, of the deceased and the Coroner may reduce to writing such observations as the appearance of the body requires. When the inquiry is concluded if the Coroner is satisfied as to the cause of death and if a post-mortem examination is in his opinion not necessary, the Coroner may authorise the body to be disposed of.

9. (1) If it appears to the Coroner, either before or in the course of an inquiry under section 8, that there is reason to suspect :—

(a) that the deceased came by his death by homicide, suicide or infanticide; or
(b) that the death was caused by an accident, or poison, or machinery; or
(c) that the death was caused by an occurrence arising out of the use of a vehicle in a street, public road or in a private place; or

(d) that the death occurred in a prison in which the deceased was a prisoner or that it occurred whilst the deceased was in the custody of the police; or

(e) that the death occurred in circumstances the continuance or possible recurrence of which is prejudicial to the health or safety of the public or any section of the public; — and in any other case, if it appears to the Coroner either before or in the course of the preliminary inquiry that there is reason for holding an inquest by jury, he shall proceed to hold such inquest, whether or not the cause of death arose within his jurisdiction.

^a[Provided that such inquest shall not be held in the case of death caused by enemy action, unless the Provincial Government so directs.]

(2) Such inquest shall ordinarily be held in the Coroner's Court-house.

(3) The Coroner may hold one inquest on the bodies of several persons provided that they all are believed to have come by their deaths, in or in consequence of one and the same incident.

(4) Every such inquest shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of section 193 of the Indian Penal Code and for the purpose of any such inquest the Coroner shall have and may exercise all the powers of a Criminal Court under section 476 and section 480 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(5) The Coroner may hold an inquest by jury simultaneously with the preliminary inquiry.

[a] Proviso was added by Bombay Act 25 [XXV] of 1942, section 2. [4-1-1943].

10. (1) When a person dies in a prison situate within the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction or whilst he is in the custody of the police, the Superintendent of the prison or the police officer in charge of the section concerned, as the case may be, shall report the death to the Coroner and await his orders before the body is disposed of.

for the purpose of S. 26 of the Evidence Act. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 50 (50) : I L R (1941) Bom 27.

[5] There is no provision of law which renders a statement made voluntarily by an accused, a suspect, in inquest proceedings before a Coroner inadmissible against the accused on his trial for the offence. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 52 (53) : 29 Cr L Jour 651 & (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 151 (152) . 50 Bom 111 : 27 Cr L Jour 466 & (1928) 29 Cr L Jour 234 (234) (Bom).

[6] Accused examined as witness on oath by Coroner — Statement made by accused cannot be admitted as a confession, it not being a voluntary statement. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 144 (149) : 50 Bom 56 : 27 Cr L Jour 433.

[7] A statement of a person on oath in the course of an inquest by the Coroner cannot be used against him during his trial for an offence suspected to have been committed by him in the same proceedings for which the inquest is held. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 144 (146) : 50 Bom 56 : 27 Cr L Jour 433.

(2) Any Superintendent of Prison or any such police officer who fails to comply with the requirement in sub-section (1) shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

11. (1) Any person who, with the intention of preventing the holding of an inquest on a dead body which the Coroner is bound to hold under S. 9, buries, cremates or otherwise disposes of it, and any person who with such intention abets such burial, cremation or disposal of a dead body shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

(2) Such punishment shall be in addition to the punishment to which such person may be liable for any offence of which he may be found guilty in respect of the death of the deceased or under S. 201 of the Indian Penal Code.

12. A Coroner may order a body to be disinterred within a reasonable time after the death of the deceased person, either for the purpose of taking an original inquisition where none has been taken, or a further inquisition where further inquisition is, in the opinion of the Coroner, necessary or desirable in the interests of justice.

13. In order to the impanelling of a jury for an inquest under S. 9 the Coroner shall summon not less than five nor more than eleven respectable persons to appear before him at a time and place to be specified in the summons for the purpose of inquiring where, when and by what means the deceased came by his death.

14. (1) On the day and at the hour fixed for the inquest the Coroner shall proceed to open his Court by proclamation and shall call over the names of the jurors on whom summonses under S. 13 have been duly served. If not less than five jurors are in attendance the Coroner shall administer an oath to each juror to give a true verdict according to the evidence.

(2) If the number of jurors in attendance is less than five, or, if in the course of an inquest at any time before the return of the verdict a juror is absent and it is not practicable to enforce his immediate attendance, the Coroner may appoint such number of persons as may be necessary to serve as jurors in the inquest.

Inquest may be on Sunday or public holiday. 14A. An inquest under this Act or its adjourned hearing under S. 21 may be held on a Sunday or a public holiday.

15. At or before the first sitting of an inquest on a body the Coroner shall view the body and if before the body has been disposed of, a majority of the jurors so desire, it shall be viewed by the jurors also :

Provided that when a preliminary inquiry on the body has been held under S. 8, or if from the medical evidence or from a medical certificate, the Coroner is satisfied that no advantage will result from such viewing, the Coroner may dispense with a view of the body at the inquest.

Proclamation for witnesses. 16. The Coroner shall then make proclamation for the attendance of witnesses, or, where the inquiry is conducted in secret, shall call in separately such as know anything concerning the death.

17. (1) It shall be the duty of all persons acquainted with the circumstances attending the death to appear before the inquest as witnesses. The Coroner shall inquire of such circumstances and the cause of death, and if before or during the inquiry he is informed that any person, whether within or without the local limits of his jurisdiction, can give evidence or produce any document material thereto, may issue a summons requiring him to attend and give evidence or produce such document on the inquest.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Indian Cotton Committee of 1917-18 drew attention to the necessity for more scientific research for the improvement of cotton-growing, and recommended that a cess of eight annas per bale on the commercial cotton crop should be levied to meet the cost of their proposals. They also advised the constitution of a permanent Central Cotton Committee in order to secure co-ordination and co-operation in all matters relating to cotton and to act as an advisory body to Government and the trade on all matters connected with cotton, to act as a centre for the dissemination of information regarding cotton and to assist the Agricultural Departments through its Technologist.

The Central Cotton Committee, constituted by Government Resolution No. 404/22 of March 31st, 1921, have urged the imperative necessity of agricultural and technological research for the improvement of Indian cotton, both in respect to quality and agricultural yield. They have represented that this is of vital importance both to the well-being of the grower and to the continued progress of the Indian Mill industry. Following the suggestion of the Indian Cotton Committee, they have advised the levy of a cotton cess in order to form a central research fund for cotton improvement. The proposal to levy a cess has been supported by all Local Governments, Chambers of Commerce and Millowners' Associations.

The Central Cotton Committee have examined a number of the more urgent problems requiring solution, many of which are of more than provincial importance and require fundamental research and have made definite proposals to that end. A central agricultural research institute for cotton may ultimately prove to be necessary, but the Committee propose, in the first place, to subsidize Agricultural Departments and other institutions which, with such assistance, can undertake specific investigations of more than local importance. In advising a cess of only four annas per bale, they have been guided by the estimates prepared of the cost of the investigation immediately required. It is proposed to levy the cess only on the commercial cotton crop, i. e., on cotton exported by sea or consumed in Indian mills. It is estimated that this will produce eight to nine lakhs of rupees per annum."

[d] For such notification, see General statutory Rules and orders, Vol. V, p. 318. [e] Substituted by A. O. for "Gazette of India."*

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We discussed at length the question whether the cess should be levied on cotton exported by sea as well as on cotton consumed in mills in British India, and it was decided by a majority that the provision made in the Bill as introduced, imposing the cess in both the cases, should be maintained. As regards the amount of the cess, we consider, with one dissentient, that a rate of two annas on each four hundred pounds of cotton should be sufficient to provide funds for the activities of the Indian Central Cotton Committee except during the first three years when capital expenditure on a somewhat large scale will be necessary; and we have amended the clause accordingly in such a manner as to make it clear that the higher rate is only an exceptional provision."—Joint Committee Report.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Indian Cotton Committee which was appointed in 1917, in Chapter XVI of their Report recommended certain measures, including the licensing of cotton ginning and pressing factories, to prevent such malpractices as damping, mixing and adulteration, which are injurious to the quality and reputation of Indian cotton. The recommendations of the Committee, however, involved an excessive amount of official interference. The object of the present Bill is to put the trade in a position to protect itself by providing for the marking of bales and the record of ownership, and by providing further that unmarked bales are not tenderable in fulfilment of a contract, if marked bales are demanded by the purchaser.

The Bill also makes provision for the maintenance of registers for statistical returns, for the use of correct scales and weights, and for the structural improvement of ginning and pressing factories. The Bill is based on the recommendations of the Indian Central Cotton Committee, and is supplementary to the Cotton Transport Act, 1923."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Cotton Duties Act, 1896, provides, in addition to the collection of the duty, for the submission of returns of the quantities of cotton goods produced in mills in British India. These statistics of production have been systematically compiled for the last 30 years, and have proved of great assistance in studying the development and vicissitudes of the industry.

It is proposed to repeal the Cotton Duties Act of 1896 by a clause in the Finance Bill, and unless the preparation and submissions of these statistical returns are provided for by another Act, there will be a break in the continuity of these useful statistics.

The Bombay Millowners' Association have been consulted and are in favour of the continuance and preparation of these returns for quantities of yarn and cotton goods manufactured in India.

It is, therefore, proposed to render compulsory the preparation and submission of such returns by a Cotton Industry Statistics Bill. This Bill will be proceeded with pari passu with the Finance Bill."

SECTIONS.

8. Previous approval of Provincial Legislature to issue of notifications and rules.
9. Protection for acts done under Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Indian Cotton Committee, which was appointed in 1917, brought to notice (1) that the practice of adulterating long staple cotton with short staple was very prevalent at the gins and press-houses in certain long staple areas, the object being to secure for the mixture the higher prices offered for long staple; (2) that, owing to the consequent mixture of seed, there was considerable deterioration in the cultivation of many of the superior varieties of cotton; (3) that soft cotton waste was also used for the purpose of adulteration with "Kapas" (the natural floss); and (4) that short staple cotton was frequently railed to a long staple area and re-booked thence, even without mixing, as long staple cotton.

2. As instances of (1) and (2), the Committee quoted the imports of short staple cotton into the Broach tract, the result of which has been that Broach cotton has largely lost its former reputation. Other superior varieties of cotton are threatened with the same fate. The practice described under (4) above is facilitated by the trade custom whereby cotton is bought and sold on the name and reputation of the area where it purports to have been grown; i. e., on the name of the railway station from which the bales are last booked.

3. These malpractices are exercising so serious and dangerous an influence on the industry as a whole, that the necessity of taking Governmental action has become a matter of immediate importance. The Bill provides a remedy by enabling Local Governments to prevent inferior cotton or cotton-waste, as defined, from being imported, except under licence, into areas which it is desired to protect.

The principal provisions of the Bill are as follows:—

1. Local Governments are empowered, with the previous consent of the Provincial Legislation, to define the areas and to notify the stations which should be regarded as protected. Consignments of cotton are not allowed to any such notified station except from other notified stations in the same area.

2. It is necessary to make certain exceptions to the prohibition in favour, for instance, of millowners within the area requiring extraneous cotton and of purchasers of cotton waste for industrial purposes. Local Governments are accordingly empowered to frame rules for a licensing system and to appoint the authorities for the issue of licenses.

3. Station masters or other railway servants responsible for the delivery of goods or parcels are prohibited under penalties from delivering cotton improperly consigned to their stations."

[THE] COTTON TRANSPORT ACT, 1923.

(ACT III OF 1923.)

[23rd February, 1923.]

An Act to provide for the restriction and control of the transport of cotton in certain circumstances.

WHEREAS it is expedient for the purpose of maintaining the quality and reputation of the cotton grown in certain areas in British India to enable the restriction and control of the transport by rail and the import of cotton into those areas; It is hereby enacted as follows:

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The preamble. — As one of the objects of the Bill is to check the practice of sending pressed bales from one cotton tract to another, ordinarily producing a better quality of cotton, so that it may be re-booked from a railway station in that tract and thereby appear as if it were cotton grown in that area of better quality, we think the purpose of the Bill would be more correctly stated as the maintenance of the quality and reputation of the cotton grown in British India, and we have amended the Preamble accordingly. This also removes any difficulty which might arise in interpreting the terms inferior and superior varieties."

- (a) "certified copy," in relation to a licence, means a copy of the licence certified in the manner described in section 76 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, by the authority by which the licence was granted;
- (b) "cotton" means every kind of unmanufactured cotton, that is to say, ginned and unginned cotton, cotton waste and cotton seed;
- (c) "cotton waste" means droppings, strippings, fly and other waste products of a cotton-mill other than yarn waste;
- (d) "licence" means a licence granted under this Act;
- (e) "notified station" means a railway station specified in a notification under section 3;
- (f) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act; and

(g) "protected area" means an area into which the import of cotton or of any kind of cotton has been prohibited ^a[wholly or partly] by a notification under section 3.

[a] Inserted by the Cotton Transport (Amendment) Act, 1925 (34 [XXXIV] of 1925), S. 2.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We have made it clear in the definition of the expression "cotton" contained in sub-clause (b) that the enumeration of the various kinds of cotton referred to is exhaustive. We have also made a slight alteration in this sub-clause and in sub-clause (g) in connection with the proposal to which we refer in our remarks on clause 5."

Provided that no such notification shall be deemed to prohibit the import into any protected area of packages containing any kind of cotton and not exceeding ten pounds avoirdupois weight.

(2) Any such notification may prohibit the delivery to, and the taking of delivery by, any person, at any specified railway station situated in the protected area, of any cotton, the import of which ^c[by rail] into that area is prohibited when such cotton has been consigned from a railway station not situated in that area, unless such person holds a licence for the import ^c[by rail] of the cotton into that area.

[c] Inserted by the Cotton Transport (Amendment) Act, 1925 (34 [XXXIV] of 1925), S. 3.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We are impressed with the necessity of enabling a Local Government to prohibit the import into protected areas of all or any of the kinds of cotton specified in clause 2. In famine times it might, for instance, be necessary for a Local Government to permit the import into such an area of cotton seed which is extensively used as cattle food. This decision necessitates a considerable number of consequential alterations throughout the Bill, e. g., in sub-clause (2) of this clause and in clauses 4, 5 and 7, in addition to those in clause 2 referred to above.

We have further provided in sub-clause (1) of this clause for the exemption from the provisions of the Act of all cotton which is consigned in packages not exceeding ten pounds in weight. This alteration is intended to secure the free movement of samples of cotton. The Upper India Chamber of Commerce advocated the exemption from the Bill of small parcels such as are ordinarily sent as samples and might in fact be despatched by parcel post."

(2) Every certified copy of a licence when so produced shall be attached to the invoice or way-bill, as the case may be, and shall accompany the consignment to its destination, and shall there be dealt with in the prescribed manner.

(3) Where by or under any law in force in the territories of any State in India the import ^a[by rail] into any area, or the delivery at any railway station, of cotton or of any kind of cotton has been prohibited, the ^b[Central Government] may, by notification in the ^c[Official Gazette], declare that the provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply in respect of cotton consigned to any such station as if such area and such station were respectively a protected area and a notified station, and as if any licence granted under such law were a licence granted under this Act.

possible for the receipt and delivery to the consignee of goods or parcels, as the case may be, at that station shall, unless both the notified station and the railway station from which the cotton has been consigned are situated in the same protected area, refuse to deliver the cotton until he is satisfied that the consignee holds a licence for the import of the cotton ^a[by rail] into the protected-area in which such notified station is situated; and, if he is not so satisfied, or if within fourteen days the consignee or some person acting on his behalf does not appear in order to take delivery, shall return the cotton to the railway station from which it was consigned, together with an intimation that delivery of the cotton has been refused or has not been taken, as the case may be.

(2) Any station master or other railway servant receiving any cotton returned under sub-section (1), or returned with a like intimation from a railway station specified in a notification under sub-section (3) of section 4, shall cause to be served on the consignor in any manner authorised by section 141 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, a notice stating that the cotton has been so returned and requiring the consignor to pay any rate, terminal or other charges due in respect of the carriage of the cotton to and from the railway station to which it was consigned, and such charges shall be deemed to be due from the consignor for all the purposes of section 55 of that Act.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"We have made it clear that an innocent contravention of the Act is not to be punishable.

We have further considered with care the proposal supported by the Local Government of Bombay and others that the Bill should provide for the confiscation of cotton in respect of which an offence under this clause has been committed, and we have by a majority . . . decided not to make any alteration in this respect. We think that the difficulties which would arise in connection with the seizure and identification of cotton after its arrival at a press or other place of destination would result in any such provision proving ineffectual, unless powers are given to the police and other officials which are disinclined to provide until experience shows that they are necessary."

Overlooking of Precedents leads to Erroneous Decisions

(1943) 30 A. I. R. 1943 Privy Council 189 (191).— In an appeal from Allaha. had the question for decision involved was as to the inherent power of the Court to grant restitution to the successful defendant. Their Lordships observed: “The decision of the Board in 46 I. A. 228 was not cited in either of the Courts in India The application now before the Board invoked the powers of the learned Subordinate Judge to assess the sum due by way of restitution . . . by the method laid down in 46 I. A. 228 For this purpose the case must go back to the Court of the Subordinate Judge. . . .”

(1922) 9 A. I. R. 1922 Privy Council 11 (12) = 43 All. 469 (475) (PC). — Section 89, T.P. Act, 1882, ended after providing for the decree “and thereafter the defendants’ right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.” These words do not occur in either the foreclosure section of the Act of 1882 or the corresponding rule of O. 34, Civil P. C.

“The difficulty which had arisen as to these words in several cases, e.g., Vanmika. linga v. Chidambara, (1905) I. L. R. 29 Mad. 37 — which case, it may be mentioned, does not seem to have been brought to the notice of the Board in Het Ram’s case, (1918) 45 I. A. 130—therefore no longer arises”

(1948) 35 A. I. R. 1948 Nagpur 382 (384) (DB). — “The decree [of the District Judge] was set aside and the decree of the trial Court was restored by Gruer J. in Second Appeal No. 108 of 1938 on 7-11-1940. It is against this decree that the present appeal has been filed If the above decision [namely, 1939 Rang. L. R. 358] had been placed before Gruer J. he would not have reached the conclusion he did.”

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Bombay 430 (431).—Per Kania J. — “My attention has been drawn to two judgments in this connection. One is my own judgment in (1943) 45 Bom. L. R. 400 At that time my attention was not drawn to the judgment of the Appeal Court in (1938) 40 Bom. L. R. 676.”

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Madras 405 (407) (DB). — “We now come to the first case referred to in the order of reference, namely, 1943-2 M. L. J. 180. There Horwill J. held that the right of a legal representative was merely to file a fresh application to sue in forma pauperis or institute a separate suit. No reference was made in the judgment to the decision in (1935) 58 Mad. 169 This decision is not only in conflict with the judgments in (1928) 51 Mad. 697 and (1935) 58 Mad. 169, but it ignores the fact . . .

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Oudh 180 (190) (FB).—Thomas C. J. — “The learned counsel for the plaintiffs-respondents has strongly relied upon my decision in A.I.R. 1936 Oudh 340 relying on 55 I. A. 139 wherein I held But now having regard to the argument advanced, and the fact my attention was not drawn to the decision of their Lordships of the Privy Council in (1876) 4 I. A. 228, I entertain serious doubt as to the correctness of that decision. Nor was 4 I. A. 228 brought to the notice of Ashworth J. in (1926) 3 O. W. N. 321.”

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Oudh 232 (233) (DB).—“No doubt in 1940 O. W. N. 561 a Bench of this Court entertained an application in revision against the order of a District Judge and set aside that order but the attention of the learned Judges does not seem to have been drawn to the Full Bench decision to which we have referred [namely, a decision of five Judges reported in (1929) 4 Luck. 589], nor was the point as to the maintainability of an application in revision considered.”

(1945) 32 A. I. R. 1945 Lahore 260 (261) (FB). — Per Achhru Ram J. (in the Order of Reference) — “He (i. e., Patanjali Sastri, J. in A. I. R. 1942 Mad. 13) does not, however, appear to have noticed one of the Division Bench judgments of his own Court reported in A. I. R. 1920 Mad. 177 which also dealt with the same subject and took just the opposite view from that taken by him.”

(1945) 32 A. I. R. 1945 Madras 139 (141) (FB). — “The decisions in which the contrary view has been expressed are: 45 Mad. 468, A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 220, A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 440 and 1941-2 M. L. J. 754.” In the first of these cases “the Court did not, however, consider the case in 5 Mad. 141 In none of the other cases was any reason given for the view expressed and in no case was 5 Mad. 141 mentioned or considered We consider that 5 Mad. 141 should be followed.”

A. I. R. Commentaries Judicially Noticed.

(1945) 32 A. I. R. 1945 Calcutta 298 (299). — "The view that we are taking of sub-r. (2), R. 1 of O. 40 finds support from the decision of all the other High Courts and even from some earlier decisions of the Allahabad High Court itself. Those decisions are noted at the foot-note to para. 49 of Chitaley and Rao's Commentaries on the Code of Civil Procedure, vol. 3, page 2924." (Now see 4th Edn., page 2968.)

(1938) 25 A. I. R. 1938 Calcutta 730 (733) = I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 112 (120). — "The expression 'other cause of a like nature' has been the subject of various decisions, most of which will be found mentioned in Chitaley's Limitation Act [1st (1938) Edn.], pp. 567 to 572."

(1938) 25 A. I. R. 1938 Calcutta 287 (289 & 290) = I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 53 (58 & 60). — "In the Note to Messrs. Chitaley and Annaji Rao's Code of Civil Procedure, [2nd (1935) Edn.] at p. 1388, I find the following comment: 'The first . . . parties.'

'The learned authors of Chitaley and Annaji Rao's Code of Civil Procedure in the paragraph to which I have already referred, appear to me to sum up in a few words the substance of the decisions'."

(1948) 35 A. I. R. 1948 Allahabad 19 (24, 25) (FB). — Per Raghubar Dayal J. — "Circumstances requiring remand of a case can be many and need not be exhaustively imagined at a time. A good number of such circumstances are noted under Note 20, O 41, R. 28, Civil P. C., in Chitaley's Civil P. C. 4th (1944) Edn. . . . I find that two other High Courts, the Madras High Court and the Lahore High Court, have given very wide powers to the appellate Court to remand the suits. These amendments are given in Chitaley's Code of Civil Procedure, 4th Edn."

(1948) 35 A. I. R. 1948 Nagpur 142 (145). — Hidayatullah J. — "In Chitaley's Civil Procedure Code, vol. II (1944 Edn) it is said: 'But a mortgagee may be estopped by his conduct from setting up the mortgage provided the auction-purchaser has actually bought without notice of the mortgage. (p. 2246)' The same view is expressed on the same page in respect of charges in the following words: 'In the case of a charge . . . he has not notice of such charge.' The charge in favour of the decree-holder had to be mentioned in the sale proclamation to bind the auction-purchaser."

(1948) 35 A. I. R. 1948 Oudh 36 (37) (DB). — "Chitaley and Annaji Rao in their Limitation Act, [2nd (1912) Edn.], vol. I, at p. 136 have discussed the questions which might arise where a particular provision relating to the law of limitation is repealed by another Act. According to them the following positions may arise: '(1) Where at the time of the new Act . . . (2) Where the suit is . . . (3) Where the suit is . . . (4) Where the suit is . . . comes into force at once.'" [This is followed by a summary of the commentary of the authors printed on pages 137, 138 and 139.]

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Allahabad 31 (32). — Yorke J. — "The general impression I derive from Art. 39, from the notes to Art. 39 in Chitaley's Commentary on the Indian Limitation Act, vol. II [2nd (1942) Edn.] and the quotations from Salmond on Torts which he reproduces In the passage quoted from Salmond on Torts trespass to immovable property is defined [p. 1225] Another passage quoted in Chitaley runs as follows [p. 1225] In the same section of his notes Chitaley quotes from a Madras decision It appears to me that the upshot of all these clearly is that the present suit is not a suit for compensation for trespass upon immovable property."

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Bombay 345 (350) (SB). — Per Sen J. — "Chitaley in his Code of Criminal Procedure, 1941 edition, has pointed out at page 1294 that there is not specific provision enabling the Court to try the case where the accused pleads guilty and the Court does not accept the same and that in England where the Court does not think it expedient to act upon the accused plea of guilty, the usual procedure is to advise him to withdraw his plea of guilty and to plead not guilty. Chitaley has further pointed out that in this country the general trend of opinion is that the accused may be treated in such cases as if he had pleaded not guilty, and that the trial may be proceeded with in the ordinary way, and he has referred to several authorities in support of this view." [View approved]

47) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Lahore 409 (409).—Per Bhandari J.—“In Chitaley’s Commentary on S. 141, Civil P. C. [4th (1944) Edn. Note 2 p. 1174], the learned author is that proceedings under the Guardians and Wards Act 1590, have been held to be matters of the nature contemplated by this section.” [This view is approved.]

947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Oudh 122 (125, 126). — Kidwar J. — “I have come to conclusion that on both the points the decision must be in the appellant’s favour” [See Note 43 to S. 60, T. P. Act [2nd (1915) Edn., p. 1067], summarises the law and note supports the case of the appellants.”]

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Oudh 98 (100). — Kaul J. — “As observed by Chitaley in Note 114 on S. 11 [Civil P. C. 4th (1944) Edn.] an estoppel by consent decree can only when the question raised in the subsequent suit was present to the minds of the parties and was actually dealt with by the consent decree. The question in all such cases, as the learned author says, would be whether the parties did intend that the question at issue should be finally settled between them by the consent decree and whether the consent decree did actually settle that question.”

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Oudh 74 (76) (DB). — “On the third head we should like, first of all, to note that a mere question of law was not decided in the present case : the question was as to the correct interpretation of the words of a deed. No question as to any principle of law or the interpretation or application of any statute is involved. We are of the opinion that, at any rate the decision of such a point does operate as res judicata. This aspect of the matter is discussed in Chitaley’s Commentary on the Code of Civil Procedure, Vol. I, note No. 11 to S. 11” [4th (1944) Edn. p. 163]

(1947) 34 A. I. R. 1947 Peshawar 15 (18) (DB). — “All the authorities bearing on the point were examined and the result of the examination was thus stated in the Indian Limitation Act by Chitaley etc., 2nd (1942) Edn. page 1937 : ‘It would seem to appear from an examination of cases a fresh cause of action and time would run from that date.’ It is obvious that according to this view a fresh invasion of title would constitute a new cause of action for a suit from which limitation should commence to run.”

(1946) 33 A. I. R. 1946 Allahabad 333 (347, 348) (FB). — Per Bennett J. — “There can also be no doubt that the weight of legal authority is in favour of this view. Against it there is the authority of were overruled in 17 Lahore 523 : vide Chitaley’s Commentary on section 514 of the Code, Note 10.” (See Criminal P. C. 3rd (1946) Edn., Vol. III, pages 2708 and 2709.)

(1946) 33 A. I. R. 1946 All. 89 (92, 93) (F. B.). — Per Iqbal Ahmad C. J. — “It has been held in a series of cases that the word appeal in S. 115, Civil P. C., is not restricted to a first appeal but also includes a second appeal . . . I do not desire to encumber my judgment by a detailed reference to these cases which will be found noted at page 1086 of Vol. I of Chitaley’s Code of Civil Procedure, Edn. 3” (Now see 4th (1944) Edn., page 1087).

(1946) 33 A. I. R. 1946 Lahore 280 (282) (FB).—Per Teja Singh J. in the ratio of Reference : “It is unnecessary to refer to the decisions of other Courts. They are all summed up at page 222 of Chitaley’s Court-fees Act, Edn. 1944, and it has been pointed out that while the view of”

(1946) 33 A. I. R. 1946 Nagpur 277 (293).—“There is an apparent conflict of views as to whether and how far a decision on an issue of law is res judicata as between the same parties in subsequent suits and Chitaley has at pages 163-166 of Vol. I of his ‘The Code of Civil Procedure (V of 1908), 1944 Edn.,’ exhaustively analysed them and reached the following conclusion which is one with which we are in agreement : ‘In order to understand and solve no conflict among them.’”

(1946) 33 A. I. R. 1946 Nagpur 277 (292).—“Then there is Chitaley’s observation at page 487 of Vol. I of his ‘The Indian Limitation Act’ Edn. 2, that it is a fundamental principle that limitation always implies an existing cause of action and that unless a cause of action for a suit has arisen, limitation for such suit cannot begin to run.” [referred with approval.]

(1945) 32 A. I. R. 1945 Oudh 183 (184).—“As regards the last case it is sufficient to refer to the following note in Chitaley’s Code of Civil Procedure at page 3261 [4th (1944) Edn., Vol. III]. — ‘In Bombay O. 48, R. 1 (w) has been deleted . . . falls under this rule.’ On consideration of these authorities, we hold that the preliminary objection suc-
